Born To Give Memorial Day Address Sunday

Program Under Auspices Local
Post of Legion

Services Commence At 3 O'clock At First Baptist Church

A complete program for Memorial Day observance here has been prepared by the Luther Powers Post, American Legion, of Slaton, and will be held next Sunday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock, at the First Baptist church. Part of the program will be given at the church, after which the audience will go direct to Inglewood Cemetery to complete the program, which will include decoration of the graves of the war veterans who are buried there.

The principal speaker for the program at the church will be Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Tech College. He will give the Memorial Day address.

Officers of the Legion Post here announce that the public is invited to attend the program at the church and at the cemetery. The meeting is not to be confined to members of the Legion Post alone. It will be open to everybody.

The complete program, arrangement of which was made by G. H. Brown, service officer of the Legion Post here, has been announced as follows:

Song, America, by audience.
Invocation, Rev. James Rayburn, pastor of First Presbyterian church.
Reading, "Flanders Fields", Miss Jaunita Cooper.
Vocal Solo, "Legionnaires", by Mrs. Lillian Butler.
Introduction of speaker, by L. A. Wilson.

Memorial address, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

Song, "Star-Spangled Banner", by audience.

The above will be held at the church. Upon arrival at the cemetery, the following will complete the memorial services:

Salute of respect, by firing squad.
"Taps", by J. B. Hankins.
Decoration of graves.
Benediction, by Rev. W. F. Ferguson, pastor of First Baptist church.

Elliott Elected As WTCC Director

J. A. Elliott, manager of the Texas Utilities company here, has been elected by the board of directors of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development as a director on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directorate, representing Slaton. He succeeds Sam E. Staggs, who had served in that capacity for the past three years. The action was taken at a meeting of the board last week. Mr. Staggs had requested that he not be re-elected to the place, believing some other local man should take the responsibility for a time.

Mr. Elliott is a member of the board of directors of the local Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in civic affairs here for a number of years.

JOHN SIMMONS IN 'CHI' TRACK MEET

John Simmons, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simmons of this city, and a graduate of Slaton High School with this year's class, left here Tuesday afternoon for Chicago where he will compete in the one mile run at the National Track and Field Meet which is being held there on Friday and Saturday, May 30 and 31. John will enter the events on Saturday, spending Thursday and Friday getting in shape for his race on Saturday. He was to reach Chicago early Thursday.

Young Simmons won first place last year in the mile race at Austin thereby claiming the state championship. He won second this year in the meet at Austin. His time was 4:41, although his best time is 4:35, and this is known to be better time than many first place winners in the National meet have made in recent years. Therefore, it is expected that John may take a first place in the National meet, or at least will be one of the high men. Simmons has been a consistent winner in track events in Slaton High School for the past four years. His record is said to be one of the most enviable ever made in Slaton High track history.

John's trip to Chicago was made possible by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, his expenses being paid by that organization, although it was expected that the Slaton Rotary Club would bear part of the expense. This had not been acted upon at the time John left for Chicago. The board of directors of the club will act on the matter at the luncheon this Friday noon. If it is approved, the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club would be jointly responsible for John's opportunity to make this trip and represent Slaton in this event which is so widely heralded over the entire nation. The meet is held at the University of Chicago.

Simmons expects to return here next Monday.

Friday Night of Next Week Time of Legion Meet

The local American Legion Post and Auxiliary unit will meet at the Slaton clubhouse on Friday night of next week, June 6, instead of having their regular meeting on Friday night June 13, it is announced by officials of the two organizations. The change was made in order to permit the members to make plans for the 18th District Legion convention which will be held here on Saturday and Sunday, June 14 and 15.

All members of the two bodies are strongly urged to attend the meeting next Friday night, it was announced.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Foster have returned from Dallas where they attended the Funeral Directors Convention and also visited Dr. Foster's old home near Terrell, and various other points in South and Central Texas.

SPECIAL THEATRE SHOWING FOR LEGION CONVENTION DELEGATES

A special theatre attraction has been arranged at the Palace Theatre, Slaton, for the 18th District American Legion convention, which will be held here on June 14 and 15. Local Legion officials and Manager Loony of the Palace Theatre, have worked out the plans.

