Under a perfect summer sky, with the aid of a bright half moon and a range of clouds low in the western sky, the 1938 Pageant of Slaton's Agricultural Fourth of July Celebration marched faultlessly from the impressively beautiful coronation of Elizabeth Stokes as Queen of Cotton to the lively episode of the Pageant portraying the importance of cotton to our

South Plains. Elizabeth Is Crowned

The heralds trumpeted and the coronation ceremony began. Duke James Stotts and Duchess Hope Hennington led the way down the aisle before the stands packed with more than five thousand delighted spectators. Again the trumpets, and Duke Leroy Holt and Duchess Maxalene Cooper came to take places beside the throne of Cotton. The third announcement brought Duke Ray DeBusk and Duchess June Scott.

The full fanfare of trumpets then announced Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth Stokes with King Richard Ragsdale. Down the long green carpet they marched to pause before the white throne while they were crowned King and Queen of Cotton by Chamber of Commerce Secretary Allan Payne. They mounted the huge throne erected for the occasion, their attendants

The first Episode was a showing of the earliest invasion of the farmer of the grass-lands of the Plains. It told how the first farmers broke the tough and springy sod, and sowed the seed by hand and reaped by methods almost as painful the golden grain that now brings annually to our section of the state so much of the trade in grains of all kinds. Various implements were showed, from the onehorse plow to the speedy, efficient rubber-tired tractor that can plant fifty to seventy acres a day.

Second came the Episode of Peanuts, that crop so admirably adapted to the deep sandy lands of the South Plains. The innumerable uses of the lowly peanut were fliustrated for raw and manufactured products, with special emphasis on the fine foods it makes when properly prepared.

The third Episode was dairying, presented by the Home Demonstration Club. It showed something of the importance of the dairying industry to humankind in general, and the importance of pure milk. Then some idea of the extent of dairying in Lubbock County was set forth, as Old Jersey was led off the field.

Finally, came the Episode of Cotton, showing the intdoduction of the crop to the High Plains, the ideal conditions that awaited it here, and the prodigious growth and production of which it is capable. A young army of boys and girls dressed in green and white played the parts of the cotton bolls growing in the fields, guarded and cared for by faithful workers, and menaced by various pests to which cotten is liable, but successful and giorious at last in harvest time.

When the timid and demure Turkish women started coming out from the harem, they kept right on going. They seem to be out-distancing our girls who are merely coming out of the kitchen.

Turkey's "Flying Amazon" is Sabiha Gueckchen, twenty-four-yearold daughter of a Turkish army captain who was killed fighting Greeks in 1921. She is a pretty little thing.

An admiring woman correspondent described her as "shy and demure," with quick re-course to her "modish little vanity case," as she climbed from her plane after a hard day's bombing. That was in the Dersim area, in eastern Anatolia, in which she had been blasting the Kurds out of their caves.

She is a first lieutenant in the Turkish army, the only woman air force officer in the world.

Her French flying instructor says she is the most gifted woman acrobatic pilot in the Sabina Best world. She was trained in flying Stunt Flyer, and gliding in Says Mentor

Russia and later was a cadet in the Turkish army air force school. She rides a singleseated military plane, handles all types of planes and is especially accurate and skillful in bombing.

It is said no aviator in Turkey can match her in diving and stunting, but she shrinks modestly from all such, possibly unfeminine, exhibitionism, and sticks to her humdrum bombing tasks.

HERE is another diverting little news note, in sharp contrast, however, on the emergence of the modern woman. At her home in New York, Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler presents prizes of $750 to the winners of the annual "Intellectual Olympics." conducted by her new history society.

Happily the flying bomb put is not included in her decathlon. She has been for many Belle Gives years a diligent Up Society and earnest advocate of peace and For Religion brotherhood, working through the international Bahaist movement, of which she has long been a leader. She derives from the Blue book and has turned from society to religious and humanitarian concerns.

Her husband, now retired, is a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor, and a former lieutenant governor of New York. He is a big, gray, silent man, walking a small white poodle dog, rarely seen at his wife's salon, but a loyal partner in her endeavors. He is the brother of the late Bob and John Chanler.

The flaming-haired Valeska Suratt was an instrument of fate in the life of Mrs. Chanler. They were jointly engaged in a Hollywood script enterprise when Miss Suratt introduced her to Mirza Ahmed Sahrab, descendant of Mohammed and a disciple of the Abdul Baha. He was her tutor in the esoteric faith whose followers, like those of the Oxford movement, fervently believe the world can be saved only by a religious and cultural international

President's Call for Help Indicates Compromise . . He Demands Election of Liberals to Congress

Speediest ship in our navy, the destroyer McCall, was commissioned at the Mare Island navy yard in California. The McCall, first privately built navy vessel since 1921, has a specified speed of 381/2 knots, but in recent tests was reported to have averaged 42 knots. It carries four 5-inch guns and four quadruple torpedo tubes and is especially fitted for quick attacks on capital ships.

