DEATHS.

Baby Garrett.

The 3-day-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Garrett of near Wilson, died April 25 and was buried in Englewood cemetery this city, April 26, at 3 p. m. Rev. A. V. Hendricks officiated at the funeral.

Etta Ruth Swanner.

Etta Ruth, 29-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Swanner, died Wednesday afternoon and was buried in Englewood cemetery Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. A. V. Hendricks, pastor of the Methodist church, conducted the funeral service.

Mr. and Mrs. Swanner and children recently moved into the Slaton community, and were in a destitute condition. They were living in a small house on the Lokey farm northwest of town. Their condition was reported to the people of Slaton by Mrs. J. W. Henry, and immediate assistance was rendered. Prior to this however, Mrs. Henry and other neighbors had supplied them with a food supply and other necessities.

Mrs. Mary Veerkamp.

Mrs. Mary Veerkamp, age 37 years, 2 months and 12 days, wife of Gerhard Veerkamp, died at the family home in the Posey community, about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, from an attack of Bright's disease.

Besides her husband, deceased is survived by six children.

The family came here about three weeks ago from Ferdinand, Indiana. Funeral services will be held at the Catholic church at 7:30 o'clock this morning, conducted by Father Keller. Burial will follow in Englewood cemetery.

The funeral arrangements in each of these deaths were under the direction of A. E. Howerton, undertaker.

SLATON LIGHT COMPANY PROPOSES SALE OF PLANT

The information is current that the Slaton Light Company is contemplating a deal whereby it proposes to sell to R. H. Tudor the Slaton electric lighting plant, franchise and all its properties. If the deal is finally consummated, it is understood that Mr. Tudor will make many important changes and extensions on the present plant, with a view of serving more people and providing more power.

The Slaton Light Company was recently incorporated, with Louie H. Fuller of Austin as president; J. A. Elliott of Slaton as vice president, and Foster Carroll of Slaton as secretary-treasurer.

SECOND RAID ON ALAMO ROOMING HOUSE, AMARILLO

Amarillo, April 28.—Whiskey valued at more than one thousand dollars, 522 poker chips, and an electric crapshooting device was confiscated, and Zula Goldberry, proprietor of the Alamo rooming house at Third and Taylor Streets and "Boss" Jackson an occupant of the rooming house, were jailed Tuesday night following a raid on the rooming house by Sheriff Burton Roach and his force of deputies. The officers are on the trail of another man who is said to have been in the party.

Preliminary hearings were waived by both the accused Wednesday morning. The Goldberry woman was bound over in the sum of $1000, subject to the action of the grand jury, on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor and Jackson was admitted to bonds in the amount of $1,500 in each of two cases, unlawful sale of liquor and possessing liquor.

Find Crap Shooting Device.

The electric crap shooting machine was discovered by the officers when a carpet was raised in the search for the liquor. Carefully concealed in the floor was a block of wood about ten inches square, fitted with electric wires and coils and arranged to be manipulated with the foot of an operator. With the clever device it was possible for the dice thrower to command his throw, bringing the desired spots at will, officers said.

The raid of the Alamo rooms conducted by the sheriff Tuesday night was the second to be made within a period of three weeks, the Goldberry woman being released a few days ago on bonds in the amount of $3,000 to answer charges of attempt to bribe an officer, unlawfully selling liquor and with having liquor in her possession.

Sheriff Roach declared Wednesday morning that he will enforce the liquor laws if he has to close every place where the violations are being committed.

HORACE BISHOP ABBOTT DIED AT SANATORIUM, TEX.

Horace Bishop Abbott, age 27 years, died Wednesday afternoon, April 13, at Sanatorium, Texas, after an illness covering a period since July 1920.

Deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Abbott of this city, and his remains were shipped to Slaton for burial, arriving here on the noon train. They were conveyed to the family home, where funeral services were conducted at 3:30 that afternoon by Rev. A. V. Hendricks, pastor of the Methodist church. Burial followed in Englewood cemetery, under direction of the Woodmen of the World, of which deceased was a member. He was also a consistent member of the Methodist church.

Besides his parents he is survived by one brother, Ralph Abbott of Harlingen, and five sisters, as follows: Miss Nannie Mae Abbott, teacher in the Union school; Miss Clara Mae Abbott, living at home; Mrs. Mamie Lee Lawrence, Healdton, Okla.; Misses Maudie and Blanche Abbott, living at home.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of A. E. Howerton, undertaker.

Horace Abbott volunteered for service in the U. S. Navy in May 1917, and served aboard the battleship Florida during the world war.

EASTERN STAR SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION LAST MONDAY

The following grand officers were present at the school of instruction held by the local Eastern Star Chapter last Monday: Mrs. Margaret Hovey, worthy grand matron; May Cherry, district deputy grand matron; Mrs. Mary Brown, assistant district deputy; Effie L. Houghton, member of grand examining board.

All the grand officers were escorted to the front and introduced by Mrs. Frankie Tonn, worthy matron Slaton chapter. Response was given by Mrs. Mary Brown. Then followed the exemplification of the secret work.

At noon an elaborate luncheon was served by the ladies of the local chapter.

At 1:30 work was resumed with 18 in class B, and one in class A, exemplifying the secret work.

The evening session began at 7:45 with the local officers in their stations, giving the initiation work. Interesting talks were given by the grand officers.

The grand officers were presented a beautiful piece of cut glass by Mrs. Tonn, each making appropriate responses.

Eighty-five persons attended the meetings, with Lamesa, Snyder, Lubbock, Spur and Floydada represented.

Your Implements And Your Credit

The farmer, like the manufacturer, must frequently turn to the banker for credit in order that his production may go on. In extending credit to the manufacturer, the banker takes account of the plants and their equipment, of the condition of the machinery. The farmer's equipment and methods influence the banker in the same way. When you use farm implements that bear the well-known and dependable trademark JOHN DEERE, you are increasing your credit standing. Your banker will be more disposed to aid you where and when he can. His sound business judgment sanctions your choice of JOHN DEERE implements.

COMPOSITIONS BY PUPILS OF THE SEVENTH GRADE

How to Write a Composition.

The writer of a composition should be interested in his or her subject, because they can not interest others unless they are interested.

The most important thing in a composition is to learn how to punctuate it. We must know what to put in our composition and what to leave out. The theme or composition should be read so that there will not be a break in the words, phrases, sentences and paragraphs. The sentences should be short, but long enough so that you can understand them.

A composition should generally consist of three parts, an introduction, a body, and a conclusion.

The writer of a composition should always stick to his or her subject. There are four kinds of compositions, the exposition, argument, description, and narrative.

HERBERT HENDRICKS.

How to Write a Composition.

In order to tell how to write a composition we must know what a composition is. A composition is an orderly expression of thought in connected discourse.

Select a good subject and stay on it. Express your thought without aid of gesture. Not only tell something but make everything you tell clear. This can be made easy by knowing the meaning of every word you use. It is best to use simple language with good punctuation.

All sentences in a paragraph should follow the order of thought, and the first sentence in each paragraph should be dropped back to the right or indented. All paragraphs in a story should follow order of thought.

