A WEEK AT A TIME

by J. M. RANKIN

SAFER—AND BETTER LOOKING

As one who has frequently taken his life in his hands dodging into the street around the fine elms at the high school campus, we give profuse thanks for the safety practice just followed of trimming same trees. What last week were two blind corners along the paved highway are no longer so. You can see a block or more in either direction. Also the trees look better.

AIN'T DONE RIGHT

Germany is formulating claims against Czechoslovakia for damage done to her feelings and to Germans in Sudetenland for the past twenty years. She wants pay for the damages. It seems Czechoslovakia aint done right by her neighbor. From a distance observers think it is merely a ruse to force the remaining area of the Czech's land to join with Germany because she couldn't possibly pay the damages claimed. Sometimes we almost wish we hadn't made the world safe for Democracy.

WHAT WILL YOU DO TO HELP?

Face the fact that you yourself, either through carelessness or indifference are partially responsible for America's annual fire bill: thousands of lives, thousands of injuries and more than half a billion dollars in property damage! Face the further fact that you have paid your share of that bill in taxes and insurance premiums. Finally, consider the possibility that next year your life, or the life of a dear one, may be numbered among the thousands; that your property may be listed in next year's toll. What are you going to do about it? Certainly there are numberless things you can do. Much progress has been made in the knowledge of fire, its causes, and its prevention. Science has contributed no end of equipment both for preventing and fighting fire.

Modern building materials and methods of construction, modern heating system, fire extinguishers, warehouses, safety deposit vaults and professional garment cleaners all offer means for doing your bit to conquer man's most terrifying enemy. Take advantage of these agencies for your protection. Adopt the precautionary measures suggested below. Do everything in your power to lessen the tragic waste of fire. You owe it to yourself, your family and your neighbor.

1. Make sure that your match is out before throwing it away.
2. Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette.
3. Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.
4. Build your rubbish bon-fire where there is no danger of spreading, and watch it carefully.
5. Have your electric wiring inspected regularly and repaired when necessary.
6. Avoid using kerosene, benzine or naphtha for cleaning purposes.
7. Watch your heating system and chimney. They should be kept clean and in perfect working condition.
8. Keep matches beyond the reach of your children, and your children beyond the reach of any kind of fire.
9. Do not leave your forest camp fire before it is totally extinguished.

Carnival Oct. 31

West Ward - Jr. High P. T. A. will have their annual Halloween Carnival at the West Ward building Halloween night, Monday, Oct. 31, 1938. Come out, bring the family and help the school as well as enjoy yourself. Spend a happy, safe Halloween with us.

Stunt Night to be Held October 3

Stunt night will be held at the City Hall, Nov. 3, sponsored by the Jr. Hi Athletic Club. Each club organization is to have

Future Farmers of America Hold Improvement Contest

The future farmers of America are holding an improvement contest that started October 1, 1938. The purpose of this contest is to create the farm boys' interest in his home and home-work.

Points may be obtained by doing any job that will improve the standard of field crops or improve the home.

There are two divisions in this contest, one for the first year agriculture boys and one for the third year boys. When this contest closes the four boys having the highest number of points in each division will be awarded valuable prizes.

The prizes will be much the same as last year.

F. F. A. To Get New Equipment

One of the objectives in the program of work set-up by the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America for this year is the pruning and care of the trees on the school campuses. Special equipment for doing the work is being provided by the Slaton School Board. Pruning saws, shears and ladders are the most important items of equipment. The work will be done under the supervision of our Advisor. With the large number of trees and doing the work as part of the day's program it will require a large part of the winter months to complete the job.

Annual Staff Is Selected

The Annual Staff was selected Thursday morning by members of the Student Council. The Staff is as follows:

Editor-in-Chief, Truman Shelton; Associate Editor, Marion Bechtel; Business Manager, Miriam Meading; Circulating Manager, Marion Frances Ferguson; Art Editor, Briggs Robertson, jr.; Club Editor, Patsy Ayers; Feature Editor, Maxine Conner; Senior Editor, Harold Tucker; Editorial Sponsor, Mr. J. Rayburn; Business Adviser, Mr. Joe E. Webb; Athletic Editor, Earl Blassingame; Underclass Editor, Mary Virginia Mullins; Photo Editors, Curtis Brown, Frances Crowther, James Floyd, and Howard Tierney.

Cattle Are Fattened For Fall Market

Fifteen hundred cattle are being fattened for the fall markets in the pens of the West Texas Cotton Oil Co., of this city. The cattle, owned by F. H. Birmingham, ex-rancher of Bastrop, and James P. Birmingham, of Austin, include 1200 two-year old steers and 300 yearlings, which were shipped here from Borden county.

The stock are being fattened on a full ration of cottonseed hulls and crushed grain, about 15 pounds of the latter ingredient being allowed daily per animal.

Birmingham, who is in Slaton at present, says the cattle will possibly be ready for the first shipping by the middle of November, with the entire group being marketed in Chicago and St. Louis by January 1 at least. He says that prices on dry-lot cattle are considered normal at this time, unforeseen fluctuations of course depending upon business conditions throughout the marketing season.

"You can't possibly beat this climate for feeding stock for the fall market," said Birmingham. "You have high elevation here with a dry condition and pleasantly cool nights. Plenty of grain is raised in this section and can be had minus freight rates for shipping."

Birmingham and Nash fed cattle in Abilene last year.

J. H. Gregory and Jim Jones, of Tech, visited Friday night in Slaton.

H. S. Students Beautify School

Thursday afternoon was designated by school heads as official clean-up day for high school building and grounds.

Both boys and girls have been divided into groups according to classes and assigned to specific projects. Teachers taking charge of the girls are Miss Irene Armes and Mrs. R. M. Nash, freshmen; Miss Eufa Tidwell, sophomores; Miss Maud Dean, juniors; and Mrs. Dayton Eckert, seniors. These four groups will clean the inside of the building including windows, pictures, desks, boards, erasers, lockers, trophy cases and their contents, and teachers' offices.

Boys' groups will be supervised by Jack Miller, freshmen; High School Principal Roy Boyd and Melvin Sisk, sophomores; Superintendent Joe E. Webb and J. G. Wilhite, juniors; and John Rayburn, seniors. These groups will do general work about the grounds, while three special groups will take care of duties assigned them in specific locations. Band boys under Clyde Rowe will clear the southeast quarter of the high school campus; football boys under Curtis Hamilton will clean the premises of the athletic field, mow the grass and line the gridiron; vocational agriculture boys under A. C. Strickland will trim and whitewash trees and clean bar ditches around the campus. Commissioner Ben Mansker has agreed to furnish a grader for special needs in the clean-up campaign.

Said Superintendent Webb, "We hope to get city officials back of a plan to furnish water to the school in aiding a beautifications program which we plan to initiate in the near future." The work of landscaping the campus and plotting grass, flowers, trees and hedges will be done with the aid of the student body. Boyd plans to take care of the project during next summer.

Tigers To Play Tahoka Team

Football is in the air again this week, when we are scheduled for our first conference game in the Class B division tonight at 8 o'clock with the Tahoka Bulldogs on Tiger field.

We have heard it rumored that because of our loss to the White Deer Bucks last week-end we are definitely considered the underdogs in tonight's clash. We saw Post whip the "Pups" ears down several points last Thursday night at Tahoka, but in spite of that it is no secret that the losers of that game have a shipshape team this season.

Coach Curtis Hamilton's Tigers are in shape this week with the exception of George Gentry and Ray DeBusk, who have had hips. Personally, we believe the Tigers, who suffered their worst defeat in many games last Friday, are coming out for revenge tonight.

Epworth League To Have Union Meeting

The Epworth League of the Slaton Methodist Church will entertain the other Leagues of this Union Monday, October 17 at the church.

It has been learned that there will be a musical program beginning at 8:00 o'clock which will be followed by a recreational hour in the basement of the church.

All students are cordially invited to come out and help Slaton get the banner.

