PRICE FIXING

Princes and Kings in Europe have been nicknamed by history according to their outstanding characteristics, such as "Ivan the Terrible," "Ethelred the Unready," and one or two have been called, "The Mad." Texas Legislatures are sometimes nicknamed after the same fashion. Some observers propose to call the present legislature the "Price-fixing Legislature." The kind of price-fixing done by the Texas legislature is not the fixing of prices so the original consumer can get a fair price for his products, nor the fixing of prices so the six million people of the state can enjoy economical buying, but the price-fixing is such as to guarantee a few dozen out-of-state manufacturers a price that will in our opinion raise the cost of living to every consumer in the state. Senator Weaver Moore of Houston broke out in the Senate with this description of the bill: "This measure was conceived in the diseased brain of Coster-Musica; it reeks with corruption at every pore." "This is a sales tax, not to pay the pensions or run the government, but to go into the pockets of a gang of outlaws like Coster-Musica, who conceived the idea."

SHOULD PROTEST

Because of high tariffs the southwestern cattle raiser must pay high prices for the material he must buy to produce the beef he markets. He must pay high wages to the men he employs. He must pay high freight rates to get his material shipped in and to get his beef shipped out. He must pay high taxes to support the government. Let the United States Navy, a branch of the government, buy canned corned beef from Argentina because it is cheaper. The workmen in Texas canneries are organized into unions that would strike in twenty minutes if the wages they now draw were cut to four times what the Argentine cannery workers draw. The United States government would immediately get behind the workers—as it should—and make the canners raise the wages back to decency. Let the government buy Argentine beef because it is cheaper while helping make Texas beef cost more. Cowpunchers, cattle raisers, cannery workers, packers, and even cotton raisers who get a part of their income from cottonseed products, should make such a protest that the responsible officers of the government will realize they have some responsibility toward American producers besides to take money away from them in the form of taxes.

HURRAY FOR TAX REMISSION

A few weeks ago in Austin in conversation with Senator Nelson, Houston's and Galveston's demand for remission of their counties' ad-valorem taxes was mentioned. "Raus mit 'em," was our idea. "No," said Nelson, "We'll just remit them, and then remit all the ad-valorem taxes in the state back to the counties; and how do you like those apples?" We thought it was just conversation then, but the bill has passed the Senate, and appears likely to pass the House. What the Governor will do about it may be something else. The Bill would take out of a half millions from the state's general fund, which is now twice that much in the hole. But Galveston and Houston have been relieved for years of the ad valorem contributions to the expenses of the state government. They have used the money to make their cities richer and bigger and more able to enjoy the state government the rest of Texas pays for. Politics has made it impossible for the legislature to get out of re-

Laura Jane Lovett Buried Here May 12

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lovett Is Victim Of Uraemia

Last rites were read for Laura Jane Lovett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lovett, Friday afternoon, May 12, at 2 o'clock in the Methodist church. Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum, jr., pastor, conducted the funeral, being assisted by Rev. C. W. Foote and Rev. I. A. Smith, both former pastors of the church. Interment followed in Englewood cemetery with Williams Funeral Home in charge.

Pallbearers were: Messrs. R. L. Harris, D. B. Dean, C. E. Porter, Sam Phillips.

Honorary pallbearers were the First Grade pupils of West Ward, of which class Laura Jane was a member; Mrs. Forney Henry's Sunday school class, of which she was a member; also, and intimate friends and play mates.

Survivors other than the parents include a brother, Cecil, of Evins, Texas; and two sisters, Mrs. Edmona Lovett Dabney, and Mrs. Willena Lovett Lilley, both of Houston, Texas, all of whom attended the funeral services.

Other relatives and friends who were present at the services were: Mrs. Cecil R. Lovett and daughter, Barbara Ann, Bevins, Texas; Mr. Dabney and daughter, Nancy Virginia, of Houston; Mrs. George F. Porter, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. C. H. Porter, Philadelphia, Penn.; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Dexter, Marceline, Mo.; Mr. Sid Harmon, Amarillo, Texas; and Mr. R. G. Kirkpatrick, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Death came unexpectedly to Laura Jane, Tuesday morning May 9 at 5:45 o'clock in the Lubbock Sanitarium, where she had been entered a scant hour earlier after an acute attack of uraemia.

She was born here April 24, 1932, and was baptized Christmas day of that year by Rev. C. E. Fike, then pastor of the Methodist church, in connection with a Christmas Pageant given at that time. On October 2nd 1938 Laura Jane united with the church.

This vivacious, promising child was popular in the classroom and the church, as well as in the neighborhood in which she lived. For about two years she had played the violin enthusiastically and only a few days before her demise had the role of a cowgirl in the play, "The Frog Prince," presented at the high school auditorium by the pupils of West Ward.

Cotton Oil Mill Enlarges Offices

Joining the general movement in Slaton for improvement and enlargement the West Texas Cotton-oil Mill is enlarging its office space. The new building will be 30x44 feet and will have a lobby, a main office, for the manager, superintendent, cashier, and a store room vault. Showers and a lavatory will complete the space allotment. Oak floors will be laid and the entire building will be newly papered, painted outside and re-roofed.

The office staff consists of Roy Mack, manager; B. H. Page, superintendent; J. B. Stevens, cashier;

WTCC PRESIDENT

E. K. FAWCETT

E. K. Fawcett of Del Rio, new president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is a typical pioneer West Texan.

For many years he has been one of the largest sheep ranch operators in Texas.

Mr. Fawcett has represented Del Rio and Val Verde county on the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for more than a decade. He was elected second vice-president of the regional organization in 1937 and was named first vice-president in 1938. He was elevated to the presidency at this year's WTCC convention which closed in Abilene Wednesday, May 17.

Local Methodists Happy at Union

According to Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum, Jr., Slaton Methodists are most happy over the recent union effected by the three branches in America that brought into one great body eight million Methodists.

"What some people thought was to be a serious bloc of opposition to the union," said Quattlebaum, "dwindled to nothing at the meeting that culminated in one of the most significant religious movements of nearly a century were at last ignored and the three groups of like faith, Methodists, South, North and Episcopal, are reunited in joyous recognition of that likeness of faith and in recognition of the greater service they can render to the world in the new union."

There will be no notable changes in the Southern administration, but one thing the general public will notice perhaps is that the function formerly filled by Presiding Elders will be continued by the same persons and organization, but the ministers in the positions will be called District Superintendents.

New Grocery Opens On Ninth Street

The Palace Grocery and Market was opened last Friday in the building formerly used as storage by Byars Grocery and Market. The fixtures of the store are new, and done in black and white. The market fixtures are of the best, and a counter for display and preservation of fresh vegetables is one of Carl Merriweather, bookkeeper.

All stocks of seed on hand have been milled and the general operation of the plant has been suspended until new stock of seed are available.

Commencement Tuesday Eve Many Honored At Closing Exercises

Before a crowded house at the High School Auditorium Tuesday evening, the traditional ceremonial was enacted during which forty-three graduates of the Slaton High School were awarded diplomas significant of their graduation from the courses offered by the local system.

Dr. D. D. Jackson of Texas Technological College delivered the commencement address in which he urged the members of the class to continue in growth with the idea that to have friends one must be a friend; to get in the world, one must give; to be served, one must serve.

Honor students of the class were Mildred Schum valedictorian, who made an average of above 97 per cent, and Marion Ferguson salutatorian, whose average was better than 94 per cent. Other students receiving scholarships for scholastic excellence were Harold Tucker, Miriam Meading and Jack Brown.

For being neither tardy nor absent during the school year, certificates were awarded to Phyllis Reynolds, Mary Ann Schmidt, Bonnie Mercer, Billy Lokey, Teddy Swanner, Charles Suit, Ollie Ray Tucker, Everett Jones, Kirby Scudger, Raymond Yuzbick, Lebia Turner, Virginia Bowman, Price Ragsdale.

Special awards for excellence in music were presented to Rebecca Tudor and Marian Bechtel.

Mrs. R. L. Smith gave awards in dramatics to Jimmie Jean Guinn, Mary Frances Landreth, Blanche Auelle Gregory, Billy Lokey, Wilda Ruth Hanna, Corinne Cates, Lavern DeBusk and Viola Martin, and in speech to F. L. Wells.

Cash awards were made by Mr. Nash, instructor in the Department of Business Administration to June Scott for first year typing, $2.50; to Marion Bechtel and Marian Ferguson, tied for honors in second-year typing, $1.25 each; to Viola Mae Hughes, for third-year typing, $2.50.

Commander Arthur Dennis of the American Legion presented medals to June Scott and Richard Ragsdale, jr., for winning the competition in essays on Americanization.

City Drug Has Formal Opening

The City Drug Store, formerly Whalen Drug, announces this week its formal opening. The new owners have remodeled the building and enlarged the space for the display of merchandise. The prescription counter has been set farther back and remodeled, the whole building has been redecorated, and an air of spaciousness and cleanliness impresses those who go into the store.

Messrs. Pool and Lane, proprietors, announce they have set up and will maintain for Slaton a first class drug store whose paramount aim is to render the kind of service the people in Slaton and vicinity should have and will appreciate.

