JOHN J. PERSHING

Gen. Pershing, World War I Leader, Dead

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—Gen. John J. "Blackjack" Pershing, who led American troops to victory in World War I, died early today at the age of 88.

Announcement of the general's death was made by President Truman through White House aides, after he had learned of it upon his return from the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia.

The aged former chief of staff had been ill since February, 1938, when he was stricken at Tucson, Ariz., by a form of rheumatism which affected his heart muscles.

Since then, he had lived at Walter Reed Hospital here, in recent years staying in a wing built especially for him.

Death was caused by a blood clot which reached his lung.

Maj. Gen. George Beach—the hospital commandant, who met Mr. Truman at the time of his arrival from Philadelphia—reported that the underlying cause was arteriosclerosis and "auricular fibrillation."

At Pershing's bedside were his son, Warren, his sister, Miss May Pershing, and his longtime physician, Maj. Gen. Shelley Marietta.

As general of the armies, Pershing was the nation's highest-ranking military man. This title has been conferred on only four other American soldiers.

All during the second world war, Pershing received a full report twice a month from Gen. George C. Marshall, his aide of 1917.

Pershing had warned that the United States might become embroiled in a second European war as early as April, 1937.

After this country went to war with Germany and Japan in 1941, the general, old and feeble, followed day-to-day developments closely from his hospital room, paying particular attention to "my boys"—who included, besides Marshall, Gens. Dwight D. Eisenhower and George S. Patton, Jr.

Stewart has been announced as successor to Lloyd Hawkins, KBBT program director who is moving south to Odessa. This change touched off a series of shifts within the Jaycee official family, advancing George Wallace from second to first vice-president, and elevating Lewis Heflin to the second vice-presidency.

Truman Counters Demo Split By Congress Call

Makes Smashing Attack On GOP

PHILADELPHIA, July 15. (AP)—President Truman countered a Democratic civil rights split today with a dramatic call for a July 26 special session of Congress and a smashing attack on what he termed the "poppycock" of Republican promises.

Mr. Truman asked for action within 15 days after the lawmakers meet, on anti-inflation and housing legislation.

An hour before he took the stage of Philadelphia's Convention Hall early this morning to fling a challenge at the Republicans to make good on their Dewey-Warren platform pledges, Mr. Truman had been nominated by his party on the first ballot.

The vote, indicating the wide breach opened in party ranks by the bitter, last-ditch fight over civil rights was:

President Truman, 947 1/2; Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, 263.

Paul V. McNut, 1/2 vote. Not voting, 23.

The convention, after a 38-minute ovation for the President, gave Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, 70-year old minority leader of the Senate, a unanimous vote for vice president.

Unanimous, that is, except for a group of Mississippi and Alabama delegates. They had walked out earlier over the racial issue—turning their steps to Birmingham, Ala., and a Saturday call for a states' rights convention of their own.

But Mr. Truman took the bit in his teeth in a fighting acceptance speech. He said he will recommend that the GOP-controlled special session, among other things, act on civil rights legislation.

While embattled Southern delegations sat silent, the arm-waving chief executive told the delegates: "Everybody knows that I recommended the Congress a civil rights program. I did so because I believe it to be my duty under the constitution."

"Some of the members of my own party disagree violently on this matter but they stand up and do it openly. People can tell where we stand. The Republicans all profess to be for these matters, but the 80th Congress failed to act."

"They had enough men and they had courage (a rule under which Senate debate can be gagged to shut off a filibuster). There were enough people that would vote for cloture."

Some Southern Democrats, angry over the convention's adoption of a stiffer civil rights plank than its own platform committee had urged, said they believe the Republicans will lose no time in putting a civil rights bill before the Senate at the special session.

These same Dixie lawmakers promised the same long-winded debate that has bottled up such moves in the past.

Republicans regarded the prospect of a Democratic filibuster with more glee than they seemed likely to register over Mr. Truman's demand that they solve the housing and inflation problems—and pronto.

HARRY S. TRUMAN and ALBEN BARKLEY --- choices of the democratic majority

As his party members thundered their approval, the President told the delegates: "Now, what that worst 80th Congress does in this special session will be the test. The American people will not decide by listening to mere words or by reading a mere platform."

"They will decide on the record, and in the record is the stark truth that the battle lines of 1948 are the same as they were back in 1932 when the nation lay helpless and prostrate as a result of the Republican inaction."

This removed the last doubt that the President intends to make the record of Congress the full key-note of his campaign against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

His call for the special session, the President moved the opening scene of the campaign to familiar grounds in Washington where he speaks not only as a candidate but as President.

At the same time, however, Mr. Truman laid himself and his administration open to daily comment. See PRESIDENT, Pg. 15, Col. 1.

Building Funds Will Be Asked For Hospital

A minimum building appropriation of $2,000,000 for the Big Spring State Hospital will be asked of the next legislature.

Sen. Sterling Parrish, here Wednesday afternoon, said that Ben Warden, member of the state board of control, had told him that this would be the minimum amount of the board's request to the legislature.

Parrish said it was possible that the final figure might be even greater.

Among the new buildings to be sought are five dormitory structures, three units for doctor's offices and a combination recreation and chapel building.

Sen. Parrish said that the state's eleemosynary facilities were in desperate need of enlargement and that he felt that logically a generous portion of the need should be met in the newest and smallest of the state's hospitals here at Big Spring.

The two million dollar figure is substantially more than the original appropriation for the plant. It is not to be confused with the regular appropriation for operations, which is a separate matter.

WILL NAME OWN CANDIDATES Many Rebel Southerners Plan Bolt Convention In Alabama

PHILADELPHIA, July 15. (AP)—Some but not all of the rebel Southern Democrats slapped down at their national party's convention packed off for Birmingham today—there to name a states' rights candidate for president and write a states' rights platform.

This history seemed to be flashing back 88 years to another bitter party split over the race issue; a split that put Abraham Lincoln into the White House as the nation's first Republican president.

But in a pre-dawn challenge to his Dixie and GOP foe alike President Truman raised the civil rights issue high into the pre-election campaign.

The chief executive climaxed his acceptance of the presidential nomination with a call for Congress to reassemble 11 days hence—to act, among other things, on his and Republican calls for greater civil rights for Negroes and other minority groups.

Mr. Truman has asked for Federal anti-lynch, anti-poll tax, anti-Jim Crow and anti-job discrimination laws.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi formally announced the convention call for the Alabama city.

His action came swiftly after the full Mississippi delegation and half of Alabama's 28 delegates strode out of the steaming Convention Hall last night to protest a double defeat over the platform.

First the convention turned down by a 925 to 309 vote, Dixie's own states' rights plank which would have pledged the party to leave the problem of civil rights to each state.

