LOUISIANAN MAYOR SLAYS DOCTOR

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

Having become the air capital of West Texas through double designation on the S. A. P. E.'s air mail and passenger lines Big Spring now has an opportunity of intensifying the useful advertising that may result.

The depot city along the route that produces the largest volume of air mail postage, per capita, within the first 30 days of operations will have one of the tri-motor ships used on the route named for it.

Since the contest takes into consideration the population we have as much chance to win the contest as any of the towns, Dallas, Atlanta, Shreveport, Los Angeles and El Paso included.

While neighboring cities scratch their civic heads and wonder why they did not obtain the much sought after designation it might be well for them to consider some facts.

We do not wish that these neighbors shall be permanently deprived of any stops by passenger and mail planes. Since Big Spring has been made divisional headquarters for operations, and junction point for the line from San Antonio to El Paso that the more business the line received the more well profit.

But this does some of our friends are putting out to convince themselves is not all factual. For instance, geographically. Alas, the fact that the successful bidder for contract to operate the line happened to have the local post under name.

It was quite evident throughout the month's campaigning for the designation that three cities—Big Spring, Midland and Sweetwater—were about the only towns being considered. In view of the decision to run a line between San Antonio and the main artery.

Population—Big Spring, 14,371; more than Sweetwater; more than twice as large as Midland.

Bank deposits—Big Spring has a good market.

Postal receipts, 1929 $5,847.40; another margin.

Airport, within two miles of the center of the business district, not out in the country.

Airport equipment, complete lighting system, two large hangars, shop building, plant of modern administration building.

Potential air mail postage more than expected passenger volume carried weekly. In city, the Western, North and El Paso with the rest of the system of American, could show evidence of any prospect of producing as much as much as the States.

Constitutional location of course, a point in our favor, particularly of the many points. Citizens' committee to raise and present petition between San Antonio and El Paso and the main line were in the favor.

Also, fact, but by no means least, while some of our neighbors are peep off over rocks about some other route that was offered for the line, Big Spring is planning to keep its mouth shut while the chance of becoming a busy city is possible throughout a full year while the other boys were working to keep working for us. We do not rely on any such success in reduction of the city on an occasion either. Just give us the facts and we will be enough.

They win that air capital.

Soldier Held In Texas Axe Murder

Two Others Sought; Man In Statement

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP).—Lexie Jones, 38, private with a service company, Ninth infantry, Fort Sam Houston, was held on a technical charge of murder here tonight in connection with the slaying of Daniel Henry Uhr, 50, last night. A woman and another private in Jones' company also were arrested.

A Paralytic
Uhr, a paralytic, was killed as he slept in his home in San Antonio last night. His head had been split open, and a bloody axe was found in a vacant lot two blocks from the scene of the crime.

In a statement to officers, Jones said he was asked by a man about six months ago if he would consider killing a man for $500. Later he went to a house where "an old lady with glasses" asked if he would consider the previous proposition made him about "killing a man."

Friday afternoon, the state said, Jones went to the house where he "talked with the old man on the porch." Then he went into the back yard and cleaned it up and there was shown "the way to get out when it was dark."

Subsequently, according to the statement, Jones went to his quarters, but returned to the house about 11:30 p. m., found the scene dark and entered. Later he was given $1 and told the number of a taxi cab stand to call. He left the house and returned to the army post with other soldiers.

Brothers Aid
Uhr was a pipeline inspector and a member of a well known San Antonio family. His brother, former city councilman, at present Democratic nominee for county commissioner, and a brother of the slain man, was active in the investigation. Two other brothers, Adolph Uhr, school principal, and Ed Uhr, a contractor, with the widow, Mrs. Clara Uhr, also survive.

Mrs. Uhr, who slept in a separate room, discovered the body when she went toward an adjoining apartment to awaken Roy Law, 30, Mrs. Uhr said she and her son, Ed, 16, had a picnic on the road, where Mrs. Lena Law, and her daughter and son, Stella and Roy, were in the other apartment.

Moody Appoints Bollworm Board; To Convene Soon

(Special to The Herald)
Austin, Oct. 18.—Gov. Moody announced appointment of 12 members of the plank bollworm commission and a meeting of the commission in Dallas October 24 to consider lifting regulations in the Big Spring zone.

The members named were: W. D. Farris of Ellis county; I. C. Enoch of Lubbock, both selected by the governor; R. E. McDonald of San Antonio, recommended by the United States department of agriculture, and J. M. Delcorio of Austin, recommended by the state commissioner of Agriculture.

Four other members will be appointed on recommendation of county judges in the counties affected.

AIR MAIL CONTEST ANNOUNCED

The city along the Southern Air Fast Express' transcontinental air mail and passenger service furnishing the largest air mail postage per capita during the first thirty days of operation of the line will have its name emblazoned on one of the tri-motor planes used in the service.

Cities that will compete include Atlanta, Jackson, Shreveport, Dallas, Fort Worth, Big Spring, El Paso, Douglas, Tucson, Phoenix and Los Angeles.

The plane that will bear the name of the winning city will be kept in service over that part of the route on which the winner is located.

$35,000 Sought Of Sheriff For Death Of Man

Lubbock, Texas, Oct. 18 (AP).—Two years to a day after her husband was shot and killed by a deputy sheriff of Garza county, Mrs. Florence Bracken, widow of the late E. L. Bracken, filed suit in federal district court here today against W. F. Caton, sheriff of Garza county, and his surety, the American Surety Company, asking $35,000 damages.

Bracken was shot and killed in the jail Oct. 18, 1928. He was under a two-year sentence for assaulting transportation to the state penitentiary at Huntsville when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Bracken, in her suit, asked $5,000 each for herself and five minor children and a married daughter.

$4,800 Taken By Her Mate She Declares

MIDLAND, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP).—Mrs. L. E. Remington of Midland, formerly of Fort Worth, who has said she married a man and was left by him in Chicago last spring, emphatically denied today she had perceived any "identifying marks" on a picture sent out as that of George "Jiggs" Perry.

She said she had covered sections of the picture printed as Perry's and sent her friend in an effort to decide whether the man she married in Midland, Oklahoma, was the man who was sought in connection with the death of Mrs. Cora Hackett, whose body was found on a Wisconsin Indian reservation.

She said she was still hopeful of finding the husband "whom she met through correspondence while she lived at Fort Worth, who induced her to dispose of valuable property for $3,000, and who left her in a room in a Chicago hotel never to return. She emphasized that the man Perry was not the man she married.

Mrs. Remington could give no basis for the report, and said she was annoyed by numerous newspaper and press agencies of Texas and other states requesting pictures and her story.

MARITAL TROUBLES INVOLVED

ST. JOSEPH, La., Oct. 18 (AP).—Mayor A. B. Ratcliff, of St. Joseph, late today shot and killed Dr. C. W. Melton, prominent Newellton, La., lumberman, on the town's main street in what was said to have been a culmination of enmity.

Six bullets the mayor fired into Melton's body caused death instantly. After the shooting Mayor Ratcliff surrendered to the Tensas parish sheriff.

Several days ago the mayor's wife sued him for divorce. Dr. Melton was divorced from his wife not long ago.

Sheriff John Hughes made no statement as to the cause of the killing, but said the case would be presented to the Tensas grand jury Monday.

On surrendering, Mayor Ratcliff asserted Dr. Melton had destroyed his home, and said he would plead the "unwritten law."

ELINOR SMITH DUE HERE EARLY

Elinor Smith, famous aviatrix, who was in Big Spring Thursday enroute to El Paso with a party of American Airways and S.A.P.E. officials, will return here today.

She will arrive from Los Angeles at 6:25 a. m. on the eastbound Texas & Pacific passenger train. A pilot from Dallas will arrive here at 7:50 a. m. on a train.

The two will leave here in a Fokker Super Universal plane which is stored at the local airport.

Miss Smith left Los Angeles Saturday morning on the eastbound S.A.P.E. passenger and mail plane. The plane was forced down at El Paso by weather conditions, and kept grounded there on account of poor flying conditions in the vicinity of the Guadalupe Mountains. Unable to get a plane out of El Paso, Miss Smith wired S. A. P. E. officials and arranged for a pilot to meet her here and continue her trip by air.

Two Records Of Air Broken

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP).—Two new transcontinental air speed records were established today, one by a boy of 16 and the other by a young woman who already held records for barrel rolling and loop flying.

The first in was Miss Laura Ingalls, who landed at Roosevelt Field with a flying time of 25 hours and 35 minutes from Los Angeles. A little later, Robert Buck dropped down at the Newark airport after 23 hours and 47 minutes in the air since leaving Los Angeles.

Buck beat the junior record made recently by Eddie Schneider. Miss Ingalls didn't beat any record because no woman had ever made an officially recorded flight from the west coast before, but she established a mark for other women to shoot at.

Buck brought back with him the junior record for both west and east directions and Miss Ingalls would have had two records too, if she had not had such keen competition.

She flew out in 33 hours and 27 minutes.

Federal Farm Policy Opposed

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP).—Opposition to the government's engaging in private business was strongly expressed today in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Texas Cotton Ginner's Association, at a meeting here.

The association adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to confer with the Texas Cooperative Society to determine its attitude.

D. F. Standley, Huntsville ginner, offered the resolution.

Discussing government loans made by the federal farm board "to put the government in the gin business," to the detriment of the independent ginner, Standley said: "It is an economic and political absurdity for the government to enter into any form of private business or enterprise that comes in direct competition with the individual."

"I believe the Texas cotton ginner's association should do its best to keep the government out of the world of the farmer," he said, "and pointed to the fact that Texas ginner, who have invested millions of dollars in private industry, are unalterably opposed to the government attempting to monopolize the field."

George Hagan, president of the ginning body, appointed a committee with Amory Locke, Vernon, as chairman and with R. D. Holmes and F. V. Johnson of Corpus Christi as associate members.

The board voted to look for 1931 cotton in 1930, probably in April. An invitation from Corpus Christi was declined as a matter of course.

BABY LOST IN WILDS FOUND

ROUND MOUNTAIN, Nebr., Oct. 18 (AP).—Lawrence Sullivan, three, lost since Thursday in the widest stretch of the Mt. Jefferson country, was found at daybreak today. The object of a 26-hour search by hundreds of men, women and children over mountains and through canyons, he was found three miles from the spot where he wandered away from his uncle's automobile.

Two hills of exposure to below freezing temperatures at an altitude of over 10,000 feet apparently had not harmed the child, although he was weak from hunger.

When he was awakened under a fallen tree branch, under which he had crawled for warmth, he rubbed his eyes and burst into tears, calling for his mother.

