JUST TALK

by

A.M.J.

Most people think they are sorely overworked and a big percent of the men in business have the heebie jeebies but it would be almost impossible to tie them away from their work. By the end of each week you will find Harry Stokes moaning and groaning as if he had been picking cotton from sun up until sun-down. Carl Evans will admit that he is working entirely too hard and O. Z. Ball is on the hump every minute of the day, if you want to talk to him you have to do it on the run. J. H. Brewer has more business than a hunting dog and Horace Sanders would not stop long enough to see the City Hall burn down.

There is just one man in Slaton who I envy and that is J. H. Teague, you will never find him thrashing the air and on a dead run. He refuses to get excited and when the time comes to go fishing, J. H. goes fishing. Personally I believe Mr. Teague has the right idea but how to get it to work into the newspaper business is a problem I have not been able to figure out.

Straw hats have completely disappeared and it is getting the time of the year for vitamin pills, cough medicine advertising, pork sausage, paper handkerchiefs that won't stand but one blow, cold feet in the middle of your back, slippery sidewalks and Christmas Gift propaganda.

It is time to get out your last years overcoat and estimate whether it will stand another season's punishment, hold the pants to your last years suit up and squint at the seat toward the sun and wonder whether the thin spots will hold out until the January Clearance Sales; it is the time of the year to sit in a cold, clammy house without any fire or turn on the fire and nearly suffocate; it's the time of the year when you are apt to postpone a bath a little too long; it is the time of the year to be on guard against hunters shooting your hat off and for school children running out in front of your car and it is the time of the year when the gas bill and the light bill begin looking like the lend-lease appropriation. Better get set friends... its going to be a long, hard winter.

Just how much propaganda and how much truth there is to the shortage of materials and the reason for price advances is hard to determine and the advisability to buy now before the top blows off is being worked to a fine edge by the traveling salesmen. They tell us that many items will soon be off the market but they take your order for twice as much as you would ordinarily buy and sure enough it is delivered to you in double quick time.

It has the merchant on the spot and the buying public jittery. Somewhere down the line somebody is making a lot of money but it is not the retailer. He gets caught when prices go up and clipped again when they come down. From now on its going to be a merry go round.

Roy Boyd, out at the High School, has been out grazing around again and says he has a sweet potato that weighs 5 pounds and 9 ounces. He claims he raised the "choker" in his own garden. Just what anyone would want with a sweet potato that size is a mystery, in fact I would just as soon have a 5 lb., 9 oz. black-eyed pea or a twenty pound squash. There is nothing I can think of that could bring more distress than eating a 5 pound 9 ounce sweet potato.

If Bob Lovett is seeing all the things up in Arkansas Ozarks that his post card describes, he probably will not be back here until Christmas, however, I never saw a woman from Arkansas that looked like those pictured on the card. The man resembles Bob very much.

Here's one that the women will get a big kick out of: Behold the fisherman and the hunter, he arises early in the morning, and disturbeth the whole household.

Mighty are his preparations. He departeth full of hope, and when the day is far spent; he returneth home smelling of strong drink, and the truth is not in him.

Carl Evans had a good crack to make at the Rotary Club last week after a number of High School students had given a program on the Constitution of the United States. Carl said that he felt sure that Patrick Henry made his famous declaration; "Give me Liberty or give me death," after he had been married about two weeks.

Better start dodging, Carl, when your wife reads this.

The most important thing in a woman's life must be clothes. Half their conversation and two thirds of their letters are taken up on the subject. Little snips of goods fall out of practically every letter my wife receives and ninety per cent of the letters are concerning how some dress is being made over and being decorated with the enclosed sample of goods. She insists on reading them to me and if the garments turn out like the descriptions of them fortell I am glad I do not have to live in the same town with the creations.

I watched Mrs. H. E. Howard and Mrs. J. Paul Stevens work over a stock of womens dresses last week and I thought they were both going to buy eight or ten dresses each from the way they "Ohed" and "Ahed," but all that was bought was a purse and it was big enough to lug a weeks supply of groceries. It seems to be a very painful operation to really buy a dress and when one is bought it is usually torn apart and hung together in an entirely different manner from its original style. You can tell a salesman of womens shoes as far as you can see him. He is as jumpy as a Mexican bean and has the look of a criminal trying to elude the police.

