Bales Ginned During Week; Total 5,528 Bales

Slaton's six gins turned out 292 of cotton last week, bringing season's total to 5,528 bales up to Saturday. It was shown by fig-compiled Saturday afternoon. Mild weather with considerable rain hindered progress of cotton har- over this section during the month. It is estimated that the is now 80 or 85 per cent harvest- over. If fairly good weather ills, it is believed all the cotton of this area will be gathered by time.

ree gins at McClung, Posey and have received over 3,000 bales season. These communities are adjacently adjacent to Slaton.

Interest Shown in Christmas Contest

Slaton business firms and citizens have shown considerable interest in the prize offers made recently by the Slaton State Bank, offering two prizes of $20 each, one for the best Christmas decoration in front of a business house in town, and the other for the best Christmas decoration in front of a residence in the residential section of Slaton.

The Slaton Chamber of Commerce has agreed to appoint judges for the contest, which begins on Dec. 15, closing Dec. 24, at which time the prize awards will be made.

The Question Was Antelopes or Tigers

The Answer Now is, Tigers 12—Antelopes 0.

Friday morning the Slaton folk awoke to find lowering clouds, and the temperature registering 18 to 20, this gave many cold feet among the fans, however, the sure enough fans to about 500 boarded the Santa Fe at 12:45, and started on the trip to Post. We make mention that the Trainmas- ter, T. L. Badgley, stated from the youngest to the oldest among the fans, only courtesy and gentility was displayed, and that the Santa Fe was pleased to serve the public on such occasions, and hoped that another special train would be run for Slaton.

We arrived at Post on time, and the Posties were there to meet us, their natty pep squad gave us a rousing welcome; cars were in waiting for those who desired to ride, but many wished to walk. It was a colorful scene with the blended colors of the two high schools. The purple and white was much in evidence. We must compliment Post on the wonder- ful field she has. The biting wind kept the fans on the move, spirits were high, and the game was on. It was a wonderful game, between two of the best class B teams on the Plains. It was a clean game, and we compliment the Antelopes and Tigers on the clean sportsmanship displayed.

The scoring was done in the second and fourth quarters, by O. Cannon and Rucker. Rucker missed both placement kicks, one going wide, the other striking the bar.

We will all admit that the Antelopes displayed some fine playing, on first downs the Antelopes had a little of the better of it, making 13 to the Tigers' 11. On complete passes the Antelopes completed 9 out of 22, with two intercepted, while Slaton completed 2 out of 8, none intercepted.

Penalties: Slaton for 50 yards, and Post 25.

The officials for this game were: Referee, McMillan, Texas A & M, of Lubbock; Umpire, Cantrill, Texas Christian, of Colorado City; Head Linesman, Spikes, Texas University, of Lamesa.

The Lineup:

Slaton	Position	Post
Rucker	L. E.	Cross
Smith	L. T.	Browning
Jackson	L. G.	Williams
Arnes	C.	Thaxton
Savage	R. G.	Crawford
McMenamy (capt.)	R. T.	Ferguson
Scott	R. E.	Rogers
O. Cannon	Q. B. (capt.)	Lumas
Johnson	L. H. B.	McCampbell
D. Cannon	R. H. B.	Floyd
Austin	F. B.	Moore

Thus ended a perfect day for the Tigers, by winning from a team that was practically their equal.

Wilma Sybil Patterson Buried Here Monday

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon from the Baptist church for Wilma Sybil Patterson, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Patterson, of Knott, Texas.

The deceased was fatally injured Saturday about noon when she, in company with an older sister, had started to their father's barber shop to accompany him home for lunch and were crossing a street when the accident happened, which is said to have been unavoidable.

Mr. Patterson is well known in Slaton, having formerly made his home here and also having relatives here. Interment was made in Englewood cemetery.

Friday Night is Time of Regular Legion Meeting

The regular meeting of the Slaton Post of the American Legion will be held at the Slaton Clubhouse on Friday night of this week, at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by officers of the Post.

All members are urged to be pres- tna. Membership cards for 1930 have been received and all members may get cards at Friday night's meeting. Several important matters are to be considered at the meeting. It is hoped all new members and all old members will attend.

Rotarians Have Short Session at Luncheon Friday

On account of most of the club members desiring to attend the foot- ball game at Post last Friday after- noon, leaving at 12:45 on the special train, a very brief Rotary Club program was held at the Clubhouse at 11:30, the meeting adjourning at 12:15, after hearing L. T. Green dis- cuss briefly the third object of Rotary.

The program which was scheduled for last Friday will be given at the luncheon this Friday, it was announced. This will include a debate on the subject: "Would Hard-surfaced Roads be a Profitable Financial Investment for Lubbock County?" The affirmative of the question will be upheld by C. C. Hoffman, Jr., and J. Tom Over- by. The negative is to be defended by Walter B. Hestand and Tom A. Worley, Jr.

Managers Changed In Local Firm

Joe Duke, former manager of the Clarence Saunders Store here, has been transferred to Lubbock; where he will be connected with the Clarence Saunders store in that city.

J. B. McPherson, of Crosbyton, has accepted the position as manager of the store here, and assumed his duties Monday morning. He will be assisted in the store by Jack Taylor, of this city.

Three-Day Poultry Show Next Week Expected to Attract More Entries Than Ever Shown in Slaton Before

Next Thursday, Friday and Satur- day are the dates for Slaton's fourth annual poultry show, and local poul- trymen are predicting that the show next week will break all previous re- cords as to entries and with reference to interest shown by exhibitors.

"Not only have Slaton poultrymen shown greater interest in the show this year than ever before, but we have reason to believe a larger number of birds will come from other places this year than we have had in previous years," E. L. Hicks, pres- ident of the poultry association, said yesterday.

I. L. Bandy, a licensed American Poultry Association judge, of Godley, Texas, has been engaged to judge the show again this year. He officiated last year, too.

The show will be housed in brick buildings on Texas Avenue, although the exact location had not been definitely decided upon yesterday. How- ever, ample accommodations will be available, it was announced by Mr. Hicks. Birds will be well cared for and every precaution will be taken to see that none is endangered by cold weather, if weather conditions should be unfavorable.

All entries are to be in place by 10 a. m., next Thursday morning, it was announced by A. A. DeVore, show superintendent. Entry applications must be filed by noon Wednesday with W. P. Splawn, show secretary.

The premium list this year is the best in the four years' history of the Slaton show, officials stated. All regular premiums are the same as

100 Medicos are Asked to Attend Slaton Luncheon

Letters are being sent this week to 100 physicians and surgeons of the South Plains territory, inviting them to attend a luncheon in Slaton, on Friday, Dec. 6, as guests of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and the Slaton Rotary Club. This was announced yesterday by Horace Hawkins and W. H. Smith, presidents of the two organizations.

The luncheon will be held at noon at the Slaton Clubhouse, on Friday of next week. A splendid attendance is expected, both from among the doctors and from among Slaton business men.

Invitations have also been sent to several Santa Fe officials to attend the luncheon. J. A. Gillies, of Slaton, superintendent of the Slaton Division; J. R. Hitchcock, of Amarillo, general manager of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway company; and Avery Turner, Amarillo, general agent of the Santa Fe, are among those invited to attend.

The luncheon is being held in order to give the doctors and the Santa Fe officials an opportunity to inspect the new Mercy Hospital in the afternoon following the luncheon.

Woodie Rogers Gone to Alpine

Woodie Rogers left Slaton Wednes- day night for Alpine where he has accepted a position with the Santa Fe as material clerk in the construction department.

Woodie has been connected with Teague's Drug Store for the past year and three months and his many friends regret to see him leave Slaton, but are wishing him the best of success.

Rev. and Mrs. Holloway Attend Meet

Slaton was represented at the Baptist General Convention at Beaumont last week by Rev. and Mrs. B. G. Holloway. This was the 81st annual session for the convention.

Mrs. Holloway was named as a member of the Missionary Executive committee. She was one of the thirty ladies chosen on this committee.

Rev. and Mrs. Holloway report an interesting and enjoyable convention.

Mrs. T. A. Kirby Undergoes Operation

Mrs. T. A. Kirby was rushed to a Lubbock sanitarium Friday evening where she underwent a very painful operation Saturday morning.

Mrs. Kirby has been ill for several months and it is hoped by all of her friends that this operation will enable her to make a speedy recovery. She was allowed to return home Tuesday afternoon, and at last reports is resting well.

WRITE SANTA NOW!

Why wait until Christmas to write to old Santa Claus? Get your letter written and mail it to Santy in care of the Slatonite office. All letters will be published in the paper and directed to Santy at his Crystal Palace at the North Pole.

Two little Slaton girls have written their letter and sent it to the office. Their names are Lillie and Imogene Gentry. We are sure Santa Claus will remember them as "early birds".

heretofore, but sweepstakes have been raised from $4.00 to $5.00.

A large display of turkeys is expected, besides splendid representa- tion in every variety of chickens. Club boys and girls in nine counties have been invited to send their birds to the show.

A banquet for exhibitors will be held Friday night, according to plans announced by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

Banquet Planned For Poultrymen

A banquet for poultry exhibitors at the poultry show here next week is to be held next Friday night, accord- ing to plans announced today by officers of the Slaton Chamber of Com- merce. Tickets for the banquet will be in the showroom beginning Thurs- day, the opening day of the show, and each exhibitor may secure his ticket from the show secretary, W. P. Splawn, it was announced. The tick- ets will be furnished free to all exhib- itors, the announcement said, and it is hoped all who have birds on display at the show will attend the banquet.

