

Former War Prisoner Remarries Japanese Wife

Cpl. Claude Batchelor (left), who left the Communists for the love of a Japanese girl, got married—for the second time—to Kyoko Araki, the Japanese he has considered his wife since July 1949. They are shown being married by Erich Hoffman of the American Embassy in Tokyo. They were married five years ago in a Shinto ceremony. Batchelor was the leader of a group of 22-pro-Communist American prisoners who refused repatriation. But early New Year's Day, Batchelor slipped out of his prison compound in the Korean neutral zone and told an Indian guard he wanted to go home. He later credited letters from his Japanese wife as playing an important part in this decision. They hope to come to the United States together next month, to his home at Kermit, Texas. White Says Any Economic Troubles Start On Farms

LUFKIN (AP)—An economic recession in the United States is not necessary, State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White says. "But if we do have a recession," White told a Lufkin civic club yesterday, "it will start on the farm." White said that the farmer's share of the national income was lower in 1953 than for any year except 1932 and called for keeping farm parity at 90 per cent. While farm income is down drastically, he said, most costs of farm production have increased. He said a combine that cost 1,600 bushels of wheat now could have been bought with 900 bushels in 1947. White told businessmen they should cooperate with the farmer because "when the economic position of the farmer suffers, the whole economy is harmed." All price support programs combined, he said, costs the average person but 45 cents annually. On the other hand, he argued, taxpayers are paying 80 cents annually per capita for air line subsidies. "Farmers would be willing to do away with price support programs if other sections of the national economy were not subsidized," the youthful farm leader claimed. "Legislation protection for the farmer is important," he said. "We are now in danger of being presented a flexible price support program which will only result in lower farm prices." The commissioner said farm surpluses, of concern to many persons, are the greatest psychological weapon the nation has against Communism. The United States is the only country in the world with the capacity to produce more than it consumes, he said. White, in his speech, made no mention of repeated rumors that he may run for governor in this year's elections. He has been mentioned prominently as a "loyalist" Democratic candidate for high office.

Convict Seeks To Become Preacher

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—If E. W. (Jack) Davis, 39, is successful in fighting a life sentence as an habitual criminal, he expects to become a preacher. The Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin yesterday granted a new trial for the Seymour man sentenced in March, 1953, to life as an habitual criminal. The sentence followed his third conviction on forgery charges. Davis has been in jail here while his appeal was pending. He was baptized last May at the Church of the Nazarene, has written more than 20 sermons, has been preaching to fellow prisoners two or three times a week, and is taking a one-year course prescribed by the church. He will be eligible for ordination after he completes the course.

James Roosevelt To Find Out Soon How Much Wife Will Get

By GRAHAM PERRY
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A judge will announce within a few days how much temporary support James Roosevelt, who claims he's worse than broke, shall pay his estranged wife Romelle, who demands $3,500 a month. A four-day hearing on the matter wound up yesterday with her attorneys accusing the eldest son of the late President Franklin Roosevelt of "making false statements for the purpose of concealing his assets." Roosevelt's attorney said Mrs. Roosevelt will have to get along with $30 to $40 dresses instead of $300 ones. Superior Judge Kurtz Kaufman took under submission the support demands and the amount to be allowed Mrs. Roosevelt for court costs and attorney fees. The support order will be effective pending trial of their separate maintenance suits. In hers, Mrs. Roosevelt, 38, accuses her 46-year-old husband of adultery, naming three co-respondents. She also filed letters signed by him stating he admitted infidelities with nine other women. Roosevelt has denied all the charges. He already is paying his wife, who has temporary custody of their three small children, $1,073 a month. Judge Kaufman said his decision will be based on Roosevelt's ability to pay as shown by his income and disbursements the past five or six years. The insurance executive's financial records, introduced in court, show gross annual income ranging from $30,000 to $51,000 the past few years and yearly disbursements varying from $10,000 to $79,000. The judge ordered stipulations and restraining orders to remain effective pending trial, which will be at least eight months hence. One order forbids either person from disposing of property. A stipulation bars either from making derogatory remarks about the other in the children's presence. Roosevelt also has the right to visit his children but only at his wife's home. An attorney said she leaves the house when her husband is with the youngsters. The judge ordered Roosevelt to continue making mortgage and tax payments on the family house. In his summation, Arthur E. Schifferman, one of Mrs. Roosevelt's three attorneys, declared: "We have shown that Mr. Roosevelt cannot be believed in any of his testimony. "And we have shown that he is by nature so devious that he would stoop to making false statements for the purpose of concealing his assets." In reply, Roosevelt's attorney, Samuel B. Picone, said Mrs. Roosevelt now "has more than $100,000 in assets which she never had before they were married. It was given to her by him. And now they are trying to make a criminal out of him."

Oil Tariff Plan Urged

TYLER (AP)—A graduated tariff on oil imports was suggested by an industry leader last night as a means of relief for domestic producers. "The problem cannot be solved within the industry," declared Charlton H. Lyons of Shreveport, La., vice president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America. "The Independent Producers must seek legislative relief. I personally suggest a graduated tariff on oil imports." The East Texas directors of IPAA were told by William M. Vaughney of Jackson, Miss., IPAA president, that oil imports "have reached a damaging level; they already have hurt us." "And there is no tangible evidence that we shall receive any relief," Vaughney declared. He expressed belief, however, that the Eisenhower administration "realizes this idea of trade instead of aid could well get out of hand." Vaughney described calls made by IPAA representatives on oil importers with the idea "that restraint on their part would be good business." Vaughney said that underground reserves in this country have increased by a third in recent months and that imports definitely are supplementing, rather than supplementing, domestic production.

Too Much Toothpaste

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Firemen had as much trouble with toothpaste as they did with flames and smoke while battling a fire in a semitractor near Springfield last night. "We had toothpaste everywhere—in our coats, down our necks, on our equipment and alongside the road," said Rural Volunteer Fire Chief George Bargdill. "There may be some teeth brushed with free toothpaste in the morning, but not mine. I've lost my taste for the stuff." The truck, bound for St. Louis from Akron, Ohio, was loaded with tons of dentifrice.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ten-year-old William Welsh can be classified as a baby sitter—but not in the usual sense. Visiting a home yesterday, William sat down on a kitchen chair before he looked on the seat. He soon discovered he had sat down on 8-week-old Charles Fox, another guest in the house who was tucked under a blanket on the chair. The baby, suffered no apparent ill effects, was held for observation by Sinai Hospital.

New Filipino Foreign Policy Under Study

By DON MUTH
MANILA (U)—The Philippines Republic has embarked on a new foreign policy, "Asia for the Asians," which has U. S. diplomatic officials watching carefully. Up to now, the new policy has left cold the Asian countries it was intended to influence.

The policy is based on developing an Asian nationalism under the wartime rallying cry used by Japan in promoting its East Asia co-prosperity sphere.

Philippine proponents insist the new policy will not affect traditional ties with the United States. Despite this, American officials here indicate they must remain alert for any unilateral action which might affect the balance in democracy's bulwark against communism in Asia.

The U. S. Embassy in Manila has not commented officially but appears concerned lest the policy be misinterpreted in some quarters in the United States. The Philippines still depend upon the United States for aid in supporting the island's economy and so must move cautiously, U. S. sources indicated.

The basic change under the new policy would seem to be toward independent action in foreign matters and away from the old Liberal party policy of taking cues from the United States. At the last election, Elpidio Quirino, head of the Liberals, was beaten soundly for a second term as president by Ramon Magsaysay and his Nacionalista party.

The policy switch was disclosed in a surprising manner earlier this month, instead of being enunciated by Magsaysay or by Vice President Carlos P. Garcia, the secretary of foreign affairs, it first was proclaimed by Garcia's under secretary, Leon Guerrero.

Guerrero was the "voice of freedom" during the early days of World War II until his capture by the Japanese. Later he was released from prison and broadcast Japanese propaganda.

Guerrero's first strong support for the new policy came from Sen. Claro M. Recto, wartime foreign minister of the Philippines under the Japanese.

Recto has been accused by critics of being anti-American but has denied the charge.

Vice President Garcia quickly added his support.

So did Sen. Jose P. Laurel, wartime president of the Philippines during the Japanese occupation.

Bipartisan backing came from members in Congress. But there were strong indications that the defeated Liberal party would subject the new policy to torrid debate in the Senate.

President Magsaysay has remained silent although Guerrero insists that the new President endorses it.

Vice President Garcia said in a subsequent speech:

"'Asia for the Asians,' far more than a foreign policy, is a statement of eternal reality. It is an axiomatic fact, self-evident and undeniable. It is the expression of a deep sentiment of a resurgent nationalism in liberated Asian countries."

Guerrero said it would be "servile and misguided" for the Philippines to keep on taking their lead from the United States in foreign matters.

The Philippines has considerable spade work to do in cultivating friendship with such countries as India, Ceylon, Indonesia, Burma, Malaya, Thailand, Indochina and Japan.

Diplomatic relations between the Philippines and neighbors are weak. The Philippines have established no direct diplomatic relations with Burma and Ceylon. They have not recognized the Associated States of Indochina.

The Philippines still are embroiled in a red-hot reparations tussle with Japan. These negotiations have dragged on for years.

Indonesia has looked with suspicion upon the Philippines. Many Indonesians feel this country has echoed too much the sentiments of the U. S. State Department.

'Cavewoman' Gives Up On Exploration

CRYSTAL CAVE, Ky. (U)—The outside world looked good today to Marguerite M. Klein, a school-teacher-explorer who found Crystal Cave's rugged depths too much for her strength.

She admitted she was "glad to be out" when fellow explorers in an extensive scientific expedition brought her to the outside last night over and around dangerous pits and crevices.

Samuel Aston Loyd, 36, an engineer from Waynesboro, Va., who helped lead the 27-year-old Chevy Chase, Md., teacher out of the cave, said:

"We put a rope around her to safety her across Bottomless Pit. She had to stop frequently for breathing."

Bottomless Pit is a 100-foot drop inside a tight-queue crawlway. The trail narrows down to about six inches around its rim.

Miss Klein is a member of the National Speleological (cave study) Society's three-day-old expedition into the vast unknown of Crystal Cave, which the explorers are beginning to herald as one of the wonders of the world.

The party of three cave experts who accompanied her to the surface after she became ill were picked for their ability to help her through the 1,600-foot crawlway.

The crawlway is an uphill obstacle course of narrow, zig-zagging passageways, deep pits and jagged rock.

Besides Loyd, her guides were Joe Lawrence, the society's 29-year-old expedition leader and electronics engineer from Philadelphia, and Dr. Ned Feder of New York City, who gave medical advice.

It was after her descent through the crawlway two days ago that Miss Klein, who suffers with asthma, had an attack which was complicated by vertigo, a dizziness brought on by excessive fatigue.

Thirty explorers, including two other women, are now making explorations of virgin cave passages and canyons. They have reported that the vast hollows of the cave, which extends for an estimated 53 miles, have waterfalls, high-vaulted cave rooms and deep pits.

Phil Harsham, a Louisville Courier-Journal reporter turned cave explorer, said: "I've seen wonders today that would astound the general public."

