

$5.00 REWARD!

The Slatonite will pay $5.00 to the first person that reports the location of an outside toilet within the fire limits of Slaton that meets the requirements of the city sanitary ordinance, or of any state law governing such places. Get busy boys; find one and get your $5.00.

INCREASE IN SCHOOL TAX CARRIED LAST SATURDAY

An election was held last Saturday to determine whether or not the tax should be increased from 50c to 75c on the $100 valuation. The proposition carried by a vote of 128 to 107.

Very little opposition was manifested except among the Catholics, and some of them favored the tax. However, their opposition was not unexpected, neither was it unreasonable, because of the fact that they are supporting their own school in Slaton and receive no benefit from the tax, not even getting free textbooks.

Lubbock held an election a few days ago to increase the tax rate to 75c and the proposition failed by nearly two to one.

Fourteen other districts in Lubbock county have held elections to increase their rate to $1.00 on the $100 valuation, and out of that number only one district failed to carry the proposition. That was Grovesville, a small district in the northwest portion of the county.

Therefore the citizenship of Slaton should feel proud of the city's progressiveness, especially when the county seat town should turn the proposition down.

COME TO SLATON.

J. L. AND J. S. HARVEY BUY INTEREST IN GROCERY

J. L. and J. S. Harvey have bought the interest of W. E. Smart in the Lanham & Smart grocery, and have already assumed their duties at this popular store. Messrs. Harvey are not strangers in the Plains country, having lived at Plainview and Clovis for many years, coming to Slaton from Arizona, where they spent the past year. Both are experienced business men and capable of serving you in a most acceptable manner. The new firm invites you to call and get acquainted with its new members.

YOUNG RIOT SUNDAY.

About 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon two men, a boy and a woman engaged in an altercation on the northwest corner of the square. City Marshal Nix was soon upon the scene but was unable to control the situation without assistance. Other officers were summoned and in the course of about an hour everything was quiet. One of the men plead guilty Monday and paid his fine. The other three offenders had not been brought into court up to Thursday night.

SWAT THE FLY CAMPAIGN.

It is doubtful if there was ever a time when more flies were in Slaton than the present. The breeding places for them are so plentiful that it does not surprise any one.

This would be an ideal time for the mayor to issue a proclamation calling upon the entire citizenship to clean up their premises and alleys and to start a "Swat-the-Fly" campaign.

Slaton has many other progressive tendencies, why not keep up with the wheels of progress along sanitary lines.

BASEBALL.

Roswell was here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and took three games from the home boys, but not by such heavy scores.

Roswell will return to Slaton Sunday for another game with the local club.

On next Tuesday the local Masons and Elks will cross bats at the Slaton ball park, and this game promises to be worth the money. Betting odds on Wall Street are already 2 to 1 in favor of the Elks even though the Masons recently took two straight games from the Odd Fellows.

SLATON GUN CLUB.

The score for Wednesday's shoot follows:

JUDGE PAUL P. MURRAY DOING HIS BIT TO ENFORCE THE CHICKEN ORDINANCE

Judge Paul P. Murray, city recorder, lives in the south part of town, next to a neighbor, Rev. James, who has a flock of chickens that seemed to persist in eating the judge's truck. The Judge proceeded to shoot one or more of his neighbor's chickens, believing that this was probably the quickest way to enforce this ordinance. While sitting on the official bench in Hon. R. A. Baldwin's office Monday Rev. James called on Judge Murray regarding the chicken incident and made his complaint. After carefully reading the chicken ordinance to him the Judge inquired if he did not recognize the laws of our land. He promptly replied that he recognized no law except that of God, and informed the Judge that he was a fit subject for prayer, that prayer was what he needed and not the application of a chicken ordinance. He immediately knelt in the office, praying long and fervently that God would so enlighten the spiritual side of the Judge that he would never be tempted to again destroy his chickens in such manner. Mr. Murray declares that it was the best prayer that he ever heard.

SLATON IN THE WET COLUMN.

The Slaton section has been deluged with rain during the past few days. Some sections report as much as ten inches, and it is believed that the minimum rainfall would measure as much as five or six inches. Very little hail has been reported.

These rains came at a time when needed for growing crops, but will stop grain harvesting for a few days.

JACOB HATCHER EXHIBITING FINE SAMPLES OF WHEAT

Jacob Hatcher, a progressive farmer of the Southland community, was in Slaton Monday exhibiting heads of wheat from his 1921 crop and also the crop of last year. In 1920 he grew Kharkov bearded wheat with a yield of 15 bushels per acre, testing 61 and 62. This year he planted Kharkov beardless wheat, which he has just cut and indications are that the yield will be equally as heavy or heavier, even though his crop suffered hail damage estimated at 33 per cent by the company carrying insurance on it. This beardless wheat has 4 and 5 kernels to the mesh and as high as 79 kernels to the head.

Attention, Business Men.

Do not overlook the fact that a law becomes effective June 12, which requires that every business institution where the firm name does not carry the name of the owners or owners is required to file a statement with the county clerk regarding the ownership of such business. The time limit is near at hand. Don't overlook it.

THE EXPECTANCY OF SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Be it known to all who have the interest of the children of the coming generations at heart that there is no one who is more responsible to the life of a child that is to follow than the careful guidance of a well trained and a true moral character in the world than a school teacher. It is in the school where greatest contact to the training for higher ideals of life is met with a child is there introduced to the pages of history, language, mathematics, sciences and last but not least the moral ethics which go to increase the efficiency of the individual who is to be one of the cogs of the great machinery of our republic, and the capacity of this cog will depend upon the early training received in the grades of our public school.

Therefore it behooves every school board to be very cautious in selecting material to direct the rising generation over the earlier billows of the child's career. Next to the ministry, there is no higher calling than the teacher's call.

For they are the best trained professional class of folks and the least salaried in proportion to the requirement than any other profession under the canopy of heaven, and sometimes are required to live under rather abnormal convenience, facing the scorn and criticism of gossiping lips, many times they are denied the pleasures of the circles of society because of some foggy idea of some school board member. Nothing reduces the energy and interest of a teacher than to be denied the pleasures of a community, and the old adage, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies to school teacher as well as any walk of life.

As a tip to school boards in general from an ex-teacher, whose experience has been as an observer of teacher, adviser to the school boards as to the selection and election of teachers in both grades and high schools, I always did believe in giving teachers who know the school, pupils and people of the community at least the first chance to retain their positions. If they have not measured up to a standard teacher's expectancy, advise them in person, not by indirect means, give them a chance equal to any other vocation, and then if they fail to tally up to a certain standard, relieve them at once, the same as all other lines of labor. No one is more conscientious than a school teacher, and especially a lady teacher, and sentimental toward the youth, and sensitive to lack of interest on the part of the patrons and board of directors. Teachers are human, and a little encouragement will add much to the good of the community through the children, just by having passed a good word to a struggling teacher at the right time in the right manner.—AN EX-TEACHER, whose interest is in schools in general.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN.
(Copyrighted by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, May 18.—During first part of week centering on May 23 the most severe storm of the month will make its appearance in the northwest part of the continent driving before it the warmest weather of the month. That will be a dangerous storm and I warn everyone to be on the watch for it. All its features will be extreme. All the continent will be affected by it. The center of its warm wave is expected to cross meridian 90 near St. Louis not far from May 23, take the usual southeastward course into the Middle Southern States, which it will reach near May 24, and then northeastward toward Newfoundland, reaching the Atlantic near May 26. Unusually heavy rains are expected from the storm and where the rivers and other water courses were high from the rains first part of May probabilities are favorable to floods. Hail is expected in some places, particularly in the Southern States. Much cooler weather and killing frosts in Northern sections are expected to wind up this great storm period.