His mother, Mrs. David Sullivan, had been induced to take some rest only a few minutes before he was found.

German Government Wins Sweeping Confidence Vote

BERLIN, Oct. 18 (AP).—Germany's Reichstag today voted to grant a sweeping confidence vote to Chancellor Brüning's government.

The vote of confidence, 315 to 208, a margin of 107 votes in the 523-member Reichstag, was taken after Brüning's government had been accused of mismanagement and of having a "policy of delay."

The vote was taken after a long and bitter debate. Brüning's government had been accused of mismanagement and of having a "policy of delay."

Gubernatorial Nominee Of Republicans Speaks Here

Col. Bill Tubbs, Dallas leader of the Texas Republican party, spoke here today in support of his gubernatorial nomination.

He said he was proud to be a Republican and to be nominated for the office of governor of Texas.

He said he would work for the best interests of the state and its people.

Big Spring Fourth In Deposits, Sixth In Loans by Banks

Big Spring ranked fourth in total deposits and sixth in total loans among eight West Texas cities having more than $1,000,000 on the scale at the close of business Sept. 30, comparative figures disclosed.

San Antonio was first, deposits in the bank there almost equalling the combined deposits of Abilene and Lubbock.

Total deposits and loans in the eight cities were as follows:

City	Deposits	Loans
San Antonio	$6,720,456.95	$7,837,040.29
Abilene	6,325,422.00	2,894,731.00
Lubbock	4,069,617.07	2,728,311.20
Big Spring	3,399,634.21	3,329,341.25
Dumas	3,091,263.78	2,417,524.55
Midland	2,959,949.79	2,593,515.19
Del Rio	2,283,827.35	1,723,076.69
Odessa	1,913,427.85	$2,192.12

From the results, it is noticeable that Big Spring has more than $2,200,000 in deposits.

It is noted from the Spring of 1928 that Big Spring was the sixth highest city in the state in deposits.

When it was an early five and one of the earliest pioneers in Texas.

Texas Special To A.P.I. Meet Is Announced

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—The Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association is sponsoring a special train from Texas to the American Petroleum Institute, which is to be held in Chicago from November 10 to 13. The train is to be made up of sections from Houston and South Texas, Wichita Falls and North West Texas, and from Dallas and East Texas. These sections will each reach Dallas the evening of November 8, leaving there over the M.K. & T. lines for Chicago via St. Louis. A rate of one and one-half fare on the certificate plan has been made.

In a letter to Texas oil men the Mid-Continent association states that the train will consist of the finest all-steel Pullman equipment, with open section sleepers, drawing room compartment sleepers, a dining car, and a club car in addition. Edward T. Moore of Dallas is president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, and J. P. Lancy is executive secretary.

It is expected that more than one hundred Texas oil men will attend the Institute. It was stated at the association offices "Texans take a very prominent part in the activities of the American Petroleum Institute. Two Texans, W. S. Farish and J. Edgar Pew have served as presidents of the body, and it's executive vice-president, W. R. Boyd, is a former Texan. Another former Texan, A. L. Besty, is treasurer, and R. C. Holmes, president of the Texas company, has long ranked among the leaders of the Institute. A number of residents of the Lone Star State, which is the banner oil producing state, are directors of the A.P.I. Roy B. Jones, of Wichita Falls, is a director representing the manufacturing group. W. S. Farish, of Houston, is a representative of the production group. Henry C. Morris, of Dallas, is the national gas representative on the board, and Edgar J. Marston is the director representing the natural gas industry. Texas members of the general committee of the division of production include B. H. Stephens, J. Edgar Pew, E. J. Marston, W. S. Farish and Edward T. Moore. C. A. Young, of Dallas, is secretary of this committee. H. C. Weiss, of Houston, is a member of the general committee of the division of refining, and Roy B. Jones of the marketing committee. Captain J. F. Lucey of Dallas, Wallace E. Pratt of Houston, E. R. Brown and E. T. Moore of Dallas, are members representing the industry, as a whole on the general board of directors. R. R. Penn and E. H. Hunt, of Dallas, are members of the nominating committee of the production division.

NEWS BRIEFS

HOME MAKING

362,000 people hurt and killed annually in accidents caused by skidding! An incalculable loss in human life—lost time—permanent injuries. Untold added cost in hospital bills, wrecked cars, repairs and liabilities. What a terrific toll to pay when skid-safety costs so little!

Now—with the new General Dual Balloon—every motorist can enjoy skid-safety with a new meaning! True, low air pressure makes the difference—for softness is the thing that prevents skidding. It has far more to do with sure, safe traction than any tread design.

The flexibility of patented Blow-out-Proof construction permits tremendously reduced air pressure—lets the whole tire "give" and cling on any road.

regardless of wet pavements. Skid-safety you will never know with stiff, unyielding tires.

Let us equip your car now. Be prepared for the greatest security you have ever known in slippery weather. Enjoy, too, the surpassing comfort of the tire that puts a buffer between you and the roughest roads—makes broken roads and detours endurable and good roads perfect.

The Blow-out-Proof Dual Balloon challenges any comparison—Blow-out-Proof, skid-safe, easy riding, that higher pressure tires can never give!

These pressures are for rear tires. In front tires, for easier steering, use a few pounds more air.

The above are a few examples. Our complete schedule includes low pressure for every make of car—come in and see yours.

"Animal Crackers" Opens Three-Day Ritz Visit Today

Marx Outfit Distributors Of Cuffaws

Buttons anchored to home-ports with anything less than the best grade of brass rivets or steel cable, will have a delicate texture of steel at the Ritz theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, where The Marx Brothers and Furiously Funny Marx Brothers are doing in "Animal Crackers," something fifty million rib-racked lovers of comedy believed impossible. They've made a talking and musical picture that takes up where "The Cocoanuts" left off, and ends with the last survivor being carried up the aisle on force, three strong porters, and well—who is your favorite escort to the "body litch?"

The story is something about a stately and socially proper hostess, with a house-party on her hands at a palatial country estate. A big game hunter, just back from Africa—expedition, his secretary, and two vagabond musicians engaged to attend to the musical appetites of the guests, is the business assigned Groucho, Zeppo, Harpo and Chico Marx, respectively. They arrive simultaneously and with their usual hurricane momentum at a time when the festive gathering is being diverted by a butler weighing just a fraction less than a half ton, a feud between the hostess and a rival matron over the authenticity of a fine painting, and more pretty girls in lingerie and bathing suits than most revues boast. You understand what a bit mean by spirit when we say Lillian Roth heads the feminine talent.

This is the premise, or the premisses, upon which the riot is fashioned—and the development dwarf superlatives that Webster intended for even the most hilarious narratives.

The making of the stage version into photoplay dynamite was entrusted to the direction of Victor Heerman, contributing in no small way to the general hilarity results by addition to the Marx Brothers and Miss Roth, the cast includes Margaret Bennett, Louis Moran, Hal Thompson, Margaret Irving, Kathleen Hogue, Richard Gray, Edward Metcalf and The Music Masters.

Oh, yes, fans who got such a big series of "moments" from the antics of Harpo and Chico who have those and hang in their first monkey pete, used "experience" as readily in re-creating the new "shenanigans" crackerjack. Musical ditties have a big play, and the talents and tunes are as refreshing and diverting as before, along new lines.

FARRELL HAS FINE PART IN PLAY AT QUEEN

Charles Farrell, newly crowned king of the movies, believes in lending everybody a helping hand when ever possible and his belief is founded on a very good reason. His attempt to help a friend and fellow actor brought Farrell overnight fame in moving pictures, and ever since he has been a firm advocate of all proverbs and axioms like the one concerning "casting bread upon the waters."

Some three years ago, Farrell was a struggling youngster on the lot of the Fox Film Corporation in Hollywood. He was unknown and had no role of any importance to his credit. At that time Frank Borzage was casting his picture, "Th Heaven." Farrell asked the director to give a friend of his a screen test for the principal role. Borzage looked at Farrell closely, studied him for a moment and then said, "Okay, Charlie, and I want to make a test of you too. Come on over to the stage."

As you know, Farrell was chosen for the role of "Chico," and ever since his name has been a byword among millions of film fans, many of whom still discuss his notable performance in that famous role.

Now Farrell is again playing a leading role under the guidance of his favorite director, Frank Borzage, who also directed him in "Street Angel," "Lucky Star" and "The River." This time he portrays the character of "Lilliom," in the Fox Movietone drama of the same name, which is said to possess much of the delicacy and appeal of "Th Heaven," although bearing no relation to the earlier film in theme or treatment.

Rose Hobart a newcomer from the Broadway stage, where she recently scored a sensational success in the play "Death Takes a Holiday," plays the leading feminine role in "Lilliom," which begins its two-day engagement Wednesday at the Queen. Other featured members of the remarkable cast are H. B. Warner, Estelle Taylor and Lee Tracy with Nat Peniston, Mildred Van Dorn, Guina Williams and Bert Hoach portraying other prominent characters.

"Lilliom" was adapted for the screen from Franz Molnar's famous stage play of that name. The dialogue and screen play were written by S. N. Dymman and the continuity by Sonya Levien.

FILM AUTHENTICITY
Real soldiers were employed in Radio Pictures' wartime comedy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. A detail of 125 men from the 100th Infantry of the California National Guard was used in making war scenes.

Wheeler And Woolsey In Their Glory

Wheeler and Woolsey, who demonstrate that in team play get the laughs over will appear at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday in a comedy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," with a plot embellished with numerous antics provocative of laughter. They have scored at the Ritz in "Rio Rita" and other pictures.

Dialogue Production de Luxe Is 'Holiday,' Coming To Ritz

NOT SO QUIET
Twenty bomb proof hits were built to house cameras during production of the war scenes in Radio Pictures' wartime comedy "Half Shot at Sunrise," featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. Some of the falling clouds from dynamite blasts were as big as watermelons.

With a magnificent stage investment as beautiful as it is rare, and every interior setting distinctly a work of art, rich, tasty and restful to the eye, Pathe screen version of Phillip Barry's successful stage play, "Holiday," is in every sense of the term a dialogue production de luxe. A tensely emotional drama of high society and vast wealth, interpreted by stage and screen players of exceptional prominence, and produced on a highly pretentious scale, this picture is at once impressive, charming, massive, thrilling. The dramatic moments are finely relieved throughout the action by delicious comedy, while the dialogue, compact and witty, leaves little to be desired. This picture will be shown at the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Here is an enchanting story of

TIERNEY WRITES ANOTHER
Harry Tierney, whose musical pen is responsible for many stage song hits including "Rio, Rita," "Irene" and a score of Ziegfeld's "Follies" numbers, wrote the music for Radio Pictures' wartime comedy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey.