After you have told the main point or explained what you wanted to tell you can end. ERNESTINE REED.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN. (Copyrighted)

Washington, April 20.—High temperatures have been expected to spread over the middle Pacific slope and middle Rockies near April 22, immediately northwest of which a great cool wave will push its nose into the warm wave in front of it. This condition will result in, not dangerous, but severe storms. These will move eastward, reaching Atlantic coast near April 26. This weather situation will be the most important of the crop season, because it will relocate the great field of evaporation which will furnish the moisture for the crop season of 1921 on this continent. That field will cover a large section of the north Atlantic Ocean, the center of the field being about half way between Newfoundland and Ireland.

These facts give the starting point for anyone to study the crop weather of 1921. The moisture from that great evaporation field will flow westward with the wind to meet the eastward bound storm centers and most rain will fall where that moist air runs against rising lands. Rivers and valleys that extend east and west and in which the river run eastward will be most favored. But rains come only with severe storms, and when there are only a few severe storms during a crop season the rainfall will be greatly lessened. The rains from this storm wave will bring more favorable crop weather to many sections east of Rockies. Following this storm the frosts will go to about the average seasonal of latitude. Last week of April will average warmer than usual.

Near May 1, another high, or low temperature wave, will come out of the extreme northwest, beginning with moderate temperatures, but the week centering on May 4 will average much cooler than usual, causing rather unfavorable crop weather for the week. Not much rain, not very stormy weather, not very disagreeable, but poor growing weather.

May will be about an average crop weather month; and cooler than usual during the fifteen days centering on May 19, and cooler than usual during the eleven days centering on May 6. Unusually severe storms during the weeks centering on 19 and 31. I particularly give warning that the last mentioned will be a very dangerous storm or set of storms of various kinds. Life and property may be saved from loss through caution.

Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, the Moon, and Earth will run into close and powerful electro-magnetic relations, somewhat as though you had touched an electro-dynamo machine in motion, or a shocking machine in operation.

It is strange that official science, with all the learning that comes from the universities, can so readily see how electro-dynamo, or shocking machines, can affect each other and animal life and remain so stupidly blind to the natural facts that similar effects take place between our Earth, moon, sun and planets. All of nature's laws are general.

Brightest of Tints, Hitherto Unknown in Cottons, Planned for Summer Wear.

RAINBOW AIDS IN NEW IDEAS

Shades Are Combined in Profusion in All Frocks of the Spring Mode—Large and Small Hats.

Striking and unusual color combinations are appearing in spring and summer clothes. Fashions cannot remain stationary. It is all very well to talk about finding the most becoming style and adhering to it, observes a fashion authority, but we must have a change in dress as in everything else. If each woman held continuously to the type most becoming to her our clothes would become as uninteresting as man's. Individuality would disappear. We would not only lose interest in dress, but likewise lose interest in making ourselves appear at our best at all times.

The psychology of clothes is extremely interesting, and much deeper than is generally supposed. A growing tendency toward simplicity of cut in dress has been very marked. The simple styles are preferred to any others at the present time.

Typical Examples of Spring Modes

A new French dress of this type is of navy blue serge and black satin with heavy embroidery in black, bright red and silver gray. The blouse has the low waistline with girde and body cut in one. The skirt drapery is formed of two handkerchief squares suspended from the sides and overlapping at the back and at the front. The embroideries are done in heavy peasant style, a solid work forming the high collar, cuffs and vest. The short, snug-fitting underskirt is black satin.

A slight yet interesting variation of the chemise frock is obtained in another model of blue serge and black satin. There is a plain chemise dress of the dark blue cloth, with the sleeves cut in kimono style. This is worn over a plain black satin petticoat, and a rounding piece of the serge is cut out in front of the skirt to reveal the petticoat. It is cut from the hem to about six inches below the waistline. This leaves the serge in deep girde effect. Bulgarian embroidery is massed on the front of the overdress just below the waistline. Where the

From among the numberless types that designers have attempted to launch in order to create a demand for something new, which always stimulates business, the woman who buys and who eventually decides the fashions has unfalteringly chosen the straightline dress, with nothing new about it as far as silhouette is concerned.

Simple Silhouette in Lavish Colors. There must inevitably come a day when this will pass from the foreground of fashions unless the history of clothes is to be absolutely revolutionized, but from all appearances that day is still in the distance.

Since dressmakers have been compelled by popular demand to hold a silhouette in vogue, for some time they have resorted to embroideries and very lavish trimmings in order to get new effects. They spared no effort to make these beautiful and alluring. Clothes were literally covered with them. But beautiful as these embroideries were, drawing their inspirations, as they did, from the art, both ancient and modern, of many nations, they ran a swift and brief course. Embroideries still are used, it is true, but not to cover entire garments, as they did last season.

Now, color is the thing. In the cotton dresses for warm midsummer days the brightest of tints, hitherto unknown in cottons, are profuse. Street dresses must have color introduced in some more subtle way.

Just as collars were made exaggeratedly high to popularize the high collar by calling a great deal of attention to it, so color is applied in broad sweeps, even to some of the new street dresses, to bring its importance to the foreground. Many of the new dresses have been likened to court jester's costumes, half of one color and half of another.

Frocks in Contrasting Hues.

These will be shown in the great dressmaking establishment both here and in Paris, but they will be looked upon more as show pieces than as wearable models. They will, however, serve their purpose in drawing attention to bright bits of ornamentation in dresses hitherto somewhat somber in this respect, so that a very gay sash or a startling bit of embroidery on a street frock or suit will seem tame in comparison to them.

One of the most charming color combinations appears in a clever frock of a peculiar mauve tint trimmed with deep nattier blue—a lovely combination of color tones. The dress is of an extremely simple style with low waistline and blousing back panel. It buttons straight down the front. At the back the high collar is in a continuous line with the blouse panel. At the hem of the skirt panel there is a deep embroidery in nattier blue. A sash of the same blue in crepe de chine passes across the front of the dress only and falls at the left side in a single end and loop.

The frock of blue serge and black satin always will have a popular following. It is useful in every woman's wardrobe, and especially so if one cannot be the happy possessor of a great many costumes. Because it is always one of the best sellers it receives even more of the designer's and manufacturer's attention than the more exclusive novelties. This spring's satin and serge costumes show touches of heavy embroidery in black, red and silver. The embroidery is always massed in some way, as in the form of a vest or a collar and cuff trimming. It is never used in a number of different places on the frock as hitherto.

dress is cut away the edges are bound with black satin.

A new spring afternoon dress from Paris shows an unusually pleasing union of colors. It is developed in gray crepe de chine, and has an irregular embroidery design appearing on panels at the sides of the skirt, and surrounding open slashes in the front of the bodice.

A sash of apricot satin emerges at one side of the dress, as if the underbodice were made by wrapping the figure with the satin and leaving long ends free to tie in a bow on the outside of the dress. There is a novel half-low collar.

Subtle and beautiful color combinations are seen in advanced models of summer evening frocks. Many of the dresses themselves are of the simplest sort.

One design, intended for somewhat formal wear, is of an unusual shade of blue green silk. It consists of a straight skirt and long-waisted bodice. The color contrast is obtained through four tabs or panels of silver lace

Nicholas Murray Butler, it appears, is not without his waggish moments. Tis said that he was discussing academic matter with Brander Matthews, and that Professor Matthews observed that when the first man takes over an old idea, the process was translation. "When the next man takes it," continued Professor Matthews, "it is adaptation. When the third man takes it, it is plagiarism."
"And when the fourth man takes it," added Dr. Butler, "it is research."—New York Evening Post.