In a general way this storm is expected to bring good crop weather but damages in some sections by too much rain. The excessive rain is expected principally where the central parts of the storm runs against high ridges or mountains. Take the storm path as I have laid it out across the continent as the route over which the storm center will move. The clouds and wind will move in a circle around that storm center contrary to the movement of the watch hands when you lay the watch on the ground face up. Where those clouds and winds move toward rising ground, high ridges will not be far from where the heaviest rains and the most damaging floods. Don't forget that I am now closely forecasting all the weather events long before they come. Weather events of May are now occurring close to my program. Heavy rains first part of May and the cool weather were long before predicted. If you get through without damage by this coming great storm you will be fortunate.

Crop weather and crop weather conditions of June will average close to the general normal of that month and therefore will be generally satisfactory. Markets will not be much affected by the weather but probably will be by other causes. First ten days of June will be unusually stormy with too much rain in some sections. Dangerous storms are expected during week centering on June 10 and 26. Unusually cool during weeks centering on June 4 and 28. Hottest week centering on June 16.

I intend to challenge official science to a test of weather forecasts soon and may get ready to begin with July. These test forecasts will be sent to newspapers, individuals and institutions that record weather events.

Philosophy of Chiropractic

(Part Two.)

Chiropractic recognizes but two conditions of disease. An excess of function and a diminished amount of function. The body in health is self-regulating, provided that nothing abnormal interferes with the workings of this vital machine. Every organ, tissue and cell seems to know what to do and when to do it, in order that everything will run smoothly and with the least possible friction. This same self-regulating power is inherent in all the bodily mechanisms, but unfortunately, however, these paths over which the self-regulating influence pass are far from being free from obstructions which interfere with normal function and thus produce disease or incoordination.

Now, as to the causes producing disease. They may be divided into tangible and intangible causes. An existing or tangible cause is one whose removal results in the restoration of normal function, and is always the result of intangible cause. Therefore, before an intangible is really completed it may be regarded as an existing and tangible cause.

Examples of intangible causes are the displacing of a vertebrae by a violent fall, strain or shock. A poison is taken into the body. It acts upon the nervous system in such a way that it produces malnutrition, interfering with metabolism in the ligaments and cartilages about a joint and possibly muscles, creating a lack of tonicity, from which a displacement may result. The system gets rid of the poison, but the displacement remains. By dissipation, gluttony, etc. one may produce vaso-motor changes so as to cause great shrinkage in the intervertebral discs, thereby producing displacement and causing serious disease. It is therefore plainly to be seen that the removal of a completed cause does not result in so-called cure when existing or tangible causes are in reality anatomical causes.

There are, however, abnormal environments which cell activity may throw off or in some way correct. For example, the abnormal effect of wrong diet. In case of a bruise, the very abnormal action which the bruise produces is the foundation of the healing process. The most important environment which is to stand out as one being abnormal from an etiological and therapeutic standpoint must conform to each of the following conditions:

- (1) It must act as the prime mover in directly interfering with the nervous system or indirectly interfering with the nervous system by direct interference with the flow of blood to and from the nervous system.
- (2) Its occurrence must exceed that of any other abnormal environment.
- (3) It must be one which the vital activity of the inner machine will not overcome or make normal.

You can make it—yourself

DELTOR is not only a way to make home dressmaking easy:

DELTOR is a marvelous new way of making your own home dressmaking look like the work of a Paris or Fifth Avenue Shop!

When you open your Butterick Pattern to begin work, right there the DELTOR appears, to show you exactly how the expert cutter would lay out your particular size of that particular pattern, on the very width and kind of goods you have bought for it.

The economy alone of this is a great deal. If using a Butterick Pattern with its DELTOR saved only a fraction of a yard, and the materials were of the cheapest, the saving in these days would be worth while. But in expensive materials DELTOR may easily make you a clear saving of two, three or even four dollars!

When it comes to putting the garment together, DELTOR is almost like having the master tailor of the Paris or New York shop appear at your side to direct you. For exactly what he would do with those very pieces you now have before you, if he were making it to your order, is shown, step by step, by the DELTOR. You do not experiment, you do not worry, you simply do first what the first picture shows you how to do; then you do the next thing, then the next, and so on, and no matter if you never made up a garment before in your life, you will at every step be doing just what the master tailor would be doing. All that is necessary is for you to follow each picture in order.

DELTOR shows you when to picot, when to gather, when to tuck, when to press, when to drape, what kind of seam to use here and what kind there, and so on and on until your own fingers reproduce in your own garment the very genius of the great shop.

DELTOR, as would be expected, is a Butterick invention and exclusively a feature of Butterick Patterns. It is patented and can be used only with Butterick Patterns.

Every new Butterick Pattern now includes a DELTOR made specifically for that one pattern.

(4) Its correction must result in the automatic removal of the greatest member of other abnormal environments.

The nervous system is responsible for the nervous environments of other tissues and itself; it is also responsible for chemical, thermal, and to a certain extent mechanical environments of all tissues, including itself. Because of this the integrity of the nervous system is so necessary to health that an injury to it is so far reaching that it can be truthfully said a healthy nervous system means a healthy body. Some other environments which we must contend with are chemical, humid, electrical, mental or psychic, thermal and photic. Secondary causes of disease are ordinary changes in climate, altitude, drinking water, natural food, ordinary exposure to the elements (cold, wet and heat), lack of exercise, mental excitement or depression and loss of sleep.

From the foregoing facts it can be readily seen that mechanical pressure, the result of displacements of osseous or other compact structure by interfering with normal action of nerves and vessels, is the general cause of disease. No pathology can be more simple and none can be more thoroughly demonstrated.

Chiropractic possesses the most successful and scientific correction of the skeletal framework and it is bound to win and hold the highest position in the field of therapeutics. Its foundation is broad; its methods direct and certain and its results most gratifying.

C. A. SMITH, Chiropractor.

HOGVILLE.

A large and enthusiastic rain cloud attended the ice cream supper given by the Widow of the Bear Ford community Tuesday night. The cream all got wet, also Gape Allsop and Miss Farusia Allsop. The elements have been so unkind to the Widow of late that she would now be almost afraid to plan a second husband.

Spring is now here for certain—Zero Peck has shown signs of developing symptoms of spring fever. This is the best and most reliable barometer Hogville has on this subject.

The preacher of the Bear Ford church in his sermon last Sunday night lectured for the old-fashioned woman dressed in the old-fashioned way. In the course of his remarks he said: The modern woman's lower limbs are all in view, her chest is bare, her arms are naked and what she does have on is made of a little lace and pickaboo stuff. They seem very careful to keep their ears hid.

Dag Smith visited Pumpkinville one day last week. Automobiles are beginning to get pretty thick there and Dag says it seems to him that drivers of some instead of trying to be careful and not hurt anyone with them, they try to hit a fellow.

Rumor has had it for some time that Gape Allsop was about to marry the widow of the Bear Ford community, but by announcement to friends at the postoffice yesterday Gape set the matter at rest. He said there was nothing to the report; that he thought very well of the widow, but with her five children there was too much "boot" in the transaction. However he does not wish the lady to know the reason as he thinks she already has trouble enough with her children.

Bill Hellwanger fears prohibition is going to stick this time. While in Pumpkinville last week Dag Smith attended a dance at a public hall. He says the dancers all appeared to have St. Vitus dance. (Dag does not know about the shimmy.)

The old still house on Petunia Ridge was destroyed by fire last night. No effort was made to save it. The fire fighters devoted all their energies to saving the new moonshine still which is located in the timber near by.

It is generally conceded that Zero Peck's grandchildren and great-grandchildren will have no ancestry to brag about, unless it be on the mother's side of the house.

Since so many people have died from drinking wood alcohol Dag Smith has adopted a plan of testing all the liquor he gets. He keeps guinea pigs and gives one of them a few drops of each lot and awaits the results before taking any for himself.

AT THE WILSELMA.

"The Sugar Trail." "The Sugar Trail," a one reel educational film will be shown at the Wilselma Theatre Wednesday, May 25. This film depicts the beet sugar industry from the wild sugar beet as nature created it, and the work of man in developing nature's creation. The harvesting and other operations necessary to produce sugar. By animated statistics is shown in a forceful manner the world's production and consumption, and how consumed. The shrinkage in production due to the war. The film does not advertise, but it does furnish valuable information, regarding this important commodity, which the public should know.

