Uncle Ananias says that shiftlessness expresses itself in a thousand different ways—thinking of his son-in-law Elmer, of course.

The man who thinks before he acts can make one step do the work of five.

Recent war activities have served to illustrate an epochal change in the attitude of some of the major powers toward their interests in foreign countries. The United States is gradually adopting the view that in case of hostilities abroad, we will evacuate the citizens who wish it and those who remain must take their own chances. This marks a far cry from the days when the United States would go to almost any extremity to protect our foreign investments. Various newspaper polls indicate that this new policy is overwhelmingly favored by the bulk of citizens.

"As good citizens, we should insist that the public interest is paramount to the special claims of either employer or employee. We should oppose all attempts to promote the so-called class conflict in American life. The class idea is a foreign importation, and its cultivation here would destroy the very basis of our freedom."—W. C. Mullendore, Director, U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Progress is the one thing against which no one can completely protect himself.

Progress compels adjustment. Kings and Emperors are the victims of progress as surely as laborers. The onward march of science, invention, and free government is as irresistible as the tides.

Most men who are over forty dislike change. We like our jobs, our investments, our neighborhoods, our routine of living. We don't care to alter anything.

But whether we like it or not, we must give up doing "this" and start doing "that." Protesting and scolding will avail nothing. If the world says that we shall ride in airplanes, we must climb aboard. The non-conformist will be more severely penalized in the future than today, because changes will recur oftener and will be more drastic.

The manager of a hotel, in New York City, suggested that his wife pose as a stranger and ask questions of some of the help he employed. So she asked the doorman where a good meal could be obtained in the neighborhood. He politely directed her to a competing restaurant with no mention of the three in the hotel. When called to account for this by the manager (who said nothing about the inquirer being his wife), the doorman said, "But, sir, if you had seen the lady, you would agree that she simply didn't belong here."

H. N. Findley says the story is true. It was another man of the same name but different spelling who thirty years ago advertised in Cleveland, "Mr. Findley eats in his own restaurants." That's a hard one to beat.

HOSPITAL NEWS.

The following patients are reported favorably:

Appendectomy operations; Miss N. Nelson of Wilson, Roy Jean Ehly Slaton, Clifford Brewer Slaton.

Tonsil operations; Baby Wayne of Post, Peggy Abernathy of Slaton, Neane Voight, Wilson; Jean and Jerry Lemmon, Slaton; Miss Nichols, Dallas.

J. W. PHILLIPS CHARGED

J. W. Phillips, of the Robertson School Community, was taken in custody early Sunday morning and lodged in the County Jail at Lubbock, charged with aggravated assault. Bond was placed at three hundred dollars.

Rural Mail Boxes Are Being Ruined

It is almost unthinkable that it would be necessary to call attention to postal regulations fixing a penalty for the injury or destruction of rural mail boxes, for any good citizen with sane mature mind would know better. However some rural boxes on our rural routes are being shot into with rifles and shotguns, battered up from throwing rocks at them, etc. Believing it is youngsters at a very unthoughtful age and whom we would hate very much to see suffer punishment for such unthoughtful acts I wish to quote the following Postal Laws and Regulations:

"Whoever shall wilfully or maliciously injure, tear down, or destroy any letter box or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail on any mail route, or shall break open the same, or shall wilfully or maliciously injure, deface, or destroy any mail deposited therein, or shall wilfully take or steal such mail from or out of such letter box or other receptacle, or shall wilfully aid or assist in any of the aforesaid offenses, shall for every such offense be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than three years."

There is now several hundred dollars being spent by our rural patrons in improved equipment to improve the service and provide safe delivery of their mail. This cooperation is much appreciated by the local office and carriers. The above protection is going to be rigidly enforced when violators are apprehended by patrons or officers.

Actors Can Learn Hardest Dialogue But Stumble at Simple Words, "I Love You"

"I LOVE you." Stars, directors and sound engineers agree that these three little words are the most difficult to say into a movie microphone.

Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, often paired romantically on the screen, as they are again in "Parnell," to show at Saturday's Prevue and Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre, admit that they still find themselves embarrassed in a love scene.

"My throat muscles become constricted when I play a highly emotional scene, if it is sincerely written," said Miss Loy. "This sometimes makes it difficult to say 'I love you' simply and naturally. Clark and I always rehearse our love scenes several times to get over this feeling of tenseness."

John Stahl, director of "Parnell," believes that the greatest love scenes are unspoken.

"Actions do speak louder than words in any dramatic scene," said Stahl. "I have often found the words, 'I love you,' a stumbling block, and prefer to use the camera in love scenes. A word or a gesture can often get the idea over better than the hackneyed phrase."

Douglas Shearer, M-G-M recording engineer, who has listened to the love scenes of all the outstanding stars, selects Greta Garbo as putting the most sincerity and depth of expression into "I love you."

Ninth Street Accident Injures Slaton Woman

Mrs. D. S. Richardson, Sr., suffered painful injuries Saturday night when struck by an automobile at the intersection of Ninth and Scurry St. Calvin Klaus, of Southland was the driver of the car.

Mrs. Richardson was taken to Mercy Hospital where an examination showed both bones broken in two places on the right leg, and an external wound at sight of lower fracture, and laceration of right side of scalp. The hospital reports an improved condition as we go to press.

BAND MOTHERS MET MONDAY

The Band Mother's Club answered a call meeting at the home of Mrs. K. L. Scudder Monday afternoon. Plans were perfected for a Rummage Sale to be held Saturday, and for a Holland Magazine subscription drive.

SIGNALS OR SACRIFICES

City Officials are surely cognizant of the crying need for traffic control on NINTH St., which is a through artery for State travel. Too long have automobiles, local and transient, moved at a rate unsafe for local citizens. Heavily loaded trucks speed down this highway, at times with express train speed. Surely Slaton, with this Avenue of thru traffic, can afford traffic signals if Brownfield, Lamesa, Tahoka and Post can erect them even where the danger is not near as great.

More accidents have probably occurred on this avenue than on all the other s in town combined.

With the increased speed of the new cars and trucks, this highway could easily be dubbed as "ACCIDENT AVENUE." The question of traffic signals have been discussed in the future, but discussing is as far as the thing ever got.

Slaton needs action from some source if safety is to be promoted in our city. If we are big enough to have traffic regulations, we should be big enough to enforce them.

Kittens Lose To Floydada Team

The "Whirling Whirlwinds," Floydada's first team, proved too much for the Slaton Second team Friday night when they took the contest on the local gridiron, 14 to 6.

Two touchdowns by the air-route when the game was young proved the necessary tallies, as the Kittens were unable to match the points. Slaton's lone touch-down came in the 1st half, and the some good gains were recorded in the last half, Floydada's goal was never really threatened. The Kittens fumbled frequently, spoiling some apparently good chances to gain. The girls Pep Squad, with their batons, executed a smart and catchy drill between the halves.

Tigers to Meet Westerners

The "Tigers" meet Lubbock Friday night (tonight) at Lubbock, tangling with the Class A "Westerners." The Tigers, tho a Class B team, is not regarded as a "set-up" by the team that rolled over Cisco last week with a lop-sided score. Many Slatonites will accompany the team for the game.

BOARD of CITY DEVELOPMENT and CHAMBER of COMMERCE NEWS

A. J. PAYNE, SECRETARY

A meeting of the Directors and Officers of the T.P.P.P.A. was called at the B.C.D. office last Monday afternoon for the purpose of going ahead with the T.P.P.P.A. Show or to let it go without a show next January. A.I. on account of finances it was decided to not have the show, but to have or try to have a Community Show some time earlier than January if at all possible, and the Secretary was asked to send out notices to all farmers, or rather to some farmers and poultry fanciers of each community to come to a meeting next Monday night at the B.C.D. office at 7:30, there to lay plans and talk about a community show. There has not been the interest manifested by the poultry fanciers in our T.P.P.P.A. show, among our farmer friends, and the reason has been given, that they could not compare with the world in showing of their birds, and this is partly true, so this will be eliminated by having a community show, where the competition will be among our home folks, and we hope to make this an even better show than we have been having with a world-wide show, and we can have if everybody will help make it a go. The premiums will be less, the entry's will be less, therefore the expense will be less. After next Monday night's meeting, we will be able to know what to do, and if the coming show is to be earlier than January, we will have to get busy earlier. This will be decided at the meeting. We appreciate the help that has been given by the Merchants in the past to hold the show, and hope they will continue to help and get behind this community show, which to our opinion will be far greater help to them in the way of business than the other show, it will keep money here at home that has been paid out to far away exhibitors.