Mr. C. M. Lane, manager, is a registered pharmacist, and Norman Galloway who has been long in the store will be the other registered pharmacist to share the responsibility for this important department of the business. Bobby Turner will continue as head fountain-keeper.

The formal announcement of opening is carried in the advertising columns of the Slatonite this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Young, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Young were Big Spring visitors last week. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Young have moved to Mrs. Roberts' Ranch at Big Spring, where Mr. Young is manager.

Without any agitation except the recognition of the need for the project, Commissioner Ben Mansker has put the work through, paying for the material out of the road and bridge funds of this precinct. . . . Without any ceremony but the removal of the barriers when the work was finished, the road was opened to a community that is grateful though perhaps not obtrusively so. However, hun-

NATIONAL COTTON WEEK ENTERS WITH SHOWERS

Planting Delayed By Timely Rains

Widespread rains over the state greeted National Cotton Week. And here in the richest part of the South Plains cotton area rains put a temporary stop to the planting of the little fuzzy seeds which in growing and multiplying make this area so important a part of the most important cotton state in the Nation.

Planting in Lubbock, Garza, Lynn and Crosby had not been rushed, for these farmers are conservative and have learned that too early planting often must be followed by repeated planting because of washing rains which cover the seed too deeply or pack the ground so the tender plants cannot break out. But everybody who could was strewing the seed Monday morning when showers interrupted in some parts of the area.

In Slaton the Monday morning rain was gauged at .25 of an inch; Monday afternoon at .32; and Tuesday night .52 of an inch definitely put a temporary stop to any field work. Hail accompanied the rain in places, but no serious damage was reported from it. Scattered feed crops are up over the territory, but most of the land is yet to be planted.

Englewood Road Paving Complete Perfect Road Now To Burial Park

At last is done a bit of paving that has been sorely needed as long as any piece of work in the vicinity. The road leading to Englewood Cemetery is paved from the highway to the west end of the road. Slightly more than 2,200 feet and twenty feet wide the new work corrects a condition that has been almost inconvenient and at times embarrassing.

Without any agitation except the recognition of the need for the project, Commissioner Ben Mansker has put the work through, paying for the material out of the road and bridge funds of this precinct. . . . Without any ceremony but the removal of the barriers when the work was finished, the road was opened to a community that is grateful though perhaps not obtrusively so. However, hun-

Soil Body Formed Monday Afternoon Fine and Florence Head Precinct Two

Moving to take advantage of Texas' new soil conservation and use law, Farmers of Commissioners Precinct No. Two met Monday afternoon and organized, electing C. Z. Fine chairman and W. P. Florence secretary of the local group which is part of the County Advisory Committee for this work. These officers, under the plan set up by recent statute, will serve until January, 1941. J. M. Rankin was appointed delegate to the District Convention which meets at Planview, Monday, May 22.

The new law divides the state into five districts of approximately fifty counties each. The Great Plains District comprises the Panhandle and South Plains counties. At the District meeting next week, the district organization will be completed and a delegate to the State Meeting will be selected.

As soon as the Texas State Soil Conservation Board has been set up and holds its first meeting at Temple, it will be possible for any group of fifty landowners in any district to petition the board to establish a soil conservation district which has power to administer such erosion-control practices and other preventive measures as it may determine.

The full measure of the scope of powers that may be assumed by this district organization is not apparent at present, but the chief advantage to be gained by such district organizations seems to lie in the fact that money and machinery as well as engineering services can be secured by the District organization for the conservation and improvement of lands lying in the district. Even it may purchase land for retirement from cultivation and require the retirement of land that is marginal or plainly unfit for cultivation.

The law is hailed by friends of agriculture in Texas as the most advantageous movement that has been launched within the century and farmers and landowners are studying the plan with eager interest.

Those who have been over the road under difficult conditions, will recognize the worth of it as they drive over it in the years to come.

Our Advertisers-

"Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" said the Puritan maiden long ago. And today the question is still pertinent. Why don't you speak for yourself, Mr. Merchant. The Slatonite goes into most of the homes in Slaton and the community surrounding. Weekly it speaks to five thousand people. It tells them what the neighbors are doing and what the world is doing.

But it would be presumptuous for the Slatonite to tear around telling the world that a certain merchant has a certain brand of merchandise for sale at a certain price, and that the people from all the region round about should patronize that merchant. That is, unless the Slatonite has authority to do so.

Advertising is news in big type. People are eager to read dependable advertising. They know that advertising is training in buying, that through it and because of it goods are cheaper and better than they have ever been in the world. And that through advertising and by advertising all the services that are for sale have been made better and more dependable.

Why don't you speak for yourself, Mr. Merchant, through the columns of the Slatonite? Your message will be read. It will be respected. If you believe enough in your merchandise and in the services you can render to the community, your advertising will bring you business. Businesses in our neighboring towns are making friends because they advertise their merchandise. Neighboring towns are drawing crowds to their streets and shops every day because they advertise. Have you, Mr. Merchant, sent out any invitations to be people of our community asking them to come in and patronize your business? If you haven't, don't cry if they don't come.

Ford Dealers Hold Used Car Sale

"Ford Dealers' Pre-Summer Used Car Sale," announced here Monday by Stokes Brothers, local Ford dealers, is a new sales idea which has been developed especially for the prospective used car owner in order that he may take full advantage of the fine motoring weather in the next few months.

Govan Stokes explained that the idea was inspired by the success of last year's National Used Car Exchange Week which brought about great savings to thousands. He said this new program is expected to prove attractive to the man who has been delaying his purchase hoping for better used car bargains. A large percentage of the cars offered during this special event will be backed by the R & G (Renewed and Guaranteed) guarantee which means the utmost in protection to the buyer. This is the same guarantee made by all Ford dealers.

At the local Ford dealership there will be offered many good used cars of recent design which will provide low-cost, safe transportation within the limits of most family incomes. It is explained that prices will be more attractive than ever before, at a season when demands for cars reach the highest peak.

Correction.

Last week's Slatonite failed to include in the Southland O. E. S. story the name of R. E. King as Worthy Patron, C. W. Dean as Associate Patron, Alice Neill was listed as Sentinel and should have been Otis Neill, Sentinel (Appointive).

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Tax Revision Brought to Fore By Administration Objection Over Huge Farm Appropriation

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS: Spend, Tax, Save

Excess spending was the complaint of U. S. Chamber of Commerce members at their annual convention. This has also been congress' complaint against President Roosevelt. A few days after the Chamber adjourned, Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins returned from a Potomac cruise with the President to radiate optimism, pooh-poo the Chamber's complaints and plump for another year's spending as "essential."

Almost as he spoke the senate passed a record agriculture appropriations bill which totaled $1,218,000,000 (compared with the President's budget estimate of $842,126,051). Restored were $225,000,000 in parity payments to growers of wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice, earlier shelved by the house. Added was a $113,000,000 item for disposal of surplus commodities, and an extra $25,000,000 to the original $24,984,000 estimate for a farm tenancy program.

If the senate thought Mr. Hopkins' spending plea meant a green light from the White House, it soon learned otherwise. At his press conference the President rebuked congress for breaking its promise to levy new taxes to meet out-of-pocket costs. Recalled was last session's $212,000,000 farm parity appropriation for which no revenues were provided. Chimed in Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau: "The bill . . . disturbs me greatly. I think that if they are going to add . . . to the present deficit, it should be up to congress to meet the increase . . . It's about time we began tapering off."

Probable upshot is that the farm appropriations squabble will force consideration this session of two issues treated superficially thus far, namely, economy and tax revision. Said Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell, floor leader for the farm bill: "I am strongly opposed to singling out the farm program as the only one which must be reduced, or for which we must levy new taxes . . . I am willing to economize, but not solely at the expense of the farmer."

Since the President opposes new levies on small taxpayers, tax revision (probably the price congress with Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck. Upshot was a lessening of Polish suspicion. Next day the Soviet proposed a four-power (Russia, France, Poland and Britain) mutual assistance pact to safeguard European peace. Reason: Hitler's denunciation of pacts with Poland and Britain have made a new "peace front" imperative.

Vatican. Pope Pius XII, himself a one-time ace diplomat, had his papal nuncios to Britain, Poland, France, Italy and Germany invite those nations to a conference over the Polish-German question. Though shunned because (1) anti-Axis nations feared it would mean a new Munich appeasement conference, and (2) anti-God Russia was not invited to participate in a discussion which vitally concerns her, the proposal nevertheless brought one possible ray of hope: Hitler and Mussolini rejected it because they believed the European situation not sufficiently serious to endanger peace. The Vatican thought this might mean Hitler does not intend to precipitate trouble right now.

Scandinavia. Foreign ministers of Denmark, Norway, Finland and Sweden apparently rejected proffered non-aggression treaties with Germany. Such pacts are still possible, but by their reluctance Scandinavian states remain a bulwark of neutrality which obviously wants no truck with Der Fuehrer.

Japan. Often reiterated the past month has been Japan's reluctance to turn its anti-Communist pact with Germany and Italy into a military alliance. Reason: Japan wants no war with democracies, which would inevitably result if a new Russ-British-French-Polish entente were to fight Hitler.