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Signs of Compremise

THERE are distinct indications of compromise and co-operation in the American picture, and hopes for restored prosperity are somewhat revived. The stock market has become unusually active, and private enterprise is awakening. Unfreezing of three billions in stored-up credit is expected to result from new banking regulations ordered by the President. Thousands of contracts for approved projects to cost almost $500,000,000 have been sent to all parts of the country by the Public Works administration.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his latest radio address to the nation, said: "In simple frankness and in simple honesty, I need all the help I can get," and it seems that the people are ready to give that help if the administration will do its part.

Notable in the President's talk was the admission that mistakes have been made not only by his opponents and by industry and labor, but also by government leaders. He sharply attacked reactionaries in business, blaming them for much of the current depression.

Asserting his continued belief in individual enterprise and the profit motive, he criticized the recent congress for failing to enact his program for government reorganization and legislation to aid the financially depressed railroad industry. At the same time, however, he said the legislators "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress between the end of the World war and the spring of

Wants Liberals Elected

M OST of the President's radio speech was frankly political. He declared himself the leader of the liberals and held that, as such, it was his privilege to intervene in state primary and election campaigns for the purpose of insuring the defeat of those whom he characterized as conservatives, the opponents of his policies.

This aroused the indignation of many Democratic statesmen like Senators Burke of Nebraska and King of Utah.

"I believe the people in the districts and states will resent the President's interference," Burke said. "If we were to follow the course he has suggested, we would all be goosestepping behind a leader no matter how beneficent that leader may be. I do not approve of that

Senator King asserted the President should not use the great advantage he has in controlling the purse strings of the huge spending program, "People who have fought for the Democratic party for a great many years do not like interference in their state affairs by outsiders." he said. "I do not believe the President should meddle in the primary elections of the Democratic party or any other party."

General opinion was that Mr. Roosevelt had widened the split in the Democratic party and by his words had placed the stamp of his approval on the attempted "purge" directed by Corcoran, Cohen and others of his advisers.

Latest War Scare

BOMBING of loyalist Spanish cities and of British ships in Spanish ports by Generalissimo Franco's insurgent planes led directly to the most recent war scare in Europe. It was reported in London that the loyalists had threatened to bomb Italian and German cities if Franco did not call off his airmen, and in Italy it was assertgood, for information reached the British government that Franco had ordered his aviators to stop bombing British merchant vessels.

However, this news was followed immediately by dispatches saying two more British ships had been bombed in the ports of Valencia and Alicante, several seamen being killed or wounded.

The presentation was made by Prince Bertil and accepted by President Roosevelt. Then the President presented the monument to Gov. Richard McMullen for the state of Delaware.

After the monument ceremony there was a lawn party attended by Crown Princess Louise.

The celebration was continued for four days in Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, parts of which states were embraced in the New Sweden founded in 1638 by a company of 150 Swedes and Finns sent to America by Gustafus Adolphus,

Mustn't Seize Hainan

THE British and French envoys in Tokyo warned Japan that any occupation of Hainan, Chinese island off the south coast of China, would be met by joint Franco-British action. The island, which lies near French and British trade routes, was bombed by Japanese flyers.

Germany is recalling the Germans who have been acting as advisers to the Chinese army, and diplomats believe Germany may now give active aid to Japan.

Ireland Installs Hyde

I RELAND'S first president, in the person of Dr. Douglas Hyde, was installed in St. Patrick's hall, Dublin castle, where former viceroys held their social functions. The ceremony was conducted entirely in Gaelic and was witnessed by state and church officials, members of parliament and representatives of foreign countries. Among the last was American Minister John Cudahy.

Dr. Hyde read and Douglas Hyde signed a declaration in which he promised to defend the constitution and dedicate himself to the service of the people of Ireland. Prime Minister De Valera made a speech in which he said;

"You are now our president, freely chosen under our own laws, inheriting authority and entitled to the respect which Gaels ever gave to rightful chiefs. Not all the territory of Ireland is at the moment under your sway, but the justice of our claim and the tenacity of the Gaels will set that right."