SWISHER COUNTY SHERIFF ARRESTS YOUNGER BROTHER
 About 1:30 p. m. Thursday, Tom Walters of Tullia, sheriff of Swisher county, received a wire from Sheriff Byrd of Snyder, sheriff of Scurry county, telling him to look out for Hupmobile car occupied by man and woman going north. Later in the afternoon he received a second wire from the sheiff of Lubbock county giving him a similar command. When the first wire was received Sheriff Walters gave it very little attention.
 But when the second was received a greater interest was created. Still later in the afternoon he received a wire from J. C. Terry of Plainview telling him to "watch out for suspicious man and woman going north, driving a Hupmobile." When this message was received Sheriff Walters collected a posse of men and deputies and secreted themselves under a bridge a short distance this side of Tullia awaiting the arrival of the car.
 Soon after getting to the bridge they noticed an approaching car which they discovered was a "Hup" when it came nigh. The officers who were heavily armed made their appearance and commanded the driver to stop.
 Sheriff Walters approached the car and discovered that it was his younger brother whom he had not seen for sixteen years. Young Walters was accompanied by his wife, they having recently married and were taking their honeymoon across this section and had planned to visit the sheriff of Swisher county and at the same time test the ability of their brother as a peace officer.—Plainview Herald.

PUTTING YOUR TOWN FIRST.
 The patriotic citizen is the one who puts his home town ahead of all others.
 He trades with his neighbors in spite of the inducements offered by the mail order houses.
 He takes pride in the schools and churches.
 He tells every prospector that he lives among the best people God ever made.
 He boosts enach new enterprise that is opened up and always declares that there is room for more.
 No man ought to live in a place unless he thought that place was the best location beneath the sun. He reflects on his intelligence when he kicks, because he has full freedom to go where he pleases. Men who are worth something to a community, to society, to civilization, are the ones who have faith in those around them and who find that which is commendable in their town, rather than to fall out with.
 When we visit a city the individual who wins our respect and friendship is the one who begins to tell us about all the good things in that city. The more enthusiastic he becomes the better we like him. But when a fellow begins to knock and talk hard times and to question the honesty of all those around him, we never go back to have another conversation with that fellow.
 Hard times come to every community; there are seasons when it takes a stout and hopeful heart to see the sunshine. But there is something so likeable about the citizen who talks of the silver lining to the clouds that he can always have a crowd gathered about him.
 Someone has said something similar to this, but we are going to say it anyway: The man who is an optimist might make his home in the poorest town on earth, but people will make a beaten path to his door to hear him boost it.

YOUTHS REPRIMANDED

 Amarill, June 6.—Two boys were morning on a charge of having unlawfully entered the Amusement Park anded by Judge McKinnon and told that should they or any other boys be brought before him on that charge that they would be heavily fined. The evidence shows that these boys disregarded the Boy Scouts who were guarding the entrances to the park and with an oath told the Scouts that they would "knock them into next week" if they didn't get out of the way.

 "The police department and the corporation court stand squarely behind the Boy Scouts in their work on such occasions. They are the junior police and we will not stand for them to be mistreated or abused by anyone," said Judge McKinnon.

LABOR SITUATION AT CLOVIS IS UNSETTLED—NO VIOLENCE
 Clovis, N. M., May 31.—Clovis has been in an excited mood for the past few days as the result of a badly mixed up squabble over wages paid the men on the paving construction work.
 The trouble dates back several weeks when most of the men on the grading crews walked out, demanding a raise in pay from 35 to 50 cents per hour.
 Things dragged along until last Saturday when a delegation of union men from the shops marched through the streets and held a series of conferences regarding the attitude of the mayor and others on the wage situation.
 Wednesday afternoon a delegation of laboring men demanded that the workers on the surfacing crew on East Munro Avenue walk out. They refused, and were given until 7:05 a.
 m. Thursday to make up their minds.
 Thursday night sixty citizens of Clovis and Curry county met at the court house, and without taking a stand one way or the other on the wage problem, expressed a determination that law and order must be maintained.
 So far negotiations have been carried on peaceably and no violence has been offered.
 A committee consisting of Carl Hatch, Frank Dice, Wm. Holdinghaus-en, A. B. Austin, and J. R. Denhof was appointed to confer with the union men. At this conference the committee recommended that the matter be taken up with the construction company in a business-like way with a view to settling things definitely.
 A. R. Hebenstreit of Albuquerque, vice president of the New Mexico Construction Company, stated that about 100 men are employed by the company on the paving work, and these men are receiving from 35 cents an hour up. These are Clovis men, Mr.
 Hebenstreit says with the exception of a very few skilled workers who have been here since the job started.

THE BLACK HEART.

The boy and the girl, adventurers, walked along the road with the creature who looked something the size and kind of Mr. Wood Elf, except that they had noticed that he had a large black patch in the shape of a heart over where his heart was.

The girl had decided that he wore it to scare bad creatures whom he might meet on his travels.

"Well," he said, as they stood by the soda fountain in a little shop which was kept by Mr. and Mrs. Summer-Senson-Friends, "what kind of soda will you have, dear?" He looked at the girl.

"I'll have strawberry ice cream soda," she said.

"And I'll have a chocolate nut sundae," said the boy.

"You haven't any sense," she said. "You should have a coffee ice cream soda. That's what I take and so I know."

"But I've always taken the same kind," said the boy, "and I know I like it."

"But you don't know anything of the sort," said the creature.

He waved his arms and said: "Can't you do what I say? I'm the one who is right. No one else in this whole world is right but me."

He could see the black patch now which was in the shape of a heart. He had quite forgotten about it when he had started waving his arms about.

"You were so sweet and kind to us first," said the girl. "Can't you keep on being nice? We did like you so. We hate not to like you now. We don't think you're being very nice to us. If you wanted to give us sodas and make us happy why do you want us to take what you like?"

"Oh, I'm sick of all of you," said the creature. "I'm tired of you all. You're all so wrong. Now that we've started this discussion about what we think about sodas and which we like and I know you're wrong and I'm right, what do you think of the way Master Thoughtfulness acts?"

"Oh, we love Master Thoughtfulness," said the girl.

"He's one of our very best friends," said the boy.

"He doesn't agree with me," said the creature.

"Well, does that make any difference?" asked the boy. "He is always so thoughtful I am sure he lets you think what you want to as long as you aren't cruel. I do know he doesn't like cruel creatures."

"What I Take."

"He is abominable," said the creature, "because he doesn't agree with me. Of course, he tells me I can have my thoughts. I can like coffee ice cream soda and no other kind, I can think all children under four should be in bed before seven or I can think they should be in bed before six, but he says I shouldn't want to make everyone agree with me. He says we should all have our own right to think as long as we don't think cruel, mean or horrid things. If we think those, he says, they'll show later."

"It has with me. Of course you've seen my black heart. But you did like my face. I'm one who tries to let folks to agree with me by any means! I'm called the creature with the Black Heart, and I also have another name which they know around these parts. You may have met some of my relatives and cousins. I've lots of them."

"What is your name?" asked the boy, feeling somewhat frightened of this queer creature. And it was growing dark, too.

"My name is Intolerance. Anyone who doesn't agree with me I cannot stand. If they agree with me I'm nice as you first thought. I say that no one has a right to think anything unless it is what I think. And if you won't agree with me I'll—well, I don't know what I'll do—I'll call my faithful companions Arrogance and Cruelty and see what they have to say."

"I don't like him," whispered the boy to the girl, and she nodded her head.

REDEEMING TRAIT.

"I know I'm old, but I'm crazy about you," stated Mr. Moneybags. "When I go I'll leave all my fortune to you if you'll have me."

"Have you any bad habits?" asked Miss Goldilocks, thoughtfully.

"Only that I walk in my sleep, if you could call that a bad habit."

