Rotary Club To Invite Visitors

During the coming year, the Slaton Rotary club will seek to have a number of Slaton high school boys and also several representatives of each of the fifteen rural communities near here attend the club's luncheons at various times throughout the year. This was decided at a recent meeting of the club's board of directors.

It is estimated that nearly 100 guests will be entertained by the club under this plan, it was stated by officers.

Special committees will have charge of extending invitations to the guests.

Laws Governing Primaries Given

J. K. Wester, chairman of the Lubbock county Democratic Executive, gave out the following information for the benefit of voters. "Some people are blaming the county executive committee for the pledge which has been set out. The committee had no choice in the matter as it is the law and no ticket will be counted unless the pledge appears on the ballot," says Mr. Wester.

The pledge as it will appear on the ballots is as follows: "I am a Democrat and I pledge myself to support the nominee of this primary."

The qualifications in order to vote, one must be a citizen of the United States, 21 years of age, a resident of the State for 12 months and in the county in which he offers to vote for six months and must have paid a poll tax (State and County) if subject thereto, prior to February 1, preceding the election, or have obtained an exemption certificate. One must be 21 years old at the time he offers his vote. He cannot vote in the primary if he is not 21, even though he will be before the general election.

NEGROES HAVE BEEN BARRED

The Democratic Executive Committee hold to the "White Man's Primary," and therefore Negroes will be barred from the July primary.

The voting precincts in Slaton with their judges are as follows:

- Precinct No. 5—J. W. Hood.
 - Precinct No. 24—H. W. Ragsdale.
 - Precinct No. 25—A. C. Hanna.
 - Precinct No. 26—S. C. Marrs.
- The boxes will be found in the usual place in the city hall.

Get Straw Vote Here In Governor's Race

In a straw vote contest on the governor's race, held here Monday and Tuesday, 170 votes were cast, being divided as follows: Mrs. Ferguson, 66; Small, 50; Sterling, 25; Love, 17; "Soapy" Moody, 5; Mayfield, 3; and Barry Miller and James Young, two each. The other three gubernatorial candidates failed to capture any of the votes polled. The voting boxes were stationed in the four drug stores here.

Slaton C. of C. Will Send Boys To Short Course

Three Slaton 4-H club boys will attend the annual Farmers' Short Course at A. & M. college, July 28 to August 2, with their expenses paid by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, it has been announced by W. H. Smith, president of that body.

Selection of the boys has been announced by D. F. Eaton. They are Jack Stalcup, Irvin Reed and Casey Fine, of Posey. They will go with a group of Lubbock county boys, leaving here Saturday morning. Stalcup will be on the Lubbock county swine judging team it was announced by County Agent Eaton. About fifteen Lubbock county boys will go, their expenses being paid by the Slaton Chamber, the Lubbock chamber and other organizations of the county.

A group of 4-H girls will go to the Short Course with Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent.

ELECTION RETURNS TO BE GIVEN

Next Saturday night is the time. The returns of the Primary Election held next Saturday, July 26, will be received in Slaton by the City Drug Store. It is the plan of those in charge of the affair to have Texas avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets, roped off so that the noise of passing cars will not interfere with the reading of the Special Bulletins.

The returns will be received from the Texas Election Bureau and can only be secured by newspapers. The radio broadcasting stations will not be permitted to broadcast the returns of this year. Heretofore there has been a discrepancy between the figures as given over the radio and those given out by the Texas Election Bureau. For this reason the radio stations will be permitted, at a certain time, to give the relative position of the principal candidates.

Arrangements have also been completed to secure a detailed report of the County vote, which will also be posted on the bulletin board together with that of the state candidates.

Everyone is invited to be present next Saturday night and watch how your favorite candidate is running. This election service is being furnished you at a heavy expense, but the management of the City Drug store feels that their friends are entitled to it. They are going to expect you to be there. EVERYONE IS WELCOME!

Palace Theatre Highly Honored By Publication

Manager Dorsey Looney, of the Palace theatre is plenty proud this week. His theatre has been judged one of the best in the United States in the matter of sound reproduction and effort to give his audiences the best that can be had in the way of entertainment. With the award goes a handsome bronze plaque, which is now on display in the Palace lobby. The award is made by the Exhibitors Herald-World, the largest movie magazine printed. There is only one other plaque on the entire Plains, the one at Hale Center. You can't blame Dorsey for strutting around rather "cocky."

Before the award is made the theatre is checked carefully, all newspaper clippings about the theatre obtained, the efforts of the manager checked by outside persons, and witnessed before a notary public. Money won't buy it—it's strictly an award of merit.

Slaton can count herself fortunate in having a theatre like the Palace, and in having a manager like Mr. Looney, who is constantly striving to give his patrons the best in entertainment.

Aims and Objects of Rotary Talked At Luncheon Meet

"The Aim and Objects of Rotary" was the general subject for three addresses at the luncheon meeting of the Slaton Rotary club, held last Friday at the Slaton clubhouse.

J. T. Pinkston spoke on the first and second objects of Rotary; Marvin C. Overton, Jr., spoke on the third and fourth; and Floyd C. Rector on the fifth and sixth.

Rotary's six objects are given in detail below:

- To Encourage and Foster:
 - The ideal of service as the basis of all worth enterprise.
 - High ethical standards in business and professions.
 - The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.
 - The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.
 - The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying of each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.
 - The advancement of understanding, good will, and International peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service.