All registered delegates to the convention, both local and those from out of town, will be admitted free to the Palace Theatre during the two days of the convention, their registration badges admitting them for matinee or evening programs on either day. Legionnaires and Auxiliary members wearing registration badges will be entitled to free entry at this theatre on these dates.

On Saturday afternoon, June 14, the picture will be "Cock-Eyed World." However, on Saturday night and Sunday, the special feature will be a most realistic war picture, "Blaze O' Glory", starring Eddie Dowling and Betty Compson in an all-talking, all-singing attraction. It is said to be one of the best war pictures ever released, and has had splendid runs in all the larger centers of the North and East. Large numbers of people of this city and section who are not in any way connected with the American Legion are expected to see "Blaze O' Glory", taking advantage of this remarkable opportunity which comes because of the special arrangements made for the Legion convention.

Infant Buried Here On Monday Morning

Funeral services were held Monday morning, May 26th, at 10 o'clock for Billy Jo Mofield, four months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mofield.

The infant died Sunday morning. Death resulting from a severe case of whooping cough, according to Dr. E. C. Foster, mortician.

Services were conducted at the family residence with the Rev. W. F. Ferguson in charge, with interment following in Englewood cemetery.

J J Maxey Injured In Accident Sunday

J. J. Maxey, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Maxey, received a painful injury Sunday afternoon when he broke his right leg in a baseball game.

Two bones were broken just above the ankle. He was immediately rushed to the Mercy hospital where he will remain for several weeks.

J. J. was sliding into a base when the accident occurred.

Hospital attendants report that he is doing fine.

FARMERS NOW HAVE HITCH RACK ERECTED FOR THEIR USE HERE

Despite the fact that automobiles have almost crowded "Old Dobbin" out of the game, it is frequently necessary for farmers to drive their teams into town, and in such cases they need convenient places for hitching these teams. A lack of such accommodations here has been noticeable for some time, and hence the Slaton Chamber of Commerce this week had a hitch rack erected on vacant lots north of Lynn Street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets. The racks are sixty feet long. Strong posts were set in concrete, to which heavy wire cables were attached.

It is believed this arrangement may meet the needs, but in case it does not, additional racks may be erected. The work this week was supervised by E. R. Legg, member of the board of directors of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development. Mr. Legg initiated the suggestion, which was promptly carried out by the board of directors.

Miss Eleanor Lee, of Lubbock, has been the past week guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles M. Lee, before leaving for Los Angeles, California, where she will spend the summer with an aunt and uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dabney, of Alford, are spending the week with their daughter, Mrs. C. L. Suit and family.

NOTICE R. A. M. MEMBERS

Tuesday, June 3, there will be work in the Royal Arch degree. Come out and spend an enjoyable evening.

Crosbyton Team Is Winner Over Locals

The Crosbyton baseball club defeated the Slaton team here last Friday afternoon by the narrow margin of 9 to 8. The outcome of the encounter was in doubt until the last of the ninth inning.

"Speedy" Cannon and Buck Johnston hurled for the Slaton nine.

Reunion of Old Settlers Is Set for July 3, 4, 5

The second annual Old Settlers' Reunion on the famous and picturesque Johnston ranch, five miles north of Slaton, will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 3, 4 and 5, this year, thus becoming a Fourth of July celebration besides a reunion of old-timers of West Texas, according to H. L. (Bud) Johnston, one of the ranch owners.

The first reunion was held on this ranch in July of last year, attracting a total attendance estimated at 10,000 for the three days. It was said to be the biggest event of its kind ever staged in West Texas, considering it to be the first year's meeting.

An elaborate program for the celebration this year is being arranged Mr. Johnston said. This will include a big rodeo, all kinds of amusement attractions, together with numerous sports, including skating and dancing on a hardwood floor. Music, public speaking and prize contests will also be included.

A much larger attendance than was seen last year is expected on July 3, 4 and 5, Mr. Johnston said.