A Ruling.
"My client accuses her husband of cruel and inhuman treatment, your honor. He refused to buy her a thousand-dollar fur coat."
"Well, that may have been cruel, but I hardly think it was inhuman."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

About the easiest way to hurt a woman is to say something mean about the man she loves.

The Needle Quick.
He carries a route from one of the News substations. His pals worry a lot because, on the coldest days, he goes thinly clad. One of his pet bits of frigidty is wearing his clothing Scotch style—bare between the shin and knee. It gives the other kids the shivers to see him.
One cold day he blew in at paper hour and, rushing up to the manager at the station exclaimed:
"Gee, I was lucky today, Sully!"
"How was that, Mac? Did you buy some clothes?"
"No, I found a brand new fur."
"No!"
"Yes!"
"What kind of a fur was it?"
"Transfer!"—Indianapolis News.

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I just think Tanlac is the grandest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For ten long years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most severe pains in my back, hips and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my arms hurt me to my finger tips. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and life had become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac when I noticed my appetite was improving and I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is really astonishing. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after-effects. I sleep just fine at night and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this statement, hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results, which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

LESSON FOR APRIL 24

POVERTY AND WEALTH.

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 5:8-10; Amos 4:4-7; Luke 16:19-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.—Luke 12:34.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.—Prov. 20: 8, 9; Matt. 6:19-24; 13:22; Luke 6:24; 12:13-34; 1 Tim. 6:5-10, 17-19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Kind Woman.—II Kings 4:8-11.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Two Men Did With Their Money.—Luke 12:15-21; Acts 4:36, 37.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Earning and Using Money.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Problems of Poverty and Wealth.

I. Wealth in the Hands of the Few (Isa. 5:8).
1. "Join house to house" (v. 8).
2. "Lay field to field" (v. 8).
The avaricious greed of these men caused them to enlarge their estates at the expense of their neighbors. In agricultural districts it took the form of land-grabbing and the eviction of the small proprietor, and in the commercial centers the crowding out of the small concerns by the large corporations. God hates the spirit of avarice.

II. Methods Employed in the Acquisition of Wealth (Amos 8:4-6).

1. "Swallowed up the needy" (v. 4).
"Swallowed up" literally means to pant after, like a beast after its prey with eagerness to devour. Many today get rich by swallowing up the needy.

2. "To make the poor of the land to fail" (v. 4). They were grasping after the houses and lands of the poor, and in order to accomplish this they impoverished them in every way possible so as to root them out of the land. This they doubtless did by withholding from them their lawful wages, an example of which we find in James 5:4, and placing exorbitant taxes upon them and cheating them in the courts.

3. Begrudged the loss of holy days (v. 5). They were restlessly impatient because of the restrictions of those days. Though outwardly conforming to the Sabbath they were seeking all the while to commercialize it. Many today go to church for the sake of respectability while impatiently waiting for the day to pass in order to pursue their business.

4. Dishonesty in business dealings (v. 5). (1) They made the ephah small. Their measures were less than the price paid for. (2) They made the shekel great. The shekel being the coin used to pay bills, the merchants put into circulation overweight shekels thus getting a higher price for their grain. The purchaser was thus cut on both sides. (3) Falsified their balances. Even the scales by which the gold and silver were weighed had been tampered with, making them guilty of cheating in three ways.

5. They bought the poor for silver (v. 6). The poor were reduced to such poverty by the above means of cheating that they were obliged to sell themselves into slavery, even for a pair of shoes.

6. They sold the refuse of the wheat (v. 6). In time of famine they even sold to the people that part of the wheat which was intended for the cattle.

III. God's Judgment Upon Them (Amos 8:7; cf. Isa. 5:9, 10).

God says "I will never forget." Not one act of greed and oppression will escape God's notice.

1. Many houses shall be desolate.
2. The land unproductive (v. 10).

IV. A Picture of a Rich Man and a Beggar (Luke 16:19-25).

1. Their lives. (1) The rich man. He had much goods. He operated in the highest society. (2) The beggar. He not only was poor, but helpless. He had no place in the social order.

2. Their deaths. (1) The rich man was taken by death. He seems to have had a great burial. (2) The beggar. There is nothing told as to what was done with his body when he died. Perhaps the very dogs who licked his sores fed upon it.
3. Their destinies. (1) The rich man lifted up his eyes in hell. The beggar was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. (2) What determined them. The future life grows out of the present. The rich man was interested in the things of this life, so selfish that even when the poor beggar was laid at his gate he gave him no attention. He not only lacked the kindness of seeking opportunity to do good, but refused the one opportunity that was thrust before him. (3) Their fixedness. Their destinies were determined by their actions while alive, and after death there was no possibility of a change.

Marking Passing of Time.
The sand glass, sun dial, watch and clock have proved invaluable in marking the passing of time, but how about this, heard in a room, noticeable for lack of light, in a home in North Illinois street, when Mr. Butler College called on Miss Shortridge High School, "Why, John, just four kisses ago you said—"
A laugh from the next room cut the sentence short.—Indianapolis News.

Pa Equal to Emergency.
Willie—Paw, can you name six noted legislative bodies?
Paw—Well, there's the American congress, and the British parliament, and the French chamber of deputies, and the German reichstag and the Japanese diet, my son.
Willie—But that's only five, and the teacher wants us to name six.
Paw—Well, there's the—er—er—the Hungarian goulash. Now, don't bother me. Can't you see I'm reading?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE
A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass
Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich., adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to carry women safely through the Change of Life. She says:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more. It cured me and I am now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly woman's friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose."—Mrs. MARY LISTER, 608 Frank Street, Adrian, Mich.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand passes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms. Those smothering spells, the dreadful hot flashes that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, those sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms. Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Four-year-old Betty had been permitted to go visiting at Aunt Ruth's house. About four o'clock Uncle James made ready to take her home, but Betty objected strenuously to going. "My Muvver said I could stay all day," she said, "and it's all day till it's dark."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT
Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 1.

Proposing an amendment to Section 2, Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Texas by providing that only native born or naturalized citizens of the United States shall be qualified electors in this State, and permitting either the husband or the wife to pay the poll tax of the other and receive the receipt therefor, and permitting the Legislature to authorize absentee voting.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 2 of Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as hereafter to read as follows:

Section 2. Every person subject to none of the foregoing disqualifications who shall have attained the age of twenty-one years and who shall be a citizen of the United States and who shall have resided in this State one year next preceding an election and the last six months within the district or county in which such person offers to vote, shall be deemed a qualified elector; provided, that electors living in any unorganized county may vote at any election precinct in the county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes; and provided further, that any voter who is subject to pay a poll tax under the laws of the State of Texas shall have paid said poll tax before offering to vote at any election in this State and hold a receipt showing that said poll tax was paid before the first day of February next preceding such election. Or if said voter shall have lost or misplaced said tax receipt, he or she, as the case may be, shall be entitled to vote upon making affidavit before any officer authorized to administer oaths that such tax receipt has been lost. Such affidavit shall be made in writing and left with the judge of the election. The husband may pay the poll tax of his wife and receive the receipt therefor. In like manner the wife may pay the poll tax of her husband and receive the receipt therefor. The Legislature may authorize absentee voting. And this provision of the Constitution shall be self-enacting without the necessity of further legislation.

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held throughout the State on the fourth Saturday in July, 1921, at which all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words: "For the amendment of Section 2 of Article 6 of the Constitution of the State of Texas providing that only native born or naturalized citizens of the United States shall be qualified electors in this State, and providing that either the husband or wife may pay the poll tax of the other and receive the receipt therefor, and permitting the Legislature to authorize absentee voting."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution, and existing laws of the State.