There were two visitors at the luncheon, Dr. M. C. Overton and Kenneth Renner, of Lubbock.

Abe Kessel, Harry C. Burrus and John W. Hood will speak at the club meeting this Friday noon, using subjects connected with the vocations as a basis for their talks.

Judges Go From Here To Lamesa To Judge Laws

Three judges went from Slaton to Lamesa on Tuesday morning to judge the thirty laws that had been entered in that city's first annual law contest, conducted this season under the direction of the chamber of commerce there.

The Slaton judges were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Green and C. A. Bruner. They returned to their homes here Tuesday afternoon, reporting an enjoyable day with the Lamesa people, and stating that the folks down there have many very beautiful and attractive lawns.

In return for the services rendered by the Slaton judges, the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce will furnish three judges to officiate in judging the seventy-five laws that are entered in Slaton's fourth annual law contest, being held this year under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Green and Mr. Bruner said the Lamesa people treated them with the utmost cordiality and hospitality. They were guests of the Lamesa Luncheon club at noon and were piloted on their judging trips by several Lamesa people who sought to make them feel "at home." When the judging was finished, refreshments were served at the last place visited.

71st Congress Enacted Total of 927 Laws

A total of 927 laws was enacted in the first two sessions of the seventy-first congress out of 19,284 measures introduced.

Of these 655 originated in the house and 272 in the senate. The 655 house bills, however, included five omnibus pension measures containing 2,212 house bills and 907 senate bills, the latter added to the house bills as amended.

If these had been considered separately, the grand total of laws enacted would be 4,341, of which 3,167 were originally house bills and 1,179 were senate bills.

Only seven measures met with the disapproval of President Hoover, who vetoed four by message and three by failing to sign them after congress adjourned. One of the bills vetoed by message, proposing increased pensions for Spanish-American war veterans, was enacted over the veto.

A total of 14,047 bills was introduced by house members, and 5,337 by senators. The house passed 470 of the bills and the senate approved 265 senate bills, all of which failed of final enactment.

Senate committees reported favorably on 1,163 measures and 1,935 bills received the approval of house committees.

The 927 new laws resulting from the special and first regular sessions compare with 993 laws passed in a similar period of the seventieth congress, 896 in the sixty-ninth congress, 393 in the sixty-eighth congress, 152 in the sixty-seventh congress, and 121 in the sixty-sixth congress.

Scout Camp At Post Closed Saturday Eve

The second session came to a close Saturday evening after some 200 boys from the thirteen counties of the South Plains area had been in camp. The period was divided into two sections, thus giving a better opportunity for the boys to accomplish their work.

Eighteen troops from over the area was represented. Friday night was held the Court of Honor and Campfire program when merit badges, medals and other honors were conferred upon the boys whose records entitled them to special recognition.

Those in charge of the camp were: K. N. Clapp, scout commissioner; Tom A. White, president of the council; D. T. Jennings, executive; and George Eaton, assistant executive.

MERIT BADGES AND MEDALS AWARDED

The Court of Honor Friday evening was in charge of Tom A. White, president; F. J. McClure, vice-president, of Rails; Judge R. A. Baldwin, vice-president of Slaton; K. N. Clapp, commissioner; Garnett Reeves, publicity chairman; and D. T. Jennings, executive. Awards were made to Troop 27, second class and the recipients were Herman Griffin and R. H. Todd, Jr. Merit badges given to members of Troop 37 were: Zeke Baldwin, for merit in camping, firemanship, life-saving; Julian Kessel, camping architecture, salesmanship and swimming; Cecil Griffin, pioneering, camping and firemanship; James Merrill, camping, firemanship and life-saving.

Through Troop 37 James Merrill made application for recognition to the Eagle rank.

MANY PARENTS VISIT CAMP

Many of the parents visited the camp on Sunday to see the boys and enjoy the day. Troops 31 and 37 under the care of R. D. Griffin, represented Slaton as Dan Liles, Scout Master of Troop 31, was unable to attend; so Mr. Griffin took charge of the two troops.

From all accounts the boys had a good time, it being the first for some of the lads. They might have had a little case of homesickness and a desire to see mother.

38 Candidates Spend $3,178.14 In County Races

Thirty-eight candidates for public office in Lubbock county had spent a total of $3,178.14 in various campaigns up to July 16, according to records of County Clerk Amos Howard. The law requires two filings of expense accounts of candidates, one before July 1, and the other ten days before election.

The average for each candidate was $83.63. The highest amount for any one candidate was $287, and the lowest expense reported was $5.

Actual operation of the new cotton cooperative plan has begun, with Harlingen, in the lower Rio Grande valley, giving the world its first view of how it works.

Harlingen is one of thirty important cotton centers in Texas where branch offices of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association are being placed. Practically all cotton brought into Harlingen since the office opened last week has been handled by the association. Most of it has gone into the "seasonal pool," to be sold gradually throughout the year, with members receiving an advance of $50.00 per bale immediately.

Sales are made by the American Cotton Cooperative association, which has headquarters at New Orleans and is the agency set up with aid and supervision of the Farm Board to sell cotton for all the cooperative cotton associations of the South. This association not only has powerful support from the Farm Board, but it also is naturally stronger than any previous cooperative marketing association because fifteen associations which formerly worked independently of each other and were to a certain extent competitors with each other in selling cotton are now united in the one association, and all cotton will go thru the one selling agency.