PLANS FOR LEGION MEETING JUNE 15

Definite plans for the 18th District convention of the American Legion, which will be held in Slaton on Saturday and Sunday, June 14 and 15, were discussed at length last Monday night when the special convention committees held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce offices in the city hall.

It is estimated that the total attendance upon the convention here will run anywhere from 600 to 1,000, depending upon weather conditions. The attendance at Childress in March, when the last convention was held amounted to 550. June is considered a better month for the meeting than March, and Slaton is more nearly accessible to all the Posts in the district than was Childress, it is claimed.

The convention will open Saturday June 14, with registration beginning at 1 p. m. in the lobby of Hotel Forrest. Special degree work for the "40 and 8", exclusive Legion secret body, will be held Saturday afternoon and night. Theatre programs and other entertainment features will be available that afternoon and night for the delegates who arrive Saturday. Probably 200 to 300 will get here Saturday afternoon and night, it is estimated, while the larger crowds will come on Sunday morning, attending the programs that day. Amarillo has announced a special train will bring 150 delegates from there, reaching Slaton Sunday morning, June 15. Childress also is considering a special train and Plainview is planning to ride the Amarillo special, they said. Other Posts and Auxiliary units are expected to send large delegations by automobile caravans.

A special reception at the Slaton clubhouse for the Auxiliary members on Saturday night is being planned by the local Auxiliary unit, of which Mrs. E. C. Foster is president. The committee in charge of this affair is: Mrs. Foster, Mrs. D. E. Kemp, Mrs. L. A. Wilson and Mrs. A. Dennis.

At 11 o'clock Sunday morning, a union church service for the local congregations and Legion delegates will be held at the high school auditorium.

Miss Lois Cone, of Lubbock, was a visitor here Friday afternoon.

Lubbock To Ask For Next Meet of W. T. C. of C.

With a delegation of 25 representative business men, members of the Chamber of Commerce, Lubbock, who will attend the meeting at Abilene, which is being held May 29, 30 and 31, it is the intention to invite the Chamber to hold its next session in Lubbock. It is the logical place to hold this next meeting and we hope to have them on the South Plains next year.

Several are expecting to attend from Slaton. The delegation will probably be headed by L. A. Wilson, secretary of the local chamber.

John Rayburn will represent Slaton in the contest, "My Home Town."

Abilene Man Suffers More Than 20 Years

A. E. Barber Says Argotane Is Making Him a Well Man After Unusual Suffering.

"I don't believe there was a week for the past 20 years that I didn't suffer with awful pains in my stomach that felt just like something gnawing me in two, but since I started taking Argotane a few weeks ago I haven't had a touch of my old trouble," said A. E. Barber, residing on rural route 1, Abilene, Texas.

"I can remember," continued Mr. Barber, "that when I was practically a young man my stomach and digestive organs were always giving me trouble. It was a dull heavy pain that seemed like a hard lump or knot right in the pit of my stomach. Many a day, especially after eating heavy foods of any kind, it would hurt me so badly that it just seemed like I could hardly stand to do another lick of work.

"After eating, especially at night, I would suffer from a constant gnawing pain in my stomach and I could feel it throbbing and jarring down in my lower bowels. It was down in my queer sensation and the best way I can give any idea of the pain is to say that it was just like a toothache and only people who have ever had it will know just what I suffered. I have taken nearly every kind of medicine, but none did me a bit of good, and when I saw Argotane so highly advertised I decided to try it. I have taken it just a few weeks now and for the first time since I can remember I don't have that throbbing sensation in my stomach. My stomach feels so much stronger that I can lift heavy things and don't notice any pain or trouble at all. I take pleasure in stating my experience with Argotane, for I've found it to be a splendid medicine."

Genuine Argotane may be bought

"Things I Ate Hurt Me"

"I HAD a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheister, 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?'"