Sec. 4. That the sum of Five Thousand ($5,000) Dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State of Texas not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of such publication and election.

S. L. STAPLES,
 (A true copy) Secretary of State.

House Joint Resolution No. 11.

Proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas to provide that the Legislature may grant pensions to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows, who have been citizens of Texas since prior to January 1, 1910, providing that all soldiers, sailors and their widows eligible under the provisions hereof shall be entitled to be placed upon the rolls and participate in the pension fund created hereunder; levying a tax of seven ($.07) cents on the $100.00 valuation of property in this State for the payment of such pension, providing that the Legislature may reduce the rate of pension for such purposes, fixing a time for the election to be held on such amendment, and making an appropriation to pay the expenses thereof.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 51: The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever, provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent or disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors, who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows, in indigent circumstances and who have been bona fide residents of this State since Jan. 1, 1910, and who were married to such soldiers or sailors prior to January 1, 1910, and to indigent and disabled soldiers who under special laws of the State of Texas during the war between the states served in organization for the protection of the frontier against Indian raiders or Mexican marauders and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia of the State of Texas who were in active service during the war between the states, and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances and who were married to such soldiers prior to January 1, 1910, provided that the word "widow" in the preceding lines of this Section shall not apply to women born since the year 1861, and all soldiers and sailors and widows of soldiers and sailors eligible under the above conditions shall be entitled to be placed upon the pension rolls and participate in the distribution of the pension fund of this State under any existing law or laws hereafter passed by the Legislature, and also to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law, provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas a State ad valorem tax on property of seven ($.07) cents on the $100.00 valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied, and provided further that the provisions of this Section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of this State at an election to be held on the fourth Saturday in July, 1921, at which all voters shall have printed or written on their ballots: "For amendment of Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows who have been a resident of this State since January 1, 1910," and "Against amendment to Section 51 of Article 3, of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows."

Sec. 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the proclamation for said election and have same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the general funds of this State not otherwise appropriated for expenses of publications and elections thereunder.

WILD ANIMAL ACTORS.

A big show with hundreds of wild and domesticated animal actors, together with a great array of specialty acts, a complete performance, including a host of clowns. Palmer Bros. are presenting in their big three ring wild animal show this season performing lions, tigers, leopards, pumas, jaguars, bears, elephants, camels, llamas, horses, ponies, dogs, goats, sheep, lambs, monkeys, leaping ponies and dogs carrier pigeons, and many acts of a similar character.

The big show travels in its own trains, fully and modernly equipped cars, unquestionably the finest in the show world. Thousands of people can view the performance at one time and the seating so arranged that every visitor to the show can witness each act to advantage.

Be sure and be in town early on exhibition day, Friday, April 29, that you may witness the erecting of the tents and the unloading of the wild animals.

LUBBOCK COUNTY FARMERS' UNION MET APRIL 15

Ernest H. Ward, secretary of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union, was a pleasant business caller at the Slatonite office Wednesday, and during his conversation gave an account of what this organization has been and is doing. Mr. Ward said: "The Lubbock County Union was organized in January 1921, with J. B. Adams of Shallowater, president, and E. H. Ward, Slaton, secretary-treasurer. It consists of fourteen local unions in Lubbock County and several locals in Hale County affiliating, making a total membership of nearly one thousand.

"Approximately 2000 sales of cotton were sold through Lubbock Union, as well as many other products.

"At last meeting the following resolution was adopted: Resolved, that the Lubbock County Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union in session April 15, 1921, express our sincere thanks to Senator Bledsoe and Representative R. A. Baldwin for their faithful representation of our interests in the last Legislature in opposing the consolidation of the Markets and Warehouses Department with the Department of Agriculture.

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be given to the press and copy recorded in the records of the union."

NOTICE OF ELECTION.

Whereas, the City Council of the City of Slaton deems it advisable to issue bonds of the said city for the purposes hereinafter mentioned:

Therefore, be it ordered by the City Council of the City of Slaton, Texas, that an election be held on the 31st day of May, A. D. 1921, in said city, at which election the following propositions shall be submitted:

1. Shall the City Council of the City of Slaton, Texas, be authorized to issue the bonds of the City of Slaton in the sum of $35,000.00, payable serially from one to forty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and to levy a tax sufficient to redeem them at maturity, for the purpose of building, installing and equipping a waterworks system for said City of Slaton, and purchasing necessary grounds, materials, machinery and labor therefor, as authorized by Chapter 1, Title 18, R. S., 1911, and House Bill No. 42 of the General Leaws of the State of Texas passed at the Regular Session of the Thirty-Seventh Legislature, and the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas.

2. Shall the City Council of the City of Slaton, Texas, be authorized to issue bonds of the City of Slaton in the sum of $55,000.00, payable serially from one to forty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds and create a sinking fund sufficient to redeem them at maturity, for the purpose of building, installing and equipping a sewer system for said City of Slaton, and purchasing necessary grounds, materials, machinery and labor therefor, as authorized by Chapter 1, Title 18, R. S., 1911, and House Bill No. 42 of the General Laws of the State of Texas passed at the Regular Session of the Thirty-Seventh Legislature, and the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas.

The said election shall be held at the office of R. J. Murray, on Texas Avenue, in said City, and C. J. Russell is hereby named manager of said election, and he shall select two judges and two clerks to assist him in holding the same.

The said election shall be held under the provisions of Chapter 1, Title 18, R. S., 1911, and House Bill No. 42 of the General Laws of the State of Texas passed at the Regular Session of the 37th Legislature, and the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas, and only qualified voters, who are property tax payers of said city, shall be allowed to vote.

All voters who favor the proposition to issue the waterworks bonds shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For the Issuance of Waterworks Bonds;" and those opposed shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "Against the Issuance of Waterworks Bonds."

All voters who favor the proposition to issue the sewer bonds shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For the Issuance of Sewer Bonds;" and those opposed shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "Against the Issuance of Sewer Bonds."

The manner of holding said election shall be governed by the laws of the State regulating general elections.

A copy of this order, signed by the Mayor of the City of Slaton, attested by the City Secretary of said city, shall serve as a proper notice of said election.

The Mayor is authorized and directed to cause said notice of the election to be posted up at the office of the Mayor of said city and a copy thereof posted up at three other public places in said City of Slaton for at least thirty full days prior to the date of said election.

The Mayor is further authorized and directed to have said notice of election published in some newspaper of general circulation published in said city, and which notice shall be published once each week for four consecutive weeks, the date of the first publication being not less than thirty full days prior to the date of said election.

(Seal) R. J. MURRAY, Mayor City of Slaton, Texas.
Attest: W. E. OLIVE, City Secretary.

"The Untamed."

A flying leap through a smallpaned window to the ground ten feet below is one of the hair-raising stunts performed by Tom Mix, the Fox daredevil cowboy star, in "The Untamed," booked for showing at the Wilselma Theatre Thursday, April 5. The novel by Max Brand, from which the picture was adapted to the screen by H. P. Keeler, contains a wealth of thrilling situations which lend themselves admirably to Mix's style of daring.

A most unusual and fascinating element underlying the story is the strange companionship of a man and two animals—a demoniacal horse and a devil of a dog—who seem to have supernatural instincts that draw them apart from others of their kind and cause them to seek the companionship of one another, looking always to the man as their leader. Much has been made of the story of this weird trinity of kindred spirits.