PEOPLE: Charlie Again

One summer day in 1874 curly-headed, four-year-old Charles Ross and his brother were taken for a ride by two men who promised them Fourth of July fireworks. Charlie's brother was found a few days later but Charlie himself was never found despite 23 ransom letters demanding $20,000 for his release. The best clue was lost when two burglars were shot five months later on Long Island. One, Joseph Douglas, gasped before he died that his dead partner had helped him steal Charlie Ross.

Since then hundreds of abandoned children have been identified as Charlie Ross, but this spring a new candidate arose in Gustav Blair, 65-year-old carpenter at Phoenix, Ariz. Blair claimed his traits and appearance resembled Charlie Ross. Lincoln C. Miller, whose family reared Blair, testified his (Miller's) father had told him Blair was a kidnapped child, that he had guarded the four-year-old child in a cave.

After deliberating eight minutes, a Superior court jury at Phoenix decided on the basis of this testimony that Charlie Ross had been "found." At 65, the horny handed carpenter looked to radio and film contracts.

FORECAST

—By Democratic Statistician Emil Hurja, that on basis of current standing Vice President Garner and New York's Tom Dewey will win Democratic and Republican presidential nominations next year, provided President Roosevelt seeks no third term. Meanwhile, a Gallup poll gave Dewey 54 per cent of all Republican votes.

—By Washington gossip, appointment of Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, as Philippine high commissioner to succeed Paul V. McNutt, Democratic presidential aspirant.

—Also by Washington gossip, mid-summer resignation of Richard C. Patterson, assistant secretary of commerce, to enter either utility field or motion picture industry.

Early Political Activity Presages Bitter 1940 Presidential Campaign

Widespread Movement Away From New Deal Philosophy of Government Worries Democratic Leaders; Popularity of President Yet to Be Evaluated.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There seems to be no doubt that the political mill for 1940 has begun to grind earlier than has happened in almost any modern time. Politicians and political forecasters, alike, agree that the activity, the advance agents of the 1940 campaign with its national conventions and presidential nominations and national elections, is evident now to a greater extent than has been recorded in almost any other quadrennial period.

It is to be recognized, of course, that there would be more intensive effort in advance of the 1940 elections than occurred prior to the 1936 national elections because, presumably at least, both great political parties will be sorting over the candidates.

ALFRED M. LANDON

Will not have as much voice in selection of the Republican candidate as Mr. Roosevelt will have in making the Democratic choice.

So, we approach the things that are to be considered and dealt with as campaign questions next year—seen from this distance.

Is New Deal On the Wane?

I believe it can safely be said as a fact recognized by most able political students that the 1938 elections, with the attendant increase in Republican strength in the house and senate, together with the evident trend of thinking throughout the country, that there is a widespread movement away from the New Deal philosophy of government. How far it has gone, or how far it may yet go; how much the personal popularity of President Roosevelt has waned, or how much it may yet fluctuate, and how vigorously Mr. Roosevelt is opposed within his own party are factors yet to be evaluated. But that evaluation has begun; hence, the activity within the Democratic ranks.

The fact that there is a trend away from the New Deal philosophy—not all of those policies, but a very great many of them—is the factor that is causing Democrats, New Dealers as well as anti-administrators, to scramble around. There is more "under cover" maneuvering for delegates to the Democratic national convention going on right now than I have witnessed thus far in advance during any of the last seven preliminary battles. The faction of the Democratic party that may be roughly delineated as headed by Vice President Garner, Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, and Senator Byrd of Virginia—the old liners—appears determined to rid the party of radical leadership. The group which has stood by President Roosevelt—New Dealers through thick and thin—is overlooking no opportunity to keep the Democratic label pinned upon their faction.

G. O. P. Has Tactical Advantage

Within the Republican ranks there are undoubtedly more of those waiting to see which way the cat will jump than there are among the Democrats. The Republicans, however, have one distinct advantage; they can attack anything and everything the New Deal administration has done. They do not need to defend anything, which is the handicap that burdens each faction of the Democrats to a greater or less extent.

Moreover, the Republicans are not burdened with the will of any one man to which they must give consideration. That is to say, neither former President Hoover nor Gov. Alf Landon, the nominees in 1932 and 1936, respectively, will or can have as much voice in selection of the next candidate as Mr. Roosevelt ordinarily would have in making the Democratic choice. This condition springs from the fact that, as President, Mr. Roosevelt retains titular leadership of his party. Messrs Hoover and Landon, having taken a licking in turn, need not be accepted by the rank and file of the party or by Republican wheelhorses as having any greater rights than others. And by the same token, the Roosevelt leadership complicates the Democratic picture. Since he has stated with great frequency and with an emphasis that cannot be denied that "there is no turning back," he can be regarded as determined to insist upon selection of a Democratic candidate—either himself or someone else—next year who will push the New Deal forward. And that position, boys and girls, is what the old line faction of the party seem determined now to overturn. As a matter of cold fact, it appears from all of the information available to me that Mr. Roosevelt's determination on this point is really the fundamental basis for the current campaign between the New Dealers and the old liners. Again, none can foretell how far it will go; but it can be said without equivocation that if that schism continues up to the 1940 nominating conventions, the 1924 convention fight between William Gibbs McAdoo and Al Smith will appear as a tea party. This bitterness can be just as deep seated as that.

Small G. O. P. Machines Demand Recognition

It should not be overlooked, however, that there is hair-pulling in prospect on the Republican side as well. It extends down to the grass roots because of individual thinking that has been taking place. This condition results through lack of a federal political machine. Dozens of small machines have been wagging their own tails for so long that they now are demanding recognition from the brass hats at the top.

Further, since there is a growing belief that the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 is "worth something"—that is, that the Republicans have a chance after eight years of political drouth—there is an extraordinary crop of favorite sons coming forward.

Concerning the prospective campaign, itself, there again is that uncertainty about Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity, about the prestige he has or will be able to lend to the mantle bearer of the Democratic party. There is likewise the question as to how much of the New Deal ought to be discarded and how much ought to be kept, and it is not an easy decision to make.

There is, for instance, no question in my mind but that voters everywhere are getting disgusted with too much government. I do not mean to infer that they are unanimous. But the evidence cumulates that the federal government is engaging in too many functions; that it is invading private rights too far; that its general scope is beyond what government was designed to be, and that more and more people are saying "there ought to be some laws repealed" rather than that "there ought to be a law."

Government Spending Causes Dissatisfaction

Another obvious sentiment shows a rather amazing dissatisfaction with continuation of government spending and the creation of added debt. With this, of course, is coupled the general fear of added taxes. It is quite widespread, this feeling that some gloomy years are ahead. While the money flowed as free as water, there was no lack of takers. A change appears to have taken place, however, and from all quarters one hears expressions, or questions, as to how high the taxes will have to be to pay off even a part of the debt.

A third thing that stands out wherever political leaders talk over the campaign problems is the matter of unemployment which, of course, includes the question of whether government would not be serving better if it omitted attempts to "reform" business. It sifts down to some of the basic New Deal policies and, say what you will, it is a red hot subject. It remains as a fact that there were 10 or 12 million unemployed when Mr. Roosevelt took office, and there are at least 10 million now. Voters are asking, therefore, whether and how long such a situation can continue without a collapse.

All of these questions, it is to be noted, strike very close to every voter in one way or another. It likewise comes within the range of thought that the man who is elected next year—man, because no woman is yet included in the list—will have a tough time satisfying even a majority of the people. Just as a rail fence guess, or maybe it is a hunch—anyway, I believe the next President will be good for only one term. He will not be popular after four years. As a further guess, I have an idea that the candidate who will be elected next year will be the man who paints the greatest picture of gloom about the situation.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Two Wanted Men"

HELLO EVERYBODY: You know, boys and girls, in some of these adventure yarns I've been telling you, everything seems to happen all in a split second. Just one—two—three and it's all over, with action every doggone minute.

Then there are other yarns in which there's darned little action, and the suspense of the story lies in the fact that some poor devil has to stand still while death comes creeping up on him. That sort of adventure drags out for a long time.

But the yarn I'm going to tell you today is like both of those above-mentioned types of adventures. It went on for a long time, and every doggone minute of that time was packed with danger and suspense. And at the same time, it was so full of action that you'd have a hard time packing another single movement into it.

It's one of the most thrilling tales I've come across in quite a while, and the honors today go to a Chicago policeman—Albert Rickert of Chicago.

It was a cool September afternoon in 1927. Al was off duty, and with time on his hands, he went over to the home of his pal, Emmett Hartnett, for a visit. After he'd been there awhile, they decided it would be a good idea to go for a ride. Emmett got a car and they drove around for about two hours.

They were on their way to a restaurant when things began to happen. As they drove along a small sedan passed them. There were two men in the car, and Al recognized them both as automobile thieves!

Thieves Recognize Al as Policeman.

Al told Emmett to turn around and follow that car. They were catching up to it when the thieves spotted the auto behind them and recognized Al as a policeman. They stepped on the gas—and the chase was on!

The car in front of them leaped ahead. Emmett stepped on it and followed. The faster they went, the faster the smaller car ahead traveled. Al pulled out his gun and fired one shot. But the car ahead didn't stop.