Invitations will be sent out to a few representative farmers of each community surrounding Slaton, and they will be asked to tell others and bring any one with them to the coming meeting Monday night 27th. Our new Agricultural Teacher, Mr. Strickland will help us in the show, by adding to the show some other exhibits that he will mention at this coming meeting. So every body come that can, we want you.

President C. F. Anderson, Postmaster K. L. Scudder and your Secretary went to Lubbock last Thursday to meet with Congressman Geo. H. Mahon and to talk Federal Building with him. We were graciously received, and he desires to do any and every thing he can to our interest for a Federal Building, but he said he just had to go according to Postal receipts, and to get a Federal Building within the next three years, we are going to have to outstrip Littlefield before we can hope to get ahead of her for a Federal Building.

Next regular meeting of the Directors of the B.C.D. and C. of C. will be next Tuesday night, Sept. 28th.

Cotton Farmers Receive 9c Per Hour For Work

(Special to the Slatonite)
AUSTIN, Sept. 23—Texas Cotton farmers this year will receive nine cents an hour for their work.

That statement was made today by J. E. McDonald, State Commissioner of Agriculture, in discussing plans for a trip to Montgomery, Alabama, for a conference with Governor Bibb Graves and Agricultural Officials of that State on the Domestic Allotment Plan.

It takes an average of 250 man hours to produce and harvest a bale of cotton, and it is a fact that the price per pound a farmer receives for his cotton equals the price per hour he receives for his work, the Commissioner stated.

"It is a travesty on the intelligence of the American people to allow a bale of our cotton to be sold for domestic consumption at less than 20 cents per pound," McDonald declared.

The average price of cotton for the past 10 years, 1921 to 1936 inclusive, is 20.31, or $101.55 per bale, in terms of a 100-cent dollar, it was pointed out.

At present, however, the price is nine cents, of $45 per bale, on the basis of a 55-cent dollar.

"I am grieved," Mr. McDonald said, "to think of our farmers and share croppers having to produce cotton at this ridiculously low price." At nine cents per pound, it was estimated, the share cropper who furnishes only labor gets about $22.50 for his bale of cotton.

In other words, the average tenant farmer, raising ten bales of cotton, has an income of $250.00 to show for this year's work.

"A fair cotton price could be attained and maintained," Commissioner McDonald asserted, "through adoption and wise administration of the Domestic Allotment Plan."

"Government curtailment of cotton will bring disaster to American agriculture through unemployment and loss of foreign markets."

"The Domestic Allotment Plan, on the other hand, would stimulate production of agricultural goods for sale abroad, thus providing employment for a great army of farm laborers," McDonald declared.

Following the Alabama Conference McDonald will drive to Iowa Park, Texas, where he has accepted an invitation to attend the Wichita County Fair Saturday the 25th. A Conference Sunday the 26th with Congressman Marvin Jones, Chairman of the House Agricultural Committee will round out a busy week for Texas' Commissioner of Agriculture.

Mrs. McClanahan Dies In San Angelo Hospital

Mrs. T. Everett McClanahan, 38, was taken in death at a hospital in San Angelo at 8 o'clock, September 11. Mr. McClanahan is a city letter carrier here, having transferred from South Gifford, Mo. last March. Due to ill health Mrs. McClanahan did not enjoy acquaintance with many Slaton people, however all who knew her feel the loss of a very fine character. She had been in a hospital at San Angelo for several weeks. Mr. McClanahan received word at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon that her condition was worse and arrived there about two hours before her death.

K. L. Scudder, city letter carrier T. H. Walters and rural carrier W. J. Klattenhoff drove to San Angelo when news was received of Mrs. McClanahan's death, and were there with Mr. McClanahan until they departed by train for Missouri where she was to be buried. The patrons of Mr. McClanahan's route, as well as other friends extend their sympathy to him in his sorrow and great loss.

SACRAMENT OF CONFIRMATION TO BE ADMINISTERED HERE

Most Reverend Robert Emmet Lacey, Bishop of Amarillo, will be at St. Joseph's Parish Wednesday the 24th of September, to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to a class of about a hundred children and adults. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 a.m.

The public is invited.

I wish to announce to my friends and customers that I have made a change to the Imperial Barber Shop. Dave Houston.

Big Circus To Be Feature Of Lubbock Fair For Two Days

LUBBOCK, Sept. 23—Circus-lovers of this section will welcome the announcement that Russell Bros. Big 3-Ring Circus and Menagerie will exhibit at the Panhandle South Plains Fair at Lubbock for two days—Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 27 and 28.

Russell Bros. is a large up-to-date circus which combines all the cherished traditions of the big top with the latest modern trends. Daring acrobats, lovely lady aerialists and riders, capering clowns and all manner of animal performers, together with sensational novelties, are presented in a tempo and musical setting of the present day. The Five Fearless Flyers, internationally famous aerialists; the Rebras, sensational French loop-the-loop perch act; trained sea-lion presentation featuring the inimitable Buddy; Miss Aerialita, darling of the high trapeze, and her beautiful aerial ballet; Irene Ledgett's performing elephants; Frank B. Miller's renowned dancing horses—these are just a few of the many features of the eventful two-hour program.

A menagerie crowded with animals from many lands is offered at no added charge, and there is an exciting thrill-filled wild-west exhibition and a museum of strange people to make Circus Day complete. Two performances are to be given each day, afternoon and night.

Household Questions

Cleaning Brass.—Never use vinegar to clean brass. Though it cleans at first, it soon causes tarnish. The proper materials for cleaning brass are oil and rottenstone.

Removing Tobacco Stains.—Tobacco stains may be removed from washable materials by moistening with lemon juice and bleaching in the sun.

When Preserving.—Don't pack jars too tightly when preserving fruits and vegetables. Leave a space of at least half an inch at the top for liquid.

Preparing Parsley.—Parsley washed with hot water keeps its flavor better and is easier to chop.

Treating Dry Glue.—Vinegar added to dry glue will make the glue fit for use again.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

Few husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up earlier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Striking Wools for Town, Campus

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SMART clothes are alive with fabric interest this fall. The wools that tailor to town and campus needs are especially intriguing and seeing that the first requisite of a perfect autumn wardrobe is a tailored outfit that will prove "first aid" no matter what apparel emergency may arise, here's telling you about the fascinating weaves that lead in fashion this season.

Tweeds especially have a lot of texture interest. They are nubbed and flecked in decorative weavings that capture your fancy at first sight. When you go tweed shopping, and of course you will if you are assembling a school-faring clothes collection, ask to see some of the new-this-season candewick tweed, the latest herringbone weaves, smart diagonals, the houndstooth, tattersall, rosey plaid and sugarleaf patternings, and you will feel, having seen these, that you have had a liberal education on the subject of tweeds at the very start.

The next thing is to decide on which tweed is the tweed you want most. To help you out we are suggesting a nubby beige tweed flecked with white such as makes the smart three-piece costume as shown to the left in the picture. Here is an outfit that is ideal for fall wear on campus or in town. It pretty near comes to being a whole wardrobe in itself. A suit that has a topcoat as has this is an economical buy no matter what it costs, for it takes care of the problem of an early fall coat since it can be worn as a separate wrap. Note its button-back revers, also the unpressed pleats running down from the slash pocket lines. The matching suit has a chic high lapel collar, triangular pockets and narrow leather belt. The skirt is cut straight and slim as a fashionable daytime skirt must be this season.

And we are not through talking about tweeds for we just must mention the especially lovely "winter pastels" that belong to the tweed family. More than likely you won't be able to resist them because of the fine shetland and other fine yarns used in the spinning. You can get novelty open weaves if you wish.

