How County Voted for County Offices

For district clerk, Chas. Metcalfe won over Mrs. Flora Atchison by 717 votes. For county judge, Burton S. Burks was third, so he is eliminated and the race is now between Judge Nordyke and E. L. Pitts, with Mr. Pitts only 224 votes behind Nordyke in the first primary.

For county superintendent, Miss Murfee lead both the other candidates by 512 votes and there will be no runoff in this office.

For county clerk, Amos Howard had a total of 969 votes over his opponent, Ed Allen.

For county offices the only run-off will be between E. L. Pitts and Chas. Nordyke for the county judgeship.

C. of C. Pledged for Co-Op Office

Establishment of a sub-branch district office of the Texas Cotton Co-Operative association in Slaton, to give farmers of this section the very best possible advantages in marketing their cotton under the Federal Farm Board plan, has been approved by the board of directors of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement by W. H. Smith, president.

With the sub-office here, farmers of this territory will receive the same service that would be available if a branch office were created here, except that the sub-office is open for only four or five months during the year, whereas the branch office operates throughout the year.

"To secure a branch office, 15,000 bales of cotton must be marketed through the office in order to meet its expenses, and we do not anticipate receiving such a volume of cotton here this season," said Mr. Smith. "Therefore, the only practical solution of our problem is to secure the branch office, which requires less than 5,000 bales to meet its expense," he stated.

In addition to cotton grown in this immediate section, it is declared that cotton will be brought here from other nearby points to be marketed through the sub-office here, and this will supplement the local quantity. The closest offices will be at Tahoka and Lubbock. Cotton to the south and southeast of Slaton for many miles, besides that to the north, east and west, is expected to be concentrated at this point.

Service at the Slaton sub-office will be equal in every sense to that at any branch office. A cotton classer and stapler will be stationed here to give expert grading service, and cotton will be paid for on the day it is sold or pooled to the Co-Op, it is announced by Chamber of Commerce officers.

Miss Ollie Mae Gaither has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in various cities in East and Central Texas visiting friends and relatives.

Highway No. 7 Is Making Progress

With the paving completed to approximately two and a half miles northwest of Posey, Highway No. 7 is becoming the driving ground for the Slaton folk.

The concrete is being poured from the Burrus switch and fine progress is being made and soon Slaton and Lubbock will have paving all the way. There has been no delay on the work on account of the weather. The work of leveling the dirt adjacent to the paving is making progress.

Mrs. J. A. McGinnis is spending the week in Wellington, Kansas, with Mr. McGinnis.

Slaton Straw Vote Was Not Reliable

Political enthusiasts here have decided that pre-election straw votes mean nothing.

Last week, a straw vote was held, showing Mrs. Ferguson to lead the ticket out of 170 votes polled, while Clint Small was second.

In the actual voting last Saturday, "Ma" received very little more than half as many votes as were received by Clint Small. In three of the four boxes, Small got 219 and Mrs. Ferguson 127. The fourth box, Precinct 25, from which returns are yet unavailable, had about 100 votes, and it was conceded that Small had the big end of that total.

COTTON CO-OP MEETING TO BE HELD HERE NEXT MONDAY

DOES NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING PAY?

After a careful survey of the field of motion picture advertising, the Fox Theatres corporation, operating hundreds of movie houses between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic seaboard, announced Sunday it had instructed its house managers, without decreasing their advertising appropriations, to drop all other forms of advertising and spend the money for newspaper space.

The Fox company has found newspapers the "logical medium to advertise program to the motion picture public," G. S. Yorke, director of advertising declared. He said, "newspaper advertisements can be digested to the convenience of the reader."

The decision was based largely on the experience of the Roxy theatre in New York, which has used newspaper advertising exclusively.

Methodist Meeting Closed Sunday Night

The Methodist revival meeting of the First Methodist church closed on Sunday night after a very successful two weeks' duration, with the local pastor, Rev. I. A. Smith, in charge assisted by Rev. G. P. McCollum, pastor of the Asbury Methodist church, of Lubbock.

Rev. Mr. Smith delivered some inspiring and uplifting sermons during the meeting as well as did Rev. Mr. McCollum, who preached at the morning hour.

The music was splendid with Miss Lorene McClintock at the piano. A total of twenty-six conversions and reclamations were accepted during the time with a general inspired spirit for service and righteousness prevailing among the people of the church.

Kessel, Hood Are Rotary Speakers

Abe Kessel and John W. Hood were the speakers at the Slaton Rotary club luncheon last Friday at the Slaton clubhouse. Kessel spoke on the subject, "Is It Anybody's Business How I Conduct My Business," and Hood's subject was, "To What Extent Is It Ethical To Agree With Your Competitor as to Prices?"