The League meets each Sunday night at 6.45.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 2968 bales of cotton were ginned in Lubbock County from the crop of 1938 prior to October 1 as compared with 5285 bales for the crop of 1937.

White Deer Beats Slaton Tigers

Slaton was defeated in a non-conference game by the White Deer eleven on Tiger field Friday night by a 38-0 score.

Although Slaton has a strong team and played a commendable game of football, she was not able to withstand the driving attack of the White Deer team.

White Deer has been picked out by several sportsmen to be one of the outstanding Class "B" teams of several years.

Graves Studio, Post, Sold to Slaton Man

Post—Due to ill health of Ernest Graves caused by chemical poisoning he is retiring from the photography business. His plant sold this week to A. R. Meador of Slaton who has been in Slaton for 7 years and in the photography business for 40 years.

Mr. Meador purchased the equipment of the Graves Studio and leased the building. He and his wife will move to Post within the near future. His studio in Slaton will be operated by his daughter.

Plans Are Made To Mark Highway

In a joint meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and members of the city commission this week, plans for marking the State Highway number 84 through town to relieve a hazardous traffic situation were discussed.

East portion of the Ninth street boulevard just west of the city hall has long been designated as the highway section of the through street. With the recent installation of traffic lights more urgent need of the new markings is evident. The new arrangement would allow for cars approaching the intersection of Ninth and Lubbock streets from the north on the west lane of the boulevard to observe the same light signal as do cars coming from the west on Lubbock street, thereby allowing cars traveling the main highway a clear route through town.

Plans for paving the center section of the boulevard and running a curb along the middle were considered. Metal markers will be placed along the center of the busy block to designate specifically the through highway. With removal of the Slaton Post Office to 145 South Ninth, immediately west of the city hall, the parking situation may become more hazardous than it now is if cars are still allowed to park along the highway through town. A movement may soon be placed under way to clear the highway from parking from the Palace Theatre on the north end to the Baptist church on the south extremity.

Present in the joint meeting were Mayor John W. Hood, Commissioners Dan Liles, O. N. Alcorn and L. B. Wootton, the following members of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and board of city development: President F. H. Schmidt, Fagan Genn, C. W. Taylor, Webber S. Williams, C. F. Anderson, Dr. R. G. Loveless, Joe E. Webb, J. H. Brewer, J. A. Elliott, W. M. Cates and Ben Mansker. Raymond Lee Johns, chamber of commerce manager, was also present.

Regulations At Slaton Changed Regarding Valedictory Honors

Students with more than four years high school work will not be eligible for the valedictory honor in Slaton High school this scholastic term, said Superintendent Joe E. Webb.

Webb explained that heretofore students have prolonged their schooling in order to attend the fifth year and evade strong competition with the hope of attaining the position.

Also a student must take four subjects per term, one of which must be a required subject, to be eligible and must attend school both semesters.

Transfer students from other high schools are not eliminated from eligibility, Webb said.

Dallas Evangelist to Preach Sunday

LIFE OF JESUS IN MOTION PICTURES IN BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT

A motion picture, with sound on the film, dealing with the life of Jesus "From the Manger to the Cross," will be shown in the first Baptist church Sunday night at 7:30. This is said to be one of the best pictures of its kind ever produced. There will be many soul-stirring scenes, including the birth, life, ministry, trial, crucifixion, burial, resurrection and ascension of our Lord. The production was filmed in the Holy Land and Egypt, thus giving those places as a back ground for the Story of the Cross.

A special song, "The Ninety and Nine," will be illustrated on the screen in colored pictures while being sung by local talent.

Evangelist J. A. Williams, of Dallas, will speak in connection with the pictures. Also, special music will accompany the entire program, such as organ and chorus singing. This is a life size, sound picture. The best and largest churches of the state have used the picture and Brother Williams and give their hearty endorsement of the entire service.

Also, Evangelist Williams will preach at the morning hour, using for his theme "Seeing the Unseen." The public is cordially invited. There will be no admission charge for the picture, but an offering will be taken for the expense.

Student Council Goes To Dallas

A Slaton High school delegation of student council members left Thursday with Roy Boyd, high school principal and sponsor of the student governing organization, to attend a convention of the Southern Association of Student Government for the first time. This is the seventh annual meeting of the association, which will be held this year at North Dallas High school Friday and Saturday of this week.

The organization had its inception at a meeting in 1933 of several high schools of Tennessee, Arkansas, and Mississippi, at the Central High school in Memphis, Tennessee, and in a meeting in 1934 at Little Rock High school in Arkansas the name Southern Association of Student Government was adopted. Other meetings in succeeding years have been held in Hot Springs, Arkansas, in 1935; at Woodrow Wilson High school, Dallas, in the spring of 1935-36, Lexington, Kentucky, 1936; and Knoxville, Tennessee, 1937.

States belonging to the Southern Association are North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Texas.

"Work done by the student governing body of Slaton High school this year has been responsible in part for the suspension of the demerit system and its replacement with an honor system of discipline," said Boyd.

Delegates from Slaton listed to be accompanied by Boyd are Truman Shelton, student president; Patsy Ayers, secretary-treasurer; Donna Sanner, Thelma Joe Felton, Frances Crowther, W. D. Walston, Charles Austin, Harold Tucker, J. B. Ward and James Eubanks.

Volley Ball Girls Win Over Cooper

The Slaton Volley Ball Girls defeated the Cooper team 4 out of 5 games played here Thursday, October 6.

The team goes to Cooper October 13 to try for another victory.

Get behind these girls and boost the team. They have made a favorable start and need the cooperation of the school.

MERCY HOSPITAL REPORTER

Mrs. Heiwlett, of Wilson, medical. Mrs. L. A. Jones, medical case. Fannie Lou Shaw, tonsilectomy. Mrs. George Angerer, medical case. Mrs. O. J. Huff, medical case. Jimmie Lord Zimmerman, tonsilectomy.

Lubbock.—Balloting Thursday, students of Texas Tech selected Minnie Will Wootton of Slaton as queen of La Remuda, Bleck and Brial club celebration to be conducted the night of October 15.

Miss Wootton represented Sans Souci club. She is a junior arts and science student.

Slaton Band Wins Tahoka Contest

On Thursday night, October 6, the Slaton Band won first place in the marching contest at Tahoka which was sponsored by the Tahoka Rotary club.

Entered in the contest were Bands from Lamesa, Loveland, Littlefield, and Post. The Post Band won second place in the contest.

The contest, which was held in connection with the dedication of the Tahoka Stadium, was attended by a crowd of 2,000 people. After the marching contest, talks were made by Pete Cawthon, head coach of Texas Tech, and Senator G. H. Nelson, formerly of Tahoka. After these ceremonies, the Tahoka Bulldogs lost a hard-fought football game to the Post Antelopes, 24 - 7.

The trophy, won by the Band, was presented in a pep meeting held Friday afternoon in the high school auditorium.

Ready-to-Wear Store Opened By Mrs. G. G. Thompson

In this issue of the Slatonite, Mrs. G. G. Thompson announces the opening of her new, modern ready-to-wear store in the Post Office building. She invites the patronage of the people of Slaton and the surrounding communities.

