Rosemary Lassiter And H. W. Peters Marry In Morning Ceremony

Couple To Be At Home In Abilene

ABILENE, Feb. 23 (Sp)—Rosemary Lassiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lassiter of Merck, became the bride of H. W. Peters of Chicago, Ill., Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of her parents. The Rev. J. W. Saffie, retired Baptist pastor of Plainview, read the vows.

Full floor baskets of salmon and white gladioli were placed on either side of the arch and featured in other room decorations.

The bride wore a two-piece tailored nuptial suit with South American tan accessories. The high-length jacket of the suit was fastened with three large buttons with a belt inset at the sides and looping in front. Her off-the-face veil featured a rippled heart-shaped trim and veil covered crown. Her corsage was of tall-tan roses.

Her only attendant was Nancy Phillips of Abilene, who wore a beige and turquoise suit with beige accessories and a corsage of rust gladioli.

L. R. L. Parker of the Medical Replacement center at Camp Barkley was best man. Wedding music was played by Mrs. C. B. Gardner and Mrs. Royce Eiland of Peasong sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," as a pre-nuptial solo.

A reception followed the ceremony. The ice-cream table repeated the arch theme with a miniature arch of sweetpeas at one end of the table forming a background for the white cake placed on a reflector. The cake was also decorated with sweetpeas. Red carnations wreathed the punch bowl on the opposite end of the table.

Mrs. M. A. Ribble, aunt of the bride, presided at the table assisted by Mrs. Hoyle Lemera, Mrs. Mary Boarden and Mrs. Lassiter.

Mrs. Peters was graduated from the Big Spring high school where she was a member of the Sub Deb club. She attended Texas Tech at Lubbock and was a member of the D.F.D. social club. She is now employed by the Citizens National Bank of Abilene.

Peters was graduated from Lane Tech school in Chicago and from Lake Forest University, Lake Forest, Ill., where he was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is now employed by the Pioneer American Insurance company. The couple is at home in Abilene.

Many WOMEN get 2-way help!

CARDUI is a name you ought to remember, for it may help you in 2 important ways: If your main trouble is periodic functional distress, start 2 days before "the time" and take it as directed. If you are run-down, undernourished from functional causes, its use as a tonic should help stimulate appetite, increase the flow of gastric juices, and so improve digestion, help build you up. Try CARDUI!

DENTON — Judged the five prettiest Beauty Queen candidates at North Texas State Teachers College in Denton, the five co-eds above still don't know which has been judged the prettiest—and the Queen.

That secret will be told at NTSTC on March 21 by Charles Dameron, editor of the campus yearbook, the Yuuca, at the Yuuca Coronation Ball, when the Queen will be crowned and the four beauties will attend her as princesses. Meanwhile the public is free to make its own guess on the identity of Her Royal Highness.

The five beauties are, left to right: Jo Frances Worley, Claude; Velma Rae Stansan, Fort Worth; Jackie McKay, Madisonville; Jewel Taylor, Corsicana; and Rosalie Grimes, Abilene.

DOWNTOWN STROLLER

Took in the sing-song yesterday at the city auditorium and say it was all right. We sang soprano awhile and then tried out our contralto. One time a man nearby and I really whamed out some harmony in bass. Nobody could hear us above the others, it was swell.

Mrs. V. H. FLEWELLEN and Mrs. L. A. EUBANKS were there for the event, but then of course, they can really sing. MARTHA EHLMAN and TOMMY MCORARY were also there to hear their chum, JEANNE YOUNG sing on the program. She really sounded good.

Mrs. FRANCES PETERS, Mrs. H. C. STIPP and son and CONSTANCE CUSHING were holding down one row and singing for all they were worth too.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. ENGLISH got some good harmony going down in the front rows. DAN CONLEY, who officiates as sort of master of ceremonies, gave some new versions of "My Bonnie Lies" that were good.

Major Lambert from Sloan Field made a talk about our place in the present day world war and went over big with the crowd.

Confidentially, if you like to sing a mean rendition of popular songs, you're missing out on a big time if you don't go next Sunday.

Three-Year-Old Lad Loser In Skirmish With Fleecing Monkey

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP)—The world is in such an uproar that a fellow can't even sit on the sidewalk and eat an orange any more without all hell breaking loose.

That's what three-year-old Eddie Tabet would tell you, if you asked him where he got all that adhesive tape.

Eddie was eating his orange in front of his home. Next thing he knew a monkey came bounding down the street, a crowd of youngsters in pursuit. The monkey looked around and saw he was being run down in the stretch, so he jumped on Eddie's head.

The terrorized simian and hysterical Eddie had a wrestling match to see whether the animal stayed where he was. It was a draw. Eddie went to a hospital for treatment of lacerations.

The monkey was still muttering in his heard when police took him away to his owner.

Fight Game Needs Meaner

Men, Asserts Levinsky

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP)—Battling Levinsky, the old light-heavyweight champion who loafed through 1941 by meeting six ring foes, says there's nothing the matter with present-day pugilism that rougher, tougher and meaner fighting men won't cure.

"Boxers today don't look their part," Levinsky complained, a little sadly. "They dress like gentlemen, talk only the best English, read Shakespeare and look like bankers."

"I think the ring game would be better off with some big, rough-guys, the likes of Gumbast Smith, Harry Greb, Bob Fitzsimmons, Bill Brennan and Jack Dempsey."

"Of course, now you can't say Joe Louis isn't rough enough already. He's a great fighter...."

But the rest of 'em... Softies." The battler, now 31 and a shipyard steel worker, clouted his way through 350 fights from 1907 to 1926 and picked up close to $500,000 along the way. Most of it went into real estate, he says, and disappeared during the depression.

He won the American light-heavy title from Jack Dillon at Boston in 1918 and lost it to Gene Tunney at New York in 1923.