Very youthful and attractive for campus wear is the two-piece frock of sheer rabbit woolen centered in the group. The pleated-all-around skirt bespeaks "last word" vogue. You really must have a pleated wool skirt if you are going away to school to wear with your sweater, with your suede jacket, and with blouses galore. The wide shoulder line, high lapel collar and front-buttoned jacket closing are nice points but we've saved the nicest point to the last—those cunning little bows on the pockets! Now there's an idea that's going to send you right to the head of the class. Made of the very self-same material as the suit itself these bows add infinitely to the chic of this most attractive outfit and make it outstanding.

A luxurious natural wolf tuxedo collar runs the length of the topcoat of this stunning three-piece costume shown to the right. The tout ensemble is made of novelty woolen with a diagonal rib weave in deep brown flecked with beige. This outfit is entirely in line with the vogue this season that calls for lavishment of fur on suits and coats. The tuxedo effects are especially good this season. Handsome furs will be used unsparingly with care taken in achieving color blends that unify the costume.

Citing other fashionable wool weaves, there are the new coating fabrics that have long hair interspersed and tightly embedded in the texture, their sheen contrasting against the soft surface of the fabric. Tightly twisted boucle nubs are also decorative and colorful. Persian lamb cloth is a new fabric this season. For children's coats, a new chinchilla fabric in soft colors is important. Fleeces, both woven and knitted, are in demand. Suedes, velours and duvetynes are outstanding for dressy wear. For formal type costumes broadcloth is a leader.

DRAPE AND SHIRR
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A perfect afternoon frock for the young girl is this style in spongy texture lightweight wool. The draped button-over neckline and the shirring at the bodice are very new and attractive. A narrow gold-colored belt accents the fitted waistline. The skirt is softly flared.

Double-Duty Capes

Enter the double-duty shoulder cape, which may be looped up over the wearer's head and used as a hood.

DAYTIME SKIRTS TO BE SHORT AND SLIM

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Short, slim and pencil-like is the dictum for daytime skirts. The accepted length for the suit skirt is from twelve to fifteen inches from the ground. Depends on how conservative you may be. Of a necessity these narrow skirts often have slashed hemlines. Daytime dresses hover about twelve to fourteen inches from floor.

For evening dresses the newest thing is the short-in-front hemline. In fact uneven hemlines are a most important styling detail. A few designers continue to favor the short full ballerina skirts for dance frocks. There are dinner gowns galore that are ankle length and sheathlike, for the most part in sleek black, many of which are enlivened with glittering touches.

The majority have high necklines with fluttering short sleeves. However, in the practical daytime dresses long sleeves perfectly fitted, also bracelet sleeve lengths are featured.

Slide Fasteners Used

The Schiaparelli type of housecoat developed in flannel and fastening at the front with a patent slide fastener is popular.

Flaring Youth

For college girls and the very young, important collections include gored, flaring skirts and some which are pleated all around.

Too Much Water in Tissues

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

SOMETIMES you see an overweight man or woman, who, instead of having a red or rosy complexion, looks unusually pale, in fact, "pasty" describes their appearance accurately. They are suspected of having heart and kidney trouble, as this pale, podgy appearance is often present in chronic inflammation of the kidneys. However, when the finger is pressed into the flesh, the flesh does not "pit," and this overweight and pasty appearance is simply due to too much water being allowed to remain in the body tissues.

Now this condition is believed to be due to some disturbance in the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull. This little gland seems to regulate to a considerable extent both the water and the starch consumption by the body tissues. Unlike the ordinary or usual overweight cases where the excess weight is due to overeating, these pasty podgy individuals are really not large eaters; in fact they are small eaters. Thus many have been known to retain their weight on 700 calories a day, which would be about one-third the amount of food eaten by the average individual of the same weight and height.

Dr. Barton

"The patients are usually young (twelve to twenty years of age). The output of urine from the kidneys is much below normal, being about one pint a day, whereas the normal output should be more than twice that amount. Such are the characteristics of the 'water retainers' as these individuals are called."

Method of Treatment.

You can thus see that the accumulation of water is a big factor in weight production.

Naturally if the pituitary gland is at fault in these cases it would be thought advisable to give by mouth or injection some extract of pituitary gland.

In outlining the treatment for these "water retainers," Dr. A. H. Douthwaite in the British Medical Journal says:

"Treatment consists of (1) cutting down the fluid intake to about 1 1/2 pints a day; (2) limiting or cutting down on salt by avoiding salt entirely, both at the table and in the cooking; (3) giving a diet of low caloric (fuel or food) value as follows:

- Six large bananas
- 1 1/4 pints of skimmed milk
- 1/4 of medium sized cabbage or lettuce.

"Divide the above into three or four meals. Loss of weight will be about one-half pound daily. After two to three weeks substitute for two bananas two eggs and a little butter and green vegetables. Fish and lean meat a week later.

"(4) The use of small doses of calomel (mercury) beginning with very small doses (one-tenth to one-quarter grain), and gradually increasing it if there is no reaction or symptoms due to the mercury, or if there is not too much purging.

"The above complete treatment may be repeated four times a year if necessary."

Now this looks very simple but in this type of overweight—water retention—as in all types of overweight the reduction of food is bound to affect the whole body, and notwithstanding the benefit to the working processes of the body by the loss of this water weight, the heart may be affected and must always be watched carefully.

Women Fight Cancer.

Because millions of dollars are being spent and hundreds of research physicians are working night and day to try to discover the cause of cancer, many may have the idea that until that cause is found nothing can be done to save the lives of those afflicted with cancer. Yet every day men and women are attending clinics where by the use of the X-ray, radium, and the knife many are saved.

What should prove a powerful force in spreading the idea that cancer is curable is what will be known as "The Women's Field Army," sponsored by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Without guns, without uniforms, without poison gas, a war is being launched. It is a war of education, against one of the greatest menaces of life: cancer. The first drive against cancer is indeed a war to save human life. The soldiers are the women of America and the enemy is cancer.

The leaders of the organization feel that an educational drive, carried on over a period of years, can save perhaps 40 per cent of the 140,000 who die each year. This Women's Field Army will work through the medical societies of the states or provinces.

Vying for Your Favor

ONE, two, three smart frocks on the line ready to go—shopping, kitchenwards, to the office downtown. And as every woman knows, a well stocked wardrobe needs all three.

From Now On.

Says the jaunty model to the left, "I can tell I'm gonna feel well dressed in this little peplum frock: ready for sports, a matinee or dinner in town, and the confident high spirits my new lines give make me sure that I will be wanted at all three.

"I made my version of sheer wool with a subdued herringbone weave. It will be my number one attire for a long spell ahead."

One Who Knows.

Miss Keep-the-Home-Beautiful, in the center, expresses herself: "Even when I do housework I like to look and feel fit.

"When I dash out to the store or go across lots to the neighbor's to borrow an egg, I don't bother to change my dress because I have the feeling I'm doing all right as I am. I wouldn't think of a new season coming on without running up a generous supply of crisp, fresh dresses for myself. They seem to get one right, you know, and give you the spirit to pitch into any day's work like a champion."

The Last Word.

Miss Third Party goes in for that new kind of glamour in the simple model at the right. Says she: "I feel that Fall is really the season to step out and hob-nob with Fashion and the Joneses. This frock, which is my weakness in plum-colored wool, was as easy to make as it is to wear.

"Later on I'm going to have a velvet version with short sleeves—these slim lines and elegant shoulders were just made for this queen of all fabrics—and evidently I go for things royal."

The Patterns.

Pattern 1348 is designed in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards for contrast.

Pattern 1304 is designed for sizes 34 to 40. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material, plus 1/2 yard contrasting.

Pattern 1374 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 2 3/4 yards of 54-inch material. With short sleeves, size 16 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1/2 yard for collar in contrast. To trim the collar requires 4 1/2 yards of braid.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNER-SHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912, AND MARCH 3, 1933

Of The Slaton Slatonite published weekly at Slaton, Texas for September 17, 1937. State of Texas County of Lubbock.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared W. D. Donald, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor of the Slaton Slatonite and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended by the Act of March 3, 1933, embodied in section 537, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher Mrs. Bessie M. Donald Slaton, Texas, Editor W. D. Donald Slaton, Texas.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, Co., or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.)