SYNOPSIS

Young Rex Hale calls on Casper Kneeland, friend of his father, in New York, and finds him proudly successful but strangely preoccupied. He tells Hale of his wife's death while insane, invites him for the summer to Halcyon camp, his home on Long Island, and promises him he will be "useful" as his secretary there. Hale is joined at lunch by Fred Ainsworth, an unpopular college mate, also at Halcyon, who leaves him with a feeling of unpleasant mystery. He is met at the train by Mrs. Wilbur Nash, whom he questions about the menage, and experiences a disturbing premonition. The premonition is barely eased by the comfortable hospitality of Hosanna. Kneeland's elderly sister, and her friend, Ruth Forbes, middle-aged sophisticate. In his room, Hale finds a soiled paper, printed, "This place dangerous." Hale meets the rest of the strange group—Dr. Craig, psychiatrist friend of Bert Kneeland, nervous young son of Casper, and beautiful but moody Joan Kneeland, niece of the house. Ainsworth drops in at his room, questions him about his reactions, and tells him of Bert's hopeless love for his heiress cousin, and that Mrs. Forbes is down and out. The whole group seems to get on each other's nerves. Later, Hale sees Hosanna furtively meeting a shabby man in the woods. The maid tells of the recent poisoning of a cat and dog. Mrs. Nash suggests that Ainsworth has some hold on them. Returning from a swim, Hale finds in his room a clever sketch of skull and crossbones. Kneeland arrives for the week-end, also curious about Hale's reactions.

"Who's worried?" asked Kneeland.

"You are, sir, if I may say so. So is your son. So is your niece. Your sister isn't, I fancy. At least there's no suggestion of it," replied Hale.

Kneeland made a quick gesture.

"If any worry trotted up to Hosanna it would trot off again with its tail between its legs. She wouldn't even know it had been there. Hosanna's a pink sofa cushion. Always has been, always will be. But what do you think of her friend, Mrs. Spencer Forbes?"

"Cold as ice, hard as nails, mildly amusing, and not worried about anything. She enjoys seeing other people worry, though. I'm not sure she wouldn't enjoy seeing them suffer physically. She and Ainsworth might have had a great time if they had lived during the Spanish inquisition and could have watched the victims."

"Ainsworth, yes. I don't know much about Mrs. Spencer Forbes, though she's been with us off and on for years. I guess you're right about her. I hear you and Ainsworth were at school together. What sort of cub was he? A bully, of course."

"He may have been at the cub stage," Hale agreed. "He was doing post-graduate work when we were at Cornell. He was a well-behaved young man, and very studious."

"Surely he wasn't popular?"

"No. But there was no special reason for his unpopularity beyond his superior manner and his habit of saying anything rude he wanted to. He prided himself on that. It's another trait he has in common with Mrs. Spencer Forbes. She's a better sport. She's willing to take as much as she gives. Ainsworth isn't. He wants to ride over people roughshod, and have others treat him as tenderly as they would a baby. The best way to handle him, I should say," Hale added deliberately, "would be to give him as good as he sends. He couldn't take it. He'd crumple under it."

"God, I'd like to see him crumple," Kneeland broke in fiercely.

"But I'm no good at what you young folks call repartee. Never was."

"Then why—?" Hale checked the question. Kneeland finished the question.

"The devil do I have him for? For just one reason in the world, my boy. Because I can't help myself. I'd boot him from here to New York if I could," he went on longingly. "I'd enjoy every kick. But—well, I can't. That's all there is to it."

"You don't mean—" Rex stopped again—Kneeland had started this and he must have a reason for doing so—then continued, "You don't mean that the fellow is trying anything in the nature of blackmail on you?" he ended.

"No, not exactly. One might call it something like that, but I guess not. That would hardly fit." But don't let's talk about it. Here's what I started to say. I told you I had a job for you. I have. You can write a few letters for me, but there won't be much of that till I'm here in August. I handle my mail in my office, and I've got an efficient private secretary there—a girl who's been with me ten years. What I want you to be here at Halcyon Camp is a sort of substitute host. I want you to represent me when I'm not here. I want you to help me out when I am here. I want you to do the sort of thing official entertainers do on shipboard, and the sort of thing my son ought to be doing. Entertaining the folks. Stir 'em up. Start things. Give 'em a good time. Try to change the general atmosphere here."

"In short, be the life of the party. I see!"

Hale spoke flatly, and with distaste. He disliked the assignment.

He told himself he disliked his housemates. He disliked Halcyon Camp. Most of all, in that moment, he thought he disliked Casper Kneeland. Kneeland could, and should, he reflected, have left all that to Hale's sense of his social obligations as a guest. Naturally, he would have done his best. But to be under orders as an official entertainer, and of such a group as this one around him, was different. There was something ghastly in its humor. Kneeland read his thoughts.

"Don't get restless," he said.

"This assignment is between you and me. No one else will know anything about it. Officially, you're my home secretary. You can give color to that by spending an hour or two a day in this study. You can write your own letters in here. But the main thing," he went on, straightening suddenly and speaking with a

"What changed your opinion?"

new quality in his voice, "is that there's a little string to all this."

"Oh."

Hale began to see the light, and to object mentally to what he saw.

"Your real job," Kneeland ended, "will be to find out what sort these people are."

"Oh," Hale repeated the word blankly. "You mean amateur detective work? You mean that I'm to worm myself into their confidence—"

"Nothing like it," Kneeland interrupted sharply. "In the first place, my lad, you couldn't get into their confidence. They're not a confiding bunch. Moreover they're not talking about their little plans. They're just working at them."

"Little plans? Do you know what those little plans are?"

"Of course I don't," Kneeland jerked out impatiently. "If I did, why would I be asking you to look into things? I only suspect that Ainsworth, Craig and Mrs. Forbes are up to something. I believe they have axes to grind and that they're very busy grinding them."

"These people are guests in my house. They're eating my bread—and in one way or another I'm afraid they're trying to do me dirt. It may be in some trivial thing, or it may not. If they're playing some skin game on me, am I or am I not justified in asking you to help me to find out what it is? They're after something—my money, no doubt. Perhaps they're helping Ainsworth. Are you, or are you not, justified in pitting yourself against them if you've got the ability to do it?"

"I think you are—and I guess I am," Hale said slowly.

"Good. Will you tackle the job?"

"Yes, sir, I will."

"Fine. As to salary, we'll say a hundred a month and expenses till I get here in August. More after that, when there's more to do. A good bonus at the end of the summer if you've succeeded in unearthing anything I don't know. Expenses paid, of course. You'll have to take trips to New York, to find out some things about Ainsworth's recent activities, and Craig's. I've looked up Ainsworth's professional record, but you can find out more than I can about his private life. Mrs. Spencer Forbes may be in it, too, perhaps. I don't know. You'd better decide that yourself. All satisfactory so far?"

"Quite, sir. But don't imagine that I'm one of those super detectives you read about in mystery stories."

"I hope you're not. What we want is observation. You've got it. We want common sense. You've got that. We want some brains, and you seem to have them."

Kneeland heaved himself out of his chair.

"Now let's go back to the bunch and play contract," he suggested. He hesitated, then added abruptly, "I may be all wrong about these suspicions of mine, except in Ainsworth's case. He and I understand each other, all right. The others may be just a harmless bunch of hangers-on, getting what they can out of me. Perhaps I'm only a meal ticket to them. Perhaps I'm getting rattled and suspicious. Anyway," he smiled with an effort, "they're not being the gay little group a man would choose for a house party."

"No, they're not," Hale agreed.

Kneeland stood brooding for a moment. He seemed to have forgotten the contract game. Suddenly he threw up his head with a gesture oddly like Hosanna's. Both, Hale reflected, might have inherited it from some Indian-fighting New England ancestor.

"I'm going to treat you like a father," he ended with his best smile. "I'm going to refer sentimentally to old times and old ties. Perhaps I'll slip over a little. What I want is to rub into these people the fact that you're my godson and the son not if it worried or annoyed Joan." He hesitated, then went on.

"Bert's a big puzzle to me this summer. He graduated from Princeton a year ago this month, and he loafed here all last summer. Of course I expected that he would come into the factory in the fall. He's no young Napoleon of Industry but he's no fool, either. He could be mighty useful to me at the factory. I was looking forward to it. Everything seemed to be going all right till he brought his friend Craig here last August. After that he changed completely. He thought he wanted to go in for medicine. Craig has filled him up with that idea. He asked Craig here for the summer, and Bert himself has been mooning around ever since. To be frank, what I suspect Craig of is using his influence with Bert to keep him in the medical game. I think Bert has lost interest in it. I even think he has lost a lot of interest in Craig. He certainly goes off by himself, day after day, while Craig works in the laboratory. But Craig has no idea of being shaken off. Perhaps he has dreams of Bert's building a hospital for him some day, when he's a rich man. I don't know. I don't know anything. I only guess. But my plan has always been to give my boy his head. I can't put him into leading strings now."