This means that the association will handle many times as much cotton as ever was handled by one cooperative association before, giving it influence on the market and a standing in the cotton world which will result in better sales and other important benefits to the membership.

Will Celebrate Paving on Ninth Street In City

The board of directors of the local Chamber of Commerce has announced that the Slaton Chamber of Commerce will stage a banquet at an early date to celebrate completion of the paving of Ninth street through Slaton, just finished by the state and county, and to commemorate the inauguration of the $991,000 road paving program in Lubbock county, voted last December.

Directors of the Slaton and Lubbock Chambers of Commerce, members of the highway committees of both bodies, members of the Lubbock county commissioners' court and of the Slaton city commission will be invited to attend. The banquet will be held at the Slaton clubhouse as soon as a suitable date can be arranged.

"We feel that we should express to our friends at Lubbock our appreciation of the assistance they gave us in securing the paving of Ninth street here, this work having been done by the state and county without any cost to the city or property owners, and that is why we are planning the banquet," said W. H. Smith, president of the local organization.

Happy Mother Highly Praises Modern Konjola

Relates How New and Different Medicine Banished Ills of Her Daughter

MISS DOROTHY RHYME

"My ten-year-old daughter, Dorothy, has been troubled with chronic constipation ever since a small child," said Dorothy's mother, Mrs. J. D. Rhyme, 616 East Eleventh street, Amarillo. "This condition caused her to become nervous, and she frequently suffered with bilious attacks and dizzy spells. Often she had severe headaches and I had to keep her home from school for two or three days at a time. She was very flighty, and had no pep or vitality, and tired very easily.

"After Konjola so thoroughly relieved me of my ailments, I decided to give it to Dorothy. It is amazing how quickly this medicine went to work. Now she is like a different child. She has only taken Konjola two weeks, and I am going to have her continue the treatment until she is again in perfect health. I highly recommend Konjola to mothers of ailing children."

No wonder Konjola is a beautiful household word in tens of thousands of American homes. Here is a medicine for old and young; for all the family. A complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended.

Konjola is sold in Slaton, Texas at the Red Cross Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

"Looney" Sayings

By LOONEY, "Himself"

We have been telling you that our sound was better. Now we have proof—when you visit our theatre again look at the handsome little bronze Plaque over the box office and read what it stands for. You will find that the Palace is selected as one of the best sound houses in the United States. This little Plaque is awarded on the merits of our now perfect sound by the "Exhibitors Herald-World," world's largest motion picture trade paper.

More improvements—we are soon to install an "air-washer," this will not only make the Palace the best sound house but it will also make our little theatre as cool as the coolest and will enable us to run our fan at lower speed and thus cut a lot of extra noise that interferes with the sound of the pictures.

Folks just read of these great pictures we have coming soon. "The Golden Calf," "Paramount on Parade," "Fox Movietone Follies of 1930," "So This Is London," and "True to the Navy," in fact, name most any good picture, we have it coming. Thanks.

Lubbock Farmer Suffered 10 Years With His Kidneys

By Gaining Daily On Argotane and His Daughter Is Very Much Delighted

"After my father, W. H. Foster, got such wonderful relief by taking Argotane, all the neighbors marveled at it, and many of them are now taking it themselves," said Minnie Foster, who resides on Route 3, Lubbock, Texas, while in Bowen's drug store.

"Mr. Foster had a very bad case of stomach and kidney disorder, for ten years," continued Minnie Foster. "He could hardly sleep and was simply a nervous wreck from the pain he had to endure. He would often have attacks of acute indigestion and sometimes it looked as if he would never get over them. He was in a very much run-down condition, and lost strength and health. Of course, many a time he felt unable to work, so you can understand just how bad off he was."

"A few weeks ago some of our friends recommended Argotane to him but at first we had very little faith in it as we had tried so many things in my father's case without results. But it's a positive fact that after he finished his first bottle of Argotane, he was feeling like a different person. He kept on with the treatment and said that all those pains and disorders that formerly bothered him so much are things of the past and I know and everyone else in our neighborhood does too, that Argotane must be a wonderful medicine, to restore health again after so many treatments and medicines had failed to give him any relief."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Slaton at the Teague Drug store.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

minutes watching the rowboat and wondering why the devil it was acting so queer. Suddenly they saw it capsize . . . and at the same time the Heckner governess came running toward them, off her head with terror and shrieking that all the children had been in that boat."

Henderson stopped again.

"Eve took just time enough to kick off her shoes before she raced into the water and started for the kids. She realized that it was all up to her, for most of the men were away that day, and the governess and the other two women couldn't swim a stroke. One of them had sense enough to rush back toward town for help, and the other raced around on the sand, yelling."

He stopped again, took the big cigar from his lips, and looked at it as if wondering how it got there.

"I knew those kids, myself," he explained. "I'd been a Mackinac over the previous week-end and I had taken the twins out rowing. Oh, well . . . He restored the cigar to his mouth, puffed at it fiercely for a moment, and resumed.

Eve's a good swimmer, but it was a hard pull, for the boat had upset almost a quarter of a mile from shore and her skirts were heavy and the lake was rough. All four youngsters were clinging to the boat when she got out to them, and when they saw her, the twin boys—ten, they were—began to laugh. They thought it was all over now the fun of the rescue. They told her to take the girls first, which of course she'd have done anyway, so she took the youngest, little Nancy Heckner, who is only seven, and brought her in all right. She flung Nancy to the woman on shore, to be looked after, and she tore off her soaked skirt and went right out again for the next girl. Mary, who isn't quite nine. Mary was about ready to go under about this time, and the twins were trying their best to help her.