Then, by a 651 1/2 to 523 1/2 vote, the delegates wrote their complete endorsement of Mr. Truman's own program into the platform that had been the subject of a week-long fight.

The Deep South and Texas got very few votes from beyond their borders.

During the debate in the hot, muggy hall, Robert Figg of South Carolina shouted to his fellow delegates that they were officiating at "the funeral of the Democratic Party."

But the South was hopelessly outvoted.

The walkout didn't come at once, however.

Chairman Sam Rayburn gavelled the convention into recess before the angry Alabama and Mississippi delegates could gain recognition.

When the delegates reassembled for their final session and the call of the states began for presidential nominations, Handy Ellis, chairman of the Alabama delegation, made it official.

He said that because of a pledge to the people of his state not to vote for either a Republican, Harry S. Truman or anyone standing on the kind of platform that had been adopted:

"Thirteen of the delegates and all but three of the alternates will proceed to walk out of this convention and report to the Democratic Party of Alabama."

Ellis said he was authorized to say that Mississippi was doing the same.

"I bid you goodbye," he said with a bow.

"Good riddance!" a Wisconsin delegate yelled as the bolters fought their way through packed aisles. "We'll win in November without you."

"The hell you will!" Ellis roared back. "Harry Truman won't get $5.50 from the white people in Georgia to help his campaign."

While the Alabama and Mississippi delegates were waiting for a chance to take their walk, Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas withdrew as a Southern bloc's presidential candidate. He said that if nominated he could not support the platform.

Jews Encircle Nazareth, Hit At Jerusalem

CAIRO, July 15. (AP)—The Jews said today Israeli troops have encircled Nazareth from three sides and struck sledgehammer blows at Arab armies in the Jerusalem area.

Both the Jews and Arabs seemed cool to the idea of a new United Nations truce in their Palestine war.

Jewish sources in Haifa said Israeli units now were within striking distance of Nazareth, main Northern Palestine base of Fawzi Pasha Al Kuakji's irregular Arab volunteer army.

A dispatch from Jewish-held modern Jerusalem said Israeli forces struck sledgehammer blows at Arab armies around the Holy City in the 12 hours ended at noon yesterday.

A later report from the Arab-controlled old city said the Arab Legion and tribal riflemen of Trans-Jordan had started a fight for Mount Zion south of the walls.

Jewish positions on the mount threaten the Arab left flank.

The UN Security Council meets at Lake Success, N. Y., today to take up a United States proposal for a new Palestine cease-fire within three days. The American delegation is hopeful of approval.

A high Israeli army officer in Jerusalem asked: "What do we want with a truce?" An unofficial Jewish spokesman said: "We will accept any truce, of course, but we are disheartened at the prospects of a United Nations truce coming to the aid of the Arabs just when we are beginning to get results from our offensives."

JOHNSON IN EAST TEXAS

Peddy Confident That He'll Win

By The Associated Press

Fresh from his homecoming tour in North Texas, made a luncheon address at Cleburne and headed for an old settlers' reunion at Granbury, Lyndon Johnson, candidate for the same office, visited Mineola, Grand Saline, Quitman, Sulphur Springs and Greenville.

Johnson spoke at Tyler last night to a crowd estimated by the Couriers at about 4,000. He arrived there from Kilgore after an all-day session of speaking in small towns between Tyler and Port Arthur. Tyler was his 24th stop of the day Johnson outlined his platform "preparedness, peace and progress," and said he favored the increase of the present 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance to 30 per cent to provide the incentive for greater exploration for oil.

Young Mother Shot In Car

KANE, Pa., July 15. (AP)—A 19-year-old mother was shot to death while pursuing her baby in the rear seat of their family automobile, State Policeman John Paxton reported.

Paxton said Mrs. Thelma Davis Smiley was shot last night on a highway two miles north of Kane. A bullet struck her in the right temple, the state policeman said.

Paxton said the young woman's husband, Alvin, 26, was being held for questioning but added no charge had been placed against him.

Smiley was quoted by Paxton as saying he drove his wife to the Kane Community Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

The state policeman said he found three bullet holes in Smiley's car.

Washington To Be Dewey Headquarters

NEW YORK, July 15. (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will establish presidential campaign headquarters in Washington, D. C., probably next week.

The Republican standard-bearer announced this last night after discussing campaign organization plans with Herbert Brownell, Jr., his campaign manager.

Dewey was understood to have warned against any overconfidence in Republican ranks.

The governor had no immediate comment on the nomination of President Truman as his Democratic opponent.

Steel Union Leaders Meet

PITTSBURGH, July 15. (AP)—Amid reports that a wage increase by the U. S. Steel Corp. is imminent the CIO United Steelworkers called a meeting of its top officials today.

The groups scheduled to confer were the executive board and the negotiating committee. They set first on wage offers and agreements.

Their recommendations are passed along to the union's 171-man wage policy committee—and a meeting of that group has been called for tomorrow.

U. S. Steel officials deny an agreement has been reached on a wage boost. However, it was reported an accord has been reached which would provide wage hikes from eight to 13 percent—working out to the equivalent of about 12½ cents an hour for steelworkers who now average $1.55 hourly.

COMPANY OFFER FINAL

Ford Workers Are Expected To Call For Strike Action

DETROIT, July 15. (AP)—Representatives of the Ford Motor Company's 116,000 auto workers were expected to demand strike action today in reply to a "final" Ford offer of a 13-cent hourly pay raise.

The National Ford Council of the CIO-United Auto Workers, made up of union delegates from 45 plants, was scheduled to go into session this morning to debate the offer. The rejection and strike call were considered mere formalities.

The matter of setting an actual strike date would be placed in the hands of Ken Bannan, UAW national Ford director.

Ford made its move late last night at the end of a night bargaining session, the first in the month-old talks.

It offered a flat 13-cent raise and a number of so-called fringe benefits. These included an improved group insurance plan, higher afternoon and night shift pay differentials and more liberal vacation provisions. Ford also proposed to extend the present contract for a year beyond its scheduled expiration on July 15, 1949, with one wage reopener by either party during that time.

Little more than an hour later the union gave its reply in a lengthy statement. It amounted to a flat rejection.

A spokesman said: "A continuation by the company of its present stubborn and unreasonable position means inevitably that it is forcing its employees to strike."

DEWEY AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Eaton Wants House Group Recognized

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) hinted broadly to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today that the House Foreign Affairs Committee should get a higher foreign policy rating from the GOP presidential candidate.

"No matter how fine a world policy statesman may devise," said Eaton, "it will cost money. And it won't get the money unless the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives introduces the authorization legislation."

He told a reporter he plans to remind Dewey of that in a letter, and he added:

"It's about time that the high and mighty statesmen recognize the House of Representatives and do business with us."