President Hyde has been a poet, historian and educator. He is the garded as an act of war and would son of a protestant clergyman and Blossoms," with Dorothy Gish, was be the cause for appropriate action. The rumors were denied, but their dissemination may have done some Protestant clergyman and it is hoped he will bring about a union of Roman Catholic Ireland and Protestant northern Ireland.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Lewis, New Deal candidate in the Maryland primary against Sen. Millard E. Tydings, is sure of just one thing-he does not want Harry L. Hopkins, or Harold L. Ickes, or any other New Dealer to endorse him. Actually he is running on a 100 per cent pro-Roosevelt platform. He is running against a man, Tydings, who has voted against the New Deal as consistently as any other of the so-called "purge" group. Not only did Tydings vote against the President on the Supreme court packing bill, but he has stood with Carter Glass, Harry F. Byrd, Josiah W. Bailey and Alva B. Adams on the spending issue. He has worried about the balanced budget, about politics in relief, about federal intrusion on state powers, in fact about everything that any opponent of the President has worried about. On the contrary Lewis has voted and spoken, when he had the opportunity, for everything the New Deal has stood for. Lewis has always been a little in front of the liberal procession. Back in 1916, when he ran for the senate before, that time against Dr. Joseph I. France, many Marylanders voted against Lewis and for France because they thought Lewis was a Socialist. Reason? Because Lewis was called the father of the parcel post. He and Jonathan Bourne, then a Progressive Republican senator from Oregon, pushed the bill through congress which took the express business away from the railroads. It seems funny, now, but that brand of radicalism was what kept Lewis out of the senate 22 years ago, on an election day when Maryland was going strongly Democratic for the rest of the ticket.

This time Lewis is making a fight for the senate again on the liberal side. His not wanting any Hopkins, or Ickes, or Jimmy Roosevelt endorsements is not pussyfooting, though naturally some of the New Deal element so regards it. It is a clear-visioned view of his own state. an appraisal of Maryland independence, an estimate of an electorate which likes to decide its own problems without outside interference.

Endorses New Deal

Lewis is not saying that the intervention of Jimmy Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins in Iowa was a blunder, and that their endorsements of Otha D. Wearin actually helped Sen. Guy M. Gillette. But he knows the same sort of thing, done in his interest, would be fatal in Maryland, would help renominate Senator Tydings. He has been having a lot of trouble making the New Deal see this, and has been to the White House several times to make sure that no unauthorized endorsement is issued for him.

Lewis is not pussyfooting about Roosevelt himself. His first public statement of his candidacy not only praised the President to the skies. but endorsed the New Deal in toto. But that opening statement, rather curiously worded, also stated that his fight was being made exclusively by Marylanders. Lewis knows his state fairly well, and knows that any outside interference would not be welcomed.

Incidentally, Gov. Harry W. Nice, the third Republican governor since the Civil war, is being importuned by friends to make the race this year for the senate, instead of running, as he has planned, for reelection as governor. His friends are pointing out that Lewis may win the primary, due not so much to New Deal popularity as to the fact that so many Marylanders seem to be sore on Senator Tydings.

New York Situation

New Dealers and Republicans alike view the situation in New York precipitated by the death of Sen. Royal S. Copeland with mixed emotions. It is generally conceded by those in the know that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman can have the nomination for Copeland's seat if he wishes it. Several other prominent Democrats would like it, but few if any of them would want to take on Lehman for a battle, especially as the contest will be by a rather hardboiled party convention, looking with cold calculating eyes at the election, rather than in a primary, where the individual voter marks his ballot for whomever he pleases without a care as to what the effect may be on carefully laid strategy plans of his party leaders.

But then whom to nominate for governor? It is a curious fact that the bigwigs of the Democratic party in New York were no little concerned about this two years ago, and again this time. They were almost in a panic two years ago, until well into the summer, when they thought Lehman was going to retire. At that time it was by no means clear to them that a big Democratic victory was ahead, They were genuinely afraid that if Lehman did not run they would not only lose the state house, but lose tremendous majority, but ran way went for Hoover in 1932 behind Roosevelt. But the worry is

WASHINGTON .- Rep. David J. | present this year, perhaps based on sounder grounds, perhaps not. There is no way of telling until November, and that might be too late.

Put on Pressure

At any rate, they put the pressure on Sen. Robert F. Wagner, two years ago, to run for governor, and did not relax it until Lehman consented to run again. This year they have been putting the pressure on the senator again. He never did want to run for governor. It is no stepping stone to the presidency for him, for he is ineligible for the higher office, having been born in Germany.

But the mere fact that they have been begging Wagner to run for governor shows the mental state of the Democratic leaders.

Now the problem is complicated. They are letting Wagner alone now, willing for him to run for re-election. But they have to find somebody they think they can elect governor, if Lehman goes for the senate, or for senator, if Lehman decides to run again for governor. And, terrible thought, maybe somebody for both senator and governor if Lehman decides to retire!

All of which is all the stranger to outsiders, especially in view of the size of New York state, when actually the Republican leaders are in the same quandary. They were worried to death, before Copeland passed from the scene, about whom to put up for governor and senator. Now they have to find a candidate for the governorship, and in addition two senatorial candidates.

Looking at the Republican problem, and incidentally at most of the candidates mentioned for the three places, one wonders why the Democratic leaders are worried.

Presidential Booms

The battle of the various anti-Roosevelt groups — conservative, radical and personal—is transferred by the adjournment of congress to the states. The picture is cluttered up by presidential booms. Garner for President movements are more serious than even the vice president thinks. In fact he does not think very much about it, having had to be coaxed at length to make a fight for the nomination in 1932. Then there is the Jim Farley for President boom, sprouting in Boston and elsewhere. Last, and not politically very important for the time being, is the Joe Kennedy boom, which flowered in London just before the ambassador sailed for home.