Hale nodded sympathetically, and waited. But Kneeland had said all he had to say. Rex suspected that he was regretting his frankness. He asked conversationally, "Is Craig in love with Miss Joan, too?"

Kneeland seemed relieved by the change of subject.

"He says he is. You can form your own conclusions. Anyway, she has turned him down cold. She's fond of Bert. She loves him like a brother. That's part of the trouble. They were brought up like brother and sister. No romance there, on her part. But she doesn't like Craig a little bit."

"How about Ainsworth? I suppose he's in love with Miss Kneeland, too?"

"He made a little drive for her, but not a serious one. She gave him his walking papers at the first sign of it. Since then he hasn't bothered her. Ainsworth is in love with himself and his schemes. He doesn't pay any more attention to Joan, and she detests him."

"All right. I guess I've got what I want. Now I'm ready for your contract game, sir."

Kneeland was himself again. His ill-humor had vanished.

"If you can remember to say 'Uncle Cass,' it may help," he suggested.

"All right, Uncle Cass. It's Uncle Cass from now on, Uncle Cass."

Kneeland grinned and his face grew young again.

"That's the stuff," he commended. He threw his right arm across his new employee's shoulder, and in that friendly position they went back to the living-room.

CHAPTER IV

Hale returned to his room toward midnight. He and Kneeland had played some good contract with Herbert and Joan. The remoteness of the other four, playing at a second table, had clearly been a relief to the host. In the intimacy of his family group his natural optimism and cheerfulness burst into full bloom. He won several rubbers, played successfully two "little slams," and enjoyed the evening.

He was sorry to have the party break up. Hale was not. Hale wanted to be alone and to think over his new responsibilities.

Traces of Townsites of Undetermined Age Discovered on Isle Royale by Explorers

The history of a vanished race that once inhabited Isle Royale has not been rendered illegible by the forest growth, according to George A. West, of the Milwaukee Public Museum, who with other scientists conducted an expedition searching into lore of the island.

Traces of townsites of a still-undetermined age have been found which tend to bear out the evidence obtained in long-forgotten burial grounds that Isle Royale's copper was mined by a prehistoric race that made seasonal raids on the island.

"Mystery surrounds the discovery of three depressions found in the eastern extremity of the entrance to McCargoe's cove by Dr. Carl E. Guthe and Fred Dustin, University of Michigan archeologists," according to Earl G. Kirby, whose ship, the Alabama, calls regularly at Isle Royale on cruises from the lower lakes.

"Bowl-shaped, the depressions disclosed a 14-inch layer of carefully placed rock, under which was found a bed of charcoal. Pottery and other relics of the Indian civilization believed to have reigned on Isle Royale long before Father Dablon in the seventeenth century made the first white man's visit to the territory, were taken back to Ann Arbor by Doctor Guthe and his assistants," Kirby said.

Commons, Public Land

The common is a piece of land on which the inhabitants of a village have rights in common, says London Answers Magazine. There are two kinds of common. In one, the land has been taken over by the public, generally by a local authority. In the other, the lord of manor and manorial tenants hold some, if not all, of their ancient rights. Between 1707 and 1869 something like 5,000,000 acres of common land was enclosed in England and Wales. But the public were beginning to realize that they were losing, and in 1866 an act was passed forbidding further enclosures in the London police area, and an act of 1876 did something of the kind for the rest of the country. The amount of common land in England and Wales is estimated at 1,500,000 acres. Commons are most frequent in Surrey, where almost every village has one.

Lesson for October 16

REVERENCE FOR GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 12:33-37. GOLDEN TEXT—Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.—Matthew 6:9.

Character reveals itself through the words and deeds of a man. He may try to conceal his real spiritual condition and may assume an outward appearance of piety but he need not say many words, nor meet many of life's problems, before his true condition is revealed.

Our lesson for today touches primarily on the matter of the words of men, presenting first God's command that in speaking we are to show reverence for His name, and then leading up to the expression of that reverence in abstinence from swearing and from idle talk.

I. Reverence Commanded (Exod. 20:7).

The forbidden thing is the taking of the name of the Lord "in vain." Our use of the word "vain" carries the meaning of "useless, without purpose or meaning." This is part of what is in mind in this commandment, for the name of Jehovah is sacred and is to be revered as standing for the eternal God. It is never to be used carelessly, or for a frivolous purpose. All too often we tell jokes or stories which have no real purpose or meaning except to elicit a laugh and in them we use the name of God. We all need to exercise care at that point.

The Hebrew word translated "vain" has the additional meaning of "evil" and "falsehood." Men are so bold that they may even use the name of God to support themselves in a lie. God hears and will in no wise hold them guiltless.

II. Swearing Forbidden (Matt. 5:33-37).

The Sermon on the Mount (so-called), from which this portion of Scripture is taken, is difficult to interpret to the satisfaction of all. Some disregard its evident application to the kingdom and, attempting to apply it in the midst of an ungodly generation, fall into such inconsistency that they abandon the effort and regard the teaching of the passage as impossible idealism. Others, who rightly interpret the passage as presenting the laws and principles of life in the kingdom of God when it shall be fully set up on earth with Jesus as King, fail to make any application of those principles to the life of those who are now living in this world—though not of it—but rather have their citizenship in heaven. This is also an unfortunate error.

We who follow the Lord Jesus are not to swear by either things sacred or things that might be called secular. Perhaps He has in mind that our lives should be so true that men will not need to have any kind of an oath to be assured of our sincerity and honesty. Some believe that all oaths even in court are forbidden, while others, with due respect for the feelings of those who hold this view, regard the taking of oaths in official matters as not being in mind. All would agree that the careless and almost sacrilegious use of God's name in administering oaths would be taking His name in vain.

Swearing is also entirely beyond the pale with Christian men and women. It is all too common with both men and women. A great church has organized a "Holy Name Society" to keep its members from using the name of the Lord in profanity. What a telling comment on the times in which we live!

III Judgment Assured (Matt. 12:33-37).

Jesus had cast out a demon who had possessed a man and made him blind and dumb. The Pharisees could not deny the miracle but attributed it to the power of Beelzebub, prince of the demons. Jesus closed their mouths by pointing out that Satan did not work against himself, and went on to speak solemn words regarding their and our responsibility for what we say.

A day of judgment is coming, when we shall answer for the idle and wicked words which we speak. While we would not bring condemnation upon those who indulge in the innocent pleasantries of life by making too severe an application of these words, neither should we destroy their evident import by failing to apply them to our daily conversation. One need but listen to the casual small talk of men and women in public places to realize that we need to give attention to the matter of elevating not only the conversation of others but our own as well to a nobler and more helpful level. Surely Christians should speak for the glory of God on every occasion and in each circumstance of life.

The way to accomplish this worthy purpose, and the only way, is to have the heart and life filled with the good treasure of God's Word, for verily out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. What do your words and mine indicate to others regarding what is in our hearts?

Bryan's Brevity Likely Influenced the Opinion

William Jennings Bryan, silver-tongued orator, used to enjoy telling of a comment which he once overheard about himself during a Chautauqua season. A local speaker preceding Mr. Bryan had talked for one hour and a half. So when Mr. Bryan finally got the floor, he simply raised his hands and pronounced the benediction. Later two old fellows were discussing the program.

"That was a great speech Mr. Blank made, even if it was too long," remarked one.

"Yep," agreed the other. Then, after a pause, he added: "That last feller that followed him was pretty good, too."—Boston Globe.

As one of the industries of Texas, your telephone company pays its share of the cost of government. It is a heavy share, too. In 1937 its local, state, and federal taxes in Texas totaled more than four million dollars... nearly $12,000 a day.