Eaton's comment was touched off by a report from New York yesterday that Dewey plans to confer later this month with Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, chief Republican foreign policy spokesman in Congress.

SPECIAL CALLS TO SOLONS NOTED

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—Historical footnotes to President Truman's call for a special session of Congress:

Two other presidents have called special meetings of Congress when it was controlled by the opposition party. Republican President Taft did it in 1911, to consider a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada. Democratic President Wilson did it in 1919 to get some appropriations bills passed.

In 1912, Taft was defeated in his bid for reelection. In 1920, the same thing happened to the Democratic candidate, James M. Cox.

Most Coal Miners Are Back At Pits

PITTSBURGH, July 15. (AP)—Wives of most soft coal miners packed full dinner pails today—their breadwinners were back in the pits.

Both coal and steel operations stepped up again toward normal following settlement of the "captive" coal strike. The strike had idled 55,000 of the so-called "captive" miners—they're employed by steel companies.

In addition, better than 25,000 diggers in commercial pits who laid down their tools in sympathy, returned to work. They were employed in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia.

Once Unwanted Lands Bring Schools Funds

AUSTIN, July 15. (AP)—Had a 10-million-dollar real estate deal gone through 104 years ago it would today be considered perhaps the costliest mistake in Texas history.

In 1844 Texas wanted to join the United States. She offered the Federal government all her public domain if it would assume 10 million dollars of her public debt. The ante defused. Congress decided instead that the new state of Texas would keep both her public debt and her public lands.

Out of that deal that fell through, state land office records show, Texas generously granted land to settlers, to war veterans (Texas Revolution and the war between the states), to railroads for transportation facilities, to build a capitol, to encourage irrigation, drainage and iron works, to create an independent school system.

Out of the deal that fell through, the state created two giant permanent education funds—the permanent free school fund and the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. permanent fund. Together they now total 210 million dollars.

In the past 10 months alone, a minute portion of the remaining public lands brought 144 million dollars to the school funds. Land Commissioner Bascom Giles estimates "untold millions" will flow into the funds for years to come. From tidelands alone he expects a "conservative" billion dollars.

All public lands which now remain from the original domain are dedicated to public education.

About two million acres—mostly West Texas pastures dotted with oil wells—are held in the university permanent fund. Revenue from those lands have built the fund to its present 82 million dollars.

All royalties and sale receipts are poured into the permanent fund in both the case of the university and free school holdings. Those funds cannot be spent outright but instead are invested. Thousands of dollars in interest from the funds are siphoned off monthly into the university available fund and the free school available fund. The available funds are spendable for education purposes.

Out of the deal that fell through, "land office business" has become no idle phrase in Texas.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Foreign Trade Zones May Bring New Goods Into State

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—The day may come when Texans can go to any of a number of cities throughout their state and shop for foreign-made goods just as if they were in some exotic, far-away land.

The key to such a situation is the so-called "Foreign Trade Zone."

There already are three such zones operating in the United States—in New York, New Orleans and San Francisco.

A Foreign Trade Zone is the American counterpart of the "Free Port" in other parts of the world. Europe has had them for centuries; there were 43 in operation on the continent at the outbreak of World War Two.

A "Free Port" is one where goods of a foreign land may be unloaded exempt from all tariff and custom regulations, so long as they are kept within a restricted area. There they may be examined by prospective buyers.

If taken out of the compound gates for use in this country, the goods are subject to all existing tariffs. The purchaser may be an American exporter who acquires the stuff for shipment on to some other foreign land; it thus would never be subject to the U. S. custom fees.

Under existing law, only merchants or wholesale buyers or exporters may inspect the goods being held in a free trade zone. Legislation was introduced during the past session of Congress to broaden the law to permit exhibits or fairs in these zones so the public in general could enter and pick out miscellaneous items they would like to buy.

An entire waterfront of a city may be designated a free port, as in the case of Hamburg, Germany before the war. It may be, and usually is, a fenced-in portion of a city.

While the "Zone" usually is a large tract of several acres, it might be limited to a single warehouse. Rent would be paid for the time the goods occupied space in the area, whether withdrawn for delivery elsewhere in the United States or sent abroad.

So far, the three free trade zones in the United States are limited to waterfront cities. That's where Texas may come in for a "first."

San Antonio business people have indicated an interest in establishing a free trade zone in that city, particularly for air cargo from Mexico and other Latin-American countries.

Thomas E. Lyons, executive secretary of the government which designates foreign trade zones, says that the San Antonio chamber of commerce and a large warehouse operator in that city are corresponding with him on the matter.

A few days ago Secretary of Commerce Snyder said he is expecting applications soon from San Antonio, Los Angeles and Seattle for permission to establish free ports.

San Antonio would differ from the three existing free trade zone cities in that it has no water commerce, and it is not a border city, which is noteworthy.

However, with air traffic steadily increasing, such inland points as Fort Worth and Dallas might well become the unloading spots for goods moving along high in the sky when they cross the border. They would become "free air port" cities.

Foreign trade zones are authorized under a 1934 act of Congress.

Italian Strikes Are Reported Breaking Up

ROME, July 15. (AP)—The government said today a "back to work movement" is cracking the general strike clamped on Italy by Communist labor after the attempted assassination of Palmiro Togliatti.

Togliatti, Italy's No. 1 Communist who also stands ace high with the Soviet Union, was reported improving. A Sicilian law student shot him three times outside the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

In addition to the paralyzing general strike, the shooting touched off violence which claimed the lives of six persons and injured hundreds more. Disturbances continued today but on a lesser scale than yesterday.

The Interior Ministry headed by Mario Scelba said Italian workers were beginning to return to their jobs at several places.

This was regarded as certain to stiffen resistance by Premier Alcide de Gasperi to reported demands from the Communist-led General Labor Confederation (CGIL) for Scelba's resignation as the price for ending the strike.

The small Liberal Party, aligned with De Gasperi's Christian Democrats in the government, assailed the strike as "openly revolutionary in character."

The Interior Ministry communique described the situation in Italy as "everywhere normal." It said Sicilian railways were operating again, volunteers were manning express routes of Naples, government offices operating regularly and that there was "partial restoration" of activity in many cities.

Press dispatches told only of disorders at Milan and Turin—Communist strongholds—to match those which swept Italy yesterday and last night.

'Cheap Politics' Is Republican Reply To Call

By The Associated Press

President Truman's call for a special session of Congress July 26 promptly drew cries of "cheap politics" today from many Republicans of the GOP-controlled House and Senate.

Even some Democrats differed as to whether it was a wise or unwise political move and as to whether good would come of it or not.