And perhaps you have noticed the queer shapes womens hats are in... that's because they go through such beatings from being tried on. Every woman's hat that is sold gets more wear before it is sold than a pair of men's socks will get in two years, and its a mighty good hat that can hold together until it is sold. The milliners in the stores spend more time repairing a hat after it has gone through a hard day than they do selling them.

But take it from a "worm's eye view," and considering all of the rough treatment womens clothes go through before they are finally draped on a frame, they certainly do add color to the scenery over the country.

E. R. Legg tells about a young man who applied for a job and when the prospective employer asked how much he expected to be paid the applicant said he wanted all he was worth—"I'll do better than that," said the boss, "I'll pay you a salary."

Mr. Legg says that the locker business looks good and that he may have to increase the capacity of his plant before Christmas if the farmers reserve the lockers as he hopes they will.

Our Weekly Sermon—

Dead or Alive
 By Rev. Nathan J. Stone, Member of Faculty Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.
 Text: "And you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins."—Ephesians 2:1.
 The Revised Version reads, "And you did he make alive, when ye were dead through your trespasses and sins."
 Coleridge in his Rime of the Ancient Mariner depicts a strange scene in which the corpses of dead men rise up to man the ship; a dead man steering, dead men pulling the ropes, and dead men spreading the sails. But perhaps it is not so strange after all in the light of our text.

It is true concerning the spiritual life of many professing Christians. The apostle John writes of a church that had a name that it was alive, but it was dead. That church has many descendants today. The apostle Paul tells those who live in and for pleasure alone that they are dead even while they live.

It is not strange at all that he should speak of those who are in their sins as dead. We often think of people, for instance, as intellectually dead. They think little, if any. They are unacquainted with the great minds and literature of the ages. They know practically nothing of the world of thought and affairs. Then there are people who are aesthetically dead. They are scarcely alive to the beautiful, the fine things of life which God has made. And there are those, too, and very many in these days, who are dead to feelings of consideration and sympathy. The milk of human kindness has dried up within them. In a sense, they are dead emotionally.

But, above all, those who are in their sins are dead—dead even while they live—spiritually dead. As far as God reckons it, to be dead in this way is to be dead altogether. Only those are truly alive who are alive in God through Jesus Christ and His atoning work for our sins on the cross. If your sins are forgiven and you have been reconciled to God, life has begun for you. If not, you are dead even while you live. It is for this purpose the Lord Jesus Christ came. "I am come that they might have life" (John 10:10). He had to say of some people, "Ye will not come to me that ye might have life." We are alive only in Christ; dead without Him. Are you dead or alive?

Amarillo, Oct. 13—J. A. Gillies, general manager of the Santa Fe Western Lines and vice president of the Panhandle & Santa Fe Railway, with headquarters here, today was enroute to Washington to report to the War Department for active duty as Colonel in the Army Engineering Corps.

Col. Gillies, veteran in Santa Fe service, yet one of the youngest railway executives to hold such an important position, is one of the most popular officials in the Southwest where he spent the majority of his activity.

He was a Lieut. Col. in the Army Reserve and while expecting a summons from the War Department his sudden departure was a surprise to many unaware of his plans.

He is held in high esteem by the official family and personnel of the railway and has gained a national reputation for ability. He has had an active and colorful career in railroading and private life harking back to his youth. Born in Winnipeg, Canada, and educated in public schools of Manitoba, Porto Rica and this country, he entered employ of the Santa Fe in the engineering department and promotions were rapid.

He is married and has two children.

The Santa Fe System carloadings for the week ending October 11, 1941, were 24,004 compared with 22,267 for the same week in

The business of the meeting consisted of things that had been improved and things that need to be improved. It was reported that driving cars on the school grounds, bad language on the playground and cooperation with the mayors of the different rooms had been improved. Also, the Club was complimented on the good job done in clearing the walks of mud and grass. Needed improvements reported are: Order in chapel, honesty in class work, and courtesy on the playground. In the discussion of honesty, reports were given of business men down town who returned lost money or in other ways showed outstanding honesty.