Visitors at the luncheon were Dr. Paul W. Horn and Rex Westerfield, of Lubbock and C. C. Sheldon, of McClung. Dr. Horn responded with a short talk near the close of the meeting.

The entire club membership was in attendance.

On the program for this Friday will be Tom A. Worley, Jr., giving a 15-minute address on "History and Progress of Civic Beautification in Slaton." Special music will be furnished. Visitors will include the three Lamesa people who will be here that day to judge the lawns that have been entered in the fourth annual "Pretty Lawn Contest," conducted by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Jeano Foreman, of Post, has been the house guest of Miss Joan Drewry.

Mrs. A. G. Taggart has returned from an extended visit with relatives and friends in various parts of Texas.

Baptist Encampment At Post Is Underway

The Baptist encampment began on Monday evening, July 28, and it is well underway from reports coming from Two Draw lake, at Post, the meeting place. This is an event for the Baptists of the South Plains and adjoining counties.

For the past six years the Baptists have gathered there for rest and instruction and this year's program is stated to be one of the best offered. Many will doubtless spend Sunday, August 3 at the meetings.

Farmers of the Slaton community are being called to meet in Slaton at the bandstand on the city hall lawn next Monday afternoon, August 4, at 3 o'clock to hear discussions relative to the plan of marketing cotton through the Texas Cotton Co-Operative association under the Federal Farm Board.

Local men and speakers from Lubbock will take part in the discussions. Every farmer in this territory is invited to attend and especially all farmers in the immediate Slaton area are strongly urged to be at the meeting.

The meeting here Monday will be a part of the county campaign to enlist farmers in the cooperative association so that they may market their cotton under the Federal Farm Board plan. The county campaign was launched at Lubbock, Wednesday.

Meetings will be held all over the county during the coming week. Following the meeting here on Monday, meetings will be held at Acuff, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at McClung, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and at Posey Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock. Dates for the meetings at New Hope and Union had not been set late Wednesday afternoon.

Community chairman in the Co-Op drive includes: J. W. Nesbitt and L. A. Wilson, Slaton; R. S. Johnson, McClung; C. Z. Fine, Posey; Earl Davis, Acuff; G. J. Russell, Union; L. W. Wilke, New Hope; and J. M. Marcy, Woodrow. Appointment of these chairmen was announced by N. H. Payne, field representative of the Texas Cotton Co-Operative association.

J. H. Brewer, Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Wilson attended the Lubbock meeting Wednesday, representing Slaton. R. H. and Fred Tudor attended the afternoon meetings, also.

Cotton Co-Op. Assn. Organizes

With the district organization committee fully organized with R. J. Murray, chairman, the movement is on for the completion of the organization by entry of the farmer.

The Agricultural Marketing Act is such that agriculture is entering a new era. It has been reported that thousands of cotton farmers of Texas have joined the movement and it is anticipated that this is one of the greatest associations for the marketing of cotton ever sponsored by any group of individuals or any government.

The Federal government with a revolving fund of $500,000,000 is backing the grower, feeling if they are organized that they will be all powerful, for unorganized they are helpless.

With the proper grading of cotton, by licensed government graders, will of itself alone save to the grower and bring to him returns more in keeping with the value of the commodity he has to sell. This Act was passed for the grower of cotton. The grower must act if he desires to avail himself of the benefits that will accrue.

It is the intentions of the committee to visit Slaton and the various communities at an early date asking that they join in the movement. The marketing agreement is a very liberal one as the farmer is only obligated to sell every other bale up to a total of ten bales through the association.

This is the farmers organization, why not support it.

BOB PERRY DIED THURSDAY

As we go to press we learn of the death of Robert Herman Perry, which occurred about noon Thursday.

The deceased has made his home at the Santa Fe Reading room for the past seven years and has been confined to his bed for about ten days. He was employed as traveling chairman for the shoperaft association on the Santa Fe.

Funeral arrangements had not been made at the time this is written and a detailed account of same will be found in this paper next week.

Brutus Taylor and Woodrow Fletcher, both of Kentucky, are visiting Mr. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Wiley, and Mr. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Owens and daughter, Pauline, have returned home after a two weeks' visit with Mr. Owens' father, J. C. Owens, at Shell Knob, Mo. They report a delightful trip.

Horses, Mules and Cows On Decline

How rapidly the horse is vanishing from the American scene can only be fully appreciated when we realize that, in twelve years, more than one-third of all the horses in the United States have passed out of existence and have not been replaced. The year 1918 was the banner year for the horse. From about ten million horses in 1880, the number multiplied through 38 years until, in 1918, it reached the high peak of 21,555,000. Since then the replacement of the horse by motor vehicles has been rapid. The latest Government figures place the total at around 13,000,000. Another ten years may see this reduced by half, and probably will.