"There wasn't any smiling now, but the boys bucked up when their sister was taken off their hands, and promised Eve they'd hold on till she got back. But Herman said good-by as she started off, and she didn't like that indication or the way he had looked. It rattled her and she had an awful time getting Mary to shore, for the kid was in a panic. The newspaper men did a lot of fancy writing on that second rescue. She got Mary to shore, though, and started back a third time. The women tried to hold her then, for they saw she was about all in, but she went. She went," he repeated softly. "The twins sank before she reached them, so she started diving . . ."

"Go on!" Hamilton begged again, and the big man obeyed after a glance at him. It was clear to each of them now that the other loved the girl they were discussing.

"The woman that ran back to town had found some men in a field," Henderson continued, "and they finally got a boat and reached Eve just in time to save her. It took almost an hour to revive her and bring her back to consciousness after they got her to shore. They brought back one of the twins, Herman, with her, but he was dead when they got him to the top. Henry's body wasn't recovered till that afternoon. It was a ghastly business . . . but Eve had saved the two little girls."

"By God! that was stunning!" Hamilton said in a choked voice.

"Of course it was stunning," Henderson agreed.

METALS

The most precious of all metals is neither gold nor platinum, but the rare substance known as iridium, which is used chiefly to make points of fountain pens and to alloy with platinum to give it the necessary hardness.

Last year iridium prices ranged in the United States from $180 to $450 an ounce with $229 as the average price. Platinum dropped from $110 an ounce to $56, the drop being due to the large importations from Columbia when we got over 45,000 ounces. Before the war Russia was the principal source of platinum, but only 6 ounces came from there last year. The United States produced only 516 ounces of this metal.

Palladium, worth about $40 an ounce, osmium worth about the same value as platinum, and ruthenium, only a little less valuable, are other rare metals used by jewelers.

Natural gas is used to make acetylene gas.

a whole lot more about you. Where do you come in on Eve's affairs?"

Henderson turned squarely and stared at him. He seemed unable to speak.

"(I) you mean to say," he inquired at last, "that my name doesn't mean anything more than a name to you and that Eve Carrington married you without telling you about me?"

"Not a thing. Not a word."

Henderson hunched forward, eyes on the rug at his feet.

"Well," he muttered, "that certainly ties up the package . . . with a string. I thought no musician could surprise me, for the Lord knows emphasizing every word, 'I happen to be Eve's dead father's life-long friend, they're a crazy lot. But this!' He straightened and met Hamilton's sympathetic eyes.

"You see," he added deliberately, and her guardian, and her manager and the man the was going to marry!"

Hamilton's breath caught a Jer he blow, but he took it war outward calmness.

"Now that we understand each other, suppose you tell me about the shock my wife had before he left Chicago," he suggested. "She doesn't even mention it."

"That's easy, though I guess you've read most of the details. You know all about the drownings, of course."

"I don't even know what you mean."

Henderson took out his handkerchief and wiped his moist face.

"It's very odd you don't know," he muttered. "Haven't Eve told you anything at all?"

"I've admitted that she hasn't discussed the shock."

"I suppose that isn't strange, really. She was shot to pieces by it, poor girl."

Eric caught his arm.

"Mr. Henderson," he cried, "would you'd stop beating about the bush and tell me the whole story from start to finish."

"All right," Henderson agreed. He went on with increasing seriousness.

"I'll start at the beginning. Eve was pretty tired when she got back to America the first of July, after her European tour, and the year ahead of her here was going to be just as strenuous as the past year. She's a genius, you know . . . a wonder. Even now, there isn't another American pianist who can touch her. She'll head all the women players of the world in a few years more. You don't need to know anything about music, to realize she's a genius," Henderson was saying. "You have only to hear her play."

"I've never heard her play."

Hamilton spoke absently, irritated by the departure from the main theme. He immediately regretted his words, for Henderson was plainly amazed by them.

"What!" he gasped. "You've known Eve Carrington for more than two weeks and haven't heard her play! Still," he now remembered, "she had turned from her music completely during that last week in Chicago—"

"You were talking about the Heckner drownings," Eric reminded him.

Henderson shook his gray head.

"It doesn't seem possible," he brought out. "I can't imagine Eve away from a piano that long, even in the nervous state she was in. But I suppose it's no more impossible than the rest of this business."

"Eve went to Mackinac early in August, for a fortnight's rest. She was the guest of the Heckners, in their summer home there. She's an intimate friend of Mrs. Heckner, who is devoted to her and was doing everything she could to make Eve's first American season a big success."

"Eve is strong for boating and swimming and every sort of outdoor sport," Henderson went on, having replaced the spectacles. "Learned 'em when she was a kid, and keeps herself fit that way. The Heckner children (there were four of them) were crazy about her, and spent most of their time at her heels. They were just learning to row and swim, but of course they were never allowed to go off by themselves. However, they knew there was an old boat a mile or so up the beach, and they sneaked off alone one morning, and got that boat into the water and pushed out in it. Their governess thought they had merely run away from her to play on the sand, but, just the same, she chased along the beach, looking for them, and on the way another child met her and told her what the youngsters had done. They were pretty far out by that time."