Donald and Donald Publishing Co. Slaton, Texas, Mrs. Bessie M. Donald, W. D. Donald.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.)

Nunn-Rhoderick Publishing Co. Amarillo, Texas

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in case where the stockholder or security holders appear upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 14th day of September 1937 Charles E. Marriott (My commission expires June 1939.)

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon experience is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

A great army of cotton pickers are coming North. Many are already here, and many more are coming.

Mexican laborers mostly from the Rio Grande Valley, who should within the next few days put the gins to humming.

This territory's cotton crop this year is good, and with the Government loan stabilizing the price, thousands of dollars will be in the hands of the farmer. Let us hope that cotton money this year will be spent wisely, and at home. Money spent here helps your town and your community, and when these are in a healthy condition your living standards rise.

This is your town, your home and your community. Your part in the advancement of it is just as important as any one else's. Let's build it bigger, better and more livable and dividends will be paid in contentment.

As baseball nears the end of its season, football makes its debut. Thousands and thousands of fans this Fall will watch mighty elevens struggle. The tang of a frosty October day, a stadium packed with over-coated fans, a determined, fighting team of athletes battling desperately for the "Old School" totes a thrill that Americans can not quite get from any other sport.

aport. Football is King.

The League of Nations, in session at Geneva, is called upon by a League member to invoke one of its many pledges to protect that member from an aggressive nation, a nation that is not a member.

Japan, since 1935 has been annexing Chinese territory. And today is moving vast forces into further conquered territory. The League is now faced with the very thing for which it was formed to prevent, the annexation of a member's territory by an aggressive nation.

The future significance of the League, and its world prestige hinges upon its action in this crisis. If Japan is allowed to absorb the great but helpless Chinese nation, not only will the League fail in a functionary phase, but that nation or any nation could present a serious menace to the future of the white race.

Senator Black's confirmation to the Supreme Court still is front page news in many papers. The appointment is history now, and good or bad, it seems nothing can be done about it.

Senators and Representatives that are still tearing their hair over the action would do well to turn their thoughts toward other national and international issues that are calling for clear-headed guidance.

Some of us probably do not read the Bible often enough, many probably do not read it often enough to know these pertinent facts.

The 66 books or sub-divisions comprising the old and new testament contain, 1189 chapters, 31,093 verses, 773,092 words and 3,586,489 letters.

The shortest verse in the Bible is the 35th, of the 11th chapter of St. John. The longest verse is the 9th in the 8th chapter of St. John. The middle verse in the Bible is the 8th in the 118th chapter of Psalms.

The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter "J".

Every verse of the 136th Psalm has the same ending.

The word "Lord" occurs in the old and new testament 7736 times.

The word "God", 4370 times.

The word boy or boys, 3 times.

The word girl or girls, 2 times.

And the word "God," is not mentioned in the book of Esther or the Song of Solomon.

One-in-a-whilers could file these facts away, worth remembering surely, and could save you many tedious hours if you had to find them out for yourself, which you probably would never do.

An act of suicide in California the other day exemplifies the freakish methods employed sometimes to end a career. The man, reported to have been in failing health for many months, purchased a ride in an airplane. When at an altitude of about one thousand feet he jumped from the ship, his body hurled thru space at high speed, struck the roof of a California home. The impact carried it thru to the floor of a room below. A shocking experience no doubt to the woman who live there-in, when hearing the crash she rushed into the room to find the mangled body. Weird drama, from out of a clear sky. No one will ever know the thoughts of that "Death-Bound" man as he dropped those hundreds of feet. Self destruction surely, but would he have recalled that act if possible? Did he, for one fleeting moment, not wish for the chance to live again that he might dedicate the time allotted him to some useful mission in service to God and Man? O' Grave Where Is Thy Victory?

FLEET STALKS 'PIRATES'

Britain, France Will Patrol Mediterranean for 'Subs' . . . Japs Advance as Chinese Start Tactical Retreat

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Showdown on 'Sub' Piracy

GREAT BRITAIN and France were massing the greatest destroyer fleet ever operated in the Mediterranean sea, to police it and safeguard neutral shipping from attacks by "pirate" submarines, as a result of the agreement signed by nine powers at Nyon, near Geneva.

M. Litvinoff

Italy and Germany had refused to attend the conference when Russia publicly accused Italy of operating the "pirate" submarines which sank two Russian ships, and threatened reprisals if Italy did not pay indemnity.

The principal provisions of the agreement, which Germany and Italy were invited to join, were:

- 1. Mediterranean shipping will be restricted to the regular ship lanes, which will be patrolled by French and British warships, in both the eastern and western stretches. If Italy agreed, she was to be allowed to patrol the Tyrrhenian sea. 2. Patrolling the navy will attack and attempt to destroy any submarine which attacks merchant ships other than Spanish, without first giving passengers and crew opportunity to leave in lifeboats, as outlined in the 1936 London naval treaty.

- 3. Signatories expressly declare that they do not concede belligerent rights to either party in Spain. 4. Patrol ships arriving on the scene of an attack too late to prevent it will be authorized to attack any submarine in the vicinity, provided they are satisfied it is the guilty one. 5. These measures will be executed by the British and French fleets anywhere in the Mediterranean with the exception of the Adriatic. Eastern powers will protect neutral shipping in their territorial waters. 6. Signatories agree not to let any of their own submarines put to sea in the Mediterranean unless accompanied by a surface vessel, except in certain "exercise" zones. 7. Signatories will not permit foreign submarines in their waters unless in urgent distress or on the surface and accompanied.

It was plain that delegates knew that explosions might occur in half a dozen European capitals if their pact did not get into operation before there were any further attacks on shipping. They were embarrassed in conference by the Russian foreign commissar, Maxim Litvinoff, who insisted on naming Italy as the "pirate." Russia at first refused to sign, on the grounds that the second provision was no protection at all, merely requiring submarine commanders to be "gentlemanly" before sinking ships, and that it implied recognition of both Spanish parties as belligerents. Britain's Anthony Eden was reported to have convinced the signatory powers that it would be impossible for a submarine to sink a ship under those conditions.

China's German Strategy

JAPAN'S long-awaited "big push" in China was believed definitely "on" as the Japanese assumed virtual control of North Hopei, and made important thrusts into the Chinese lines at Shanghai, after the most terrible fighting of a month of undeclared warfare.

At about the same time, the Chinese, heeding at last the advice of German officers generally conceded the "brains" of the central army, began a strategic retreat to the "third area of defense" mapped out by these same officers after the Shanghai conflict of 1932, which was conducted under identical conditions.

Included in the Japanese drive to break the 20-mile Chinese line from the Woosung forts to Lihou were more bombings and shellings of the heavily populated Chinese districts of Nantao, Chapei and Lunghua, with women and children accounting for most of the enormous casualty list.

The Japanese conquest of North Hopei appeared to have been clinched with smashing victories at Machang and Tsingsien. Tsingsien is 40 miles south of Tientsin and only 16 miles from Tsangchow, where the principal Chinese defenses of the area are located. From Tsangchow to Paoching there exists a strong, unbroken Chinese line which includes the finest Chinese war equipment and the country's heaviest artillery.

Apparently the Chinese plan of retreat was to withdraw defending troops from the range of Japanese naval guns in the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers. The Chinese were reluctant to leave positions which they claimed had been held against the Japanese invasion, but the German advisers finally won them over to the theory that these positions had been held at a cost far out of proportion to their importance.

HANDS ACROSS EUROPE

Jointly refusing to attend the anti-"piracy" conference, Hitler (left) and Mussolini once more show the complete accord of the two Fascist governments.

Japan has depended largely upon the naval guns for most of her artillery shelling and, attacking farther back from the river, will lose that advantage. The presence of Japanese warships was an important factor in the heavy Chinese casualty list, which totaled 20,000 killed and 30,000 wounded. The invaders lost 10,000 men killed and an unestimated number wounded.

The first strategic stage of the Chinese fighting in Shanghai—as planned by the German officers—was to slow down and harass the landing of Japanese reinforcements; the second, to divide the Japanese lines, and the third, to deprive the Japanese of the use of their naval guns.