The horse's career in America has been a short one. There were no horses or other beasts of burden known to the Indians of North America, though in South America the natives had tamed the llama to carry their loads. The Spanish conquistadores brought horses with them, many of which broke loose and ran wild. They multiplied rapidly in the fastness of the southwestern wilderness, and the Indians of the Great Plains speedily learned to break and use them. But a scant four hundred years, down to now, covers the history of the horse on this continent.

There are still a few horses left in the big cities. They are, so far, more economical than motors for house-to-house deliveries of milk, parcel post and express matter. But the increasing cost of their maintenance is gradually causing even these uses to be replaced by motors.

The mule is gaining on the horse. He is more efficient, eats less and works harder. In the period during which the horse population fell off by one-third the mule census showed an increase of nearly 20 per cent. However, this increase has now slackened. There are fewer mules in use now than there were in 1924, when these useful hybrids numbered 5,730,000.

In the period from 1920 to 1930, the number of beef cattle has dropped from above 47 million to under 33 million. We are eating less beef. But while we are drinking more milk, more butter and cheese, the number of milch cows remains about as it has for nearly twenty years—around 22 million. They are better cows, how-

The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally. The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot ingots of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing shipments. If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.

"Looney" Sayings

By LOONEY, "Himself"

Here we come again with a good line-up for the coming week. We start with a laugh riot, Will Rogers in "So This Is London," and you all know what "They Had To See Paris" was a complete scream of laughs. Well they all say this one is even funnier than that, if such is possible.

Then we have another one for Wednesday and Thursday, "Swing High," a story of the Big Top, and if the story is no good you can see a Circus that is Big. But all reports are Good and that is a good sign that the show is good.

To start the next week we have a picture that I have been looking forward to, El Brindell, that fanny Swede in "The Golden Calm." In this he is in charge of a beauty contest with the job of measuring Calves to see if they qualify and with him is Marjuary White the little girl that put the laughs in "Sunny Side Up" and "Happy Days."

Whoops! Hasn't it been hot! But not so hot at the Palace, and soon—Yes, very soon it will be so cool you may want your wraps. We are soon to install "washed air." This is a system of pulling air through running water, thus cooling it before it gets into the theatre and it is always Cool! Thanks.

FROM E. L. PITTS

I am taking this means to thank the voters of Lubbock county for the splendid vote you gave me in my candidacy for the office of county judge in the Democratic primary on last Saturday, and I assure you that the confidence reposed in me by this great vote shall never be betrayed.

At the same time I want to remind you that I am in the run-off in the second primary to be held August 23, and I earnestly solicit the vote and influence of every man and woman voter in Lubbock county for this important office. It is my purpose to conduct a clean and vigorous campaign in the future as I have done in the past, urging that a public office is a public trust within the gift of the people and urging further that the office of county judge is one that requires a professional man with legal ability to preside over the trial court and one who abhors business ability.

enough to preside over the commissioners' court in the handling of the administrative affairs of the county. Especially should he possess the latter qualifications at this particular time in this county when we are confronted with a road building program and a number of other public problems of magnitude.

I believe that I am prepared to render efficient service in that capacity in this county and I again thank you for your support in the past and solicit your vote and influence in the coming election. Sincerely yours, E. L. PITTS.

J. T. Pinkston, county commissioner of Precinct No. 2, was attending county commissioners' court at Lubbock this week. Routine matters, with the passing of bills and the report of the county auditor which had been submitted.

Thank

To my friends and voters generally for splendid support in Saturday's election. I shall try to press my thanks by giving Lubbock county best service it has had in the clerk's office.

AMOS HOWARD COUNTY CLERK

Change

Heracitus, the Greek philosopher, looked at the world and decided that its sole reality was change. Change was the only thing that he could be sure of—there was no other actuality.

So it is with the communities that are served by this company. People are always moving from one place to another; many of our customers are installing new electrical appliances; industries are expanding or changing their plants; new streets are opened and the demand for electricity is constantly increasing.

To keep abreast of these changes, to keep far enough ahead of them so that there will never be any delay in delivering light and power where it is needed and when it is needed, this company is forever changing.

There can be no standing still in the business of supplying electric light and power.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

at the crisis, when she most needed to be kept quiet.

"I suppose we blundered a good deal," he admitted. "We were all at sea. To have Eve down and out was such an unheard of thing. Then I suppose I was the next to blunder. For when I realized that Eve's concert season was probably ruined for her, I brought up the marriage question again. I urged her to marry me right off, and I told her I'd take her abroad for six months and let her rest while I looked over the European musical field for new artists. Perhaps that was another mistake.