"Yes. Go on."

"It was early and the shore was almost deserted; but Eve had happened along with two women she walked with every morning. She and her friends had been standing for a few

SUNSHINE

The Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and other exponents of the outdoors are enjoying the benefits of life in the open.

They see the things of the world in a new light and understand nature better. They meet friends in the same cause, swap stories and form congenial companionships. Every student of the big out-doors gets new object lessons, makes new resolves and forms new links of character with the day
sunshine.

Sunshine is the test of summer time.
It ripens the grain and fruit and gives strength to the camper. All nature has a smiling face when the sun causes the plants to grow, the flowers to open and the fruits to mature. Sunshine induces youth to get out amid the fields and forests, drink in the pure air and enjoy the healthfulness of exercise in the open. There are profits in sunshine that one does not always reckon on when planning an outing in the open. It helps in fitting one for future work and inculcates a desire to keep young in order to continue enjoying the playfields of youth. Yes, there are countless benefits to be derived from mingling with the all-out-doors.

The sun paints smiles on the cheeks of humanity in unerasable lines. One has but to look at our boys who have returned from the Post encampment to see the clear eye and manly deportment each carries. It is an education, wellworth emulating in the grown up.

THE "LOWER" HOUSE

Most observers of public affairs will agree with Mr. Coolidge in his recent statement that in the Congress which adjourned the other day the House of Representatives proved itself the saner and more statesmanlike of the two houses and went far toward regaining its former prestige.

Certainly the performance of the United States Senate is nothing for the nation to be proud of. Instead of being the sedate, deliberate body that it was intended to be and was for many years, the Senate has become the forum for the wildest and most irresponsible demagoguery. This is a condition which cannot be entirely blamed, perhaps, upon the so-called "popular" election of Senators; but certainly a considerable number of Senators, whom we might name, could never have got into the Senate in the old days when State Legislatures chose the members of the so-called "Upper" House.

It was the House of Representatives which was responsible for practically all of the constructive legislation which the 71st Congress has enacted thus far. While Senators of both parties were posing for individual effect and taking every possible opportunity to give the President a slap in the face, the House of Representatives went about the public business in a business-like way and stood firmly against the wildest and most impracticable proposals of the Senate.

The attempt to assert the authority and dominance of the Senate and to reduce the Presidency to the status of an office-boy has had some curious manifestations, but has aroused the laughter and derision of the public more than its sympathies. The reception of the President's first nomination for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Judge Davis, was much more an attempt to "put the President in his place" than because of any real objection to Judge Davis.

No wonder that President Hoover said, when informed of the birth of his latest granddaughter, "I'm glad she doesn't have to be confirmed by the Senate."

The Senate controls all important patronage, under the Constitutional clause requiring its "advice and consent" to major Presidential appointments. But in the last few weeks of the session it became apparent, even to Senators, that the country was resentedful of the Senate's antics. The President wisely refrained from trying to crack the whip over them. Apparently he thought that if he gave the Senate enough rope it would hang itself; and that is what has happened, so far as the respect of the people is concerned.

Lawn Contest To End Next Friday; Judging That Day

Slaton's fourth annual "Pretty Lawn Contest," will come to an end next Friday, August 1, at which time judging will be done by three judges to be furnished by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, this service being rendered in return for the service rendered by three Slaton judges, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Green and C. A. Bruner, who went to Lamesa on Tuesday of this week and officiated in Lamesa's first annual lawn contest.

All local contestants are urged to have their lawns in the best possible condition next Friday so that the judges may find the lawns at their best.

It is planned to complete the judging Friday afternoon, and the awarding of prizes will be made at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at the bandstand on the city hall lawn. All contestants are requested to attend this public program. Everybody is invited, Chamber of Commerce officers have announced.

WTCC Stamps To Be Distributed To Local People

In order to cooperate with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its program of advertising West Texas, the local Chamber of Commerce has agreed to assist the West Texas organization in the distribution of 100 books of advertising stamps, each book containing 750 stamps, for the use of business firms here. The sale price of each book of 150 stamps is 75 cents, the actual cost price. More than one book may be purchased by one business firm, if desired.

Officials of the Slaton Chamber have pointed out the fact that each stamp costs one-half a cent, thus making it possible for each person using these stamps to carry a message about West Texas to the people with whom he carries on correspondence. The stamps are to be used on outgoing mail—mail that goes to points outside West Texas.

In each book of 150 stamps, there are ten sheets of fifteen stamps each. There are ten different kinds of the stamps. Each stamp points out by word and picture some particular advantage found in West Texas. These ten different attractions featured on the stamps are: cotton, poultry, petroleum, livestock, natural gas, health, resources, sheep and goats, and two different stamps illustrating West Texas' ideal climate.

The stamps will be here for distribution soon, and may be had at the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall, it was announced by L. A. Wilson, secretary of that body.

A. & M. All Set For 4-H Clubs

We are advised by the Santa Fe that a special train will be run to care for the boys and girls of the 4-H clubs on the North and South Plains attending the annual Short Course at Texas A. & M. college, at College Station, which opens Monday, July 28.

The train will be put on Saturday night the 26th. We are informed that Slaton will be represented by Jack Stalcup and Irvin Reed.

It is expected that 250 boys and girls will attend this Short Course.