An interesting and profitable pro- gram for the poultrymen is being planned.

American Legion Will Sponsor Play, Dec. 3 and 4

"Jimmy's Wives" will be presented at the Texas Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, December 3 and 4, in Slaton. This production is sponsored by the Luther Powers Post of the American Legion and is directed by Camille Watson, of the Southern Arts Producing Co., of Lawton, Oklahoma, and will be staged by a cast of one hundred and fifty local people.

The feature play is said to be one of the best college comedies ever writ- ten. Jimmy Jones, the most popular boy in school, is so busy driving his car and working on an invention that he neglects his classes to the extent of being expelled from college.

His father and mother are very angry and hurt to think that their son has brought disgrace upon the family and has wasted his chances at college. But they promise to relent if Jimmy will marry and settle down. Mr. Jones even promises to pay his bills for a year.

Mr. Whipple, the dramatic coach of the college, who is very good at fixing things, introduces Jerry Mites, Jimmy's room-mate to the angry par- ents as Jimmy's wife and thus saves the day.

Jimmy and his would-be wife re- main in college and have a hilarious time at his father's expense. All goes well until one day the colored wash woman, Mandy Wiggins, comes for the washing and discovers that the bride is a man in disguise. She sounds the alarm and brings in O'Donald the policeman. But Whipple saves the day again by introducing Madame Bardeau, a French Costumer, as Jimmy's second little wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones arrive at the college to pay their son and his wife a visit, and both wives appear upon the scene. The parents are dumb- founded and Mr. Jones hires a detec- tive to solve the mystery. The detec- tive reports Jimmy not married at all and the proud father disinherits his son.

In the meantime Jimmy's plans are completed and he receives $5,000.00 for his invention. The Senior class goes on a strike and the faculty re- considers and Jimmy returns to col- lege.

His father forgives him and he in- troduces to his parents, Barbara Dean, who has consented to be his wife.

The entire plot is comical and prom- ises to be one of the best home tal- ent productions ever put on in Slaton. Besides the main feature, there will be several added attractions.

A Baby Pageant, featuring approx- imately 125 Slaton children, is a very colorful feature, and promises to be a prettily presented sketch. This will be the Wedding of the Painted Doll.

Between acts there will be a girls and boys chorus, featuring a number of Slaton business men, who will ap- pear as striking flappers and dancers.

Tickets are now on sale. Buy yours now. Here is your chance to help the boys who helped you eleven years ago.

Joseph Brewer In Hospital

Joseph Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brewer, underwent an opera- tion at a Lubbock hospital last Sat- urday morning.

The operation was performed on the nose and head and was exceed- ingly painful, but according to last re- ports he was doing fine and expects to be brought home in a short time.

Hundreds Attend Formal Opening of $200,000 Hospital

An immense crowd, estimated at considerably more than 1,000 people, attended Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the formal opening of Slaton's new $200,000 sanitarium, Mercy Hos- pital, completed here this week.

The program was in charge of Right Rev. Monsignor Robert M. Nolan of Fort Worth. Other speakers on the program were: Mayor W. G. Reese, J. H. Brewer, R. N. Smith, Rev. Thos. D. O'Brien, and L. A. Wilson, all of Slaton; Joe A. Brennan, of Amarillo; and the following Catholic priests were present for the dedication: Revs. Gregory Boeckmann, Lubbock; E. J. Clinton, Borger; F. J. Herkert, Stanton; C. J. Dvorak, Littlefield; F. M. Keenan and Kline Constant, Carlsbad, N. M.; Theodore Francis, Big Spring; F. A. Brockman, Midland, and J. J. Dolje, Umberger.

The new hospital is owned and op- erated by the Catholic Sisters of Mercy. Work was started last April. Seventy patients can be accommodat- ed. The building and furnishings rep- resent an investment of $200,000.

After the dedication ceremonies were finished Wednesday, the crowd passed through the building, inspect- ing the hospital throughout.

A banquet for the priests and the speakers on the program was given in the hospital basement at 5 p. m.

The building is now open to public inspection and patients will be accept- ed beginning next Monday, it was an- nounced. The Sisters are here to have complete charge of the institution, and the medical and surgical staffs are already composed of many out- standing men of this section.

Zeke Baldwin Accident Victim

Zeke Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Baldwin, was the victim of a painful accident Saturday while on a hiking trip to the canyons with three other Boy Scouts.

Young Baldwin was standing on the edge of a cliff when the precipice gave way underneath his feet, causing him to fall about twenty feet, landing on his hands and breaking both arms.

The left arm was broken in one place just above the wrist while the right arm was broken in several places.

One of the boys ran to the road and hailed a passing motorist, who brought Zeke to Slaton, where immedi- ate treatment was rendered.

At the last report he was resting well and only received other minor bruises in the fall.

Hoover Baby Buried Friday

Doris Lee Hoover, four months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hoover, of this city, died Thursday at 9:45 a. m., in Lubbock, following an illness of about three weeks.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church, Slaton, with the Rev. Phillip McGahey, of Wilson, officiating.

The infant was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, who reside at 1120 South 14th Street.

Slaton Boy on Tech Debating Team

William R. Sewell, of this city, who is a student in Texas Technological College, has been chosen as a member of the debating team, for that institu- tion.

Sewell and his colleague, Wayne Castleberry, will represent Tech in the scheduled debate with Simmons University at Abilene on December 7, according to announcement received here.

The question for debate will be, "Resolved, That the Nations Should Adopt a Plan of Complete Disarma- ment, Excepting Such Forces as are Needed for Police Purposes." This is the official proposition of Pi Kappa Delta, national debating fraternity, and Texas Tech has drawn the nega- tive side.

Sewell has been a member of the Tech debating team for several years and all of his Slaton friends feel sure that he can ably uphold his side in this debate.

The Way of Life.

“What strange power has Bruce Barton?”

That question is asked, sooner or later, by everyone who falls under the spell of his wonderful inspirational writings.

More than fifteen million people read his writings every week. Beginning next week, we are going to give our own readers this marvelous opportunity to read the work of the man who is not only one of the two or three highest-paid writers in America but almost a prophet in the quality of his writings.

Bruce Barton has the rare gift of making his readers feel themselves his personal friends. He never “preaches”. He never tries to be inspiring. Yet his is a pen of irresistible eloquence. Whatever he touches, gleams with interest. Little everyday happenings of life, familiar to us all, he makes fascinating with the rich stores of anecdote and philosophy he draws upon in illustrating them.

He was born a poor country boy, the son of a country parson. Yet now, in his early forties, he stands in the front rank among America's business leaders as well as one of the greatest writers. Bruce Barton is perhaps best known for his books on Christ and religion. He felt that people were not getting enough out of religion. Against the advise of friends, he determined to write a book on the Saviour. When “The Man Nobody Knows” appeared, it promptly leaped into the ranks of the best sellers and stayed there. So did his next two volumes, “The Book Nobody Knows” and “What Can a Man Believe?”

Yet Barton's writings are not sermons, they are not preachments. They are sound, practical, everyday philosophy which appeals to the hard-boiled business man as well as to the idealist.

Bruce Barton's weekly article will appear in this paper beginning next week under the title “The Way of Life”. Look for it. Read it. You will agree with us that it is the best we have ever offered our readers. BRUCE BARTON—EVERY WEEK

Didn't Think He Would Ever Find a Medicine to Relieve

“I Am Gaining in Weight and Feel Like I Have a New Life Before Me, Since Taking Orgatone,” Says Ropesville Man.

“It's a fact, I have actually gained in weight and feel that I have new life before me, since taking two bottles of Orgatone,” said Geo. W. Carter, of Ropesville, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative, in Lubbock.

“I was in just such a terrible condition I didn't think I would ever find a medicine that would relieve me, and had taken so many was getting disgusted with everything,” he continued. “I was bothered with kidney and indigestion trouble and suffered something terrible with the severe pains I would have in my back and sides.

“I was in a very run down condition, and got to where everything I ate disagreed with me, and I was bothered with indigestion. I was very nervous and couldn't get any rest at night, and had just given up all hopes of being a well man again.

“A friend persuaded me to try Orgatone and the results have been remarkable. Orgatone has restored my health after everything else has failed. I am gaining in weight, eat anything I want, and sleep like a log every night. I'm not bothered with indigestion or kidney trouble and feel fine all the time. I can never say too much for Orgatone, and am glad to recommend it to everybody.”

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Slaton by the Teague Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents. Adv.

TEXAS BOYS WIN 4-H COTTONSEED TRIP TO CHICAGO

DALLAS, Texas.—Six Texas boys will attend the International Live Stock Exposition and the 4-H Agricultural Club Congress at Chicago on Nov. 30 to Dec. 7, as guests of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association, it was announced here Wednesday by T. J. Harrell, president of the association.

These boys are winners in a Texas farm contest which was completed recently by the cottonseed organization. Trips are also being given for contests by other industries throughout the country so that approximately 1,200 boys and girls will be present at the Congress. There are about 750,000 members of the 4-H clubs through the country.

In the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' contest, six trips to Chicago, six watches and six gold medals were offered for the first, second and third prizes respectively.