"You dear old thing. Of course I'll marry you. And we'll have our honeymoon on the top floor of some tall hotel, won't we!"—American Legion Weekly.

Collectors of customs, being constantly on the watch for smugglers, have certain demands which they repeat almost unconsciously. Not long ago a tourist came ashore with a badly swollen cheek.

"Well," said the officer, impatiently, "open it, please."—Boston Transcript

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 5

MAKING THE NATION CHRISTIAN.

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 33:12; Prov. 14:34; Rom. 13:1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Prov. 14:34.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deut. 5:21; Psalm 78:5-7.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Love for His Country.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Loving and Helping Our Country.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to Our Country.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Principles in Law and Government.

Not "Making the Nation Christian," if the lesson committee please. Neither of the passages chosen for today's lesson has any bearing on the title chosen by the committee. However, they do set forth some important teachings regarding the nation, and the teacher should carefully bring out their vital meaning. The New Testament nowhere teaches that any nation will be made Christian in this dispensation; but rather that Christ is gathering out from among the nations the people who shall constitute His church, showing that God's purpose is the salvation of individuals.

I. "Blessed is the Nation Whose God is the Lord." (Psa. 33:12).

This verse shows Israel's peculiar distinction. Israel is the only nation of which, in name even, it could be said that Jehovah was its God. He called this nation into being for a peculiar purpose. It was not a case where a nation chose God, but where God chose a nation for His own inheritance. It would be blessed to have an inheritance in God, but how infinitely more blessed to be God's inheritance! No nation can have Israel's unique place, but the nation which today gives God His rightful place in its affairs shall be singularly blessed. America has been singularly blessed in the times when she acknowledged God. In the recent awful war when the national congress set aside a day of prayer, God heard the cry of His people and victory was given to the allies.

II. A Nation's Glory (Prov. 14:34). The only fame for which a nation may justly be proud is righteousness, the rendering to all their dues. It is this that makes a nation strong and influential. A nation that sins—counts its sacred covenants as "scraps of paper," becomes an outcast among the nations and eventually goes down to ignominious defeat. The nation that has no righteousness as its standard has no right to exist.

III. Christian Citizenship (Rom. 13:1-10).

The believer in Christ is a citizen as well as a church member. Intelligent Christians will show loyalty to the state as well as to the church.

1. The Christian's obligation to the state (vv. 1-7). This obligation is upon all Christians. The reason this obligation is universal is that civil government is ordained of God, and the rulers are His representatives. Society could not exist without government. It is God's purpose that man should live under authority. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to resist God.

(2) The spirit of such obedience (v. 5). It is to be conscientious, that is, it is to be regarded not merely as serving a good purpose, but morally right.

(3) The nature of this obedience (vv. 6, 7). (a) Payment of personal and property taxes. The citizens who enjoy the benefits of government are morally bound to support it. (b) Payment of duty upon merchandise and license fees. The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For such regulations expense is incurred, for which benefits the citizens should pay. (c) Veneration of magistrates. "Fear to whom fear." Those who fear God should venerate his representatives, that is, civil rulers. (d) "Honor to whom honor," that is, honor of civil servants because of the ministry they perform.

2. The Christian's obligation to his fellow citizens (vv. 8-10). This is summed up in the word "love." Love is a perpetual obligation. The only debt that is right to owe is that of love. This love forbids defrauding in matters of property; it forbids going into debt where there is no reasonable certainty of being able to meet the obligation; it forbids defrauding in matters of moral purity. Where there is love, adultery cannot be committed; it forbids murder; it forbids stealing; it forbids coveting, for coveting means a desire for that which belongs to another; it forbids the working of any ill to one's neighbor.

DOG CAUGHT HIS OWN FISH WHY WHITEY STAYED HOME

Sportsman Given Authority for Remarkable Story That Appears in a London Periodical.

The London "zoo" fishing cat which so steadfastly refuses to show itself—except at meal times—has a rival in the fishing dog, says London Answers.

A sportsman was on the west coast of Madagascar, when he observed a dog come out of the thick bush in front of him and trot briskly down to the edge of the sea. When it had got a little way into the water it stopped and remained perfectly still, as a heron might when fishing at home. Its glance was never once taken off the water.

Suddenly it thrust its head into an oncoming wave, and reappeared with a large fish in its mouth. Quickly taking its capture ashore it squatted down and made a hearty meal. After a while the fishing operation was repeated, and it was evident to the witness of the incident that the dog made a regular practice of it.

Efficiency, like culture, is something that grows from within. It can't be imposed.

Men will admit that the rose is queen of the flowers, but it is the lilac that men worship.

Stuff He Put Away at Coney Was Too Much Even for Stomach of Healthy Boy.

"I couldn't come to work yesterday," said Whitey, the than whomer of office boys. "I was at Coney the day before an' I eat too much."

"Heaven's sakes, what did you eat?" asked the office manager.

"Well," said Whitey, "first we had peanuts, and then we had three hot dogs apiece and a couple ice cream cones. Then we had some popcorn and salt water kisses and red lemonade, and then we pushed nines on a pushboard for boxes of candy, and I won a box, and we eat that; they was chocolates, and then we had some sassa-parilla, because just before that we had some more peanuts, and they was kinda dry, and finally we finished it off with a banana split. After that we didn't have no more money, so we didn't eat no more except when a fellow treated us to a hot fudge sundae and bought us some more peanuts afterward."—New York Sun.

SO WEAK SO NERVOUS

How Miserable This Woman Was Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toomsboro, Ga.—"I suffered terribly with backache and headache all the time, was so weak and nervous I didn't know what to do, and could not do my work. My trouble was deficient and irregular periods. I read in the papers what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to give it a trial. I got good results from its use that I am now able to do my work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. F. PHILLIPS, Toomsboro, Ga.

Weak, nervous women make unhappy homes, their condition irritates both husband and children. It has been found that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," irritability and backache arise from some displacement or derangement of a woman's system. Mrs. Phillips' letter clearly shows that no other remedy is so successful in overcoming this condition as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Restores Color and Promotes Growth of Hair

LONGER SKIRTS IN FROM PARIS

New spring and summer creations keep coming from Paris at a rapid rate. No sooner have we seen the last collection than a fresh shipment of gowns and hats arrives to ravish our gaze.

At the houses of the smart dress-makers in New York, writes a fashion correspondent, imported gowns, designed for late spring and summer and not yet on public view, are all long of skirt and as simple as can be; not a sign of trimming or decoration has been left to them except of the most inconspicuous sort.

Take, for instance, the evening or dinner gown. It is of black crepe satin, and its lining, which shows on the hanging drapery at the side of the skirt, and again under the arms and at the waistline, is of royal blue crepe georgette. As far as trimming is concerned, there is none, only that shimmer of the deep blue that appears now and again to relieve the solid blackness of the frock. The whole art of the thing lies in the lines and in the general suitability of the frock to the personality of the wearer. The sketch came directly from Paris and shows well what they consider over there the right length of skirt. It is, doubtless, but a forerunner of the length of our skirts a season or two to come.

Among the frocks of muslin, cotton crepe or organdie of which such a vast quantity is shown for wear during the summer months, citron-yellow is by far the favorite shade.

Madeleine et Madeleine are trimming their rose and apricot mulls with country flowers made of other colors of organdie posed on the gowns at various fascinating places. An organdie rose will hold a ribbon belt in place and will show there not only the flowers but its leaves. Made of this fabric, the French can do anything with a material if it is in the least pliable, and the newer organdies are positively inspirational in their texture and in their colors. They make gardenias and sweet peas of organdie that put the real ones to shame, and then

Flowers in Some Favor

There are, as always in springtime, many trimmings of ribbon. There is an amusing little novelty in the way of ribbon of organdie edged by a picot in metal thread. In the same way stiff taffeta ribbons are supplied with this metal edge, and these Maria Guy uses in formal rosettes posed on the brims of some of her hats.

