WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE Little Taxpayer Not Relieved By Current Revision Program; Higher Levies Seen Next Year (EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

TAXATION: Relief?

In retrenching 1939, many states have cut their budgets and many a congressman has preached economy. But John Public has yet to see his taxes cut; indeed, the millrun U. S. investor holding tax exempt securities will be lucky if such exemptions are not outlawed next year. Reasons for neglecting John Public are: (1) his taxes cannot be cut without adding to Big Business' burden; (2) Big Business, far from accepting such a burden, has good reason to protest its present tax status. The only apparent solution, federal economy, will go by the boards this year as U. S. expenditures for 1939-40 top the 1938budget by approximately $1,000,000,000.

Four probable points of the current session's tax revision program system in a nation where reliefers are: (1) re-enactment of "nuisance" levies expiring June 30; (2) repeal of the undistributed profits tax and substitution of a flat 18 per cent levy on corporations with incomes above $25,000 a year; (3) deduction of net business losses from

C Ohio's experimenting, badly pestered legislature has passed 82 relief bills since January, 1931, yet still has trouble. I Monthly food grants for relief vary greatly with the states' affluency, including: Atlanta, Ga., $6.70 per month; New York, $30.97; Mississippi, $2.91; California, $30.97; Arkansas, $4.82.

This startling picture of U. S. relief conditions was offered the house appropriations sub-committee as it began considering a $1,477,000,000 budgetary request for 1939-40. The report came from the American Association of Relief Workers, which reviewed conditions in 35 states and Rico). Principal recommendation was that federal grants-in-aid to states be continued as the only means of achieving a uniform and adequate would otherwise prosper or starve depending on their state's wealth.

AGRICULTURE: Cotton Conference Forgotten fact by most critics of the New Deal's agriculture program is that international wheat and cotton production has raised tremendously the past 15 years, closing the door against export of surpluses without expensive government subsidies. Though regulated production produces a vicious artificial circle which upsets all natural commodity price levels, the blunt facts are that even with restricted planting in the U. S., 1938 world wheat production set a new record of approximately 4,479,000,000 bushels, while U. S. cotton exports are currently at their lowest level in 60 years.

One possible solution is a worldwide co-operative scheme. Already underway are negotiations for a formal wheat conference at London o draft an international agreement authorizing export quotas and eliminating price-cutting tactics hands, rather than in the hands of facilitated by government subsidies. the radical wing, entertain fears With 14,000,000 bales of old Ameri- which force consideration of 1940, tance. It may be, indeed, that the Chief Executive's pronouncements before the retail merchants that night will eventuate as the cornerstone of his political philosophy for the campaign of 1940.

In Mr. Roosevelt's speech before the retail businessmen, it will be recalled upon examination that he restated virtually all of the New Deal theories and convictions. That was important. But more important was the emphasis with which he offered, in new language, the general assertion that there will be no backtracking. More important to the country, as a whole, was his determined adherence to the principle of virtually unlimited government spending, because his renewed insistence in that direction came at a time when there is considerable fear that the country faces further inflation of its currency.

There seems to be quite a general agreement that the retail speech should be examined in the light of 1940. As far as I can learn, that is the view taken by New Dealers, by old line Democrats, who are antagonistic to spending policies of the last five years, and by cautious Republican observers who are anxiously looking for signs indicating

WASHINGTON .- As the days go | son or with Roosevelt. The fighting tunity to veto the bill if he likes.

So, in his speech, Mr. Roosevelt took a sideswipe at the proponents of tax changes. Their reasons for demanding tax revision, you see, are based upon a belief that business will not go ahead until government gives more consideration to the burden that is on business. Senator Harrison, along with many other old line Democrats, feels that business can not re-employ workers as long as taxes are unevenly distributed. That is to say, the Mississippi senator is seeking ways by which business will take on workers and the federal treasury will be free from the enormous appropriations for relief spending.

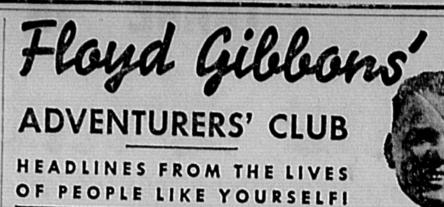

With reference to the Harrison position, however, it should be said here that congress has shown a dozen yellow streaks about cutting down in spending. It started out talking economy in a big way. It acted, however, by way of voting money out of the treasury wherever a new method for spending it was proposed. The individual representative and senator, excepting those boldly aligned with Senator Harrison, displayed the usual cowardice of a political more interested in holding his ten-thousand dollar job than in serving his country.

whether Mr. Roosevelt, himself, will Determined Business Profits Must Be Held to Minimum

When Mr. Roosevelt said in his speech, therefore, that he would demand only that the present distribution of tax levies and rates should remain the same, he was answering Senator Harrison's group. In other words, the President has budged from the position and viewpoint he long has held only to the extent that he now says he will not quibble about details; he wants proprations to bear as much tax

"Assassin of the Nile"

ELLO, EVERYBODY:

You know, boys and girls, I have often said that you'll find adventure close to home a darned sight easier than you will roaming the world. One who goes traveling in search of thrills usually doesn't find any until he gets back into his own bailiwick again. But there are exceptions to every rule-and here's one of them. George C. Dorste of Bardonia, Rockland county, N. Y., met his biggest thrill when he was thousands of miles away from home and in a strange exotic country.