BIG BUSINESS

Consolidation of several small enterprises to make a single large one is not confined to manufacturing industries. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, who knows what he is talking about most of the time, says that more than a million acres of Kansas farm lands are now owned by corporations, and that recently one corporation bought thirty farms in the winter wheat region and merged them.

Corporate farming is more of a business enterprise and less of a mode of living than farming by an individual is. According to Senator Capper, these farm corporations hire men who leave their families behind, to go out in the Fall and put in the crop. In the summer they hire other men to come in and harvest the crop. The rest of the year nobody lives on the big farms. That seems menacing to the Senator from Kansas. He thinks it will result in depletion of the soil, through lack of crop rotation, maintenance of fertility and diversification. It is hard to believe that any group of capital engaging in business on a large scale would be so short-sighted as not to take those things into consideration and apply the most modern principles of agriculture to their enterprises.

HOLDING THEIR OWN

While there is some regular drift of people from the farms into the manufacturing towns and larger cities, communities of the type of Slaton are as a whole holding their own. In fact Slaton has shown a wonderful growth in the past ten years. A great many cities like Slaton, as the result of public spirited and active plans for development, are going ahead. It is a very vital matter to the country that such communities should be successful. They constitute agencies of the utmost value for the development of the surrounding country. Cities and towns like ours are the ideal places in which to live. They are big enough so there is a chance, if people have a reasonable degree of activity, for an interesting life. And yet they have space enough so that people can have comfortable and healthful homes.

Young people brought up in a town like ours grow up under the most favorable conditions which they can expect to have. It is for the interest of all our people and for all of the surrounding country, that such communities should prosper and grow. When towns like ours are active and prosperous, they assemble a group of people who maintain modern life at a high level. They provide leadership which helps every industry in the district. Their stores offer the products of the world, with low charges for selling costs. Their civic organizations supply energy that promotes good government and good educational and recreational facilities.

If our people here in Slaton and the surrounding territory, want a community to be a center of modern progress and helpful influences, of the conveniences and advantages of up-to-date civilization, they must spend their money at home, where it will work to build up the facilities that we need to compete with the world.

MERCHANDISING

Practically every product we buy today comes to us after passing through a complex merchandising chain—that is everything except the products of the farms. Clothing, motor cars, radios, literally thousands of luxuries and necessities are advertised by experts in the art of merchandising and selling goods.

But it is not so with most of the things the farmer produces. Either his product is taken over by a great capitalistic organization and merchandised to bring profit to the distributor or it is thrown onto the market in a careless, and unscientific manner.

Take cheese for example. We go to a store and buy a pound of cheese sliced off a large block. We know nothing of the quality, grade, or producer. One time we may be fortunate and get exactly what we desire. Another time we may be "stung" with low quality. We have no way of reordering a brand that appeals to us. We must take our chance—unless, of course, we buy some special packaged article sold at a high price. Never do we see advertising telling us of the food value of cheese. Never are we sure that we can go to a store and buy cheese packed as we want it or of a quality and brand that we may depend upon.

Naturally consumption of this important dairy product is below what it should be.

We cite cheese as an example. Many other farm crops are handled in the same hit-and-miss way.

One aim of co-operative marketing is to remedy this situation—to remedy this situation—to handle the marketing of the farmer's produce in the same scientific manner that has put fortunes into the pockets of private citizens.

Believing that this is a sound method of procedure, this paper never stops advocating the formation of farm co-operative organizations. We want our farmers here in Lubbock county to realize that there is a way to greater prosperity for them through organizations that function in the same manner as our great and prosperous corporations.

MEAT

The food faddists have been preaching against the eating of meat for many years. Except in certain types of disease, intelligent physicians tell their patients to eat meat freely, as nature intended they should. Even in cases of high blood-pressure, modern medical practice is not to cut out meat but to counteract it by the liberal drinking of the juice of oranges or grapefruit.

Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, lived for five years on an exclusive diet of meat, as the Eskimos do, without ill effects. The Smith Sound Eskimos, so Donald MacMillan reports, eat only meat and eat that raw, as they do not know how to make a fire!

Sensible people will continue to eat whatever they can digest and as a rule will live longer and happier lives than those who worry about their diet.

TRADE

International business depends upon nations buying from each other in substantially equal amounts. This is the way it works out between the United States and the rest of the world:

Foreigners pay us annually, for excess of our exports over our imports, 734 millions; for interest on our foreign investments, 562 millions; for government war debts, 207 millions; foreign money invested in the U. S. 396 millions; in all, including minor items, nearly 2 billions.

We pay foreigners annually, in long term investments of capital abroad, 808 millions; spent by American tourists, 565 millions; ocean freight in foreign ships, 115 millions; sent by recent immigrants to the old country," 223 million; paid abroad, 120 million; including miscellaneous items, billions.

Those are Department figures. They show in volution that Uncle Sam is the rest of the world.

"Things I Ate Hurt Me"

"I HAD a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheister, 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?' 'I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. I soon regained my health and strength.' Costs only 1 cent a dose."

in perspective, as our ban upon teaching German in the public schools, when we were at war a dozen years ago.

All the old bitterness may never die. There is still a considerable body of Jacobites in Canada who hold that the present King of England has no right to his throne and that an obscure European nobleman of the Stuart line is the rightful heir of James II. But nobody takes them seriously, any more than anyone now takes seriously those who try to keep our old sectional enmity alive.