Comedy Team Coming Here In 'Half Shot'

The blues won't have a chance when Radio Pictures' wartime comedy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," opens at the Ritz theatre Friday for a two-day run.

Then, according to advance stories about this production, featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, comedians of "The Cuckoo's" fame, "you can put the undertakers to digging wells."

Previewers have said: "A triumph in fun making!" "The funniest men in the talkies today... or tomorrow!" "A comedy with a story!" "Go ahead and laugh... there's nothing you can do for it!"

Here are some of the things they are talking about: Five song hits by Harry Tierney, who wrote the music for "Rio Rita" and "Dixiana"; the famous Tiller Sunshine Girls; songs—"Tivlers Moon," entrancingly romantic! "Nothing but Love," a rare treat in laughter! "Whistling the Blues Away," a foot teaser. "On Parade!" an inspiring marching song. "Kiss Me, Cherie," will make you hold hands even with somebody's grandfather.

The story: "Two American doughboys go A. W. O. L. in Paris about... everything!"

The cast: Wheeler, Woolsey, Hugh Trevor, Dorothy Lee, Roberta Robinson, Edna May Oliver, John Rutherford, George MacFarlane, Katya Sorina and Leni Stengel.

Harpo Marx Inherits His Light Fingers

Harpo Marx comes by his fineness for other people's silverware, watches, ties and handkerchiefs honestly, he explained at Paramount's New York studio during a lull in the filming of "Animal Crackers." This hilarious feature with the four famous buffoons of "Cocoanuts," begins a three day engagement today at the Ritz theatre.

"Grandfather was a magister, and quite good at it, I understand," Harpo recalled solemnly. "He once stole the Brooklyn Bridge and was halfway home to the Bronx before they caught up with him."

The elder Marx died in Chicago after putting his sleights over on Father Time to the extent of 103 years, and having grounded his grandchildren firmly in the "black art."

WESTERN PLAY IS HILARIOUS LAUGH-MAKER Major General Becomes Movie Extra In Comedy

Although players in western comedies are accustomed to the thrills that go into the making of this type of photoplay, the cast of "The Dude Wrangler" had to admit that they got more than they bargained for in one scene of the talkie. This hilarious comedy comes to the Queen Theatre Friday and Saturday with a cast headed by Lina Basquette, George Duryea, Francis X. Bushman, Clyde Cook, Ethel Wales and Alice Davenport.

In one part of the narrative, a party of Easterners is being taken in an old stage coach from the railroad station over a rocky, rough road to a "dude" ranch. The guests are easily scared, trembling tender feet, and their fear rises to intensity when the stage coach speeds along at a terrifying rate, the four horses getting out of control of their driver. Swaying perilously from side to side, they view every turning in the road with undiminished alarm; when they finally reach their destination, they are just most panic-stricken. As an intro, got they were acting for a while at a ranch, they feel they have

Once a Major General—now an extra in the movie!
That is the story of Alexander Ikonnikoff, who with 1,000 other people, furnished "atmosphere" for Radio Pictures' war-time comedy, "Half Shot at Sunrise," coming to the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday.

During the World War Ikonnikoff fought for the Czar. He was a colonel commanding the Finland Regiment of the Imperial Guard.

It was Ikonnikoff who led the "White" army's historic march across Siberia—4,000 miles in the dead of winter! The march ended tragically. He and Kolchak were arrested and imprisoned by the Bolsheviks.

Eight hundred officers were incarcerated. After seven months in prison, but thirty-seven remained.

Finally these thirty-seven escaped one night when the guard, numbering twenty-one, became intoxicated. Ikonnikoff said: "There was a bloody fight in which all the guards were slain. With two comrades, I escaped to Mongolia."

Ikonnikoff is now an American citizen.

Forgers Get $8,000 In Loot

PECOS, Oct. 18—A well-organized gang of forgers operating throughout this section, has swindled merchants of Pecos, Motac, Hobbs and other nearby towns out of $8,000, according to Charles H. Beck, manager of the White and Hobbs Lumber Company of Pecos. Beck says the gang was active for some time on the trail of the forgers.

He said that the gang had had several boxes of checks purporting to be pay checks of his company and had cashed hundreds of them in towns throughout the oil fields.

"We caught two of the men at Hobbs and have them in jail," he said. "But the brains of the crowd is still getting away from us."

He cautioned Pecos merchants from accepting any of the bogus checks.

The forgers duplicated his signature so cleverly that even Mr. Beck thought at first that the checks were genuine, he added.

Ponies Bruins, Fight To Draw

Tying Marker In Final Frame

Baylor Spills Season's First Dope In Conference

BY GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer

WACO, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP)—Baylor University's Golden Bears supplied the first big upset of the 1930 Southwest conference campaign by the battling of the Southern Methodist University Mustangs to a sensational 14 to 14 tie before 12,000 fans here today. The Bears scored the tying touchdown late in the final quarter.

Pushing back deep into their own territory with less than two minutes to play and the Mustangs leading by seven points, the Bruins gambled and won. Afford, surrounded by rushing Mustang linemen, dropped back and pegged a perfect pass to McElreath, speedy little halfback who eluded two members of the Pony secondary and rumped 65 yards for the score that sent Baylor's adherents into semi-hysteria.

With a tie or defeat hanging on his nose, McElreath then calmly sent a place kick squarely between the cross bars for the extra point. It was a climax with a punch to as thrilling a combat as the southwest ever witnessed.

Getting away to a lead in the opening period, when Louie Long scooped up a blocked punt and ran 25 yards for a touchdown, and scoring again in the third period on a long pass, Gilbert to Long the Methodist apparently had the game in the bag until the Baptists launched their furious last quarter assault.

First Score
A drive from midfield gave the Bears their first score when the closing period was half gone. A flip from Afford to Harris for 25 yards and a beautiful 20-yard run by Jake Wilson, diminutive quarterback carried to the Mustangs five-yard line, from where Lewter plunged over on his third try. He kicked the goal for the point.

Even at that, however, the Mustangs still appeared confident of victory, and twice started drives that went deep into Baylor territory as time grew short. It looked like it was all over when Kattman kicked to the Baptists 35-yard line and only two minutes remained. Then came the pass to McElreath and the resulting 65-yard spring. There was time for only three or four plays before the final gun.

Southern Methodist accounted for 14 first downs to 12 for Baylor.

FEW UPSETS IN CLASS B RACE

While their upper classmen, the schools in the Class A circuit, were rallying along true to expectations in the majority of instances the past week end, the Class B football teams were having plenty arguments of their own.

Along with the arguments went dope—scattered hither and yon. Probably the greatest upset in the Class B circle was McCamey's 12-0 victory over Snyder. The team that gained a 0-0 decision with the Big Spring Steers, but finally lost 6 to 0, kicked over the bucket to cop from the Snyder aggregation.

PURDUE WINS

IOWA STADIUM, IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 18 (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers let loose a vicious running attack today to defeat the University of Iowa in the Hawk eyes only Big Ten game of the season, 29 to 6. Twenty-five thousand spectators saw the game.

Buckees Win From Mavs 28 To 0

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 18.—The Breckenridge Buckies finally hit an impressive stride today and defeated the Eastland Mavericks, 28 to 0. The Buckaroos scored one touchdown in each quarter and annexed all extra points. The Eastland team never once threatened during the entire game. Breckenridge made 17 first downs to four for their opponents.

BUCKEES WIN FROM MAVS

While we're on the subject, the district is too big covers too much territory, has too many Ciccos, Rangers, Breckenridges and Abilenes. It should be split smaller, throwing Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge, Mineral Wells, Cicco and Brownwood in one pot, and San Angelo, Abilene, Big Spring, Sweetwater and possible Midland and Colorado, or maybe Lubbock in the other. In that way, the boys down in the belt could kick each other off in less than half the time it takes now, and these smaller schools would not have to be looking up the bankrupt laws. An example—let cost over $400 to bring Breckenridge here. It cost more than that for Big Spring to go to Mineral Wells. Where is the percentage between these long hops and these short gate receipts? Inasmuch as the high school boys have something to say about it, they should say it, and before another football season rolls around at that.

PENN LOSES

RANDALL STADIUM, MADISON, Wis., Oct. 18 (AP)—Wisconsin triumphed over Pennsylvania 27 to 0, in their intercollegiate battle played before a homecoming crowd of 41,000 here today.

LONGHORNS AND BOBCATS CLASH

The week-end games in District Two have come and gone. True to expectations, the Ranger Bulldogs clattered their way over the Mustangs of Sweetwater, although the Ponies tallied on the maroon gang. Abilene defeated Brownwood by five more points than Abilene whammed the local Steers. Eastland was a victim of the Buckies, failing to hold them as well as the Longhorns did a week ago. San Angelo clamped a 20 to 13 halter over the Resorters. It is alleged that Cicco defeated Big Spring 62 to 0 Friday night, but the rumor has not been definitely verified. It was that at the last time the score was added anyway.

Now for the supreme battle of the season, so far. We refer to the Breckenridge, Cicco battle royal Friday afternoon at Buckarooville. There is this to be accounted for. Breck has Boomer Magnusson. Cicco has Connell, Blackburn, Little, Van Horn and at least 97 other Bobemoths in the tight fitting yellow jerseys. The Lobos go into the melee scheduled to win. But Friday night when the Lobos were playing a beautiful theme song with the Steers as the main listeners, none other than Silent Shotwell, the Breck mentor, was in the stands, marking down play by play. The Lobos will win, or almost win, but there won't be so very many points difference in the outcome.

The Lobos whipped Eastland 26 to 0. Breckenridge dusted them 28 to 0. The Lobos socked the Steers 62 to 0. It is alleged, The Buckies sked out a 19 to 6 victory over them. That is for comparative score purposes. It is Ranger that the Chapman clan fears. And no group of fans know that any better than those that call the City of Flowing Gold home, and do their whittling and prognosticating around the Gibson Hotel.

The Angelo scribe refers to the Bobkittens' victory over the Mountaineers as "an upset." The next thing we know he will be predicting the Steers will scamper over the coral gate and fleece the event.

There was nothing else but upsets in the Southwestern Conference race. S. M. U. was rated above Baylor, and got a tie. Rice was picked to oust Arkansas and got the razberies. Texas was doped on paper to lose to Oklahoma, and sent the Sooners back to Norman with nothing but four quarters of experience. T. C. U. was rated at least six points above the Aggies, yet sked out a 2 to 0 victory via the place kick route. If such things had happened in the last world's series we could be driving an automobile with 17 horns and a bumper on each side—gold plated.