Realizing what is going on, the Japanese command has ordered rapid advance no matter what the cost, in an effort to change an orderly retreat into a complete rout. As a result, the Japanese for the time being are the heavy losers in men, rather than the Chinese. The latter have been covering their maneuver well, leaving land mines in their wake which have blown whole Japanese units to bits, and continuing to throw a curtain of artillery fire in front of the invaders. The city of Shanghai is a mass of fires and ruin such as no one has ever seen there before.

$300,000,000 in New Money

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU has agreed to issue $300,000,000 in cash against an equal amount of the treasury's "sterilized" gold. The move was believed to have been made because of recent weakness in the market for government bonds and a 16 per cent decline in the stock market over a period of about four weeks.

Secretary Morgenthau

In addition, the open market committee of the federal reserve board announced that it had authorized the twelve federal reserve banks to buy additional amounts of short term government securities.

In some quarters, the treasury's move was interpreted as an about face by the administration, reversing its year-old policy of trying to prevent an untimely inflation.

'Keep Us Out of War'

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, anxious over conditions in Europe and the Far East, cut his vacation short and returned to Washington to discuss developments with his cabinet. After discussing the situation with Norman H. Davis, his European ambassador-at-large, and Bernard M. Baruch, and getting reports from the State department, he was said to be convinced that there was a real possibility of implication of the United States in a foreign war. Baruch called Europe a tinder box, ready to explode at any time.

In an address before an outdoor meeting of Dutchess county (N. Y.) citizens President Roosevelt had said, "World conditions are pretty serious. I am glad to say . . . that we are going to do everything we can in the United States—not only the people of the United States but the government of the United States—to keep us out of war." He added that "it will take a lot of planning to keep us out of war."

16,098,000-Bale Cotton Crop

THE fifth largest cotton yield in the nation's history was forecast by the Department of Agriculture, which estimated a 1937 crop of 16,098,000 bales. The cotton crop September 1 was 75 per cent of normal, indicating an average yield per acre of 228.5 pounds.

Yanks in Far East 'Kick'

AMERICANS in Shanghai, constantly in danger of their lives, cabled Washington, demanding the protection of United States ships. The American Chamber of Commerce in the war-torn city asked Secretary of State Hull for immediate clarification of the State department's stand. Some of them were bitter toward President Roosevelt, who, from his yacht, had told newspaper men that Americans in the war zone would remain there at their own risk. No deadline for evacuation had yet been set, and when rumors spread that the United States flagship Augusta was making ready to leave Yangtze waters, panic spread among the Yanks in Shanghai.

Many business men, with lifetime savings invested there vigorously urged the President to adopt "a foreign policy with a strong front and keep the American flag waving." One veteran Yank resident circulated a petition demanding that the President "get off his yacht, get on his feet and get some guts above them."

American missionaries and business men protested that the United States position in the Far East was largely the result of their life's work, and insisted on a more steadfast attitude to keep the American stake in China. The State department replied that there was a broad distinction between getting out of the line of fire and relinquishing privileges established over the years. Vice consuls in many Chinese ports were ordered to leave their posts.

Headache for the League

AT GENEVA, the Chinese delegation framed an appeal against Japanese invasion, to be presented to the League of Nations. The appeal, which urged peace-loving members and non-members to join in action against the "aggression," invoked Article 17 of the League covenant, which would invite Japan to sit in on the council of reply. If the accused nation refuses the invitation sanctions may be applied against it. Japan has definitely indicated she intends to reject any such invitation.

The Chinese statement charged that since mid-August Japan has thrown 60,000 troops into the Woosung-Shanghai area.

"The intention of Japan . . . cannot otherwise be interpreted than to dominate Shanghai . . . and to attack Nanking, the capital," the statement said. It also declared that the Japanese blockade of the entire Chinese coast was illegal.

Hitler: 'Stand by Japan'

A DOLF HITLER, in a manifesto to the German nation, offered to stand by both Italy and Japan in a "defensive fight against bolshevism." He charged that the "two major wars" now going on (the Sino-Japanese and the Spanish civil wars) were the result of "attempts to spread communism."

The Reichsfuehrer's speech was read to the Nazi party congress in Nuremberg while he sat on the platform. It could not have been better timed in view of the current friction between Italy and Soviet Russia over submarine piracy in the Mediterranean.

Germany and Italy's "community of interests" have emerged in recent months, he said, "more and more an element in the defense of Europe against chaotic imbecility."

His manifesto continued: "Our (anti-communist) agreement with Japan serves the same fundamental mission—to stand together in defense of world civilization."

Nazis Too Busy to Fight

A DOLF HITLER, German dictator, struck what might have been a cheerful note, in conference with foreign government representatives at the Nazi rally in Nuremberg, when he declared that Germany is too busy to become involved in any war. He said that the plans which he and other Nazi leaders have for the country would take from 20 to 40 years to complete, and that war might be disastrous to them.

The Reichsfuehrer reiterated his belief that Germany's colonies must be returned to her, to furnish a market for her goods. He implied that Great Britain need have no fear of the Nazis maintaining naval bases in colonies, for the expense of that would offset the economic advantage created by them.

McGrady Quits Labor Post

EDWARD F. McGRADY, assistant secretary of labor, and chief strike trouble shooter of Mme. Frances Perkins' department, resigned to devote his talents to radio. He left his $9,000-a-year job to take the post of executive vice president in charge of industrial relations with the Radio Corporation of America, at a salary variously estimated at from $15,000 to $50,000.

In a letter to McGrady, President Roosevelt expressed "deep regret," and added, "Your efforts to maintain harmonious labor relations have always been in the public interest and in fairness to workers and management."

McGrady had been one of the federal mediators who failed to achieve a settlement of the C. I. O. strike against "Little Steel." In his new position, his services will be available to the government upon call, it was reported.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—Frank R. McNinch, the new chairman of the power commission, is apparently trying to frighten the electric industry into reducing rates. Which is rather curious, for if the electric industry should reduce its rates sharply, as a result of McNinch's warning, the almost inevitable result would be that there would be weakening of public support for the Norris seven TVA's bill which is supposed to be passed at the next session of congress. And such a culmination would be most unsatisfactory not only to Senator George W. Norris, who has come to approve of McNinch, but to President Roosevelt, who appointed him.

After pointing to the record-breaking figures for sales of electricity in the first seven months of 1937, McNinch remarked:

"This revelation of unparalleled growth and prosperity is the answer to those devotees of that ancient superstition of hydromancy who gazed at the water of a few hydro plants the government was building and predicted the destruction of the private power industry."

"It is both interesting and significant," Mr. McNinch said later, "to note that, as electric rates have gone down, production and consumption have gone up. It has been and is a short-sighted policy to keep electric rates 'as high as the tariff will bear.' Such false economy holds down the 'traffic' and hurts the power industry as well as the public. It has now been demonstrated beyond all cavil that the public wants and needs more and more power in industry, in commerce, in the home and on the farm. Only those who see through a glass darkly now fail to understand that the interests and prosperity of the power companies and of the consumers alike look in the direction of electrifying America."

With all of which, incidentally, the utility executives agree, though, unfortunately for their own good, too few of them probably will heed the warning about high rates soon enough.

Worth Watching

Incidentally, McNinch is an interesting figure in politics—well worth watching. He was an up and coming cog in the Furnifold Simmons machine in North Carolina, years ago. Then he angered the boss, and Simmons retired him to outer darkness. For years he found every road leading to anything politically barred by the relentless Simmons.

But then came 1928, and the nomination of Al Smith by the Democrats. Simmons sulked. Hat in hand, McNinch called on his old chief. He agreed that Smith should be beaten. Simmons encouraged him, first secretly and later openly. McNinch led the North Carolina Hoovercrats, and carried the state, with aid from Simmons and the normally impotent Republicans, by an overwhelming majority.

But mark this. Of all the hundreds of key Democrats, including many far more important than McNinch, who revolted, McNinch is the only one who has ever succeeded in getting to first base since! Simmons himself was defeated on that very issue in the next primary. All over the South the same thing happened.