A cast of noted players was selected to support Mix. Appealing little Pauline Starke, plays opposite the star as Kate Cumberland, the Western cattleman's daughter. Geo. Seigmann, probably the best known portrayer of villain parts on the screen, is the outlaw leader.

OUR COMING BOND ELECTION.

When the City Council voted to submit to the taxpaying voters proposal to issue waterworks and sewer bonds a real forward step was taken.

The proposal came on the insistence of the thinking and progressive people themselves. They will not take a backward step.

If waterworks and sewer is not needed in Slaton, they are expensive and unjustified at any price. If they are needed, delay is foolishness.

Slaton is ten years old. The 1920 census gave Slaton 1525 people. The 1921 school census showed over 700 between seven and seventeen years, which means a present population of between 2100 and 2500. We are growing. We have better reasons and facilities for growth than either Lubbock or Plainview. For ten years we have been non-progressive. We are the only city in Texas of the size of Slaton without the modern conveniences and necessities of life.

Slaton has never issued so much as one dollar in bonds. The time has come when we MUST do so.

To him who has no civic pride or public spirit, who is content forever to live amid intolerable conditions, no appeal is made. To the man and woman of Slaton who believes in health and sanitation; who believes there are things in life besides the mere pursuit of the almighty dollar; who possesses civic pride and public spirit and believes in civilization, we address this editorial.

Calamities and pestilences have come upon other towns and cities from their neglect and want of progressiveness. Slaton can expect them. The future holds in store for us epidemics. Proper regard for the welfare, life and health of yourselves and your children demands a serious concern that Slaton shall have these improvements as early as possible.

Unprotected toilets exist all over town. Cesspools are being put down all over the town. If our underground water supply is not now contaminated—it is only a question of time when it will be. A waterworks and sewer system is the only possible remedy. Polluted air and polluted water kills people and they never know the cause. Nothing can make Slaton's conditions in these respects worse than at present except increase in population. Population is coming, and we are not prepared.

Fires consume other towns. Slaton cannot forever hope to escape. A conflagration in Slaton on a windy day will do more damage in six hours than twice the cost of waterworks and sewer system.

Men and women of Slaton, it is up to you! Do your own thinking! Vote your own best interests! The bugaboo of taxation and hard times will be skillfully flung in your face. But remember that broken health, disease, funerals, doctor bills, cost this nation far more each year than it pays in taxes. And besides, do not be misled, but figure the costs yourself—and do not forget the results.

Again, we say, it is UP TO YOU!

THINK IT OVER.

If you were suddenly to land on a strange island and wanted to ascertain precisely what degree of civilization the people there had attained, how would you most accurately determine that fact?

The method is easy. Find out three things: How much soap per capita the people there use; what methods of travel they employ, and what modern conveniences they have established.

Show me a people who uses little soap and I will show you a people who have not established modern conveniences. I will show you a people more content to exist than they are interested in the highest civilization.

Show me a people not seriously concerned in conserving the public health and not interested in the most modern methods of public sanitation, such as public waterworks systems and public sewer systems, and I will show you a people not overly interested in the subject of soap.

THINK IT OVER!

The Civic and Culture Club.

The members of the Civic and Culture Club met Saturday, April 23, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Wallace. Mrs. Wallace, who was both leader and hostess for the afternoon, had appropriately decorated the broad reception and dining rooms with dainty bouquets of wild verbenas, evening primroses, and white daisies. The spirit borne to us by the fragrance of these delicate touches of nature placed each of us in a very receptive mood for the interesting talks to which we were to listen, the subject being "American Wild Flowers."

Miss Ramsey told us in a very instructive way how to know the wild flowers which bloom about us everywhere. Miss Kuykendall talked to us about the wild flowers of the plains, and, having traveled quite a bit in the Rockies, she was prepared to give to us some very interesting facts about the flowers of the mountains. The leader read some beautiful verses and stories in introducing such favorites as the goldenrod, the daisy, wild rose, buttercup, dogwood, and water lily, while Mrs. Tonn, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. White, Mrs. Smart, and Mrs. McHugh gave some interesting facts concerning each of these wild flowers.

Delightful refreshments of cream and cake were served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the Civic and Culture Club will be the annual open house meeting, and it will be held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Smart Saturday, May 14. Mrs. Smart, Mrs. Johnson, and Miss Holland will act as hostess. The subject of the program for this meeting will be "The Louvre."

Missionary Society.

An interesting and instructive hour was that of the Bible study conducted by Mrs. Forrest in our meeting Monday. God has given to us, in many respects, the greatest year we have ever had thus far, and a greater opportunity for service. Will we make use of it? A clear and ringing message is coming to each of us. Speak to the women of Slaton, that they go forward, carry on, move on, and be prepared to do the great work there is for us to do. The Man of Galilee is counting on us, and what will be the result if we fail. But we must not fail.

We should especially attend the Bible study, thereby gaining knowledge that will enable us to be more efficient workers for Him. Study to show thyself approved unto God a workman that need not be ashamed. 1 Tim. 2:15. Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good and be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate, laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come that they may have eternal life. 1 Tim. 6:15-17.

We were glad to add the names of three new members to our roll. Will meet Monday, May 2, at the church, in the monthly business and social session with Mesdames Murray, Olive, Denham and Todd as hostesses.

Ninth Grade Outing.

The ninth grade pupils of Slaton high school spent Saturday in the canyon on O-6 ranch. They were chaperoned by Miss Margie Lou Hill, and Mesdames L. F. Craft and D. H. Suite.

Surprise Party.

A number of Mrs. J. H. Whitaker's friends motored out to her home last Tuesday night and gave her a surprise party, it being her sixtieth birthday. The evening was spent very pleasantly in conversation and music. The guests departed at 9:30, each leaving an unopened gift. Those present were: Mesdames Tonn, Burton, Wallace, Nail, Smart, Gentry, Harrison, Massengale, Robert Whitaker, H. G. Whitaker, Daugherty, H. J. Whitaker, Messrs. H. J. Whitaker, H. G. Whitaker, Robert Whitaker, Ella Loyce Gentry, Ruth Whitaker, and Baby James Arthur Nail.

Sewing Club.

The K. T. C. E. Sewing Club met at the home of Miss Ethel Williams Saturday, April 23. Members present were Eva Conklin, Annie Lora Davidson, Velma Miller and Ethel Williams. Next meeting will be with Miss Eva Conklin.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN.

(Copyrighted by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, April 28.—High barometers bring low temperatures and low barometers bring high temperatures. It is the rule to leave out the word barometer, but always use the word temperature with the words high and low. The high is also the cool or cold wave and the low is the storm center. To say high temperature is equal to saying low barometer, but the last cumbersome word is usually left out. My published charts for April indicated that the most severe storms of the month would begin in the northwest near 16th. Close hit.

Calculations indicate that the lows, or centers of the storms, for May, as they move southeastward, will cross Meridian 90 near, or not far north of, St. Louis. This suggests that May temperatures will generally average near normal. First warm wave center, coming from the extreme northwest and moving southeastward, will cross Meridian 90 near May 1, move to a point half way between Chicago and New Orleans and then by way of Ottawa to Newfoundland, reaching latter near May 4, storm wave and cool wave following as usual.