"Dillon was the hardest puncher and greatest fighter I met," said Levinsky. "Although I took some hard knocks from Dempsey, Greb and Brennan, too. Tunney was the cleverest and most scientific fighter. He had everything figured out in advance."

But admits he might be prejudiced about Dillon—he fought him 10 times.

Arkansas Dropped Into Deadlock In S'west Cage Race

By RICHARD WEST Associated Press Staff

The wrinkled brow of Jack Stuart Gray, warring coach in the basketball profession, was a little smother today.

The snapper, immaculately-groomed pilot of the Texas Longhorns won't win the Southwest conference basketball championship but he has the 1942 race tied in a gordian knot.

Saturday night Gray's frowns turned to smiles as his scragging Steers pulled one of the season's biggest upsets by beating the league-leading Arkansas Razorbacks 55 to 37 at Fayetteville.

At the same time Rice was slaughtering Southern Methodist 65 to 21 in Houston.

Arkansas' loss and Rice's win tied these clubs for the lead with 8 wins and two losses—just as it seemed nothing but a miracle could keep Arkansas from winning its ninth undisputed championship in 18 years.

Texas, who started the season with a bunch of sophomores then lost three men to the army and another by scholastic disqualification, gathered the pieces of their wreckage for a do-or-die stand in the Ozarks.

They lost to the Porkers Friday night after a tough tussle, 24-42, but the next evening they jumped into an early 17-6 lead, were ahead 27-18 at the half, 41-37 midway in the final period, then coasted to a startling upset.

The Porkers are now on the spot. Friday and Saturday nights they play dangerous Texas Christian in Fayetteville. It will be Arkansas' season finale and defeat in one of these games would virtually eliminate the Hogs from even a tie for the title.

Rice has two games left—against Baylor tomorrow night in Houston and against Texas in Austin Saturday night.

In other games last week, T.C.U. beat Baylor 27-23 in Fort Worth, the Texas Aggies crushed S.M.U. 47-29 and upset T.C.U. 33-27 in College Station.

This week's complete schedule: Tuesday—Texas Aggies vs. T.C.U. at Fort Worth; Baylor vs. Rice at Houston. Thursday—Texas Aggies vs. S.M.U. at Dallas. Friday—T.C.U. vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville. Saturday—S.M.U. vs. Baylor at Waco; T.C.U. vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville; Rice vs. Texas at Austin.

Canyon, Tech To Clash With Western Foes

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 23—The rangy West Texas Buffaloes start their invasion of the western half of the Border conference tonight and the prospect of the loop's basketball title swayed them at the end of the tour.

In their first year in the conference, the Canyon, Tex., Buffs, tallest team in the nation, have set new highs in scoring, waded through all opposition and compiled to date a string of 13 conference wins against no losses.

Including their tilt against New Mexico here tonight, they have four conference games left. Only the mathematics gave second-place Texas Tech a chance to edge out West Texas—and that didn't appear to be in the cards.

Two games behind West Texas, the Tech Red Raiders follow the same invasion route, beginning Wednesday night.

The West Texas-New Mexico game here is the only conference contest tonight. The Buffaloes go to meet the New Mexico Aggies tomorrow night, while Hardin-Simmons, next to the cellar-dwelling Aggies, engages Texas Mines Wednesday night. Texas Mines meets the West Texas, Hardin-Simmons goes against the New Mexico Aggies, and Texas Tech comes here to meet New Mexico.

Hardin-Simmons and Tech take on New Mexico and New Mexico Aggies, respectively Thursday night, in games that wind up the season for New Mexico, Hardin-Simmons and the Aggies. Friday night Tech goes to Texas Mines, the Miners' last conference game.

There are no games scheduled for Saturday night.

Cowboys Open Spring Drill On March 9

ABILENE, Feb. 21—Coach Warren Woodson, the soft-spoken foreman of the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, will begin spring football practice on March 9, hard hit by graduation and losses to the armed forces, but looking to upcoming material from last year's freshmen to rebuild ranks in an eleven that won a Border conference co-championship in 1941.

Losses by graduation include such key men from last year as H. C. Burrus, at right end, Murray Evans, captain and quarter, and Truett Rattan, at tackle, all conference team members. Bob Thompson, tackle; Ed Beaman, guard; Bud VanDever and Max Gunn, backs, were other seniors.

Already in service are Errol McAtee, left half; Charles Haynie, punting end, and Malcolm MacFaul, guard. Floyd Hopien, letterman tackle, and Jug Bennett, two-letter guard, have withdrawn from school to take defense jobs.

Four freshmen already gone in to service are John Teague, tackle; Amos Gray, back; Weldon Hanks and Art Burleson, ends.

Ten letter men returning will be headed by Harold (Ago) Prescott, at Phoenix, Ariz., bespectacled left end and captain-elect.

Last fall, the Cowboy freshmen won their two games with conference schools, Texas Tech and West Texas State, and to talent from Coach Moon Mullins' roster, Woodson will look for backfield speed and power, and forward wall replacements, he said today.

A principal spring hunt will be for a passer to replace Captain Murray Evans, he said.

Albuquerque Has Bid From Two Leagues

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 23—Feeling something like the well-flower who suddenly found herself with more invitations than she could handle, Albuquerque's baseball set today awaited the outcome of a struggle by two minor leagues to establish an entry here.

The circuits wanting representation were the West Texas-New Mexico league, and the Western League, whose members now are Cheyenne, Wyo., and Denver and Pueblo, Colo.

Only a few weeks ago, with the collapse of the Arizona-Texas league, Albuquerque faced the prospect of losing organized baseball.

Last night, H. R. Miller, owner of the Pampa (Tex.) club in the WT-NM circuit, advised local men that he had decided to transfer his franchise here subject to approval of the league and the national association.