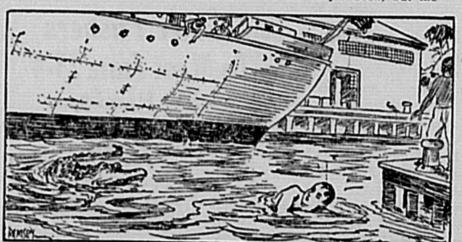

The country was Egypt, and George landed there in the course of his travels as a fireman on a tramp steamer. The steamer was carrying scrap iron, unloading it in consignments of various sizes at ports along the Nile river and its many branches. The year was 1912, and the ship had traveled part way up the Nile and was anchored in the river just south of the town of Medinet El Faiyum.

The ship was anchored not far from a pier. The weather is pretty hot in Egypt. In the afternoon, particularly, the sun beats down with such intensity that it is next to impossible for anybody but a native to do any work. It was at the height of the hot season, and the crew of the steamer, dripping sweat from every pore of their bodies, were just about all in. Along in the afternoon the skipper gave orders for all hands to knock off work for the rest of the day.

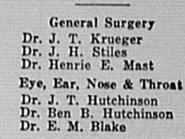

The men didn't argue about that. Most of them just walked to the shadiest spot they could find on that hot ship, flopped on the deck and rested. But there were a half dozen young fellows-George among them-who had a better idea. They stripped off their clothes and dived over the side into the water.

The Hot Sun Beat Down on the Hull of the Vessel.

The water was cool and refreshing. Those lads were in it, off and on, for the better part of the afternoon. They came out, now and then, for a breathing spell on the ship's deck, but the profits of three future years instead of one year, as at present, and (4) revaluation of capital stock every year instead of every three years. Probable net result: Mere reshuffling of Big Business' burden and maintenance of present federal expenditures, a situation which today brings complaints like the following:

Anent Taxes. To the American Petroleum institute, Standard Oil of Indiana reported it employed 30,000 people in 1938, meanwhile paying $97,485,205 in taxes. This was enough to pay 48,742 U. S. employees a salary of $2,000 each. Standard Oil's complaint: "A business operated by . . . 30,000 workers is called upon to support even more persons performing functions of government."

Anent Expenditures. Democratic Hopeful Bennett Champ Clark, middle-grounder, claims the one-yearold Civil Aeronautics authority already has a payroll exceeding the 52-year-old Interstate Commerce commission, which regulates the nation's entire railroad system. Furthermore, to drive home his plea for retrenchment, Senator Clark found CAA has more employees drawing federal pay than are employed by all the U.S. commercial airlines which it regulates.

The President laid the greatest stress on federal spending, and he made the rather startling statement that there can be no balanced budget either this year or next. Which can mean only that there must be more borrowing by the government which now is paying an annual interest charge of more than $1,000,-000,000 on the public debt that is well over $40,000,000,000. #### Argument for Pump Priming

In pooh-poohing the public debt and the great interest charge to be met every year, Mr. Roosevelt said the government had to continue spending and creating debt because. otherwise, there would be no business for the retailers or any other type of commercial endeavor. It smacked very much of the old argument for pump priming and certainly bore out many reports that Marriner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve banking system, has great influence with the President, who used to get his advice on financial matters from Secretary Morgenthau, of the treasury. Mr. Eccles may be regarded, I believe, as one of the most visionary of all of the inner circle of New Dealers. In any event, he has preached spending, spending and more spending by the government as the means of lifting the country out of the depression by its own bootstraps.

It is on this public debt matter that attention is likely to center more earnestly later on. The debt has been growing and growing and the general condition of the country may be said fairly to have advanced #### sun beating down on the iron hull of the vessel made it so hot that they were glad to get back in the water again.

A great reptile was between him and the ship-and not more than 20 feet from him.

The afternoon wore on and the sun began sinking toward the horizon. As its scorching rays withdrew little by little, the day became cooler. One by one the swimmers climbed back aboard the steamer and stayed there. Finally all of them were out of the water except one. And that one man was George Dorste.

George loved the water and he hated to leave it. He was swimming some distance away from the ship's side, and about half-way between it and the pier. As he splashed about in the river he heard a voice calling on shore and, looking up, saw a native standing on the pier.