It is the better part of valor to think as little as possible about that unheralded catastrophe Friday night. The Steers were outclassed, out-guessed, and out at night. They lost to one of the greatest football teams in high school circles in this Empire State. The game, like the 21 point bet, is lost. However, we're rather at outs with Cicco. There was no use in running things in the ground. The way matters stand now, San Angelo might get the opinion San Angelo will slip the package to the Steer behemoths. And what a shame that would be.

While we're on the subject, the district is too big covers too much territory, has too many Ciccos, Rangers, Breckenridges and Abilenes. It should be split smaller, throwing Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge, Mineral Wells, Cicco and Brownwood in one pot, and San Angelo, Abilene, Big Spring, Sweetwater and possible Midland and Colorado, or maybe Lubbock in the other. In that way, the boys down in the belt could kick each other off in less than half the time it takes now, and these smaller schools would not have to be looking up the bankrupt laws. An example—let cost over $400 to bring Breckenridge here. It cost more than that for Big Spring to go to Mineral Wells. Where is the percentage between these long hops and these short gate receipts? Inasmuch as the high school boys have something to say about it, they should say it, and before another football season rolls around at that.

There was the usual delegation of Ranger dopsters at the Cicco tragedy. There was Boyce House, the all-talker of the district sports world, and Mr. any Mr. D. W. (Buzzy and Fuzzy) Johnson, who missed a football game once, but can't remember when, Smitty "Sunshine" Smith, the S.S.S. of Eastland, one Willard Swaney, dispenser of things ranging from sandwiches with less potato chips to lampowers and tanks, in his drug emporium, and many other notables. And Silent Shotwell with his notebook, taking down the proceedings. The Kanger clan, incidentally, are pointing to the Cicco game. Sometimes we think maybe they don't know they will be hosts to the Bovines ere long. The Steers will cancel the game, however, unless they are assured every light globe in the town is taken out and popped. Popped on the Cicco athletic field.

And now comes the Bobkittens—a gentle zephyr. Friday afternoon at the Concho corral, the slaughter of the Felines will be held. On this date the Longhorns will move down country to southern climes.

Battered, mauled and spilled by the heavy and clever Cicco Lobos, the Big Spring Steers were back home today, ready to start the daily grind for the San Angelo Bobcats, Friday afternoon.

Although the Steers were just another victim to the classy black and yellow combination, this week-end they crave vindication, and lots of it.

4th Quarter Wins For Texans

Dope Turned Over As Steers Take 17 To 7 Decision

BY HARRELL E. LEE, Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Texas staged another conclusive demonstration of its last half power today and the Longhorns scored a well-earned 17 to 7 victory over the University of Oklahoma, conqueror of Nebraska a week ago.

For the Steers it was just a continuation of victories over their ancient rivals. For the Southwest Conference it was the first victory of a representative team in a major intercollegiate clash this season.

Capt. Dexter Shalley, who dealt Oklahoma such misery a year ago, did not play so well today but a pair of sophomores' backs, Roy and Stafford, bore the ball-carrying burden almost as well as their captain does when he is right.

A place kick by "Ox" Blanton, sophomore tackle, gave the Steers the points needed for victory. Blanton's boot from the 20-yard line, 30 yards from the posts, was perfect. The Sooners had let the Steers tie them, but they might have forestalled defeat but for Blanton's educated toe. Thereafter it was a seemingly easy matter for the Steers to intercept a wild Sooner pass deep in Oklahoma territory and march to a second touchdown.

The Steers tackled viciously and their defense was excellent practically all the game. Oklahoma's touchdown was a result of a pass from Warren to Cherry which netted 45 yards. In the second quarter the Sooners advanced the ball to the Texas 3-yard line largely as a result of some beautiful running by the Little Guy Warren by a 5-yard penalty hurt and Warren then missed a pass from center.

Neither team scored in the first half but Texas had the ball only a couple of feet from the enemy goal and three downs in which to carry it over when the half ended.

Observers who had seen the Longhorn demonstrate their second half prowess in previous encounters figured that a Texas victory was certain as the third quarter opened. But Warren by a 5-yard penalty hurt and Warren then missed a pass from center.

Texas immediately began another offensive which reached the four-yard line but Oklahoma took the ball on downs. The Steers came right back after the punt, however, and placed the ball in position for Blanton to make his kick. Then Emerson intercepted an Oklahoma pass on the Steer 12-yard line and Stafford sliced through right tackle for the distance necessary for a touchdown.

Nearly 25,000 persons saw the game which is an annual attraction of the Texas State Fair. Both the Orange of Texas and the Red and White of Oklahoma were well represented in the crowd.

Texas served notice that it will be a power in the Southwest Conference pennant chase if its offense clicks. Oklahoma had been rated as one of the leaders of the Big Six Conference as a result of its conquest of Nebraska.

Field Goal Gives Frogs Victory Over Aggies

Big Dam Loboes Gallop Over Longhorn Crew In Roughshod Way

Drive Across Ten Touchdowns To Hand Black and Gold Contingent Worst Defeat Of Season

(BY BOBBY CAMPBELL)

The Big Spring Steers deserted the diurnal for the nocturnal Friday night, gave a big light globe party at Cisco, and woke up with a huge amount of hangover Saturday morning.

As the kibitzers attracted the candleflies, the Big Dam Loboes did everything to the Longhorns but throw the switch. They reversed, double reversed, triple reversed, went over the tackles, under the guards, around the ends and through center. They passed and got by with it. When the pajama time football game had ended the score was 62 to 0, with the Steers having gone through the contest without ever seriously threatening the boys that bid fair to cop the state championship along about a couple of months from this date.

The Chapman clan didn't do much but drive across 10 touchdowns. They dashed across the marker that counts twice in the first quarter, adding an extra point by a boot from placement; once in the second; four times in the third and three times in the grand finale. The only thing the yellow clad crew couldn't do was rattle the ball with the toes and send it through the uprights for the extra. Ten tries were made and two were successful.

Alternative It was either too much Cisco or too much candlepower, or a combination of both. Anyway as the eleven o'clock curfew sounded through the Eastland County village, the Steers had been handed the worse drubbing received at the hands of one of the alleged Big Four of this tough football action.

The Loboes primed the scoring machines early and got it running nicely in five minutes. It all started when Phillips punted to Blackburn who downed in his tracks on the Cisco 44-yard line. Four plays had the ball resting securely on Big Spring's 27 yard line—just a stretch. Connell ripped off the biggest run when Phillips missed his tackle. The march was resumed, halting only once when Flowers socked Connell for a three yard loss. On the five yard line Chambliss fumbled, recovered and lost two yards. Blackburn gleaned five, and then trotted over. Jeter stuck his toe in the ball from placement for the extra point.

The second followed in the wake, when Flowers fumbled with Cisco recovering. Connell made 15 yards around end. Blackburn and Chambliss ripped a first down over their left guard. After a couple of tries Connell swept around his left end for four yards and the counter. Jeter's kick was wild.

Second Quarter The third came in the middle of the second quarter, the drive starting on Cisco's own 32 yard line. A pass, Chambliss to Van Horn netted 21 yards. Blackburn and Chambliss took charge of things and slashed a line and secondard to drive Blackburn across. Jeter's kick was blocked.

After having held the Loboes 10 to 0 in the first half, the fireworks were ignited. Two minutes of the third quarter had passed when Phillips kicked was blocked by O. C. Ray who cantered over the prairie 40 yards for a touchdown. Jeter's kick was still being blocked.

A bad kick by Phillips paved the way for the next one. It was beginning to get monotonous by this time. Taking the ball on their 29 yard line, after Phillips' punt had carried one yard, the Loboes started the prance play. Chambliss to Connell netted 24 yards. Chambliss went over Pardue at center for 25 yards. Connell went 20 yards around left end for the count of six points. Jeter got another through the uprights and over the crossbar for the extra point.

Steen intercepted Flowers' pass on Big Spring's 28 yard line. Chambliss and Blackburn picked a first down out of the air. Wagman trotted around his left end for the marker. Bryan's goal attempt was a fizzle.

Same Thing Just as the third was ending, Steen intercepted Rogers' pass on Big Spring's 42 yard line. Seeming to care for the passing process, Chambliss passed to Van Horn and before he got down he was 56 yards down the field for just another touchdown. That made 44 points when Van Horn missed goal.

With the majority of the first string Steers on the sidelines as the fourth opened, the Loboes—who also had plenty of second string material in the melee—kept right on keeping on. Three touchdowns was the result.

As the fourth got underway Phillips punted to Cisco's 36 yard line. Jeter ripped 20 yards. Blackburn went over his left tackle for 15. Blackburn repeated the feat, only right tackle this time, for the touchdown. Van Horn missed his goal attempt. Little's 36 yard run paved the way for the penultimate counter, when he was stopped on the three yard line, but on the third try went over. Ray's try for the point flopped.

The tenth one came after Yeager intercepted Rogers' pass. Ray couldn't get but 28 yards. Little made a first down, Yeager went over from the one yard line for the counter. To end the evening, Little's placement boot was low.

Flashback Although the Steers never did seriously threaten the yellow and black goal line, some flashy offensive work was injected at intervals. Bob Kidwell made one brilliant 25 yard canter. Flowers made several, and Rogers stood above them all.

The passing attack was somewhat of a non-success, twenty-two being tried, eight being completed for 86 yards, five were intercepted and nine were incomplete. One was completed for 10 yards via the interference route.

Cisco shot six in the air, completed three for a total gain of 103 yards. Coaches Stegans and Brown sent practically all of their charges into the contest. As the tally mounted, substitute after substitute was fired into the mêlée and as the fourth neared the end practically every first string man was either out or had been out. Rogers, however, played the entire game. Flowers played three quarters.

Cisco charged through for 18 first downs. Big Spring acquiring 21. Starting lineups: Cisco (62) Phillips (6) Massengale (6) Maxwell (6) Wagon (6) Hobson (6) McMann (6) Pardue (6) Roy (6) Orr (6) Black (6) Hanshaw (6) Cole (6) Coats (6) Van Horn (6) Flowers (6) Blackburn (6) Mims (6) Jeter (6) Kidwell (6) Connell (6) Rogers (6) Chambliss (6)

Officials: Morris (A. & M.) referee; Hill (A.P.C.) umpire; Gibson (Simmons) headlinesman. Individual scoring: Touchdowns, Blackburn 3, Connell 2, O. C. Ray, Wagman, Van Horn, Little, L. Ray, Points after touchdown, Jeter 2. First downs, Cisco 18, Big Spring 21.

Penalties, Big Spring, 5, Cisco 5. Passes—Cisco, tried 6, completed three for 103 yards; three were incomplete. Big Spring, tried 22, completed 8 for 98 yards; five were intercepted, nine incomplete.