Thomas C. Barr, Jr., 22, a zoologist from Nashville, Tenn., reported finding a rare foundation of calcium carbonate called "moon milk" found in other American caves only within the past two years.

Explorers also found cave rooms decorated with helictites, spider-like stone projections that are the rarest of all cave formations.

Two Aliens Slated For Deportation

Two aliens recently apprehended by Big Spring and Stanton police have been turned over to local Border Patrol officers for deportation.

One of a group of persons arrested by local police on vagrancy charges proved to be a British subject who was in this country illegally, the Border Patrol said. He will be sent to Canada.

Two Latin-American aliens were arrested by Stanton authorities after a car was stolen in Big Spring and abandoned in the Martin County seat on Feb. 7. One of these is in Border Patrol custody for deportation. The other man probably will be turned over to the immigration service at a later date, it was reported.

Beck's Union Drafts Move To Kill Pact

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U)—The AFL Teamsters Union today drafted a rejection of a proposal AFL-CIO "no-raiding" agreement, a move expected to kill off any early prospects of a labor merger.

The "no-raiding" pact is regarded as a necessary first step toward a merger of the AFL and the CIO that would put nearly 15 million members in a single organization. However, the teamsters Executive Board was due to veto the plan.

Dave Beck, Teamsters Union president, is openly ambitious to swell his union's membership, already 1,300,000 strong. He also was known to believe that separate alliances between individual unions are more likely to solve union rivalries.

AFL President George Meany said here at the AFL Executive Council meeting last week that 40 of the AFL's 110 unions were agreeable to signing the "no-raiding" pact. However, Teamsters Union sources said several big AFL unions, other than the teamsters, were against the plan.

CIO President Walter Reuther has said that virtually all CIO unions—except only a few with less than 2 per cent of CIO's membership—are willing to go along with the plan.

Naval Reservist Gets His Exercise Anyway

BOISE, Idaho (U)—Louis Rebillot, who lives on a ranch on the south fork of Idaho's Salmon River, walked 48 miles through 14 feet of snow, then hitchhiked to Boise to sign up for the Naval Reserve.

When told his duty wouldn't begin until March, he said he would walk back to the ranch to wait.

Warning Plan Discussion Set

Discussion of the Red Cross disaster warning plan and the U. S. Weather Bureau's tornado warning system is set for 8 p.m. today in the county courtroom at the courthouse.

Plans for the meeting of the warning plan committee of the Howard-Glasscock Red Cross Chapter were announced by J. C. Morgan, chairman.

Special invitations to attend have been sent to representatives of all communities in Howard and Glasscock Counties, as well as to W. D. Berry, coordinator for the local Civil Defense program; Mayor G. W. Dabney of Big Spring, County Judge R. H. Weaver, and others. Anyone interested in the program is welcome to attend, said Mrs. Moreo Sawtelle, executive secretary for the chapter. "Ham" radio operators also have been invited.

Gardner A. McGahan of Big Spring, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau station at Midland-Odessa, is to explain functions of the radar warning system established by the Bureau for the purpose of spotting tornadoes in this area.

Radar stations at various points in West Texas, including Abilene, San Angelo and Midland, are to scan the sky constantly in search of possible tornado formations.

The Red Cross disaster warning plan also will be discussed for the purpose of familiarizing committee members with their roles in event of tornado or other disaster. Morgan will preside at the meeting.

Cut In Price Support Of Butter To Give Sliding Scale Real Test

Secretary Benson's decree that government support of the price of butter must come down from the present 90 per cent of parity to 75 per cent, effective April 1, should answer a good many controversial questions regarding flexible as against rigid price support for agricultural products. It has the virtue of finding out by practice rather than theory just how flexible supports would work.

The secretary will announce dollar-and-cents support levels later, but he said "housewives can count on about an eight-cents-a-pound drop in the cost of butter." This is precisely an educated guess, of course; the price of butter isn't controlled. In theory, a drop in the price of butter would result in greater consumption; greater consumption would soon move a lot of piled-up butter out of storage and into market. Few days ago the retail price of butter nationwide was 70 to 75 cents a pound. Whacking support to 75 per cent of parity would make a price of 65 to 68 cents a pound theoretically.

This would bring butter into closer competition with substitutes, but not much closer. And after all is said and done butter's plight is largely due to the price differential between it and competing oleos.

It is also due, according to flexible price supporters, to overproduction stimulated by 90 per cent fixed parity. So if the reduced support price stimulates consumption and discourages overproduction at the same time, the flexible price supporters will have won a decisive victory.

This could have a powerful influence on Congress when that body gets round to deciding whether to stick with fixed supports or follow the administration into the flexible support philosophy. It remains to be seen whether the full effects of the reduction in butter supports become apparent between now and election day. If it works well, okay; if not, blooie!

Fate Of Indochina Of Concern To All Of The Western World

Sooner or later the sending of U. S. ground service airmen to Indochina to keep the French Union forces flying is sure to lead to some sort of congressional flareup. The men have been sent to service warplanes given the anti-Communist forces, and the administration announced they would be brought back in the early part of June.

Some congressmen fear this is an entering wedge to the eventual dispatch of U. S. pilots and Army forces to Indochina. The issue cuts squarely across controversial political lines in Congress, with the Asia First partisans led by Senator Knowland and others plumping for greater and more direct aid to the embattled French forces, while others insist our principal concern must always rest in Europe.

Meantime the Berlin conference of the Big Four isn't likely to do anything toward solving the Indochina fracas. Nor has the Communist proposal that they be taken into coalition with the anti-Communist government there found any favor with the French.

Curiously enough, Ho Chi Minh, the Red leader in Indochina, once ruled the country with the present anti-Communist emperor Bao Dai as his adviser.

This came about when Japan, toward the end of World War II, accepted Bao Dai as ruler of an "independent" Vietnam. After Japan's surrender, the Viet Minh under Ho overthrew Bao Dai, who agreed to act as adviser to the new government. With the comeback of the French in Vietnam after the war, the French soon fell out with Ho over the degree of independence the colony should have, and they have been battling it out for supremacy ever since.

Our concern in Vietnam is to preserve it as a barrier to the spread of communism into Southeast Asia—Burma, Thailand and the Malay States. For the French to accept the Reds in coalition would be to put their heads into a Communist noose. The prevention of the spread of Communist rule over Southeast Asia is a matter of the gravest concern to the Western World.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Regimentation Is Contrast To Early-Day Greenwich Village

The tragic and ugly death of Max Bodenheimer could not but stimulate my memory of the early days of Greenwich Village where I used to spend nights listening to profound if alcoholic conversations on the new art, the new poetry, the new life.

My own hangout was a restaurant called Polly's, the genius of which was Hippolyte Havel, brilliant in conversation, talking for his dinner and grog, an inspiration to young minds. Havel dressed in an amazing fashion—black corduroy trousers, tan shoes, a red flannel shirt and a flat straw hat. He carried an ebony cane with an ivory top.

There was another place run by a lady, who became Hendrik van Loon's wife, which was patronized by more serious-minded men and women who had fallen upon the recent works of Sigmund Freud.

How Polly conducted her business, I do not know, unless she earned enough from the curious to subsidize the habitues. Among them, those who had money, paid; those who had only hopes, ate and drank on Polly's charity.

Life was good and rich in those days of poverty because the hopes were high and sure. All of us expected to be outstanding figures in our chosen fields. Sometimes an artist sold a picture to a sabon-keeper on Sixth Avenue who made a practice of subsidizing the new art. We had lived through Ibsen, Shaw and Brecht; we knew Hauptmann and Sudermann. Some of us were followers of Prince Peter Kropotkin and others of Francisco Ferrer. Karl Marx was not a giant among us.

Many a night, after the sightseers had gone their way, the little world of prospective writers, painters, actors, would argue into late hours on some philosophy of human conduct. And the main theme was freedom. We were all in rebellion and we all sought freedom.

It is difficult to recapture those moments. Many of us had rebelled against our home environments, against parental restraints, against a rough father or a shrewish mother. Many of us wanted to risk much, to take fierce chances with life, to rush into situations that seemed impossible. Many of us, who had rebelled from too much love at home, searched for crumbs of love from some unfathomable stranger. It all seemed so wonderful.

Into this atmosphere came hundreds of Max Bodenheims. The great poet of our day was Harry Kemp and one of the outstanding philosophers was Will Durant, a young fellow who was at Columbia University. Max Eastman was already fabulous. Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman, the amazing Hapgood brothers, Art Young—who can remember all the names that we youngsters gazed upon and wondered how anybody could be so wise?

When 1917 came, I went to Russia to save the world for democracy. So I missed the 1920's when the Village reached its zenith and decay. Therefore I never knew such characters as Max Bodenheimer and Ben Hecht. Each generation believes in its own superiority and somehow it is impossible for me to believe that their day was as inspirational as mine.

Often Greenwich Villagers came to Peking and Shanghai and one heard of new names. Among them was Max Bodenheimer, apparently a wild man, who kissed a thousand lips and wrote about it.

In my day, there were no such folks as Communists. There were, of course, many socialists of many brands, but regimented minds and regimented personalities were unknown. Even the socialists believed in liberty. Nobody was afraid of a movement even if he belonged to it. Nobody was afraid.

Or'hodoxy of any kind was abhorred, even the orthodox type of liberalism, such as the "New Republic" of Herbert Croly and Walter Lippmann represented. Young men and women permitted their spirits to soar to the improbable and there they found the assurance of a life in which each individual's will prevailed. It was, of course, a perpetual fairytale but it did strengthen one's desire to do things that seemed impossible and to achieve goals that one could not see. And the Village did produce a galaxy of talented men and women.

I do not find a like place these days, or even similar young people. Too many of them have gone to war or expect to go to war. Youth has become accustomed to regimentation. Too many live in the shadow of inevitable disappointments. Too many are fashionable in their ideas. The arts thrive only on dreams and dreamers must never fear.

Walter Paye Lane, born in Ireland on this day in 1817, fought with valor and distinction in three wars as a Texan.

Lane first came to the Lone Star domain to "fight for his rights" in 1836. He arrived in plenty of time for the excitement, winning a promotion to second lieutenant for his bravery at San Jacinto. Between the Revolution and the Mexican War, he "kept his hand in" by taking part in several Indian battles and doing some scouting with Jack Hays' rangers.

In the Mexican War Lane achieved the rank of major and fought in the battles of Monterrey and Buena Vista. Perhaps his most important contribution to that conflict came when he captured the alcalde of Salado and recovered the bones of the victims of the infamous "black bean drawing" which took the lives of 17 of the Mier prisoners.

In the Civil War Lane's service proved equally meritorious; this time he rose to the rank of brigadier-general. At the end of the war he returned to the mercantile business he had established in Marshall about 1852 and continued active there until his death in 1892.

No-Bill M.D. Retires

BALTIMORE (U.S.)—Dr. Anthony L. Rettallia, 90, the physician who never sent a bill, has finally retired. Oad Doc Rettallia would just as soon keep on going. But being a man who knows all about those things, he realizes his heart won't stand an energetic pace any more.

In reference to his failure to send bills he says:

"I thought they'd pay me if they could. And though they did."

Mrs. Rettallia chimed in with a footnote: "And many of them didn't."