Flowers seem to be finding again some of their lost favor. They lean toward being made extraordinary large, not the models set down by nature; they diverge in many ways and the more conventional type the better they seem to be liked.

At the shop of Lucie Hamar one sees wreaths and garlands of these newer flowers mingled with bunches of luscious looking fruit and the whole of the arrangement is then treated to a bath of cire finish which makes it shine most attractively. They look altogether like flowers of porcelain or wax. This same modiste makes flowers of taffeta that have a cire finish, and is resorted to as colors, blend-they use them with a skill that only a born artist can display.

For instance, a garland of these organdie posies is placed over one hip, starting at the waistline, and this is the only trimming that the dress is allowed, the rest of it being quite plain and simple, with only the simplest of picoted edges to set it off. Another motif of these little flowers starts on the right shoulder and floats over the front of the gown, to be fastened at the left side of the belt. The dress with this, too, is quite the background for the flower adornment. Doucet is showing frocks of colored and white linen in what is called the handkerchief quality, with trimmings of these little organdie flowers. The novelty of the trimming is a certain relief from the everlasting lingerie trimmings to which frocks of this character have for so long been confined.

Cotton nets and cotton laces are another combination which has received much attention for summer wear and for spring reception and party dresses. The nets are not white and cream only, as in former years, but this season they have been tinted every known tone and shade, and then the laces which are used with them are colored the self-same tone. Chiffon and lace are combined in this way, the lace being dyed to match the tissue.

A yellow net frock was made with a very full skirt, giving body by means of wide crosswise tucks. Between the tucks a two-inch cotton lace edging was placed, and this was dyed the same shade of citron-yellow. The bodice was a simple surplice affair, and the inevitable organdie flower—this time a pale pink camellia—held the pale green ribbon girdle in place.

Another cotton net frock was dyed a gray-blue, and the skirt was one mass of two-inch ruffles made of a cotton lace dyed the same shade, and put on in wide scallops or garlands.

Parisian hats are in full bloom, so to say. Most of the summer ones are big and floppy and flowery, but there are some small turbans recently imported which have a distinction of their own. There are the tiniest of close fitting turbans made solidly of leaves that are colored and lacquered. It is no rarity for the leaves to be a rich, deep brown or a dull and shiny green or rose colored or, for that matter, any color that happens to strike the fancy of the modiste. But the leaves are not all. Over them is draped a veil of chantilly dyed a shade to match exactly the shade of the leaves underneath it.

Leather as Hat Fabric.

The French are using leather a good deal, too, for hats. It is a soft, drapable variety of leather. All the rules of leather have been disregarded and the stuff has been used as though it were the most accepted hat fabric under the sun. One large and broad-trimmed hat was made of brilliant red leather, and it had little steel rivets applied cleverly at the base of that where a bow was tied at the right side by way of a bit of trimming. Another leather hat, also of red, was embroidered in black chenille and then twisted into one of those drapery turban things turning off the face. It was the sort of shape that has been popular for some seasons past and to which the French milliner is capable of always giving a fresh twist, if desired.

Lace, too, is still a favorite with them over there. They are making whole picture hats of it and using it for trimmings on others. They seem loath to relinquish the grace and the drooping quality of this material, which, above all others, has that feminine look which best adapts itself to the making of hats. They have used lace for veils and scarfs and bows and for transparent brims, and when they use it they take great pains to allow the pattern to show at its best

Happy Pupil.

A Philadelphia lad had a private tutor in the person of a charming young woman.

About three o'clock one afternoon the boy observed: "Excuse me, Miss Smith, but my two hours are up."

Whereupon Miss Smith, who had become engaged the evening before to a wealthy young man from New York, replied:

"I am so happy today, Clarence, that I am going to give you an extra hour free!"

Sympathy.

"See that man going into the office building?" the chauffeur inquired as he casually prepared to move his car from the curb. "I feel sorry for him sometimes—he has to work so darned hard."

"You mean in order to make his living?" the doorman, in response, asked idly.

"No," the chauffeur replied as he gently let in the clutch, "to make mine."

Her Discovery.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I didn't know you were so fond of children!"

"What makes you think I'm so fond of them?"

"Every now and then you mention some one you call Babe Ruth with such extraordinary affection."

When a woman begins to lose her eyesight she makes an ideal chaperon.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

And sprinkle in the foot-bath ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic, healing powder for Painful, Swollen, Smarting Feet. It prevents blisters and sore spots and takes the sting out of corns and bunions. HEARD AROUND TOWN.

I didn't have anything
Of special importance
On my mind
So I thought I'd go up
And watch Judge Paul P. Murray
Preside over police court
And when I got there
He was trying a negro
Who had been brought up
On the charge of Beating his wife
And the wife was there too
And she showed signs
Of rough treatment
And had some patches
Pasted on her face
And Judge looked at the man
And allowed dignity
To ooze over his face
And then he asked
The dark defendant
If he wasn't ashamed
Of beating a frail woman
In such unmanly fashion
And the negro replied
That he had tried his best
To keep from beating her
But that she irritated him
To such an extent
That he couldn't resist
And the first thing he knew
He'd scored a knock-out
And Judge asked him
What he meant when he said
That she irritated him
And the negro replied
"Whenever she got mad
"She'd come up to me
"And then she'd say
"You jas' hit me
"You jes' strike me
"Ef you dare to do it
"An' I'll have you up
"Before that no-account judge
"What don't know nothin'
"An' never will
"Although I don't think
"He'll have sense enough
"To do anything
"Because all you men
"Ain't worth nuthin."
And Judge looked at the woman
And looked at the man
And more dignity
Oozed over his countenance
And in a voice
That could be heard
All over the room
He announced his decision
"NOT GUILTY"
And the negro went out
And so did his wife.

IT AFFECTS "EVERY MOTHER'S SON OF US."

The settling down and readjusting of conditions, commercial and otherwise, to a pre-war basis affects "every mother's son of us," regardless of place or position. How has it, or how is it going to affect you? You are the one most interested in your future and you must answer the question, to yourself at least. Have you thought; have you planned? If not, isn't this the best time in the world to start thinking and planning?

Isn't it always the trained men and women that win? It is so in every walk of life. Trained men and women won the war and it didn't take them long to train, did it? Trained men and women win in business, and it will not take you long to train if you attend the right school.

The Tyler Commercial College offers you an opportunity that no other business college in this section can offer. We teach the famous Byrne Simplified Shorthand, the most modern and practical system in use today. It is so simple that one can become a better stenographer with it than with any other system, in just half the time and at half the cost. The merit of this system is largely responsible for the fact that this institution is the largest business training institution in America.

Would you eat with a wooden spoon? Then, why study the old, long, tiresome systems of shorthand that require the learning of hundreds of rules, exceptions, word signs, etc., from three to four months hard study on the text-book alone, when you can master the principles of the Byrne Simplified in one week, then have nothing but practice for speed.

We give you anything you want in any department of commercial training and save you much time and money. Most thorough, complete and practical courses of Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Cotton Classing, Telegraphy and Business Administration and Finance to be had. Positions secured for all graduates.

Pueblo Disaster One of Worst in History Country

Latest reports to the outside world from Pueblo, Colorado, are to the effect that the situation in that flood-swept city is worse than even earlier dispatches indicated. Various estimates as to the number killed have reached Denver and Colorado Springs and points down the Arkansas river valley to the east which make it certain the death list can hardly be below five hundred.

Many claim this number low. It is known that scores of tourists were in the valley west of the city when the flood waters broke, who perished and were not included in the estimates of the loss of life in Pueblo proper.

Property damage can hardly be estimated. Miles of railroad tracks have been washed away in every direction. Railroad officials rushed men to the scene to repair tracks and bridges. It will be necessary to construct at least two bridges across the Arkansas river before trains can pass through to the west and north.

Damage by the flood and fires which followed have been estimated at least $10,000,000.

Refugees were being cared for in municipal buildings. Many were without adequate clothing. Food was being issued in small quantities to women and children. Military guards were ordered to shoot looters on sight.