These telephone taxes were equal to more than a third of the company's entire payroll in the state. They amount to $9.25 for every telephone in service. Where do they go, these taxes? To build and maintain the streets and highways over which you drive. To furnish you police and fire protection. To keep up your children's schools. To help pay for all the services government gives you.

The telephone company is part of Texas... here to meet this state's need for friendly, dependable telephone service. As part of the state, it has tried to be a good citizen... always ready and willing to pay its fair share of the cost of government.

Weekly News Review Peace Wins Shallow Victory, Compared to That of Hitler

By Joseph W. La Bine

Foreign

Since early August, when Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area first began attracting Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's serious attention, Italy's Premier Benito Mussolini has been out in the cold. While Germany's chancellor talked with British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, while the world read about French Premier Edouard Daladier and Czech President Eduard Benes, Adolf Hitler's friend in Rome was asked not once for his opinion. But he gave it nevertheless, thundering six speeches of defiance at western democracies in as many days.

Another rebuff came when Franklin Roosevelt drafted his first note to Germany and Czechoslovakia (See WHITE HOUSE), sending copies to Britain and France, but not to PREMIER BENITO MUSSOLINI ... headlong into the headlines.

Italy. Sorely hurt, Il Duce was ready to jump headlong into the headlines first chance he got.

That chance came unexpectedly. Night before, in Europe's capitals, frenzied governments rushed mobilization, prepared for air raids. In Berlin, where Adolf Hitler had set a 12-hour deadline on the Czech question, troops began marching to the frontier. Though the Reich's every demand had been granted, Chancellor Hitler's stubbornness over detail was a barrier neither London nor Paris could hurdle.

In such a crisis, as President Roosevelt paved a smooth entre with his second note to the Fuehrer, both Washington and London appealed secretly to the one man whose persuasion might stay disaster. That man was Benito Mussolini, fellow dictator of Adolf Hitler, southern mainstay of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Il Duce rose to the occasion, talked 30 minutes to Berlin by telephone, soon had wires humming to London and Paris. With a scant two hours to spare, Der Fuehrer had cancelled his march, arranged in its stead a four-power conference next day at Munich. To that Bavarian city, where a scant 25 years before the bemoustached chancellor had worked as bricklayer and house painter, flew Neville Chamberlain, Benito Mussolini, Edouard Daladier. Nine hours they talked, emerging with an agreement that meant at least temporary peace for Europe and some measure of integrity for Czechoslovakia.

Terms: (1) Czech evacuation of Sudetenland by October 10; (2) supervision of evacuation by international commissioners; (3) plebiscites in Sudeten areas with minor German population; (4) exchange of populations; (5) Czech release of German prisoners, soldiers, police; (6) settlement of Polish, Hungarian minorities disputes by four-power meeting if nations concerned fail to reach agreement among themselves; (7) international guarantee of Czech integrity.

As Europe's peacemakers headed for home, a world well accustomed to treaty breaking might well wonder how long the Munich pact would stand. Terms were one thing, plain facts another. Among the facts: (1) Adolf Hitler had won every demand; (2) by signing the four-power pact, France and Britain withdrew their support of Czechoslovakia; (3) Russia, left in the cold, turned cold eyes at all western Europe; (4) by summoning the Munich parley, by winning their terms, Germany and Italy now hold a whip hand over Europe's destiny, can probably make further aggressions without much opposition.

For peace, only victory at Munich was that the world's war lords had avoided unspeakable disaster even after mobilizing their armies, a feat unparalleled in history.

Transportation

Though 928,500 members of 19 railroad unions voted to strike October 1 in protest against a 15 per cent wage cut, their walkout has been averted until at least November 20 by presidential intervention under the railway labor act of 1926. Starting investigations last week was an emergency committee which has until October 30 to dig out the facts.

Committeemen: Prof. Harry A. Mills of Chicago university, Dean

James M. Landis of Harvard university's law school, Chief Justice Walter P. Stacey of the North Carolina supreme court. With railroad's monumental problem brought to a head, labor's protests became secondary to an investigation of why one-third of U. S. railroads are in receivership, why another third borders on bankruptcy.

When committeemen finish their inquiry, unions must wait another 30 days before striking. Chief hope is that a solution of railroad financial difficulties will obviate a strike by that time, with congressional aid following close behind.

White House

"This country can best be served by putting in positions of influence men who believe in peace and who will resist this administration in seeking to give free advice to either side in Europe."

Day after he recited this opinion of Franklin Roosevelt to Chicago Republicans, Iowa's onetime Sen. Lester J. Dickinson might have admitted that he spoke too hastily. Traditionally isolationist, long silent in Europe's crisis (See FOREIGN), U. S. officialdom kept hands off until every other effort failed, until Adolf Hitler was poised to march against little Czechoslovakia. Then, to Reichsfuehrer Hitler, to Czech President Eduard Benes, went President Roosevelt's plea:

"On behalf of 130 millions of Americans and for the sake of humanity everywhere, I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations..."

Next day, as Iowa's Dickinson was speaking, came Adolf Hitler's reply disclaiming responsibility, maintaining the "terrible fate" of Sudeten Germans made delay impossible. By nightfall all Europe had surrendered hope, and by nine o'clock the President was willing to try again. To Berlin went another cable. Its highlight:

"There are two points I sought to emphasize: first, that all matters of difference should and should be settled by pacific methods; second, that the threatened alternative... of force... is as necessary as it is unjustifiable."

Craftily phrased to maintain U. S. neutrality, the President's message nevertheless contained the word "unjustifiable" which connoted a measure of sympathy for Britain and France. Moreover, he dispatched a personal note to Italy's Premier Benito Mussolini, another to Tokyo, thereby asking Reichsfuehrer Hitler's two bedfellows in totalitarianism to plump against war.

No President in modern U. S. history has ever taken such a step, nor did much time elapse before tongues started wagging. Would Franklin Roosevelt's intervention embroil the nation in Europe's squabble? Did Washington have a secret "parallel action" agreement with France and Britain? And, most important for the moment, would the President's move bring desired results?

By daybreak the last question was answered. To Munich, Adolf Hitler summoned Britain, France and Italy for peace negotiations that unacceptably resulted in part from Mr. Roosevelt's intervention. By noon, Secretary of State Cordell Hull assured correspondents that the U. S. has no "parallel action" agreement. By nightfall, even arch-New Deal hater Sen. Rush D. Holt admitted the President's course had been wise.

Unnoticed, shoved into the background by Europe's crisis, was the U. S. political picture which nonetheless may change definitely as an upshot of the President's action. Recalled was last summer's Fortune poll which showed the New Deal's two most favored features were rearmament and foreign policy.

Whatever might result from Munich's peace parley, the Czech squabble proved (1) that Germany's expansion efforts will continue to threaten Europe, and (2) that the U. S. cannot escape some measure of participation in world affairs. Will the administration's success thus far bring national approval for continuation of New Deal foreign policy? A safe bet was that political speeches leading to November's election will stress foreign relations, possibly urge important revision of the neutrality act, under which the President may now invoke "cash and carry" provisions anytime a state of war exists abroad.

It Must Be Admitted Waiter Was Not Tactful

The customer was raging and fuming as the manager came up. "What is the matter, sir?" asked the manager. "Discharge that waiter at once!" demanded the diner. Regarding the boiled egg which had been served, the manager said:

"I'm very sorry about this egg, sir, but I can't discharge the waiter for that. After all, he wasn't to know that there was a chicken in it."

"Perhaps not," snapped the customer. "But when I told him there was, he needn't have taken away my spoon and brought me a knife and fork."

Norse Seamen

Hardy, indeed, are Norway's seamen. Though Norway ranks but forty-seventh in population among the major nations, her merchant marine is fourth largest in the world. Since the days of the Vikings, Norwegian seamen have specialized in long ocean trips. Even today they carry most of the cargoes from America's Gulf states to Europe.