Eisenhower Administration Apparently Doesn't Have Breakdown On Its Firings

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—The Eisenhower administration apparently does not know the answer to the No. 1 mystery of the moment: how many of the 2,200 ex-government workers listed as security risks were Communists?

Individual agencies may know many Communists each of them found. But the administration, it seems, has neither rounded up the total nor separated the Communists who were fired or resigned from those let out for other security reasons.

Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said yesterday he has asked all department heads to analyze their security separations and break them down into four categories. This still may not give a full breakdown.

But it should provide the administration with a little clearer information about the problem than its present jumble of categories, which in some agencies number as many as 15 or 20.

The administration still hasn't said it will make public the total number of Communists found, since it took over from the Democrats a year ago, even after Young gets all the information he asked for.

News men repeatedly have asked for a breakdown. Democrats have demanded it until now, frustrated, they are calling for a congressional investigation. It is an issue building up to a heat which may become explosive.

This is the background: On April 27, 1953, President Eisenhower announced a new program, a successor to one set up years before by former President Truman, to look for and get rid of government workers who were disloyal or considered security risks.

Truman's program was really two programs in one: (1) loyalty—and these questions are being discussed from pulpit and platform. Yet they are questions that each man must search his own heart through to find his own answers.

And many answers have been given since Patrick Henry said in a speech in the Continental Congress on Sept. 5, 1774: "I am not a Virginian, but an American."

Just to refresh your own thinking, here are some observations, serious and not so serious, about the land of the free and the home of the brave:

"The next Augustine age will dawn on the other side of the Atlantic. There will perhaps be a Thucydides at Boston, a Xenophon at New York"—Horace Walpole, 1774.

"I am willing to love all mankind, except an American"—Samuel Johnson.

"...Knavery seems to be so much the striking feature of its (America's) inhabitants that it may not in the end be an evil that they will become aliens to this kingdom"—King George III, 1782.

"Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prized liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere"—Abraham Lincoln.

"Sometimes people call me an idealist. Well, that is the way I know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Most Americans are born drunk... They have a sort of permanent intoxication from within, a sort of invisible champagne... Americans do not need to drink to inspire them to do anything"—G. K. Chesterton.

"This will never be a civilized country until we expend more money for books than we do for chewing gum"—Elbert Hubbard.

"The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his own weight"—Theodore Roosevelt.

asked how many of the fired people were Communists since the Republicans had made Communists in government an issue in the 1952 campaign and were going to use it in this year's election.

But the Democrats began demanding an answer when some Republicans went beyond the simple White House statement—that 1,456 security risks were fired—and began implying most of them were Communists.

For instance, Bernard M. Shanley, Eisenhower's special counsel, said in a speech Nov. 6 that 1,456 "subversives have been kicked out of the government." Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) followed this up by saying practically all of the 1,456 were fired for Communist connections or homosexuality.

Later in his State of the Union message Jan. 7 Eisenhower said security risks dropped from the payroll now totaled 2,200.

News men asked Eisenhower for a breakdown. He referred them to Atty. Gen. Brownell, who had developed the present security program. Brownell refused a breakdown and referred news men to Young. Young refused an answer and referred them back to the White House.

Then the Democrats' demands for an answer grew louder.

Americans Must Search Hearts For Patriotism

Colorado Drivers Are Held Lucky, Careless

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (U.S.)—Drivers in this city of 14,500 "are as lucky as they are careless," the Daily Sentinel reported after a survey recorded more than 13,350 traffic violations in nine hours at seven downtown intersections.

Employing Mesa Junior College students to watch the intersections, the Sentinel counted 12,251 light nor waved a finger to show what their intentions were" and 1,105 other instances "in which traffic and safety rules were flouted."

History Being Repeated After 1,866-Year Span In Frankfurt

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

History is repeating itself — after 1,866 years—in Frankfurt, Germany.

The 22nd Infantry Regiment (U. S. Army) is now stationed in the German city. In the year 88, the 22nd Infantry Legion (Roman Army) was on duty in Frankfurt.

The two outfits camped in Germany for the same purpose—as occupation troops.

Gis of the two occupying powers would have a lot of other things in common, if somehow they could set up shop in Frankfurt at the same time.

For instance, the Roman government had a plan for transporting wives of servicemen to the foreign post, similar to the modern American system of shipping families overseas to be with their soldier husbands and fathers.

And the unmarried Roman Legionnaire had his pin-up girls, probably as luscious as the American variety.

Roman troops lived in push homes, too, 19 centuries ago, similar to the manner in which Americans have been accused of occupying foreign nations since World War II.

All this information about the Romans of 88 was dug up recently by U. S. Army engineers who were excavating for the foundations of new homes for service families near Frankfurt. What they dug into was the remains of a Roman military settlement, which had been built by Roman Army engineers.

They found the pin-up girls, and lots of other relics which archeologists used to piece together the Roman story of 88 A.D.

The Army engineers also found that their Roman predecessors were pretty good builders too. Concrete floors poured by the Romans haven't cracked yet, and show no other signs of decomposition.

Wine flowed like tears back in 88, also; and the archeologists say Roman women wore hair pins, lipstick and fingernail polish. And people must have thrown their money around, for some coins were found in the Roman ruins.

Recent history proves that Germany didn't remain a peaceful nation after the Roman occupation. Maybe the Americans can do a superior job in that respect.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs

President's Request To Revise Atomic Act Should Get Action

WASHINGTON — If a little common sense is still possible despite the current political madness, then the Congress should act quickly in accord with President Eisenhower's request to revise the Atomic Energy Act. It is a move long overdue in relation to the realities of an atomic world.

The great "secrets" of the atomic fission and fusion are no longer secrets. And the truth is that when the basic theory was evolved and generally known and when the knowledge of how American arrived at atomic fission was published in the Smythe Report on the day the first atomic bomb was dropped, there could thereafter be little question of secrets.

On balance it may well be that the United States has more to gain by an exchange of information with free nations, such as is now forbidden under the terms of the act, than it has to lose. Since American military planning is being based to an ever-increasing degree on atomic weapons, America's allies in the West must share in the knowledge and even in the atomic capability if these plans are to be meaningful in the framework of a true alliance. For the NATO defense force in Western Europe to continue planning and development with conventional weapons while the United States shifts to the growing armory of strategic and tactical weapons makes little or no sense.

But merely on outright net gain, quite apart from America's role in the Western Alliance, we could come down on the plus side. Some months ago an announcement was made by the British government to the effect that the fundamental problem of the ground-to-air guided-missile had been solved. American experts took this to mean that the British had come up with the answers to a weapon basic to air defense in the approaching era of atomic missiles. And they were frank to admit that if this were correct, it represented a big jump over anything yet achieved in this country.

Those in the know on these matters estimate that Britain and Canada already have from 90 to 95 per cent of the knowledge labeled secret in this country. It has been obtained through pursuing their own course of research and experimentation. This often has meant duplication of a costly kind that trusted allies cannot afford when already modern weapons have reached a point at which their cost threatens to bankrupt governments laden with the debt of past wars.

But it is with respect to NATO and the reality behind that elaborate and somewhat top-heavy structure that a carefully controlled exchange could be important. The NATO defense structure has serious weaknesses that have been concealed in top secret reports. What with delays and cutbacks and the surface thawing of the cold war, the goal of a force sufficient to defend Western Europe has receded into what looks like a never-never land.

The current trend might be reversed if NATO commanders could count on an atomic capability. In other words, they

Lazy Prisoner Wins

WASHINGTON, N. C. (U.S.)—Most prisoners gain promotion to the unguarded rank of honor grade by good behavior.

But an inmate of a prison camp here made the grade by another route. The camp superintendent made this report on him: "He's just as sorry as he can be and isn't worth guarding. I don't think he'll run (away) because he's too lazy."

Early Exercise

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (U.S.)—Police got a call that a man was chasing a woman along a street. The time was 3 a.m. The investigating patrolman reported that it was a husband chasing his wife because she refused to cook his breakfast at that hour.

Tight Shoes Endanger Feet

The largest bone in the foot is the heel-bone. Walking would cause it to be pounded harder than it is if it were not helped by other bones.

There are seven bones in the hind part of the foot, one less than the number in a person's wrist.

Leading out from the tightly-packed bones in this part of the foot are five bones which stretch to the toes. The toes have bones in them nearly like those in our fingers, except that they are shorter.

Like the thumb in the human hand, the big toe has only two bones in it. Each of the other toes has three bones.

If a person walks bare-footed over damp soil, he leaves footprints. They are not complete prints unless the soil is very moist and soft—or unless the person is flat-footed. The human foot usually leaves prints only of the front and back parts, with perhaps a bit of the outer side. We do not see the whole print because of the arch in the foot.

"Fallen arches" are among the many kinds of foot troubles. Other troubles are corns, bunions and so on.

We may blame most of our foot troubles on shoes. When shoes are fitted too tightly, they press the bones of the foot together.

In buying shoes, we should be careful that they are not too short, and do not "pinch." Many shoe stores have clerks with little, if any, training for the work. Some clerks even urge customers to take tight shoes because the store does not have the proper size in stock!

Shoes which pinch are a poor bargain at any price. We either throw them away very soon, or suffer with them and perhaps have foot troubles later.

Your foot is larger when you stand on it than when you are seated. Some clerks (but not many) do their measuring after a customer stands up and puts his full weight on his feet.

Low, broad heels are better for the feet than tall, narrow ones. Modern women have freed themselves to a large extent from the old-time "high heel" fashion. Doctors say that high heels hurt the arches, and that such heels often throw the feet out of shape. Feet which are fitted with the right kind of shoes—wide enough, long enough and low enough—are likely to be healthy feet.

President Gets Warm Welcome On Arrival At California Resort

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Eisenhower, warmly welcomed to this desert vacation resort, looked forward today to soaking up plenty of sunshine—much of it on the golf course.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here last night for five days of rest after a 9 1/2-hour nonstop flight from Washington.

A crowd of about 3,000 persons turned out at the airport and cheered the couple as they descended from their private plane, the Columbian. Smiling, the President stepped to a battery of microphones and declared:

"We are delighted to be back here once again. We have been looking forward for a long time to this trip. We are delighted to be in this state."

The Eisenhowers—together with the First Lady's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud—were welcomed officially by California's Gov. Goodwin J.

On hand, too, was one of the Eisenhowers' hosts, old friend Paul G. Hoffman, board chairman of the Studebaker Corp. and former chief of the government's foreign aid program.

Hoffman invited Eisenhower to Palm Springs four years ago, but the Eisenhowers actually are staying here at the Smoke Tree Ranch home of Paul H. Helms, a bakery executive.

The ranch, close by snow-dusted, 10,800-foot Mt. San Jacinto, is a development made up of 61 privately owned homes. Hoffman's place is located about a block from Helms' home.

Hoffman told newsmen Secret Service agents picked the Helms residence over his for the President because of security advantages.

"It has a closed patio, for example," Hoffman said, "and it has complete privacy."

He described it as a "very simple place" with four bedrooms. The Helms family is providing a cook and a butler for the Eisenhowers.

The President was accompanied from Washington by a small White House staff and he intends to mix some business with relaxation.

Boy Friend Kills His Sweetie, Then Takes Own Life

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — Mildred Hunter's boy friend took her up on it right away last night when she said:

"Well, if you're going to kill me you might as well do it now. . . ."