High score in all Texas was won in the poultry contest by Olgee Gowan, of Lamesa, Dawson county. Because of his good work, Olgee won for himself a trip to Chicago and for his teacher, M. C. Brandon, a watch. Lubbock county had the greatest number of prizes, winning two firsts, two seconds and a third. Scurry county came second with two firsts and two thirds.

Requirements for entrance into the contest were membership in the 4-H Club and residence in a country where the Walraven book covers were distributed by a cotton oil mill belonging to the Cottonseed Crushers Association.

Winners in the six classes were: Poultry: 1st, Olgee Gowan, Lamesa, Dawson County; 2nd, Clay Pettit, Abernathy, Lubbock County; 3rd, Raymond Freeman, Hillsboro.

Pig: 1st—John H. Trussell, Fluvanna, Scurry Co.; 2nd, Russel Hoch, Von Ormy, Bexar County; 3rd, A. E. Trussell, Fluvanna. Baby Beef: 1st—Grady Wallace, Snyder, Scurry County; 2nd, Hovel Smalley, Shallowater, Lubbock County.

Sheep: 1st, Hugh Pettit, Abernathy; 2nd, Monroe Minssen, Lubbock; 3rd, Howell Merrick, Lamesa, Dawson Co. Dairy Calf: 1st, Luther Peterson, Lamesa; 2nd, Jordan Goddard, O'Donnell, Lynn Co.; 3rd, Archie Duncan, Shallowater, Lubbock Co.

Story Contest: 1st, Milton Davis, Lubbock; Earl Fine, Slaton, Lubbock County; 3rd, S. D. Hays, Jr., Snyder, Scurry County.

Westerly winds indicate fair weather.

HARVEST DAYS.

The farmer used to be a much giped at individual. The cartoonists picked on him, they showed him up as a bushy bearded rustic. But of late years we have learned that if his harvests go bad, the whole country suffers. He feeds us all.

We all pay our tribute to the man who after a summer of arduous toil, is now getting his crops under cover. He has worked not merely to feed himself and his family, but the nation's prosperity is built on his effort.

We rejoice in his successes, so far as he has had them in 1929. We congratulate him on whatever prosperity he has attained. If he had added to his store, it will benefit us all. If the fates have been against him, if storm and drouth and pests to his hopes, we are sure we can do anything to aid his conditions, we wish to do

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

We are glad to notice an increase in attendance at all our services. The largest attendance last Lord's Day since I have been here. We had 88 in the young people's meeting. It is an inspiration to attend these meetings and listen to the programs being rendered by this fine group of young men and young ladies. We are indeed trying to build up a New Testament Church, and if we are not, we will appreciate being shown where we are wrong. Our heart's desire and prayer to God is that we may be well pleasing in His sight. To this end, we are studying the Word of God that we may show ourselves approved of God, a workman that needs not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of Truth. We are walking by faith. Faith comes by hearing and hearing by the Word of God. Whatsoever is not faith is sin. In can't be of faith unless I can read it in the Book. So if I am doing something in the worship of God that I can't give a saith the Lord, I am doing something that is not of faith. God forbid that I should do it. We appreciate our visitors, and assure you that we are expecting to furnish you with a better seat on which to sit.

Ruth Wesley Class Entertains Husbands

Members of the Ruth Wesley class of the Methodist Sunday school entertained for their husbands Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. After the guests had arrived, Mrs. D. E. Kemp directed a "get acquainted game", in which each guest was given a card and pencil, then each person introduced himself by his first name which was written on the cards. Anyone failing to call a person by his first name during the evening had to pay a forfeit, which was later redeemed. Mrs. L. C. Odom directed a "newspaper game". A paper called "Slaton's Weakly Effort" was printed. Columns were assigned to groups of four with a managing editor over each group. Front page news was assigned to Mrs. L. T. Green. Some very exciting and sensational news was given Walter Olive, who wrote up the society and local happenings in a very artistic manner. Beauty hints and fashions were written and drawn by Iva Smith and his group of helpers in an up-to-date order. Sports and rural news was covered by George Culwell and his staff. Today's poem and jokes were overdone by Percy Minor and his clique. L. T. Green wrote the editorial which "aired" his views on football. D. E. Kemp wrote the court proceedings and revealed some startling news, such as divorces and law suits concerning local people. Herbert W. Wall, who was advertising manager and cartoonist, was considered "pretty good" according to the judges, who awarded him the prize when the paper was read. The prize was a lovely pen on the "safety type" and was in turn presented by him to his young son.

Mrs. George Culwell directed a game called the "honeymoon rose". Two suitcases filled with women's and men's coats and hats were given to our couples, and the two racing to the end of the room and donning coats and hats which were turned inside out and arrived back to the starting point were judged the fastest workers.

Each guest was then given a telegraph blank and asked to write a ten word message, using only the letters in the name Ruth Wesley, to begin a word. Mrs. H. G. Sanders wrote the best message which concerned the next Slaton football game.

By this time it was getting "nigh on" to ten o'clock, when all old folks should be in bed, and a lovely plate lunch was served to the twenty-eight class members and their "worse halves", and the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Olive, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Green, and Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Smith.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING.

The Young People's Class of the Church of Christ invites you to the class each Sunday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

The following program will be given Sunday evening, December 1: Leader—Ruphus Hall. Class Song Leader—Loren Cullar. Scripture Reading—John 15:1-8—Alene Harvey. Answer roll call with memory verse. Prayer. Subject: "Fruit Bearing". (a) Christ the True Vine—Bill Brown. (b) Christians are the Branches—Levoy Campbell. (c) God Tends His Vineyard—Carl Self.

Texas' investment in 1,380,000 automobiles is estimated at $1,230,000,000, about one-tenth of the state's wealth of $12,500,000,000.

FORMER SLATON HIGH SCHOOL BOY MAKES GOOD

Curtis Hamilton.

ABILENE.—Curtis "Stump" Hamilton, former Slaton High School athlete, has won his spurs as one of the outstanding players on the football team at Simmons University this year. Although the Cowboys suffered serious setbacks at the hands of Trinity and Austin College in the Texas Conference race, they have rated well in holding T. C. U. to a 20-0 score, and beating Texas University second team, Daniel Baker, West Texas State Teachers College and Southwestern. And "Stump" has had no little part in the best showings of the Cowboys.

At Breckenridge against the touted Horned Frogs of T. C. U., now the leading team in the Southwest Conference, Hamilton was one of the best men on the field. Other games have found him playing his left guard position regularly and with skill that makes him a strong bid for all-Conference honors. He has played in nearly every quarter this year.

Hamilton weighs 193 pounds, charges low and hard and is especially good at piling up plays that try through the middle of the line. He promises to be one of the lights in the Thanksgiving game here which will be played between the Cowboys and the Texas Tech Matadors.

Growth of the Texas dairy industry is indicated by the fact that Texas milk plants have a daily capacity of 800,000 pounds of milk, exclusive of 250,000 additional pounds capacity in cheese making plants.

SLATON GIRL, STUDENT AT T. W. C., WILL SPEND HOLIDAYS VISITING AT WACO

Miss Elizabeth Lanham, daughter of Mrs. J. S. Lanham of Slaton, a student in Texas Womans College, will spend the Thanksgiving holidays in the home of Miss Kenneth Wilson, at Waco, Texas.

Miss Lanham is a freshman in T. W. C., and is active in the Korosophian Literary Society, in the Pep Squad, in the Hughes West Texas Club, in the Young Womans Christian Association, and in the Orchestra, and is president of the freshman class.

She sends home enthusiastic reports of the enlargement program that is being sponsored by the college. The campaign is being waged for the purpose of endowing two chairs, one honoring Carl Venth, Dean of the Fine Arts Department, and the other honoring Mrs. Mary L. Hargrove, former professor in Bible, and of providing funds to acquire additional equipment to meet the growing needs of the college.

A WOMAN ON THE JOB.

If public interest in Ruth Bryan Owen formerly revolved around "a woman in Congress and the daughter of the great William Jennings Bryan," it has undergone considerable change since her election, thanks to Mrs. Owen herself. As an individual, not as a woman, and as a person who is doing things, not one who bears a famous name and heritage, this congresswoman from Florida is attracting attention.

In the first place, Mrs. Owen is a hard worker. She might have chosen to make her mark in legislation by the force of personality and speaking ability; for she has had long experience on the platform. Instead, she selected a method that lies nearer her heart because it is productive of more practical accomplishments. She is doing things for her constituents. First, she studies to find out their needs; then she plans a way to supply those needs; and then she winds up the job by doing everything she can to complete the circle. One of her hobbies is educating her people in the affairs of government and demonstrating to them the value of organization.

Old Washington newspaper men say that Mrs. Owen is going to prove a great stimulating influence in Congress. She is so energetic and so in-

M. E. Pastor and Wife Greeted Friday With Social

Rev. and Mrs. I. A. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, arrived in Slaton on Friday evening and were greeted at the parsonage by a large number of men and women, who were anxiously awaiting their arrival.

The Women's Missionary Society served sandwiches, coffee and cake to the persons present and a delightful evening was enjoyed.

The pastor and wife were presented with a regular old time "pounding", and a cordial welcome into our midst.