"She went all over the lot," Henderson wearily admitted. "She actually seemed to think I was applying pressure—trying to take advantage of the situation. In fact, she accused me of it and talked about being in my power because of the loan. That wasn't a bit like her, but, as I've told you, she was just about off her head over those boys. She was hearing that laugh of trust when she first reached them, and seeing the look in their eyes when she swam off with Mary and left them. . . . If she fell asleep for a moment she was wakened by hearing Herman's 'good-by,' 'I still thought she'd come around,' he resumed with an unconscious sigh. "So did the doctors. We had half a dozen specialists in before we got through. They said she'd be all right. She's strong as a pony. She had never been sick in her life. But instead of letting us get her back into condition, she simply eluded the nurse one night and lit out.

"We gave out that she had gone away for a rest-cure and we canceled her engagements. Every one accepted the story without question, because of what she had been through. "Even the Heckner's think she's in some sanitarium and that we won't tell them where. Of course we engaged private detectives after the first day or so, and then I came on to New York, myself."

"What made you think she was in New York?"

"It was the obvious place she'd head for, and we were afraid her next step would be to sail for Europe. We had all the ships watched. We were honeycombing Chicago at the same time and following up alleged detective clues in half a dozen other cities. When I came to New York I was ready to cut my throat, for we weren't getting anywhere till we found you. At first that cheered me a lot, but I was beginning to get discouraged again. You've been watched wherever you went, these last few days."

"How did you find her at Jake's?"

"Pure chance. I had dropped in to talk to a young fellow Jake has in his band—another genius that I suppose will drive me crazy some day—and there I saw her, sitting at a table with a couple of men she wouldn't have wiped her shoes on a year ago. I never was so upset in my life. I thought one or the other of us was crazy, but I was afraid not to frighten her. However, she chased right down here to you, just the same, and my man spotted her. . . and the rest was easy."

He stopped. "Well," he said, rising heavily, "I guess I've found the last page of the score, all right, but I can't read it even yet. And I must say you haven't helped me much. Still, this seems to be one of the swift romances we read about. I suppose it's all right."

Eric wrung his hand. He liked the man and trusted him, but he must move warily. When Henderson's big figure disappeared through the hotel's front door he went to the telephone and called up Doctor Carrick's office. The voice of the office nurse informed him that the doctor was at dinner.

"Fine," Eric said heartily. "Tell him to stop eating and come right down to see a patient at the Garland."

Then the bridegroom went up to his bride's rooms, feeling rather exhausted.

"It's all right," he reported in answer to the tense unspoken question with which she met him on the threshold. "The man says he knows who you are, and I think he is genuine. Everything promises to be beautifully cleared up and there's nothing you have to fear. But we mustn't talk about it till I've seen Carrick. I want Carrick to decide how and when to tell you about yourself. Now, will you trust me. . . . and him?"

"Of course. But. . . are you absolutely sure I have no reason to fear that man?"

"I'm certain of it, dear. He's really a very good sort. Now, remember how patient and stunning you've been so far, and sit tight just a little longer."

Doctor Carrick's card was brought in while he and Eve were having their coffee. Eric glanced at it, put it in his pocket, and rose.

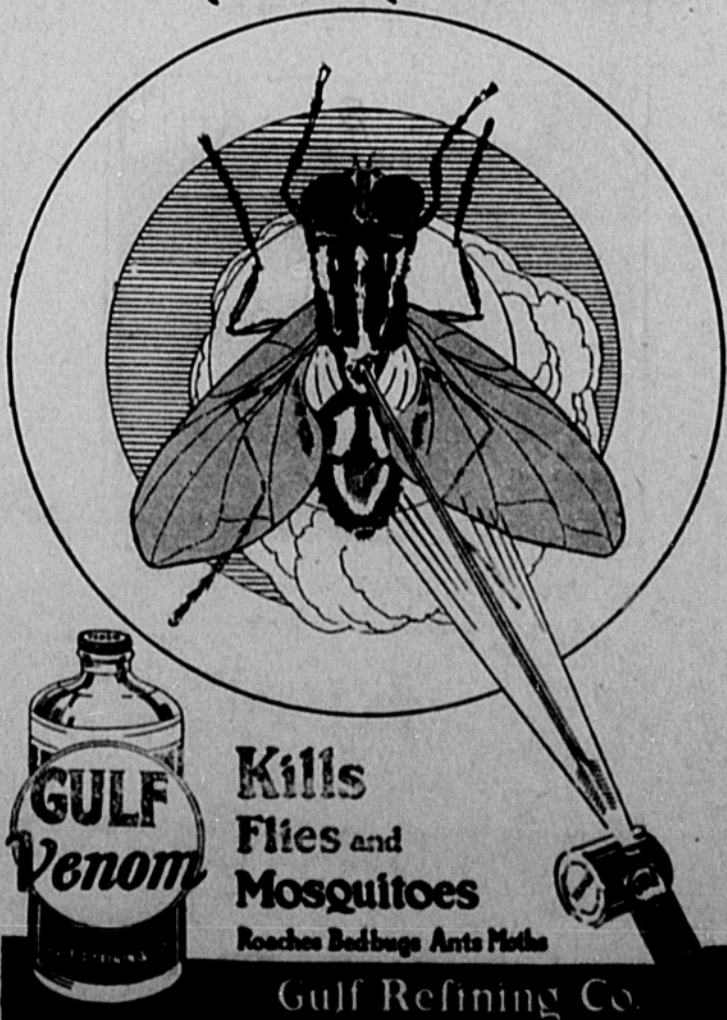

"He has come," he explained, "and I'll see him first. If you will go on up to the sitting room, we'll follow you in ten minutes or so."