Both those gas buggies were tearing along down the street at close to top speed. The scenery was fairly whizzing past, and people along the way stopped to stare at a race they had never seen the like of outside of a race track.

Gun in hand, Al opened the door and climbed out on the running board to get a better shot at his quarry. As Emmett drove and the car careened along the wide street he fired again and again. Still the car ahead sped on!

And then he was being dragged along behind the fleeing car.

Now, Al could see that they were gaining on the crooks. The small car didn't have speed enough to outdistance the big one in which they were riding. Al continued to fire until his revolver was empty.

Al's Car Nosed Alongside the Thieves.

The big car had almost caught up to the little one now. Bit by bit they gained until at last Al's car was nosing up beside the one in which the two thieves were riding. They were running almost hood to hood now, and Al could have reached out and touched the other auto, when suddenly the front car turned sharply.

Al saw the crooks' car swerving toward them, but before he had a chance to do anything about it, there was a crash. The crooks sid-swiped them, knocking them over to the side of the street.

There was another crash as the car lurched into a telephone pole, but Al wasn't inside the car when it hit. As the two cars came together he was caught between them and knocked down on the running board.

Then, as the smaller car veered away again, his right leg was pinched between its rear fender and the bumper. He felt a tug at that leg—felt himself falling to the pavement—and then he was being dragged along behind the fleeing car.

The car was out of control now. The crook at the wheel was trying to keep it going straight, but it shot up over the curb on the other side of the street. It crossed the sidewalk and plunged on over a stretch of bare, water-soaked prairie.

Dragged along behind it, Al felt a terrific bump as his body was pulled over the curb. There was a terrible pain in his imprisoned leg where the tire was scraping the flesh away. His back and sides were being bruised and lacerated.

The car traveled a hundred feet through the prairie and by that time Al was numb from pain and shock. Then the car bogged down in the mud and came to a stop. Al's clothes had been literally torn from his body by then, but he still had his gun clutched tightly in his hand.

He Struggled to Get His Leg Out of the Trap.

"There was no chance to use it," he says, "but as soon as the car came to a halt, I began struggling to get my leg out of its trap. The driver jumped out and ran north across the prairie.

"At last I got my leg loose and crawled out from under the car. I raised my gun and pulled the trigger, but all I got was a click of the hammer. In the excitement I had forgotten that I emptied the gun during the chase."

As the gun clicked, the second man leaped from the car and started to run. And then Al made the pinch of his life. Helpless and unable to walk, much less run after the fleeing crook, he got up on his feet and threw the empty gun after him.

That gun went straight to the mark. It caught the crook on the back of the head and he fell forward on his face—out cold. At the same moment Emmett extricated himself from his wrecked car and came running across the street. He grabbed the crook.

Emmett took them both to a restaurant a block away and there he called the station-house. They took Al to the People's hospital, and he stayed there for three months, getting over the injury to his leg. The rear tire had ground a ridge right into the flesh as the car dragged him across the prairie.

The crook he caught drew a 14-year sentence. The other one was shot down by an Englewood policeman three days later—in another stolen car.

Bronze Shekels First Coined in Jerusalem

Biblical allusions to shekels and half-shekels are numerous, but much remains to be learned regarding these ancient examples of the die cutter's art. Bronze shekels were first coined at Jerusalem about 132 B. C., while later issues were of gold, silver, copper and potion, a low grade copper washed with silver, notes a Detroit Coin club authority. The famous silver shekels of Israel showed a jeweled chalice, a flowering lily and Hebrew characters meaning "Jerusalem the Holy." Portraits of men or animals are never found on these coins.

Mexican Fiesta Held by Civic Culture Club

One of the most unique and entertaining parties was given by the Civic Culture Club when they were hostesses to their friends at clubhouse Saturday afternoon, May 13 at 3 o'clock with a Mexican Fiesta. Invitations, bearing a painted tropical bird, were sent out bidding the guests to this affair.

Official hostesses were Mesdames C. L. Suit, W. P. Florence, M. Champion and K. S. McKinney, with Mesdames Joe Webb, J. Elliott, A. C. Strickland, assisted by Mesdames Lee Green, James and Raymond Johnson, composing the program committee.

The feeling was definitely Mexican, with all the club members in Spanish costumes and the building richly decorated with Mexican Spanish art in the form of masks, baskets, water jugs and flowers.

Mesdames Champion and McKinney welcomed guests in the patio and a punch served from a beautifully decorated table.

With Mrs. Elliott as master of ceremonies, the Fiesta was underwritten with the climax being reached with the bull fight.

The program was as follows: La Tapatillo (Hat Dance); La Vendedora (The Bird Vendor) song, and Mrs. Tirso Dominguez, accompanied in the song by Geronimo Jeras with a guitar; "Ferdinand the Bull," Mrs. Johnson; "Parades," Mrs. Webb; "Parades," Mrs. Lee Green; the parade and fight, with LeRoy Ramirez, the matador; Dominguez, the matador; Scoggins, the banderillero; Raymond Florez and Raymond tinez disguised as the bull; and Ramiro as the Queen of the Bull Fight; then followed two numbers by Yolanda and LeRoy Ramirez, "Desolacion" and "Venadito," accompanied by Jeras.

Refreshments were served, using the Mexican motif, with roses as plate decorations.

"3 Smart Girls Grow Up" Perfect

What is said to be the most pleasing picture in which Deanna Durbin has ever appeared, Universal's "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," comes to the Palace Theatre Prevue Saturday and Sunday and Monday.

Deanna became a full fledged star with her first picture, "Three Smart Girls." It was followed by "100 Men and a Girl," "Mad About Music" and "That Certain Age." Each picture was hailed by critics as a better one than its predecessor. Now critics and preview audiences are claiming that "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" is the best of the five.

Last Of Five Girls Graduates

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gaither of this city have something in common with that popular comedian, Eddie Cantor, who has for many years familiarized his radio audience with his family of five daughters and their problems.

The Gaithers have furnished five daughters, their entire family, for material with which the Slaton teachers could work with and teach for twelve years, and it was with some regret, perhaps, that they witnessed the graduation of the last of the clan Tuesday evening, at which time Geraldine received her diploma.

In 1927 Ollie Mae and Ellen Gaither graduated, then accepted jobs with Ford Motor Co. and Kessels Dept. store. They later married, and are now Mrs. Madison Weaver of Idalou and Mrs. Paul Foutz of Lamesa. The latter is the mother of three children, two girls and a son.

Herbert, now Mrs. Murray Ladyman of Lubbock, received her diploma in 1932 and was employed in Lubbock until her marriage a few years ago. She is the mother of a small daughter.

Mrs. Gaylord Singleton, of Lubbock, nee Winifred Gaither, was awarded her sheepskin in 1936 and attended Draughon's Business College in Lubbock until her marriage. Now she has a son.

That accounts for them all but Geraldine, who, at this time is on the threshold of a new life but has as yet not advanced any definite information as to what that life will be. She seems to be interested in the business world, as were all of her sisters, and probably will continue to study and work at some useful occupation.

All in all, Mr. and Mrs. Gaither, whose boys were all girls, have a record to envy, as they have as-surely made a fine contribution to the local public schools and they freely admit that it has been a pleasant experience, with the children and the faculty always being in accord.

How the plus of OIL-PLATING brings you more than an oil-change

YOU KNOW right off that the fresh oil needed in your crankcase today, isn't to lubricate the crankcase. Either your oil is in the bearings and up to the cylinder head every turn of your engine, or your lubrication isn't 100%.

Now what's the chance for any of the general run of oils to stay up while you've parked the car, for instance? Just about as much chance as there is for a geyser to stay up all by itself! Then every time you start, don't pistons get up to the top before oil gets up from the crankcase? You kill that risk by changing now to OIL-PLATING.

The "magnetic action" of Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—makes OIL-PLATING stay on inner engine surfaces throughout all your stops, starts and runs this Summer. Your Germ Processed oil keeps a steady hold on the "Full" mark, too, as you'll see—by changing today to Your Mileage Merchant. Continental Oil Company

Yes, sir, folks, I'm the pappy of 'em all. You can put me anywhere in your house and you will never know I'm there on the job—always giving you plenty of hot water. That's my trouble. I'm so safe, silent, and dependable that everybody takes me for granted. I'm not bragging, but you'll be surprised the many nice things millions of users say about me.

Just because I am not as big as pappy, I am just as efficient and will do a swell job of heating water. I'll fit into the 'scheme of things' anywhere—just plug me into any socket and that's all! No fuss—no muss. I'm not bragging, either; but thousands of people need me in their homes and offices.

Yeah, man! My name is T. Kettle of the latest line of Kettles. Everybody knows how useful us Kettles have always been. I may be little, but, boy—I get hot and boil for you in a jiffy. And if I get too hot, I'll kick the plug out, so you don't have to worry about me burning up. And when a man can do that—he has a right to brag, hasn't he?

RAYMOND LEE JOHNS, MANAGER

FOURTH OF JULY:

Well, friends, get ready, get set, and July Fourth—go down town to the celebration. Slaton will again put on airs and show the country 'round that she still has plenty of life in her and can bring things to a show down for a "merry, merry time" when the 4th of July rolls around. And this time it will be bigger and better!