Announcement of this decision brought cancellation of a scheduled meeting called to consider a plan drawn by A. T. Hogan for putting an Albuquerque entry in the Western league.

The upshot was the calling of a meeting today of the chamber of commerce baseball committee which was expected to make the final decision. When this would be forthcoming was not indicated.

High School Track Hopefuls Meet Today

Cage Titles To Be Decided This Week In Many Sectors

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Looking ahead to a week of basketball in which the Southeast, Eastern Intercollegiate, Big Ten, Big Six, Southwest, Missouri Valley and Big Seven conference titles can be decided and the two participants in the Pacific Coast league playoffs determined:

Below the Mason-Dixon Line

After playing just for fun all season, the 12 Southeast conference teams gather at Lexington, Ky., Thursday for three-day title tourney... Tennessee, beaten only by Kentucky in conference play, top seeded and meets Georgia in first game... Kentucky, runner-up to Vols in 1941 meet, given No. 2 slot... Only regularly scheduled contest left in Mississippi vs. Mississippi State at Oxford tonight.

Seven teams, headed by the title defending Duke five, already have earned berths in Southern conference title meet at Raleigh, N. C., next week... Blue Devils' only league loss administered by George Washington Saturday, 55 to 53... This week's program ends season, except for tourney, with Duke at Maryland tonight, entertaining Virginia Tech Tuesday and North Carolina Friday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLESTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (Wide World)—If there's anything in the idea that the war will make people forget about sports, the folks over at Madison Square Garden haven't heard it... Here are last week's figures: Monday, basketball doubleheader, 17,911; Tuesday, hockey 8,915 (putting the Rangers' total for 30 games above last season's 24-game figure); Wednesday, basketball, 11,558; Thursday, American Hockey, 7,488; Friday, a very ordinary fight, 12,494; Saturday, track meet, 14,000; Sunday, amateur hockey, 15,284; pro hockey, 16,138... Draw your own conclusions... First big news from the baseball training camp is that gin rummy is beating out both bridge and hearts as an off-hour pastime... Feminine comment heard at the N. Y. A. C. track meet Saturday: "Imagine, a one-mile walk and no place to window shop."

Three Teams Have A Chance At City Title

Vaughn, Carnett or Crystal? Take your pick for champion of the last half of the city basketball fall league.

Better choose today or tomorrow you may be second-guessing. This evening in the final scheduled games, Vaughn has to tangle with Crystal and Carnett with Coedon. There is a possibility that Vaughn could win the crown, but it is a possibility rather than a probability.

The three teams are tied for first place. If Carnett were to lose to Coedon (and there is some bad blood between the teams that the admittedly weaker Oilers might rise to the occasion for one game), then the winner of the Vaughn-Crystal tilt would slide in to the disband.

However, it is in the cards that Crystal will defeat crippled Vaughn and that Carnett will ride over Coedon. That will throw it in a two-way tie. Interestingly, Carnett and Crystal tied for the first half title of the league, and have yet to play it off. If the same thing happens again, one playoff will suffice.

Crystals also comes down this evening for the slow league with the Lions pitted against Radford Grocery, winner of both halves and possessor of a perfect record. Nothing is at stake except Radford's clean slate and a chance for the Lions to pull up into a higher position in the running.

Play starts at 7:15 p. m. with the slow game and follows at hour intervals with fast league games.

Monday matinee—

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, the comedians, have taken over the contract of Cleo Shans, Los Angeles featherweight, and will campaign him around New York... Warming up the Kentucky Derby hallyoon, Frank Menke laments that Albat, the only horse he can write about until the entry list is completed, doesn't have a long tail like Whirlaway. That was what gave him a lot of crip last year... Sports Ed. Zipp Newman of the Birmingham News and Columnist Henry Vance of the Age-Herald have authored a piece on wild turkey hunting which will be out soon in "Esquire"... Twenty-five per cent of the Browns' stock will be sold to provide some fresh funding money but control of the club won't change hands... Harvard's Dick Harlow lectured recently to the New England regional group of the American Rock Garden Society... Soon as spring practice starts he'll move to the rock-and-sock garden.

Racing Ready To Do Its Part In The War Effort

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 21 (AP)—Col. Matt J. Winn, confident that the 88th running of the Kentucky Derby would be among the best in the history of the racing classic, said the sport was ready to go "all out" in helping the United States win the war.

The Churchill Downs head man leaving today for Chicago and a swing through the east before returning to complete plans for the Derby, May 2, said in an interview: "England has proved that continued racing can contribute to morale, but in the end only one thing counts—victory."

A veteran of the last World War, the colonel pointed out that racing contributed without stint then—some $500,000 being raised in Kentucky alone—and stands ready to do it again.

Churchill Downs directors recently voted to contribute $50,000 to the National Red Cross on Derby Day.

First Drills Slated For Tuesday

Big Spring high school athletes will trade their basketball uniforms in for still shorter toggy today as they prepare for the track season.

Pat Murphy, athletic director, said that a meeting of young men interested in the elder path events had been called for this afternoon and that candidates would get down to serious work Tuesday afternoon.

Deward Marcus, who just finished a successful season as coach of the basketball team, likely will draw the assignment as track coach. Herschel (Mule) Stockton, Murphy's veteran assistant in football, served as track coach last season, but his number in the draft is fluttering around precariously. Mule may beat the business to the punch, thus removing himself from possible coaching service.

Last year hopes of the local high school were fixed principally on Clifton Patton in the weights, but this season Big Pat is gone. However, a worthy successor is looming in Doyle "Hunka" Stewart, a youngster who makes the scales groan and twist past the 200-pound mark. In Glenn Brown he will find a promising mate, for Glenn has shown potentialities in handling the shot and discus.

Among other hopefuls are Alfred Adams, who does the quarter with considerable polish and fair time. Billy Womack is the hope of the Black and Gold in the 800-yard run.