Thomas M. Bowling, about 28, a door-to-door magazine salesman, fired three quick bullets from a .22 target pistol and killed her, then fatally injured himself with a shot in the right temple, Sheriff's Deputies Alvis Porter and Otto Manns reported.

Bowling died en route to a hospital. The deputies gave this account: Bowling and Miss Hunter, about 27, had been dating for two or three years. Bowling reportedly had been away from Logan several months.

Last night he appeared at the Jitterbug Inn, where Miss Hunter was seated with two other women and a man. He called her aside and said something to her which was not audible to the others.

When she told him, in effect, to fire away, he took the pistol from his belt and shot her.

The motive was not immediately apparent, the deputies said.

Big Spring To Be Test City On New Dental Fixtures

Big Spring has been selected as a test city for introduction of a new type of display fixture for Dr. West toothbrushes.

The new dental fixture, combining various features for livelier display of brushes as well as maximum stock in minimum space, will be offered nationally on April 1 to the drug store trade.

However, in Big Spring the new fixtures will be installed by most stores around March 1. The reaction of the public here will be a test of potential reaction in comparable cities of the Southwest.

J. W. McCuslan, Southwestern regional manager for Weco Products, was here Wednesday with J. L. Parchman, Dallas, area representative, and Grant Crippen, who is assisting Parchman. They will work with druggists in arranging for the new type displays.

McCuslan said that the project was undertaken after a survey showed that more than half of the druggists of the country were contemplating remodeling or changes to stimulate merchandising in 1954. Big Spring was selected because it seemed typical of medium sized Southwestern cities.

Texas Forest Fire Epidemic Reported

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—The Texas Forest Service says more than 16,000 acres of forest land have burned in the past nine days in Texas.

Forest Service Director A. D. Folweller said most of the forest fires have been in Southeast Texas. He estimated that 50 per cent of the fires were set deliberately. They accounted for about 85 per cent of the burned-over acreage, he said.

He said incendiary fires were setting the fires at night when they could not be easily distinguished from gas flares in the oil fields. The current epidemic of forest fires, Folweller said, "is the worst suffered by Texas since the fall of 1952."

The forest service said the greatest acreage losses were in Hardin, Tyler, Jasper and Newton counties, all in Southeast Texas.

No incentive or motive for persons setting the fires was advanced.

Two Generals Moved To Posts In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Army posts in Texas were involved in assignment changes announced yesterday by Secretary of the Army Steven.

Brig. Gen. Louis H. Gimm, commanding general of the Medical Replacement Center at Camp Pickett, Va., has been transferred to Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and will take command of the Medical Training Center late this month.

Brig. Gen. George A. Rehm, deputy chief of staff for plans for the U.S. Army in Europe, at Heidelberg, Germany, will join the First Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex., probably in April.

Red River Funds Boost Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-state delegation has asked for a two-million-dollar boost in appropriations for the Red River Valley flood control and navigation projects.

The boost to $6,385,000 "is modest and reasonable" in the opinion of Roy T. Sessums, director of the Louisiana Public Works Department and member of the Louisiana-Texas-Arkansas delegation before a House Appropriations subcommittee yesterday.

President Eisenhower budgeted $335,000 for bank stabilization work on the river below Denison and four million dollars for continuation of work on Texarkana Dam.

A chorus of mothers, Mrs. Faye Shipman, Mrs. Bill Bonner, Mrs. A. McNary, Mrs. Joe Elrod, Mrs. Noble Kenner and Mrs. Alton Underwood, sang to the accompaniment of Mrs. Bill Griese, who also directed.

Presenting a skit, "March of Events," were Mrs. Faye Baird, Mrs. Akin Simpson, Mrs. T. H. Tarbett, Mrs. W. N. Norred, Roy Worley and Joe Pickle.

The spinning Eighties, a square dance team from Junior High School, presented a number.

Blue and gold, P-TA colors, were featured in the decorations and refreshments. The tea table, covered with a white linen network cloth, was centered with a bouquet of yellow gladioli and blue iris. A similar bouquet was used in the foyer. Crystal appointments were used.

Riding THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

County Judge David L. Smith of Garden City has sufficiently recovered from recent surgery to be back on the job at the Glasscock County Court House.

There also the Grub Line Rider ran up on Kenneth Smith, the judge's young son, who had both the grand and reserve champion capons at the annual Glasscock County Livestock Show.

Kenneth says he now has another 25 Cornish Game hen chicks on order and expects to be back at the show next year with a bigger string of the handsome birds. He says his poultry activities this year, and the entries of Rex Mason, another 4-H Club member, have stirred up considerable interest among the Glasscock boys and girls, and that next year he expects to have a whole lot of hot competition in the capon classes at the show.

As proof of the fact that the Glasscock 4-H Club is developing some top lamb feeders, a very practical way of making a living, County Agent Oliver West at Garden City, showed us some monthly gain records made by lambs fed out by boys and girls under his supervision, over the 142-day feeding period.

Clifford Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stevens, had a fine wool lamb and a crossbred lamb in the same pen. The average monthly gain for the fine wool lamb was 7.9 pounds and the average monthly gain for the crossbred lamb was eight pounds.

David Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Harris, had two fine wool lambs in the same pen. One of them made an average monthly gain of 8.9 pounds and the other averaged 9.3 pounds.

Betty Jo Schraeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Schraeder of St. Lawrence, had a fine wool lamb. In the same pen, her brother, Bill had a fine wool lamb, and her brother, Dennis had a crossbred lamb. Betty Jo's lamb made an average monthly gain of 11.7 pounds; Bill's lamb gained 10.9, and Dennis' lamb gained 10 pounds flat.

Don Phillips, grandson of the late and beloved John Phillips, had a fine wool lamb and a crossbred lamb in the same pen. They both made an average monthly gain of 10.2 pounds.

Only the most skilled feeders can put such a uniformity of gains on lambs. These boys and girls are getting some real practical money-making training.

County Agent West is sporting a patch on one eye, and if you'll strip him down and count 'em you'll find a lot of scratches and cuts and bruises.

He and Clayton Henderson, Garden City Butane dealer, who were riding in Henderson's car, were a couple of the victims of those wrecks in the dust storm between Garden City and St. Lawrence, Feb. 10 when visibility was reduced to nothing at all.

Another car collided with the Henderson vehicle on Highway 87 south of Garden City. Henderson suffered some rather painfully severe back and neck injuries, while a couple of Henderson's brothers escaped without too much damage. Following this wreck the Highway Patrol closed the highway until the dust cleared.

West hit the windshield with his head. Henderson says the windshield is in worse shape than the county agent.

While Commissioner John F. Priddy of Precinct 4, Glasscock County, has had hogs for some time as a commercial operation, there are very few in the county as a whole. Members of the 4-H Club and FFA chapter have been a little slow to adopt these animals as feeding projects.

But now two brothers, Jimmy and Eugene Davey, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davey of the Foster Ranch, have gone in for Durocs. Jimmy is a member of the 4-H and Eugene is FFA. Eugene won a sow and sold his brother a gilt from the first litter. Soon now Eugene's sow is due to farrow again, and Jimmy is looking forward to the first litter from his gilt. Apparently this is the beginning of 4-H and FFA swine activity in Glasscock.

Incidentally Jimmy had the grand champion crossbred lamb at the Garden City show last year, and Eugene had the grand champion crossbred lamb there this year.

The Martin County 4-H Club has a few hundred dollars more in the fund to fix up their show van.

Bobby Salt, a member of the club, had the reserve champion steer at the Texas State Fair. The Southland Insurance Company bought this steer in the sale there at $1.50 a pound and then gave the animal to the Martin County club.

They got the steer in the sale at Houston where he brought 42 cents a pound for all his more than 1,100 pounds.

Martin Vavra, SCS work unit conservationist at Stanton, says that of the winter small grains planted in Martin County, oats is making the poorest showing.

"It doesn't compare at all favorably with the rye, barley and wheat," Vavra says, "and from now on I doubt if there will be very much oats planted over this way."

Vavra says that among the Martin countians with small grain that is doing well are J. C. Mott, Walter Kelly, W. H. Yater, Sid Cross and the Tom Brothers Ranch. All this is irrigated grain.

The conservationist also reports that J. C. Sale's small grain on the Eb Dickinson Ranch looks good. Sale hasn't turned in on it yet. The Sale grain is dryland.

Small patches of alfalfa, seeded last fall, are doing well on the farms of Tom Glynn, Dr. George Thomas, Tom Brothers Irrigated land, and Charlie Russell. The Dr. Thomas farm is operated by Leslie Hull.

Dead Woman Is Charged In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—A dead woman is charged with a felony in an investigation of the records of a Wayne County Circuit Court post.

Accused is the late Mrs. Freda Crofutt, who was the court's chambermaid. After Mrs. Crofutt's death last September a shortage of $58,965 was found in her accounts.

A warrant charging conspiracy to violate gaming laws was issued yesterday against Mrs. Crofutt and Stanley Kuhma, 32, alleged numbers operator. Investigation has brought out that Mrs. Crofutt played the numbers and bet on horses, and dabbled in the stock market as well, with court funds, officials said.

She was named in the warrant since it is necessary to name at least two persons to charge a conspiracy, the prosecutor's office said.

IN SOUTH TEXAS

Parr, Allee Both Rank As Big Men

By WILBUR MARTIN

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP)—In turbulent Duval County, two men cast big shadows: George B. Parr and Ranger Capt. Alfred Y. Allee.

Parr is the political boss. Allee is the man Gov. Allan Shivers sent to Duval County to protect those who said they were afraid. Now Parr says he is afraid. He says he is afraid Allee will kill him.

For almost two years, Parr and Allee got by without open trouble. Duval is a big, dusty, windswept South Texas county. For a while it looked as if it might be big enough for both Parr and Allee.

But one month ago today, the men scuffled in the courthouse at nearby Alice, where Parr was awaiting a hearing on a charge of illegally packing a pistol.

A Jim Wells county grand jury indicted Allee and one of his men, Joe Bridge, on charges of assault to murder Parr.

Last week Allee kicked and cuffed 79th Dist. Atty. Raeburn Norris.

Two days ago Parr told a federal judge that Allee and Bridge want to kill him—that he's afraid they will unless they are ordered to let him live. Three judges in Houston will hear the arguments Monday.

George Parr is widely known as the "Duke of Duval," the political kingpin of this mostly Latin-American region. He inherited the title from his father, Archer Parr, who once was a state senator.

What about Alfred Allee? Allee is the son of a Texas Ranger.

He's 48 and looks older. He's not tall, about 5 feet — inches. On the chunky side. He's married and has a grown son who works for the Department of Public Safety.

He's strong as an ox. Allee has been a Ranger half his life, all of it along the border. He speaks Spanish fluently; knows the people.

He commands Co. D, headquartered at Carrizo Springs. Allee once made the rodeo circuit as a bronco rider. He looks like a cattleman and is one.

Many people dislike Allee intensely. Many more swear by him. All respect him.

Allee could have stepped right out of a page of history of the Old West. He's lightning fast on the draw. For that, you'll have to take the word of those who have seen him do it. Few have.