After weeks of tribulation, with a handful of folks at the first public meeting called for the purpose of studying plans for such an affair, with two handsfull at the second meeting, and finally 25 at the fourth, we are underway and going strong. Committees have been chosen, and you have been informed by now if you are to serve on one of them, and a few tentative plans have been set. For instance, the parade this year will be different in many respects, there will be sports contests in the afternoon and plenty of music and light entertainment, and HARLEY SADLER and his company may be here!

Please, whether you are on a committee or not, get into the mood for looking eagerly toward something gala July Fourth, and let's plan after this to MAKE IT AN ANNUAL AFFAIR. Those committees are out working hard, we're working hard; now you come on and do your part. If you haven't time to be really active in planning the big "blow-out" just remember a few of these slogans and stark talking them up the street, down the street, to your friends and relations in other cities and states, and out in the country in the rural communities, for this celebration belongs to all of them. Here are a few fitting slogans: Slaton Annual July Fourth Celebration, Fifteen Thousand Folks Expected to Attend, Parade in the Morning, Contests in the Afternoon, Pageant in the Evening, Floats, Beautiful Girls, Plenty of Entertainment that is Classy, Fishing, Swimming, Boating Nearby, Spacious Shady Lawns and Parks to Spread Your Picnic Lunch, "The City Where Friends Meet When Strangers Meet," The Centrally Located Metropolis of Four Counties, Plenty to Eat, and More Than Enough to See and Enjoy, Harley Sadler's Own Company taking part in one of the Main Features of the Day, "Come to Slaton with Harley Sadler."

Folks, use any of these you like, or all of them, or compose your own, write them on your letters to others, say them on the streets, get into the swing of things and let's PUT ON A REAL CELEBRATION!

EXPLANATION:

Some of our citizens have inquired and complimented us on the idea of having a clean-up, paint-up campaign this year, which many seem under the impression that we are going to have. Under the conditions explained in a previous number of this column it was explained that due to the fact our July Fourth celebration will require much careful planning from now on, and now is the time to have such a campaign, we will wait until the spring of 1940 to carry it out. Of course no one will mind if every one in town cleans up and paints up every inch of his premises this year; in fact, it would save a lot of work and planning on the part of the ones who will have to wage such a campaign next spring.

However, many all want to have the drive this year, and must understand that it will require months of careful planning, careful selection of those who will work to serve on committees during the process, and much time to educate the folks on the idea. NEXT SPRING WE PROMISE YOU A CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP CAMPAIGN!

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Tope handed June the pad on which he had been writing, and Clint stood at her shoulder so that they read it together.

Miss Leaford began getting supper before dark. Everyone came to supper except Mrs. Bowdon. They came in relays. About 7:50 Mrs. Taine came to put up the milk and Mrs. Hurder to bed. About eight, Asa Taine came for a cup of tea, used milk out of the bottle.

After he left, Mrs. Taine heated milk for Mr. and Mrs. Hurder. Rab Taine came in to say good night. The milk was on the stove. He stood near the stove. Then he left for Providence.

About 8:25 Mrs. Taine left, Mr. and Mrs. Hurder in bed.

About 8:30 Miss Leaford turned out downstairs lights and went to her room. About 8:45 she met Clint outside.

About 11:05 Clint and Miss Leaford returned and stopped in front of the house.

About 11:10 they saw the fire. At 11:19 exactly, the alarm was rung in. The apparatus arrived at exactly 11:23. Mrs. Taine and Asa arrived at the fire about 11:21.

At exactly 11:51 Mrs. Taine put in a call for Providence to her son.

While June and Clint studied this schedule in silence, Tope explained: "You know when you went upstairs, and when you went out to meet Clint; and I've guessed at the times before that. I know when the alarm was rung in, and when the apparatus arrived; and by allowing for all you and Clint did after you saw the fire and before the apparatus arrived, I can figure out about the time you saw the fire."

"Yes," June said. "This seems about right."

"I've a record of the call to Providence," Tope added. "How bad was the fire then—when your aunt went to phone?"

"The whole house was burning," June decided.

Tope nodded. "There's one other question I've got to ask you," he said gravely. "Do you think any one of your relatives might have given your mother poison? Or set the house on fire?"

"No, no," June whispered. "They were hard and stubborn; but—No, No."

"Did any of them except your mother ever take a sleeping-powder?" he insisted.

She hesitated. "Why, yes," she said doubtfully. "Uncle Justus did." And she explained in a faint amusement: "He really had insomnia, sometimes. It seems odd, because he could always sleep in a chair; but sometimes he couldn't sleep in bed. Doctor Cabler gave him some tablets once; but Aunt Evie took them away from him, wouldn't let him use them. So poor Uncle Justus used to ask me to give him a tablet out of Mother's bottle, now and then; and I know Rab took some for him once."

"When was that?" Tope asked gravely.

"About a month ago," June reflected. "I found Rab in the bathroom; he told me."

Tope wagged his head; but he did not push this matter further. "Did you know Miss Thayer?" he asked. "Her name's Lissa."

"Yes," June assented. "That is, I saw her sometimes, when I was walking in the woods."

"Did you ever see your cousin Asa with her?" Tope asked. The girl shook her head; and Tope explained:

"I saw them kiss each other to-night, at the fire. They were back in the shadows, but I saw."

"Asa?" June cried incredulously. "You never knew anything about that?"

"Oh, no," she declared. "But if Asa loved her, he wouldn't have dared tell anyone. They'd have been furious. Aunt Evie, and Grandma Bowdon, I mean."

"You think so?" Tope prompted her.

"Yes! Mother used to tell me—" She hesitated, used bravely on: "Mother used to tell me that if I married without their consent, they would crush me. They did crush her, you know."

Inspector Tope nodded; and he picked his words with care. "You remember Mr. Glover, who lived in the cabin in the woods—the man you called Uncle Jim. You liked him, didn't you?"

"Yes," she said. "So much. He went away, after Mother died."

"He's come back," the Inspector said.

"Where is he?" she cried eagerly.

Tope hesitated, he confessed at last: "Inspector Heale is holding him."

"You mean—arrested him?" Her check was pale.

"Heale thought he might have had something to do—"

"Oh," she protested in loyal pride. "Uncle Jim wouldn't. No, no."

"He came back at noon today," Tope explained. "Came back asking for you . . . Miss Leaford, I used to be a policeman. I'm trying to find out what happened out there. You understand that we are sure your mother, somehow, was poisoned. Someone put some extra tablets in that glass of milk she drank. It might have been done while the milk was still in the bottle, in Mrs. Bowdon's refrigerator. Or afterward in your grandmother's kitchen, or on the way upstairs, or after it was taken upstairs. And anyone might have done it. Anyone at all."

The girl was trembling, but her eyes were steady.

And when he did not speak, she cried: "Why should they do a thing like that?"

He said slowly: "They might have been afraid—afraid of something we don't know about. Or wanting something." And he spoke to Miss Moss. "Justus Taine has all the wills, Bowdon's and Hurder's. He wouldn't tell me what's in them. They'll be public by and by, but—there may not be you in the woods, and you told him who you were. So he stayed, to be near you, lived in the cabin there. They wanted to put him off the land; but there wasn't any divorce, and he threatened to make trouble unless they let him stay. He didn't ask anything of them except to be near you, to see you sometimes."

He looked at Miss Moss, sure she would understand. "I guess he still loved Kitty Leaford," he said. "When she died, it hit him hard. He went away; but he came back yesterday, says he was asleep in his cabin all last night. So Heale has locked him up."

"It would seem simple enough to Heale," she pointed out. "Heale will say that Mr. Leaford killed Mrs. Leaford and then the Hurders, so that June would inherit their money. Then he could claim June as his daughter, and get her and the money too."

June moved, about to speak; and Clint held her close, protectively. She said faintly:

"I can remember once, when I was a little girl, Aunt Evie tried to make me stay away from him, and I told him, and he came to the house to see her, and after that she never bothered me . . ."

"But he didn't do this!" She rubbed her eyes with her hands like one just waking; she stood up, supporting herself by Clint's arm. "Oh, I want to do something!" she cried. "What can I do?"

The Inspector said soberly: "This, if you want to," he said. "I know it's not safe for you—"

"Safe!" she exclaimed almost scornfully. "I don't want to be safe, with my mother dead, and my father—"

"Mr. Hurder's in the Bowdon house," Tope explained. "They aim to keep him there. They won't have a nurse in to take care of him. But Miss Leaford, they'd have you. They want you home, and if you went, and insisted on nursing him—"

Clint made a swift indignant protest; but June hushed him.

"Yes, I understand," she told the man steadily. "I'll go. But why? What am I to do?"

"To watch," he said. "To be ready."

"Ready for what?" she insisted. So, reluctantly, he put the thing in words. "Whoever did this wants Mr. Hurder dead," he pointed out. "I think there'll be another try at killing him."

And he said gravely: "There might be more than that. There might be a try at killing you."