He found Carrick pacing up and down the hotel hall and resolutely led him into the familiar writing room. It was a time for word-saving and he made a brief but complete report of the facts of the case, with no side comments or surmises of his own. He had been impressed by the story of the rescue, and the report interested him.

"It's just as I thought," he now reminded Hamilton. "There's no further need for secrecy, then, after we've verified all this?"

"Why not?"

"We know now who the patient is, and if Henderson is what he claims to be—"

"But there's another point," Hamilton interrupted. "Even if he is Henderson, by his own confession he's in love with Miss Carrington. He also admits that she hasn't any close friends in this country. If we confess that her marriage to me is a fake, and turn her over to him, how do we know how he'll act? How do we know she'd want to be turned over to him. There isn't much question that she ran away to get rid of him, is there? If she had a family or an intimate circle of friends, our duty would be clear. As it is, I think we ought to do what we're always telling her to do—sit tight."

"I believe you're right," Carrick admitted. "It looks as if his proposal had been the last straw. We'll stall him off for a few days, anyway. Meantime I'll do a little experimenting; but we won't make any explanations to Miss Carrington till we know all about Henderson and the Chicago end of the matter. That's the first step in any case, of course—to investigate Henderson's story."

"Naturally. As I've said, there isn't much doubt of it in my mind. It has all the earmarks of truth, but I'm not taking any chances. Tonight I'll put the matter up to an agency I know out there, and get a full report on Henderson and a verification of the Henckner drowning. That will be easy, if it happened."

They found Eve walking the floor "Good evening, Miss Carrington," the physician said briskly as he shook hands; and without giving her time to comment on the name he went on: "You're looking a good deal better than when I saw you last. I hear you've been doing some professional dancing?"

"I had to earn money and that was the only opening," Eve said in a low voice. "But, Doctor, won't you tell me—"

"Yes," he interrupted. "I'm going to tell you as much as I can. That's always my rule with everything we have here. It will be better to know what has been imagined it."

"Oh, I'm sure it will!" "The first thing for you is that there's nothing in it to dread going back to cover—nothing for you you hold fast to that kn

Meeting the Needs of Millions of People

The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business—design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and even previous experiment had failed. But for prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally it was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankshafts reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 packages weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public—so that the benefits of reliable, economic transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

LETTER LIVING SLOGAN

The "letter living slogan," has been the American slogan. When we look at the world production of electricity, we find that about three hundred billion kilowatt hours a year, of which the United States accounts for 41 per cent, is produced, it bears out the fact that the big survey discloses that Germany is second to the United States with 17 per cent of the world capacity, France and England are third and fourth, and the United States has an equal production to it. It has been pointed out that the use of electricity is one of the truest tests of a nation's prosperity. American open air, aided by electricity, are able to shine more than the workers of the factories, and as a result, earn more money. At the present time of excessive development of farm electricity in this country, the way toward greater prosperity for agriculture is being pointed out. The most optimistic signs of the future is that. In spite of the business depression that characterized the year 1929, our electric fits to be carrying out the greatest of all the expansion program in history. A steadily increasing of cheap electricity is as has been the case with home owners, far returned to the industries.

FERGUSON RUNS LIKE A MARCH HARE

The first primary matter of the lines are being drawn for the primary, or run-off, and in running we find "Ma" Ferguson will again lose Sterling. This will be a recent trial to the end with the close which August 23 the date of the run-off. Mrs. Ferguson was leading herself by approximately 62,500 of the 250 counties out of 253 ward and from there will not be a certain change when these other United States are heard from.

Mrs. Ferguson had a vote of being the other candidates for governor. It was 534,986 the great question will have to be settled in the fall that large vote be found in irresponsibility run-off. A sentiment will crystallize, unadvised, against any more Texas "ism." The majority of the tainly for governor doubtless will Senator to throw their influence never "Ma" and Jim.

old days there is a hot time coming, chose weather is still hot, but the "Upper" will be hotter.

It is water you may be for in this times you will have a bully good fight just keep cool it will come light in the end.

TEMPERATURE

An Italian inventor has developed a cooling furnace for domestic use with the same apparatus which keeps the warm in winter will draw firmly from the air in summer and impractical.