Almost without exception Republican Congress members attributed the step to political motives and the criticism of "cheap politics" came from several.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), the president of the Senate who has worked closely with the administration on foreign policy, expressed doubts that "any good to the country" would come of the session.

"This sounds like a last hysterical gasp of an expiring administration," said Vandenberg, Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman. He added that the move "obviously stems solely from political motives."

Many of the top Republican leaders who shape their party's congressional policies either refrained from commenting or provided no definite reaction to the special session call.

Among those saying immediately "no comment" were House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) and Sen. Taft (Ohio), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this new recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barconate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the results, easy way to lose belly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if you lose pounds and inches, you'll know the magic. From neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money.

Peddy Declares World Peace Is Campaign Issue

By George Peddy Candidate for U. S. Senator (Written for the Associated Press) The number one issue, as I have stated it in all my speeches, is world peace.

Our foreign policy should be directed solely toward the promotion of world peace. We have never had a real American foreign policy.

The failure of the League of Nations at the end of World War I was due solely to the fact that our League of Nations policy was seized upon by isolationists and was made the principal issue in the partisan political fight between the two major political parties in 1920.

I have often said that we lost peace at the end of World War I because of our vacillating, uncertain attitude in our relations with other nations of the world. The stupid blunders we made at Yalta and at Potsdam in our dealings with Russia are largely responsible for our critical position at this moment in Berlin.

While we were strong at the end of World War II and were able to write our own ticket, we should have been realistic in our dealings with Russia and should have made certain that our position in Europe could not be jeopardized by any possible action that Russia might take.

Foreign policy problems will arise continuously during the six-year term for which I seek election. I believe my experience in two world wars in dealing with the governments and peoples of western Europe will enable me to render valuable service to my country in the field of foreign relations.

Second: Another continuing problem that will require constant study and careful, intelligent attention, lies in the field of labor relations. In my opinion a constant tug of war between employer and employee, each seeking an advantage over the other, with little regard for the consuming public, will destroy free enterprise in America and usher in state control and regimentation of all production and labor.

The sole aim of government in this field should be equal justice under the law for employer and employee alike and with equal regard for the consuming public. Much has been said about the Taft-Hartley act being designed to create slave labor in America. I see nothing in that law which is calculated to bring about such a condition. In my opinion, the principal opponents of the Taft-Hartley act are the labor bosses who don't like the provisions of the law which curb their powers and place the control of the union in the hands of the laboring people, the membership of the unions.

Had I been in the Senate, I would have voted for the Taft-Hartley act. I have said and I repeat that if, in actual practice under this new law, it is found that the employee can be oppressed and deprived of his just rights, I shall favor such amendment of the law as to eliminate such oppressive provisions of the law.

In this regard, I shall be governed solely by the principle stated that any law in this field must give equal justice and equal protection to both employer and employee.

Third: There are too many people in America on government payrolls. The deadwood should be removed. Efficiency and economy in government, with a resulting reduction in the tax burden, must be a chief concern of the United States Senate in the next six years.

I shall urge unceasingly to eliminate useless bureaus and useless government jobs in those departments of government essential to the operation of government. I am one who believes that the government which governs least, governs best. In my opinion, the continued increase in the number of bureaus and in the number of people on government payrolls ultimately will lead to a government bureaucracy as destructive of democratic government as was the fascist, Nazi and communist regimes in those countries which fell a victim to those systems.

I have no pets in government bureaus and have no entanglements with people who are in the habit of getting special favors and privileges through the practice of political influence by congressmen or senators. I shall be free to devote my energies to the steady reduction of the expense of government and a corresponding reduction in the tax burden on the people.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Rainwater were Mr. and Mrs. Dud Sands and two children of Hobbs, N. M.

Dollars And The Course

The city commission has voted to issue warrants up to the amount of $100,000 to finance the city's share of a contemplated continuation of the paving program, plus construction of a fire station.

There may be some divergence of opinion among the public, as there was on the commission, as to whether bonds should have been floated rather than warrants. However, at this state it is more or less an accomplished fact and therefore a moot question. The warrants—as many as are issued—can and will be handled.

Meanwhile, we go on with these programs without risking retarding development. A vote would have answered whether the people wanted these improvements beyond any point of argument; yet we venture there is not much serious doubt on this point. By now taxpayers are aware that the various services do not fall like pennies from heaven but must be earned by the sweat of the brow. They cost dollars and it is dollars, rather than bonds or warrants, that ultimately must be paid.

Open Your Voting Eyes

In little more than a week, voters of Howard county face the matter of choice between candidates in the democratic primaries.

There will be many basis for reaching decisions. More often than not county and precinct races will be resolved on the basis of friendship, acquaintances, direct vote requests, peevish, etc.

On a district and state basis, and particularly the latter, many voters will literally shut their eyes and vote. In the case of the senate and governor's race, candidates will be sufficiently well known to that some degree of intelligence may be exercised in voting our prejudices as well as our preferences. Beyond the point of these and a few other top spots, the list of candidates becomes less and less familiar. In lesser state posts and the appellate courts, the names are strange and forbidding long. There are two options—either guess or scratch all. Neither is contributing much to good democratic processes.

Of course, the best process would be to work at the job of being a citizen, to take pains to find out something about the candidates. If that is not possible, it would be well to inquire far enough to at least be able to select one person meeting the voter's demands. We might even be more objective in our choice of local public servants, leaving out personalities and taking in abilities.

There is yet time to find out some things. Why not look around and listen and ask. Your job in handling one of your most precious rights as a citizen might be better done July 24.

LADY IN GREEN KNOWS VIDEO AND POLITICS

BY HAL BOYLE PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The lady in green had goose pimples—and a heart full of words. She also wore a pink petticoat, a big diamond ring bright as a firefly, and a solemn cocoa-colored makeup that crinkled as she talked.

But the thing that made Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas the toast of the Democratic Convention Tuesday night was her mixture of mature beauty and her political earnestness.

She was the Democratic answer to the glamor challenge raised by the Republicans three weeks ago when they featured Clare Boothe Luce as a convention speaker.

And Mrs. Douglas was ready to take up that challenge! Men politicians may not learn from each other's mistakes—but smart political ladies do.

Whether Congresswoman Douglas or ex-Congresswoman Luce is the most glamorous gal in politics is a hair-pulling question among feminine supporters of the two ladies. And the two ladies themselves — it is reasonable to assume — are aware of their rivalry. Both are former actresses.

But last night La Belle Douglas had a big advantage. She had the edge that any experienced actress has after watching another actress perform under strange and new conditions.

The new element was the magic and sometimes cruel eye of television. That eye turned Mrs. Luce, slender, blonde, white-skinned beauty, into a pale, gurning ghost on the television screen during her speech before the Republican Convention.