"Of course," he said. "You can help find out! This is ugly business to talk about, hard to believe. But Miss Leaford, your grandpa, Mr. Hurder, is out there, in that house, near dying. It wouldn't take much to make him die. Whoever set fire to the house last night wants him dead." And after a moment Tope added soberly: "They refuse to have a nurse for him."

He shook his head; he said in a grim and stricken tone:

"I think there's an insane murderer loose out there—insane, and clever as a cat. He's managed to get by so far without leaving a trace. It's the first time in forty years that I've seen a case without one single lead."

Clint cried: "What are you getting at, Inspector?"

Tope hesitated for a moment. He ignored Clint, said slowly then: "There's one more thing you ought to know, Miss Leaford: Inspector Heale has arrested this man you call Uncle Jim. Heale thinks he did it."

"But why should he?" she protested. "What reason had he?"

And Tope said briefly, kindly: "He's your father, June."

For a long moment then, silence held them all. June sat still, and the color drained out of her cheeks till she was white as snow. Clint caught her, and she clung to him; yet she did not hide her face from them. She stared at Inspector Tope, and her eyes were streaming, and her lips worked as though she would speak, but no words came. She watched him, and tears streamed down her cheeks, and she began to hiccup with smothered sobs.

Tope spoke slowly, in explicit terms. "Your mother ran away with him when she was a girl," he said. "By and by they came home to live; and after two years there, the old folks broke it up. Mrs. Bowdon and Mrs. Taine, he told me, turned your mother against him. He said Mr. and Mrs. Hurder were on his side, but the others broke them down. Finally he left. He wanted your mother to go with him, but she was afraid, so he went away alone."

Tope hesitated. "Him or her, whoever it is," he repeated. "Clint, whoever did this is a monster, not human. No telling what will come next."

"And you want to risk June's life?"

"I don't aim to," Tope argued. "She'll have her eyes open. I'll tell her what to watch for. She'll have a pistol, to use if she has to. We'll be right outside." He spoke to June herself. "You won't go into it blindly," he said. "Nor at all, unless you want."

"Let Heale work it out," Clint cried. "It's his job."

June was a long time in taking any part in this discussion between them: But when she spoke at last, it was decisively.

"I don't trust Inspector Heale, Clint," she said. "If he thinks Uncle Jim—my father—did this, he must be a dull, witless man."

They watched her; she seemed to think aloud. "It was money, the money always," she cried, half to herself. "I can see that now. Everything had to be done to keep the money in the family. That was why they were so furious when Mother married Uncle Jim—for fear some of the money would get away from them. Oh, I've heard them talk, and plan!"

Clint said warmly: "Sweet, hush! You're never going back there again."

But June smiled at him, and she said: "Yes, I am, Clint. I can go back and watch and see things now that I couldn't see before. I can understand."

Inspector Tope said slowly: "Heale is afraid of your people. He won't go after them hard, the way he would after other folk. And I never saw an uglier business. This senseless, pitiless butchering! There's a maniac loose out there; and Heale won't act. I've got to find some way."

"I'll do whatever you say," June insisted; and Clint knew at last that he could not dissuade her. He said slowly:

"I wish you wouldn't, June. But—I can see, can feel the same way. Inspector, what do you mean to do?"

Tope considered, his eyes on the floor, his head wagging. "I think the thing will ripen tonight," he confessed. "If it seems sure that Mr. Hurder will live, the murderer will try to end him tonight."

He watched June intently. "And maybe you too! I'm guessing at this; but I'm a good guesser. Some one out there is money-crazy. Mr. Hurder is a rich man; and someone out there wants that money. Maybe wants it quick. Maybe has to have it quick."

"I'm guessing," he repeated. "Justus Taine wouldn't tell me what was in the will. But my guess is that the Hurder money is in a trust agreement for Mrs. Leaford—but she's dead—and then for you, Miss Leaford. With trustees. Maybe Taine himself. Maybe his sons. It doesn't matter—wouldn't help us any if we knew, because they're all in the same pot together. But it comes down to it that you're the only one left in the way, Miss Leaford. With you dead, the Hurder money's bound to stay in the Taine family."

June nodded. "Yes," she said. "Yes, they could make Grandma Hurder write his will the way they wanted it. They'd leave him no peace till he did."

"So there it is," Tope agreed, with a grim simplicity. "The money waiting, ready to run into their pockets as soon as Mr. Hurder dies. You're the last dam in the way, the last thing that holds it back. They'll be after you."

"I'm not afraid!" said June. (TO BE CONTINUED)

CHAPTER XIII

Clint had listened to Inspector Tope's suggestion that June return to Kenesaw Hill with an incredulous and angry horror. Now he cried in a bitter wrath:

"No! I won't stand for that. June's been through enough—"

"We'll be there to take care of her," Tope urged. "You and I, Clint. We'll be on the job. It's only for tonight. I've a notion tonight will tell the tale."

"No," Clint insisted. "She's through with them out there, all those people. I'm going to be all her family from now on. If you think I'm going to let her go out there for bait, to bait a trap—"

And he cried: "Why do you have to mix in, Inspector? Let them wash their own dirty linen."

Tope urged gravely: "It's any citizen's duty to do what he can, Clint." His tone was grim. "And son, there's a murderer loose out there. Maybe a maniac. I think he is. There's a terrible, mad persistence in him. Or her."

"Her?" Clint echoed, startled by that pronoun.

Cleaners Working in Westminster Abbey Unearth Dwelling Place of Anchorite

Cleaners working in Westminster abbey recently discovered the site of the cell where the abbey's anchorite, or holy man, kept lonely vigil centuries ago. It was in this cell, tradition says, that wild young Henry V spent a repentant night when his father, the fourth King Henry, died in the Jerusalem chamber of the abbey.

The discovery was disclosed by Lawrence Tanner, keeper of the monuments of the abbey. He said the find was made during cleaning operations on a monument in St. Benedict's chapel to Dr. Gabriel Goodman, a former dean of Westminster, who died in 1601. The monument shows the dean kneeling at a praying desk.

"Behind the praying desk was found in the stonework a little window so placed that anyone looking through would see the altar of the chapel," Tanner said.

Just to the side of monument is a door, now blocked, which had, as it had seemed to us for years, no obvious purpose.

"Taking this door in conjunction with the newly discovered window and bearing in mind other features, we concluded that the door led to a little room outside abutting on the abbey and therein must have dwelt the abbey hermit or recluse.

"Through that door must have passed Henry V on the night of his father's death, when the young king spent the night with the abbey recluse and vowed to lead a new life."

Tanner explained that the hermit usually was an elderly monk regarded as no longer fit for active work and given the job of anchorite as a sort of retirement.

Greatest Man Hunt

The most extensive man hunt in history was for the three De Autremont brothers who held up a mail train in Oregon on October 11, 1923, says Collier's. Not only were circulators in a hundred languages sent throughout the world, but special descriptions of their teeth went to dentists, of their watches to jewelers, of their eye-glasses to oculists and of their literary tastes to librarians. They were captured in 1927 after a search that cost $500,000.

Emphasis Is on Dainty Sheers For 1939 Graduation Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE story of fabrics for the gowns spring-summer graduates will wear, the word "sheer" is most important. Whether the material be one of the new exquisite cottons or whether it be a silk weave, the favor for sheers remains the same.

The flare for crisp thin cottons of exquisite weave and texture foretells a banner year for the lovely swiss organdies that are shown in versatile types and which make up into ideal graduation frocks. Among the choicest variations in organdy are the delicate shadow prints that come in beguiling tones and tints. There are the beautiful cloque organdies which are in such subtle patternings they breathe the breath and freshness of spring and of youth. A wide call for dotted swisses is also recording in the realm of exquisite cotton sheers. Dotted nets are also good this year, some of the most attractive graduate dresses brought out this season being made of point d'esprit net.

In the realm of silk weaves the call for fine sheers is as insistent as it is among cottons. This year's silk sheers highlight especially the daintiest of silk organdies, nets also and as for silk marquisette it is a first choice.

Along with the thought of crisp and lovely sheers for the graduate's gown comes up the question of color versus white. There need never be a doubt as to white always holding its own for both graduates and brides. However, for several seasons there has been a disposition of brides-to-be to break away from tradition and choose a delicate tone or tint for the wedding dress. As is the tendency toward color with brides so is it with prospective graduates this season, who are selecting in many instances delectable pastel tones in place of white.

For a dress that will prove an inspiration and a joy on her graduation day and the whole summer through, the little graduate-to-be seated in the picture chooses daintiest of mousseline de soie in a delectable shade of pale pink. The simplicity of its styling adds infinitely to its "young" charm. It is made ankle length, with the new square neckline. Of course there should be frills, for everything is frilled and frilled this year. The frilling for this pretty frock extends across the neckline giving the effect of a yoke.

In the charming gown worn by the girl graduate standing, the claim of high-style prestige for cottons is verified. Here we see a most lovely youthful frock which after graduation will become her favorite gown for summer party wear. It is interesting to know that the exquisite organdy that fashions it is in an entrancing cool-looking pale green, with a formal wallpaper floral motif in delicate shadowprint. Note the brief pique mess jacket which speaks an added triumph for cottons worn in a formal way. The importance of pique in the evening mode is recognized by leading designers. Some of the smartest party dresses are made of pique with full skirts that are topped with cunning basque bodices that have low-cut square décolletage and sprightly short puffed sleeves. Speaking of the dress pictured the addition of the jacket makes this a very practical costume. For greater formality, the bodice underneath tues in with a flattering deep-cut décolletage.