The lists have known for eighty and that this could be done, but the made it impracticable. Now for E. Guarini, of Milan, claims to have found a practical method of such a refrigerator-heater. Use of such a means of artificial cooling requires all windows to be closed. Outside of the States, however, few people on their windows; and it should difficult to provide for artificial-tilation to take the place of fresh air from outside.

MOUNTAINS

The highest peak east of the Mississippi is as high as had been. The United States Geology has made a new survey of Mitchell, in North Carolina, and that it is 6,684 feet above sea level, or 24 feet lower than former figures.

Only a few mountains in the East approximate a mile in height. Clingman's Dome, Tennessee, is 6,644 feet, only 40 feet lower than Mount Mitchell. Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, is 6,288; Mount Rogers, Virginia, 5,719 feet, or 12 feet less than a mile. The highest American mountain is Mount McKinley, Alaska, 20,300 feet high, with Mount Whitney, California, next at 14,501 feet.

All the highest mountains are sinking. In a million years even the Rockies may be merely hills, and the Appalachian range a flat plain.

SHERLOCK

The death of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle at 71 removes from the earth the creator of one of the enduring characters in fiction and the father of a new school of story writing.

Educated as a physician, Conan Doyle early turned to literature, and while he wrote several historical novels of great merit, his immense success was with his stories of the super-detective, Sherlock Holmes. Literally millions of copies of his books about Sherlock Holmes have been sold, and the name is familiar wherever English is spoken.

No real detective ever did things the way Sherlock Holmes did, but that makes no difference. What readers of detective stories want is not fact but illusion.

WASHINGTON

In 1932 the United States of America will celebrate the 200th birthday of George Washington. He was born on February 11, 1732, and the 11th was the day which was celebrated as his birthday for many years. But the change in the calendar in 1794, by which 11 days were dropped out of the month of September in that year, made this anniversary, by an exact calculation, fall on the 22nd.

The national celebration of 1932, for which Congress has appropriated $4,500,000, will last from February 22 to Thanksgiving. The President is chairman of the Washington Bicentennial Commission, and each State is to appoint a similar commission. Local committees will be formed to see to it that every child and every citizen has an opportunity to take part in some form of local celebration.

I hope that the picture of Washington as something between a saint and a demi-god, so long perpetuated in the name of patriotism, will be replaced in the public mind by the impression of him as a very human sort of person, but I am afraid not.

THE NIGHTMARE OF INDUSTRY

The San Francisco Chronicle runs a timely cartoon entitled: "Turning Economics Into Politics." It shows the problems of the nation—merchants shipping, farm relief, flood control, tariff, railroad regulation, electric power, Muscle Shoals, tax problems, Boulder dam going into a great hopper on the dome of our law-making factory. Out of the other side of the building comes a mass of square packages labelled "Politics."

GASOLINE

The average motorist uses 571 gallons of gasoline a year. Every state now imposes a sale tax on gasoline, ranging from two to six cents a gallon. The highest rates in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and New Mexico. That is natural, since those states have the largest highway systems in proportion to population and taxable property values. In Massachusetts, where the tax is only 2 cents and distances are shorter, the average motorist uses only 400 gallons a year and pays $8 toward highway maintenance and improvement. Last year the total gasoline tax collected in this country was $449,731,000.

The gasoline tax is one tax at which few persons grumble seriously. It is a tax the benefits of which are directly enjoyed by those who pay it.

LETTING OFF STEAM

Every human being has a right to say what he thinks, and so long as in saying it he does not directly incite others to crime or offend public decency, nobody has a right to stop him from speaking his mind.

That is the sum and substance of our Constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech. There is hardly a person living who does not at time yearn for the opportunity to "let off steam" by expressing his opinion of the way the world is run, and of some of the people who have a hand in running it.

MERGERS

Consolidation of several small enterprises to make a single large one is not confined to manufacturing industries. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, who knows what he is talking about most of the time, says that more than a million acres of Kansas farm lands are now owned by corporations, and that recently one corporation bought thirty farms in the winter wheat region and merged them.

Corporate farming is more of a business enterprise and less of a mode of living than farming by an individual is. According to Senator Capper, these farm corporations hire men who leave their families behind, to go out in the fall and put in the crop. In summer they hire other men to come in and harvest the crop. The rest of the year nobody lives on the big farms.

That seems menacing to the Senator from Kansas. He thinks it will result in depletion of the soil, through lack of crop rotation, maintenance of fertility and diversification. It is hard to believe that any group of capital engaging in business on a large scale would be so short-sighted as not to take those things into consideration and apply the most modern principles of agriculture to their enterprise.

SHIPS

The three-power naval treaty puts an end to competition in the building of warships, but competition in passenger-carrying craft is giving the great shipyards of the world more work than they can easily handle.