The native was shouting to George, but in a language he didn't understand. Then suddenly he began to point toward the ship. George could figure out only one reason for that pointing. He immediately jumped to the conclusion that someone aboard had dropped something over the side and wanted him to retrieve it. He turned and swam slowly toward the ship. The native on the pier kept right on yelling, but George paid no attention. And then, suddenly, he saw it-a thing that looked like a log floating in the water, but a log that had a rough wrinkled snout and a pair of glassy eyes just showing above the surface!

> The Pier Was a Great Distance Away. A crocodile!

The great reptile was between him and the ship-and not more than 20 feet away from him. A shudder went through George's body when he saw it. He turned and began swimming toward the pier. But the pier was a great distance away-or at least, so it seemed to George. He knew that beast could catch up to him in less time than it takes to tell the story.

He was swimming as fast as he could-exhausting himself in a spurt for the pier. And the crocodile was following along behind. It seemed to George that the great reptile never approached any closer than that original 20 feet-the distance that had separated them when he turned toward the pier. Was the beast playing with him, as a cat would with a mouse? Or was it waiting until George had exhausted himself in his swim toward shore before those cruel jaws opened and closed over him?

Still swimming frantically, he reached the pier. And then another terrifying discovery greeted him. As he made frenzied efforts to climb up the poles that supported the pier, he found that he couldn't. Those polls were covered with a slippery moss. He could make no headway up them. And all the time, now, the crocodile was coming closer, swimming slowly toward what it knew must inevitably furnish it its evening meal.

He Scraped and Clawed at the Moss-Covered Piles.

By now, George was mad with terror. He was still clawing and scraping frantically at those smooth, moss-covered piles when the native on the dock came to his rescue. Suddenly, the native picked up a huge piece of scrap iron from a pile on the dock, and hurled it at the swimming crocodile. The piece missed. The native threw another-and that one found its mark. It hit the beast on the snout, and it dived beneath the surface.

By that time a boat had been launched from the ship. It came tearing across the water as George's shipmates pulled hard on the oars. It reached George a few seconds after the crocodile had gone down.

"As they pulled me out of the water," George says, "I lost consciousness for a minute or two. But I came back to life before the boat had reached the ship-in time to see the steely eyes of the crocodile which had reappeared once more. It was following along, not more than 10 feet behind the boat."

And George says that if he'd had a gun then, it would have given him the greatest pleasure to aim it right between those two glassy eyes and pull the trigger.

"I knew Asa too, and he used to make love to me. So finally, to make him stop, I told him Rab and I were married. But it didn't do any good. He kept after me just the same, and when I threatened to tell Rab, he said if I did, he'd tell old Mrs. Bowdon we were married. So I didn't tell Rab; but last night Asa kissed me, and Rab saw him, and was furious with me, so I had to tell him. Then he was wild at Asa-"

She broke off, for they were come suddenly to the top of Kenesaw Hill, to the Taine house. Inspector Tope hurried across the lawn.

Miss Moss saw how tired he was, and held him hard for a moment. "There," she whispered, "dear man!" And she asked: "Where is Clint? Where is June?"

He pointed to the Bowdon house a little way off, where there was a lighted window on the second floor. "They're asleep up there. Miss Leaford is in bed with a blanket over her; Clint in a chair beside her, holding her hand."

Tope and Miss Moss withdrew unnoticed. They went out on the front porch together, and Tope sat down. He shook his head helplessly. "Well, that's one on me," he confessed. "I guess I'm getting old. I was sure she was married to Asa."

"So was I," she admitted, eager to comfort him now. "Till she told me the truth, on the way up here

And he said in a somber tone: "Asa was mad, drunk with killing. He had a ladder ready over there. He must have meant to come back tonight, climb to June's room, kill her and old Mr. Hurder too." And he explained: "Mrs. Taine gave June milk tonight. | part I know." I think Asa had drugged that; but I spilled it, like a clumsy fool."

"Cabler says Rab can talk now," Heale told them a little later.

Rab had a twisted frown between his eyes. Lissa bent over him, and Miss Moss saw his fingers tighten on her hand.

"Where's Mother? I don't want her to hear.'

The hurt man nodded. "Where's Asa?" he asked then. No one answered him, but he seemed not to money, and Hurder's too," notice this neglect. "It was about Lissa," he repeated. "You've talked enough, Rab. Get some rest now."

He cleared the others briskly out of the room. Tope and Heale moved on through the hall to the front veranda; and as they emerged there, Tope said briskly:

"I've had my eye on Asa ever since he produced that bottle. What reason had he to go looking for it in the cellar, in the laundry-chute? The answer is, there wasn't any reason, unless he had some other business in the cellar."

"You think he did find the bottle there?" Heale asked.