"I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. I soon regained my health and strength."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

to the side rail as she descended the stairs, and responded to the janitor's offhand greeting with an inarticulate murmur. "Who is that?" Eve asked when she had disappeared. "Miss Ivy Davenport. She has that flat. She dances in a cabaret, but she's a nice girl, jest the same. She ain't well, though. She's been sick a lot lately, an' it looks to me like she's sick again to-night." Evidently the janitor liked Miss Davenport. He was still looking after her with sympathetic eyes. "But I reckon she's got to go an' dance jest the same," he added philosophically. "Poor girl! How can she dance?" The young person who had passed them was not Eve's sort, but she had a pang of fellow-feeling that surprised her. Here was another who was in trouble. "Don't be scared if you hear her comin' home at four in the mornin'," the janitor remembered to add. "She won't bother you none daytimes. She sleeps till five or six. G'night. Eve nodded and watched him with unhappy eyes as he drifted in Miss Davenport's wake like a bit of gray fog. Looked at in retrospect the Garland seemed the vision of a wanderer's home, and the memory of Hamilton's boyish smile and dependable face brought an almost intolerable sense of nostalgia. But when she had turned back to her apartment and was moving about her bedroom, preparing for the night,—the janitor had thoughtfully turned on the electric lights in both rooms,—she reminded herself that she was safer alone. Whatever the dangers of her present course, she could not, would not, have remained among those to whom she was "a case." And there was Marcel, who had once known her and who at any moment might appear with a shining face to tell her who she was. "I must be an amazing optimist when I'm myself," she reflected with a deep sigh. It was an unkind trick she had played her Good Samaritan, but she had been driven to it and she did not regret it. At the thought of the Garland her panic returned. Doctors, nurses, consultations, sanatoriums—there was no end to the possibilities Hamilton had set in motion when he called in the psychiatrist. Better be anywhere and free than in the power of even the best intentioned strangers. The night was a bad one. For hours she lay staring out into the blackness of the narrow court while panic enveloped her like an icy fog. It took all the courage she had, all the strength of her soul, to hold on to herself. At intervals she switched on the light and looked at her watch. Eons might have passed since she looked last, but they hadn't. Sometimes it was only an hour, or even half an hour. . . . When the black court was growing gray she heard Miss Davenport's return; at least she assumed that the steps were her neighbor's, and that it was Miss Davenport's door that was yielding to the urge of a nervous key. Eve's watch bore out the theory: quarter past four. She drew a deep sigh, turned again, and hoped that the girl felt better. With the approach of dawn some of the blackness lifted from her spirit. The sun was shining when she awoke, and a lively tattoo on the panel of her outer door had brought escape from an especially unpleasant nightmare. She slipped into a wrapper, unlocked her door, and confronted the janitor. He carried a tray which held a tablespoonful of ground coffee in a cup, a dab of butter, and a glass of milk, with an egg as an added attraction. Even gave him a dollar. He deserved it for his leniency in that little matter of references, but something deep within her sent up a warning signal as she handed it over. A young person in her situation and with less than three hundred dollars in the world must learn not to part with any of those dollars too lightly. This one proved a good investment. "My name's Smith," the janitor volunteered. "Guess you won't have no trouble remembering it." When Smith had reluctantly departed—it had also become clear that his was a companionable soul—she prepared her breakfast and, to her own great surprise, ate it. She had cooked it under a jogging sense of duty; she must "keep up her strength," as Hamilton had advised. But the coffee was good, the roll was crisp, the egg was fresh. The efficiency with which she performed the simple task proved that it was a familiar one to her. She must have prepared many such breakfast in the past, some of them, no doubt, in Paris. Deep in her subconscious mind, just out of her mental reach, lay the memory of those meals, of those days. She saw—or did she see?—a studio with a sloping roof . . . a wide skylight with a glimpse of sky-line and twin towers etched against it. . . . Surely, surely Memory was stealing toward her, out of the black shadows. . . . As soon as she had washed the dishes, made the bed, and dusted the rooms, (this last with one of the few towels!) she wrote to her Good Samaritan. She owed him that much. She had brought with her a pencil and a few sheets of the hotel's notepaper, from which she painstakingly tore off the printed headings. Then she penciled these lines: My Dear Hamilton: Forgive me for seeming ungrateful; I am not that. But I must not be a burden to strangers, however kind and friendly they are; and I know it is best for me to be alone. I have found a safe, quiet, respectable place, where I can wait. . . .