Normally, in a rebellion, the leaders get short shrift. But in a revolution they come into power. In the South the fellows who won, back in 1928, and who carried Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma for Hoover, had their reward in political banishment and popular dislike. All but McNinch.

Herbert C. Hoover seemed to feel no gratitude to any one in the South who had risked his political future for him. With the exception of McNinch! Maybe Hoover figured that most of these Hoovercrats were just fighting Smith because he was a wet, or a Tammany politician, and therefore didn't deserve any reward from him. And, of course, in a way Hoover—on this one thing—was right.

But how about McNinch? How did he persuade Hoover that he, alone of all the southern bolters, deserved reward? And how did he convince Franklin D. Roosevelt that his powers should be increased? That man has something.

Boland Has Something

Patrick J. Boland, Democratic whip of the house, is not as well known to the general public as he deserves. The title carries the idea to most folks of a sort of sergeant-at-arms, or call boy, who rounds up the congressmen for a vote. Sounds like a leg job rather than one involving leadership.

Actually, of course, it is rather an important place, which gives its holder the privilege of sitting in on the party councils, and at least the opportunity of demonstrating his ability, if any. Add to that the point that congressmen get to know each other pretty well, and usually form rather accurate judgments of each other's ability, entirely aside from any previous records, and it becomes obvious that Mr. Boland has something.

Which makes his recent statement about next session more important. What Mr. Boland said was that the Norris seven TVA's bill (eight if you add in the modifications of the present TVA) would be stripped of all its phases concerning power before passage next session.

Now President Roosevelt very definitely wants power included in the seven TVA's legislation. So does Senator George W. Norris, daddy of the original TVA. So do all the New Dealers. All of which spells out that there will be a real fight on an unexpected front in the next session, to be added to those already on the sure list—taxes, wages and hours regulation, and, unless Mr. Roosevelt is kidding the legislators, Supreme court enlargement again. It was right after adjournment of the last session—the only one so far since March 4, 1933, when any impartial referee would not give all the rounds to Mr. Roosevelt—that Attorney General Homer S. Cummings took the public into his confidence on this—holding that the Supreme court issue must be settled and settled right.

Listening In

Now, of course, all the senators and representatives, whether at home or taking a holiday, are engaged in their normal between-sessions function of holding their ears to the ground. They are busy finding out what is the safest thing for them to do in the next session.

At this stage, Mr. Boland, Democratic whip of the house, takes a public stand against the President and the New Deal on an issue which most observers and members of congress thought was going to slide through next session without a real struggle.

Mr. Boland proved himself an accurate judge of what is the shrewd thing to do in politics in 1930, and has demonstrated it several times since.

In 1930 there was a vacancy in the Scranton, Pennsylvania, congressional district. Largely a hard coal mining district, it should, on cold logic, be wet. Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was interested. He sent this writer down there to investigate.

It developed that no one of the candidates for the Republican nomination was really wet politically. The Republican leaders thought it was not safe—though the dry sentiment still too strong. Over in the Democratic primary, generally regarded as futile because the district was so strongly Republican, Pat Boland was running as a winging wet against a dry. This writer urged support of Boland as the only chance.

But a little later Boland decided to enter the Republican primary as well as the Democratic. The Pennsylvania law permitted that at the time, though it has since been changed. He won both primaries! And has been re-elected three times since! He has something.

Looks Like Surrender

Foreshadowing events in the next session of congress, particularly as to the cleavage between President Roosevelt and the New Dealers, on the one hand, and the conservatives on the other, the surrender of the President in signing the sugar bill cannot be exaggerated.

Bitterly as President Roosevelt objected to this bill, as expressed not only in private conversations but in writing, there is just one explanation for the signature. Had he vetoed it, it would have been necessary to call an extra session of congress to pass some substitute, as the present quota law expires on December 31. The President had no particular objection to the extra session. In fact, he was undecided for some time whether he would call one, entirely irrespective of the sugar situation.

But he was finally convinced that not all the strength the administration could bring to bear would result in passing the kind of sugar bill he wanted even if he vetoed the present bill and called an extra session.

Most convincing on this was Vice-President John Nance Garner.

All Know Story

The importance of all this now is that every member of both house and senate knows the whole story. They know, in effect, that the President was badly beaten on two issues very close to his heart—sugar and Supreme court enlargement. So they will be less fearful of opposing any of the President's "must" measures from now on. Which bodes evil for the Roosevelt program in the next session.

The conflict of personalities is also significant. It was Pat Harrison who really led the fight for the present sugar bill, a fight which came to a boil during the struggle of the Mississippi senator to be elected Democratic leader in place of Joe Robinson. Everybody knows that it was President Roosevelt's influence that beat Pat, and elected Allen Barkley, of Kentucky. So Pat lost the honor he craved, but the President lost a fight in which he was more determined than on any measure this session except the court bill.

What makes his recent statement about next session more important. What Mr. Boland said was that the Norris seven TVA's bill (eight if you add in the modifications of the present TVA) would be stripped of all its phases concerning power before passage next session.

what Irwin S. Cobb thinks about:

The Big Book Craze.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—We're promised a historical novel longer than any yet—say half a million words or so. Of course, the author probably uses some words at least twice, but that won't reduce the gross tonnage unless they're very short words.

I can't take it. While still convalescent from "Anthony Adverse," I was stricken down by "Gone With the Wind" and had such a relapse that even now I barely can hold on my stomach such comparatively light and trifling stuff as volume VET to ZYM of the encyclopedia.

When reading this modern bulk literature, it upsets me to find my legs going to sleep before I do. And the constant pressure makes callouses on my second mezzanine landing.

I admit these mass production books serve nicely as door stoppers and for pressing wild flowers. I also heard of a chap who detected a prowler under his window and dropped a frothy little work of fiction weighing slightly less than nine pounds on the back of the fellow's neck, dislocating three vertebrae. At last accounts, the surgeons were still picking long jagged chapters out of his spine.

In my present mood, what I crave is the romantic stuff of olden days, in which our sainted Aunt Sophie was wont to inscribe "Alas, how sad!" or "Only too true!" in pale violet ink on the margins. What happened to all the Aunt Sophies anyhow?

An Actor's Temperament.

WE'VE all been waiting for something to top it, but the best wheeze of the month remains the one that was emitted, not by a paid gagster, but by a simple stagehand at one of the studios when Mr. Leslie Howard refused to go on making a picture until a group of distinguished visitors, including Mr. Charles Norris, the novelist, had been shooed off the set.

"He ain't sore at you gents," stated the stage-hand to the ousted parties, "but he's been playin' 'Hamlet' on the regular stage and he ain't used to havin' a crowd watchin' him while he's actin'."

If Mr. Norris and his friends wanted to see some really great acting they should have patronized the professional wrestling matches. That's where they put on the heavy dramatic stuff—beautifully rehearsed, perfectly done.

Children's Education

I LIKE the way the wealthy classes in England rear their children. Little Rosemary doesn't recite for the company after dinner, and if Master Jones-Terwilliger Minor gets uppity at school, he gets thrashed.

Many a rich American has known how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to see his daughter grow up a wanton and his boy turn out a wastrel. Yet, with few exceptions—so few that the newspapers comment on them—it never seems to occur to these fond fathers that less of coddling and pampering and spoiling in adolescence and more of wholesome discipline might produce a higher average grade of heirs.

What set me to thinking along this line was being t'other night at a party where a poor little four-year-old, having already the pitiable assurance of a veteran prima donna, was fetched in to give impersonations. She never again could impersonate natural babyhood though, more's the pity! And her pet small brother was encouraged to dominate the talk.

Mark my word for it, that kid is going to come to no good end—not even a well-spanked end, which would help.

Mr. Pincus' Coup.

IN THESE topsy-turvy times liberal-minded patriots who are striving to steer a middle course between ultraenthusiastic left-wingers and ultraconservative rightists might do well, methinks, to follow the example set by Mr. Pincus.

Mr. Pincus had opened a clothing store. Immediately on one side of him was the clothing store of Mr. Ginsberg and immediately on the other side was the clothing store of Mr. Dreifus; and three clothing stores in a row were too many even for Essex street.