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

We were much surprised the other day to find $50—Fifty perfectly good dollars—lying alongside of the roadway in the corner of a field belonging to one of our most prominent farmers. It had been there for several weeks, and looked much the worse for wear. The $50 was in the shape of a COTTON PLANTER. It was rusting fast. By spring it won't be $50 any more. Farewell Party at Cartwright Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cartwright, Jr. honored the latter's sister, Miss Alice Witt, of Bomarton, who has been spending the last four months here, with a farewell party at their home, 250 West Crosby street, on last Thursday evening.

Bridge and "42" were enjoyed during the evening followed by a delicious refreshment course served to Misses Inez Tunnel, Hazel Mansker, Muriel White, Alice Witt; Messrs. Junior Roberts, Walter Hord, Jasper Smith and Buck Johnson.

Miscellaneous Shower For Bride-Elect

On Thursday evening, November 21st, Miss Lizzie Mae Coleman, who will become the bride of Mr. Charles Tasker of Wellington, Kansas on December 2nd, was surprised with a miscellaneous shower given in her honor at the home of Mrs. M. A. Grant, 615 South Sixth Street.

The evening's entertainment began with a piano number by Miss Ella Loyce Gentry, who played "Traumerei" by Schumann, at the conclusion of which she softly played the wedding march and little Laura Elva Clark, dressed in pink and carrying a huge bouquet, entered, followed by little Evangeline Mullins dressed as a bride and Master Murray Grant, Jr., as the groom. The groom was dressed in the conventional black, the bride wore a white dress with a long veil and her train was carried by little Laverne DeBusk, who was dressed in pink to match the lower girl.

The bride and groom carried arms full of bundles which they showered upon the bride elect.

After the many gifts were opened and admired, Miss Coleman expressed her appreciation, then Mrs. Paul Foutz gave the "History of the Bride-to-be". This was followed by a reading, "The Old Maid," by Edith Foutz. A plate lunch was served to about sixty guests. Plate favors were chrysanthemums with tiny wedding bells tied to them, which announced the approaching nuptials.

Campfire Girls Enjoy Musical Party

The Campfire girls were given a Musical Party by their new guardian, Mrs. C. F. Anderson, at her home on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 26th.

Each girl came dressed to represent some well known song, and a lively contest was held in which the girls guessed the songs represented. Katie Reese was given the prize for guessing the greatest number of songs.

A story was read by Mrs. Anderson and names of songs were used to fill in blanks. Grady Billingsley was given the prize in this contest. Mrs. Anderson was assisted by Mrs. C. L. Pack.

Those present were, Grady Billingsley, Lee Beth Drewry, Lucile Coltharp, Virginia Sanders, Doña Tucker, Yvonne Henry, Katie Reese, Gertrude Legg, Jo Veta Blundell, Rachel Darwin, Doyle Hendrix, Betty Pack, Crystelle Scudder, Myrtle Teague, Mary Belle Wolfskill, Helen Ruth Elliott, Farence Baldwin, Claudia Anderson and Ona May Cook.

About twelve new members were taken in the last week. Crystelle Scudder was elected secretary and treasurer, and Betty Pack, reporter.

The girls will be divided into groups of six according to age, with assistant guardians in charge. They will hold one monthly meeting together at the home of Mrs. Anderson.

Slaton O. E. S. Hostess To Guests Tues. Nite

Slaton Chapter No. 585, O. E. S., met in regular meeting Tuesday evening, November 26th, with the Lubbock, Lorenzo and Southland Chapters visiting.

Over one hundred persons attended and the Lorenzo Chapter exemplified the degrees, with the Grand Deputy Matron of Lorenzo present.

Everyone had a fine time and the meeting proved to be quite beneficial to all attending. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles, pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, and coffee, were served to all.

Mrs. Swint Hostess To Study Club

The Wednesday Study club met November 20th with Mrs. Jess Swint as hostess at her home, 885 South 10th Street.

Fourteen members were present and enjoyed the program led by Mrs. J. A. Gillies on "Women in Education."

The program was as follows:

Roll call—Current News in Education.

Life and Influence of Mary Lyon and Alice Freeman Palmer—Leader.

Life and Work of Ella Flagg Young; Ida Tarbell and Her Ideas of Woman's Place—Mrs. Whitehead.

Madam Monessori—Mrs. Badgley.

Madam Currie, Her Discovery—Mrs. Bechtel.

The club will meet December 4th, with Mrs. A. E. Whitehead as hostess at her home, 625 West Garza. Mrs. Horace Hawkins will lead the program on "Short Stories" at that meeting.

Mrs. Hanna Hostess To Lafalot Club

Mrs. B. A. Hanna entertained the Lafalot Club Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 19, at her home on east Lynn street.

Several games of bridge were enjoyed, after which a delicious two-course plate lunch was served to the following, Mesdames K. Ellison, I. M. Hackett, H. L. Henderson, Henry V. Jarman, Brabham, A. Martin, Sparkman, John Ecker and H. S. Riggs.

City Line Club Will Give Supper

All members and their families are invited to attend.—Reporter.

Mrs. Klasner Hostess at Tea, Wednesday

Mrs. J. A. Klasner was hostess Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock to a delightful tea, which was given for the benefit of the Baptist W. M. U.

The guests enjoyed an interesting program led by Mrs. C. B. Jordan, after which tea was served to the following ladies: Mesdames Marriott, Simmons, Hodges, Vaughn, Fowler, Smith, Norris, Mullins, Turner, Anderson, Jordan, Prewit, Pearson, Stokes, Florence, Wootton, Overby, Holloway, W. B. Jonse, Caching, P. P. Murray, Ward, Davis, Rutledge, Eubanks, Hepderson, Wilson, Misses Claudia Anderson and Ethel Spooner.

Gypsy Caravan Entertained at Skelton Home

From the home of Mrs. M. N. Hale at Lubbock, a tribe of gypsies started on a caravan and followed the trail to the Skelton camp located on East Crosby street, in Slaton, arriving Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

As the tribe unloaded from their covered wagons, with red bandanas on their heads, they entered the camp and demanded something to eat. The hostess then seated them on the floor around the campfire over which a big pot hung, filled with Gypsy Gumbo and around the fire were other delicious dishes such as red and orange colored sandwiches, stuffed celery, olives, coffee and individual caramel pies topped with whipped cream. These were served Gypsy style on paper plates with paper forks and spoons.

After the gypsies' appetites were satisfied they then demanded a bridge game. The hostess was also prepared for this and five tables of bridge were started.

The Gypsies attending were, Mesdames J. Ray Dickie, Leo Edwards, W. B. Jackson, M. N. Hale, J. R. Bush, J. A. Phipps, Jr., Nema Roberts, O. A. Terry, E. L. Pitts, F. H. Childress, Sylvester, Clayton Ganmill, Lee Ragland, all of Lubbock, and Mesdames Kirby J. Brown, L. V. Lienhard, R. E. Weissenger, J. A. McGinnis, O. V. Johnson, George Marriott and Miss Audrey Marriott, of Slaton.

Mrs. O. A. Terry won high score and was presented with a colorful strand of beads. Mrs. Leo Edwards won high cut and received some Gypsy colored bath crystals. Mrs. Kirby Brown won high score among the guests and received a bright red georgette handkerchief, such as one of her tribe would appreciate.

As the guests were preparing to leave on the trail for home, the photographer arrived and made a picture of the party; the picture will be sent to a former member of the club, who now resides in Oklahoma City.

The Gypsies left, arguing and fussing as to which one had the best time, but none were hurt in the "scrap". This was given honoring the 1929 Bridge club of Lubbock, of which Mrs. Dick Skelton is a member.

Value of gypsum products manufactured by Texas plants in 1929 was $3,041,156. Texas is one of the leaders in gypsum output in the United States.

High School P. T. A. Met Last Tuesday

The High School P. T. A. met last Tuesday afternoon at the high school building in a very interesting meeting, with about forty-five persons present.

The Association enjoyed a talk given by Mrs. Lee Green on "Sanitary Conditions and How They Should be Met", also a talk by Dr. Marvin C. Overton on "Contagious Diseases." These talks were exceedingly instructive and interesting to each member present. The P. T. A. intends to use every method in endeavoring to prevent the spread of diseases which might break out in the school.

Miss Jewel Johnson gave a beautiful vocal solo, which was also enjoyed. Every man and woman who has a child attending high school is urged to attend the P. T. A. meetings.

A REASONABLE ARGUMENT.

"Power and light companies are concerns in business to make money. They have a very large investment. They can make money, not by limiting their product, electrical service—but by selling it. They can sell it only by making it commend itself to customers as to quality, price, usefulness. Their constant effort must be to make service better and prices lower, so that they may sell more service."—M. S. Sloan.

The country may need more men teachers, but good looking girl teachers are always welcomed by the young men of any town.

In 1927, there was an average of more than 2,300,000 freight cars on the lines of Class I railroads.

Texas ranks second among the states in value of exports and among the 102 countries of the world ranks eighth. New York led in 1928 with $817,000,000 and Michigan with $367,000,000, less than total for Texas.

Synopsis

What Happened Before

At a party in Palm Beach given by Mrs. Connor Clary, Leeson, an attorney, meets Lucy Harkness, known as Devil-May-Care because of her adventurous, eventful life. In a game in which partners for the evening are chosen, Lucy is won by Tim Stevens, who has a great reputation as a successful heart-breaker. Leeson is a bit jealous. Tim Stevens tells Lucy they are going aboard his boat, the Minerva, and she accedes in order not to be "a quitter". Asked if she is sorry that she won her company, Lucy says she is not and that evidently Fate has arranged it. Tim thereupon tells her to stop looking regretfully after Leeson.