Unless some "unknown" pops up with some amazing talent, the school is likely to be without much power in the dash events.

Track will monopolize the sports stage for awhile yet, said Murphy. Spring football training is not due to get underway until around April 15.

Lamesa Quartet Puts Blitz On Local Poloists

As the war communique would put it, the invaders had superiority Sunday.

The invaders would be the Lamesa polo aggregation, and they put the blitz on Big Spring's riders for the count of 1 and 2 in a game played at Bennett field.

The Lamesa four was a strong one, including Eric Barron who chalked up two goals, Spencer Barron, who tallied one, Walter Lawrence, who added the fourth, and Sol Cleveland.

Playing for the locals were M. H. Bennett and Gus White, Jr., who registered a goal each; Lewis Rix, Lloyd Wesson and Rip Smith. The local riders face another potent outfit next Sunday, when a game here is scheduled with a quartet from Lubbock.

Here's How We CAN Do Our Part

We hear a lot of talk these days about "doing our part" in the war; so much that sometimes all of us get tired of it and wish a lot of talking would stop.

That brings us around to wondering just WHAT we average, small-town people CAN do to aid in the war. We realize that we ought to do something for the boys who are carrying the big load in uniform, but we often fail to see just how we can help.

Frankly, there is just one real way of helping, aside from just carrying on our functions as good citizens everyday. That one way of helping is to buy defense bonds.

We have piddled along too long at the pre-war game of buying a two-bit stamp every now and then. It is war now, and we have to pay until it hurts.

As a guide for how much bond buying is needed, the treasury department has figured out a rate of savings for small earners that will bring in the total amount needed if EVERYBODY participates. Here it is:

If your weekly earnings are	You should save each week
$ 5-10	$ 0.25
10-15	.50
15-20	.75
20-30	1.25
30-40	2.00
40-50	4.00
50-70	6.00
70-90	8.00
90-100	12.00

That puts it in a form that we can tell if we are doing our part. If you are buying the amount of stamps recommended above each payday, you are on the band wagon.

If you are not, you are a shirker and all the airmen you can ever do won't kill a single Jap.

"Oh, but I've been having financial troubles," you say. "I owe a big hospital bill." Sure you do, brother, and so does your neighbor and most everyone else down the street. We all just have to take our loss and get on with it as we meet them. And meantime we must fight this war NOW regardless of the times.

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

The heart-capturing moments Sharon waited for Dennis to return along that treacherous catwalk seemed like scenes carved out of eternity. Fruitlessly, her mind pursued one plan after another. Should she ask one of the shadowy figures moving through the warehouse to go to his aid. Because surely he had had time to walk around the building. Something must have happened to him. There must be some way she could—

And then she saw him—moving quickly, sure-footed along the narrow walk. Forgetting, for the moment, her disobedience of Goodwin's orders, she stepped out of her hiding place, ran toward him.

"Oh, Dennis! I thought surely—" "Hush," he put a hand over her mouth.

"You are going to have to learn to obey orders, Sharon," Goodwin's voice like a steel knife cut her back. "Any sign of disturbance, Doyle!"

"Plenty, sir. The building is surrounded."

"Are you sure?"

"Absolutely. I waited out there until I saw at least half a dozen men slip out of the next building, start moving in on us."

Goodwin muttered an oath, spoke rapidly to the men.

"Carry out your orders. Fire the minute you see them. The grasping Sharon's arm, he propelled her up the gang plank onto the deck of the darkened boat. "You get below—and stay there," he snapped. "And this time—do as you're told!"

He thrust her down a narrow rampart with such violence Sharon clutched at a hand rail to keep from falling. Below, a small light was burning. For a moment, she couldn't think why it all looked so familiar. Then she realized. This was Goodwin's own yacht, Ladybird. She'd only been aboard once and then just for a few moments. But she was sure it was the same.

The same boat—she pushed along by passageway to the main cabin—but stripped now of its elaborate furnishings. And piled high with cargo! Bags of wheat, she noticed. And under that wheat—the steel! Was Goodwin taking the shipment to Los Angeles himself? Was that what he meant when he said he was taking no chances that this load be lost too? Was it because—directed her thoughts. Shooting! She raced back to the companionway, up to the main deck. Dimly, she saw hurrying figures in the gloom. Shrinking into a shadow, Sharon watched, listened. If only Dennis wasn't there. Why hadn't he stayed with his good, safe gas station job? And why was he so frightened, so sure he couldn't get away now? She had to find him.

Once more she ran back into that fateful building. Her eyes, accustomed now to the dark, identified none of the men moving near her. Under foot, something crunched softly. Slooping, she touched it with her hand. Grain! The wheat! They were ripping open the sacks, dumping the precious wheat out onto the floor.

"Spread it as thin as you can, boys," someone muttered, panting as he clambered up the pile of sacks, slapping at each of the fat bags.

No Escape

Stiffing chest from the scattered wheat choked her as she stumbled, slipping, Sharon searched for Dennis. Goodwin she located almost immediately. Moving rapidly from one point to another, his sharp commands losing none of their authority because he whispered them.

But still no Dennis.

Glancing to keep out of Goodwin's sight, she went back to the door opening. Maybe he had made his escape. Maybe he had gone along that catwalk, dropped to the barge, made his way across that to the next dock. It would be one way to get out without running into Goodwin. And if you moved quickly, perhaps without running into any of the men Dennis saw. She would try anyway. She might even get through to call help for Goodwin.

Slipping out along the narrow catwalk, she wondered now why she hadn't thought of it before. Goodwin would have refused her permission, of course. Naturally, he was trying his best to protect her. Anxious, distraught, he must be out of his mind with the fearful weight of responsibility. That would account for his strange behavior. If she could only get help to him in time.