France is the latest nation to enter this race, with an order for a ship 991 feet long, to be built at St. Nazaire. It will have over 60,000 tons displacement and 120,000 horsepower, and will be finished in 1933. The White Star line is building the new Oceanic in Belfast, Ireland, to be 1,000 feet long, costing 25 million dollars, ready for service in 1932. Each of the three Italian lines is building a great Diesel-engined motorship, to make the run between Naples and New York in six and one-half days.

All of those are in addition to the new German, Cunard and American sea monsters of which were written about recently. In five years the cost of ocean travel will be reduced by this competition and the speed increased, so that anybody having a 30-day holiday can make a considerable tour of Europe for three or four hundred dollars.

The man whose wife criticizes him for paying too much attention to business might just as well quit trying to please.

CURBING ACCIDENTS
 The automobile accident menace will not be curbed until drivers "think safety."
 During the past ten years, through intensive safety work, the American railroads have reduced fatalities on their property, owing to conditions within their control, 61 per cent.
 The accident record in almost all other industries has steadily decreased, due to untiring efforts that have impregnated a knowledge and a consciousness of safety in the minds of workers.
 Contrast this with the automobile accident situation. Last year motor vehicles were responsible for the deaths of 31,500 persons—a new high record. This represented a 13 per cent increase over the 1928 record, while automobile registrations gained but eight per cent. Motor vehicle accidents lead all other causes of accidental death by a wide margin.
 There is but one encouraging circumstance. Accidents to school children are on the decrease due to the fact that safety education is part of

RAILROADS ARE DOING THEIR SHARE

Manifestly the railroads are doing their share for the maintenance of business. Their voluminous need for fresh equipment is caused by their high standards of service, the highest of all time. Last year they satisfied 99.99 per cent of the calls for freight cars, and there was a period of eight consecutive weeks when they attained 100 per cent, supplying every car that any shipper called for. To maintain and improve their 1929 record they must quickly replace all outworn cars. And in addition they are now discarding as obsolete a great number of cars which could have given a fair measure of service for years to come. Thus their present exceptional service to business has two sides—the first, in the benefit of their purchasing program; the second, in the expeditious shipment of freight.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

Warnings

Now your backache is not an indication of kidney disease or it's the poorest to say the most for it as a symptom. Let me enumerate several points however, that should send you to the doctor post-haste, if you have been uneasy about this particular set of eliminative organs.

First, a progressively-increasing shortness of breath, that you just can't account for; this with increasing weakness and rapid heart that interferes with your ability to do your ordinary work.

Second you notice a puffiness under the eyes—and maybe you have noticed black specks when looking at white surfaces; just tiny dots they are, and might escape your notice. With the puffiness of the lower eyelids, you may observe a decided swelling of the hands—not painful—just a "bloat."

Third, and getting more alert, you may notice a getting up from bed to relieve the kidneys—so many times that it really interferes with sleep; the amount may not be considerable, but it is the frequency of voiding that counts as a symptom. Even if you abstain from drinking water evenings, you get up just as often. The appearance of the fluid voided is of little value to you as an indication of disease; it may be clear and innocent-looking—or dark red and scalding. It is your physician's business to determine the real condition.

Fourth—look with suspicion on headaches that occur mainly at night—along toward morning worst. Those that are a frequent thing—persistent—and do not yield to your taking liver medicine.

These symptoms are usually concurrent, that is all work together—if your kidneys are out of order; the more severe they are, the worse neglected your kidneys have been. Go to the doctors at once!

FIRE INSURANCE COMMISSION REPORTS JUNE LOSSES

In examining the report issued by J. W. DeWeese, fire insurance commissioner, we find the total loss for June, $827,286. While this is a reduction in losses of $142,679 as compared to June of 1929.

Fires having their origin from matches and smoking show the greatest of any of the items classified, being $120,234. This would indicate that "carelessness" still is the leading cause of all fires. Naturally it is within the power of the people to eliminate this cause. All of us should be more careful with fire and the many things that produce fires and their attending loss.

Every home should safeguard against fire and many little items should be observed whereby the loss may be at a minimum in Slaton. With the efficient fire department we have our losses are very low.

Let us watch these little things so the boys will only have to take the equipment out to limber it up.

MR. H. A. ROWLAND

"I am 78 years of age, and up until two years ago I enjoyed very good health," said Mr. H. A. Rowland, R. F. D. No. 2, Benton, Ark., near Little Rock. "Then my kidneys began to give me trouble and each month my condition became worse. I finally got so bad that I had to get up from eight to ten times every night. I continually had a dull ache across my back, and I felt tired and worn-out, all the

"A relative first told me about Konjola and I started using it. At the end of a week I noticed a change in my condition. Now I feel much stronger in every way. Those aches and pains are about gone from my back. This Konjola surely did me a lot of good, and I gladly endorse and recommend it."