The importance of these premature presidential booms is way out of proportion to the chances of those mentioned actually landing the nomination. If Garner were just a few years younger he would fit the picture perfectly of the type of compromise candidate the anti-Roosevelt people want. Jim Farley and Joe Kennedy are both Catholics, and the idea still persists in many quarters that it would be uphill sledding to elect a Catholic, despite the fact that the Ku Klux Klan no longer flourishes. But these booms, and others which may be expected-there is a lot of talk about Cordell Hull-start people thinking about "somebody else." They tend to commit politicians who will name delegates, and tend to "tie them away" from Roosevelt, or even somebody Roosevelt might approve. Their effect is very clear to New Dealers, who are more than a little disturbed about the possible consequences.

All of which turns back on the importance of the primaries yet to come, and to what may happen to New Dealers in the election to fol-

Docile Congress

It is generally agreed that the congress just adjourned—the third of the Roosevelt regime-was remarkably docile for the fifth and sixth years of an administration. Expecially because of its extremely top - heavy Democratic majority, which in the nature of things would encourage division into factions, The President was bumped on a few things, but astonishingly few, and he made some surprising comebacks, especially after the rejection of the wage-hour bill. On these coming primaries and election will depend the temper of his fourth congress. If Roosevelt should win in most of the "purge" states, particularly Maryland, Georgia, South Carolina, and Nevada; if his senate leader, Alben W. Barkley-as seems likely-wins his contest for renomination, and if the Democratic loss of senate and house seats is held to a reasonable figure. the next congress will probably be the most docile any President has ever had in his seventh and eighth years. Iowa and Pennsylvania could go Republican strongly in November without affecting this situation. Of course if either or both should go Democratic that would make the only lose the state house, but lose are regarded as "enemy country." the 47 electoral votes of New York After all, Iowa even stood against Actually of course Lehman had a West in 1916, while Pennsylvania 6 Bell Syndicate. "I'm armed all right," the bandit sneered. "Don't make any mistake about that. But I may take you up on yore offer. Maybe I can use two guns."

Norris ate ravenously. He drank cup after cup of coffee. More than once he went back to the bottle. At last he pushed his chair back.

"I reckon you know it was Lee Chiswick's crowd attacked us in Live Oak canyon," he said. "I left in some hurry. Me and Kansas. Did they collect the rest of the boys?"

"Mile High got away, But Sid Hunt was killed. Lou they cap-

other man jeered. "He'll blab, of course, and you'll be in this up to yore neck." "Too bad about that, Sherm," the

The big man looked at him bleakly, but made no answer in words. "Kansas got away with you, didn't he?" was his comment.

A film of wary blankness came over the eyes of the hunted man. "Kansas made it out of the canyon with me," he said slowly. "A posse jumped us at the old Walsh place and got Kansas. I fought 'em off and lit out with the girl." "Got Kansas. You mean killed him?" "He'll never be any deader," Norris answered callously.

"Come clean, Morg. We've got to know just where we're at. Did you do this Chiswick girl any harm in any way?

The sulky look spread over the face of the kidnaper. "Didn't hurt the li'l fool at all, outside of slapping her white face once when she got sassy."

"What are yore plans?" Howard inquired.

"First off, I aim to dress my wounds and bathe my feet in hot

"Sure, Morg," the fat man said with oily smoothness. "Help yoreself to anything I have here. You are welcome to whatever I've got." Norris leered at him. "I'll bet you feel like I was your prodigal son. A fatted calf wouldn't be near good enough for me."

His host decided not, to put the welcome on too thick. Morg Norris was not a fool when his passions were not involved.

"You can have it straight, Morg, since you ask for it," he retorted brusquely. "You've played yore hand like a damn fool. I was hoping you wouldn't show up here, but would slip across the line to Mexico. Well, you're here. There's nothing I can do but give you a lift on yore way. Right now all the passes will be watched. You wouldn't have a dead man's chance of getting through unless you had all the luck in the world. Question is, where do you aim to hole up? They will watch Tail Holt the way a cat does a mouse-hole. Even now someone may know you're here."

"Only Sherm Howard, and of course he wouldn't give me away," Norris said derisively.

"Sure nobody saw you come in?" "Sure. While I think of it, Sherm, I'll take that other gun you promised me." The slitted eyes stabbed into those of the older man.