When he is mad, Allee drops his deep black eyebrows, works his face into a fierce scowl. He looks like a bulldog about to spring.

When he laughs, he shakes all over, like he's enjoying himself inside.

His word is as good as a written contract. He wastes no words. He has a keen humor and a tremendous store of stories, both funny and spine-tingling.

He is stubborn. His friends say he is stubborn to his own hurt. His foes say he is just stubborn.

His men worship him. He looks after them like a worried father. He would rather take the blame for something one of his men did than have the one at fault reprimanded. If there's any bawling out to do, Allee wants to be the one to do it.

In the scuffle with Parr, it was reported Allee twisted Parr's ear and made it bleed.

Parr himself said his ear was twisted by Carl Putnam, a Department of Public Safety radio mechanic from Austin.

"I hit Parr," snapped Allee when questioned.

The Jim Wells County grand jury subpoenaed Putnam just the same. Parr claims Allee and Bridge want to kill him.

"I have never threatened anyone," Allee said.

But he did tell Parr, "I am holding you directly responsible if anything happens to me or any of my men." He said an informer had told him he was to be assassinated.

Parr's court petition claiming the Rangers want to kill him was based on this statement.

Allee made it after his scuffle with Norris. The scuffle came when Allee went to the Windmill Cafe here to show some of his Rangers two men who were supposed to put the "finger" on Allee for imported killers.

Why did he kick the district attorney?

"Ever since the indictment, Norris has been laughing and trying to humiliate me and destroy the respect of the Rangers," Allee said.

Outside the Windmill, he said, Norris laughed at him.

Norris said the attack was without provocation.

Allee has a powerful temper, but it takes a long time to work him up to the point where he loses it. When he does, the flare-up can be spectacular.

He has the reputation of a top-notch investigator. He knows the border country and its people like the quirks of the souped up Ford that he often drives 110 miles an hour over the flat, lonely roads of South Texas.

Allee drives himself relentlessly when working on a case. He never asks his men to do anything he wouldn't do himself.

The people of the border country have a deep, abiding respect for Allee and the men of his Co. D. People outside the law and inside it.

Of the events of the last month, Allee has had little to say.

"Let the other fellow do the talking," he repeats, "I know my side of the story."

Parade Will Open Mobile Mardi Gras

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Six floats portraying famous romances of history and fiction will roll through downtown Mobile tonight to open the city's Mardi Gras.

The parade of the Order of Pelika Dots, a women's mystic society, is the first of 15 processions slated for the carnival, which ends Mardi Gras Day, March 2.

Boomerangs are traditionally weapons of Australian aborigines, but similar weapons are found in Africa, India and America.

Chaplin Security For His Daughter Asked By Attorney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Superior Court has been asked to require Comedian Charles Chaplin to post security to guarantee $100 weekly payments to support his daughter, Carol Ann Berry, 10, born to former actress Joan Berry.

In a motion made yesterday, attorney Joseph Scott said Chaplin, as a permanent resident of a foreign country "may attempt to remove all of his remaining assets from America," making enforcement of the support judgment impossible.

Scott explained that the news of Chaplin's wife, Oona O'Neil, deserting her American citizenship to become a British subject was "the last straw to satisfy us of our duty to the little girl."

The attorney asked that a receiver be appointed for Chaplin's remaining California assets until the actor posts security to guarantee the payments. The court set March 16 for a hearing on the petition. The child attends a private boarding school here.

Landlady Blames Her Troubles On Truman

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Walter Biebertstein, looking for an apartment here, turned one down because he thought the rent too high.

The apartment house manager was chagrined. The place, she said, had been vacant five months. "This," she said with feeling, "is what the Democrats did to the country."

"They fixed it so every Tom, Dick and Harry could buy his own home and now there's nobody left to rent apartments."

Reds Announce Claim

No. 4 in a series of RARE CREATURES:

THE BACK-PEDALLING SNOOSE

can't see where he's going because he's so in love with where he's been

The SNOOSE is a manufacturer who plays it so safe that he pedals backward to keep his eye on where he's been. Naturally he can't see where he's going.

He would rather linger over his tiny past successes than feast on the big ones he could have. And if his advertising methods are out-of-date, so what? They've been safe so far, haven't they?

Fortunately the SNOOSE is rare. Most manufacturers look ahead to increasing sales.

They know that the best way to sell more products is to convince more people. And, since all business is local, they advertise in newspapers... because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town.

They know that when the newspaper moves into the living room, the family devours the news, the features, and the ads with equal enthusiasm.

No wonder manufacturers increased their newspaper advertising 12.8% in 1953 — an all-time record.

No wonder retailers continue to spend 85% of their ad dollars in newspapers.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

McMorries To Run Again In Martin County

STANTON (SC) — Recanting a statement made to reporters several weeks ago, County Judge James McMorries presented Martin County voters with a surprise Wednesday when he announced as candidate for re-election as county judge and ex officio county school superintendent.

McMorries had previously told reporters they could quote him as saying that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the judgeship but that he probably would be a candidate for some other office.

In making his announcement, McMorries said: "Early in January, I sincerely believed I would not be a candidate for this office. In fact, I gave this information to radio and newspaper reporters. Then my friends, many of them, from all parts of the county started calling on me with the avowed intention of changing my mind.

"This has not been an easy decision. At the time I made the announcement that I would not run for this office again, I had in mind running for another office."

McMorries said that he has never personally told any candidate for the office, or prospective candidate, that he would not run.

"All I have said about this was what I announced to the papers earlier."

The county judge said he expects to wage a vigorous campaign and to visit with every voter in the county.

"I repeat at this time," his announcement says, "a promise I made in my very first campaign for this office: On any issue that arises, you can be sure that I will take a frank and definite stand."

McMorries has been county judge for the past five years. His opponent, who announced earlier, is Jim McCoy, former Martin County deputy sheriff and deputy tax assessor and collector. McCoy has also served as a Howard County deputy sheriff.

Church Of Christ Pastor Ordered From Italian Town
LEGHORN, Italy (AP)—Police yesterday ordered Lido Petrini, an Italian preacher of the Texas-sponsored Church of Christ, to leave Leghorn and not return for five years.

Wyndal Hudson of Seagraves, Tex., pastor of the church, said the police action would be protested. Petrini had been taken into custody Sunday after delivering a sermon and was charged with disturbing public order.

The Church of Christ has been trying for years to obtain recognition in Italy as a religious denomination. Such recognition would entitle it to function more freely under Italian laws. There are 25 Churches of Christ in Italy.

Courts Endangered, Laughlin Brief Says

By MAC ROY RASOR
AUSTIN (AP)—The independence of Texas' court system is endangered in the proceedings to oust District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice, the Supreme Court was told yesterday.

Laughlin's attorneys presented the argument in a brief contending the proceedings provided by the Texas Constitution for removing judges violates the due process clause of the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The question opened the possibility of an appeal of the bitter South Texas controversy to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The State Constitution provides ouster proceedings may be brought against a judge by 10 attorneys who practice in his court, but the procedure has never before been used.

Such a procedure, the brief said, "deprives litigants in this state of a judiciary exempt from private prosecution, a right fundamental at common law and guaranteed by the 14th Amendment."

The brief was filed by former Sen. C. C. Small Sr. of Austin.

Small also contended the procedure deprives judges of their liberty to act independently, deprives litigants of due process of law because of "the grave hazard of ruinous publicity" against judges, and subjects judges to a quasi-criminal penalty on charges that cover his entire personal life.

Among other damages, Small said the procedure gives political opponents of a judge the chance to force him into a costly trial to the irreparable damage of his reputation.

"No one doubts that Jacob S. Floyd is the moving spirit behind this action," the brief also said, adding:

"He has unconsciously taken his understandable grief and burning desire out on two of the judges who have had something to do with the (Floyd murder) case through the use of the presentment device."

Floyd, a prominent Alice attorney and foe of South Texas political boss George Parr, is one of the 11 attorneys who brought the charges against Laughlin. He is the father of Jacob Floyd Jr., who was shot down in a garage ambush the elder Floyd claims was laid for himself "for political reasons."

One of the charges against Laughlin alleged the judge obstructed the investigation of the slaying.

The Supreme Court heard oral arguments last week in the ouster proceedings. A final decision is still pending.

Officially Disclosed Disloyalty Separations Reach Total Of 29

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of officially disclosed 1953 government firings for disloyalty reasons rose to 29 today as the administration took steps toward analyzing 2,200 "security risk" cases.

The figure of 29 covers only five big departments whose officials have been questioned about security separations by the House Appropriations Committee and whose testimony has been made public. The same departments reported 437 "security risks" had been dropped.

Most recent agency to report was the Commerce Department. In testimony made public today, Asst. Secretary James C. Worthy told the committee 132 security firings or forced resignations last year included 23 persons classified as "cases involving alleged subversion or disloyalty."

Previously, the Justice Department had reported 1 former Communist among its 8 security firings; the Treasury Department had listed 4 disloyalty cases among 130 dismissals; the Agriculture Department had told of 1 disloyalty case in an undisclosed number of security ousters, and the Post Office Department had reported 166 security releases with no disclosure of how many, if any, were disloyal.

The State Department already has given its figures but the committee has not released them. Reportedly, there have been 534 security firings in the State Department unofficial figures, the committee has received reports showing that out of 971 security cases in six departments, 40 or 41 have involved persons found or suspected to be disloyal.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC)

said, meanwhile, the administration's promise of a limited analysis of the security risks will not stop his demands for a Senate investigation of the whole issue.

Johnston told reporters the promised analysis "could mean anything—it only confuses the confusion." He said that as he understands the plan the analysis will leave many questions unanswered and there is no assurance the administration will make it public.

Announcement that the Civil Service Commission had ordered an analysis of the 2,200 cases was made late yesterday by Chairman Philip Young.

Young said it would be "futile and meaningless" to attempt an analysis assigning a specific reason for separation in each case.

41 Students Pass Tests For Driving

Forty-one students in the junior high school driver education course passed written examinations and vision tests Wednesday.

The group will be given driving tests later in the semester, according to H. D. (Rusty) Hightower, driver's license examiner for the Department of Public Safety.

Eight pupils flunked the written examinations and three were referred to an eye specialist after failing vision tests. They will be given another opportunity to qualify for a beginner's driving license.

Evaporation from the surface of the Dead Sea is estimated at from 8½ to 17 feet annually.

He said it would be the rare case in which only one reason was involved.

He said he had requested from employing agencies the number separated whose personnel files contained information indicating (1) subversive activities or associations; (2) sex perversion; (3) conviction on felony or misdemeanor charges; and (4) any other type of information falling within the government security regulations.

Young said some of the separations were by dismissal, some by resignation, and that not all who quit were aware their files contained derogatory material.

Young's statement did not say whether the report would be made public.

Many Democrats have complained the public has been misled by statements of some leading Republicans that most of the announced 2,200 "security firings" involved disloyal or subversive employees. Actually, they say, most of the 2,200 were homosexuals, drunkards, incompetents, or persons who talked too much.

Burglars Visit Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — Police here are searching for a burglar or burglars who entered two churches and a grocery store Tuesday night, with a total take of about $10.00 in cash and nine cartons of cigarettes.