They say that those who recover from a lapse like mine do not remember what happened in the interval. So I shall write out the account of our meeting and put it away with your card. And when I am myself again I will write you and tell you so, and try to thank you properly. I the meantime don't worry about me. And please don't try to find me. Most gratefully yours, Eve Personne. She made a long journey up town. She must mail that letter in a part of the city remote from where she lived, for of course Hamilton would regard the postmarks as clues. After that she took a long walk in Central Park and bought her necessary household supplies and a few magazines. After all this it was only eleven o'clock, and the long day stretched before her as an appalling blank to be filled. However, there was Marcel's visit in the evening to look forward to, and she killed the seemingly endless interval by a visit to the public library, to write at a table there the account of her meeting with Hamilton. She wrote the bald facts from the time of the memory lapse, putting down the episodes without comment save in the matter of Hamilton's kindness. On an impulse she included his Chicago address. The writing kept her occupied for more than an hour. Then she read for two hours. She entered a drug store and had a glass of milk as a late luncheon. Then she went back to Central Park and killed an additional two hours watching children at play. Marcel arrived at eight that evening, wearing his best garments and a highly expectant expression. She had decided to tell him the truth. It was a risk, but he was already partly in her confidence, and it was probable that he had been questioned about her. Better let him have the facts than to give his Gallic imagination too much rein. He listened with interest, but wholly without understanding, and obviously with relief. This little matter explained very well the oddness of Mademoiselle. But of a certainty it was a trifle, over in a few days, as Mademoiselle had suggested. His optimism cheered Eve, while she realized its source as ignorance. Marcel admitted that he had not as yet found her name, but his mind was busy on it. Nor could he remember the name of any of Mademoiselle's friends in Paris. But he was thinking of these things constantly, and very soon. . . . In the meantime, if Mademoiselle so wished, he would write to Leon, who had been Mademoiselle's real waiter and who was now working in a big hotel on the Rue de la Paix. He would beg Leon to tell him all he remembered about the young lady. Eve cried, "to write and get a reply, even if he answers at once. Two weeks more of this." Marcel was overwhelmed. He had forgotten that detail. "However, please do it," Eve sighed. "Though I hope to God I shan't need it when it comes." Something about that exclamation made Marcel take a less cheery view of her situation as he left her.

It has been said "Man learns wisdom from failure much more than from success. He will often discover that WILL do, by finding out what will not do."

True, in a certain sense of the word. Yet, when it comes to money matters, a man more often than not has himself to blame if failure falls to his lot. Especially, if he stepped right into a proposition without the good counsel of those who have had wide financial experiences.

MEMORIAL DAY THOUGHTS

The nation has set apart the 30th day of May to honor the soldiers of all wars. The government asks us to make the observance of this occasion worthy of the great events and sacrifices it commemorates.

In our peaceful, every day lives, we do not stop to think of the omnious significance of the call to make war. When this dread specter raises its head among us, when the nation is called upon to defend itself against some foe, every aspect of our lives is affected. The threat of national danger enters our accustomed habits, and everything else has to be set aside. The parent finds that he must yield his affection for his offspring to the call of the country. The boy finds that he must give up the safety of his home life for the perils of combat. The lover must postpone the day of his happiness. The business man must take the chance that his business will be ruined. The worker must run the risk that the support of his family will have to be left to others. The men who have served in all our wars have accepted these chances and perils and losses with sublime spirit of loyalty. There were of course the laggard and the slackers, and many who would have evaded the call if they could. But in the main, no such hearty and loyal responses was ever made in any land to this dread call as was by the men of our various wars. As this anniversary recurs, we then owe the former soldiers a tribute of affectionate remembrance. For those who have gone, the flower of memory, that the recollection of their heroism many never fade. For those still left, warm tributes of appreciation, and substantial help whenever we can give it here in Slaton and the nation at large.