Mrs. Douglas, chestnut-haired wife of movie actor Melvyn Douglas, learned a makeup lesson from her rival. When she stepped to the speaker's table, she may have looked to the delegates slightly like Pocahontas getting ready to put in a good word for John Smith. But on television she was as pretty as Ingrid Bergman seen from the tenth row in the orchestra.

For all her public speaking experience, the Irish lady in the Kelly green dress was nervous. She stood high on her toes and her pink petticoat slipped into view of those on the platform as she began pouring her speech into the microphone. Her arms trembled. "She shakes and she shouts," said one critical bystander. The goose bumps — or duck bumps — came out on her firm, rounded arm. I counted them up to 125, and then they began to disappear, like little bubbles on a lake of pearl.

The lady had herself in hand. Down the verbal road of New Deal loyalty she went, here whacking the Republicans, there calling upon Democrats to make a memorial to Franklin D. Roosevelt through "service to humanity."

The Nation Today

Demos Ignore High Costs

By JAMES MARLOW PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The high cost of living — blaming the other side for it — will be one of the main issues in the 1948 political campaign.

But here at the Democrats' Convention the red hot issue has been on civil rights for Negroes.

The Southerners have fought bitterly to water down the language of any platform plank on civil rights. The fight started when President Truman asked Congress to pass a civil rights program.

Mr. Truman's proposal so infuriated white Southern politicians that they opposed his nomination as Democratic candidate for President.

So the problem of the Democrats in writing their plank on civil rights went like this:

1. Take a stand on civil rights but try not to make the Southerners any angrier than they are.

2. At the same time don't word it in such a way that the Democratic Party would seem to be letting Mr. Truman down.

3. And try to word it so that the Negro voters in the big northern cities wouldn't turn away from the Democrats. Their vote could mean victory.

The Democrats' plank on civil rights is a much different from the plank in the 1944 platform.

But — it's a little less specific than the civil rights plank in this year's Republican platform. Instead of stating the party's position on individual points — such as abolishing the polltax or passing an anti-lynching or anti-segregation law as the Republicans did — the plank uses more general language.

This is what the 1948 platform says: "The Democratic Party is responsible for the great civil rights gains made in recent years in eliminating unfair and illegal discriminations based on race, creed or color."

"The Democratic Party commits itself to continuing its efforts to eradicate all racial, religious and economic discrimination. "We again state our belief that racial and religious minorities must have the right to live, the right to work, the right to vote, the full and equal protection of the law, on a basis of equality with all citizens as guaranteed by the constitution."

"We again call upon Congress to exert its full authority to the limit of its constitutional powers to assure and protect those rights."

Demos Still Talk About Roosevelt CIO Apathetic On Pepper Campaign

By DREW PEARSON PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Thoughts on watching a Democratic convention — The exercise girl in the store window on Chestnut Street is still peddling her exercise machine "n" and down. She's been doing it ever since the Republican convention and she doesn't get tired. Sam Rayburn, Senator Barkley et al are still extolling the virtues of Franklin Roosevelt. The exercise girl is mechanized. But Rayburn, Barkley et al aren't. However, they don't get tired either. Roosevelt is gone now. It's the first convention without him in sixteen years, but they keep talking about him. Talking but not necessarily doing. Truman talks about him, but fires molten steel at the Roosevelt team. Oscar Ewing talks about him; Van Heflin talks about him, Congressman Mike Kerwin talks about him. But the real fact is that, despite the talk, the Roosevelt family isn't in with Truman and never will be. Jimmy Roosevelt did his best for Eisenhower. So did Elliott, and for a time, so did Franklin, Jr. Mrs. Roosevelt is sour on Truman, but has been too polite to say so. In brief, this is the end of the Roosevelt era, the winning era for the Democrats. They still make speeches about him, and in their hearts they know they can't win without him.

Eisenhower's old mess sergeant, Marty Snyder, out in front of the Bellevue-Stratford yelling for his hero. His sound truck could be heard a block away. Sounded like the sound truck that kept parading the streets of Philadelphia for Bob Taft — right up to the last Republican ballot. Democratic conventions are usually more fun than Republican. They shout more, thump you on the back harder, sing louder. You notice it when they sing the Star-Spangled Banner. The Republicans move their lips. The Democrats fill up their chests and put some oomph in it. Finally, the Dems fight more. In other words, they're individualists — hard-singing, hard-drinking, hard-fighting individualists. And it takes a big man, a tough man, to ride herd on them.

CONTRASTS Between 1944 and 1948 — most famous phrase of the 1944 campaign was "clear it with Sidney Hillman." The phrase came from Roosevelt's alleged remark when Jimmy wanted to be his vice-presidential running mate and FDR is supposed to have advised him to clear it with Sidney Hillman, then head of the CIO-PAC. Byrnes didn't clear it, and was not nominated, which was a tragedy because the country would have been immeasurably better off had been immeasurably better off.

Today Jimmy is down in South Carolina, where he has a new farm with a lot of trees to clear away; Sidney Hillman is dead; and labor, which once played a role at Democratic conventions, doesn't seem to be around any more. Phil Murray is sitting it out at Pittsburgh, apparently waiting for divine guidance. Dan Tobin, who for years helped write Democratic platforms, this year refused to be a delegate. Long-range observers around the convention lobbies will tell you that labor has a lot to learn — when it comes to the line harder for labor than Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, yet the CIO Pepper on the sidelines listlessly watching his campaign. Other senators may remember that listless next time labor needs a friend on the Senate floor.

There's Chip Roberts of Georgia over there in the lobby of the Warwick Hotel, just back from Singapore from where he air-expressed a snake to his wife Evie. Evie used to fancy herself a snake-charmer. Now she charms Democrats. By the time the snake arrives in Washington, however, and had a chance to be charmed by Evie it was almost dead. Air-sickness. Says Chip: "If you have any dangerous snakes around give 'em an airplane ride. It's the best way to kill them." Chip looks healthier now that he doesn't have to raise money for the Democrats. (He used to be Democratic treasurer.) So does George Killion, who succeeded him. George is now head of the American President Steamship Lines and says there's nothing like a trip across the Pacific for a summer's vacation. Money raising for the coming Truman campaign is going to be tough. Mrs. Perle Mesta, the Oklahoma oil heiress who throws those big parties for the Trumans, is counted on for a big slice of dough. So are Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Ambassador Averell Harriman. They're supposed to ante up half a million, and if they don't come through it'll be bad, for almost nobody else will.