The bulky raincoat hampered her so, when she got to the end of the walk, stood some ten feet above the barge's rocks gently below she pulled off the coat, rolled it into a bundle, dropped it down onto the barge. A moment later, she followed it. The jump dazed her for a moment, set the small barge to lurching.

When she'd caught her breath again, she pulled on the coat, ran across the barge to a short ladder, up that to the next pier.

That was easy, she thought congratulating herself as she stepped into the shadow again, and turning, waited to listen for any sign that she had been seen. Not a movement anywhere. The whole waterfront seemed to lie sleeping. One certainly would never suspect the frenzy of activity going on in the big warehouse she had just left, she thought. Maybe Dennis' excitement had set his imagination on fire. Probably the men clogging in' were merely watchmen making their rounds.

Sharon, her breathing going back to normal now, started down the long pier, keeping well to the shadow of the building. A hundred yards ahead she saw the gateway to the street beyond. A hundred yards between her and help for Goodwin—and Dennis!

Then she felt a hand close on her arm, felt herself jerked to an abrupt halt.

"Where you going, stoney?" a guttural demand from a bulky figure who had stepped out of the shadow.

So frightened she could not speak, Sharon reacted automatically. Her terror giving her redoubled strength, she tried to fight loose of this stony grip on her arm. Jerking free, she turned, raced toward the open gateway. And, but for the bulky raincoat, the night would have been quiet. But his long flapping skirt whipped around Sharon, and she could not hear a her knees, swaddled her effectively.

Her pursuer, only a few paces behind, overtook her, checked her flight this time by swinging a powerful arm around her waist, holding her so tight she could only flail his broad chest with her fists.

"Not so fast, girlie," he said, setting her on her feet again, but keeping her other arm captive. "What were you doing down here this time of night?"

Explosion

Sharon, realizing that further struggle was only a waste of her strength, stood quietly without answering.

"Better speak up, girlie. Tell us what you know about what's going on over there."

Still Sharon didn't answer. Had he actually seen her leaving the warehouse, she tried to guess. Or was he just leading her into betrayal with his questions.

His grip on her arm tightened. "Speak up. Who are you?"

"My name is Sharon Doyle — if that means anything to you," she said coolly.

"What you doing down here."

"That's my business."

"Oh, no it ain't! Not altogether. It gets to be our business when little girls dress up in men's coats and climb around the wharf where they don't belong. Now speak up. What's going on?"

Sharon glanced at her second captor, a hooded, a tall silent shadow beside her. "What if I don't choose to tell."

"Then we'll just assume you're guilty." He turned to the silent one. "Huh, boss?"

The man nodded.

"Guilty of what?" Sharon demanded, realizing now that the longer she could stall, the more time Goodwin would have to prepare against this mysterious attack. He might even get the Ladybird under way if he had time enough.

"Well, I reckon you know more about that than we would." The burly man chuckled softly. "What are they loading onto that boat over there."

"Peasants," Sharon answered, flippantly.

"Better tell you what you know, lady. It'll go pretty tough with you otherwise."

"Is it your business to go around intimidating people?" she demanded sarcastically. "Or are you just a bully by preference?"

"Have it your way. But you'll have to come along with us now."

"Why?—braving herself against against the pressure on her arm. "Because I say so, that's why."

"What about you?" she demanded.

ed, peering at the darkened figure still silent beside her. "Any reason why, in this free country, I should be forced to talk, to explain anything I don't care to explain, to strangers whose right even to question me, I challenge?"

Suddenly, with a deafening roar, came the white flash of an explosion. Instantly, the interior of the warehouse opposite burst into a hundred raging fires. Figures of men, black silhouettes against the sheets of flame, racing from the building!

As if in a horrible nightmare, Sharon watched, stupefied by the horror she saw.

"The wheat!" she murmured. "It's the wheat burning."

"Done a good job, didn't they?"—the heavy voice beside her. "Using karate, probably. We should be closed in on them sooner."

"We couldn't until we had the evidence," her tall captor's voice, cool, and strangely familiar. Sharon stared at him, his face lit by the sheet of flame opposite. Her second captor was — she felt her heart come to a stop — Tom Stafford!

Yessir, There's Still Plenty Politics Around

By JACK STEINMETZ

WASHINGTON — There has been a great deal of talk about the death of partisan politics. I will have to plead guilty to having, on occasion, put in my two cents worth on that score—but not any longer.

I have been re-visiting up on the Hill and I'm here to report that the old political hatchet is only buried on one subject—the winning of the war. Since December 7, I haven't been able to find a congressman (or woman) who doesn't want to win the war. But after that, agreement ends—and the basis of partisan politics is disagreement.

In the first place, this is election year and the seats of 34 Senators and all of the members of the House, of course, are at stake. That means campaigns—and campaigns mean "issues." When one begins to look for these, he finds there are plenty of them.

Some of these issues, a lot of them, are coming up in Congress before election time comes around. But there will be others of those in the immediate offing will be continuing.

For example, there is the prosecution of the war itself. No one questions the solidarity of England, but when things go wrong with British progress in the war, there are quite a few M. F.'s who are happy to stake their political necks on questioning Prime Minister Churchill. That's probably only a sample of what can happen here. The "outs" aren't going to forget how many political noggins fell AFTER England entered the war.

As Republican National chairman, Rep. Joseph W. Martin put it: "This is no time for abuse or criticism. It's a time for pointing out. We, like every one else, are 100 per cent for winning this war but, like they do in England, we will reserve the right to comment when it can honestly be done. The party of the opposition is of greatest importance."

As for specific issues which are likely to develop into lustrous political battles:

(1) Price control legislation, particularly as regards farm prices, wages, and administration of the act. The big guns already are firing on this one and it's pretty much a battle royal. The farm bloc, the laborites, the anti-Leon Henderson-ites, the anti-labor group, the anti-inflationists, and the middle-of-the-roads make it a glorious melee.