Substitutions—Big Spring, C. Coburn, Schwartzbach, Stanfl, Richardson, Glover, Neel, Yarbrough, Sanders, R. Coburn.

Three Students Die One Svc of Navy Game

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 18 (AP)—Three students on their way to see the Duke-Navy football game at Annapolis today, lost their lives in the collision and plunge down an embankment of an automobile and two moving vans near here late last night.

Two other students were seriously injured and one of the van drivers suffered minor hurts. Fred Ingram, High Point, N. C., a student at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, was killed when the two trucks, one in tow of the other, piled up on the car. Henry Chapman, Hagerstown, Md., Duke university sophomore, and James Johnson, Trenton, N. J., Duke freshman, died soon after arrival at a hospital here.

James Harrett, Thomasville, N. C., suffered a fractured leg, fractured jaw, and severe internal injuries and Thomas Miller, Baltimore, a fractured leg. Both are students of Duke.

The automobile swerved from the path of the first van and struck the second, sending all three vehicles off the road.

TAKES OATH WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The oath of office today formally made J. Reuben Clark the ambassador to Mexico, succeeding Dwight W. Morrow.

Porkers Erase Rice From Race

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 18 (AP)—The University of Arkansas erased Rice Institute of Houston as a Southwest conference contender today, turning the Owl's back to 6, with "Cowboy" Kyle leading the attack in the first period of play.

The red shirted Razorbacks staged a dizzy parade in the first five minutes of play, with three quick plays deciding the issue. After the exchange of punts, Rice drew a fifteen yard penalty. Then Kyle raced around his own right end twenty yards. Ledbetter skirted the opposite side for 25 and on the third successive play, the Cowboy galloped around his own right end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Dale added an extra point with a perfect kick for placement.

But Rice came back to life in the next few minutes with Mueller returning Erwin's punt from the Owl's five yard stripe to his own forty yard line.

Hammett took a stab at the line, then Mueller took a seemingly bad pass from center, raced around his own right end and down the right side of the field, fifty yards. He was momentarily stopped or would have scored a touchdown on the play.

Squires heaved a neat seven-yard toss to Tom Driscoll on the right side of the field and Driscoll scampered over the goal line untouched. Hammett failed in the drop kick try for an extra point.

SENTENCE IMPOSED IN ABILENE JAIL ESCAPE
ABILENE, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP)—A successful break from the Taylor county jail Sept. 28, in which five men got away, had its aftermath in district court here today. W. L. Kenahalo, 24-year-old warehouse superintendent, was convicted of conveying a saw into the jail to aid prisoners to escape. The jury sentenced him to five years, but suspended the sentence.

A statement signed by Kenahalo, in which he admitted buying two saws at a local store and tying them to a blanket suspended from the second floor of the jail, was admitted in testimony. He said he secured the saws after repeated appeals from Mrs. George B. Johnston, wife of one of the prisoners escaping. Johnston, charged with impersonating a federal officer, was recaptured and since has been convicted and sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary on the charge.

WEBB NAMED
DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 18 (AP)—Rev. Allicus Webb was re-elected superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League for another two years by the board of managers today.

The total income for the year ending August 31 was reported to be $26,658 and expenses $31,266, leaving a deficit of $1,611.

SOLONS OF DISTRICT SEEK TO SUSPEND McCAMEY

MIDLAND, Texas, Oct. 18 (AP)—Head Coach L. K. Berry of Midland high school was informed by telephone today that the football committee of District Eight met at Fort Stockton and voted to recommend to the state committee of the Interscholastic League in Austin that McCamey be suspended from the league in football for two years, that Crane be given one week to file eligibility blanks and to forfeit all games played to date, and that Big Laby be placed under probation for the remainder of the season. Flagrant violations of the eligibility rule was given by members of the committee as reason for the action.

AMARILLO JUNIORS COP FROM TECH FRESHMEN
LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 18 (AP)—Getting off to a two-point lead when Price's kick behind the goal line was blocked for a safety, the Amarillo Junior college Badgers defeated the Texas Tech Freshmen 9 to 6 here today when they scored a touchdown on a break that gave Captain Cox of the Badgers the ball on the Tech 20-yard line, after a punt.

Cox stopped a yard short of the goal when he was forced out of bounds. Clark, Badger halfback, went over for the lone touchdown. After the first quarter, both teams played on even terms. The lines held like stone walls, with the ball in midfield most of the time. The Tech Pleaders registered seven first downs to the Badgers' six and outplayed the visitors after the first quarter.

REJECT BIDS
AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Rejection of all bids on approximately $100,000 worth of tires will be considered here Tuesday at a meeting of the state board of control, Chairman Clyde Teer announced today.

The bids, to supply the highway department principally, have been under consideration for several weeks. In the interim, according to information reaching board members, the price of rubber and fabric materially declined, and it was considered possible that by re-advertising the bids, a cheaper contract might be secured.

SUCIDE VERDICT
FORT WORTH, Oct. 18 (AP)—The body of Sanford D. Overton, 53, railway mail clerk, was found today slumped in the rear seat of his sedan near Lake Worth a pistol shot through the head. Justice of the Peace Prichard returned a verdict of suicide.

Overton had been missing about four days from his home here. He left several notes, scrawled with a pencil in the rear of the automobile, the front seat serving as a desk.

DIRECTOR DIES
BERLIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Death called the turn in a radio broadcasting room at midnight last night and stilled a concert program featuring Director Julius Einodshofer, widely known for his interpretations of martial music. Einodshofer had just tapped for silence and was lifting his baton when he collapsed of a heart seizure. Fellow musicians carried his body out of the room as the clock struck twelve.

PLAN RALLY
DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Plans for a statewide rally in the interest of the candidacy of Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas, nominee for governor, were discussed at a meeting of Republican leaders here today. The meeting will be held in Fort Worth Monday.

STUBBORN A&M CREW HALTS T.C.U.
ATKINS—Kicks Field Goal From 20-Yard Line
COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 18 (AP)—The noble tradition that it's hard to beat Texas A. & M. College here on this old field was demonstrated this afternoon, the powerful Texas Christian University eleven being able to nose the Aggies out only 3 to 0.

Atkins, a Crystal Falls boy who has made the Frogs a mighty center, chalked up their three points for them, with a fourth period field goal from the 20 yard line to crown his spectacular defensive efforts.

Cy Leland, on of the country's fastest men, did not play the entire game and made less yardage than had been expected.

Favored to win, the Christians found it rough sledding all the way, though they made 13 first downs to none for A&M such team gained virtual respect for the other's line prowess. The Frogs completed seven passes for thirty yards out of 26 tried and the Cadets three for 14 yards of 21 tried.

"The game's most dramatic moment came when Hinton, the great T.C.U. quarterback who played headsup all the way, scooped up an Aggie punt which a teammate had failed to handle and tore down the field to be brought down on the A&M two-yard line.

One Yard Line It was a situation to bring out the extraordinary resilience which the Farmer's customarily show, especially here at home when things look the worst. Hinton pounded at the line thrice and got only a yard for his pains while the Cadet rooting stands bawled a crescendo of encouragement for his opposition. Then he let Griffith, the fullback try to take the other yard, and Griffith failed.

It was a great defensive game, the Aggies shining particularly in voiding pass attempts and Atkins starring in topping the Christians (CONTINUED ON PAGE 12)

New Things For The Coming Winter

Smart is Bernice Claire's skirt ensemble (right) featuring the short Eton embroidered jacket with black and white buttons. The skirt is black Canton, box pleated. Clara Bow (left) can remove the bolero jacket from her frock of black crepe, and make it a more formal gown. The dots are silver and gold. The lacin ensemble with its tiny muffs and youthful beret is chicle for the young miss.

20 Policemen Hold Back Crowd At Wedding Of R. I. Multi-Millionaire And Baltimore Girl; Brown Once Known As "World's Richest Baby"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18. (AP)—Miss Anne Kinsolving, Baltimore debutante—newspaper reporter, today became the bride of John Nicholas Brown, of Providence, and Newport, R. I., one of America's richest financiers, once known as "the world's richest baby."

Twenty traffic policemen held back the crowd in front of old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church where the ceremony was performed by the bride's father, the Rev. Arthur Barksdale Kinsolving.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18. (AP)—Noon today was the hour set for the wedding at old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church of Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving of Baltimore and John Nicholas Brown of Providence and Newport, R. I. Representatives of generations of wealth in the east and of anti-bellum Virginia aristocracy together with titled foreigners arrived yesterday for the ceremony described as one of the most imposing in recent Baltimore history.

For many weeks wedding gifts from all corners of the globe have poured in the Kinsolving home, the rectory of the old church, cradle of the Episcopal faith in the city. Her father is Dr. Arthur Barksdale Kinsolving. He was to perform the ceremony and Bishop James De Wolf Perry, primate of the Episcopal church of America, pronounced the blessing.

Last night of dinner was given for the bridal party by Mrs. John Kinsolving.

Texas Ranks First In Divorces

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Matrimony claimed 1,232,559 couples in the United States last year, while during the same period 201,475 divorces were recorded.

The preliminary report of the 1929 matrimonial statistics issued today by the Department of Commerce showed 101 marriages were performed for every 1,000 of population, while divorces totaled 66 per thousand.

Numerically Texas led in divorces, with 18,386. Illinois next with 15,789. Ohio had 15,313, and California 15,099. The only other state having more than 10,000 divorces was Michigan with 1,981.

New York reported the most marriages, with 121,255. Illinois had 84,092, Pennsylvania 70,507, Ohio 65,579, Texas 63,173, and California completed the more than 50,000 class with 51,866.

The marriage rate recorded one of the largest yearly increases, numerically and in percentage, exceeding the preceding year's total by 50,062, or 4.2 per cent. There had been a decrease the preceding year of 1.5 by comparison with 1927. The divorces, although showing an increase of 2.8 per cent over 1928, could not keep up with the growth in marriages.

The ratio of divorces to marriages, computed by the department in response to numerous requests, showed that for each 6.1 marriages performed one couple had 84,092, Pennsylvania 70,507, Ohio 65,579, Texas 63,173, and California completed the more than 50,000 class with 51,866.

Winter Hat Modes Depend On The Hair

The milliners are facing a difficult problem in designing hats for the winter, a problem which has arisen from uncertainty as to the style of hairdressing which will prevail during the coming season. Smart women seem at the moment to be equally divided on the subject. Some are those who cling tenaciously to short locks (though new, as short as the "boyish cut," which has completely disappeared) and others who are allowing their hair to grow long enough to cover the nape of the neck and the neck with a little roll or a line of tiny curls. Of course, the new fashions with their longer skirts and more feminine line are responsible for this change in the coiffure.