The prowler entered the First Presbyterian Church through a ground level window, removing the screen to enter and then replaced and latched it before leaving. Then according to the Rev. Earl Clary, pastor, he went through the membership cards, opened drawers in the desk, went upstairs, roamed through the auditorium, and left without doing any damage or taking anything.

The First Methodist Church was not so lucky, said the Rev. Jack Elzey. The intruder jimmied several new desks, broke a glass in a door, and searched desk drawers — leaving a few dollars in change untouched in one of the drawers. Elzey said that as far as he could tell nothing was taken.

Woody Wilson at Woody's Drive In, lost the small amount of money from his cash drawer and the cigarettes. The prowlers did not take all of the money in the cash drawer, however, only rolled dimes.

Police Chief Sam Hulme said that he could not explain the thief's unorthodox maneuvers, but said that he expected to question several persons.

Death Row

Pictured above are several dogs in the city pound. These dogs will be kept for 72 hours and then will be killed if unclaimed. Ninety-four canines were picked up by Dog Catcher Frank Terra during January, and 82 of them were killed. People claiming the dogs can get them out only after having them vaccinated and buying a license. There is a separate pen for every day in the week except Sunday, and dogs are placed in the pen designated for the day on which they were caught.

NO RABIES HERE IN TWO YEARS

City Dog Catcher Has A Busy Time For Six Days Each Week

By CLIFTON LAWHORNE
Every dog has his day, and dogs' day in Big Spring is Sunday. The dog catcher takes a rest on the Sabbath, and dogs here can howl freely without fear of being spirited off to the pound. Even if a dog did raise an unnecessary amount of ruckus on Sunday and was carted off to the pound, there would be no place to put him. For the pound has only six pens — for dogs caught on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There is no pen labeled "Sunday."

College Fund Holds Balance

Howard County Junior College finished the month of January with a balance of $72,460 in its general fund. For the first five months of the fiscal year, the college had taken in $14,687 more than expended. However, with the passage of the taxing season, the remainder of the fiscal year will likely see expenditures outstrip receipts. Total receipts for the five-month period were $133,199, including $120,344 in local taxes, $8,134 in tuition, $14,100 state subsidy. Principal items of expense include $57,200 in salaries (which also includes $38,230 for instructional pay), $5,000 for library additions, $1,766 for utilities, $3,213 for bookstore, $4,000 for athletics, $7,111 capital outlay for furniture. Budget for the year is $172,404. The collection of local taxes already is $5,000 over budget estimates. The college expects about $10,000 more from the state. The interest and sinking fund has a balance of $15,813. This year the district has retired $11,000 in bonds and paid $6,082 in interest.

USDA Finds Most Of Texas Could Use General Rains

AUSTIN (U)—Texas has had another dry, dusty week and general rains are needed everywhere but in the east, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said yesterday. Only a few light scattered showers of no consequence were reported through the period ending at noon Tuesday. Moisture was adequate in the northwest for preparing land but fields are rapidly getting too dry and a general rain is needed badly. Despite the dry weather, growing wheat was doing "surprisingly well," the USDA said. Conditions were favorable for commercial vegetables in most South Texas areas, and harvest of most crops was active. Small grain pastures in the northwest were providing additional grazing acreage but supplemental livestock feeding continued throughout all western districts. In the northern plateau counties, cold and drought have thinned stands of small grains. East and Central Texas are benefiting from rescue grass and clover pastures, but dry weather is retarding pastures in South Texas.

Radio Clinic Ends
ABILENE, Tex. (U)—The first annual news clinic of the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters Assn. and Hardin-Simmons University ended here yesterday.

which were in rural areas. Every time people are bitten here, the dogs are kept under observation for the disease. So far the individuals who felt the canine fangs have been able to heave a sigh of relief from the findings. Such is not the case in Houston, Chicago and several other large cities which are now faced with serious outbreaks of rabies. In one day at Houston eight of 15 dogs picked up were found rabid, and 83 of 250 tested this year had the disease.

The Big Spring record is remarkable when one considers that few of the dogs here are vaccinated. Estimates by local veterinarians are that about 850 dogs are vaccinated here per year. The Big Spring dog population has been pegged at between 2,500 and 5,000. This means that from 1,650 to 4,150 dogs in the city are subject to rabies. Consequently when a person is bit, a check of the dog for rabies is the first move to be made.

Actually there were only 202 dogs having legal homes in Big Spring last year, as only that number had licenses. So far this year only 38 licenses have been issued.

Licenses are purchased at the city tax assessor-collector's office, and they can be obtained only after a dog is vaccinated. Despite the low number of licenses here, local veterinarians report that there has been an unusual spurt in requests for dog vaccinations.

"There are still a lot of dogs that need to be vaccinated," one veterinarian said. Any dog roaming the streets will be picked up by the dog catcher, regardless of whether it is a stray, vaccinated, or licensed. Even if a dog is licensed, it is a misdemeanor for the owner to let it roam the streets. Fine for the offense can be as high as $100.

Although the January total was only '94 dogs, the average to be picked up here per month is about 160. R. V. (Skeet) Foresyth, foreman of the public works department, says that about half of those put in the pound are later killed. In January the number killed was higher than usual. There were 82 unclaimed dogs that had to be disposed of. Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach, city veterinarian, kills the dogs by injecting serum with a needle.

Recently the dog pound was remodeled, and the six pens were constructed so that there would be one for every day of the week except Sunday. This way, Dr. Schwarzenbach knows exactly how long a dog has been in the pound. If a dog is unclaimed after 72 hours, the law states that it will be killed. The way operations are now set up, dogs are killed every day. Those caught Monday are killed Thursday, those caught Tuesday are killed Friday, etc.

Despite the large number of dogs here, they are hard to catch. Foresyth says catching dogs is just like fishing. "Some days they bite, and some days they don't," he said. Frank Terra is the city dog catcher, and his work is a full time job. He has a pickup truck rigged up for carting dogs. Foresyth says that an average of five calls a day come in from home owners complaining of dogs. Since Terra works in and out of

Hiding In Closet Doesn't Work Out

MCLOUD, Okla. (U)—Curtis Haskell Smith and his wife, Audrey, paid her mother, Mrs. Lena Colney, a visit yesterday but found she wasn't home. "We thought it would be funny to hide in the closet and holler 'boo' when she came in," Smith told J. C. Farris. But Mrs. Smith's 14-year-old brother, Marvin, was the first to return home. He heard a noise in the closet, grabbed a 22-caliber pistol and went to investigate. When Smith yelled "Boo," the boy pulled the trigger, wounding him in the elbow.

Bristow Seeks 2nd Term As Representative

J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow of Big Spring announced this week that he is filing as a candidate for reelection to the Texas Legislature as representative from the 101st district.

Bristow was named to the office, without opposition, when the 101st district was created two years ago. It consists of Glasscock, Howard, Irion, Martin, Reagan and Sterling counties.

"I am hopeful of being of further service to the good people of the 101st legislative district if they see fit to return me to the office in the elections this year," said Bristow.

"My aims are simple, and I hope, acceptable to the citizens of this area. They are to continue to approach every state issue with due study and consideration, and to try to reach a solution that is good for all of Texas as well as the 101st District.

"There are many problems facing our state, and there will be many before the future sessions of the Legislature. I can personally assure every voter in this district, that I will continue to be conscientious in standing up for the welfare of the people as a whole, and in opposing those things which do not help all Texans. I invite your opinions on any issue at any time. I appreciate the confidence that has been shown in me during my first term. I want to continue to merit that confidence."

Johnson Nearly Always Present For Opening Prayer In Senate

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Only a few Senators usually are on hand for the prayer that opens each day's session—but minority leader Lyndon Johnson is nearly always among them.

"I guess I'm about the most prayed-over man in the Senate," the Texan said in an interview.

He pushed back his chair, stretched out his 6-foot, 3-inch frame, and crossed his feet on the edge of his broad mahogany desk, smiling below his horned-rimmed glasses, he added:

"Maybe I need it more."

The real explanation of course, is that Lyndon Johnson is the floor leader of the Democrats and needs to be in the chamber most of the time they are in session, particularly when they convene, to be sure the Republicans don't try to slip anything past the Democrats.

He is in what perhaps is an unprecedented situation—serving as minority leader of the numerical majority of the Senate. There are 48 Democrats, only 47 Republicans, and one independent. So, in some ways, his responsibility is as great or greater than that of his Republican counterpart, majority leader William Knowland of California.

Soon after he took over the minority leadership last year—at 44 the youngest man ever to assume a party leader's role in the Senate—Johnson said he wanted the Democrats to be constructive opponents of the Eisenhower administration.

He reiterated his position recently, saying:

"The administration wants and needs Democratic support for its program."

"My own aim—now as in the past—is to apply to every issue facing us a single test: How will this legislation affect our country? Americanism is more important than partisanship."

Despite Johnson's relative youth, he's an old timer on Capitol Hill. Counting his role as a secretary several years to former Congressman Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi, starting back in 1931, Johnson has been on the legislative scene here longer than any Republican senator. Johnson came to the House April 30, 1937, winner of a special election to fill a vacancy created by death of the Austin district legislator.

On Jan. 3, 1949 Johnson took his Senate seat, moving over directly from the other side of the capitol.

When Johnson first came to Congress he had the personal backing of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and was in that small group of hard-driving young men who had entered to the White House in those New Deal years.

Johnson was never close to former President Harry Truman. As the years of the latter's stay in the White House continued, they differed more and more on fundamental issues brought before Congress.

To a question whether he had reversed his original philosophy, the Texan said in an interview, "I've always been a middle-of-the-roader."

He said he had not always agreed with Roosevelt, in fact, had since he had been identified with the Roosevelt administration but position was consistent with his support later of the Taft-Hartley Act, he added.

"Certainly I was a strong supporter and advocate, years ago, of such programs as the Soil Conservation Service, and the Rural Electrification Administration programs, he continued, "I still am for them."

"And, I'm still for constructive measures calling for flood control and water conservation dams."

Many of the people who strongly backed Price Daniel in 1952, when he won the seat of retired Sen. Tom Connally, were long-standing political foes of Johnson. And Daniel was a pro-Eisenhower Democrat while Johnson supported Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson in 1952.

The biggest help Daniel got when he arrived on the Washington scene, however, was unquestionably from Johnson. Until Daniel could get located in a suite of offices, Johnson let him move into his own suite and use his staff. As minority leader, Johnson was of big assistance in Daniel's successful bid for membership on the Senate Interior Committee. That is the group that handled the tide-lands legislation.

"My wife, Lady Bird, is the No. 1 reason for whatever success I have achieved," Johnson says, she is not only a wonderful wife and mother, she is good as an assistant in my work.

"She can take shorthand, and sometimes I dictate letters to her at home. You remember, she ran my office for me during the months I was away in the Navy during World War II."

Although few centipedes have as many as 100 legs, some species have as many as 200.

MRS. C. O. NALLEY

Cinnamon Nut Crisps Recipe Won $7,500

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A good cook gets her reward! Mrs. Joseph E. Terrill of Burlingame, Kan., experimented and achieved what she thought was a perfect recipe for a sweet yeast bread. Judges of Pillsbury's recent 5th National Recipe and Baking Contest agreed, and awarded Mrs. Terrill the second prize of $7,500 for her recipe.