Aboard Stevens' boat, the Minerva, Stevens tells Lucy of his love. When she replies with contempt for him, he grows violently angry and she becomes afraid of him. He says he will never let her go from the Minerva until she accepts him. To escape him, she leaps into the water from her cabin window, swimming a short distance under water.

Lucy reaches land and meets Dr. Fergus Faunce on an island. He takes care of her and takes her home. Everyone is worried about her, and when she meets Stevens he is frantic, regretful and still ardent in protestations of love.

Leeson informs Lucy that Stevens must raise a quarter of a million dollars or go to jail—"at five o'clock". Lucy goes to her bank and raises the sum.

Lucy goes to Stevens to help him, but he refuses to take money from a woman to whom he is not married. So Lucy marries this man that she hates, and promptly runs away from him, going to her staunch friend Dr. Fergus Faunce to tell what she has done.

Now Go On With The Story.

Tim Stevens left the villa of his wife in a state of mind that bordered on insanity. Bewilderment, outraged pride, denied love—all these conspired to render him something less than sane. But the breezes from the Gulf Stream blew upon him; the exercise of walking, by its very monotony, soothed his nerves, and by the time he reached his own home he was able to think coherently.

She had run away. No doubt of that. Why she had run away, why she had married him only to desert him for all the world like a heroine of a cheap novelette, he could not imagine. Only it was no cheap and vulgar motive that actuated her. He knew that. Lucy might be bizarre, but never common.

It suddenly occurred to him that she might be mad. Certainly this would seem a reasonable explanation of all that she had done. Only, he remembered the cool gray eyes, the broad forehead, to know that no insanity lurked within that perfectly shaped head.

She was the most impulsive creature on earth. He knew this. And yet, though she might have acted upon impulse, in marrying and leaving him, it would be impulse only because it had been done so suddenly. She had done whatever she had done with deliberation, even though she had not wasted much time in planning.

Nevertheless, his eyes lighted as he stopped inside his patio, only to grow somber instantly as she was not revealed to his eager glance. Hope—or, rather, its pale specter—vanished completely.

He sat down, rang for a servant, ordered a high-ball, and drank it slowly, sipping it carefully, as though he sought by taste to analyze its ingredients. A sudden odd thought came to him: the liquor had no savor, and nothing else in life would have savor again unless it were accompanied, or speeded, by the presence of Lucy.

This was love. This was an ache that distracted, that maddened, that drove one to frenzy. No mere barked desire this, but an overwhelming longing, a frantic longing that, he suddenly realized, was not only of the flesh but of the soul.

He could understand why man, transported in love, might sink to any degree of dissipation, to win a moment of selfishness. An overwhelming desire seized upon him, to drink and drink until he won unconsciousness. Then his mouth hardened, and his eyes that had not been focussed, but which had been wide and staring, resumed their customary coolness. Lucy Harkness had made a public fool of him,—at least, publicity could not be long avoided,—but he would add to the foolishness nothing of his own. He wouldn't drink, and he wouldn't kill himself, and he'd do nothing . . . save find her.

He rang again and ordered a servant to fetch Modane, the skipper of the Minerva. The swart Levantine arrived shortly.

"I was married today, Modane," said Stevens.

Modane nodded.

"I congratulate you, sir."

"And Mrs. Stevens and I sail on the Minerva in half an hour, on our honeymoon, Modane," Steven continued.

Again the skipper nodded.

"Our destination, sir?"

"You are to proceed south, beyond Miami. Every second day you'll send a man to Miami in a motorboat, and at the post-office he'll inquire for letters for yourself. For, Modane, Mrs. Stevens and I shall not be aboard the Minerva."

"No, sir," said Modane.

"But the crew are not to know this, and no one else is to know it. Once Devil-May-Care—GALLEY 2—re-you've started, the crew will discover to tell 'em what they want, and then they jump with joy and claim they wanted it all the time."

"Not all men, nor all women," said Stevens.

"Yes, sir, all men, and all women," insisted Modane.

"But suppose . . . suppose one isn't the stronger?" asked Stevens.

Modane shrugged.

"In that case lie down, let her walk on you. You got to, if she's stronger than you. But is she, sir?"

In his turn Stevens shrugged.

"That remains to be found out, Modane."

CHAPTER IV

The Lucy was chistened solemnly; the human Lucy broke a pint bottle of champagne over the craft's bows, and then another pint was opened and the ritual was sealed by Faunce and herself drinking the new Lucy's health and success.

"Though what greater measure of success the Lucy can hope for than to have carried you as a passenger—"

"As a member of the crew," Devil-May-Care interrupted Faunce.

"I accept the amendment, Lucy," said Faunce. "Well, what more this craft can hope for I cannot imagine."

it, but it will be too late for them to gossip. Send a tight-mouthed man ashore for letters, one that isn't inclined to gossip."

"Yes, sir," said Modane. "You should never have let her get ashore when once you had her aboard the boat, sir."

Stevens grinned faintly.

"Had she been your woman you'd have tamed her, eh? But what made you suspect . . ."

"She's not here, sir," said Modane.

"And after jumping overboard . . . Well, a man thinks, sir."

"Modane, you've been in my employ several years. You know me as well as anyone."

"And like you better, sir," said Modane, "than any one else."

"Much obliged. Then tell me: why would a woman marry me and then run away?"

"You've got a way, sir, of commanding, not asking; a proud woman might resent that, might want you to come to heel, instead of herself."

"I'll think that over," said Stevens.

"And when I bring my wife aboard—Modane, where could she have landed yesterday morning?"

Modane drew a pocket map from inside his double-breasted reefer jacket. He unfolded it, squinted at it, then placed a stubby forefinger on a point south of Palm Beach.

"Mango Key, sir, or one of those other keys. I told you the drift was inward, but you thought the Gulf Stream current set outward where she went overboard. Mango Key or thereabouts, sir."

"Much obliged, Modane. You may go."

"You don't want . . . help, sir?" asked the sailor.

Stevens laughed.

"To fetch my own wife? Not help, not even my own hands, Modane, if she won't come for words, then . . . she'll never come."

"Don't waste 'em, sir," pleaded Modane. "Take her, grab her, make her come."

Stevens shook his head.

"Would you have an unwilling wife, Modane?"

Modane showed his white teeth.

"If I wanted her, and could get her, it wouldn't matter to me whether she came willing or unwilling, I'd make her willing."

"All women aren't the same, you know," suggested Stevens.

"Sure they are, sir, like all men! They don't know what they want. They wait for some stronger person

They were bowling leisurely south, across a placid ocean, beneath a shining sun and fleecy clouds. There was the faintest swell, and along the sandy shore, miles inland, breakers curled and broke foamily, and the murmur of their dissolution sounded like a faint chant in the distance.

Sky, atmosphere, and sea had combined to lull the travelers into dreamy security. But in the tropics Nature is more treacherous than in the frozen Arctic. As the good are supposed to die young, their frail bodies overburdened by the weight of their virtues, so the sweetness of the tropics becomes insupportable to Nature, who when sweetness has lost its savor promptly proceeds to show what a real wild lady she can be.

Out at sea Faunce saw a whirling something that twisted and strained in its effort to climb higher, although already it reached, or seemed to reach a dark cloud that had sprung suddenly from nowhere. He had never seen a waterspout before, but he needed no previous acquaintance for instant recognition.

Lucy sat upright as a cold chill descended upon her. Already the sun was obliterated and a false night was upon them. The placid ocean had awakened, was stirring, was tossing as though in agony. The Lucy rose suddenly, rolled sideways, then pitched into a gulf. Water broke over her bows, sluiced the deck, drenched Lucy Stevens, splashed over Faunce at the wheel.

"Hang on!" she heard him cry, his voice barely audible above the roar of the cyclone. And now not merely the salt water drenched her, but the wildest rain she had ever known came down from the darkened sides; huge hailstones hit the deck, bounded about, she oddly thought, like tennis-balls, or rounded dice . . . Was this some gambling demon up aloft who shook dice for the lives of Faunce and herself? The Lucy seemed to rise clear of the water; propelled by wind and wave it shot along like a hydroplane. Lightning gleamed and thunder roared. Beaten flat to the deck by the Devil-May-Care—GALLEY 3—force of the wind, and hanging on with grim determination to the rail, she saw Faunce straining at the wheel, trying to deflect the course of the craft.

But why try to steer in this hurricane? She turned her head and knew the answer to her unuttered question. Ahead of them, a rod away, loomed the terrifying bulk of the great waterspout which first had told Faunce of their peril.

And as the Lucy smashed into the watery tower, her lips twisted in an ironic smile. It was for this that she had swum agonizingly to shore only thirty-six hours ago.

How much of life is real, and how much of it is a dream? Or is it all a dream? Lucy, lying in a berth, asked herself these questions. This was the room aboard the Minerva from which, some time ago, she distinctly remembered having dived into the Gulf Stream. Yet she was in this cabin, dry, not soaked from long immersion, clothed in pajamas which she recognized as having seen in this room just after she had shut the door upon Tim

Stevens. And why, unless she had been drugged, had she dream such terrible dreams? And yet they hadn't all been terrible. Fergus Faunce had appeared in them, dear Fergus Faunce with his kindly whimsical mouth, his gentle eyes behind the green sunglasses, his graying hair, his twisted nose. Ah, Fergus at least was real! No dream could have evoked so quaint and lovable a character. And if Fergus was real, then all of the mad things that she remembered—her swim ashore, Mango Key, her marriage, her flight . . . She sat up, while something cold seemed to lay a clammy hand or claw upon her breast! The hurricane, the waterspout, the final crash! She had been saved; but what about Fergus? She seemed to remember that his hand had clutched at her, as though to drag her from beneath the flood, and after that she remembered nothing.