So the adjacent competitors framed a plot to put the newcomer out of business. Next morning their rival, coming down to open up, found over Mr. Dreifus' establishment a flaming legend, to wit:

BANKRUPT SALE And above Mr. Ginsberg's door was this equally prominent announcement:

CLOSING OUT SALE Within an hour, smeared across the entire front of Mr. Pincus' store, exactly in between the other two, appeared a huge sign reading as follows:

The laughing tenderness of his voice twisted Brooke's heart unbearably. She tore her thoughts from him and watched her brother. She could see his lips move in unison with the lines spoken on the stage.

The curtain fell slowly on the minor climax of the first act. The setting and theme had been established and the characters presented. The audience applauded enthusiastically. From a hole in the curtain Brooke saw the New York producer go up the aisle. Would he return?

"Don't you dare go away, don't you dare!" she flung at his straight back.

"How did it go?" Sam's voice was hoarse.

"It's wonderful, Sam. Not an unnecessary word; every line was 'Forward march!' for your story. The acting is the best I've ever seen in an amateur performance."

"So what? Does it prove anything? They're all good except Daphne; she isn't getting her lines over. I hold my breath every time she opens her mouth. Isn't Trent great? He's the spark-plug of the cast. Wait till you see him in the crucial moment in the next act, when he thinks the girl he loves has double-crossed him."

Jerry Field appeared beside her dressed in leather jacket and knickers, with a gun in his hand.

"How's it going, Brooke?"

"I can't see the stage, but from the response of those out front I'd say it was a hit. You're grand in that sports costume. You've made every point, Jerry."

"Thanks. That's because when I say a word of love to Lucette I'm saying it to you." He caught her hand and pressed his lips to it fervently.

"Please—don't, Jerry."

"You've said that too many times, sweet thing. After the play we'll have a reckoning—get me?"

"After the play," Brooke repeated the words to herself. So much was to happen that would change lives, after the play.

"Hey! Field! Field, come on!" Sam's whisper. Sam's beckoning hand. Brooke followed Jerry as far as the wings from which she could see him drop to a log on the stage, left center.

"Why don't you turn thumbs up and end the poor boy's torment?" asked a low voice behind her.

She turned quickly. Something in Mark Trent's voice made her furiously angry.

"That's quite a suggestion that I end 'the poor boy's torment.' I will, tonight."

"Don't do it until I change after the show. I want to drive you home, Brooke. There is something I must say to you."

Brooke felt the blood rush to her face and recede. Had Henri double-crossed her and told him about the will? Did Mark Trent think she intended to hide it? She wouldn't give him a chance to accuse her before she produced that paper locked in her desk. She said as steadily as she could with his eyes boring into her soul:

"Sorry. The minute the curtain falls, I shall dash to Lookout House to change into something snappy for the grand celebration. You wouldn't have me come to your grand party in this green knit, would you? Quick! Sam wants the wings cleared."

She backed out, conscious of Mark Trent's disturbing presence close beside her.

"The music has stopped! There go the foots!" She caught his sleeve, looked up and begged in an unsteady whisper:

"Do your best, Mark. This act will kill or make the play."

His lips were on hers so quickly that she had no chance to protest. He kissed her passionately, thoroughly; said in a husky whisper:

"Credit that to the silent policeman. Now, I'll play that part to the hilt."

Brooke tried to ignore her racing pulses. She mocked:

"I seem to be in the path of an emotional cyclone; first, Jerry Field; now you. I suppose Jed will be the next. Your cue! Quick! Quick!"

In an instant he was on the stage. Brooke shut her eyes tight in an effort to steady a whirling world. Mark Trent's lips on hers had been like an electric current through her body. Every pulse, every nerve responded.

She listened. It was very still in front, a sort of hypnotized stillness. She could hear the voices on the stage, but she couldn't keep her mind on what they were saying. Even as she supplied properties, even as the actors made their entrances and exits she was thinking of Mark Trent's eyes as he had looked down into hers, was wondering what he wanted to tell her on the way home?

How Reyburnish! The incurable dramatic streak in the Reyburn temperament had been in the saddle when she had planned that.

CHAPTER XIII

As the curtain fell with dramatic slowness for the last time, the audience stood clapping and calling. As it rose again, Brooke saw the blond marcelle, second row center, make its way up the aisle followed by a man with sleek black hair. The producer and the manager! They had come back for the third. That must mean something. Were they leaving before speaking to Sam? He was on the stage now in the midst of the cast who had taken their bows; the arms of the women were heaped with flowers. He had put on coat and collar and tie but the white bow had gone rakish. He looked very young as he stood grinning boyishly and waiting for a chance to speak. His voice shook as he said:

"Thanks lots! Glad you liked it. Couldn't have put it across without their help." He indicated the men and girls around him on the stage, and the audience broke into thunderous applause. The curtain fell slowly.

Brooke's eyes were blinded by happy tears as she started for the dressing-room. She must get back to Lookout House to change for the party. The girls of the cast were going to Mark Trent's in the evening frocks they had worn in the last act. Leaving the wings, she collided with the marcelled blond. The New York producer! He was unaware of her murmured apology as he gesticulated and talked to his sleek-haired companion. She listened unashamedly and heard him say:

"It's got everything. Humor, suspense, moving simplicity, fidelity to ideals, and unflinching movement."

"But has it got box-office?"

"I'll gamble my last dollar on it. It's the old recipe for play-writing carried to perfection:

"Make 'em laugh; make 'em weep; make 'em wait. Where'd you say that boy got his start?"

Brooke dodged acquaintances and strangers in evening clothes who were crowding on to the stage to greet the actors. In the dressing-room she slipped into her fur coat and ran downstairs to her town car parked near the rear entrance.

The snow was falling half-heartedly as if it had not quite decided if it were worth while to come down at all. She drove swiftly toward home. Mark Trent had asked her to plan his party, had told her to go the limit in preparations to make it a success.

"Go as far as you like with everything, only be sure that there is enough to eat and sufficient help. To have plenty is an obsession of mine."

There would be plenty and then some. Just before she left Lookout House for the Club theater, the caterer had arrived with his van and a horde of waiters. They had sounded like an army making camp.

Trent's Japanese cook came forward to open the door of the car when she arrived. Snow powdered his shoulders and cap. His eyes glittered in his swarthy face. His teeth gleamed as he ducked his head in a funny little bow. Brooke let down the window.

"I won't get out here, Taku. I'll run into our garage. All the space outside will be needed for the cars of the guests."

"You right, Mees. Thank you. Much big party, Kowa say."

Would there be room for Sam's coupe? Brooke wondered, as she drove into the garage. One corner had been filled with ice cream tubs. He could leave it outside, she decided. She shut off her engine and partially closed the door as she went out.

As she reached the dark hemlock behind the Other House, she lingered for an instant in its deep shadow. How still the world was. Snow fell as softly as if someone had slit open a pillow and shaken down its feathers. There was no near sound of surf tonight.

She shrank deeper into the purple gloom under the tree as two men came down the back steps from the kitchen—waiters, she knew by their clothing. Not more than five feet from her one of them stopped to light a cigarette. He growled:

"The boss can wait for them ice cream tubs till I get a smoke."

"Sure he can. Light up again and take a look at this."

A hand held a scrap of paper within the light of a match. The same voice said:

"It's the picture of the dame who said: 'He was a swell-dressed fella.' Guess I'll have to date her up!"

The other man closed his hand over the match.

"You an' your dames! Forget 'em for tonight, or you'll crack up on this job. Come on!"

As Brooke dressed in her room, the words and suggestive laugh of the man who had produced the picture kept boiling up through her jubilation over Sam's success, through the inescapable memory of Mark Trent's eyes and voice as he had caught her in his arms.

She was adjusting a rhinestone and synthetic emerald clip to the shoulder of her white satin frock when a thought forked through her mind like lightning. The amber and brown eyes of the looking-glass girl frowning back at her widened with amazement; her red lips moved.

"He said—he said—I'll have to date her up!"

In an instant she was on the floor beside her desk with a big manila envelope in her lap. She pulled out a bunch of clippings. She had it! The picture of a girl, Maggie Cassidy, and under it the caption:

"She said that the man she saw in the garage was a swell-dressed fella."