We pressed our 15-year-old nephew into service when we tried Mrs. Terrill's Cinnamon Nut Crisps. After we had made the dough and cut it into one-inch slices as directed, he had a lot of fun placing the slices on a sugared board and rolling them out thin. Naturally, when the Crisps came out of the oven, he was one of our best tasters. Older eaters voted these individual coffee cakes especially good for dunking!

This prize-winning recipe will not appear in any other newspaper or magazine column. So if you have a yen to try a recipe that's made culinary history, here's your chance!

CINNAMON NUT CRISPS

Ingredients:
1 cake compressed yeast or 1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup lukewarm water
2 eggs (well beaten)
1 cup lukewarm cream
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
4/5 to 5 cups sifted flour
4 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup blanched almonds or other nuts (finely chopped)
1-3 cup raisins (chopped)
Extra sugar

Method:
Soften yeast in water. Mix eggs, cream, 3 tablespoons sugar, salt, vanilla and the softened yeast. Gradually add flour, blending thoroughly after each addition to make a stiff dough. Knead on well-floured board for 2 to 3 minutes until smooth. Place in greased bowl and cover tightly. Let rise in warm place (85F to 90F) until doubled in bulk, about 1 1/2 hours. Roll out to a 26 by 20 inch rectangle, about 1/4-inch thick. Brush with 2 tablespoons of the melted butter. Mix brown sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle half of mixture over dough. Fold long sides to center; press down firmly. Fold in half lengthwise, making 4 layers; press firmly to seal. Roll out again to a 26 by 12 inch rectangle. Brush with the remaining 2 tablespoons melted butter. Mix almonds, raisins and remaining brown sugar and cinnamon mixture; sprinkle over dough. Roll as for jelly roll, starting with 26-inch edge. Cut into 1-inch slices. Dip one cut side of each slice in flour and place, floured side up, on board that has been sprinkled with extra sugar. Roll out to 1/4-inch thickness. Place on well-greased baking sheets, sugared side up. Let rise in warm place 15 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (375F) until golden brown, 15 to 18 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen.

Note: While first pans of rolls are baking, place extra rolls on waxed paper, sugared side up, to let rise. Transfer to baking sheet to bake. If necessary, rolls may rise longer than 15 minutes.

Quickie Cherry Pie Made By Short Cut

Coy and Janice Nalley always look forward eagerly to George Washington's birthday. That is the day they are sure they will have one of Jessie's cherry pies.

It is a quickly made pie, since the filling requires no cooking before it is put into the crust. And its unusual flavor comes from a wee bit of almond extract that is used.

Mrs. Nalley is quite a busy person, being co-chairman of the Gray Ladies, a place she has held since the group was organized. She is active in the Altrusa Club, but a lot of her time is taken up with working in the Nalley Funeral Home.

Here is her recipe, which she says she has worked on and changed

until she has made it suit their taste:

CHERRY PIE

Ingredients:
1 No. 2 can of pie cherries
2 tablespoons of corn starch
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 teaspoon red food coloring

Method:
Make pastry for two crusts. Mix corn starch with sugar THOROUGHLY. Add cherry juice and mix well. Add cherries, butter, extract and coloring. Pour into pastry lined pan and cover with other crust. Press crusts together and prick the top one with a fork to allow for the escape of steam as the pie cooks.
Bake in hot oven (425) for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 and bake for 30 minutes.

Eggs In 'Nests' Nutritious Dish

This tastes good in Texas this week, according to Texas A&M foods and nutrition specialists.

1/2 pound hamburger
1 tablespoon fat
1 cup mashed potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika
4 eggs

Method:
Melt fat in a skillet. Pan-fry meat. Combine with potato, salt, pepper and paprika. Mix well and cook until heated through. With a tablespoon arrange meat-potato mixture in 4 mounds. Make an indentation in the center of each "nest." Slip egg in center. Turn off heat. Cover tightly for 5 minutes or until eggs are set. Four servings.

Grapefruit Good Source Of Vitamin C For Teens

A teen-age girl in your family? Then keep an eye on what she's eating. According to the U. S. Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, teen-age girls have poorer diets than boys of the same age.

Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) is one of the food elements your teenage daughter needs every day if she is to have sparkling health, because Vitamin C is important in the formation of bones and tissues. Citrus fruit is a great source of this vitamin and so, right now, while our generous crop of grapefruit is on the market, take advantage of this good fruit and feature it in your menus.

For breakfast, young people usually like grapefruit halves sweetened with honey or maple syrup. Use a little know-how when you are preparing the halves so they look attractive. With a small sharp knife remove any seeds and loosen the fruit by cutting around each individual section. Do not cut continuously around the entire outer edge of the fruit, this just makes the grapefruit hard to eat!

Sometimes you might like to sweeten the grapefruit halves with the syrup left from canned fruit. (This is a good trick when you are broiling or baking canned pineapple rings or peach halves for meat garnishes or desserts and have the fruit syrup left over.) In this case, cut around the grapefruit segments as we suggested, then snip out the center core with a kitchen scissors or cut it out with a small sharp knife. Pour a little of the fruit syrup over the top of grapefruit, so that there's a little well of it in the core cavity.

Cottage Cheese And Eggs Luncheon Dish

COTTAGE EGGS

Ingredients:
1 carton cottage cheese
3 eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt

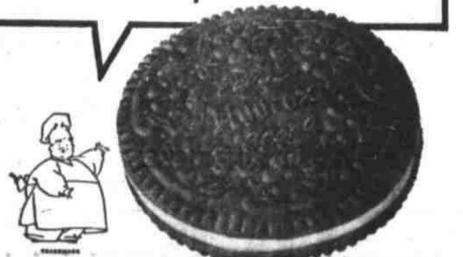

Method:
Mix cottage cheese and eggs together and season. Melt butter in skillet and add the egg-cheese mixture and cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly. Serve at once over toast. Scrambled eggs alone are not very filling, but with cottage cheese added, they make a fine luncheon dish.

spoons of butter or margarine and a dash each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Spread this mixture over the fruit, putting most of it near the core cavity. Broil several inches from the heat until the grapefruit is partly heated through, usually from three to five minutes.

Fresh grapefruit also makes wonderful salads. We like it particularly with avocado, crisp greens and French dressing. This combination is delectable with so many meats—ham, roast or broiled chicken, lamb chops or leg of lamb, and roast beef or steak. It's good, too, with broiled or grilled fish fillets.

Economical Casserole Fits Budget

Low-cost meals that will satisfy the hearty male appetite is the call of the day during post-holiday season. To fit right into your food budget is an inexpensive veal paprika casserole which can be made up hours or even a day before serving thereby saving you both time and money. Sour cream can be added just before serving to prevent curdling. Buttered noodles, tossed green salad, and garlic bread go well with this main dish.

VEAL PAPRIKA CASSEROLE
(Makes about 6 servings)

Ingredients:
4 slices bacon, diced
1/4 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 pounds boneless veal, cut in 1 1/2-inch cubes
1/4 pound sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup sliced onions
1 1/4 cups water
3 bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons paprika
1 cup sour cream
Chopped parsley

Method:
Place bacon in large kettle. Fry until crisp. Combine flour, salt, and pepper. Roll meat in flour mixture. Brown in bacon fat. Add mushrooms and onions. Cook 10 minutes. Stir frequently. Add water and bouillon cubes. Stir until dissolved. Stir in paprika. Turn into 2 1/2-quart casserole. Cover. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours. Just before serving pour sour cream in center of casserole. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Men Go For Liver Dish

Here's a recipe that can be prepared often for dinner parties to which male guests are invited, for men like this version of liver and onions. We like the recipe, too, for it eliminates the frying of onions and the liver cooks tender with a subtle onion flavor.

Ingredients:
2 Bermuda onions, sliced
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1-3 cup water
1 pound sliced calves liver
Seasoned flour
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf

Method:
Place the onions in a shallow baking dish. Drizzle butter and water on top. Cover dish and bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes. Drain liver in flour. Place on top of onions. Add parsley, thyme and bay leaf. Cover casserole and bake 30 minutes longer. Remove bay leaf and serve immediately.

Chocolate Clusters Are Good-To-Eat

Chocolate nut clusters, flavored with peppermint, are a nice confection. Either walnuts or pecans are good in this recipe.

CHOCOLATE NUT CLUSTERS
4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
1/2 cup crushed peppermint stick candy
1 cup pecans or walnuts
Melt chocolate over warm not hot water. Stir in peppermint candy and walnuts, stirring until nuts are coated. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper to harden. Makes about two dozen clusters.

New Tomato Aspic

Have you ever tried aspic made with a strawberry-flavored gelatin? If not you have missed a treat. Heat 1 1/2 cups tomato juice to simmering, add one package strawberry-flavored gelatin and stir till dissolved. Season with one teaspoon onion juice, one tablespoon lemon juice, salt to taste and a dash of cayenne pepper. Pour into oiled mold and chill till firm. The same chopped ingredients may be added to this as in the recipe above.

Novel Veal Cutlets

A real delicacy for a special guest dinner is veal cutlets, instead of pounding flour into the veal, pound grated dry cheese (Parmesan or Romano) into the meat. Then pan fry slowly until lightly browned in a little hot fat, half lard and half butter or margarine. Season veal with onion or garlic salt and a little pepper; cook over low heat for about 15 minutes, turning once or twice. Serve with hot tomato sauce "spiked" with a little Worcestershire sauce.

Sardine Rarebit

For a quick luncheon or light supper. Place sardines on slices of toast; pour heated cheese sauce over the sardines and serve. This appetizing snack can be ready in ten minutes if you have canned sardines and a bottle of prepared cheese sauce handy on your pantry shelf. To make two rarebits: use one 3 1/2-ounce can of sardines and 2-3 cup of cheese sauce.

Hot Blueberry Sundae

Here's a really delicious and impressive-looking dessert that takes no time to prepare. Just heat a package of frozen blueberries and pour over portions of vanilla ice cream. One quart of ice cream and one 10-ounce package of blue berries will make six tempting sundaes.

Cherry Dishes Are 'Real George' Feb. 22

In case you like cherries, either fresh, canned or frozen, you may not feel that you need any excuse for serving them. But, "come Monday," you can remind your family of their historical significance. Tell them that they should be glad it was a cherry tree that George Washington cut down instead of a pine tree!

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 tablespoons water or cherry juice
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1 1/4 cups Bing cherries, fresh or canned

Method:
Beat 1 cup of juice, mixed from pineapple and cherries, and dissolve dessert in this. Cool slightly and add cherries, pineapple and nuts, if they are used. Pour in ring mold or individual molds and chill in refrigerator. Serves four.

Method:
Beat eggs until light and add sugar; beat until lemon-colored. Combine dry ingredients and sift; then add to egg mixture. Add water and extracts. Pour into two 9-inch layer cake pans that have been lined with waxed paper. Drop cherries over batter and sprinkle with nuts. Bake in moderate oven (350F) for 30 minutes. Serve lightly warm with sweetened whipped cream between layers and over the top. Garnish with whole cherries.