Rescue work was carried out under the greatest difficulties. The light plant was put out of order with the first flood waters and relief workers were forced to work in darkness.

Burning buildings stood with bare walls covered for a height of five to ten feet with mud and slime, left by the onrushing waters.

Railsback Makes Statement.

C. S. Railsback, first survivor of the Pueblo flood to reach outside world, made the following statement:

The number of lives lost in the disaster which struck Pueblo like a bolt of lightning will never be known.

I spent the entire night with hundreds of others, rescuing women and little children. My mind is so befuddled now that I can scarcely collect my thoughts to write the terrible thing.

The main business district of Pueblo is gutted by fire and water.

Entire residence districts in some lowlands were completely wiped out. I saw several frame rooming houses topple over and plunge in the raging torrent, each filled with screaming men, women and children.

At one time water was fifteen feet deep in the Santa Fe yards. The yards were completely destroyed.

Thrilling Story Related of Wreck of Train by Colorado Sheriff.

Colorado Springs, June 6.—Frank Ducray, sheriff of Mesa county and a resident of Grand Junction, arrived here last night and gave one of the most thrilling and graphic stories of the Pueblo flood. Ducray was a passenger on a Denver & Rio Grande train, which arrived in Pueblo Friday night. The sheriff said the train was filled with passengers, about 20 in all.

Just as the train pulled up to the bridge of the Arkansas river leading to Union Station, it was stopped, he said.

"We were left there. On the next track was a Missouri Pacific train. We had been there only a short time when a roar of waters and a flood lapped at the coach steps. It rose rapidly. It soon rushed through the car.

Some of us went up and down the cars quieting passengers, many of whom were screaming, moaning and praying.

"A young girl was sitting in a seat crying. I stopped to reassure and comfort her. She said she was from Chicago and sobbingly called out 'Daddy, Daddy!' I told her we would look after her, which cheered her. But—well, I saw her swept away as the water rushed into the coaches and carried us out of the windows.

"An old lady sat in her seat smiling just before the water entered the coach. She declared that if it were her time to go, she was prepared and continued smiling. I reckon she died in her seat.

"In the water we clung to the coaches, the train, which was swaying back and forth, striking the coaches of the Missouri Pacific train."

Missionary Society.

The society met at the church Monday in a business and social session, conducted by the president, Mrs. Adams had just returned from the annual meeting at Quana and told us of some of the interesting things, but the main report will be given by Mrs. Pember next Monday. Mrs. Adams was elected district secretary of the Lubbock district, and we were real glad to have a conference officer in Slaton.

At the close of the meeting a splendid luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mesdames Scott, Odom, Minor, and Smith.

Chapter six will be discussed as follows at the next meeting:

Review of Chapter Five, Mrs. S. S. Forrest.

Topic: The Leaves of the Tree.

Leader, Mrs. Proctor.

First Topic, Mrs. W. R. Wilson.

Second Topic, Mrs. J. S. Edwards.

Third Topic, Mrs. T. A. Worley.

Fourth Topic, Mrs. S. H. Adams.

Fifth Topic, Mrs. L. C. Odom.

Report from Annual Meeting, Mrs. M. A. Pember.

Adjournment.

Goin-Phillips.

W. A. Goin of this city and Miss Gladys Phillips of Lubbock, were united in marriage in that city Wednesday morning.

Mr. Goin is manager of the Harvey House here, coming to Slaton several months ago from Lamy Junction, N. M., where he held a similar position, and has made many friends during his residence in this city.

Wednesday evening a luncheon was tendered to the bride and groom, W. M. Fowlkes and Miss Nellie Smith.

The Slatonite joins a host of friends in extending congratulations and best wishes to the newly-weds.

Payton-Bramlett.

James W. Payton and Miss Ruby Bramlett of the Union community, were married at the brides' home at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. D. J. Hubbard of this city officiating in a most impressive manner. This is Rev. Hubbard's first marriage ceremony since he was licensed to preach, but he gave it all the extra touches of a veteran marrying parson.

THE SLATON SLATONITE

The groom in this happy event is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Payton, and one of the county's most industrious young farmers. The bride is a daughter of one of Lubbock county's most highly respected families, and a young lady of many fine traits of character.

The newly-weds immediately went to housekeeping in a new cottage that the groom already had erected and furnished for his fair bride.

The Slatonite joins a host of friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Miss Smith Entertains.

Miss Hattie Smith entertained a house party Saturday and Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith. Saturday night "42" was enjoyed by all and refreshments of sandwiches, lemonade and fruits were served.

BAPTIST EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

A series of evangelistic services was announced to begin at the Baptist church last Sunday but on account of the excessive rains did not get in full swing until Wednesday.

Rev. E. T. Baldwin, a noted evangelist of Dallas, is doing the preaching, and the song service is under the direction of S. J. Strickland of Fort Worth.

Services are held at 10 in the morning and 8:30 in the evening. All are now being well attended and much interest manifested. The meeting will continue throughout next week.

SLASH AGAIN.

Short skirts for women have been vindicated. Hurrah! Cut off another foot or two.

Statistics gathered in Chicago show that the short skirt is responsible for reducing the number of accidents to women in boarding and alighting from cars and trains.

"Before the advent of the short skirt innumerable falls were caused by women stepping on their own skirts. Now the short skirts are cutting down the numbers of accidents," says the statistician.

Hurrah again! Off with still a little more!

We men will look the other way—
when our wives are around.

But there's another side to this question. While it may be true that fewer women have been hurt in street car accidents since they're wearing their skirts so short, it nevertheless would prove appalling if figures were available to show the number of poor pedestrians that have been run over since the dears adopted the modern styles.

"I ain't eggzactly used to this kind of a job, but if you'll look out o' the window, I'll have it chopped an' split an' corded in a minute," said Mr. Blenkinsop.

He got along very well with his task. When they began eating he remarked, "I've been lookin' at that picture of a girl with a baby in her arms. Brings the water to my eyes, it's kind o' lifelike and nat'ral. It's an A number one picture—no mistake."

He pointed at a large painting on the wall.

"It's Pauline!" said the Shepherd. "Sure she's one o' the saints o' God!" the widow exclaimed. "She's started a school for the children o' them Eytallans an' Poles. She's tryin' to make 'em good Americans."

"I'll never forget that night," Mr. Blenkinsop remarked.

"If ye don't forget it, I'll never mend another hole in yer pants," the widow answered.

"I've never blabbed a word about it to any one but Mr. Singleton."

"Keep that in yer soul, man. It's yer ticket to Paradise," said the widow.

"She goes every day to teach the Poles and Italians, but I have her here with me always," the Shepherd remarked. "I'm glad when the morning comes so that I can see her again."

"God bless the child! We was sorry to lose her but we have the picture and the look o' her with the love o' God in her face," said the Widow Moran.

"Now light yer pipe and take yer comfort, man," said the hospitable widow, after the dishes were cleared away. "Sure it's more like Christmas to see a man an' a pipe in the house. No, you can't help me with the dishes, and I wouldn't have you pottering around me if you could. Heavens, no! A man in the kitchen is worse than a hole in yer petticoat."

So Mr. Blenkinsop sat with the Shepherd while the widow went about her work. With his ruffled hair, clean-shaven face, long nose and prominent ears, he was not a handsome man, but there was something in his face today that had been absent for so long that it was a new man that sat at the table of the Widow Moran, a man whom happiness and the feeling that he had really got back his Old Self had transformed.

"This is the top notch an' no mistake," he remarked as he lit his pipe. "Blenkinsop is happy. He feels like his Old Self. He has no fault to find with anything or anybody."

Mr. Blenkinsop delivered this report on the state of his feelings with a serious look in his gray eyes.

"It kind o' reminds me o' the time when I used to hang up my stockin' an' look for the reindeer tracks in the snow on Christmas mornin'," he went on. "Since then, my ol' socks have been full o' pain an' trouble every Christmas."