Wherein Bill Fields Makes Lecture On Temperance

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Mr. W. C. Fields has made a temperance lecture. It was, to be sure, for a movie. Any resemblance to Bill Fields' raising it.

(8) The fight to save small industries from complete annihilation and legislation to remedy or relieve labor and industrial dislocations.

I could mention a lot of minor issues that may loom large before the year is out, such as the complaints against the progress of civilian defense; and daylight saving, which was one of the big political squabbles of World War I and is certain to bring some political roars from the farm belt.

But that should be enough to convince that the second session of the 77th congress isn't going to be entirely a chorus of yesses.

personal opinions on the subject would be, of course, purely coincidental.

But there he was, in the midst of a parlorful of dowagers, extolling the virtues of cocoanut milk and inviting the ladies to sample same. As Mr. Feinstein Fothergill, a vagrant soldier of misfortune ever ready to turn a dollar without questioning its past, Fields in his starrin' sequence of "Tales of Manhattan" had been invited to discourse at the home of Mrs. Clybourne Langhankle (Margaret Dumont). This he did—and how was he to know that Mr. Langhankle (Chester Clute) was so fed up with his wife's lectures that he had spiked the ladies' cocoanut milk?

By the finish of Mr. Fothergill's remarks and the contents of the punch bowl, the assorted dowagers were in quite a state. That's when I came on the set, too late to hear the dry pearls of wisdom from the lips of a man parched by several months of existence on the water wagon. Fothergill's lecture is that Fields, who frequently conceals his own humor and ad libs more, assigned full writing credit to Bill Morrow and Eddie Beloin, the Jack Benny scribblers.

I congratulated Bill on the fact that his months on the wagon have not robbed him of his trademark—that colossal, brilliantly glowing triumph of the barkeep's art, that gorgeous sunset-glowing Fieldian nose.

"Thank you, thank you," he said with genuine appreciation, and dispatched his man Friday for a scotch beer and an extra glass. His own he took from a pewter tankard, monogrammed on the lid. "I'm still on the wagon," he said, "but a man cannot work on ice-water alone." He made a rye face.

Even when he got many, many letters from people overjoyed at his regeneration—quite a few suggesting they could use the money he would save on hard liquor—Bill was not consoled. He had looked upon the wagon and found it a hard-riding muley.

"I'm saving money," he said, "but Mr. Whiskers is taking care of it for me." He fingered his flowing black tie sadly, reached for the salt shaker to put a "collar" on his beer.

"I sit around evenings—I never go anywhere any more," he said. "I am on the wagon, and I do not like it."

"Guilty of what?" Sharon demanded, realizing now that the longer she could stall, the more time Goodwin would have to prepare against this mysterious attack. He might even get the Ladybird under way if he had time enough.

"Well, I reckon you know more about that than we would." The burly man chuckled softly. "What are they loading onto that boat over there."

"Peasants," Sharon answered, flippantly.

"Better tell you what you know, lady. It'll go pretty tough with you otherwise."

"Is it your business to go around intimidating people?" she demanded sarcastically. "Or are you just a bully by preference?"

"Have it your way. But you'll have to come along with us now."

"Why?—braving herself against against the pressure on her arm. "Because I say so, that's why."

"What about you?" she demanded.

"I SEE YOU'RE STOPPING SOME OF THE CREW ON TRUCKS THAT GO OVER THE BRIDGE."

"I HOPE THE WHEAT WON'T BE A TROUBLE SOLDIER."

"KEEP MOVING, YE SHIPLESS SKUNK!"

"I KNOW SINCE I BEEN ON THIS NEW JOB I HEN TO ANSWER MORE BURNING QUESTIONS."

"OH, SNUFFY— I'LL TAKE OVER NOW— SEE YA TOMORROW— SO LONG."

"BY JEEBES! I WROTE 'VE HADN'T SMOGGED UP, MAM. I TAKE TO THIS HERE GUNNY DUTY LIKE A PIG TO CURRIS."

"LAW ME, BOSS— I'VE GOT ALL DEM NICKELS AND DIMES?"

"COME BACK! THIS 'OL TANK MAY IGNITE THE GASOLINE TANKS ANY SECOND, AND THAT HAPPENS IF THAT ENTIRE FACTORY WILL BLOW UP!"

"ALL THE MORE REASON FOR ME TO GO INTO ACTION!"

"BREAKING TO THE FLAMING OIL TANK SUPERMAN RACES ABOUT IT DISMISSING AND HURLING BACK DIRT..."

"WHAT HAS AN INCAVATOR GOT THAT I WANN'Y GOTT!"

"UNTIL IN A MATTER OF INSTANTS THE GREAT FLAMING OIL TANK IS ENTIRELY SUBMERGED BY A HUGE DIRT MOUND."

"AND THAT FINISHES THE FIRE MENACE!"

"BUT LOOK-UP THERE—ATOP ONE OF THE GASOLINE TANKS!"

"THE FIREMAN! THE LIBER ORDERED THE FACTORY DESTROYED—AND IN A FEW SECONDS THIS HAND GRINADE WILL BLAST IT TO BITS!"

'Sergeant' Played Little Game With The Officers, Too

Stories just keep flooding in about Lee Roy Williams, the pseudo-sergeant of the air corps who fed out a line that a lot of Big Spring people took in, sinker and all, about his experiences at Pearl Harbor.

After baiting the folk in this vicinity into cashing a few checks for him, Williams wound up in jail and federal officials took him over. Next he was indicted by a federal grand jury in Dallas and when arraigned before Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, said judge promptly sent him over to the Army recruiting station for an opportunity to make good his boasts. Whereupon, Williams re-enlisted in the Army.