THE SUPREME COURT

There are two equally honest points of view held by men of differing convictions, in the matter of the qualifications of a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. One view is that no man should be appointed to the Supreme Bench whose views on social and economic questions do not conform to those currently held by the group which happens to be in control of the United States Senate at the time. The answer to this, the opposing view, is that men of character and integrity do not permit their personal opinions to deter them from interpreting the Constitution and the laws passed thereunder in the light of the best traditions of the Law and the Bench.

Men have been nominated for the Supreme Court in our time, and confirmed by the Senate, whose known social and economic views were totally at variance with those held by the majority of the Senate at that time. The case of Justice Brandies is in point. But there was more to the rejection of Judge John J. Parker by the Senate than that he does not see some things eye to eye with the majority of the Senators. The impression was created by Judge Parker's opponents that he was too eager for office that too many purely partisan considerations entered in his nomination by the President. Those considerations alone might not have prevented his nomination, however. Beyond them was the desire of the insurgent group in the Senate to give President Hoover a slap in the face. That is part of another chapter in the political history of the United States, which, when written, will deal with the efforts of the Senate to control the entire Government.

President Hoover's nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia in place of Judge Parker seems to have been his personal selection, uninfluenced by political or territorial considerations. Of Mr. Roberts' qualifications as a great lawyer there are no two opinions.

Retail Merchants Please Take Notice

To those that have signed the closing agreement, we find some are not living up to the letter, and there is complaint by those that do close, that others are taking advantage, by remaining open past the time agreed upon which is 6:30 p. m. We have been instructed by the board, that if this continues, we shall have to remove the cards from your place of business, and you will not have access to the files of the Credit Men's Association. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

June Is Prosperity Month at the Palace Theatre In Slaton

It seems that the last few weeks, the people of Slaton have thought that their home town theatre was not good enough for them, and that they could see better pictures and hear better talkies, in the other neighboring towns and probably at cheaper prices.

This I know personally to be untrue. Slaton has not only as good talkies as any of its neighboring towns but BETTER than any I have heard. I have made a trip to hear a GOOD picture at the towns of the best sound and Slaton is FAR the best. And the price has been lower in Slaton all the time, but now it is even going to beat that. Starting June 1 the price at the Palace will be cut to 10c on matinee. This means to everyone who takes a seat, regardless of age, from one to one hundred years of age, and the night show from six o'clock will be only 10c for children and 25c for adults.

We start this great month with the greatest picture in screen history,—"SALLY" with Marilyn Miller, Ford Sterling, Joe E. Brown, and many other well known stars. This picture is 100 per cent natural color and all talking, and the best of both color and talking, and this is only one of the many big ones during June.

So I say in behalf of Slaton, and the "OK" Theaters Circuit, stay in Slaton and see the best for the least money. Those who have not heard a talking picture since we have our new De-Forrest are to be envied because they still have the pleasure of hearing the Perfect Talking picture for the first time. Thanks.—Dorsey Looney, Mgr.

Konjola Ends Neuritis And Other Ailments

Fort Worth Lady Says "New Medicine Is Wonderful" Urges Others To Try Konjola

MRS. ELLA COOPER

"I suffered with neuritis for about fifteen years" said Mrs. Ella Cooper, 509 West Richmond Street, Fort Worth, Texas. "The pain and soreness in my arms and shoulders were so severe that I could scarcely do my work. At one time for a period of several months I was confined to my bed and was too helpless to feed myself. My nerves were shattered and I did not know what a night's rest was. My stomach was out of order and my kidneys were weak. Vomiting spells were frequent.

"Konjola soon began to ease the neuritis pains in my arms and shoulders and I could use these members. Today all trace of neuritis has disappeared and my nerves are calm and steady. My food digests perfectly and I eat what I wish without the pain and distress afterwards. My kidneys have been strengthened and the pains in my back have gone. Konjola certainly went to the spot in my case and I think it is a wonderful medicine."

Although Konjola works quickly, six to eight bottles are recommended as a fair trial. One bottle will last a week and the cost is so small indeed for such a worth-while treatment.

Konjola is sold in Slaton, Texas at the Red Cross Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