PRESENT BUT UNCONSCIOUS

We had some friends out here from Austin a couple of years ago, and they just wanted to see a college campus with 2500 acres in it. It was no trouble at all to show them our young Alma Mammy spread over the required and advertised acreage there west of Lubbock. Now we hear that Senator Moore of Houston who objects to all military training in colleges, votes "Present but unconscious," on a bill to lease ten of these two thousand-five hundred acres to the Texas National Guard for an armory building and drill ground. Whether the worthy Senator was stricken unconscious at the realization of the otherwise unanimous consent of the Senate for the lease, or the fact that Texas Tech has enough room to grow on so it will one day be as large as the University of Texas, we didn't learn. Anyway, the official record reads, "voting present but unconscious."

After the usual order of business the Worthy Matron welcomed the visitors for "Friend and Neighbors Night," and a very unique program planned by the W.M. was presented in honor of the visitors. Sister Lois Woods sang "Welcome You Here."

A Friendship Chain was formed at the Altar by the Slaton Officers and Grand Officers around the visiting officers; and lyric verses on Friendship were given by each.

"Blest be the Tie that Binds" was sung by the membership, after which C. E. S. Bookmarkers, bearing an inscription were presented each honor guest by the Marshal from the Worthy Matron. Each Grand Officer spoke briefly, with Sister Barnard talking of the school of instructions and giving the "E" Certificate work.

108 attended the meeting with visitors from: Lubbock, Southland, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Morton, Seagraves, Levelland, Lorenzo, and Stonewall, Okla.

A salad plate was served. Plate favors were pentagon folders with a red rose.

Cottonseed Feed Products Varied

To meet efficiently the needs of different classes of livestock in different sections of the country, cottonseed feed products are made in many different forms by cotton oil mills.

Among the different forms in which cottonseed products are available throughout the country are:

Cottonseed Cake - a protein-rich concentrate, made in many sizes (nut, sheep, pea or pebble size, and screenings.)

Cottonseed Meal - Ground cottonseed cake, also rich in protein and, probably, the form in which cottonseed products are most widely used.

Cubes or Pellets - Cottonseed meal pressed into the convenient form of square cubes or round pellets of various sizes.

Whole-Pressed Cottonseed - Also called "cold pressed", the product made by the expeller process, an excellent feed that is especially good where bulk is desired in the ration.

Cottonseed Hulls - Widely-used roughage, especially good as a carrier.

Troppo, Tempo di minuetto; At the Spinning Wheel, Burgmuller; Romance, Raff; Lonely Wanderer, Greig; Puck, Grieg; Poupee Valante, Poldini.

E.-Texas Event Will Be Big

Fifty Fiddle Bands Expected at Athens

ATHENS, May 16. - "Bigger and Better and All Free!" That's the story of Athens Eighth Annual Fiddlers contest and reunion which is expected to attract more than 30,000 persons to this city on May 26th. Fifty fiddle bands are expected to compete for the largest list of cash prizes ever offered. Prior to this year the number of competing bands has been limited to twenty-five.

Included in the big list of entries is the Homer Bonds band of Kemp, winner of first prize in the 1938 contest, and the ten-piece string band of Sheriff Clyde Shelton of Lamar county, winner of the 1937 event. Prizes will be awarded to the chief fiddlers of the winning bands.

Although many of the fiddlers are past the age of 70, one is only nine years of age. He is the youngest fiddler entered in the contest.

Added to the thousands of East Texans who will come to Athens on May 26 will be hundreds of other visitors for ground grain, cottonseed meal and molasses. Hulls are comparable in feeding value to good quality prairie or Johnson grass hay.

ers who take advantage of the annual program to make "homecoming" trips from all parts of Texas. Last year's contest drew spectators from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Georgia.

Arch S. Underwood, capitalist of Athens and Lubbock, will bring a large delegation of West Texans, newspaper editors and notables, to Athens for the day. For them and visiting newspapermen from other parts of Texas, he will entertain at Lake Undy with a chicken barbecue.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND THE HOME

LESSON TEXT - Jeremiah 35:5-10; Ephesians 5:15-21; 6:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT - Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee. - Leviticus 10:9.

A home is more than a house, and yet people live as though it were not true. They build attractive houses, fill them with comfortable furnishings, and think they have a home, no matter how they may live. God is forgotten, pleasure becomes the chief object in life, and money is desired because it buys pleasure. Intoxicants are freely used both outside and inside the home, apparently with no thought of their destructive influence. Alcohol burned in a stove produces heat, in an engine it produces power, in a man it produces disgrace and disease, and in the home it produces sorrow, suffering, and ultimately destruction. Why should the decent and intelligent people of America supinely submit to the devastation of this juggernaut, the liquor traffic? What are you doing about it? The lesson for today presents three factors which make for happiness in the home. I. Loyalty to Family Standards (Jer. 35:5-10). When the traditional standards of a family are good and right in the sight of God, they afford a worthy rallying point for the younger generation. The Rechabites were obedient to the instructions of their forefathers. The prophet had subjected them to a test (not a temptation, for he did not expect them to fall) in the presence of the Jews and in the great city of Jerusalem. They were surrounded by the unaccustomed luxury and temptations of the city, and now the prophet tries them further by saying, "Drink ye wine." But they were not afraid to be thought old-fashioned or queer, for they knew that the customs of their fathers were good (see Jer. 6:16), and they stood by them. To depend on that which is good and noble in the past of our people or family, is a sign neither of weakness nor ignorance, but rather of wisdom and strength. What kind of family standards will your boy and mine look back to? What of the little baby who lay in his buggy while the young mother helped her husband pick out the bottle of whisky in the store window which he then went in and bought? When I see such things my heart burns within me against this wicked business which destroys all of the finest in men and in their homes. II. Accuracy in Daily Living (Eph. 5:15-21). The Greek word rendered 'circumspectly' (v. 15) may be more closely and simply rendered 'accurately.' The thought given is that of painstaking attention to details, under a sense of their importance; a remembrance not only in general but in particular of the duties of the Christian's walk' (Moule). Every phrase in this section of our lesson is overflowing with meaning but we cannot here refer to them all. Note the temperance application. The man who walks accurately will be "wise" (v. 15) and will "be filled with the Spirit" (v. 18). The inaccurate walker is a "fool" (v. 15), and one of his follies may be in being "drunk with wine" (v. 18). But there is far more in this passage. Spirit-filled people know the will of God and therefore redeem the time. They cultivate that delightful spiritual exercise of home religion known as hymn singing. Have you tried that lately? Gather the family or friends around the organ or piano. Turn off the ever-present radio for a few minutes. Open the old hymn book and sing. Don't overlook thankfulness in verse 20, and then try that golden recipe. III. Unity in the Home (Eph. 6:1-4). A united family is obviously impossible where one member or more gives his time and money and very life to booze. You know and I know that it just does not work. Think of the havoc thus wrought not only in the lives of the parents, but particularly in the lives and characters of the children. Let Christ reign in the home and there will be unity. Children will realize that it is right to obey their godly parents. They will honor and cherish father and mother, and God will reward them for it (vv. 2, 3; also Exod. 20:12). But what is more, fathers will be wise enough not to provoke their children to wrath. Much of the trouble in our homes is caused by disobedient children, but sometimes I think even more of it is caused by unwise parents. The children need nurture and admonition, but that can be done in kindness and with constructive results if we seek the Lord's help. Father, mother, let me plead with you that you permit no interest in business, social life, or even church work to come between you and your fellowship with your children. That is your biggest job and your greatest opportunity.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Mice Avoid Camphor.—Pieces of gum camphor placed near books on the shelves will protect them from mice. Waste Tea.—Pour left-over tea into a bottle, add a drop or two of glycerine, and use for cleaning windows. Hot Water Marks.—Should you spill hot water on a polished table and it leaves a mark, rub it gently with spirits of camphor and finish off with a gentle rubbing of furniture polish. Refrigerator Deodorant.—Put a piece of charcoal on one of the shelves of the refrigerator. It acts as an absorbent for all odors and purifies the air. Easy on the Curtains.—Before washing net or lace curtains, steep overnight in a tub of cold water to which has been added half a cupful of ammonia. This draws out the dirt without soap and rubbing. Next morning rinse the curtains and squeeze through warm suds.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 35 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody moods. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. The physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry cases. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove wastes that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor! DOAN'S PILLS

Solving a Difficult Slipcover Problem

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Your books have shown me how to do so many things that I am turning to you for help. I want to make slipcovers for the living-room furniture because with three young ones the upholstery is soon going to be ruined. The job completely baffles me. I am enclosing a rough sketch of one of the chairs. Can you suggest any way that a removable cover can be made for it? B. A.