Now comes word from San Angelo of a confidence game that Williams played with officers in the jail there, where he was placed by federal authorities after leaving Big Spring.

Upon arrival at the San Angelo jail, Williams complained that he fractured a knee cap in a fall from an upper bunk in the Big Spring city jail. He caused considerable annoyance with his groaning and moaning each night.

C. S. Brown, deputy United States marshal, felt so sorry for him that he had him placed in the public health bureau hospital at Fort Worth. There, Williams persuaded officers to carry him around, pretending he could not walk.

Until an X-ray revealed he was in good health.

Sailors Return To Torpedoed Ship, Fire Final Shots At Sub Attacker

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 23 (AP)—The entire crew of the 5,127-ton American freighter Delplata, torpedoed in the Eastern Caribbean Friday, was safe in port today with an exciting story of how some crew members returned to the sinking ship and fired three shots at a submarine before abandoning her for good Saturday.

The 52 crewmen were brought here in a navy ship. The rescuers had been directed to the scene of the sinking by a naval plane which arrived over the stricken vessel a half hour after the Delplata's radio sent out a warning.

Capt. Roelof Browner said he believed two submarines took part in the attack and that the ship was struck by two torpedoes and missed by a third. The Delplata's gun crew fired more than a dozen shots during the attack Friday.

Soon after the second torpedo struck, flooding the engine room, Capt. Browner, the gun crew and others still aboard the vessel took the last life raft and abandoned the ship.

Coast Guard Cutter Sunk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The coast guard cutter Alexander Hamilton was torpedoes by an enemy submarine off Iceland, the Navy announced today.

While being towed into port the Navy said, the ship capsized and had to be sunk by gun fire.

The Navy said the loss of life was "moderate" but gave no specific figures.

The Alexander Hamilton was built in 1937 at New York and was 327 feet long and of 2,141 gross tons.

She had a speed of 20 knots.

Janes Fighting Ships credited vessels of her general class with two or three five-inch 51 caliber guns plus anti-aircraft guns.

Her cruising radius was 8,000 miles at 12.5 knots and 12,300 miles at 11 knots.

Here n There

After wondering what to do with leisure time these long summer evenings, those honey folks out in the southwest part of town have concluded they ought to build a new unit under the name of Parkhill Community Center and Bomb Shelter, Inc.

M. L. Penn and Rodney Merritt of the district NYA office at Lubbock were here on double duty Monday—to conduct interviews with NYA applicants and to get plans from advisory committee members on need for projects here and over the state.

Midland officers came here Sunday to gain custody of a youth in connection with a bit-and-run case in that city. The young man was taken into custody after a car described by Midland officers was found abandoned in the downtown section.

Philip Rawlin, negro, was charged with simple assault in city court Monday after officers said an attack had been made on another negro at a theatre here shortly past midnight Saturday.

Saturday night was a busy one for police. Soon after 11 p. m. they had reports of a negro woman being slashed with a knife and had to send for an ambulance to take her to a hospital. Around midnight a red hot gang fight between three negroes and two Mexicans broke out at the intersection of 1st and Main.

Draft Board To Reconsider Deferments

In accordance with orders from General J. Watt Page, state selective service director, the Howard county board is reopening for consideration the case of every registrant who has heretofore been classified in Class I-B or Class IV-F, predicated on deficiencies in teeth or eyesight.

General Page said in his instructions to the board that all Class I-B and Class IV-F registrants who are found to be eligible for military service under the liberalized dental and visual requirements of the armed forces, unless upon reconsideration of their classifications they are deferred for other reasons, will be placed in I-A and sent to army examining boards for final determination as to their acceptability.

He predicted that the new standards would make available for service "many thousands of men" who previously have been deferred as well as a large number of new draftees who would have failed to qualify under old army physical requirements.

War Rumors Keep Austin Policemen Chasing Bombs

AUSTIN, Feb. 23 (AP)—Capital city police today hoped rumor-mongers on the east side of town would soon run out of scare stories.

Residents of a seven-block wide area were streaming out of their homes in panic this week-end on reports a Jap bomb had been planted in the district. Police found nothing.

Earlier last week the police phoned rang repeatedly with reports of an explosion. Police found someone had discharged a dynamite cap.

Still earlier, police were informed someone had found a Jap bomb two feet long. Officers found an undischarged rifle shell in the street.

River Boat Wrecked, Sixteen Drowned

NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 23 (AP)—Rivermen struggled today to recover the bodies of 16 persons from the splintered towboat G. W. McBride, smashed against a stone bridge pier in the swollen Ohio river before dawn Sunday.

The partly submerged wreckage lay near midstream, pinned to the pier by treacherous currents which caused the Ohio's worst tragedy in more than 20 years. The bridge connects Cincinnati and northern Kentucky.

East Texas Lions In Bid Tonight For Cage Title

DENTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The East Texas Lions, with at least a tie for the Lone Star cage pennant a certainty, entertain the North Texas Eagles in Commerce tonight in a game that can give them the undisputed crown for 1942.

The East Texans are undefeated and can take complete possession of the title by defeating the two-beaten Eagles.

The teams play again Thursday night, this time at Denton.

The three other Lone Star fives have been out of the race almost since it began. Defending champion Stephen Austin has failed to win a game to date and is a cinch for cellar honors. Sam Houston's Bearkats, off to a slow start, improved too late in the season to pass the swift East and North Texans and Southwest Texas has had a spotty season that failed to bring them any laurels.

In addition to the North-East Texas game tonight, Sam Houston will be host to Southwest Texas the same evening. Tuesday night will see Southwest Texas journeying to Nacogdoches to meet Stephen F. Austin.

Report Due Feb. 28 On Dean Spies Case

GALVESTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—When the University of Texas regents meet in Austin on Feb. 28 they will receive recommendations regarding the administration of the medical branch from the house of representatives committee investigating un-American activities.