THE SCHOOLS' JOB.

A lady who lives near a high school building in a certain town complained a few days ago about the noise made by the pupils who come in automobiles. She thought they made a tremendous disturbance, more than was at all necessary, and that the teachers ought to instruct them to be more considerate of the folks in the neighborhood.

A friend remarked that the students on their way to and from school, would throw many bits of waste paper over her lawn. She thought the teachers ought to stop their doing that.

A third lady remarked, that these youngsters as they passed her place, would walk over the edge of her grass. She thought they should be instructed to refrain from this practice.

Thus if anyone sees anything going wrong in the community, it is customary to suggest that the schools should teach the young folks not to do these things. Propaganda agencies ask the schools to promote the interests of their causes. Civic associations, clubs, welfare agencies, etc., etc., ask the schools to interest the children in their work. It is not surprising that the school teachers sometimes throw up their hands in despair and ask how they can do everything that is expected of them.

There are some very vital ideas which the schools ought to impart to the children, even if they have to discard some of their present book work. One of these is the necessity of honest and moral conduct, and good citizenship in their community. These are quite as vital as any book work.

Meanwhile the parents should not pass the buck over to the schools for conveying ideas that ought to be impressed in the homes. If the children are noisy, unmannerly, disorderly, and careless of the property of their neighbors, it is up to the parents to point out the mistake they are making, which will hurt them more than anyone else.

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH.

Our readers and fellow business men here in Slaton we trust will not let the recent collapse on the New York Stock Exchange convince them that the country is headed for hard times.

This stock depression, while disastrous to some individuals, is not likely to have any profound effect upon the general business life of the country. Quotations on the various stock exchanges do not rise and fall in accordance with the investment value of the stocks listed. They react rather to market manipulation and to the whims and notions of the stock buying public. The market responds to a general public state of mind rather than to careful investment considerations.

Rather the sudden collapse of the market may have a beneficial effect upon general business here in Slaton. The number of people in all walks of life who have been playing the stock market of late is amazing. People who scarcely knew the difference between a bond, preferred stock and common stock a few years ago, nowadays discourse of playing with margins, of selling short, and of the recent history of all of the most active stocks listed on the exchange.

This has unquestionably drawn much money out of other channels of business. Men have speculated with stocks instead of buying new cars, new furniture, or any one of countless other commodities on sale in our city.

Furthermore the recent drop in stocks will teach the country a well earned lesson, namely, that stock that cannot carry itself on a good investment basis is inflated and will eventually crash. Neither real estate nor stocks can long remain at a price so high that they cannot earn a good rate of interest.

Many of the smart guys who think they can live without toil, get caught in the coils of the law.

Motorists should not speed up, simply because they see a sign that says "School, go slow".

Some people are so hopelessly solemn that any sign of gaiety in others seems to hurt them.

A lot of wives would be perfectly happy if they didn't talk things over with other women.

How to Raise Poultry
 By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

ARTICLE XXXI
 THE GREAT MOLTING MYSTERY.

The Puzzling Phenomenon of Molting May be Used as a Valuable Guide When Culling Flock to Eliminate Poor Egg Producers.

Editor's Note - This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

A rather amusing story has gained considerable circulation among poultry fanciers. Young Mrs. Newlywed stopped the local veterinary on the street and demanded that he come over immediately to inspect her flock of blooded leghorns. A lot of them, she said, had suddenly become afflicted with a strange, apparently contagious, malady.

When asked for a description of this peculiar disease, she explained that, one after another, they had ceased laying and then begun to lose their feathers in a most alarming fashion. Starting with the neck feathers, they had successively lost in turn the body feathers, then the tail feathers, then most of the wing feathers until they were practically nude and truly pitiable objects. The young woman was naturally quite relieved when the old doctor informed her that it was just as natural for her hens to shed their feathers at a certain time of the year as it was for certain kinds of trees to shed their leaves. They were simply molting and would recover shortly without any great effort on her part.

I shall make no effort to vouch for the truth of this story. I do not hesitate to say, however, that I have often been amazed at the comparative lack of knowledge even among a great many experienced poultry raisers on the subject of molt. For example, there is considerable difference of opinion even among experts as to whether the molt affects and controls egg production, or whether egg production controls the molt. Some contend that a hen stops laying because she is getting ready to molt and others maintain with equal spirit that the hen won't molt until after she is through with the business of egg production, for the time being at least. I, myself, am strongly inclined to the latter theory and I am supported in my belief by a great many qualified observers who also have given the matter considerable scientific study.

The exact sequence is of no particular moment to practical poultry raisers, however. The fact remains that molting does not start until after egg production has ceased, only in exceptional cases, regardless of which governs the other. Just why hens are committed to this peculiar habit of shedding their feathers once a year is another matter which has been the subject of a great many profound treatises by learned scientific men. The average poultry raiser is, however, mainly concerned with the fact that this peculiar phenomenon may serve as a very valuable guide in the culling out of poor layers from the rest of the flock.

Most authorities now agree that the hens which start molting earliest and keep it up longest are the poorest layers. Good layers seldom start molting until later in the fall and are completely finished in from six to eight weeks. Less productive hens, on the contrary, may start as early as June, July or August and fiddle around for four or five months before they have regained something like what President Harding would probably have called, "A state of normalcy."

While nearly all feathers are molted at one time or another, the most reliable guide is the manner in which wing feathers are molted. High producing, late molting hens molt faster than one feather at a time, or else they molt only a part of their feathers, carrying others over to another year. Poor layers, on the other hand, may molt but one wing feather at a time so that the process may require as long as 24 weeks. Most poor layers take very nearly this long to complete the molting of their wing feathers, so it can be seen that this is a very accurate index of productiveness.

Although the alleged dismay of young Mrs. Newlywed as related at the beginning of this article is doubtless more or less of an exaggeration, there is no escaping the fact that a hen during the molting time is really very much out of condition and should receive extra food and attention. The care and feeding of hens at this time might be the subject of a separate article in itself. I shall, therefore, let it suffice to say that molting hens should have plenty of good shade, nourishing food and ample protection from bad weather. A good mineral tonic should also be given them so their appetites will be whetted for an abundance of food. Then they will take the necessary nutriment to offset the strain on their systems, grow their feathers again and get back to laying.

Feed a variety of good, sound grains, such as oats, wheat, corn and brand. But do not feed too much corn, as that is too heating. Feed also some sunflower seed and linseed meal. Also a little more of meat, green cut bone or meat scraps than is usually fed and give plenty of milk, if possible. Feed an abundance of greens. Have pure, fresh water available at all times. All this will help to bring the hen back into laying condition rapidly.

FARM SHOW VALUABLE.

One of the marks of the season is the various agricultural shows that are taking place throughout the country between now and Christmas.

They range in size and importance all the way from little exhibitions in rural schools to international stock shows. Their contribution to the development of the science and the industry of agriculture cannot be calculated.

A farm show of any kind stimulates interest in better methods, and establishes standards. Further it serves as a sort of clearing house of ideas that can be put to practical use.

Affairs of this kind are of enormous significance to a community, and should receive the wholehearted backing of all interests. The business men of Slaton do well to sponsor and help such enterprises, or anything that improves the standing of the farmer improves business in Slaton likewise.

COMMERCIALIZED ATHLETICS.

The findings of the Carnegie foundation with reference to commercialized sports in colleges have apparently had little influence in reducing attendance at football games. But the feeling is growing, nevertheless, that sports are being taken altogether too seriously in our institutions of higher learning.

People who think are coming to realize that a college should be something besides an institution that directly or indirectly can finance a championship football eleven.

We enjoy high school and college football. But much of the real charm of the game for the editor comes in the fact that it is played by amateurs.

THE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS.

Prominent among the forces that push a town ahead, are the women's organizations. Women's clubs have been one of the principal influences working for progress.

The lectures presented by such clubs on the topics of the day, make the members of these clubs intelligent on modern progressive issues. They are ready to accept new ideas, if they have been informed that these ideas have been tried out in many places and found to be sound. A town where there are good live women's clubs is one where there will be a receptive sentiment toward advance movement, and the people who push such movements find substantial backing in such communities.

"What do You Mean . . .
 Penetrates Metal Surfaces"

A Plain Answer to a Reasonable Question

THE Germ Essence, imparted to highly refined paraffin base crude under a patented process exclusively owned by the Continental Oil Company for North America, actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent, protective film.

No matter how long a motor stands idle or how cold it gets, this film is present and immediately lubricates the moving parts when the engine turns over.

It takes five to ten minutes—often longer—for the oil in the crankcase to fully flood the bearings in the starting operation. During this period, automotive engineers agree, from 40% to 60% of motor wear occurs. This wear is reduced to a minimum by the ready-and-waiting lubrication which the Germ Essence imparts to CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oils, retaining it on and in the surface pores.