No very high temperatures. Storms will be more severe than the average near May 3. Rains will be about normal; probably a little excessive southeastward of ridges, high hills, mountain ranges and in valleys extending and whose rivers flow south eastward. Probably less than normal rains in localities occupying reverse localities.

These cropweather conditions only apply to May. Important changes are expected for every month on account of the changing positions of sun, moon and planets. Official science admits that the tides change every moon month and that sun, moon and planets are the causes. Our atmosphere has many of the qualities of water, and why not tides in the atmosphere? Official science denied for many years, that the moon has anything to do in causing the tides. By official science I mean those salaries from institutions, for cropweather is as that of this crop. I have seen many newspaper works. I have seen farmers not to sell grain, not because for a considerable time there have been no reliable markets as large numbers of intelligent farmers have believed that the moon, at quarter, full and last quarter affects weather conditions. That belief has been persistent throughout the misty past, but when scientists attacked the problem and found some evidence sustaining these claims they failed to work out a system by which they could make valuable forecasts. DeVoe, of Hackensack, Conn., made the greatest advancement in that line and has made some good forecasts, but, too often, he fails. I was against that problem forty years before I solved it, and my discovery, made late in 1920, will be used in my new system of forecasting now nearing completion. The moon phases do have effects on our weather and sometimes will make good forecasts, but the moon alone will fail at least three-fourths of the time.

"Blenkinsop, I'd like to help you recover your lost Self and be a respected citizen of this town," said Mr. Singleton. "You can do it if you will and I can tell you how."

Tears began to stream down the cheeks of the unfortunate man, who now covered his eyes with a big, rough hand.

"If you will make an honest effort, I'll stand by you. I'll be your friend through thick and thin," the minister added. "There's something good in you or you wouldn't be having a dream like that."

"Nobody has ever talked to me this way," poor Blenkinsop sobbed. "Nobody but you has ever treated me as if I was human."

"I know—I know. It's a hard old world, but at last you've found a man who is willing to be a brother to you if you really want one."

The poor man rose from the table and went to the minister's side and held out his hand.

"I do want a brother, sir, an' I'll do anything at all," he said in a broken voice.

"Then come with me," the minister commanded. "First, I'm going to improve the outside of you."

When they were ready to leave the house, Blenkinsop and his dog had a bath and the former was shaved and in clean and respectable garments from top to toe.

"You look like a new man," said Mr. Singleton.

"Seems like, I felt more like a proper human bein'," Blenkinsop answered.

Christmas was scampering up and down the hall as if he felt like a new dog. Suddenly he discovered the stag's head again and slunk into a dark corner growling.

"A bath is a good sort of baptism," the minister remarked. "Here's an overcoat that I haven't worn for a year. It's fairly warm, too. Now if your Old Self should happen to come in sight of you, maybe he'd move back into his home. I remember once that we had a canary bird that got away. We hung his cage in one of the trees out in the yard with some food in it. By and by, we found him singing on the perch in his little home. Now, if we put some good food in the cage, maybe your bird will come back. Our work has only just begun."

They went out of the door and crossed the street and entered the big stone Congregational church and sat down together in a pew. A soft light came through the great jeweled windows above the altar, and in the clear-story, and over the organ loft. They were the gift of Mr. Bing. It was a quiet, restful, beautiful place.

"I used to stand in the pulpit there and look down upon a crowd of handsomely dressed people," said Mr. Singleton in a low voice. "There is something wrong about this, I thought. There's too much respectability here. There are no flannel shirts and gingham dresses in the place. I can not see half a dozen poor people. I wish there was some ragged clothing down there in the pews. There isn't an out-and-out sinner in the crowd. Have we set up a little private god of our own that cares only for the rich and respectable? I asked myself. 'This is the place for Hiram Blenkinsop and old Bill Lange and poor Lizzie Quesnelle, if they only knew it. Those are the kind of people that Jesus cared most about.' They're beginning to come to us now and we are glad of it. I want to see you here every Sunday after this. I want you to think of this place as your home. If you really wish to be my brother, come with me."

Blenkinsop trembled with strange excitement as he went with Mr. Singleton down the broad aisle, the dog Christmas following meekly. Man and minister knelt before the altar. Christmas sat down by his master's side, in a prayerful attitude, as if he, too, were seeking help and forgiveness.

"I feel better inside and outside," said Blenkinsop as they were leaving the church.

"When you are tempted, there are three words which may be useful to you. They are these, 'God help me,'" the minister told him. "They are quickly said and I have often found them a source of strength in time of trouble. I am going to find work for you there, a room over my garage where there is it which will make a very snug little home for you and Christmas."

That evening, as the dog and his master were sitting comfortably by the stove in their new home, there came a rap at the door. In a moment, Judge Crooker entered the room.

"Mr. Blenkinsop," said the judge as he held out his hand, "I have heard of your new plans and I want you to know that I am very glad. Every one will be glad."

When the judge had gone, Blenkinsop put his hand on the dog's head and asked with a little laugh: "Did ye hear what he said, Christmas? He called me Mister. Never done that before, no sir!"

Mr. Blenkinsop sat with his head upon his hand listening to the wind that whistled mournfully in the chimney. Suddenly he shouted: "Come in!"

The door opened and there on the threshold stood his Old Self.

It was not at all the kind of a Self one would have expected to see. It was, indeed, a very youthful and handsome Self—the figure of a clear-eyed, gentle-faced boy of about sixteen with curly, dark hair above his brows.

Mr. Blenkinsop covered his face and groaned. Then he held out his hands with an imploring gesture.

"I know you," he whispered. "Please come in."

"Not yet," the young man answered, and his voice was like the wind in the chimney. "But I have come to tell you that I, too, am glad."

Then he vanished.

Mr. Blenkinsop arose from his chair and rubbed his eyes.

"Christmas, ol' boy, I've been asleep," he muttered. "I guess it's time we turned in!"

CHAPTER FOUR.

In Which Mr. Israel Sneed and Other Working Men Receive a Lesson in True Democracy.

Next morning, Mr. Blenkinsop went to cut wood for the Widow Moran. The good woman was amazed by his highly respectable appearance.

"God help us! Ye look like a lawyer," she said.

"I'm a new man! Cut out the blacksmith shop an' the booze an' the bummers."

"May the good God love an' help ye! I heard about it."

"Ye did?"

"Sure I did. It's all over the town. Good news has a lively foot, man. The Shepherd clapped his hands when I told him. Ye got to go straight, my laddie buck. All eyes are on ye now. Come up an' see the boy. It's his birthday!"

Mr. Blenkinsop was deeply moved by the greeting of the little Shepherd, who kissed his cheek and said that he had often prayed for him.

"If you ever get lonely, come and sit with me and we'll have a talk and a game of dominoes," said the boy.

Mr. Blenkinsop got strength out of the wonderful spirit of Bob Moran and as he swung his ax that day, he was happier than he had been in many years. Men and women who passed in the street said, "How do you do, Mr. Blenkinsop? I'm glad to see you."

Even the dog Christmas watched his master with a look of pride and approval. Now and then, he barked gleefully and scampered up and down the sidewalk.

The Shepherd was fourteen years old. On his birthday, from morning until night, people came to his room bringing little gifts to remind him of their affection. No one in the village of Bingville was so much beloved. Judge Crooker came in the evening with ice-cream and a frosted cake. While he was there, a committee of citizens sought him out to confer with him regarding conditions in Bingville.

"There's more money than ever in the place, but there never was so much misery," said the chairman of the committee.