So many women are going through the experimental stage at the moment that the first question that the milliner asks is not "What kind of a hat does Madam wish?" but "How will Madam wear her hair this season?" And in this case, out of ten, the milliners tell me, the reply will be "I haven't really decided as yet. I am letting it grow, but I may cut it again."

This complicates matters for the milliner whose hats are moulded to each individual head, for the amount of hair makes a decided difference in the fit of the crown.

"If women would only make up their minds and stick to it," the director of a well-known house said to me, "as a rule, my hats are bought back because my customer has either decided to cut her hair again or to let it grow longer."

After hearing the plaints of the milliners I paid a visit to several of the leading Paris hairdressers in search of authentic information on the subject of the winter coiffure.

Evening Coiffures
"Are fashionable women really letting their hair grow?" I asked, and the reply was "always the same."

"It will be short for the day—not so short as a year ago, but still short—and for the evening a little length will be attached at the back of the neck, just a slight roll or a bunch of curls. This is necessary with the long evening frock. So that appears to be the solution—short hair for the day time and a return to false hair for the evening."

M. Antoine showed me one of the "little chignons," which may be fastened securely to even very short hair by means of the patent "little chignon" which has tried the longer hair with the little roll or curls at the back, but it is impossible to keep it firm and tidy when one puts on a hat and the false bit is the only solution," said he.

"M. Ericie smiled when I asked if this could be regarded as the first step toward the return of the elaborate coiffure of the last century."

"One need not worry about that," he assured me. "We live in a different epoch and the present-day woman with her professional or business interests and her love of sports, will never be bothered with long hair. Furthermore, long hair makes any woman look older. I assure you that never in our lifetime shall we see again the elaborate coiffure of our mothers. It will resolve itself very soon, the matter of the hair cut. I have many clients who have let the hair grow long enough to turn under at the back, but when the hat goes on, all is in disarray. No, short hair, not straight but left long and flat at the back with little curls at the sides of the face, for the day and the little false chignon for the evening this is the only sensible mode."

Low Crowns, Flat Brims
So much for the hair! Now as for the winter hats. It is rather difficult to generalize for each designer has her own particular mode. The new models, however, are all worn well back of the forehead and the hair is pulled out at either side in little curls in place of the smooth waves of the last few seasons, making a most becoming frame for the face. The hats, as a rule, are shorter at the back than those of last season and the "capeline" is no longer seen at the smart houses. Crowns are lower and brims are quite flat against the ears not standing on either side. The term "beret" has come to mean almost any form of small hat, like the "toque" of former days. This year's beret often has a narrow brim turned back from the face and a bit of trimming at the side or front.

The materials of the new hats are soft felt, velour, taupe, velvet and jersey and the colors are those of the winter costume, black, brown, green or dark red. Very little trimming is used by the best houses, with one exception, Mme. Agnes, who is using a great deal of velvet ribbon in pink, turquoise blue and burnt orange. Maria Guy uses little feather fantasies, and Marcelle Lely small buckles and ornaments of bone or metal. One finds in almost every collection models trimmed with a narrow band of short-haired fur. Agnes, for instance, shows a hat of black felt which has a narrow band of white galspale, the edge of which is seen across the forehead, and which ends in a saucy bow at one side of the crown.

One of the outstanding successes of the Maison Agnes is a small black felt beret which is "double-decked," so to speak, with a round, flat, tam-o'-shanter crown and both the brim and crown caught up at the front with a twisted knot of turquoise blue beads which are the fad of the moment for black costumes. The flat, tam-o'-shanter crown, by the by, is a new idea which Mme. Agnes develops in velvet as well as felt.

New Materials
Maria Guy is using a new variety of her favorite jersey material, with little perforated dots, for the winter

A chic little French countess whom I saw in her salon the other morning was being fitted to one of these jersey berets in black which had a narrow turned-back brim with a cluster of little coque feathers in white, black, yellow and red to be equally divided on the sides.

Cotton velvet is another favorite material with Maria Guy and she makes a fascinating little bonnet-like beret of this material with a turned-back brim and a stiffened crown and a little bow at the back of the neck.

Hats with brims designed for sports or for morning wear with plain tailored suits are often made of strips of felt ribbon sewn together to form a perfectly fitted crown and a soft brim. A band of narrow greenish ribbon of the same color is used around the crown is the only trimming.

Wide Brimmed Hats
Velvet is used almost exclusively for the wide-brimmed hats which are worn with the dressy afternoon frock for formal occasions. While these are decidedly impractical and almost impossible to wear with the high fur collar of the winter coat, they are ideal for indoor wear, for afternoon affairs. Made in soft velvet with a floppy brim, these are the most picturesque and becoming of all the winter hats. Paris shows a number of these with the afternoon costumes in his winter collection. Some have a wide satin ribbon, of the same color (which in most cases is black) tied around the crown with a big bow at the side or back, some are without any trimming and there is one which has a white gardenia tucked under one side of the brim. Worn with a long velvet frock with short puffed sleeves and a collar of creamy lace, a hat of this description is the crowning glory of a costume which is irresistibly quaint and feminine.

Leather Ensembles
London LEATHER has become suddenly and more and more fashionable. That is to say, while the ever-growing demand for motoring and sports clothes had led on the one hand to an increased output of inexpensive leather and suede coats, at the other end the trade designers are showing exclusive ensembles of an artistic hitherto undreamed of in this material. In all grades of lightness in weight is a marked feature, while the best nappas are so made as neither to drop nor sag as in the past.

There is today a leather outfit suitable for practically every day occasion; beginning with the smartly tailored gazelle town suit and finishing with warm suede sports wear.

While last year's golfing suits were made with specially spun Scotch tweed skirts—a smart but by no means windproof arrangement—this year's suits have either a circular leather skirt or a tweed skirt covering featherweight suede knickers that are weather-proof yet washable—a style that is as suitable for skating and voyages as for the links.

For town and travel, a very smart costume of all-suede gazelle is shown in 40 shades. The skirt, either of leather or fine tweed, is made on a low yoke and shows today's longer length. Specially dyed check silk shirts complete the suit.

Leather coats are no longer plain and cumbersome. All the craft for which the Northampton and J. J. Vern tanners are famed has gone to increasing the suppleness of made-up goods. Fine pipings in cording effect and neat patterns worked into the skins mark the best models.

Zipper fastenings are much seen. They are used on jumpers, on skirt hip and coat pockets, cut both horizontally and vertically. Long fleecy-lined, spongeable nappa coats in white and pale shades are being made for sports wear. These can be sprayed in soap and water, and later on dyed a darker shade.

So cleverly treated and highly proofed are some of today's skins, nappa and suede—that one firm invites visitors to throw bottles of ink over their suede models. The ink flows as water off a duck's back, leaving no perceptible mark. Such qualities, however, can be demanded only of the very specially prepared leathers.

A few features in the matching set comprising a man-tailored cross over, waistcoat—equally smart for riding or wear with a "costume tailleur"—and beret, gloves and bag en suite.

Gazelle that is guaranteed against stretching is a novelty. For cleaning it a special two-sided brush, one surface for dust and one for stains, is sold.

Buyers are warned not to use gasoline for cleaning leather. Really greasy marks should be covered with fuller's earth or magnesia for 24 hours. When brushed away the stain should have vanished completely.

By ONA REAGAN PARSONS
"By Way of Cape Horn," by A. J. Villiers. (Henry Holt and Co.)
This is another blow that incoherent Youth is giving the idols of yesterday. We have all heard of the romance of sailing ships; in fact romance has been their chief appeal to islanders. Here comes a young fellow who dares to tell the truth.

We quote his own words:
"Why hadn't someone written about the real sea? I thought, for then I should not have gone! The broken sleep, the cold, the wet, the poor food and wet bunk, the misery of the southeast and endless pitch against unchanging headwinds, the unutterable horror of days of sea-sickness unrelieved by anything save work and an hour of two, now and then, in a sudden squall, who had I never read about these? They were the sea—not romance, and not adventure!"

So he proceeds to write about the real sea—the sea of sailing ships. In extension he reminds us that what is true of sailing ships is not true of steamers and that the sailing ships today are not what they used to be—apparently all that are left on the sea are those which are too good in their own way.

He made his trip around Cape Horn in order to take pictures for a movie of a voyage on a sailing ship around Cape Horn. Apropos of the world's interest in the Antarctic it is a timely book. The film has been released already in Big Spring under the title "The Windjammer." The publishers have the following to say about it.

"The English press has greeted with enthusiasm the newly-released film entitled 'The Windjammer,' which is based upon the eventful voyage in 1920 of the full-rigged ship 'Grace Harwar,' as recounted in A. J. Villiers' book 'By Way of Cape Horn.' Villiers and his friend, Ronald Walker, a few-words photographer from Tasmania, taking all the money they had in the world and borrowing what more they could, were able to purchase in Australia a second-hand moving picture camera and equipment and arrange to ship before the mast on one of the last of the Cape Horners. Their purpose was to film the daily life on board a great square-rigger before these gallant old ships are finally driven forever from the sea."

The Grace Harwar's winter rounding of Cape Horn was, however, more than they had bargained for; Walker was killed in the gale, another member of the crew swept overboard, and the trials of that heroic voyage drove the second mate mad. But Villiers carried on, and took pictures under the most appalling conditions. When the Grace Harwar finally reached England five months out of Australia, her ensign half-masted, her hull covered with long barnacles, and having been compelled to stop steamers to keep her crew from starvation, a London reporter covering marine news sent a dispatch to his paper that her voyage was "uneventful."

It is made of brown and white patterned woolen with a sort of geometrical design as you see in the sketch on the next page. The dress is quite simply tailored with vestee and cuffs of natural-colored kersey wool. And the coat with deep crossed-over beaver collar is just about three-quarter length.

China as well as wallpaper is enlivened by scenic designs.

By MARGERY TAYLOR
Scenic designs now are on the scene again, and flowers are gone with the last rose of summer.

Wallpaper, draperies, even china, now are simply backgrounds for landscape and story pictures. Scenic wallpaper never really has left us altogether, but more of us are appreciating the way in which it seems to make big rooms out of little ones. And in the hall or dining room it prevents the formal furniture groups from appearing too conspicuous.

There is that many-colored paper ground in shades of garnet, blue or amethyst. Other new tones are beige, green, and familiar reds on pale grounds, like delicate blue or pink. In the same spirit are the newest tones bright with scenes from colonial life, including Paul Revere's ride, the gallant shipwrecks and life in New York in the late eighteenth century.