"Those I knit for ye left here full of good wishes," said the Shepherd. "Say, when I put 'em on this mornin' with the b'iled shirt an' the suit that Mr. Bing sent me, my Old Self came an' asked me where I was goin' and when I said I was goin' to spend Christmas with a respectable family, he said, 'I guess I'll go with ye, so here we be.'"

"The Old Selves of the village have all been kicked out-of-doors," said the Shepherd. "The other day you told me about the trouble you had with yours. That night, all the Old Selves of Blingville got together down in the garden and talked and talked about their relatives so I couldn't sleep. It was a kind of Seiffand. I told Judge Crooker about it and he said that that was exactly what was going on in the Town hall the other night at the public meeting."

"The fo' are drunk—as drunk as I was in Hazelmead last May," said Mr. Blenkinsop. "They have been drunk with gold and pleasure."

"The fruit of the vine of plenty," said Judge Crooker, who had just come up the stairs. "Merry Christmas!" he exclaimed as he shook hands. "Mr. Blenkinsop, you look as if you were enjoying yourself."

"An' why not when yer Self has been away an' just got back?"

"And you've killed the fatted turkey," said the judge, as he took out his silver snuff box. "One by one the prodigals are returning."

They heard footsteps on the stairs and the merry voice of the Widow Moran. In a moment, Mr. and Mrs. Bing stood in the doorway.

"Mr. and Mrs. Bing, I want to make you acquainted with my dear friend, Robert Moran," said Judge Crooker.

There were tears in the Shepherd's eyes as Mrs. Bing stooped and kissed him. He looked up at the mill owner as the latter took his hand.

"I am glad to see you," said Mr. Bing.

"Is this—is this Mr. J. Patterson Bing?" the Shepherd asked, his eyes wide with astonishment.

"Yes, and it is my fault that you do not know me better. I want to be your friend."

The Shepherd put his handkerchief over his eyes. His voice trembled when he said: "You have been very kind to us."

"But I'm really hoping to do something for you," Mr. Bing assured him.

"I'll Have It Chopped an' Split an' Corded in a Minute," Said Mr. Blenkinsop.

"I've brought a great surgeon from New York who thinks he can help you. He will be over to see you in the morning."

They had a half-hour's visit with the little Shepherd. Mr. Bing, who was a judge of good pictures, said that the boy's work showed great promise and that his picture of the mother and child would bring a good price if he cared to sell it. When they arose to go, Mr. Blenkinsop thanked the mill owner for his Christmas suit.

"Don't mention it," said Mr. Bing. "Well, it mentions itself purty middlin' often," Mr. Blenkinsop laughed.

"Is there anything else I can do for you?" the former asked.

"Well, sir, to tell ye the dead honest truth, I've got a new ambition," said Mr. Blenkinsop. "I've thought of it nights a good deal. I'd like to be

VIEWPOINT NEVER THE SAME

In Classifying Themselves the Sexes Have Always Differed and Probably Always Will.

It may be said without fear of contradiction that a given man's ideal of a woman, and that same woman's ideal of herself, are two absolutely different things. For as regards themselves the sexes vision differently. So, general masculine ideals of femininity, and femininity's ideals of itself, are most unlike. We have John's John, and Mary's John; Mary's Mary, and John's Mary; and this square is far more difficult even to apprehend, much less resolve, than is the squaring of the circle, or any mental glimpsing of the fourth dimension of space. Yet if the eternal two ever did really understand each other, interest would immediately cease; for what you understand you appreciate, in a sense you become that thing. In creating them male and female, therefore, so like yet unlike, sexton o' the church an' ring that o' bell."

"We'll see what can be done about it," Mr. Bing answered with a laugh, as they went down stairs with Judge Crooker, followed by the dog Christmas, who scampered around them on the street with a merry growl of challenge, as if the spirit of the day were in him.

For a time they walked in silence, each member of the little party busy with their own thoughts. The Shepherd of the Birds had made a profound impression on the mind of Mr. Bing, and he was realizing that there was more to the world than a fat bank balance.

"What is it that makes the boy so appealing?" Mr. Bing asked of the judge.

"Well, he has a spirit untouched by any evil thought, unbroken to the lures and thorny ways of the world of which he knows nothing, for one thing," answered Judge Crooker.

"He has a wonderful personality," Mrs. Bing remarked.

"Yes, he has that. But the thing that underlies and shines through it is his great attraction."

"What do you call it?" Mrs. Bing asked.

"A clean and noble spirit! Is there any other thing in this world that, in itself, is really worth having?"

"Compared with him, I recognize that I am very poor indeed," said J. Patterson Bing, and his associates in the financial world would have had difficulty in recognizing the voice with its unaccustomed note of humility.

"You are what I would call a profiting young man," the judge answered. "If you don't get discouraged, you're going to amount to something. I am glad, because you are, in a sense, the father of the great family of Blingville."

JUST THREW OUT SUGGESTION

Traveling Man's Interpellation Not Really Made With Any Genuine Desire to Help.

A Hoosier traveling man had a hotel room next to one occupied by the two teachers during the recent teachers' convention. He was very tired and turned in early. But hardly had he closed his eyes when the two teachers came in from the evening session. They discussed it, one of them particularly being endowed with a voice commonly termed strident.

Finally they finished with the subject and he, thinking they were through with conversation for the night, turned over again and once more began to think of slumbering. But after a little pause the loud talker began on another theme, namely, the hard life of a teacher. After she had discussed it from all angles, she said: "If I only knew where I could succeed I would leave the teaching profession. Now, what could I really do as well as I can teach school?"

Before the second teacher could answer her the long-suffering man rose to the occasion: "Madam," he shouted through the wall, "you could be an auctioneer."—Indianapolis News.

"Land of the Mind."

A French author once coined the phrase: "The land of the mind." It is a realm that many of us have forgotten. There the imagery is real; there death is unknown, and the only riches are men's thoughts.

With every age it grows in splendor. Dickens, Milton, Shakespeare, Hugo—these and countless others have left their all for those who travel there.

The demands of existence have blinded some of us to the joys that lie in such travels. As children we roamed the fields of imagination, but now we believe only in the material. Yet we call ourselves wise.

The dreary nights of winter are ahead. Why not cheat them of their dreariness, and on the wings of literature journey to the Land of the Mind?—Portland Oregonian.

Providence constituted a distinction and difference that should prove a perennial source of interest and joy; with incidental exasperations, it may be, and perpetual wonder.

"Just like a man," "just like a woman," are the commonest of phrases—but what it is to be "just like a man," or "just like a woman," who can truly say? Does man understand woman any better today than he did in the Stone age, or woman understand man? Between the two is forever fixed the enchanting bridge—not chasm—of a perpetual why. The "central core of identity" in each may be trusted to keep its secret—the secret of a delight and God-given attraction.—Scribner's Magazine.

WHAT TO DO WITH CHEESE.

With cheese the suggested composition of the moon and equally as high in price, we have been careful in the amounts used.

At present, however, it is getting back somewhat to its old price and it will be more generally used. Cheese is a valuable food, being highly concentrated and with no waste. One needs to consume twice as much beef, pound for pound, as cheese in order to have the same food value. Beef contains more iron than cheese, but this can be supplied by green vegetables. Cheese contains more lime than meat and much less is needed to make a satisfying meal. There are any number of combinations with cheese which will take the place of meat and add an infinite variety to the menu.

Wisconsin produces a large part of all the cheese made in the United States and the "buy at home" slogan should be kept in mind when marketing. Imported cheeses are very popular, but at present nearly every variety is produced in the United States and in many cases of superior quality.

The gastronomic delights of bread and cheese and kisses we have been taught are the sine qua non of living and though the sanitary board bars the latter we still have cheese and bread with which to worry along. The following dishes will help in suggesting a few of the ways we may use this delicious food:

Cheese With Celery.—Cook the coarser portions of celery cut in half-inch pieces, or the root or celeriac may be used cut in dice. Place a layer of celery in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish. Cover with grated or finely cut cheese, using as much or little as the occasion or supply demands, then add a few spoonfuls of a rich white sauce made of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together and one cupful of rich milk with salt and pepper to taste. Repeat, having the white sauce on top, then sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until browned. Serve from the dish. Once tried, this will be a cherished recipe.