Tope said explicitly: "Yes. Justus Taine dropped it down the chute. He left the Hurder front door unbolted that night, slipped back over there to get some of Mrs. Leaford's sleeping-tablets. There were only two in the bottle, so he took them, and dropped the bottle out of sight in the handiest place. With so few tablets in the bottle, she'd miss them in the morning; but if the whole bottle was gone, she'd just think it was mislaid." He added honestly: "Part of this is guessing;

And he went on: "So here's what we've got: Asa Taine was a thief; and he needed money. You heard what Rab said, that if any of the young ones married, they were to be disinherited. ## Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

FCPSIII-IZC StUIIIdUIT: When constipation brings on acid indi-gestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with cer-tain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that won-derful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsin-izing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. ## Where to Buy

Your Auto Parts

When in Slaton, visit the O. D. Kenney Auto Parts Store. Mr. Kenney came to Slaton 19 years ago. For seven years he was employed by the Santa Fe Railroad, five years in Slaton and two years in Clovis. Ten years ago Mr. Kenney opened an Auto Parts store in .... the outskirts of the city. The butiness has grown so it bus been necessary to move again and again into larger quarters until he now occupies his present large building at 145 North Ninth Street.

Eighteen years of service in Slaton and the large brick building filled with a selected stock of auto parts, tires and batteries are assurance of complete service in the line at O. D. Kenney's.

The Plains Lumber Company has been owned and operated by Mr. S. S. Forrest and Mr. C. A. Porter for the past 15 years. Mr. Forrest is one of the earliest pio eers of the South Plains.

The firm has built up its business on a policy of honesty and fair dealing, and today has one of the best stocked yards in this area. They offer not only building material but also a building service that is complete. There is a satisfaction in dealing with a firm that stands be ind its merchandise and services as this firm does, and they maintain a service they can guarantee.

Mr. Porter is active in civic and community affairs and ready to serve when called on. tanoch

The Rexall Drug Store in Slaton is operated by Mr. J. D. Holt, who came here from Dallas two years ago where he had been in the drug business for 16 years. He has the agency in Slaton for the Rezall Products, which products are among the standard drug and remedy lines of America today.

The store is air conditioned and so an enticing place to stop and shop and cool off on the hot days of summer. Cuch service is also maintained by the courteous and obliging staff employed there. Free delivery can be had at all hours of the business day.

Mr. Holt takes as active a part in community activities as he does in making his business one of the busy spots in Slaton.

Texas Grocery For Service and Quality

Mr. H. G. Sanders came to Simton 15 years age and opened the Texas Grocery. The tremendous energy Mr. Sanders puts into the management of the business is the fundamental source of the success of the Texas Grocery. This and a continued study of the food needs of his customers make his store a satisfactory place to do your ford shopping. The Texas Grocery uses the "Help Yourself System," and also employs three wide-awake young men to serve you. He operates a delivery service and is glad to serve your wants that are telephoned in. The shelves are stocked with staple and fancy groceries, The meats carried are the best and always fresh. ## Palace Gro. & Mar. Young But Growing

Mrs. A. I. Gregg, who has had a market in the Byars Grocery for a good many years, began looking for another location when Mr. Byars moved away. The building at 108 North Ninth being available, it was rented, renovated, fitted with beautiful black and white fixtures and a first class grocery and market was installed May 12, 1939.

Mrr. Gregg has in charge of the market, Mr. Frank Williams, who has been several years employed at such work and is an experienced meat buyer and a skilled cutter. Miss Opal Mosel is in charge of the grocery department. She, too, has had several years experience in this field of work and D widely acquainted in Slaton.

The new Palace Grocery is already enjoying a patronage that justifies the thought of those who catablished it that such a service was needed in the town. In the next coluumn is presented week-end specials that will be attractive to

These are some of the symptoms of biliousness or so-called "Torpid Liver," so prevalent in hot climates. They call for calomel, or better still, Calotabs, the nauscaless calomel compound tablets that make calomel-taking a pleasure. Calotabs give you the effects of calomel and salts combined, helping Nature to expel the sour, stagnant bile and washing it out of the system. One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of water,--that's all. Next morning your system feels clean and refreshed, your head is clear, your spirit bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure. Genuine Calotabs are sold only in checker-board (black and white) pack-ages bearing the trade mark "Calotabs." Refuse imitations. rately? Do you always sift the flour once just before measuring?

Do you use a fine granulated sugar when making cakes? There is a difference, you know.

Do you cream the shortening and mix the cake with a beating motion, not a stirring motion? Do you level off the teaspoon measures of baking powder, salt or soda with a knife so as to be sure hey, too, are accurate? Do you start the oven 10 to 15 minutes in advance so it will be uniformly hot before the cake is placed in it? Do you use a small, inexpensive oven thermometer for securing accurate oven temperatures if your range has no oven heat-control? These are some of the chief factors, careful attention to which helps to spell success in cake baking. Try