"The committee has taken 700 pages of testimony," the committee's chairman, Rep. Jack Love of Fort Worth, said last night. "Our report to the board of regents will tell a story that the people of Texas as never realized or the board of regents never realized."

A report on the hearing will be made public on Feb. 28, Love declared. The committee's findings and recommendations will then be handed to the board of regents, scheduled to meet in Austin on the last day of the month.

The hearing resumed last night until the Austin meeting, after three days of sessions in a lecture room at the school.

"This is too big a thing to be played with and tinkered with," Love said last night at the end of the hearing. He asked the students to "stop quarreling, stop quibbling and present a united front and turn out doctors. We need them."

Defenders of Dean John W. Spies, dean of the medical school, were heard by the committee yesterday, along with witnesses opposed to his administration.

Dr. L. L. Terry of the department of medicine said he had always found Dean Spies "honest, sincere and reliable." Dr. Carl A. Nau, professor of physiology, said he believed the dean was a "competent individual" who had not been shown the proper respect.

But Dr. Edward Randall, Sr., former faculty member and university regent, asserted he thought the dean should be dismissed. Dr. Charles T. Stone, head of the department of medicine said the medical branch could not "succeed and prosper" under Dean Spies.

Dr. Raymond Gregory, professor of pharmacology, testified the dean exhibited "religious and racial intolerance" and said "he didn't want Jewish doctors; he didn't think they were good." Nor did Dean Spies like Catholics or Baptists, Dr. Gregory declared.

Dr. W. R. Cooke, professor of obstetrics, asserted he was speaking for the majority of the faculty and read a statement in which he said:

"x x x the faculty is convinced that all charges brought against the faculty majority x x x are deliberately planned and malicious falsehoods."

Farmers Not Asking Draft Deferment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, told the house agriculture committee today the attitude of farmers in not seeking draft deferment was one of the major causes of a threatened farm labor shortage.

At the same time, he asserted that "thousands" of persons working in shipyards and airplane factories would be deferred because of an essential occupation "are in for a rude awakening."

Many of these workers, Hershey explained, can be replaced more easily than can farm labor.

The committee, beginning a study of the farm labor problem, was told by the selective service head that one of the tasks confronting him was to get across to local draft boards the necessity of not too heavily excusing the farm labor rolls in their counties.

Too often, he said, farmers themselves hesitate to appeal a local board's classification because of fear such action might be considered unpatriotic.

"One of the hardest men you have to convince that he is a specialist is the farmer," he told the committee. "Farmers are patriotic. They don't try to get exemptions."

Hershey suggested that agricultural representatives on local appeal boards be made active in investigating cases and in objecting to classifications that might drain away labor necessary to farm work.

Soil Supervisors To Meet Tuesday

Supervisors of the Martin-Howard County Soil Conservation district will meet Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the H. H. Wilkinson ranch in western Howard county.

Results of a survey and preliminary planning for the pastures of the ranch will be discussed at the meeting. Soil and range maps have been prepared on the two pasture areas of the ranch.

Ranch Girl—Nita Mae Boyd, freshman at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, has been selected as one of seven Ranch Girls who will participate in the 1942 Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock show in Fort Worth March 15-22. Miss Boyd, who is 18, is the daughter of C. E. Boyd, Sweetwater cattleman. She has been sponsor at rodeos at Double Hart, Coleman, Cisco, Lamesa, Abilene and Spur, winning several prizes. She will ride her favorite horse, Zip.

Big Spurt In Stamp Sales

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Sales of ten cent Defense Savings Stamps during January increased nearly 500 per cent over the previous high mark established in December, 1941, according to figures published today by the treasury department. January sales for the five denominations of stamps aggregated $41,006,736.80 as compared with the December total of $28,650,562.80.

The sale of Defense Savings Stamps of all denominations kept pace with the general increase of Defense Bonds and Stamps, which increased from $228,599,000 in December to $1,060,547,000 during January.

Comparative figures for stamp sales during December and January, follow:

	December	January

Total	$28,650,562	$41,006,736

Private Vessels Put Under Restriction

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—The United States Coast Guard today notified the owners of commercial fishing, charter and private vessels to keep their craft in the Miami river and Biscayne Bay.

No reason for the order was made public.

Chief Boatman Mate C. C. Wyatt, aide to Lieut. P. L. Shinn, captain of the port, said the order would remain in effect until further notice.

When a Child Needs a Laxative!

SYRUP OF BLACK-DRAUGHT is a tasty liquid that most children will welcome whenever they need a laxative. What's more important, it has the same main ingredient as BLACK-DRAUGHT, its older companion. Perhaps that's why it usually gives a child such refreshing relief from the familiar symptoms which show a laxative is needed. Comes in two sizes: 25c—50c.—adv.

Running Of Terrace Lines Near Finish

Line running is in its final phases for farmers who have had in requests for long times. Dudley Mann, in charge of the Soil Conservation Service office here, indicated Monday.

Only about 12 farms are left on the list of applicants for lines. Mann estimated that perhaps they would total 50 to 75 miles of terrace and contour lines when started.

To date, around 100 farms have been serviced, involving approximately 600 miles of terraces. In many instances lines have been staked so that listing may be done now and terraces built later.

SPEED... at a telephone job that is vital

Telephone construction crews everywhere have been breaking records month after month.

Within the space of a year, Southwestern Bell crews completed extensive telephone systems at scores of military or military supply locations in Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, finishing each job on time... or ahead of time.

In some exchanges where the inrush of workers in armament plants created an extraordinary demand, these crews have helped as well to double the number of telephones in service.

All told, 30,000 Bell Telephone folks in the Southwest march ahead these days, doing their best with such materials as are available to give you... and the nation... all the telephone service possible in time of war.