In the days of sailing ships, too, Norwegian skippers began taking their families to sea because ocean voyages took many months. The sailors' superstition that women are bad luck to a ship never bothered them.

'Hill-Climbing' Boats

A unique steamship service operates between the East Prussian towns of Elbing and Deutsch Eylau, a distance of 40 miles. Part of the trip is made on a canal and part on a railroad, whose specially designed trucks pick up the little vessels and quickly carry them over four long hills. These "hill-climbing boats" have rendered unnecessary the construction of 20 locks.—Collier's Weekly.

Most anyone will agree that it is wise to use only the very best motor oil in an expensive car. Buy it does not follow that cheap oil should be used in lower priced cars. The experience of millions of owners of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth cars proves that Acid-Free Quaker State Motor Oils makes their cars run better, last longer.—Adv.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

FEEL GOOD

Here is Amazing Relief for Conditions Due to Sluggish Bowels. If you think all laxatives are alike, just try this all vegetable laxative, No. 12, known as Nature's Remedy. It is refreshing, invigorating. Dependable relief from sick headache, constipation, tired feeling when associated with constipation. Without Risk. Get a 25c box of NR from your drug store. Make the test — does it not delight, return the box to us. We will refund the purchase price. That's fair. Get NR Tablets today. N. R. TO-NIGHT. ALWAYS CARRY. QUICK RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

features, and is considered one of the biggest and best companies that Mr.
Sadler has ever carried.

In addition to the regular line of vaudeville, orchestra, and special plays, the company has contracted for Lew Childre, famous and nationally known radio, stage, and recording star, with his River Revelers, famous radio band, which includes Wiley Walker and his fiddle. Among other vaudeville features are: Mary Layne, acrobatic dancer; The Glendale Quartet; Munde and June, jugglers; Jean Oxford, singer and dancer; Ray Conlin, Jr., ventriloquist; Jackie Phillips, singer and dancer; Bob Silver, vocal soloist. The Musical Troubadors offer an entertaining presentation.

Special scenery is carried for each play. Prices have been reduced, ten cents for the kiddies, twenty-five cents for adults. Numbered chairs fifteen cents extra. The show will be here for 2 nights only. Doors open at 7:15 and curtain will rise at 8:15.
The opening play will be The Woman Hater and a new version of "Trail of Lonesome Pine" will be featured. The company is playing under the auspices of the Fire Department.

As the first rays of the sun appeared Sunday morning, October 2,
Miss Geraldine Brannon and Mr. Ralph
C. Dickson, repeated their marriage vows in an impressive single ring ceremony in the Presbyterian Church at Alpine. The Rev. J. T. Morrow, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was fashionably attired in a hunters green costume suit, with lynx trim on the short fitted jacket,
and contrasting accessories of Havana brown. Her corsage was of talisman roses. She was attended by Miss Sammie Lee Warnock as maid of honor. Miss Warnock wore a dress of teal blue with the trim and accessories of plum. Her corsage was acted as best man to the groom. Strains of appropriate music played on the organ accompanied the impressive
reading of the ceremony.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dickson of Slaton, and has made his home in Fort Stockton for a year. On his arrival there he was connected with the Lincecum

H. H. Barnes Aligns With Optimistic Industrial Leaders Expressing Confidence
In Future

"I am of the opinion that nothing serves as better protection against eras of economic stagnation and depression as a community united in 'optimism'. To quote a famous Florida publisher: 'There is nothing much the matter with the country
now that advertising can't cure, particularly if the advertising is directed toward reviving an optimistic spirit among the people of the nation. It has been proven that depressions are ninety per cent psychological. It has also been proven that the psychology works both ways.' If optimistic propaganda replaces rumors of disaster, it naturally follows that our people will follow their normal pursuits; purchasing their needs, buying their homes with a view of permanency and beautifying those home-sites, buying automobiles in order to keep abreast of the rapid strides in business expansion, seeking an ever better living standard and in a general way, spending diligently, as they look ahead with confidence to livelihood in a community in which BUSI-NESS HAS NEVER FAILED TO RE-SPOND TO THE AGGRESSIVE FIRM OR INDIVIDUAL, they will, by these practices, destroy all possibility of future depressions."

Interviewing Mr. H. H. Barnes,
owner-manager of the West Texas
Tree Surgery with offices in Lubbock, Texas, The Slatonite reporter found this alert business man's views coincide identically with the intents and purposes of The Slatonite's recently inaugurated campaign of REVIEW-ING INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

Lubbock Contractor Sees Glowing Opportunities For Slaton in Rapidly Increasing Population of Lubbock

"Property values in Lubbock continue to reach newer high levels daily
as the constant flow of new population provides one of the most reliable indices to the financial security of Lubbock and the great South Plains commonwealth," said Mr. C. E. Killingsworth, Lubbock contractor and builder of fine homes. "And definite proof of Slaton's fortunate position lies in the recently announced fact that 3,500 or more new names will appear in Lubbock's new city directory for 1939. It is quite reasonable to suppose that hundreds of these newcomers will find it quite a bit more preferable to take advantage of the lower cost of residential properties offered by Slaton, commuting back and forth to their work in Lubbock."

A fact has been discovered by this individual, your reporter learned upon interviewing Mr. Killingsworth whose offices are located at the Caprock Lumber company's headquarters at 19th street and Avenue Q in Lubbock.

The Slatonite is in agreement with Mr. Killingsworth's encouraging suggestion which is already being realized by Slaton on a minor scale. We wish to pay tribute to this builder who has gained a position of leadership in the building of fine homes throughout the area. Every Killingsworth completed project embraces all of the conveniences, architectural beauty, sanitation and attractiveness of the twentieth-century.

It is also interesting to note that Mr. Killingsworth is never failing in his ability to assist property owners in the solution of their building or improvement problems at all times.

The West Texas Tree Surgery is rapidly expanding its services to a wide area of South and West Texas, with a clientele including several municipalities, school districts and community projects in caring for their needs in playgrounds, parks, street improvement and highway planting.

Recognized as an outstanding authority in treating, feeding, spraying and pruning trees, Mr. Barnes has figured in every major nursery and shade tree project in the vicinity during the past several years. Their Lubbock headquarters are completely stocked with shrubs and plants of every type, and they are prepared to transplant trees of almost any size with special equipment designed especially for the careful handling of the most delicate, or difficult tree to handle.

Mr. Barnes paid tribute to Slaton with the suggestion that: "Slaton is fortunately situated in a position to gain much of the overflow from Lubbock and should take every advantage of this situation, overlooking no opportunity to encourage Lubbock business people to avail themselves of the cheaper rents and roomier living conditions of Slaton, commuting an easy 25 minute drive each way daily, and saving the difference in cheaper residential building sites and rents."

Charles P. Hill, Slaton resident, is associated in the business with Mr.
Barnes. It will be recalled that Mr.
Hill recently purchased 705 S. 7th residence property. Mr. Hill is a most ardent supporter of Slaton as a future suburb of Lubbock and Govt.
Forrester.

Through his untiring efforts, many persons have been aided in securing quick FHA loans for the construction of their homes.

When questioned relative to his extreme interest in this phase of assistance to the prospective home-owner,
Mr. Killingsworth said: "I take pleasure in the knowledge that every such loan I secure, means another added
permanent resident for the South Plains. Home ownership is the basis upon which all public relationship is founded. It is the background upon which all public relationship is founded. It is the background upon which all social, economic and business confidence is best established. THE REAL CITIZEN is the home owner."

You are invited to discuss your building problems with Mr. Killings-worth at any time with the assurance of complete cooperation in working out your problems of financing, designing and the selection of materials.
This service has emphasized itself in the numerous home owners who point with pride to the charm of their newly established homes afforded by his consultation before building.

Mr. Killingsworth is consistently identified with every movement designed to benefit the progress of the great South Plains commonwealth.
His influence has been a material aid to the present industrial activities being enjoyed by Lubbock and vicinity.