In china, the scenic pattern is the revival of the eighteenth century potter's work, particularly Staffordshire ware. Toile de Jouy draperies have been the ideal in scenic effects for many of us for a long time. New reproductions in linen, cotton, crash, or chintz carry out faithfully the one-color scenes characteristic of the originals designed long ago in miniature groups from appearing too conspicuous.

Jordan Almonds Inspired Vionnet To Her Match Your Stockings To The Weather
In New York they are showing black dresses with contrasting colors at shoulder yokes and black coats. At one fashion show a black dress with a deep yoke and sleeves of white satin appeared with a black coat and a small hat of white suede trimmed in black.

Frenchwomen who always have one black afternoon costume in their wardrobes usually also have a colored tweed suit to wear on a rainy day. Then (faint) is a dark yellowish beige to wear on snowy days, and 'lady' is a warm tone of beige to harmonize with a sunny afternoon.

Little stockings in mesh weaves or plain with colored clocks are shown to wear with bright angora wool socks by the shops that cater to the young football spectators. Often the socks are the same color as jersey scarf and beret.

Corsets Are The Foundation Of New Silhouette

A PROPERLY fitted corset is now regarded as first to last the secret of the greatly prized slender silhouette. Foundation garments are designed to meet the requirements of every type of figure, the models varying from the corset that forms a complete undergarment to a piece of a corset or just a girdle. Steel and bones are used in the fitted corset, although for the less supple, for whom a couple of whitebones are inserted in the back, and sometimes at the waistline in front. Most of the new corsets and girdles are made to fasten at the side, and hooks and eyes have almost entirely replaced laces. The ideal is a most-stitching and has in addition that will supply the necessary support and support especially to the waist and hips, and always the supple, slenderizing contour. The waistline is indicated slightly but definitely, fitting the fluid lines of the present mode in women, and is no longer just some where between the head and the heels.

With the vanished steel bones gone also the stiff materials, and in their place are elastic, satin faille, crepe-de-chine, net and lace. For the figure that requires support and holding, elastic webbing is used for the greater part of the garment, well around the sides, keeping the fine soft and supple with a panel of brocaded satin or silk front and back. Elastic is used equally for one of slim figure, but is lighter in weight and combined with lighter material, and not so used in two, sometimes in three, thicknesses. This is stiffened to a degree that makes it firm yet pliable, and in the more dressy corsets lace is laid over the net. Very little trimming other than a sewing of lace, a motif of needlework or ribbon flowers, applied flat is shown on corsets of any style.

The last word in a garment that serves as several in one is a step that covers the bust, and is cut quite low in the back, with shoulder straps of ribbon extended with several inches of elastic to permit freedom of movement without risk of binding or breaking. A lingerie net is used in the back, with shoulder straps of ribbon extended with several inches of elastic to permit freedom of movement without risk of binding or breaking. A lingerie net is used in the back, with shoulder straps of ribbon extended with several inches of elastic to permit freedom of movement without risk of binding or breaking.

Along with the new corsets, we show two new garments of practical value. One is the wrap-around dress slip of crepe-de-chine, trimmed and overlapped to make the skirt shad-proof. Another is a chemise bandeau of plain crepe-de-chine with its petticoat that can be buttoned on. Christian Beise, Monitor.

Broadway's Most Famous Hat Girl

WORDS
BY GILBERT
SWAN

She knows every celebrity in New York, and has had so many marriage offers that she could make Peggy Joyce look like a one man dog, but she prefers freedom and her checkroom job, where she can see things and hear 'em . . . And what she knows!

The caricatures on this page adorn the walls of Sage's Restaurant in New York. Gard, the cartoonist, sketched Tex Sumner, Jack O'Leary, Clarence Chamberlin, Rudy Vallee, and Fanny Hurst as they passed through the portal guarded by Renee Carroll.

"WHY, you can tell about when they're out of jobs and when they're in the money. You can tell when they've been playing the market and when they've lost and won."

"Take right at this moment. Broadway has been pretty hard hit, and there are hundreds of actors out of work. People that never tipped me less than two bits now leave only dimes. At first they would apologize, but I told them there were a bunch more in the same boat."

"Then, every once in a while, one of the dime-tippers will toss me a dollar and say nothing. I know the answer. They've hit a job and they're in the money again."

"There's something about the way a man wears his hat, too, that betrays him. And, after doing this a couple of years, you get to know the sort of hats that hundreds of people are accustomed to wearing. You don't need to tell me what's happened to them when I look inside the hat and see that they've been to some of the less expensive places."

"Let me tell you some more things about human nature. It's the small fry that tries to ritz you. There's a chorine I've known for years, but she's got a rich papa now and plenty of haberdashery and trick jewelry. The other day she left her coat and looked right through me. Of course I had spoken to her by her first name. But was she going to recognize a mere hat check girl? She was not."

"BUT Jack Dempsey and Richard Dix and Ina Claire and all the big folks call out to me by my first name and stop and chat for a few minutes. You just watch—the biggest producers in New York will come over and jabber—I'll ask them for jobs for some of the workless Eds who come around and ask me to help them. Oh, yes, I get plenty of them. They're mostly small jobs—chorus work and that sort of thing."

"You have to be somewhat of a clearing house in this job. Tourists want to have people pointed out to them. Actors ask you what kind of a mood a certain manager is in, and managers ask you to drop in at a rehearsal and see if you get a laugh out of a certain scene. Reporters ask you to betray state secrets and column writers try to bleed gossip out of you. The gag men try out their latest wazzes to see if you grin. You get the whole darn circus in this stall."

"Yes, and you get in on a lot more. You know whose husband is out with whose wife and what star is rushing what actress. Sometimes, right over these tables, without benefit of moonlight or soft music you see some nice little romances brewing."

"There was Barbara Stanwick, the film player. I was at the sidelines all the time that Frankie Fay, the cut-up, was trying to be taken seriously. Well, they're Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Fay today. Pat Rooney, the third, landed little Doris Dawson right over the bill of fare."

"AND if you keep your eyes open, you'll see some more. Just watch, for instance, Claudette Colbert if she comes in with Norman Foster—he's her husband now. But I could see all the early scenes. And that goes for Miriam Hopkins, who was billed and cooed right here by Austin Parke."

"Oh, yes—before I forget it, let me tell you a good one. You know that Austrian archduke that they pinched for a deal in Russian jewels? Well, I don't know whether he's guilty or innocent, but I did know that he was going to get in trouble. Tell you how—he started coming in here during spring. And he wouldn't leave his hat—just wouldn't check it."

"He'd walk by very high-hat like and into the cafe. The first time it happened I turned to a friend that was standing there and said, 'That bird's got something on his mind. He's headed for a jam.' When they don't leave their hats it's either because they might want to get out in a hurry or they're afraid of the tip. In either case they're going to bump into trouble sooner or later."

From all of which, my hearties, you can see that the headgear-hangar is a grand spot for looking on at the merry-go-round that is called the Manhattan passing show.

every line of his interesting face. Miriam Hopkins, who chanced to be doubling between a Broadway play and a star movie role over on Long Island, rushing away to "get on the lot."

Pretty, plump Sylvia Sydney hurried in and joined a party at a table. Eddie Cantor, one of the Shuberts, and a tired-looking dance director who had been working at rehearsals all morning just a few doors away. Dick Watts and John Cohen, those youthful aristocrats of film criticism. Louis Sobel and Walter Wuchell, rivals for tabloid column fame, and pint-sized Sidney Skolsky slouching from table to table.

Nancy Carroll, so freshly young, and Helen Morgan, just back from Europe, with the fever of a rehearsal season upon her.

So they come and go—the figures of Broadway—while all about them, from the walls, stare down Gard's impish cartoons of the famous ones, centered by that of Mayor Walker just above the door.

And they all greet Renee by her first name, from Texas Gurnan to Al Jolson. She likes it, and you can't blame her. As the rush falls off, the conversa-

By their hats, Renee Carroll can tell more about the Broadway parade than a mind reader. But what she doesn't dare tell!

YOU'VE got to take your hat off to Renee Carroll. All the gay folk, the play folk and even the jay folk know that. Red-haired Renee, bulwarked behind her ivory barricade, is as familiar to Broadway as the Paramount Building, Times Square, Joe L'Blanc's or the flea circus. By which I mean that they're all part and parcel of the Big Street's panorama, part of the thousand-and-one things, amiable and inanimate which, if you browse around flip-puling that store, you can no more miss encountering than you could dodge a ham actor.

To be more specific: Renee is, without doubt, the most famous hat check girl in Manhattan. There may have been a few who became more notorious—but that's something else again. Mawruss!

Renee's "spot" is the four-by-six cubby hole cloakroom of Sardi's, and Sardi's is the lunching rendezvous of the Who's Who, the Who's-Not-Who and the Who's-That-Would-Like-to-Be-Who—the stage folk, the film folk, the Tin Pan Alley song brigade, the producers, the fan magazine barges, the columnists, the critics, the hangers-on and the regulars; the playwrights and the near-playwrights and the playwrights who will never write a play; the honorees trying to get an eye-ful and the tourists feigning out celebrities that no one ever heard of and missing the genuine; the phones and the papers. In a word, the Broadway parade.

Day in and day out they pass in review before Renee. And they all know her by her first name, and she could "spill" a mouthful about their middle names and real names if she cared. Renee's cagey. A smart girl! She doesn't talk out of turn, whatever she sees. And she sees plenty.

"C'mon," she muses, "that's the fifth time in two weeks Mr. Zilch has been in here with that blond baby. And yesterday, the bird who had the table next to them was a private sleuth-hound hired by Zilch's wife. There'll be a large blowup one of these days."

"Hm! And here's Filly Blotz sporting a mess of South African cut glass. Only two weeks ago she had to cuff her lunch check. Who's the new friend?"

So it goes. Within a single day, Renee will chatter with more celebrities than most people see in a whole lifetime. She hears all the latest wisecracks and the gags. She feeds them to the hungry Broadway columnists, who go about fairly panting for a new sliver. And this is the home of gags and wheezy quips that pass in the night.

Only recently one of the Broadway periodicals put her on its staff, for a department she calls "Checking Up on Broadway." National magazines and publishing houses solicit her for documents.

Yet Renee is only a few years graduated from a business job in a 10-cent dance hall—the same one, by the way, which sent forth Marion O'Day, the "Vanity" beauty, to whom, according to Renee's picturesque description, "millionaires are as common as flapjacks in a Child's window."

And what, you ask, does Renee get out of this? Will she be able to retire or grab off one of the easy-money boys who drift in and out? Does she actually get into the big-town swim?

DON'T be silly. That isn't the way of Broadway. You do things of this sort for the lark.