Use bindings or facings to finish edges where seat and back covers are cut round arms and supports. Where there are so many openings of different lengths, snap fasteners are generally more satisfactory than zippers. If snap fastener tape is obtainable it saves time to whip it to the long edges. The narrow frill for this chair covers a curved line across the front and curving at the top of the front legs.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for your home with the help of Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Just follow the pictures, and you learn to make the lovely things you have been wanting for your home. Book 2 is for those who enjoy fancy work on useful articles for the home; and useful novelties, to be made in spare time. Books are 25 cents each; don't forget to ask for the free leaflet on patchwork quilts, when you order both books; the leaflet is FREE with two books. Address: Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative-Senna moves your bowels. It sets free the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsin-izing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today! (Adv.)

U. S. Colleges Revive Traditions As Alumni Return to Campus

May and June are commencement months on every U. S. college campus, a period when alumni return to their former stamping ground and endeared traditions are revived. One typical tradition is illustrated at the right, where Helen Deer and Maxine Laughlin smoke the "pipe of peace" at the University of Kansas commencement. Every member of the graduating class does it, sending up in smoke all grievances students may have nurtured during college days.

At many colleges returning alumni turn youngsters once more to participate in class fights or engage students in athletic contests. Typical is the above scene at the University of Pennsylvania, where graduates of the class of 1923 last year had a pants fight as part of the alumni day observance.

At Annapolis, graduates of the U. S. naval academy toss away their midshipmen's hats after receiving diplomas, symbolic of embarkation on a new life.

Star Dust

- ★ Law Forces a Fake
- ★ NO for Life of Child Star
- ★ U. S. Groceries to Europe

By Virginia Vale

THERE'LL be a bit of faking about Principal Production's "Way Down South," but it's not the fault of the producer, Sol Lesser. The story of the picture is laid in Louisiana; it deals with plantation life in pre-Civil war days. One of the high lights of the picture is a sugar cane festival, the autumn celebration that marks the completion of the harvesting season. Lesser ordered a freight car of Louisiana sugar cane, and thought things were all set, when the California bureau of agriculture stepped in and stopped it at the border. Seems that "foreign" cane can't be brought into the state.

So native cane from near Bakersfield will be used instead. It is neither so heavy nor so tall as the genuine Louisiana article, but the art director will take care of that. Everything else about the picture is genuine. Bob Breen and the 50-piece Hall Johnson choir have been rehearsing for two weeks, so that the American Negro spiritual music will have the true beauty and charm of the Deep South.

Peggy Ann Garner, a six-year-old native of Los Angeles, won out over 100 other children in tests to find just the right child to play the part of Carole Lombard's daughter in "Memory of Love." She is inexperienced, but she has charm and her tests were good, so she was signed up to appear with Miss Lombard, Helen Vinson and Katherine Alexander, starting, perhaps, on the road to fame.

Of course, this matter of being a movie star isn't half so much fun for a child as other children are likely to think it is. Irene Dare, (another six-year-old) who is working in "Everything on Ice," can testify to that. She rises at 6:30 every morning, practices skating until eleven, then has a ballet lesson for an hour. After lunch she has a dramatic lesson, then another hour of skating practice, although she is an accomplished skater. Her spare time is filled with fittings for costumes and tests for hairdressing and make-up.

Remember Alleen Pringle, you folks who went to the movies in the days of silent pictures? You'll see her again in "Girl From Nowhere," with Anne Nagel and Warren Hull.

Douglas Corrigan, the wrong-way flier, won't make another picture after all, at least not for RKO. And Eddie Cantor is not to make "The Flying Yorkshireman" for that firm, after all. Both plans were just cases of misplaced enthusiasm, apparently.

Phil Baker is probably one of the most spoiled husbands in the world. When he and his wife travel in Europe she takes along a supply of American groceries, because he doesn't like continental food.

Another radio serial will reach the screen before so very long. It is "Hometown," heard over WLS, which stars Lulu Belle and Skyland Scotty, and will be filmed by Republic Productions.

Whenever a new engineer is assigned to the Charlie McCarthy program he's initiated with the same gag. Don Ameche and Edgar Bergen pulled it on the latest recruit. They stood in front of a microphone, moving their lips but not uttering a sound, while the engineer nearby went wild trying to find the trouble.

ODDS AND ENDS—The CBS Hit Parade now enjoys the highest rating in its history, and Mark Warnow's contract has been renewed—first time a bandleader has been retained on that program for 26 consecutive weeks. . . . Walt Disney wanted the film rights for Maeterlinck's "Bluebird," but 20th Century-Fox got them; Shirley Temple will be starred in the picture. . . . Pat O'Brien is readying a radio show that will be somewhat like the current program of Edward G. Robinson. . . . When Hedy Lamarr and Robert Taylor finish "Lady of the Tropics" they'll start "Guns and Fiddles"—they seem to make an excellent co-starring team. . . . Robert Montgomery leaves soon for England, to make two pictures, Western Newspaper Union.

With Approach of Warm Weather, C. Houston Goudiss Advises Extra Care in Storing Foods in the Home

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT IS the proud distinction of America's food industries that notwithstanding the infinite variety of perishable foods which are constantly available, and regardless of the distances they have been transported, even the most delicate foods are delivered to the consumer in a fresh, wholesome condition, with all their fine flavor unimpaired.

The secret of this modern miracle is refrigeration. Vast sums of money have been invested in long trains of refrigerated cars, thousands upon thousands of refrigerated trucks, refrigerated warehouses and refrigeration equipment in stores. All this has been done for a single purpose: to keep food fresh and at its best until it reaches the home.

At this point the responsibility shifts to the homemaker. And if she falls down on her job, then all previous efforts to keep food free from spoilage have been in vain.

Homemaker's Responsibility

As guardian of her family's health, one of the homemaker's

most important tasks is to see to it that all food is safeguarded against contamination until it reaches her table. This means that perishable foods must continue to be refrigerated properly in the home. For only in this way can they be protected from the ravages of micro-organisms which are always ready to attack foods when conditions are favorable for their growth.

Two essentials are necessary for satisfactory food preservation in the home. First, perishable foods must be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit—never at a temperature higher than 50 degrees. Second, the right degree of humidity must be maintained. Too much moisture will encourage the growth of bacteria; too little will dehydrate fruits and vegetables and make them unfit for consumption.

Home Care of Foods

Both requirements are met by a good household refrigerator; and the homemaker who appreciates the importance of keeping foods sound and wholesome will regard an efficient refrigerator as an investment in good health. It is especially necessary that the food supply be properly refrigerated during the warmer weather of spring and summer, in order to prevent the consumption of dishes that may have become contaminated without any marked alteration in appearance, taste or odor.

Highly Perishable Foods

Milk is often regarded as the most perishable of all foods, because it is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. It is, therefore, essential that this splendid food be kept at low temperatures at all times. It should be put into the refrigerator as soon as possible after it is delivered, and kept there until the moment it is to be used. Milk should never be allowed to stand at room temperature for any length of time. For it has been demonstrated that when it is held at 40 degrees—an ideal temperature—before delivery, then allowed to stand at a room temperature of 75 degrees for an hour and a half, and again refrigerated, a rapid increase in bacteria occurs.

Other types of protein foods also present a favorable medium for bacterial growth when they are held at temperatures higher than 50 degrees. These include meat, fish, meat broths, gelatin, custards and creamed foods. It is advisable to keep these foods, as well as the milk supply, in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Fruits and Vegetables

Fruits and vegetables soon lose their moisture content unless they are protected against warm, dry air; and they are likewise subject to the action of micro-organisms which result in decay. But when stored in a modern refrigerator, these mineral- and vitamin-rich foods can be kept in perfect condition for considerable periods, thus making it possible to take advantage of favorable market offerings.

Guarding Against Mold

As a rule, warmer weather also increases the problem of combating molds. For given moisture and warmth, molds will grow on almost anything. However, the most hospitable hosts are acid fruits, such as oranges, lemons, berries or tomatoes; sweets, such as jams and jellies; bread and meat. While molds are physiologically harmless if eaten, they definitely spoil the taste and appearance of food.

Mold growths can be killed by boiling. They are retarded by the dry circulating air of an efficient refrigerator. It is to allow for air circulation that berries should be stored uncovered—if possible, spread out so that the air can reach more than just the top layer.

Frequent inspection of all food supplies, including those in the bread box, and the prompt elimination of any items showing signs of mold, will help to keep it from spreading.

Constant vigilance on the part of the homemaker in caring for foods on hand will avoid a needless drain on the food budget and will safeguard the health of every member of the family.

Questions Answered

Mrs. L. E. S.—It is a fallacy to believe that spinach is in a class by itself as a source of iron. It's a splendid vegetable, but as a source of iron, it is practically equalled by kale, and exceeded by a number of other greens including beet tops, dandelion greens, chard, parsley, watercress and turnip tops.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

On March 17th, this year, we insured our house and furniture thru A. B. Griffith, owner and operator of The Griffith General Agency of Slaton, Texas, for $1300.00.

On the 2nd day of May, about forty-five days later, the house was struck by lightning, fire resulted and house and contents were a total loss.

On May 11th, Mr. Griffith delivered checks for the entire amount of insurance.

Our policies burned with the house, but Mr. Griffith paid the full amounts without any hesitation whatsoever.

We appreciate the splendid insurance service rendered us and take this means of expressing our appreciation.