Everybody loves Senator "Dear Alben" Barkley — except Harry Truman. And it's mutual. The White House let it be known it wasn't enthusiastic about a 70-year-old man as running mate and, naturally, when this got back to Alben, he was miffed. By that time, however, the press already had his keynote speech praising Truman so he had to go through with it. Most vigorous opponents of able Senator Joe Mahoney to be vice president were Ed Flynn and Howard McGrath, his co-representatives on the Democratic National Committee. If a Catholic runs and gets defeated, they argue, it will be difficult to get another Catholic nominated for years. No one really wanted to run with Truman.

Clark Clifford and Tommy Corcoran got the blame for tipping off Mr. T. that Justice Douglas would like the V-P spot, which was why Mr. T. called Douglas direct — all to no avail.

MAKES SENSE The headlines from Berlin are nearly shoved off the first page by convention news. That mess sequester of Ike's out in the street talking about the importance of leadership. He's so right. And the big crowds around him daily, listening. He's just a mess sergeant — with brass lungs. But he makes sense. Eisenhower urged Congress to pass the draft act — first peacetime draft in history — partly because of the psychological effect of Russia. The Russians respect the strong leadership. Eisenhower is a strong leader. So says Ike's ex-mess sergeant. The folks in the street tried to chase him off, but Sergeant Snyder was too smart. He flashed a police permit.

The late beloved Josephus Daniels was so right. It takes a big leader, a great man, to weld together the heterogeneous, warring factions of the Democratic Party. They're too individualist, in many respects so American. They're far too happy scrapping. Also, of course, some of them have got old and fat and complacent. No longer are they the young, vigorous, fighting party of Franklin Roosevelt. The days when new, fresh, invigorating youngsters would come to Washington and work almost for nothing just for the joy of helping their country are over. Yet that doesn't detract from the great job they once did. The Republicans can howl their heads off about the New Deal, but they'll never dare repeal the New Deal laws — the SEC, social security, REA, old-age pensions, soil erosion, support for farm prices. Those were days of never-ending battling for the underdog.

Cornel Wildes Will Not Be A Co-Starring Team

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD — Patricia Knight will have to pursue her future film career without husband Cornel Wildes.

The Wildes currently are working together in "The Lovers," but their screen partnership won't become a habit. "This is my last outside picture," explained Cornel. "From now on, my contract belongs exclusively to 20th-Fox."

Since he made his hit in "A Song To Remember," his services have been shared by Columbia.

Pat has several film deals cooking for her and still wants to pursue her own career.

Tony Martin arrived back in town still dazed from his reception at London's palladium. "I don't claim to be a big name; I consider myself to be an in-between," he says modestly. "That's why I was amazed at the wonderful way the British crowds reacted."

The parting of MGM and Sylvan Simon, who directed Red Skelton's two latest pictures, was far from friendly. Despite "Fuller Brush Man's" big business, MGM said it didn't approve of Red's doing slapstick (both Red and Simon were loaned out for the film). Said one MGM bigwig: "Red should be doing love scenes."

RAIN FOLLOWS STEVENSON'S CAMPAIGN TOUR

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD "The rain ought to be starting soon," said Coke Stevenson, candidate for senator, as he pulled into Longview the other day.

The skies were clear — there had been quite a drouth. But Stevenson was just relying on the fact that rain has been following him around. A reporter calls him the "rain king."

At any rate, two hours after the former governor arrived at Longview, it began to rain. It was a real gully-washer, with enough wind to knock down the fence all around the local ball park.

"I knew it was raining," Stevenson sighed, "but I'm really glad about it. It will do the farmers a lot more good than a political speech."

Here is a part of Stevenson's rain record. Beaumont hadn't had a rain in two months, but Coke brought it one. Rains followed him to Orange, Port Arthur, Galveston, Houston and Abilene. Winters needed rain badly. Coke and the precipitation arrived simultaneously.

A couple of farmers urged him to stick around.

"We need more of this rain," one laughed.

It rained on Stevenson at Eastland, Ranger, Fort Worth, Arlington.

At Brady, he bogged up to his ankles in mud as he waded to a grandstand following a cloudburst. "It rained so hard at Ranger," Stevenson told us, "I couldn't work the town. These rains don't bother me at all. I'm tickled to death about them. They put folks in a good humor and help Texas. Whatever helps Texas, helps me."

Affairs Of The World

Solidarity Of Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

One of the outstanding aspects of current international affairs is the increasing American-British solidarity — a solidarity which forms the backbone of the bloc of Democratic nations.

We get a striking demonstration of this in the coordination of effort being displayed in the battle of Berlin. We see it again, in the way London has veered around to the Washington viewpoint, that the United Nations should use strong methods to halt the war in the Holy Land.

This identification of unity is due to numerous factors. But foremost is recognition that it is essential for the defense of Democracy against Bolshevist aggression which aims at world conquest. Britain and America hold the balance of power in this conflict which involves the freedom of mankind.

Then, too, there is a mutual respect for integrity and ability to deliver the goods in emergencies. I'm reminded of a remark made to me the other day in a New York subway by a young Englishman — a stranger to me — who was trying desperately to figure out how to reach his destination.

"I don't see how you folk ever get anywhere," he said gloomily. "But you always seem to arrive, so I suppose you must be right."

That was a backhanded compliment to the U. S. A. It was almost identical with what I've heard Englishmen say of their own country innumerable times:

"We British have an extraordinary faculty for mending things up — but some way we always manage to muddle through."

It's true that Americans frequently do "arrive" and that Britons are often "muddle through." Both countries recognize this quality in the others, and respect it and if each also recognizes it in itself, what's wrong with that?

So it isn't strange that King George VI, in addressing the American and other bishops attending the Lambeth Conference in London should appeal for close collaboration between the United States and Britain to assure world peace. We may not be able to maintain peace, but the consensus of observers seems to be that such collaboration will contribute more towards it than will anything else.

We assign the rank of "great power" to five nations today: America, Britain, Russia, France and China. Poor China is a stricken giant, and France suffered so freely her old self. Britain, too is in the grip of a fierce economic crisis, and it will be years before Russia fully recovers from the Russian war. America is the most powerful economically and militarily, and by that token has volunteered to aid the less fortunate democracies which are in danger of bolshevist aggression.

In this Uncle Sam is motivated partly by altruism. However, he also is acting in self-defense, for our front lines lie in Western Europe. There must be solidarity among America, Britain, France and the other Western European democracies.

The trend of the struggle for Berlin hinges on this solidarity. The German people recognize this, as witness, banner lines in their newspapers proclaiming that "the whole world is watching the battle of Berlin." That is no exaggeration, for this may be the turning point in the conflict between Communism and Democracy in Europe.

Around The Rim—By The Herald Staff

Pirates Have Gone Modern

Think that "Terry and the Pirates" are largely a figment of George Wunders imagination?

Not so, according to a late Associated Press dispatch. A vicious two-day air, land and sea battle was recently fought near Hong Kong between modern buccaners and the Chinese police.