Board Member Explains Program

Vice-Chairman Stone Talks To Farmers About New Marketing Act As Passed

By CALEB JOHNSON
Instead of writing my column this week I am going to quote some statements made by Mr. James C. Stone, vice-chairman of the Federal Farm Board, in regard to the cooperative marketing program which the Board is establishing for farmers.

It will be realized, some day, that the Agricultural Marketing Act passed in 1929, and the operations of cooperatives organized under its provisions, is the most important economic step which has been taken in our history.

For that reason, whatever the Farm Board does is of vast importance to the whole nation. And, Mr. Stone has something interesting to say about the Board and cooperation, and says it interestingly.

"We realize that cooperative marketing is not perfect, that there are good cooperatives and bad ones, some well managed and others badly managed. We also realize that when a farmer joins a cooperative marketing association his problems are not all solved. Cooperatives will not run themselves. They are only business organizations which require sound financial structures, honest and efficient management, backing and support by the farmer members who own them, and unless they have all these things they will fail just like any other business would under similar circumstances.

"The program undertaken by the Farm Board to help the farmers organize for collective action will require not only considerable time, but much patience on the part of both those who are trying to help the farmers and the farmers themselves.

"We believe that it will take several years for these national sales organizations to become properly organized and officered and that there will be many intricate problems which they will have to meet and solve, but we believe that with proper and efficient management they eventually will be able to perfect a more economical and efficient distributing system of farm products.

"As might be expected when a program of such vast proportions actually got under way there was some criticism. For the most part this came from middlemen who feared that cooperative marketing of agricultural products, which is nothing more than the farmer selling what he grows would interfere with their business."

"Keeping production in line with the potential demand of the market, both as to quantity and quality, is regarded by the Farm Board, as a first essential in the success of cooperative effort in agriculture. It is a first principle in other business, and farmers are being asked to do the same thing. Industry regulates production to meet the demand and sells to the demand as the demand will take it at a profitable price, and at the same time tries to stimulate and enlarge the demand.

"The Board this year asked farmers to reduce acreage on only two crops, wheat and cotton, and warned them against increased production of a third tobacco. In the case of wheat the Board asked a 10 per cent reduction, taking the position that wheat growing will not be on a profitable basis in this country until the quantity is brought down somewhere near to domestic requirements.

"In suggesting to the wheat and cotton growers of the country that they reduce their acreage we are only following the precedent set by industry. A successful manufacturer does not produce an article blindly, but tries to produce an amount equal to the demand, and it is upon this basis that the Farm Board thought it well to call to the attention of the farmers of this country that it was full time for them to begin to study the demand for the various products they are producing and to try to produce an amount not in excess of the demand, believing this to be fundamental to their prosperity. We realize that the farmer naturally has to deal with the elements and that he takes more chances in his production than a manufacturer does, but by giving this subject more consideration in the future than he has in the past, we believe that it will go a long way toward solving his problem. In urging farmers to pay more attention to the potential buying demand at planting time the Farm Board has stressed that it is not asking them to reduce their income by such action, but instead confidently believes their income will be improved substantially.

"In the near future, the Farm Board expects to make a careful study of the marginal and sub-marginal land of the country and recommend a land policy which we hope will be to the ultimate good of the farming industry. We also expect to make a study of the various sections of the country and bring to the attention of the farmers of each section the crops and livestock which they can produce to a better advantage than can be produced in other sections. These questions we think are of vital importance to the ultimate solution of the agricultural problem.

"Although cooperative marketing on a sound basis is an essential part of the Farm Board's program, we do not believe that it alone will solve the farm problem. There are several things which, in our opinion, the individual farmer will have to do himself before his business as a farmer will be successful.

"1. Farm because he loves it; few people succeed doing things they are not interested in or love to do.

"2. He should adopt a sound financial policy in his individual farm operations, and the investment of any surplus funds which he accumulates should be in securities which can be converted quickly into cash when needed. Most farmers invest their accumulated funds in the first payment on additional purchases of land, going into debt for the balance of the purchase price, or in mortgage notes on land, neither of which can be cashed in time of need. Corporations or business men other than farmers usually invest their surplus funds in good stocks and bonds not necessarily allied with their own business, with a daily market value so they can be immediately converted into cash if needed in their business. Farmers, when possible, should follow this principle.

"3. Plan his work; keep in touch with his State Agricultural College, experiment station and county agent.

"4. Have his soil analyzed and cultivate only productive land; base his production on demand as near as possible, and produce quality products.

"5. Join with his neighbors in organizing a cooperative marketing association through which to sell his products because 'In Union There Is Strength.'

"There is one thing which can not be too forcibly impressed on the minds of the farmers of the country, and that is, the Farm Board cannot put the Agricultural Marketing Act into effect without the aid of the farmers. The national sales organizations have been formed and others which will be formed are not government agencies but are farmer-owned and controlled cooperative marketing associations. The only thing that the Board is trying to do is to help the farmer, but before anything can help the farmer, he must be willing to help himself."

FORD

I visited Henry Ford's great plant at Dearborn the other day. As I came out of one of the buildings I saw a rope stretched across the brick pathway.

"We'll have to walk on the grass," said my guide. "There's a kildeer's nest down that path. Mr. Ford saw it the other day and had us block off the path. The kildeer, you know will leave its nest and let its young ones die if it is disturbed."