"We have learned that money is not the thing that makes happiness," Judge Crooker began. "With every one busy at high wages, and the banks overflowing with deposits, we felt safe. We ceased to produce the necessities of life in a sufficient quantity. We forgot that all-important things are food, fuel, clothes and comfortable housing—not money. Some of us went money mad. With a feeling of opulence we refused to work at all, save when we felt like it. We bought diamond rings and sat by the fire looking at them. The roofs began to leak and our plumbing went wrong. People going to buy meat found the shops closed. Roofs that might have been saved by timely repairs will have to be largely replaced. Plumbing systems have been ruined by neglect. With all its money, the town was never so wretched."

Mr. Sneed, who was a member of the committee, slyly turned the ring on his finger so that the diamond was concealed. He cleared his throat and remarked, "We mechanics had more than we could do on work already contracted."

"Yes, you worked eight hours a day and refused to work any longer. You were legally within your rights, but your position was ungrateful and even heartless and immoral. Suppose there was a baby coming to your house and you should call for the doctor and he should say, 'I'm sorry, but I have done my eight hours' work today and I can't help you.' Then suppose you should offer him double fee and he should say, 'No, thanks, I'm tired. I've got forty thousand dollars in the bank and I don't have to work when I don't want to.'"

"Or suppose I were trying a case for you and, when my eight hours' work had expired, I should want to walk out of the court and leave your case to take care of itself. What do you suppose would become of it? Yet that is exactly what you did to my pipes. You left them to take care of themselves. You men, who use your hands, make a great mistake in thinking that you are the workers of the country and that the rest of us are your natural enemies. In America, we are all workers! The idle man is a mere parasite and not at heart an American. Generally, I work fifteen hours a day.

"This little lad has been knitting night and day for the soldiers without hope of reward and has spent his savings for yarn. There isn't a doctor in Bingville who isn't working eighteen hours a day. I met a minister this afternoon who hasn't had ten hours of sleep in a week—he's been so busy with the sick, and the dying and the dead. He is a nurse, a friend, a comforter to any one who needs him. No charge for overtime. My God! Are we all going money mad? Are you any better than he is, or I am, or than the doctors are who have been killing themselves with overwork? Do you dare to tell me that prosperity is any excuse for idleness in this land of ours, if one's help is needed?"

"I Know You," He Whispered. "Please Come In."

Judge Crooker's voice had been calm, his manner dignified. But the last sentences had been spoken with a quiet sternness and with his long, bony forefinger pointing straight at Mr. Sneed. The other members of the committee clapped their hands in hearty approval. Mr. Sneed smiled and brushed his trousers.

"We're all off our balance a little, but what is to be done now?"

"We must quit our plumbing and carpentering and lawyering and banking and some of us must quit merchandising and sitting in the chimney corner and grab our saws and axes and go out into the woods and make some fuel and get it hauled into town," said Judge Crooker. "I'll be one of a party to go to-morrow with my axe. I haven't forgotten how to chop."

The committee thought this a good suggestion. They all rose and started on a search for volunteers, except Mr. Sneed. He tarried, saying to the judge that he wished to consult him on a private matter. It was, indeed, just then, a matter which could not have been more public although, so far, the news of it had traveled in whispers. The judge had learned the facts since his return.

"I hope your plumbing hasn't gone wrong," he remarked with a smile.

"No, it's worse than that," said Mr. Sneed ruefully.

They bade the little Shepherd good night and went down-stairs where the widow was still at work with her washing, although it was nine o'clock.

"Faithful woman!" the judge exclaimed as they went out on the street. "What would the world do without people like that? No extra charge for overtime, either."

Then, as they walked along, he cunningly paved the way for what he knew was coming.

"Did you notice the face of that boy?" he asked.

"Yes, it's a God's blessing to see a face like that," the judge went on. "Only the pure in heart can have it. The old spirit of youth looks out of his eyes—the spirit of my own youth. When I was fourteen, I think that my heart was as pure as his. So were the hearts of most of the boys I know."

"It isn't so now," said Mr. Sneed.

"I fear it isn't," the judge answered. "There's a new look in the faces of the young. Every variety of evil is spread before them on the stage of our little theater. They see it while their characters are in the making, while their minds are like white wax. Everything that touches them leaves a mark or a smirch. It addresses them in the one language they all understand, and for which no dictionary is needed—pictures. The flower of youth fades fast enough, God knows, without the withering knowledge of evil. They say it's good for the boys and girls to know all about life. We shall see!" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

DAZZLED OLD LONDON TOWN

Becky Wells, Beautiful Madcap, Well-Known Character During the Reign of George III.

Becky Wells, beautiful English actress, journalist and author, was born in 1759, married at eighteen, and a few months later saw her husband desert her for her bridesmaid. She went to London and won success by her beauty when she went on the stage. She took up with Edward Topham, an eccentric, and they established a newspaper that thrived on scandal.

Becky took to wearing furs in summer and muslins in winter, which perhaps stamps her as a woman in advance of her age. She hired hackney coaches to drive her to Oxford or Cambridge for her health, and her vagaries were the talk of the town.

She imagined that she was irresistible and took it into her head to infatuate George III, the dull king whose only redeeming virtue was his apparent faithfulness to his wife. She was thrown into jail by her creditors, and there she infatuated a Moor, son of the prime minister of Morocco, who had been sent to prison for contempt of court. They were wedded in jail with festivities that lasted a week and which cost the bridegroom $2,500. Her husband, Joseph Sumbel, then secured his release by paying his brother $50,000 and he also paid Becky's creditors and took her with him.

Very interesting.

Pupils in a primary grade of the Columbus public schools, taught by Miss Mary Veach, recently were instructed to develop their powers of observation, as well as their descriptive ability, by a series of "Human Nature Observations," as the course was called. They were told to keep their eyes open for interesting happenings and report at school. When they were called on to give their observations, Elizabeth Hege, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Hege, reported as follows: "Last night I was walking through Commercial park, and I saw a young man and a girl sitting real close together on a bench, and the man's head was on the girl's shoulder, and I thought it was very interesting."—Indianapolis News.

Helping Sargent Out.

Sargent, the famous artist, tells an amusing story of an episode on a Venetian bridge. It was twilight, and an artist who was a member of the Societe des Artistes Français, watched a stranger putting the finishing touches to a small sketch of the surrounding scene.

"That's not at all bad, my friend," said the watcher. "If you would like to exhibit it in the Salon de Paris I will give you my card as a recommendation."

"It is exceedingly kind of you, monsieur," replied the stranger, "and in order that you shall know the name of your protegee here is my card. I am not altogether unknown at the Paris Salon."

It was Sargent.

Life's Symphony—To be thankful for each new day and to put into it and to get out of it all the good I can. To give, expecting nothing in return, to help to bear the burdens of others without burdening them with mine, to know enough of sorrow to be able to sympathize, to know enough of sin to direct others into right paths.—Catherine C. Jenney.

CHOICE DISHES.

These may be too fine for everyday use but will be enjoyed on occasions:

Chocolate Marshmallow Cream Roll.—Beat one cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of cocoa into four eggs well beaten.