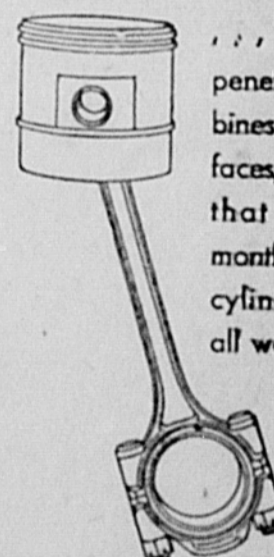

CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil stands up under every condition of stress and strain. It will not break down or burn nor will it evaporate to any appreciable degree.

No other oil possesses these qualities.

So positive are we in our convictions, so positive have been our tests of this remarkable lubricant, that we are perfectly willing for you to select any operating condition—no matter how extreme—and we will meet it with CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil so satisfactorily that you will never consider using any other oil.

Go now to stations and dealers displaying the CONOCO Red Triangle—have your crankcase drained and begin immediately to profit through the use of this remarkable oil.

"Very Latests"

BY CECILE

Milady's coat this season is of the charming new wrap-around style shown in the illustration, with shawl collar and swirl cuffs.

Of necessity the coats will be longer . . . a natural concession to the new mode in dresses.

Of course, the new coats are all versions of the new silhouette and designed for the mode of slender chic, showing the new flares or slightly molded straight lines.

Among the favorite furs are beaver, lapin, caracul, Persian lamb, raccoon, kit fox, Canadian wolf, badger and Russian lynx.

Fabrics are varied, and include Kashmere and suede, broadcloths, velour de noir and imported tweeds.

Individually appropriate fur trimmings are, the boast of the shops, so Milady is confronted with a great many styles of trimmings to choose from. Indeed, this idea of individual fitness in all things is gaining a greater and greater hold on the World of Fashion. Perhaps a revolt against the sameness of most things . . . who knows? Even the men are beginning to look for variety and exclusive individuality! Can women do less?

This Fall the woman has her choice in coats and frocks of Princess, flare and wrap silhouettes . . . all three most charming and effective.

There seems to be a positive vogue for smart daytime things in black. Anyone who lunches on that New York avenue of fashion, Park Avenue, cannot fail to notice this. One suit of nappy dull-finished worsted was observed, extensively furred in shaved Persian lamb, with a vestess and collar of the fur, sleeve capes and narrow cuffs and wide, triangular front panels down the skirt of the tight-waisted coat. To perfect this ravishing outfit, there was a black felt hat with Persian lamb draping it for a turban brim. A jeweled pin was worn stuck through one side.

Putting Bossy Into Cornfield Poor Economy

Those dairy cows strolling through fall cornstalks will soon be lean and bony cows—and why not Busy Farmer Jones too often neglects his cattle in the fall, and after letting them roam around in his cornfields thinks he has "done right by Nell," and at the same time figures that it's a mighty economical way of feeding old Bossy. But experienced dairymen say he's all wrong, for they know that "cornstalk fields are starvation fields."

It is true that cornstalks do contain carbohydrates, but only 1 1/2 per cent protein matter. In order to get a sufficient amount of the body-conditioner, protein, cows have to stroll through the entire field. Just as the runner uses energy in speeding down the cinder-path, so does old bossy use more energy in her wanderings than she is acquiring from her carbohydrate cornstalk dinner. After a few of these meals a change can soon be seen in the cow's general condition, as well as in the quantity of her milk. She becomes thin, under-nourished, and her milk production falls off. Now is the time to add more protein to grain mixtures, and to accustom the cattle to a well-balanced ration before the severe winter weather.

Poor old Bossy can't hoist an umbrella, or put on rubbers on cold, rainy days—she just grins and bears it. A cow's hide is very sensitive to weather changes; cold, rain, and wind act negatively against her, and decrease her supply of milk. Cows which are given an average amount of well-balanced rations, care, and comfort will repay their owners. They should be housed in clean, well-heated barns, and given special care now. Cattle may be allowed to roam in old meadows a few hours on pleasant warm fall days, but should never be permitted to remain outdoors in cold, rainy weather.

Balanced rations should continue to be fed with the proper proportions of protein such as linseed meal, increased as the colder weather approaches, thus increasing the milk production.

Good rations with a protein concentrate will keep cattle in the "pink of condition", aid them to maintain the heavy milk production on through the early spring season, and will act as a slight laxative. Linseed meal has a cool lubricating effect on the cow's digestive organs, enabling her to utilize the maximum amount of the great quantities of feed she must consume through months of heavy milk production. It also acts as a conditioner through the months of inactivity, and will keep hides healthy and glossy.

When stabled for winter a good ration, when clover hay is fed with corn silage, is ground corn, barley or hominy, 200 lbs.; ground oats, 200 lbs. wheat bran, 100 lbs.; and linseed meal, 100 lbs. It is usually recommended to feed one pound of the above grain mixture to every 3-4 pounds of milk per day. For high producing dairy cows it might be advisable to add a little more linseed meal to the grain mixture.

CRIMINALS IN OFFICE.

Albert B. Fall, convicted of using his post as Secretary of the Interior to extort a bribe of $100,000 for leasing oil lands belonging to the people at an inadequate rate, faces a year in prison and a fine of $100,000.

That is encouraging to everybody but the sentimentalists who let their pity for a sick old man obscure their indignation at his betrayal of his trust. It is time that a few men who have used their official position to feather their own nests were put in jail. Nobody believes that Fall is the only public official who ever took a bribe. The general belief is that such things are common among the men who administer public affairs. This cynical attitude on the part of the public accounts for a great deal of the disrespect for law which is one of the grave conditions in America today.

Fall's conviction and sentence have already done much to dispel the notion that a man in high office can commit a crime and escape punishment. The conviction of a few more unfaithful public servants would help restore confidence in law and justice.

bespeak the lady—so it has had for more centuries than we remember. And yet, in the eager ports and out-door living, our generation seems in grave of forgetting this age-old require special care after tion, and nails, particularly, ly to show signs of neglect. All devote this entire article to of the nails: for remember—er how soft and smooth the e, they will not be truly beau- all the nails are as fresh and e as tiny pink shells.

ape of the perfect nail varies. re you go to extremes with file, stop for a moment and at the nail is a utility ap- as well as an ornament. It is t the end of your finger to the sensitive nerves there from all sorts of injury. Very short, pointed nails are quite as foolish as the long pointed ones which the Chinese nobles protect with jeweled nail-guards. (Unfortunately there are women who are quite as fondly vain in this respect as the mandarins.) The most sensible and correct shape for the nails is an almond shape, only moderately long, rounded at the ends and corners, with a half-moon smoothly revealed at the base.

For the home manicure you need only a few implements—a nail file, an orange stick, a nail brush and a good chamios buffer are most essential. Some women prefer the quick liquid polish to a dry powder or paste polish used with the buffer. This is a matter of taste and convenience. Certainly a liquid polish saves time and many of the good ones are in quite as good taste as the conservative dry polish.

New Hope News.

Mrs. J. A. Taylor, Mrs. Annie Hazlip, Mrs. Jesse Tims and Mrs. J. A. Cooksey visited Mrs. E. T. Bryant last week.

Sunday School Report: Collection $1.42; Chapters 140; Number Present 50; Visitors 5. A good crowd was out to hear the new Methodist minister but he failed to come.

Miss Inez Agee, Joe Schramm, Herbert Tims and Mary Schramm spent the week end visiting friends and relatives at Muleshoe.

Mrs. A. P. Tims assisted Miss Louise Baird Saturday in arranging the yearbooks.

Rev. C. M. Curry, of Brownfield, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon for us Thursday night. Brother Curry has preached a Thanksgiving sermon for us for the last three years. We are all glad to know that he has been called back to Plains for another year's work.

Allene Cooksey attended the 4H Club Council meeting Saturday and was appointed on the nominating committee. New officers for the Clubs will be elected Achievement Day.

Word was received here Saturday of the serious injury sustained by Henry MacDougal when he fell from the top of an oil tank in the Borger Oil Field Friday. More recent word says he is resting easily in the hospital.

J. R. Griggs, of Woodrow, came over Wednesday night and printed his school paper, "The Woodrow News" on J. N. Townsend's mimeograph.

Miss Nix and Angela Wilke, two nurses at the West Texas Hospital and Miss Louise Wilke, of Tech, spent last Wednesday night with the L. W. Wilke family.

The families of L. W. Wilke and F. E. Minnsen spent a very busy day last Sunday. They attended church at Posey in the forenoon, went to Southland in the afternoon, attended the wedding of Minnie Wilke and Walter Steinhaus in the Lutheran Church; after the wedding they enjoyed the wedding supper in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wilke. After the supper they attended the Lutheran League.

The Young People's Orchestra, composed of Willie Wilke and Monroe Minnsen of New Hope, Lettie Baker, Gertrude Wilke, Emma, Marie and Olga Voight of Southland, Elinor Miller, Edwin and Edna Allers of Wilson, had their regular practice in the L. W. Wilke home last Wednesday night. Others attending were the families.

Charley Boyd and family, Neal Eubanks and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Fine, S. D. Pate and wife visited in the E. T. Bryant home Sunday.

Mrs. C. Z. Fine, our first assistant, received a wire from her sister, Miss Jewel Casey, Bursar, of the Howard Payne College at Brownwood, that she had won third place in a contest, the prize being $1,432.24; in June this same young lady was awarded a grand prize in a puzzle contest and received $3,884.60, making a total of $5,316.84. This is a real distinction in solving puzzles.