"I hardly ever go stepping around with these people," Renee will tell you, and it happens to be true. "Once or twice last winter I went to a couple of parties tossed by press agents and newspapermen."

"But I either go to a show or I go home. I live with a married sister. And just the other day the cutest baby you ever saw joined the family. It's a big kick to go home and help tend the baby."

"You see, all the theater producers who come in here leave me passes, and so do the movie people. I luzz around to theaters a lot—but not with any of these hot-time Charleys."

"I used to like to go home, particularly in winter, and read. I like to read romances—you know, good old-fashioned sticky romantic stuff."

Now I ask you! Why do you run home to romance when it comes up and bites you all day long?" I inquired.

"Well—that's funny. There is a lot of romance here, after all. You'd be surprised how much—and right over these tables. I see it start and I see it finish. It doesn't all work out happily on Broadway, and it does in the novels. And there's a lot here that's pretty cheap and hard to swallow.

"Take all the four-flushers who make passes at a girl in my spot. The big boys are generally friendly and terribly nice. But there's a whole brigade of bozos who have a notion that all hat-check girls, manicurists and such like are walk-aways. They burn me up."

"Marriage? Listen, big boy, I could start a pawnshop with all the phonies who have asked me to put a mortgage on my freedom. I could have made Peggy Joyce look like a one-man dog. But maybe you don't know that mob. You can have them, and I'll pay the interest. And the number of eggs who have told me they'd just like to see me around the house would look like a movie mob."

"NO—I left Roseland and hostessing because I had the same germ that makes all Broadway a disease. I wanted to be around interesting people. I wanted to see and hear things. Just standing here and keeping my eyes and ears open I get more low-down without half trying than the prying column writers get by sticking noses through the whole town's keyholes."

Some of the celebrities she had talked about began to pour in.

Here was Buddy Rogers, the handsome kid movie player, with a stalwart youth at either side to keep off the rush of girls trying to get a peep at him. Buddy, his forehead heavy with perspiration, drew out his handkerchief to mop his brow. It fell to the sidewalk. Followed a stamper in which a freckle-faced girl of about 16 came out victorious.

Both the junior and woman's records are being computed on flying time basis and not, as is done in the open record, on elapsed time. The Ingalls and Buch elapsed times are considerably more than the flying times since both fliers stayed overnight on the way to Columbus.

not specify Texas products. He said in East Texas profit or loss on the tomato crop usually hinges on whether a market can be had for a few score cars of tomatoes. Canning plants could be obtained if Texas people demonstrated they would buy Texas products, he declared.

"Our chambers of commerce work incessantly to get factories. If we'd resolve to buy only Texas products millions would be invested in factories. I know a large tire company that made a survey with the idea of building a large factory in the state. Every factor measured up 100 per cent, except that it was found Texas would not buy their own manufactured products. Why, in California you have to have a birth certificate showing you are a native before you can get a job. Did you ever hear of canned goods being shipped into California? They've even got a law against sale there of Texas grape fruit. California was sixth in the population this year. We were fifth, but their rate of growth in the past ten years was greater than ours' and they'll pass us if we do not protect our own interests.

Mr. Talbot declared that the farmer is the only fellow who works all year to produce something and then has someone else set the price he is to receive for it. He was speaking of the cotton industry. He said the statement that a surplus existed in the cotton supply annually was not supported by facts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—The statement that communists are using the United States as headquarters for distributing propaganda throughout the Western Hemisphere was made today by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, in offering to send a subcommittee of the house communist investigating committee to Mexico.

Mr. Fish, chairman of the investigating committee, said he had offered to conduct an inquiry in Mexico to determine the extent of communist activity directed against that country from the United States.

Meanwhile, there were indications today the house committee membership was inclined to regard the state department as lax in its examination of aliens entering this country. Some members were reported to feel concerned that the department is permitting entry of some avowed communists.

Representative Fish said he believed there were at least 1,000 avowed communists in this country under permits of six months.

He said many of them were in the employ of Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, and other Russian firms.

He estimated that 70 per cent of the communists are aliens and those sympathetic to communism in this country totaled between 300,000 and 400,000.

Members of the local post of the American Legion are urged to attend a meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Crawford hotel annex. Officers will be elected and dues paid for the ensuing year.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Fargo, N. D.
What are the moral lessons, if any, of the Genesis account of man's fall? To me it seems utterly unscientific and beside the mark that I wonder why a revised Bible is not published which omits this and similar legends.

Nevertheless, the strange account, so typically Eastern, finds an echo in every religion of the world. Take away the draperies that cover it and substitute any others you please. Nevertheless, you cannot abolish the spiritual substance of the Genesis story because it verifies itself again and again in the experience of man and nations. It is not necessary to accept any particular setting of that spiritual substance in order to appreciate its lasting values. As the record goes the woman rebelled against what she believed was Divine law, and the man followed suit. Then came the forbidden fruit in paradise, self-condemnation and useless remorse, the sense of helplessness and helplessness and the fear which conceals guilt involves. What are these but symptoms of all wrongdoing wilfully done? So long as men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil, and an outraged conscience makes coward of us, the Genesis story of the fall of man will be read afresh because it embodies a tragic chapter taken from actual human life.

Allentown, Pa.
How can one combine pleasure with religion?

By avoiding the popular delusions which blight one's soul. The fashion of the hour, the spirit of the age, the idolatry of the multitude, often do violence to life's best impulses and convictions. So seek steadily beyond such phantasms for life's lasting values. You will not be as lonely as some suppose. Tell a real statesman that the narrow of his business is to sit discreetly on the fence and drop off on the popular side, or a genuine artist that he should paint merely to please, and note the replies you will get.

There is no permanent satisfaction for those who attain the higher law of their being. The people are aware of this and your place is with them. Do not confuse the agreeable with the pleasant. Even the sweetest of its aftermath was bitter. Happiness assure us that not a few marriages are as deadly as they are beautiful. Seductive manna begins with bouquets and wind up with blue groans.

Unadulterated pleasure is as rare as it is radiant. Unalloyed desire is a preferred condition for prepared spirits who spurn the physical passions and grovel appetites, and who are the disciples but not the slaves of form and color. They want the earnest, however plain or difficult to get, which contains the treasure. So do not have a need for a spine. Strive for the best you know. Notwithstanding the tribulation of the century that has been in life's drawing room and not in the sewer of existence. When you have found it cultivate it with confidence and joy of a broad scope and in every waking pursuit. Live with what St. Paul calls the above things. They exist in a region of high spirituality. With them comes the freedom which makes a real thing a servant. They save you from the temptation to dispense lack of depth and meaning with the light of superficial decoration. They make serious about in songs and poems in running brooks.

Susannah Wesley answered her son John's inquiry about pleasure and piety as follows: "Whatever impairs the tenderness of your conscience, obscures your sense of God or takes the relish off religious realities, is wrong for you." Do not be deceived by appearances. The upright person is the wise person. Do the right thing if you would retain your own self respect, and inherit the pleasures which are for evermore.

Philadelphia, Pa.
Do you think a boy should be compelled to learn music when he has no taste for it? I say no as his mother, but his father insists on his taking lessons which are a waste of time and money.

I agree with you. But the boy can be told that a proper appreciation of music greatly enriches his life. Considerable people who have no knowledge of the technique of this great art nevertheless rejoice in its ministrations. Avoid forcing that technique upon the boy, since to do so would only deepen his aversion. Increase his interest in music by taking him to popular concerts which render familiar compositions. If that succeeds then take him to the concert of a symphony orchestra. You have one of the best in the world in your own city. A first-class military band often awakens an active response in the otherwise dormant breasts of youth. There is a forceful rhythm in military music which brings every lad within hearing to its summons. Should he fail to yield to the magic of trumpets, flutes and drums, probably his case is beyond your relief, and like the late President Harrison, he must pass through life shorn of the pleasure and the inspiration which keep appreciation of music supplies.

Browning Arms Company Files Suit For Damages

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 15.—The Browning Arms Company of Queen City, inventor of numerous automatic and repeating firearms, both sporting and military, including the Browning machine gun, filed suit in the United States district court in Salt Lake City against Montgomery Ward and company and Sears and Roebuck and company alleging wrongful use of the name "Browning" in advertising and selling automatic and repeating shotguns.

It is claimed that both Sears and Roebuck and company and Montgomery Ward and company are now advertising and selling guns now manufactured by Browning Arms company, but are misrepresenting to the buying public that the guns are a product of the Browning company. The complaint states that the so-called Western Field guns are not made or authorized by the Browning Arms company and that the use of the name "Browning" is calculated to and does represent to the public that such a gun comes from the famous firm in which the name is understood by the general public to whom the Montgomery Ward and Sears and Roebuck guns are sold.

Midland, Seeks Air Line Stop

MIDLAND, Oct. 14.—Midland will have an air mail stop within a short time.

This was the statement made at Big Spring Thursday morning by Vice President Grosvenor of the board of American Air Transport, Inc., A. P. Barrett, president of Southern Air Transport, and Bill P. Halliburton, stockholder in the lines.

These officials declared in speeches and in person to Kenneth E. Andrews, chairman of the chamber of commerce aeronautics committee, H. M. Decherer, field manager of the Midland airport, and the secretary of the Midland chamber, who were taken by Andrews to Big Spring to meet the first air mail plane that week was already being done toward the establishment of feeder lines and mail and passenger stops at all the important cities, such as Midland, not a main stop.

This does not mean that Midland will be a stop on the fast air express, however.

The officials told the chamber that Midland was too important as a passenger point, aside from its mail volume, to be long without a stop. Information obtained indicates it was said that Big Spring was finally selected mainly because the carrier line owned a long time base on the port.

Ruth Nichols, famous woman flyer, boarded the plane, was surprised to have been numerous government officials that Midland was passed up by the night line.

The assurance was positive to the Midland men that the matter of stops at Midland and other towns by an additional fast line was already being worked on.

CLEANLINESS is the Key to Beauty

NIGHT and morning—and during the day, when you wish to freshen your face—you should follow this little program of cleansing:

With a towel or hand, secure the hair firmly away from the face so that hairline and eyes are completely exposed. Squeeze a piece of flannel cotton out of cold water. Moisten with Skin Tonic and dip in Cleansing Cream. Cleanse from the chin upward paying special attention to either side of the nose and around the mouth and chin. Work gently around the eyes. Do not overwash the neck. Remove Cleansing Cream with Cleansing Tissue thoroughly, so as not to streak the skin.

Squeeze a fresh pad of cotton out of cold water, saturate with Skin Tonic and commence patting on the neck. Pat from the center around to the back on their side. Turn from the chin upward to the forehead. Continue for five minutes, going over the same movements. Dry with Cleansing Tissue.