Add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, fold in one cupful of flour in which one teaspoonful of baking powder has been sifted. Bake about fifteen minutes. Turn on a cloth, trim off the crisp edges on the four sides, spread with marshmallow filling and roll like a jelly roll. Let stand in the cloth well rolled for half an hour longer. Cover with confectioner's sugar frosting or with chocolate frosting. For the filling soften one-fourth of a pound of marshmallows in a double boiler. Melt one cupful of granulated sugar in one-fourth of a cupful of water and cook to the soft-ball stage. Pour in a fine stream on the whites of two eggs, beaten stiff; continue to beat until the frosting is smooth. Add the softened marshmallows and a teaspoonful of vanilla; when stiff use for filling.

Rhubarb and Raisin Pie.—Cut the rhubarb into small pieces, enough to make one cupful. Add one cupful of raisins and let simmer in water to cover until the rhubarb is tender and the raisins well plumped. Strain and thicken the liquid with two tablespoonfuls of flour blended with two tablespoonfuls of butter. Sweeten with one-half cupful of sugar; stir in one well-beaten egg, mix with the rhubarb and raisins and pour into a fresh baked pastry shell. Serve when cold.

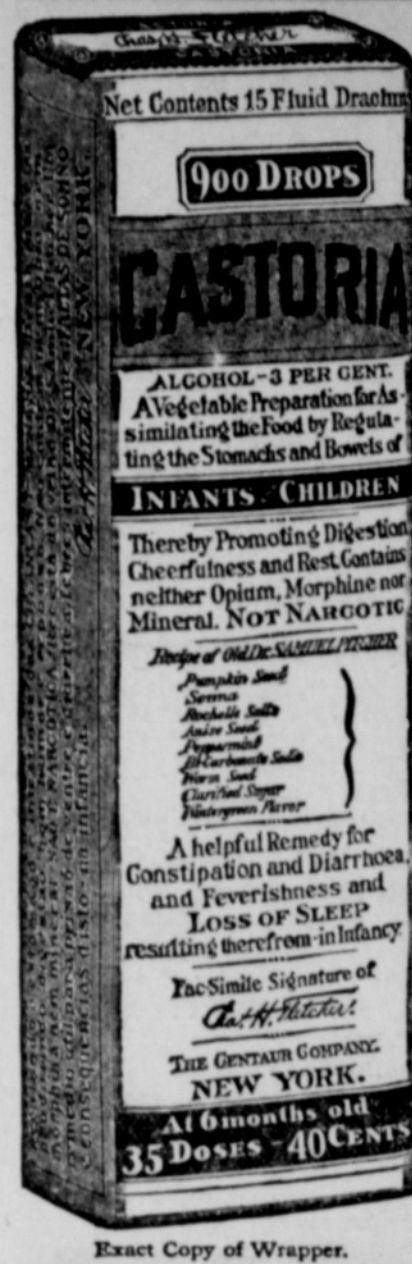

Asparagus With Buttered Crumbs.—Boil a bunch of asparagus. Place on a platter. In a saucepan put four tablespoonfuls of butter and one-half cupful of fresh bread crumbs; fry a deep brown. Sprinkle over the cooked asparagus with salt, pepper and minced parsley. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs.

HINTS AND RECIPES.

How many cooks find it worth while to save a cupful of griddle cake batter? It is easier to throw it into the garbage can than to plan a way of using even one-half cupful. When eggs, milk and flour have been used in the preparation of cakes, even a little waste is an extravagance. Very nice muffins for tea or lunch may be made of the batter, adding more milk, flour, baking powder or soda, and a half dozen fluffy light muffins will not be wasted for they may be warmed over for another meal and be almost as good as the fresh ones.

A most delicious loaf or loaves of brown bread may be prepared from leftover griddle cake batter. Add an egg, more milk, sour or sweet, with soda and baking powder—a little of each is good; add molasses, a few raisins, two cupfuls of well-soaked stale bread and one cupful each of graham and corn meal; mix well, adding a little flour, if needed, to make a drop batter; put to steam in one-pot coffee cans tightly covered after greasing them well and filling two-thirds full. Steam two to three or five hours in a fireless cooker with water well up the sides of the cans. A hot stone placed in the cooker adds greatly to the heat, otherwise remove the kettle and boil again after it has been in for an hour or two. When the bread is steamed remove the covers and roll the cans into the oven to dry and finish cooking. A half-hour in a moderate oven is time enough.

Coconut Meringues.—Beat the whites of two eggs very stiff; add slowly half a teaspoonful of sugar and continue beating until one-quarter of a cupful has been added. Now add one-half cupful of sugar, a few grains of salt, two teaspoonfuls of rice flour, mixed with one cupful of shredded coconut. Shape the mixture in rounds on a tin lined with light brown paper and bake in a slow oven until well browned.

FAITHFUL TO OLD VEHICLE

Ox-Cart Still Used as Method of Transportation in Parts of the South and in India.

"Tractors are crawling over the snow-covered fields of northern Greenland carrying the supplies of the Lange Koch expedition. This novel use of a new-born vehicle recalls that some of the oldest transportation methods still are employed in regions whose civilization is older than that of the Greenland Eskimo," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

"The ox-cart still serves the southern 'darky' in North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, as well as in other portions of the South, as his coach and four for the Sunday 'go-to-meetin'." During the week the stolid beast plows tobacco and cotton fields. In India bullocks hitched to a wagon with an ornate beehive-shaped or elongated covering, not unlike the picturesque tobacco schooner, convey the Burmese man and his family along the road to Mandalay. Nor does this animal cease being a means of transportation upon his death. The natives blow up his skin and use it as a float or raft on which they cross the rivers."

Her Irritability.

"Blondie's got a terrible disposition, don't ya think?" asked Claudine of the rapid fire restaurant. "I'll say she has!" replied Heloise of the same establishment. "Why, night before last while she was strolling home three fellas in a motor car drove up to the curb, and one of 'em jumped out and grabbed her and tried to drag her into it. I s'pose she didn't like their looks or sump'n; anyhow, she began to yell, and slapped the first fella into the ditch and yanked the other two out of the car and like to have beat 'em to death before they could get away."—Kansas City Star.

BUILD IGLOOS OF CONCRETE

Eskimo Indians No Longer Satisfied With the Primitive Houses of Snow of Their Fathers.

It is a matter of government recognition that the Eskimo Indians of the Friblof islands are rapidly gaining in sophistication, as the prices of the sealskins and blue and gray fox pelts they sell mount higher and higher. Those bits of frozen land in Bering sea, whose total area is less than seventy square miles, have only about 350 inhabitants, yet they are being assailed by all the aspirations of prosperity and are beginning to buy the most interesting items the mail-order catalogues offer. So United States engineers are building them igloos of concrete, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, thus substituting the most substantial of materials for what seems, from the temperate-zone viewpoint, the most ephemeral. The builders, however, are careful to adhere closely to the native style of architecture.

GATHER HERBS IN MOUNTAINS

Carolinians Derive Fair Income Collecting Materials From Which Drugs Are Ultimately Made.

An interesting trade in the Carolina mountain counties of Ashe, Allegheny and Watauga is that in what are known as crude drugs; in other words, herbs, plants, roots, etc. Some families have for many years devoted all their time to gathering these from the mountainsides, live in tents and move from place to place until all the materials in range are gathered. A considerable number of farmers spend part of their time in this line of work and get more money than is paid in wages in that region, while at the same time living near to nature, the most healthful life imaginable, amid the cliffs and with numerous rattlesnakes to be watched for also. Wild cherry bark, hazelwood leaves, mandrake, cohosh, ginseng and golden seal are sought after.—Manufacturers Record.