Homer Booher and mother were dinner guests in the S. D. Pate home Friday. Homer visited in the high school room in the afternoon. He was at one time a member of the high school here, before moving to Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Carter visited Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Richardson Sunday.

Glen Richardson, Thresa and Thetis Taylor visited Myrel Carter, Sunday, and Gene Walls visited F. G. Vaughn at a Lubbock sanitarium Sunday. Mr. Vaughn is recovering from an appendicitis operation.

Johanie Evans, who had her arm broken last Sunday and was rushed to the hospital, returned home last Monday and has improved nicely.

O. A. Mattheus and family spent Sunday with the Guertersloh family of Posey.

G. P. Parkhill and family and grandson, David, visited the John Borleola and David Vaughn, Pauline on family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Townsend and little daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Griggs of Woodrow, Sunday.

W. P. Basham and family visited A. Z. MacDougal and family Sunday evening.

Miss Fay Kerley spent the week end with her aunt and uncle in Lubbock. Robert Dean and family, of Joe Stokes, spent Sunday evening with L. G. Baily and family.

Clay Richardson and family and Miss Edith Richardson spent Sunday with Louis Richardsons, of Lubbock.

Raymond Forester and family have moved to the Posey community.

Ozella Davis and Auline Lemmons had dinner with Modena and Frances Stewart, Sunday.

L. G. Baily and C. W. Falkenburg spent Wednesday evening with J. N. Townsend and family.

Myrel Carter, Thetis and Thresa Taylor, Alma and Eileen Boren, Helen and Ruby Mae Wilke took dinner Sunday with Allene Cooksey.

Rev. Weiss and family, from Onion Creek, near Austin, attended the orchestra meeting in the Wilke home last Wednesday night. Rev. Weiss was pastor at Posey for years and had been called back to perform a marriage ceremony. Rev. Roth, the present pastor at Wilson, is director of the orchestra.

Mr. Townsend has been giving a thirty minute noon period that the children may have more time in the evening to pull bolls.

Next week we will publish the history of Allene Cooksey's club work for the year, which according to Miss Louise Baird, is quite outstanding.

Between fifty and sixty friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Martha Ehlo, Sunday, to witness the baptismal services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ehlo.

"Very Latests"

The short fur jacket, one of the jantiest of the season's styles, has been most enthusiastically sponsored by the younger set, who find it an indispensable garment for sports and the collegiate wardrobe.

Usually the fur jacket of finger length is worn with a harmonizing frock of jersey or one of the soft crepe woolens, in the manner illustrated by this effective ensemble which Henri Bendel (New York) has imported from Goupy.

The little jacket is of natural gray kid; the dress of black and white striped jersey has the normal waistline emphasized by a narrow leather belt, and the fullness of the skirt is formed by shirring, an unusual departure in jersey.

The hat worn with this costume which is especially smart for sports and morning wear is a stitched beret of black velvet—an original design by Reboux.

Fishnet a Smart Fabric. Among the new materials for afternoon and semi-formal wear, silk fishnets have appeared in rather large mesh patterns. One graceful model of beige silk net features irregular diagonal flounces and a side berth falling nonchalantly from one shoulder. With the costume a black fat hat and black suede shoes and gloves are worn.

Skirts Swish About the Ankles.

Sorry to say so—but the skirts of many of the later models for afternoon and evening have descended to the ankles, whence they flounce about in a manner that reminds us of Mid-Victorian modes. However, the slim, clinging, princess lines of the upper portion are so enchanting that we accept the exaggerated length almost without a murmur.

Yarn Embroidery a New Trimming Note.

On knitted frocks and jersey costumes have user colorful yarn embroidery to trim several smart new models created or school wear. Motifs this time lean toward the modernistic instead of floral or more conventional patterns.

U. D. C. PRESIDENT MAY HEAD MOVE TO SAVE TEXAS SHRINES

DALLAS, Texas.—Miss Katie Daffan, of Ennis, president of the Texas Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, may be made leader of the move in Texas to protect and preserve the old Sam Houston homestead in Huntsville, it was announced here Thursday.

The movement began with members of the State Historical Society of Texas, Tom McCullough of Dallas, Gus A. Amussen, Jr., of Galveston and former Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson of Houston being active in their endorsement of the idea.

The old homestead, one of the few shrines remaining of the Republic of Texas, is a frame building and is at the mercy of fire, and time, the more so because of the ancient wood, dried with generations.

It has been suggested that structural-tile or some other fire proofing material be used to line the old walls and so preserve the old home from the ravages of fire. It is also the plan of the proponents of the idea to make a public museum of the old monument of freedom, this action demanding even more a fire proofing of some sort.

S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of schools, has added his voice to the plea, rapidly becoming state wide, that the old home be preserved.

The legislature last year appropriated a sum of money for this general purpose, but the bill was vetoed by the governor.

In discussing the responsibility of leading the work in the state, Miss Daffan said:

"It seems to be that not only the Daughters of the Confederacy, but all organizations in Texas should share in this work. The appropriations committee of the House and the finance committee of the Senate, will, I believe, give attention to this call.

"When the Alamo was threatened, it was the women of Texas who stirred up public opinion and saved the old shrine, and the women can do it again, making Houston's home safe and secure from fire and time's ravages, if the men do not see their way clear to fireproofing and generally preserving the house that contains so many memories of heroism in Texas."

Utilization of oyster shell for the manufacture of lime is the purpose of the Haden Lime Co., whose $500,000 plant on the Houston Ship Channel was recently completed.

After a warm campaign with a committee of citizens directing the campaign of those opposed to political ownership of utilities, Cleburne rejected a proposal to establish a light plant by a vote of 917 to 769. Amarillo voters recently by a vote of 1,893 to 1,291 rejected a proposal to buy the gas distributing system owned by the Amarillo Gas Co.

BECOME A PAYROLL NEWSPAPER

When it comes to developing the industrial prosperity of the country the spirit of a local newspaper is part of the efficiency of the nation. Working to secure industries and payrolls for the home community, and making the town known as a payroll center identifies a newspaper with the most constructive line of progress, that touches the hopes and lives of more people and families than any other one single idea on development. It is of far more importance than most forms of political agitation. Industrialism and prosperity make happy homes and law abiding citizens and taxpayers.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia!

When tongue or breath tells of acid condition,—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescriptional product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1876.

...and learned a lot!"

MRS. KIRK'S husband wasn't expecting her back from Fort Worth until Sunday morning, but she came home on Saturday night.

"I'll surprise them," she told herself, slipping her key into the latch and entering the house quietly.

Savory odors came from the kitchen and she heard voices behind the closed door.

"Yes, sir; your mother's the best cook on earth," she heard her husband saying to her son, "but, my boy, she certainly doesn't make good coffee. She's such a dear, good woman, though, that I have never liked to tell her so."

"Well, it's good that we found out about this White Swan Coffee and laid in a good supply while she was gone, Dad," her boy said. "I think she'll notice the improvement."

Mrs. Kirk was 'a good sport' and a wise woman. She slipped back to the front door again, slammed it and shouted, "Look who's here!"

Mr. Kirk and his son raced to meet her and immediately after the embraces were exchanged, she said, "By the way, I ran across the most wonderful coffee in Fort Worth. It's called White Swan and . . ."

"TWO BLACK" CROWS ON THE ROCK PILE.

George Moran, Charles E. Mack, "The Two Black Crows," as they appear in person and on the screen in the Paramount Picture "Why Bring That Up?"

NOW YOU CAN SEE 'EM; HEAR 'EM AT THE PALACE, SLATON, SUN.-MON.-TUES

Haven't you often wondered just what Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, looked and acted like? Haven't you thought how much funnier they would be if you could see as well as hear them put on their hilarious record and radio sketches?

Now, you don't have to wonder any longer. Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows have made their first movie, an all talking Paramount Picture called "Why Bring That Up?" in which they introduce many of their best selling record bits and a bevy of new funisms.

"Why Bring That Up?" is from an original story by Octavus Roy Cohen, famous author of negro stories. You see and hear how the famous team of Moran and Mack came to join up and start the famous "Two Black Crows" idea. You follow them along the path to fame with all its fun and adventures. You see them produce a lavish musical show in which they star. There's a girl mixed up in it too, she is Evelyn Brent, but neither one of them marries her in the end.

"Why Bring That Up?" is just down right good fun and you'll enjoy every moment of it when you see and hear it at the Palace theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

CARELESSNESS, THE GREAT DESTROYER

Today, if this is an average 24 hours, several score people will be killed and thousands injured in automobile accidents. It happened yesterday, and it will happen again tomorrow.

Somebody turned without giving a signal; somebody was driving too fast; somebody didn't stop at a school district or a through boulevard; somebody insisted too much on right-of-way or what he conceived to be his privilege; somebody lost his head in a crisis. The result: Casualties and waste, in lives and property, that knowledge, caution and fairness toward others would have prevented. It should be a reasonably simple thing to observe traffic laws, to keep a machine under control, to learn the written and unwritten laws of the road, and to keep one's eyes open for the mistakes of others as well as one's own. Yet millions of motorists fail to do so.

It should be remembered that every accident is caused because someone was reckless, incompetent, careless or ignorant. Unpreventable accidents are rare. And in this day of fast cars and congested traffic, the poor driver is a menace to the life and property of every citizen.