CHILDREN WOULD BUY BONDS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—If given $100 "all his own," one out of every three youngsters in the United States would invest the entire amount in United States Defense Savings Bonds, results of a nationwide poll just made public, indicate.

William T. Reed, Chicago manufacturer, informed the Treasury that ten thousand children between the ages of eight and thirteen were included in the poll conducted by his organization with the cooperation of the Y. M. C. A. and other groups sponsoring summer camps. Children from families of all income groups were included in the poll.

Thirty-five per cent of the boys and twenty-eight per cent of the girls, representing thirty-three per cent of all children in the poll said they would invest the $100 in Defense Bonds. Forty-seven per cent said they would put the money in the bank, one per cent would buy toys, seven per cent would purchase clothing, and two per cent would take "special lessons."

New Death Record Being Set By State

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Texas automobile drivers may set a record this year—a record for killing more people than they've ever killed before.

State Police Director Homer Garrison raised this possibility today after studying the trend of "an alarming increase" in the state's traffic toll for the first nine months of 1941.

"Each month has shown a steady increase in the number of deaths over last year," Garrison observed. "In August the increase amounted to 11 per cent. The count for September is not yet complete, and will not be for another 10 days, but already there is an increase over September of last year. The complete total for nine months is likely to show an overall gain of as much as 13 per cent."

"Mathematically, this rate of progression would result at the year's end in an increase of 20 per cent. That would mean 2,100 deaths, or approximately 50 more than the 2,043 deaths which set an all-time record in bloody 1937."

With 100 new Patrolmen and Drivers License Examiners due to graduate from training school late this month, Garrison saw a ray of hope. "With diligent enforcement supplemented by the efforts of these new men during two of the

Let Good Lighting Help You to Live . . . to Entertain

Light conditioned living room can add much to comfort and enjoyment of guests whether playing cards or nibbling tidbits later.

By Carlene Waldo
 NOW is the time for all good American housewives to make home a place of greater cheer. Evenings are growing longer, blackness is gathering outside, but indoors the living room lighting can be more cheerful and easier on the eyes than ever before.

The new light conditioning that scientists have designed is intended to help conserve the eyesight, help relax the nerves and lift the spirits psychologically . . . all very important in times like these.

Softness and smoothness are characteristic of the new lighting which eliminates harsh distracting shadows. Scientifically-designed lamps are placed in good balance through the room; they send some of their light upward and use at least 100-watts each. Every chair where eye-work is done is provided with a lamp. And helping to send cheer through the room is a good fixture. It can be either a well-designed new one or a modernized older one.

Lamps Stay Put
 In a well-lighted room like this, games may be played at a card table, or refreshments enjoyed, without moving a single lamp out of place. All the activities of a family have been considered in planning the lighting, and father can read in his favorite chair or mother sew in hers with the assurance that eyesight-saving lighting is right at their elbows. The skies may darken outside but the American home can be filled with heart-warming cheer.

Security Tax For Amusement Workers

Every employee connected with a county or regional fair, a community festival, rodeo, football game, or concessionaire was cautioned today by Palmer, manager of the Lubbock office of the Social Security Board to make certain that each employer for whom he works is given a record of the worker's social security account number.

This account number should be given to the employer before the employee goes to work. If an individual having no account number will call at the Social Security Board office located at Lubbock, he will be issued one. "It requires only a few minutes to secure the account number that will save the worker and each of his employers a lot of time and trouble in the years to come. It is difficult to locate a worker who has not reported his account number in an effort to properly credit his old-age and survivors insurance account with the wage earnings which have been paid him."

It was pointed out by Palmer that work for concessionaires and amusement places, unless the entire proceeds are for charity, is regarded as covered employment under the Social Security Act, and wages for full-time or part-time work are taxable under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program.