For a barely perceptible instant Howard hesitated. He had a suspicion Morg was not armed. If so, he could be killed now with no risk. The man had become a menace. It would be well to get rid of him. He could use just now the credit that would come to him for rubbing out the desperado. But he could not do it. He found he had not the sheer nerve to draw and pump lead, not with the killer's gaze on him and his hand close to where the butt of a revolver might lie inside

"Glad to give it to you," Howard said in his cheerful voice of false heartiness. "You'll find it in the tray of the trunk there. It's a good gun too. Throws just a mite high, but you'll make allowance for that." "You get it for me, Sherm," the visitor urged. "You know just where Howard got the gun. He handed it to Norris, who broke it and made sure the chambers were loaded.

"Much obliged, Sherm," the outlaw said, mockery in his voice. "I can sure use this. Haven't had a gun in my hand since those skunks jumped me at Wild Horse."

The fat man made the best of it he could. He said promptly: "I'm not dumb, Morg. Knew all the time you didn't have a cutter. Trouble with you is you're so damned suspicious. Why wouldn't I let you have gun when you're up against it? You don't think straight.'

"You'd bust a trace to help me, wouldn't you, Sherm?" the killer

Personally, far as I'm concerned, you can go to hell yore own way, Morg," Howard told him blunt-"But I stand by my crowd, and you're one of the gang, even if you

Norris said with a cynical grin. "If you are a Good Samaritan to me while I'm here that will about let you out for right now."

"I don't care where you hide," the older man replied. "Nothing to me. Go to the L C ranch and stay with the Chiswicks if you've a mind to. Point is, when they crowd me, I'd like to make sure I'm giving them the wrong steer."

"Sure. You'd hate to see them collect me. But don't worry about it. They won't." The outlaw got a basin, poured hot water into it from the kettle, and reduced this to the he had cantered into town with he watched his host out of the cor-ner of his eyes. "But there's one Sick and weary as he was, nothing thing you can do for me, Sherm, since you're so anxious to help. I'm about out of mazuma. I'll take a small loan if you can spare it."

Howard took his time to answer. Money was his god. To part with it unless he saw a chance of getting it back with interest was a positive pain to him. He could read Norris like a book. The fellow was sneer- stare at him, and at the right moing at him, but back of this lay a threat. His request was an order. "Haven't got much here, Morg, but what I have is yours," the big man said. "Ten dollars-or even twenty-" "Wouldn't be of any use to me," Norris said coolly. "I'll take five hundred." "Five hundred!" Howard stared at him. "You're loading me, Morg.

forty-five came into action.

You know I haven't got anything like that in the house.'

"You'd better have it. Don't try to fool me, Sherm. I know you.' The narrowed eyes were glittering dangerously. Howard knew he had to make a choice. He must either pay or fight. For a moment he played with the idea of shooting it out. Reluctantly he gave this up. Morg was a dead shot. From a coffee-pot in the cupboard he drew out a roll of bills. He counted five hundred and pushed the money across the table. There was about fifty dollars left.

With his evil grin Norris mentioned that it was more blessed to give than to receive. "Pay you when Jay Gould sends me a million," he added cheerfully.

He busied himself doctoring his wounds and taking care of his feet. Before he left he gave Howard instructions, a purring threat in his

"You haven't seen me, Sherm. You don't know where I am. It wouldn't be healthy for you to get busy rustling a posse to take after me. Understand?"

Coldly Howard answered: "No use trying to help you, Morg. You don't know how to appreciate kind treatment.'

"If I got any from you, I'd sure keep my eyes skinned till I found out why," the man on the dodge cut

He backed to the door and stopped there for a last word of advice.

"I'll stick around a few minutes outside. Don't move from yore chair for half an hour. Just take it easy and see if you can beat the solitaire game."

Presently the door closed behind Howard sat in the chair as he had been advised. He was busy thinking, and his thoughts all pointed to one conclusion. Norris was too dangerous a man to let live.

used by the town for a baseball ground. This he followed. Behind the plate were two or three adobe houses belonging to Mexicans. He wound around these and came to the rear door of the Golden Nugget.

He did not enter the gamblinghouse, but crept along one of the walls until he could look through a window and see what was going on inside. The sight of that room gave him an acute nostalgia. He had been one of the king-pins there for many months. He had ruffled it with the best of them. Fifty times proper temperature. All the time some boon companion and strolled Sick and weary as he was, nothing would have pleased him more than to drop in there and relax.

But he dared not show his face. The Golden Nugget was closed to him forever. When he had run away with Ruth Chiswick, he had put himself beyond the pale. If he were to open the door and walk in now a dozen cold, hostile faces would ment bullets would crash into his body as they had into that of Wild Jim Pender. Howard had been right. The thing he had done had hurt all the Tail Holt outlaws. If they got the chance they would square themselves by planting him in Boot Hill.

He crept along the wall toward Main street. From this spot he had fired the shot that had wounded Lee Chiswick only a few weeks ago. Then he had been riding the top wave, a leader among the reckless, lawless cowboys of the vicinity. Now he was a fugitive, every man's hand against his.

A poor broomtail stolen in the hills had brought him to town, but he intended to leave on a better in front of the Golden Nugget.