A junk filled with thugs was caught in the act of boarding to loot a rice-filled junk in the shore waters 34 miles west of the city when a police launch arrived on the scene. The thieves turned on the lawmen with machine guns and made the shore under cover of fire.

The police radioed Hong Kong for help. A huge flying boat, heavy with police roared to the scene while heavily armed motor vans of officers sped along the coastal roads simultaneously.

For two days and nights the pirates fought off the ring of police. They finally escaped on the last night but left one wounded member behind — a woman. (The Dragon Lady, herself no doubt.)

Piracy has raged unchecked for the last thousand years off the China coast — one of the last spots in the world where the once-universal criminal practice still holds sway. Recently it has extended down into the island dotted coast of Korea, cold war center of the Far East, which has uncounted daylight hiding places to harbor thousands of outlaw boats. With the adjoining land in a state of anarchy, there is little chance of their apprehension.

The modern seagoing criminal limits his talents to no certain field. He'll pirate rice, gold bullion, smuggle people, opium. For a price, his machine-gun-light cannon armed junk waits in a secluded inlet, ready to do anything. — ADRIAN VAUGHAN

German Treaty Is Possibility

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Now that we have the Russian bear by the tail, the immediate alternatives are both impossible. It would be a political disaster to let go; it is a technical absurdity to hold on very long.

To surrender Berlin to the Russians would invalidate all the guarantees of security on which we have invited the western Europeans and the western Germans to stake their future. But to supply the Allied sectors of Berlin by air is obviously only a spectacular and temporary answer to the ground blockade. The operation can be carried on for a while in the summer months. But in the long run, especially in the fog and rain of a Berlin winter, the cost in lives of the pilots and crews, of planes which would have to be replaced, and of money, would be exorbitant.

The critical aspect of the situation is that even if the Russians relax the blockade, as they have indicated that they may, our position in Berlin will still be as precarious as it was before. The Russians will still control access to Berlin. As long as they occupy Germany east of the Elbe River, Berlin is surrounded by their troops, and they can, when they deem it expedient, restore the blockade. Therefore, in order to maintain the position in Berlin, we should have to keep our fleet of air transports with all their pilots and crews and ground personnel waiting, but always ready. For that reason, among many others, General Clay ought to be directed to amend his declaration that we are staying in Berlin; he should be told to say that we are staying in Berlin as long as the Russians stay in Berlin and around it, but that when they withdraw, we can withdraw. Then Berlin cannot be blockaded and Berlin will not have to be supplied by air.

We cannot afford to continue to ignore the fact that the Soviet government is publicly on record as favoring "the swift conclusion of the German peace treaty" and "the swift withdrawal of the occupying forces from Germany." This declaration was made at the Warsaw conference which ended less than two weeks ago. It marks a radical change in the Soviet position, foreshadowed for the first time — I think I am right in this — in Stalin's reply to Henry Wallace. As recently as November at the beginning of the last Council of Foreign Ministers in London, M. Molotov took an exactly opposite position, insisting upon a prolonged and interminable military occupation of Germany.

There are now very strong indications that the purpose of the Berlin blockade is to bring about a four-power negotiation for a German peace treaty. I do not see how we can fail to consider this proposal very seriously, to explore it slowly, carefully, and thoroughly, and to take the appropriate measures in western Europe. For a German peace treaty followed by the swift withdrawal of the Russian armies is a wholly different proposition from a German peace treaty, as M. Molotov envisaged it last November, with the Russian Army still occupying Germany.

In weighing this proposition we may begin with the objections which will be raised. It will be said that the withdrawal of all the occupying forces, including our own, will deprive France and western Europe of the protection which exists because they cannot be attacked without first attacking the American Army. But if the Russian Army had been withdrawn five hundred miles to the east, can it be denied that it would be very much more difficult for the Russian Army to invade western Europe? I do not see how it can be denied.

Nevertheless, positive measures to make the West secure against Russia and against a resurgent Germany will still be necessary.

Cottage Cheese Potato Salad

A dish so fresh with country good things it reminds you of company dinner on the farm—that's our cottage cheese-potato salad.
 We're combining the plentiful and inexpensive too. For cottage cheese and new potatoes are on the economy list right now.
 Another summer favorite—deviled eggs—goes with the dish for added flavor and protein. Eggs and salad together cost only between 45 and 50 cents—if you're feeding four.

 You might border the salad with a crispy tossed green salad—and add other color with bright tomato wedges, rosy pickled beets or unpeeled cucumber slices.
COTTAGE CHEESE-POTATO SALAD
 2 cups cooked, diced potatoes
 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
 1 tablespoon chopped pickle
 2 tablespoons minced onion
 1/2 cup cooked dressing
 Salt and pepper
 1 cup cottage cheese
 1 Chilled potato. Add celery, chopped pickle and onion. Combine cooked dressing with potato mixture and add salt and pepper if needed. Add cottage cheese which has been seasoned with salt and pepper and toss lightly. Chill. Serve in lettuce cups or in a salad bowl.
 A hot vegetable makes pleasant contrast with our chilled main dish salad. You might try a menu like this:
 Cottage Cheese-Potato Salad
 Deviled Eggs
 Broccoli Sliced Tomatoes
 Cupcakes with Chocolate Sauce
A WORD ON CHOCOLATE: Do you really know the difference between those two kitchen standbys—chocolate and cocoa?

 They both come from the cocoa bean of course. But chocolate contains more cocoa butter, which doesn't contribute much flavor but does add richness.
 You'll find mixtures of cocoa and chocolate on your grocer's shelves—in powdered form. For although most of us buy chocolate in square blocks, it may be powdered too.
 Since the cocoa butter is costly, chocolate or combined chocolate and cocoa is more expensive than cocoa.
 So use cocoa in many things—where the added fat in chocolate isn't necessary. It's just a little way to save when prices are high.

Molasses Mousse

1-3 cup molasses
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1/4 cup water
 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
 1 cup cream, whipped
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 Set control of refrigerator at coldest point about a half hour before preparing mousse. Mix together molasses, sugar and water and cook to soft-ball stage (234 F.). Gradually pour syrup into stiffly

Meat Pie With Mashed Potato Top

1/2 cup leftover or freshly cooked diced vegetables
 1/2 cup diced cold meat
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Dash of pepper
 Dash of celery salt
 1/2 cup gravy
 1 cup mashed potatoes
 The vegetables used, either leftover or fresh, may be a mixture of diced carrots, celery, snap beans; lima beans and sliced onions. Mix the vegetables, meat, salt, pepper, celery salt and gravy and turn into a small casserole. Cover with layer of mashed potatoes and bake in a hot (425 F.) oven until vegetables and meat are thoroughly hot and potatoes are lightly browned, about 20 minutes. 2 servings.

beaten egg whites, beating constantly; continue beating until mixture is cold. Beat in vanilla and cinnamon. Fold in whipped cream. Pour mixture into freezing tray of refrigerator and place in freezing unit to freeze (about 4 hours). 6 servings. This mousse has a soft, smooth, velvety texture and does not freeze as hard as ice cream.