"The employer," continued Palmer, "should be as much interested in securing the account number as the worker should be in reporting it. It is necessary for the employer to report the account number for each employee when he makes out his quarterly tax report to the collector of internal revenue."

It's Thumbs Down On New Building

The Supply Priorities and Allocation Board ruled that no new public or private construction can be started unless it is essential for defense or the health and safety of the people or does not involve use of strategic materials. The ruling applies to Federal, State and local government building, roads and highways, river and harbor improvements, residential building and all commercial building. Efforts will be made, however, to aid completion of construction already substantially finished.

The SPAB also voted to permit building of 228 commercial aircraft—with the reservation that Army can take them if they are needed.

Tech Homecoming Set For Nov. 8

Lubbock—All Texas Tech graduates and ex-students are invited to attend the Sixteenth Annual Homecoming celebration on the campus November 8. A Red Raider-Creighton university football game on Tech field is focal point of interest. Petition for approval of a bonfire, parade, and homecoming convocation awaits action of college authorities.

The bonfire will climax a pep rally on the campus Friday evening, November 7. A downtown parade of college floats will precede the outdoor convocation on the campus at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Conducted jointly by Harold Thompson of Denver, Colo. student president, and Lloyd Crosslin, Lubbock attorney and president of the alumni association, the assembly will serve as a mixer for students, faculty and exes.

Headquarters for an alumni luncheon at noon Saturday and dance that evening will be the Hotel Lubbock. An all-college dance at Tech gymnasium Saturday evening and various club activities Saturday and Sunday are included in entertainment plans.

Meat Hogs Pay Best And Meet Consumer Needs

Careful planning of swine feeding and production is essential this fall and winter to meet consumer and market demand for small, lean cuts of pork and to insure maximum returns for producers, swine leaders are pointing out. Temporary demand, last spring and summer, for heavier hogs to meet emergency needs should not cause producers to overlook the fact that consumers still insist upon pork that comes from hogs weighing 200 to 240 pounds, they warn.

"What we need is increased production of meat, not lard," R. L. Pemberton, field secretary of the Iowa Swine Producers Association, commented in an article of interest and value to hog raisers throughout the South as well as in the nation's leading swine producing state. "A pound of ham or loin will bring in more dollars than a pound of lard, and the larger the percentage of these higher grade cuts that we can put into each carcass, the greater will be the returns to the individual producer."

Agreeing completely with this analysis, a representative of a leading packer added, "Consumer preference has not changed from that of a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Average American still want and insist on small, lean cuts of pork. The desirable kind of hog to produce now, as always, is a fast-growing, easy-feeding prolific type that will yield desirable cuts of pork at live weights from 200 to 240 pounds."

Proper feeding—including adequate amounts of protein to build muscle and lean meat and aid growth—is essential to produce the type of hog that is in best demand and has proved most profitable to producers.

Because swine are fed chiefly on grain, which tends to produce fat, particular care is needed to provide sufficient protein, of the right quality, in their ration. Important as they are in swine rations, none of the cereal grains provides protein of good quality and it is necessary to correct the deficiencies of cereal-grain by use of efficient protein supplements.

In cottonseed meal, Southern hog raisers have available a protein supplement of proved efficiency when used in combination with tankage, fish meal or shrimp meal in swine rations. Cottonseed meal is especially valuable to reduce costs of the protein supplement used with grains, to produce firm pork, and to aid Southern swine producers in providing properly-balanced, efficient and economical rations for swine of all ages.

Pointing out that the use of a good protein supplement will do more to cut feeding costs than any other item, J. S. Robinson of the Tennessee Extension Service commented in a release recently that "A combination of one-half high-grade cottonseed meal and one-half tankage is one of the best supplements to corn for pigs that are on pasture."

Practical information on using feeds available in the South in balanced rations for swine is available from County Agents, Vocational Agriculture Teachers, Experiment Stations and other agencies. By following these suggestions, and feeding to meet market demand, swine raisers of the Cotton Belt can plan their fall and winter pork production so as to meet most efficiently and profitably their own needs and those of the nation.