The waiter who had shown the other man the clipping was the Bath Crystal Bandit, the man she had recognized at the Supper club! He was the man who had tied up Hunt in the garage! Was he also the murderer of Lola Hunt?

Why was the man in Mark Trent's house tonight? His pal had said: "Forget 'em, or you'll crack up on this job." What job? Something big must have tempted him to come so near the scene of his last hold-up, or had that newspaper headline stating that he was being followed to Canada made him feel secure? What was he after? More jewels?

Jed Stewart's words answered Brooke's question as clearly as if whispered in her ear. The man had come for Mrs. Gregory's diamonds.

She must notify the police! She snatched her hand from the telephone in its cradle on the desk. Not that. Wires had ears. She would go herself. Across the causeway. To Inspector Harrison at headquarters. She could go and be back before she was missed. Suppose she were stopped on the way! Where was Henri? Was he in on this? She must locate him before she left the house.

She caught up a green velvet wrap, stuffed some bills into her emerald satin bag. Pelted down the stairs, into the living-room toward the bell. Stopped. Where was the parrot? He was not in his cage! Had he made another break for freedom? She looked between the gilded bars. What seemed to be merely a bunch of green feathers lay stiffly on the bottom.

"Well, if this isn't just one of those days!" she said aloud.

"Oh, Brooke!" Jerry Field called from the hall.

As she appeared in the doorway, he exclaimed:

"Of all the gorgeous creatures! You look like a million!"

"Jerry, drive me across the causeway, will you? Quick!"

"What's the matter?"

"I must go. Is your roadster here?"

"Left it by your garage."

"By the garage!"

Brooke's blood congealed. Suppose as they stepped into the car the two crook waiters should appear for a tub of ice cream? Would the men suspect her errand? Into her mind flashed her reply to Mark Trent:

"That's quite a suggestion that I end the poor boy's torment. I will, tonight."

What a thought for this crisis! What a thought!

"Wait a minute, Jerry! While I'm upstairs, set the parrot's cage in the back hall, please. I—I can't bear to have it here. You'll see why."

She raced up the stairs, charged into her bedroom, pulled a suitcase from the shelf. On the way down, she took the two lowest stairs in a jump. She thrust the case into Field's hand.

"What's the big idea?"

"Don't—ask—questions! Let's go!"

"You can't walk in the snow in those white satin sandals, you'll ruin the green heels."

She pushed him toward the door. "Get going! Get going!"

"Well, I'll be darned! Come on."

Brooke felt the dampness between the straps of her sandals. It seemed miles to the garage. There was Jerry's roadster! A waiter was coming down the back steps. It might be the Bath Crystal Bandit! She called in a guarded voice to the Japanese who was directing parking, but loud enough for the man on the steps to hear:

"Taku! Put this suitcase in the rumble. And, Taku, if you see my brother, tell him—tell him," she raised her voice, "that Mr. Field and I have run away to be married."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 26

GOD IN THE MAKING OF A NATION

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 8:11-20. GOLDEN TEXT—Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day.—Deuteronomy 8:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—To Help Us Remember.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Giver of Gifts.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God in the Making of a Nation.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in the Making of a Nation.

God in the making of the nation of Israel—this has been our general subject for a number of months. In this concluding lesson we meet up with a solemn warning that even though God's mighty works have been revealed on behalf of a people, it is possible for them to become proud and self-confident, forgetting him whose they are and whom they should serve, and perishing in their rebellion and sin.

I. "Beware That Thou Forget Not the Lord" (v. 11).

How could this people who had come up out of slavery and been led "through that great and terrible wilderness" (v. 15), who had been fed by God's hand, who had received "water out of the rock of flint," who had become a great nation by his grace and blessing, now forget God? It would seem unbelievable, did we not know ourselves. We need this warning as badly as Israel. Shout a stirring "Beware" from coast to coast as this lesson is taught, for America is forgetting God. Space does not permit a review of the appalling facts here, but they are enough to make one's heart sick with sorrow and fear for the future of our nation.

II. "Lest . . . Thou Say . . . My Power" (vv. 12-17).

How trenchant and altogether fitting are the words of Scripture. Nothing could describe our times more succinctly and accurately than v. 17. Men are glorying in their ability to do things. Science has made mighty strides forward. Industry has brought forth so many striking developments that a single company is able to present as a reflection of its own work a veritable "House of Magic."

We honor those who by skillful hand and brilliant brain produce excellent and thrilling results. But our question is, "How many are there who say, 'God has done this thing. He gave the strength and the skill. His is the honor?'" Some there are who thus recognize him, but they are few indeed. Their name is legion who say in their heart, "My power and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth" (v. 17).

God, forgive us, cleanse us, and give us grace to walk humbly before Thee!

III. "Remember the Lord . . . He . . . Giveth Thee Power." (v. 18).

Joseph Parker points out that a deep conviction of the fact stated in v. 18 "would turn human history into a sacrament." He says, "What a blow this text strikes at one of the most popular and mischievous fallacies in common life—namely, that man is the maker of his own money!" He makes a stirring plea (see People's Bible, Vol. IV, p. 188) for bringing God, who has been "crushed like a rose leaf in the Bible," out into the market place, into the office and the warehouse, for if man will make "his warehouse into a church" he will never turn the church into a warehouse.

Would that we could once and for all do away with all "Sunday religion," and bring the gospel of grace and the laws of God into the office, the factory, the school, and the home, for every day and every incident and transaction of life.

IV. "If Thou . . . Forget . . . Ye Shall . . . Perish" (vv. 19, 20).

Reading this passage in the light of our knowledge of what did happen to Israel, we agree that the warning was needed, even though it was not heeded. Shall we then dismiss the matter with perhaps an expression of regret that they so disobeyed God and missed his blessing? If we do we miss the most important point in our lesson, for the fact is that our nation is just as dependent on God, and in just as much danger of forgetting him and perishing.

God punished even his chosen people in the day that they forgot him. Let not America think that she will escape if she goes on her way, forgetting God. We plead again, as we did last Sunday, for a deep going revival among God's people, and a renewed zeal for the salvation of lost men and women.

Add a Bluebird To Your Linens

Out across the tulips fly our feathered friends the Bluebirds, so realistic when embroidered in dainty 10 to the inch cross stitch. See how prettily these bird motifs may be adapted either to border or corner various household accessories—breakfast sets, towels, scarfs or kitchen curtains. Tulips are in single stitch. Use gay floss. Pattern 1475 contains a transfer pattern of two motifs 6 1/2 by 8 1/4 inches; two motifs 5 by 9 1/2 inches; and four motifs 6 by 6 1/4 inches; and four motifs 3 1/2 by 5 1/4 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used; material requirements.

Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Ave., New York.

Many, Many Women Say Cardui Helped Them

By taking Cardui, thousands of women have found they can avoid much of the monthly suffering they used to endure. Cramping spells, nagging pains and jangled nerves can be relieved—either by Cardui or by a physician's treatment.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardui aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food. Cardui, with directions for home use by women, may be bought at the drug store. (Pronounced "Cardul.")

CIVIC CULTURE CLUB MET

The Senior Civic Culture Club met for a one o'clock luncheon, Saturday the 11th, at the home of Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Mrs. R. M. Champion as assistant hostess.

The leader, Mrs. R. H. Todd, being absent, Mrs. R. A. Baldwin was designated for that role for the afternoon.

Instructions as to the proper care of, and the proper way to salute our flag was given by Mrs. J. C. Jenkins. Mrs. W. E. Smart, assisted by Mrs. Shankle gave a very interesting version of the past accomplishments of the club.

Mrs. Lee Green presented year books to the members present after which an adjournment followed.

The next meeting will be held at the County Club House on Saturday, September 25th, with Mrs. J. S. Bates as hostess.

HOME EC CLUB ELECT OFFICERS

The Home Economics Club met Monday, September 29, in the Home Ec department of Slaton High School at which time the club elected the following officers:

Don't put up with useless PAIN

Get rid of it
When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDOL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance.
Get a bottle of Cardol and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.
Besides easing certain pains, Cardol aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from the food they eat.