Konjola is a medicine that, when given a fair trial—from six to eight bottles—easily and harmlessly eliminates the common ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Slaton, Texas, at the Red Cross Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

BASINGER-BOYD

Miss Mildred Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Boyd, became the bride of Paul Basinger, of Southland, Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at Clovis, New Mexico. The couple quietly slipped away from relatives and friends and were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. J. F. Nix, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Clovis.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance which started while the two were students in Slaton high school during the 1927-28 term. The groom graduated from Slaton high in 1928 and since that time has been engaged in the tailoring business at Southland. While the bride was a member of the graduating class of 1930 and is a pretty and accomplished young lady, plans had been made for her to attend Simmons university this fall, but cupid stepped in and with his arrow has caused a change of plans.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Basinger, who reside at Southland, having lived there for several years, and all are well-known in this section of the county. The happy couple will make their home in Southland.

METHODIST W. M. S. MET MONDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Lillian Butler very graciously honored the society with a vocal solo with Miss Lorene McClintock playing the accompaniment.

On August 4 will be a business session and all officers are expected to be present with a complete report.

LOOMIS-HAINES

We note in the July 17 issue of the Torrington, Telegram, published in Torrington, Wyoming, the following item:

"Koert Carleton Loomis and Twylah Maxine Haines were married Saturday morning, July 12, 1930, at ten o'clock at the Torrington Methodist church, the Rev. Edwin Bowling, of Cheyenne, speaking the wedding vows and using the beautiful ring ceremony of the M. E. Church."

Doubtless the old-timers will recall the name of L. P. Loomis as being connected with the Slatonite some 19 years ago. This gentleman being the father of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Loomis have been making Wyoming their home for some time and Mr. Loomis is the publisher and editor of the Torrington Telegram.

Local Business Man Endorses It

Says Argotane Restores Health When Everything Else Had Failed

T. H. Martin, who owns and operates a shop at 809 Broadway, Lubbock, Texas, and who resides on Ave. H. 11934 talks interestingly of the benefits he has derived from Argotane in a conversation with an Argotane representative. "I was in a general run-down condition and have had a severe chronic case of stomach trouble and indigestion for a long time. I was in such a low spirit run-down condition my life was miserable. I had no appetite and could hardly eat anything unless I was troubled afterwards with severe bloating spells and gas that formed on my stomach. I was constipated and was forced to take strong laxatives most of the time.

"I am getting wonderful results since taking Argotane. Doctors told me I would have to be operated on for gall trouble but Argotane saved me from this, and it, to my notion has saved me hundreds of dollars and a lot of suffering. I eat anything I want now and it never bothers me. Gas does not bother me any more and I have improved with every dose till I feel now like nothing ever was the matter with me. I sleep fine and rest and am not nervous any more. I will praise Argotane as long as I live, and tell my friends about it."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Slaton at the Teague Drug store.

SMITHSONIAN

More than 100 year ago James Smithson, a wealthy Englishman who was the illegitimate son of a British nobleman, left his entire fortune to the United States of America to found "an institution for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." Congress just before adjournment this year appropriated $6,500,000 to add to previous appropriations for the enlargement of the Smithsonian Institution and its National Museum.

Smithson's bequest and the purpose to which it has been put have been worth uncountable millions to America. Research in pure science conducted by the men in charge of the Institution has done more toward the development of our national resources than any other one cause, so those familiar with the matter say. It is the center to which everybody who wants to know anything about American soils, rocks, fishes, plants, trees, insects, or animals goes for the precise information. It is also the greatest source of information on applied science in the form of invention.

Orville Cranell, of Lubbock, was visiting friends here Wednesday.

Mother Columbus and Sisters Theresa and Frances, all of Stanton, have been visiting the Sisters of Mercy hospital for the past week. Sister Frances accompanied by Sister Reta, dietician at the local hospital, returned to Stanton, Tuesday.

Wire Or Disc Wheels
Optional Equipment

Further individuality in the selection of a car in the low priced field was made possible today with the announcement that wire or disc wheels are now optional equipment, without extra cost, on new Chevrolet Six passenger cars.

Formerly disc wheels were standard equipment except for sport models, on which wire wheels were mounted at the factory. Since the latter part of July, all passenger models are being equipped with wire wheels, while disc wheels also are being built to accommodate those purchasers who prefer this type.

The new wheel equipment is finished in a wide variety of colors to harmonize with the body trim of the nine new body models. The extensive color combinations used on the bodies, plus the added color harmonies available on the new wheels, will mean that the purchaser of a car in the low priced field will be able to obtain greater individuality in his car than was possible heretofore.

The option of wire or disc wheels went into effect on August 1. Dealers with cars having optional disc wheels, at that time, were supplied with sets of new wire wheels to make the change-over for those purchasers desiring it.