Here is a dish that may be used as either a salad or a dessert:

FROZEN CHERRY SALAD
Ingredients:
1 three-ounce cake cream cheese
1/2 cup cream, whipped
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup boiled salad dressing
1 cup white cherries
1/2 cup crushed pineapple
1/2 cup sliced peach patches
2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Method:
Soften cheese in salad dressing, and add sugar. Combine fruits and nuts and add to cheese mixture. Fold in the whipped cream. Freeze three hours, stirring occasionally until it begins to get firm. Serves 4.

Grapefruit Salad

A decorative and healthful salad is grapefruit salad basket.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD
Cut grapefruit in half; remove core if desired. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Remove sections; cut out dividing membrane. Add sliced, pitted grapes and diced apple (leave red, peel on for contrast) to grapefruit sections. Spoon into grapefruit shells with garnish of salad greens. Serve with French dressing.

Quickie Oyster Stew

Use cream of celery soup as the base for oyster stew some busy day. Heat about a dozen or more oysters and 1/2 cup oyster liquor in 2 tablespoons butter, until oyster edges begin to curl. Add a dash of black pepper and paprika. Stir in one can of cream of celery soup blended with 1 soup can measure of milk. Heat well. Serve immediately.

These Fruit Muffins Are Sweet Treats

Fruit muffins are always a favorite especially with children liking sweets.

PRUNE MUFFINS
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-3 cup margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg
1/2 cup liquid from prunes
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped cooked prunes.

Method:
Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and cinnamon. Cream margarine. Add sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Blend in egg, beating well. Add flour mixture and liquids alternately, starting and ending with flour. Mix smooth after each addition. Fold in chopped prunes. Fill well-greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 22 to 25 minutes.

MOLASSES PUFFS

1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup melted shortening
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift together flour, soda and salt. To the beaten egg, add shortening, molasses, buttermilk, lemon rind and vanilla extract. Add to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten flour. Pour into greased two-inch muffin pans. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Makes about one dozen two-inch puffs.

Chicken Parisienne

Place 2 packages thawed frozen broccoli in 3-quart casserole. Mix 3 packages thawed frozen chicken a la king with 1/2 cup heavy cream, 1/2 cup pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon paprika. Pour over broccoli and sprinkle 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese on top. Bake casserole in moderate oven (350 F) for about 25 or 30 minutes or until the cheese is melted and bubbly.

Don't Blame Tea Bag For Poor Tea; May Be Method

One of the greatest booms to the American way of life is the invention of the tea bag. It was one of the earliest of the modern pre-measured service units available to homemakers, who, today, tend to lean toward the many quick-and-easy food mixes on the market. When it comes to the matter of convenience in tea making, either in the home or restaurant, the tea bag deserves credit.

Unfortunately, the little tea bag, which is perhaps one of the most modern, useful and convenient food items on the grocer's shelf, has for many years been habitually mis-handled, mistreated and mis-brewed. It has been erroneously blamed for producing what some folks call an insipid cup of tea. Actually, it's not the tea bag that's at fault, but the methods used by some people such as using one tea bag for more than one cup of tea. A great deal of time, money and scientific research have gone into the development of the perfect tea bag for today's market to give the consumer a quality beverage. Exactly enough tea leaves for one cup of tea are automatically poured into a tea bag which is cut to an exact size to allow enough room for the leaves to unfold and release the pick-up qualities and flavor of the tea.

Thus, each tea bag becomes a measured unit of service for one cup of tea. When properly brewed, it will give you as good a cup of tea as you could want if the following rules are carefully observed, whether you're making tea for one or more than one.

1. Preheat the teapot or cup with boiling water.
2. Put the tea bag in the teapot or cup first. (Allow one tea bag for each person plus one for the pot.)
3. Pour wildly boiling water over the tea bags. (If you're making tea in a cup, put a cover or saucer over the top to keep the water hot.)
4. Allow the tea to brew 3-5 min-

Kitchen Hints

While you're eating let pots soak in detergent or soap to loosen food particles for easy scouring.

Make sure you have a good light over each work center in your kitchen.

Group utensils and ingredients for each kind of food preparation near one another.

Keep chopping board in a handy spot so you won't be tempted to waste time trying to do a chopping job without it.

When cleaning vegetables, work over newspaper or paper bag that can be thrown away with parings. Keep a sponge under soap to keep it from melting in the soap dish. Saves a messy cleaning job.

Keep pencil and pad in the kitchen so it will be easy to keep a constant list of shopping needs.

Growth Of Houston Is Amazing, Even To Press Agents In Texas

By SAUL PETT
HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 18.—If the gentlemen will remove their hats, I'd like to say a few words about the biggest city in Texas. Houston is not only the biggest, it's also the fastest growing big city in Texas and, for people who insist on being redundant, it's the fastest in the United States. From 1930 to 1950, Los Angeles' population more than tripled but Houston's more than quadrupled. Today, Houston has 665,000 people. It has, somebody said, about

1,000 millionaires. But not all of them are rich; some have less than 15 million. This is a town with about 4,000 air-conditioned Cadillacs and, if you're rich and drive only the biggest Buick money can buy, you're "somewhat daring and Bohemian."

This town has grown so fast even the press agents can't keep up with its superlatives. It was started by two real estate promoters from New England in 1836, shortly after Sam Houston won Texas her independence from Mexico at nearby San Jacinto. (The site is marked today by a monument, which—wouldn't you know?—is 15 feet higher than the Washington National Monument.)

For more than 100 years, it has been a new town, always growing and changing. Every time you look there's another big building going up in Houston.

Up to 1930, the city's population tripled every 30 years. From 1940 to 1950, it jumped from 231 to 14th in the national population ranking. Back in 1836, you could buy in Houston at $1 an acre. Today, some of the downtown area goes for as much as $2,000 a front inch. The city rises abruptly out of the Texas flats about 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico. Galveston, right on the Gulf, had a better natural port. But one day in 1915, while Galveston's back was turned, Houston completed a 50-mile deep-water channel to the Gulf.

Today, the port of Houston handles shipping tonnage second only in volume to New York—an exception Texas bears with brave stoicism. It is said to be the world's greatest oil port and one of the greatest for cotton.

Within a 200-mile radius of the city, say the experts, more wealth is taken from the ground than in any other area of equal size in the world. Some 270 oil fields gush more than 200 million barrels of oil a year. Other fields produce millions of cubic feet of natural gas. Houston also has a huge refining and petro-chemical industry.

All this, plus the fact that oilmen are allowed a 27 per cent "depletion allowance" in their tax returns, has made for some incredible fortunes.

One of the biggest belongs to Hugh Roy Cullen, the generous, volatile philanthropist who has given away an estimated 175 million dollars. Others belong to Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce, who owns 35 of the biggest buildings in downtown Houston, and Will Clayton, who, until he retired recently, headed one of the world's largest cotton firms. In their personal habits, men like Cullen, Jones and Clayton live quietly.

But not Jim West, millionaire oil and cattleman. He is said to own 30 cars, including 11 Cadillacs, four planes, and two ranches—one of 60,000 acres and one of 160,000. In his dress, Jim favors a 10-gallon hat, a diamond-studded Texas Ranger's badge and a huge gold buckle for the belt that holds his two guns. He likes to play cop at night, cruising around town with city police. He also is fond of tossing around silver dollars in public and watching people scramble for them.

Houston has other semilegendary figures. There's supposed to be an oilman who pays $18,000 a year for a suite at the Hotel Shamrock, which he uses one month out of 12. There's Glenn McCarthy, builder of the 21-million-dollar Shamrock, who's as fast with a buck as he is with his fists. And there's Doug Prince, who owns a chain of hamburger restaurants.

Among other things you hear about Prince, you hear that he wears $30,000 worth of diamonds and owns a 100-foot yacht. He is said to be particularly fond of spending a rainy afternoon riding around town in his Cadillac, accompanied by a bucket of pink champagne in the back seat. Once, at a charity auction, he paid $72,000 for a prize steer and then cut it up for steaks at a press party.

In urbane Dallas, which is inclined to look down its nose at Houston, the Shamrock is known as the "Damnrock." In Houston, the Shamrock seems to be the hub of cafe society.

Rising suddenly out of extremely flat land, the hotel seems more massive and taller than it is. Looking it over once, architect Frank Lloyd Wright had but one comment: "Why?" Inside, the hotel is decorated in 67 shades of green. The first thing you see in the lobby is a spotlighted portrait of McCarthy.

The huge Emerald Room, which seats 1,000 night-club style, once prompted a visiting comic to say, "I've played towns smaller than this."

In the ground-floor jewelry shop, they'll tell you at the drop of the word "publicity" that one night an oilman came in and took one of these and one of those and one of the other. In a few minutes, he spent $41,000.

Physically, Houston is difficult to describe. There are trees dripping Spanish moss to suggest the Old South and royal palm trees to suggest the tropics. There is busy main street with its smart, modern shops and above, at night, you see the lighted store signs along with one which says, "Jesus Saves."

There are the Negro and Mexican slums and the exclusive River Oaks section, where most of the millionaires live, where every garage seems to have at least two sets of Cadillac fish tails sticking out and where the country club costs $10,000 to join.

There is the beautiful new Texas Medical Center, now rising as a monument to Houston philanthropy and which one day may be a bulwark of research. And downtown, there is a slick, modern building which looks like a new hotel or a TV station. This is police headquarters and the city jail.

The city has grown so fast there aren't enough storm sewers to drain off rain water and half the town's residential streets have no street lights. Because Houston is still unincorporated, you see some odd contrasts: a fertilizer plant adjoining a beautiful home and a perfectly manicured private lawn ending up at a septic tank factory.

Because the town has grown so fast, the crime rate is high but not so bad as the loosely applied tag, "Murder Capital of the Country," might imply.

In 1952, Houston ranked second to Atlanta in proportionate number of murder and non-sensational manslaughter cases reported to the FBI. But both the FBI and local authorities point out that no conclusions can be drawn from this because cities use too many different bases for reporting homicide.

Recently the city seemed to be in the throes of an armed robbery wave. A huge police dragnet pulled in 1,000 known criminals off the streets. One shady character called headquarters and asked if he could go out on the street to look for a job. "It's okay," he was told, "as long as you don't do it after sundown."

Public sin is now a matter of the past. Houston's brothels were closed three or four years ago, including one with an attached 12-car garage.

Any report on the city must also include the fact that a survey by the Houston Post found that a "miasmic fear of communism..." has permeated the city. The Minute Women, an organization of intense patriots, have been unusually active here.

On one occasion, the American Friends Service Committee had some difficulty arranging a meeting here because someone said the

Michigan's Top Reds Are Convicted
DETROIT (AP)—Sentencings, then swift appeals from the defendants, were the next evident steps today after the conspiracy convictions of Michigan's six top Communists.

Five of the group—all the men—were in jail with their $37,500 in bonds canceled by Federal Judge Frank A. Picard.

The sixth, Mrs. Helen Allison Winter, who has been ill, was free on continuance of her $5,000 bond.

The group was convicted yesterday of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Found guilty were Mrs. Winter, 46, wife of Carl Winter, one of the top national Communist party leaders convicted similarly in New York; Saul Wellman, 40; Nat Ganley, 50; Thomas D. Dennis Jr., 36; William Allan, 47; and Philip Schatz, 39. All are party leaders in Michigan.