A half a dozen of them stood at the hitchrack. His eyes went up and down the street. A few people were in view, two or three of them lounging in front of saloons, one or two others moving briskly toward some destination.

Norris stepped to the hitchrack to choose a mount. To him there came the sound of hoofs. Three men rode round a corner and drew up at the Golden Nugget. One of them was Curly Connor.

Back of a horse Norris crouched, revolver in hand. He guessed that these men had just come back from a fruitless search in the hills for him. They swung stiffly from their | alone. Few came up to this neck saddles as riders do who have not left them for many miles. "Me, I could use a drink," one of them said wearily.

The speaker was Mile High. He tied the rein with a slip-knot and turned toward the Golden Nugget. As he did so his glance stopped abruptly. He was looking into the glittering eyes of someone standing back of a horse.

"Goddlemighty, it's Morg," he broke out. "Right, first guess," Norris said evenly, not raising his voice. "Don't monkey with yore hardware, any of you, unless you want to go out in smoke."

Mile High said bitterly: "You killed Kansas, you double-crossing

"So I did," the bad man jeered. "And I'm still on the shoot, Mile High. Roll right along and get that drink, with yore arms down."

Stepping swiftly to the left for a better view of the man, Curly dragged out his revolver. Two guns blazed, one of them that of Connor. With a ribald yell of triumph Norris vaulted to the saddle. Mile

"I won't worry you about that," | to a path crossing the vacant space | High's forty-five came into action, but the horse was plunging at the feel of the spur. Again Norris fired, his mount still in the air. An instant later he was dashing into the darkness, crouched low in the seat. "Rout the boys out of the Golden Nugget, Jim," Curly said excitedly.

> "Bad, Curly?" asked Mile High. "In the shoulder. I'll make the riffle all right, but I don't reckon I can ride with you." The lank puncher picked his hat out of the dust. There were two little holes in the crown. "The sonof-a-gun sure gave me a haircut. Been one inch lower he would of collected me. Better get inside and have the boys look after you, Curly.'

> "Get after him immediate! He got

"Yes," agreed the black-headed man. "I'll be all right when I'm fixed up. Get fresh horses, Mile High. That rapscallion don't aim to pick no daisies on the way."

"Curly was right. The fugitive had already left the road and turned up a gulch trail leading into the hills. If there had been any room for doubt as to how he stood at Tail Holt there was none left now. His roaring gun had cut down the most popular man in town. He had seen Curly stagger from the impact of the bullet. As soon as possible he must get out of the country. Until that time he must lie hidden.

Old Man Haskins would take care of him-for a price. That was one of the reasons he had been forced to hold up Sherm Howard. Nobody did anything for nothing, the bandit reflected bitterly. Not when you were down on your luck, with the cards stacked against you. He would have to pay Pete well for protection.

Norris rode steadily till late at night. He was in a vile humor. His mount. That was why he had ven- swollen feet tortured him. The clout tured so close to the heart of the on the head, a souvenir from Jeff town. There were sure to be horses Gray, still pained at times. From lack of sleep he was dead tired.

The cabin of the nester was dark when he rode up to it, but a hound dog filled the night with its barking. A man came to the door. He opened it only-an inch or two.

"Who is it?" a piping voice demanded. "Lemme in, Pete. It's Morg Nor-

The hillman hesitated. "I ain't exactly fixed for visitors, Morg. That's a fact sure enough." He lowered his squeaky tones to a whisper. "I ain't alone. I done got someone here." The hunted man was taken aback. He had counted on Haskins being of the woods. "Who you got here?" Norris asked. "Why, I don't rightly know his name," Haskins said. "A fellow from Texas."

Morg swung from the aaddle and walked close to the other. "I'm listenin'," Pete," he said, and his voice dripped menace. "Is this some guy sent up to get me?" Haskins was a big, unkempt, slovenly man. He was of middle age, large, with a deep barrel chest from which one would have expected the roar of a bull.

"Jumpin' Jehoshaphat, no!" The high falsetto registered excitement. "Don't start lookin' for trouble, Morg. This is a bird sent up by Sherm Howard. He's on the dodge." Someone inside the cabin joined the talk. "Who is it, Pete?"

"A friend, Clint. Wants to stay with me a spell. He got into a kinda jam. Name is Norris." "The fellow they're after?"

"Yes." "What's all the powwow about?

Why don't you bring him in?" (TO BE CONTINUED)

By-Products Are Important in Fishing Industry; Waste Used for Fertilizer

thoughts of the fishing industry is the importance of by-products. These are principally meal, fertilizer, and oil which are manufactured from the waste of canneries and other fish plants. In a big plant the waste may make up as much as half of the "raw material."

Oils are extracted from all parts of the fish, although the public is most familiar with fish liver oils, which, as the name implies, are obtained only from fish livers. An interesting quirk, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, is that bodies of fish yielding liver oil are usually very lean, while livers of fat fish contain little oil. Medicinal oil is made from fresh livers, although stale livers are used in making other oils.