I didn't know that fact of natural history, not having been brought up in the prairie country where the kildeer flourishes, but as I looked down the path, and saw the mother bird hovering over the nest in a low bush I felt that I had got a glimpse of another phase of Henry Ford's character.

On Friday and Saturday, July 25 and 26, Plainview will be visited by William F. Schilling, of Minneapolis, Minn., who is representative of dairy and poultry industries on the Federal Farm Board. This is the first visit to the Plains country and the first member of the Farm Board to visit Plainview.

INVITATIONS SENT OUT

Invitations have been sent out to the County Agents, and all are welcome to attend the meetings. A very elaborate program has been prepared for the occasion.

It is expected that much good will come from these meetings as Mr. Schilling is scheduled for addresses covering the dairy and poultry industries and these should be enjoyed by all who attend.

W. H. Smith, Claude F. Anderson, W. M. Cates, T. A. Worley, Jr., T. E. Roderick, L. A. Wilson and J. H. Brewer attended the luncheon meeting of the Lubbock Rotary club at noon Wednesday.

The first four named were making up their absences from the local Rotary club's luncheon last Friday. Brewer, Wilson and Roderick made the trip in order to confer immediately after the luncheon with R. J. Murray, district chairman, with reference to plans for cotton marketing under the Texas Cotton Cooperative association this fall.

Wanderer Returns from Heated North

Uncle George Marriott returned on Tuesday night from his vacation trip feeling fine but with a story of extremely hot weather, and so hot for a Plainsman that it nearly caused him to pass out.

He is desirous to return to the land of his adoption and does not want to make any more trips that will take him into the heated area. Talk about politics, he states that Detroit, the great automobile town is in the throes of a mighty political battle. They are having it on all sides. They even dispose of people the same route as the gangsters in Chicago take.

Uncle George is going to tell us more about the trip when he gets rested in Slaton's summer resort.

We welcome the old pal back.

Plans Complete for Baptist's Post Camp

Plans have been completed for the sixth annual session of the Baptist encampment which will convene at Two Draw lake, Post, Monday, July 28 and close Sunday, August 3.

SNYDER MAN VISITS BROTHER ON SATURDAY

He attended a meeting held at Lubbock on that day for dealers and salesmen of the Frigidaire company. The company plans to announce some new products in the near future and the meeting was held in order that their dealers and salesmen would be up-to-the-minute when this new announcement is made.

BAPTIST W. M. S. MET IN GASSAWAY HOME MONDAY

The W. M. S. of the Baptist church met Monday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. L. Gassaway, 405 South Eighth street, for the regular monthly missionary program with Mrs. E. C. Foster as leader.

After the program delicious punch and wafers were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. A. Elliott, Mrs. E. N. Pickens and Mrs. C. W. Wilks. Some twenty-five members attended the meeting.

YOUNG FOLKS ENJOY PARTY IN LEE HOME

Mrs. Charles M. Lee entertained at her home, 620 South Seventh street, last Tuesday evening honoring her house guest, Little Miss Eleanor Lee, of Lubbock.

Games were played and enjoyed for several hours after which a delicious refreshment course was served to: Misses Docia Tucker, Lea Beth Drexry, Virgin a Sanders, Jovetta Blundell and the honoree, Messrs. R. B. McHorse, Troy Bickerstaff, T. J. Abel, Jr., Charles Marriott, Bobbie Jones, and Greeley Sanders.

Candidates Spoke In Slaton Friday

The boys and girls came for a visit with Slaton voters and they are a right fine body of Lubbock county citizens. Just a matter of personal selection as to who you might wish to cast your vote for.

FINE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

There was a fine audience that was present to greet the various candidates. The evening being warm all decided to use Slaton's fine green carpet at the city building, so every one adjusted themselves to the closely cropped grass.

E. L. Pitts, candidate for county judge, briefly outlined the program, when he called upon County Attorney Vaughn Wilson to act as chairman. This was for a dual purpose, if anyone should throw mud, he was there to catch the mud "bawls". We simply report there were none thrown.

Chairman Wilson took charge of the meeting and called upon Miss Mae Murfee, candidate for re-election as county superintendent, as the first to offer reasons why she should again have the vote of the people. She was followed by M. W. Peevehouse, her opponent, who held the office formerly. Ed Allen came onto the scene and with a few snappy remarks as to why he should have the support for county clerk, he was followed by Amos Howard, present incumbent, who asks for re-election. The district clerk's office was defended by Flora Atchison, who asks for re-election, the plaintiff in this case was Charles B. Metcalfe, who stands for election.

Three aspirants we have for county judge. They are all three mighty good musketeers for they shot straight. Burton S. Burks opened the round for the judgeship and gave his reasons why he should have the support of the people. Judge Charles Nordyke came as the second offering and as he is well known in Slaton recounted some of the things accomplished while he held the office. E. L. Pitts was third to offer his reasons why he should be permitted to preside over the deliberations of the county court.

Chairman Wilson then introduced the orator of the evening, Judge G. E. Lockhart, of Lubbock, who is standing for representative from this district. The judge poured it on them and appeared to have a good time doing so.

Slaton has never been visited with a finer bunch than those that appeared, who are running for office and it is just too bad that there are not more offices for them to fill.

Of course, gentlemanly dignity was in order as two ladies, Miss Mae Murfee and Flora Atchison, were among the candidates.

We hope to have them back again, Hede's hoping the best woman and best man may win.