We are pleased to convey Mr. Kill-ingsworth's cooperative suggestion to his many friends among our readers
and we take this opportunity to ex-

Prominent Lubbock Industrial Leader Sees Era of Prosperity in Rising Property Values Throughout South Plains

"It has been rightly said that all prosperity rests upon the land. The value of real estate is a reliable index
to the financial health of a community. During the past few years, universal deflation has hit hard at the property owner, but a return to normal values has already been accomplished in this section, and prices continue to soar upwards to newer high levels. There is, perhaps no better investment offered the public than 'basis of all wealth' as indicated by the Government's established policy of lending generously for that purpose. Leaders of business and industry throughout the South Plains state, that with proper placement of money, and vision, there are no 'wrong
bys' in brick and tile residences, business structures or other buildings of permanent construction at this time."

This excellent message of confidence in the economic position of the great South Plains area was extended to The Slatonite during an interview with Mr. Fred B. Caylor, well known dealer in Ornamental Tile, Brick, Asphalt and other building materials,
whose offices are located 1014 Texas,
in Lubbock.

Many new innovations have taken place in the building industry and the new beauty which the new types of brick lend to the modern form of architecture, both in home and commercial construction demands new shapes, new finish, and new designs,
bringing into play all of the ingenuity at the command of the manufacturer in keeping abreast of the rapidly changing trends of architectural building.

In his exhaustive study of the builders problems, Mr. Caylor carefully scrutinizes the various manufacturers offerings to ascertain the types of material best suited to the peculiar climatic conditions of our sections, giving acceptance to only sub articles and materials as have stood the test of time. Their show-rooms are completely stocked with an extensive line
of Ornamental tile, bathroom tile,
marble and tile mantels, drainboard
materials, metal apartment and office building mail boxes, individual mail boxes, the modern Murphy "Roll-Away" bed, and many interior builders' needs, including composition and asphalt-tile flooring materials.

Mr. Caylor has personally aided hundreds through his advice and counsel, to obtain just the proper color combinations and harmonious combinations of materials desired. This service has emphasized itself in the numerous satisfied patrons of this firm who point with pride to the charm and warm beauty of their residences and commercial buildings afforded by such consultation. They have aided materially in enhancing the properties of their clients who consult them before
building.

The officials of the Fred B. Caylor company will gladly confer with you on any of your building problems and make suggestions relative to the types of materials best suited to your particular requirements. They will also offer advice relative to builders and construction men best qualified to care for your needs in this section.

We are pleased to convey Mr. Caylor's cheerful message to his many friends among our readers and we take this opportunity to commend his firm for their admirable service policies which are reflected through their admirable service policies which are reflected through their widespread popularity.

BOARD of CITY DEVELOPMENT and CHAMBER of COMMERCE NEWS

RAYMOND LEE JOHNS, MANAGER

Your Chamber of Commerce board of directors has been most considerate of its Slaton public this week in that it has arranged for that nuisance, the manager, to be out of town for a day or two to attend the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers' Day at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. The meeting is scheduled for tomorrow, Saturday, so your local representatives must leave the old home town this morning since he must stop on business in Post and Snyder for a few minutes and also put up some signs advertising Slaton along the way.

The important thing about the meeting in Dallas is a session of the board of directors of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers at which all chambers of commerce managers in Texas who are members of the organization are invited to be present. This is just to tell you that when you make a trip down Dallas way look out for signposts of Slaton, our up-and-coming, big little city of the South Plains.

A Better Housing Program for Slaton, which has been mentioned heretofore in this column, has taken on a new angle with the chamber of commerce placing its aim: to sponsor an advertising campaign on the project. Plans are to encourage not only building of many new homes and rent houses but also the remodeling of old homes. It was explained that even those who still owe on their present homes, but who have a steady financial return from their occupations, might borrow money from the government for building and remodeling purposes. Those who are unable to pay back in monthly sums money which might be borrowed from the government for housing projects are being definitely discouraged from speculating on a housing proposition. Anyone interested in obtaining a loan for building or remodeling is urged to call at the chamber of commerce office in the city hall for definite information.

Students and teachers of the Slaton schools are due a lot of credit for the clean-up work they have been doing the past few days on campuses and inside buildings. Anyone who hasn't been to the schools to view the improvements is missing a fine chance to see what the schools are doing this year to help better Slaton in general. Out at either of the plants you will find an unusually encouraging teacher-pupil attitude that is helping to no small end in improving our town. Let's boost our schools and cooperate with them in their movements to cooperate with us in building a more prosperous Slaton.

Slaton's band has "done it again". This time they have been awarded an attractive trophy by the Tahoka Rotary club as first prize in a marching contest in connection with dedication last Thursday evening of a new lighted athletic field on the Tahoka High school campus. Our band is the best high school band the author of this column has observed this year on the South Plains for its size. Their organization is complete and their marching habits most regular.

Let's boost our town and every worth-while enterprise which helps it advance civically, industrially, or commercially, that we may later be able to feel confidently that what we have done has helped to build a progressive city and that our efforts have been appreciated by the community. Our boys lost the game to White Deer, but that is past history and the defeat was taken with a wholesome spirit. Let's go to the game tonight if it is possible and stay with them, for without our support they would be fighting for a lost cause.

Ginnings to the middle of this week have shown almost 1,000 increase over last week's 1,196, with a total of 2,164.

Third Yr. Homemakers Class Entertains

Mrs. Dayton Eckert's third year homemaking class this week played hostess with a tag party given in the home economics department classrooms. This is the first of a series of entertainments to be given various groups later in the school year, one to some local civic organization, one to parents of students in the class and another to the high school teachers.

Plans for group entertainments have grown from special attention given to recreation during special study of family and community relationships.

Besides Mrs. Eckert, sponsor of the group, members of the class present were Genevieve Verble, Mariam Meading, Nedra Patterson, Maxalene Cooper, Mary Ellen Brown, Eleanor Altman, Mary Frances Cloninger, Romayne Dozier, Ruth Repman, Helen Miller, Mildred Wicker, Betty McCall, Marita Shelby, and LaFerne Turnbow, Betty Cramer, Lucille Shelton, La Verne DeBusk and Wordna Jean Clack, who acted as hostesses for the group.

Their escorts were Roy Yuzbick, Jack Brown, James Eubanks, George Haltom, James Smith, Asbon Reese, Marscie Donahue, Lewis Donahue, Lundy Shelton, Oscar Lee Clark, Truman Shelton, J. C. Turker, Jack Porterfield, F. A. Smith, Kent Jones, and Orie Woods.

Special guests were Mr. Dayton Eckert and Roy Boyd, high school principal.

Future Farmers Grow Purebred Live Stock

Six members of the local chapter of Future Farmers of America own registered animals. Two of these animals are registered Jersey heifers and four are registered hogs. All except one gilt was donated by local business men; the other gilt was donated by Sears and Roebuck.

The local Cotton Seed Oilmill and the Plains Grain and Heads Handling Co. donated the Jersey heifer.

S. S. Forrest, A. E. Whitehead, Dr. R. G. Loveless, W. R. Wilson, Plains Lumber Co., Higginbotham-Bartlett Co., K. L. Scudder and Webber Williams contributed to buying registered

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses Significance of Fruits and Vegetables; Tells the Truth About Canned Foods

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A GENERATION ago, except in mid-summer, fruits were a luxury that only appeared, with nuts, at the end of a festive meal, and vegetables, except for the root crops, had no regular place in the daily diet. But when scientists established the importance of mineral salts in human nutrition, these two groups of foods assumed a position of commanding importance, because next to milk and eggs, they are the chief conveyors of minerals from the soil to man.

With the discovery of vitamins they achieved new distinction, because in their content of these vital substances, they rank with milk and eggs as "protective" foods.