Oils are obtained either by pressing and cooking of waste or simply Morgan Norris closed the door of the oil off the top of the vat. Fish purposes. do wear out our patience. The feeding of fish and fish scrap to animals has been recommended and practiced for many years, but it is only in recent years that use of fish meal as a stock and poultry food has grown rapidly. Lesson for July 10 CALEB: LIFE-TIME DEVOTION

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 14:6-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.—Numbers 13:30.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Brave Caleb.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Caleb the Brave.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC— A Hero's Reward.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
Courage for Difficult Tasks.

"We need to know more about good men who are occasionally great, and less about great men who are occasionally good," says the Lesson Commentary, in pointing out that Caleb is one of the characters about whom the Bible does not say much, but in every case the word is one revealing high and noble character. Consider such passages as Numbers 13:6, 30; 14:7-9, 24, 30; 26: 65, as well as our lesson for today.

The background for our study of today, and in fact an integral part of the lesson itself, is the story of Caleb's courageous stand with Joshua when the spies returned from their visit to Canaan, which is related in Numbers 13. He was then a comparatively young man, but demonstrated by his every word and deed that he had from his youth learned to know and obey God.

Note first of all Caleb's I. Perfect Obedience (vv. 6-8).

"I wholly followed the Lord my God." Such a testimony from a man like Caleb is no idle boast, no effort to parade his faith and piety before others. In saying it he was repeating what God and Moses had both said about him. In his heart he knew it to be true.

It is God's will for each of His children that they should come to such a place of simple trust and complete obedience that in every circumstance of life they need know only one thing-God's will, and then in faith to go and do it. It is a life beautiful in its transparent simplicity and powerful in the strength of God Himself.

II. Promised Inheritance (v. 9). "Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance." Such was the promise of God through Moses. Forty-five long years had elapsed, but down through this period of wilderness wanderings and the conflict in subduing Canaan the promise had lived in Caleb's heart. He knew it would be fulfilled, and he waited serenely for God's time. Such also are the promises of God which keep the heart singing in our hours of trial and sorrow, which light up the dark ways, which strengthen the heart of His children. Learn God's promises, cherish them in your heart, expect God to fulfill them.

III. Preserved Strength (vv. 10,

11). "The Lord hath kept me alive . . . and I am . . . strong." Here was a man kept of God, in full vigor in his eighty-fifth year, "like a rock in a changeful sea, like a snowcapped peak in a change of cloud and storm and sun" (Meyer). No doubt there was what our forefathers liked to call "the longevity of the antedeluvians," but even apart from that let us recognize that life and strength come from God, and that those who walk with God in holy living may count on Him for the renewed strength of Psalm 103:5. An incidental, but extremely important, lesson, we should learn is that God has no age deadline. The church has frequently sinned against Him and against His faithful servants by "shelving them" for younger men, when they would have brought blessing to themselves and to the church by encouraging and using them. The writer of these lines is a young man, but he would speak here a word of loving admonition regarding his honored brethren who have gone on before to bear the brunt of the battle.

IV. Powerful Assurance (vv. 12-

"If . . , the Lord will be with me, then I shall be able." Caleb asked for no easy task. He was ready to go up against the giants of Hebron. Read Deuteronomy 3:11, and you will find that there were men in those days who needed thirteen-foot beds. But Caleb was not afraid. He counted not on his own strength, but on the power of God. It is significant that while the other sections of Canaan were only partially conquered Caleb brought his formidable adversaries entirely under control, so that "the land had rest from war" (v.15). The spiritual application to our day is evident and appropriate. There are giants in the land in this year of our Lord 1938. Corruption -social and political-raises its brazen head. Drunkenness and vice leer at us with the impudent suggestion that we cannot control them. There are giants "within us -greed, selfishness, love of ease, lust, passion, cruelty" (Blaikie). Are we to do nothing about them? If we are to meet them in the strength of the flesh we might almost as well do nothing. But in the power of God, we are like Caleb-able. In His name we may take up a slogan of today, "Let's do some-thing about it!" and really do it, for His glory.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerve, and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life, WELL WORTH TRYING!

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

If I am elected your Sheriff I will assure you good people with your help proud of my children. I have never and cooperation that I will endeavor asked for a public office before and to try every way possible to keep the will say if you people see fit to vote from the reformatory. You good people know there is a crime wave sweeping our country today largely of the young people and you are also aware that we have more children in our Juvenile Courts than ever before and I feel that it is high time that we as citizens are making some effort toward correcting the lives of the young people of our country. I feel that the children of today are no worse than they were in our days but I do think that the parents are falling short of the proper training and teaching of these younger people. For I believe that if this country is ever brought to where it should be on a moral standard it is going to be through the younger generation and it is up to us to try to help to guide them to that

If we as parents would make every effort possible to get the young people to reading the lives of so many great men and if we ourselves would read more of these books which are obtainable we would be more fitted to try to talk to our children. We may give them all the education it is possible for us to do but if we fail in teaching them the Christian and moral side of life we are failures as father and mothers.