When Earth's last picture is dusted And the floors are washed and dried— When the oldest rug is beaten And the youngest bug has died— We shall rest and, believe me, we'll need it. Drop down for a wink or two, Till the dust on the grand piano Shall set us to work anew. —With Apologies to Kipling.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSE WIFE.

There are many tasks which seem of little importance to the woman who has kept house for year but which are a bugbear to those less experienced. The newly-wed who will not ask advice or is ashamed to confess her ignorance has many hard knocks to take as she journeys along in her housekeeping.

This is the time of year to wash or send to the cleaners, the winter blankets. Prepare a suds of good soap and put the blankets into a good big tub of water and have it as hot as the hands can bear, washing one blanket at a time, using a plunger or small suction hand washer. Those who use a power machine that does not rub the clothes will find that satisfactory. Woolen needs careful handling to keep it from pulling and shrinking. Never rub on a board but squeeze with the hands and wring through a loose wringer or simply squeeze out the water and let it drip on the line. A warm windy day is the best for drying blankets, then if they are brushed vigorously to raise the nap they will be fluffy and look like new. Fold and pack with a handful of cloves or a small piece of cotton saturated with turpentine to keep the moths from troubling them.

Heavy suits and wraps which will not be used during the summer should be dried, brushed and put away in moth-proof bags or chests.

Leather chairs may be kept looking well by rubbing them with linseed oil and vinegar, using one part of vinegar to two of oil. Polish with a silk cloth after rubbing the oil mixture into the leather.

SHE DIDN'T DARE TO LEAVE HOUSE

On Verge of Nervous Collapse, Indiana Woman Was Almost Helpless.

HER FRIENDS DISHEARTENED

Troubles Disappear When She Takes Taniae, and Nerves Now Are as Steady as Can Be—General Health Splendid.

"I was on the verge of a collapse and was actually afraid to leave the house, but I am overjoyed now at the way Taniae has restored my health so perfectly," declared Mrs. Cora M. Jackson, 504 Mulberry St., Terre Haute, Ind.

"I was almost a nervous wreck, and at times for anyone to even talk to me upset me completely. Even at night I could not get easy and quiet and would lie wide-awake, hardly able to sleep at all, and often just got up out of bed, I was so restless. Nervous headaches often came on me and frequently lasted for days at a time. Then I had rheumatism so bad in my joints I was almost helpless. My legs and elbows hurt fearfully and sometimes I just ached all over. There seemed to be no relief for me, my friends were all worried and I was almost disheartened.

But, happily for me, one of my friends suggested that I try Taniae. I never will forget how I began to improve and now I think it is wonderful, that I am feeling so well and strong. My nerves are just as steady as can be and I haven't a rheumatic pain about me. I am in just splendid health and wish everybody knew what a grand medicine Taniae is."

Taniae is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

LEAVES FOR WORK IN FRANCE

Lorne W. Barclay, director of the national council, department of Education, Boy Scouts of America, has again been loaned for the summer to the American committee for devastated France of which Miss Anne Morgan is chairman. Mr. Barclay sailed for France in May and will there direct five scout camps. This work is proving a notable contribution to the up-building of war-stricken France. As Mr. Barclay said in his recent report: "These boys lived in ruined homes; they have been out of school for five years; there is no place for them to find companionship in their villages unless they go to the wine shops. They have suffered so much that they are undeveloped physically and mentally, yet they crave good wholesome education and recreation. They only ask the chance to grow into manhood with all the best scout ideals of courage, self-denial, honesty and endurance."

Many boy scout troops in the United States have contributed $25 each, which means that each troop will have as its guest at one of the camps, a French boy, who will not only gain immeasurably himself by the experience, but who will also go home carrying the message of scouting with him to reach other boys and the community.

Lorne W. Barclay.

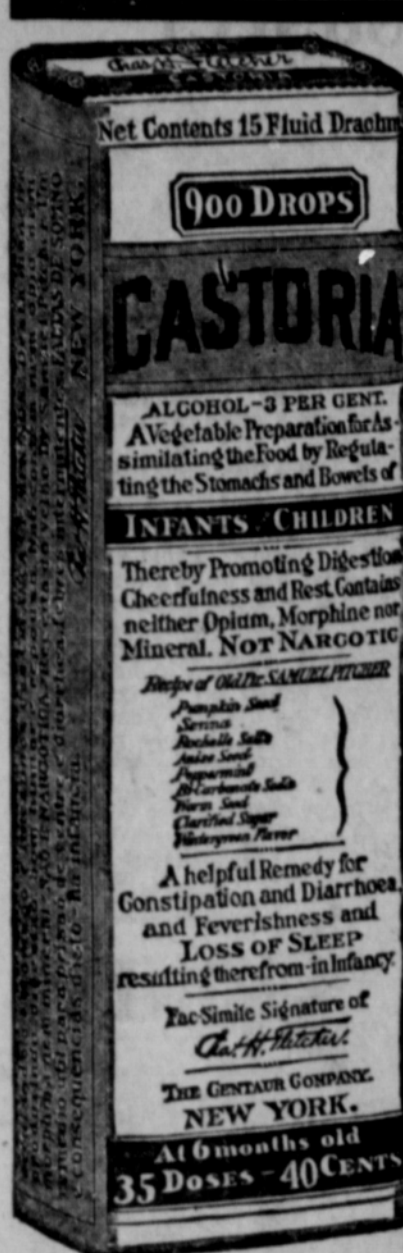

This is what a French boy scout wrote last summer from the camp at Compiègne:

"What I am learning is worth the sacrifice you made in letting me go from the work in the field. I will work all the harder when I go home but I must make a scout of every boy in our village too."

"And they must know that it is American scouts that have made this possible. Vive la France and vive l'Amérique! We never salute our flag without seeing in imagination the stars and stripes of another flag floating beside our own!"

SAVE-THE-FOREST CAMPAIGN.

As soon as President Harding appointed May 22 to 28 as Forest Preservation week, the Boy Scouts of America immediately offered their services in promotion of the cause to which they have all along been definitely committed. When the secretary of agriculture wrote requesting the co-operation of the organization the national council, through its chief scout executive, gladly accepted the task and urged its scout leaders all over the country to get busy at once. The plan is to have every scout troop promise to plant trees and care for them, as many have been doing for some years past, to spread forest fire prevention propaganda throughout the country and get as many people as possible in and out of the scout movement actively enlisted in this important cause.

TIGERS USEFUL IN SUMATRA

Lords of the Jungle Protected for Their Services as Destroyers of Wild Boars.

Tiger hunting is now prohibited in Sumatra. Lest our national pride should be touched, let it be said that this measure has nothing to do with M. Clemenceau—there is no fear of seeing the fauna of the big island destroyed by European ex-premiers on their travels.

No, the truth is more prosaic. Truth is always prosaic.

THREW FLOWERS AND GEMS

London Crowd Benefited by Woman's Enthusiasm Over the Ending of the Great War.

During the peace rejoicings one night in London several guests standing at the upper windows of a West End restaurant began to throw roses down to the crowds packed in the street below. A woman in evening dress, after throwing out numbers of roses, took a bracelet from her arm and tossed it to the people, following this with a ring from her finger. Then, after throwing more roses, she took the ornaments from her hair and threw these also into the struggling mass of people below.

An elderly man at an adjoining window threw out several spoons and forks, and then, finding nothing else at hand, threw an apple which was deftly caught and promptly returned, striking the window close by, but, fortunately, without breaking the glass. The women then began to throw out treasury notes, wadding them into small balls and flinging them one by one to the excited crowd. After getting rid of seven or eight notes she expressively spread out her hands to indicate that she had nothing more, and was loudly cheered.