Foods That Safeguard Health

In addition to providing nutrients that are indispensable for buoyant health and normal growth, they possess another important virtue: the indigestible cellulose or bulk yielded by the fibrous framework of the leaves, stems and fruits of plants, has a natural laxative value which helps to insure normal elimination. And finally, they are extremely useful in helping to maintain the acid-base balance of the body, for all vegetables and most fruits yield an alkaline-ash following digestion.

Green Vegetables for Iron

Fruits and vegetables supply varying amounts of practically every mineral element the body requires.

They do not compare with milk as a source of calcium, but substantial amounts of this bone-and-tooth-building substance are to be found in leaf and stem vegetables, carrots, oranges, figs and strawberries. Moreover, investigations have demonstrated that calcium from vegetables is well utilized by adults.

Green vegetables, in general, are outstanding as a source of iron. And it has been further established that their iron is better absorbed and becomes more completely available for nutrition than iron from some other sources. Some fruits are also valued for their iron content, the more notable including oranges; tomatoes, which are botanically a fruit, though they are classed as a vegetable; strawberries, blackberries, raspberries and huckleberries; and dried figs, dates and prunes.

Vegetables for Vitamin A

We usually think of milk and other dairy products as our most important sources of vitamin A. But recently, it has been determined that the thin green leaves of vegetables are also outstanding in this respect. Weight for weight, when fresh, escarole is more than five times as rich as butter. Young green peas and green string beans are also a good source of this vitamin as are tomatoes, carrots, and sweet potatoes.

Sources of Vitamin C

Vitamin C, which is essential for maintaining the health of teeth and gums and for preventing the degeneration of muscle fibers generally, is obtained almost entirely from fruits and vegetables. The principal sources of this vitamin are the citrus fruits; raw and canned tomatoes and canned tomato juice; strawberries; raw carrots, onions and yellow turnips.

As this vitamin is easily destroyed by heat in the presence of oxygen, the amount present in any fruit or vegetable is greatly reduced by the average home cooking methods. On the other hand, this and other vitamins, as well as minerals, are usually well retained in commercially canned fruits and vegetables.

What About Canned Foods?

I frequently receive letters from readers who question the merits of canned foods. They ask whether it is true that canned foods are devoid of vitamins; whether canned foods are wholesome for children; whether or not canned foods may spoil on the grocer's shelves; and if it is dangerous to eat foods that have stood in the can for a few minutes after being opened.

To discount the value of modern canned foods is to display a lack of knowledge as to how these foods are harvested, prepared and packed. And the failure to use them may result in depriving your family of essential minerals and vitamins.

There are available in cans today, 46 varieties of vegetables, 33 kinds of fruit, and 10 different juices, besides soups, numerous specialties and several kinds of fish. Every one of these presents a healthful and nutritious food in a form that is often superior to the same foods cooked at home. That is partly because of the methods employed and partly because canned foods are processed at the peak of their flavor and freshness.

A Superlative Canned Food

An outstanding example is canned salmon which has been called by one of America's leading food experts, "the cheapest and most nutritious animal food that can be had for children over six."

Very little fresh salmon finds its way into our markets and even then it may be far from "fresh" after a considerable journey packed in ice. On the other hand, salmon canneries have been established in close proximity to the waters from which salmon are taken, so that only a few hours elapse between the time the fish are removed from the water and the moment their rich nourishment is sealed in cans.

Similarly the fruits and vegetables designed for canning are allowed to mature on tree or vine. This means that they develop maximum flavor and vitamin content. Then they are picked, rushed to nearby canneries and hermetically sealed in cans. The sealed cans are then cooked at high heat so as to destroy any bacteria which might be present. Because they are protected from the air during the cooking process, and because the cooking liquors are sealed in the cans, they retain a maximum amount of minerals and vitamins. It is because canned foods are so definitely superior in this respect that physicians encouraged the canning of strained fruits and vegetables for infants and young children.

Fallacies Disproved

Canned foods will keep indefinitely without spoilage, as long as nothing occurs to make the can leak. It is not necessary to remove canned food from the container as soon as the tin is opened, though many homemakers often do so because the food presents a more attractive appearance in a dish or bowl. A hissing sound when opening does not mean that the contents of a can are spoiled, but rather that there was a vacuum in the can, which the air is rushing in to fill.

Thus canned fruits and vegetables are not only "as good as" fresh ones, but are often superior in food values. Every homemaker should see to it that she uses both liberally in the diet of every member of her family, as a means of providing liberal amounts of minerals and vitamins.

Mrs. A. B. M.—There is not the slightest reason why a normal person should not drink coffee after middle age unless the beverage has been expressly forbidden by a doctor. On the contrary, many people find both coffee and tea extremely comforting in their later years.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

See to Your Lighting.—The type of lighting used can change the entire effect of a room at night.

Sift the Flour.—Flour is one of the easiest ingredients in baking to mismeasure. For best results always sift flour and measure by spoonfuls into a cup, being careful not to shake the filled cup.

Faulty Heels.—Wear a comfortable shoe in the house. Rounding heels, or heels that are too high, cause fatigue and harm the feet.

A Few Extra Winks.—If you are loath to get up in the mornings, you would be wise to prepare for breakfast just as many things as possible the night before.

Breaking in New Shoes.—Sprinkle talcum powder into the new shoes. They will seem more comfortable when worn for the first time.

A Slim Waist for Glamour

HERE are two charming new designs that give you the tiny, Victorian waistline—almost an hour-glass effect—that's so fashionable right now. Both accentuate it, too, with perked-up sleeves and full skirts. Both give you a most feminine and appealing look! And it's so easy to make these carefully simplified designs. Each includes a detailed sew chart that carefully explains every step of the way.

Ancient Non-Skid Tires

Non-skid tires date back to chariots of 2800 B. C., and are really not a new idea at all. Non-skid wheels were invented for chariots ages ago, and a model of one of these was excavated by the Iraq expedition recently. The wheel was made rough by studs of copper to keep the chariots from skidding on fast turns in racing and in war.

Books Donated To Library

Daughters of the Pioneers Study Club this week gave the high school library a 10-volume set of the complete works of Washington Irving. Mrs. Vern Johnson, president, and Miss Myrtle Teague, treasurer, presented the books to Joe E. Webb, superintendent.

A health program will be waged by the club soon, beginning with purchase of scales for the Junior high school and the weighing of children at intervals in order that health charts may be kept. Underclothed and underfed children will from time to time receive aid from the club.

Officers besides Mrs. Johnson and Miss Teague are Mary Watkins, vice-president; Jean Drewry, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Hanna, auditor; Miss Lea Beth Drewry, corresponding secretary; Miss Evelyn Mansker, parliamentarian; and Mrs. H. G. Sanders, Jr., reporter.

With the aid of other groups in town the club also plans to donate new window curtains to the city club house.

LEGION AUXILIARY MET

The American Legion Auxiliary No. 438 met in regular business meeting October 10th with their new president, Mrs. A. Dennis, presiding.

A good meeting was had. The next meeting will be October 24th.

THANKS FOR BOOKS

The librarians and students of the high school wish to thank the people for their many donations of books and magazines. We appreciate the interest of the people in trying to help improve the library of Slaton High School.

Health-Wrecking Functional PAINS

Severe functional pains of menstruation, cramping spells and jangled nerves soon rob a woman of her natural, youthful freshness. PAIN lines in a woman's face too often grow into AGE lines!
Thousands of women have found it helpful to take Cardul. They say it seemed to ease their pains, and they noticed an increase in their appetites and finally a strengthened resistance to the discomfort of monthly periods.
Try Cardul. Of course if it doesn't help you, see your doctor.

The Editor, J. M. Rankin, with Nolan Wample, of Ropesville, and Roy Bullock, of Robertson, are in Colorado this week hunting deer, elk and bear. (Judging from a letter received, they should have taken fishing tackle).

"Leto's" for the Gums

Gums that itch or burn can become mighty trying. Druggists will return your money if the first bottle of "LETO'S" fails to satisfy.