I will endeavor to treat people as I want them to treat me and I will show no partiality so far as possible between the rich and the poor but will do my best to deal out justice toward all man kind. Remember we have all fallen short of our intentions and few of us who have not violated some law therefore I have a feeling for those who have been caught possibly for something we have been guilty of ourselves. For you grown ups know that to lock up a young person tears down their moral and often leads to many a criminal. If we would just stop and think and say some nice word to our fellow man we do not realize what this would mean. We should endeavor to teach our children to be satisfied and contented with the things that are around us and we have many things to be thankful for. Let's praise and not critisize.

The seashore . . . the mountains . . . or wherever it's cool, usually attracts vacationists. But "be it ever so humble, there's no place like home." This summer make your home a vacation resort with air cooling. Air conditioning-whether it is evaporative, attic ventilation, or completely mechanical-is now within the reach of every one.

While air cooling is healthful and comfortable in the home (and well worth the price) it has become a necessity in business. Increased business and profits, drawn from competitors' non-air conditioned stores, will more than pay for your cooling equipment. See your evaporative cooler dealer today. He will gladly furnish a survey of your cooling needs. No obligation, of course.

Bad Breath and Its Causes

A DVERTISING copy writers tell us that one of the biggest, if not the biggest, of advertising appeals is that of fear-fear of heart disease, cancer or other diseases, endangering health and life. Another fear is that of being disliked by other people. It is this fear that causes so many to buy throat gargles, tooth washes and laxatives because their breath may be offensive without their knowledge.

there are some causes that damage the body, yet the individual, because he is using mouth washes, gargles and other methods of "keeping down" any odor, neglects to have these conditions corrected.

Physicians and dentists tell us that the most frequent cause of bad breath has to do with the teeth. There may be cavities or there may be little portions of food left on the teeth that should be removed by brushing the teeth or rinsing out the mouth after every meal. Sometimes the despised toothpick and the more efficient dental floss become necessary to remove the tiny pieces of food that get lodged between the teeth. "All cavities should be filled and tartar deposits should be reg-ularly removed, not only because of their tendency to cause disagree-able odor but because organisms may develop and be swallowed." If iny beginning pyorrhea is present alkaline mouth washes should be

TWISTED DRAPES ARE NEW STYLE FEATURE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS Designers are performing all sorts of interesting tricks with twisted drapes and as time goes on the idea is taking on added interest. When you see a dress or blouse the drapes of which tie themselves into fanciful knots or twist into clever intricacies be assured that the garment is a "last word" fashion. Be on the lookout for these intertwisted, inter-coiled effects and choose your new frocks accordingly.

This type of styling invites the use of color contrasts. For instance, the bodice top of a navy dress may have drapes coming from the shoulder, say in the new fuchsia shade, the same coiled, twisted and perhaps knotted across the bustline with infinite grace. Or the dress may be in monotone, the artful, twisted designfulness being the only trimming feature. White crepe frocks, with twists done in crepes of vivid contrast or carried out in pastel tones are topnotch fashion this summer.

A new feature in styling is the all-over shirred bodice with skirt of the material simply tailored. The all-over shirred jacket is likewise a fashion highlight. Chiffon and sheer marquisette yield to this treatment most charmingly.

Paquin Favorite A favorite Paquin model for evening is the long skirt of bias cut topped by a marquisette blousethe entire thing in white, black or pale rose.

Tailored Dinner Dress The tailored dinner or evening that repeat the decorative stitching dress remains a heavy favorite.

"If the patient will keep strictly on a 1,000 calorie diet, medicine is in regard to this season's organdies unnecessary for reducing weight. If weight loss is too rapid it may be that a little more liquid-water or other fluids-is necessary to maintain a better circulation."

Dr. Wheelock outlines a 1,000 calorie diet for those who are greatly overweight after examination shows that reducing may be safely done. Breakfast: One medium serving ing.

of cottage cheese.

Dinner: Two medium servings of lettuce or asparagus or celery or bage; one medium serving of lean meat; one thin slice of whole-wheat

Supper: One medium serving of

nature found only in our Carolina swamps. The Venus flytrap is a member of the sundew family with white flowers on 12-inch stems and rosettes of leaves consisting of two hinged blades set with sensitive hairs. When an insect alights on one of these leaves, the halves snap together like the jaws of a trap and are held firm by interlocking men-ginal bristles. The trapped insect dies. It is then dissolved and absorbed, and the plant opens and resets its leafy trap for further prey. Related to the Venus flytrap are the pitcher plants, of which the darlingonias, or California pitcher plants, are well-known members. These