Salisbury Steak Tomato Sauce

Salisbury steak—that's just our old friend hamburger with a light trace of onion. And ours is savory with tomato sauce and potato dumplings.
 It's an economy dish. You can buy three-fourths pound of ground beef—or grind your own from a pound and a half of plate beef—gr three-fourths pound lean stew meat.
SALISBURY STEAK, TOMATO SAUCE
 1/4 lb. lean beef, ground
 Salt and pepper
 1 teaspoon onion, minced
 3 tablespoons fat
 1 tablespoon flour
 2 cups hot water
 1 cup tomato soup
 1 tablespoon chili sauce
 Mix beef with salt, pepper and onion. Shape lightly into small cakes and sear in hot fat until well browned; remove cakes. Stir flour into drippings in pan, add water, tomato soup and chili sauce and bring to a boil.
 Return cakes to pan and simmer 15 minutes. Drop dumplings into liquid, cover closely and cook 12 to 15 minutes. Approximate yield, 4 portions.

POTATO DUMPLINGS
 2 medium potatoes (1 cup)
 2 teaspoons fat
 1 egg, beaten
 1 tablespoon minced onion
 1 tablespoon minced parsley
 1/2 cup sifted flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 Boil potatoes in jackets until tender. Pare and press through coarse sieve or ricer. Stir in fat, beaten egg, onion and parsley. Sift flour with salt and baking powder. Add to potato mixture. Chill at least 20 minutes. Roll into balls 1 inch in diameter. Cook as directed above.
 A delightful summer desert—orange whip—uses plentiful and low-cost oranges. Here's our suggested Monday menu:
 Salisbury Steak, Tomato Sauce with Potato Dumplings
 Glazed Carrots
 Cabbage Salad
 Orange Whip, Cookies

SUMMER HOSPITALITY: These warm evenings people take to the front porch or garden terrace, if they're lucky enough to live in houses—and neighbors come over to exchange notes.
 So it's a good idea to keep the makings of refreshing drinks handy—and to watch the market for economical buys of fruit.
 One of your best buys right now is canned grapefruit juice—or blended orange and grapefruit juice.
 Either kind of juice runs around 19 cents for a 46-ounce can—about six cups—or little more than 3 cents a cup.
 Mix the grapefruit with tingling ginger ale—half and half. Or combine it with cold tea, grated orange peel, crushed mint leaves, and sugar syrup to taste.
 Remember you can extend expensive fruit juices with low-cost ones—like adding iced tea and grapefruit juice to much more costly pineapple juice.

Cheese Custard

Cheese custard squares—brown and fragrant—really isn't a true custard for slices of toast give it the stick-to-the-ribs quality you want in a main dish.
 But no matter what the fine points of difference, it's a wonderful meat alternate.
 And this cheese dish is delicious—with tangy seasonings and keeflavored cheese.
 It's nutritious. For eggs, milk and cheese provide all the protein you need in a main dish.
 And it's economical, costing about 10 cents a person to serve.
CHEESE CUSTARD SQUARES
 8 slices dry bread
 1/4 lb. sharp cheese, shredded
 3 eggs
 3 cups milk, scalded
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 Place 4 slices dry bread in greased baking dish—sprinkle with half the cheese. Cover with other 4 slices of bread and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Slightly beat the eggs, add the milk and seasonings.
 Pour over cheese covered toast. Set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (325 F.) for 40 minutes or until custard is set. Serves 4.
 Tender, green asparagus is an economy buy in many markets now.
 But if it's costly in your market, try scallions—young onions without much bulb development. Trim, leaving an inch of the green top and cook like asparagus.
Cheese Custard Squares
 Asparagus Stewed Tomatoes
 Carrot and Celery Strips
 Spice Cake

ABOUT CHEESE: Processed cheese is made from Cheddar cheese—and you can use either in this custard recipe.
 When Cheddar cheese is ground, heated until creamy, and then molded—it's called processed cheese and it's usually packaged in a loaf.
 Processed cheese is popular because of its keeping quality, its smooth texture and its convenient form. It's so easy to slice for sandwiches, you know.

War On Insects Should Be Carried Into All Homes

The spectre of insect-carried disease epidemics is again making its annual summer appearance in the United States causing sanitation officials to urge an all-out war on insect pests. Epidemics of polio and malaria have already been reported in Texas, but effective control of flying insects such as flies and mosquitoes will greatly aid in minimizing any further outbreaks.

With the current national bug population at an astronomical figure, insect control authorities are renewing their efforts in the promotion of effective bug control measures. Many city and county governments are cooperating in general area spraying but officials urge that the campaign be carried right into the home where housewives can now combat the insect menace with new and better bug killers.

Probably one of the most successful products containing Chlor-dane, "10 68" plus Extane is "Cook-Kill" Bug Killer, a product of the Cook Chemical company of Kansas City, Mo. Recent, impartial surveys conducted throughout the South and Mid-West show that Cook-Kill, although only on the market for two years, is currently a two-to-one favorite over its nearest competitor. Officials believe that the success of this product points to the excellence of newly-developed Extane as an insecticide ingredient. The discovery of Extane, however, has not halted further scientific insecticide experiments. Insecticide chemists throughout the country are still searching for more perfect bug killer ingredients and the Cook Chemical company itself has recently constructed a new, modern plant, which is devoted to scientific research and testing equipment.

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Anthony M. Adams, who didn't attend a day of high school, was awarded a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering by the Illinois Institute of Technology. Adams' high score on an air corps flight test convinced school officials to let him take the entrance examination. He ranked in the upper five per cent, taught himself several high school subjects and was graduated with a "B" average.

Tribe, Braves Best On Road

The Cleveland Indians and the Boston Braves, each striving to win its first major league pennant in years, open long road trips today, but the prospect of playing before hostile crowds doesn't faze them.

As the majors resumed activity after a three-day lull for the star game, a survey showed both the American and National League leaders have won more games on the road than at home.

Invading Philadelphia for a twilight-night doubleheader with Connie Mack's amazing Athletics, Cleveland boasted a remarkable .758 percentage on foreign fields. The Indians have lost only eight games on the road while winning 25. At home they have split, winning 20 and losing 20.

The Braves, starting their western trip with a doubleheader at Chicago, have won 24 and lost 13 on the road. This is a .649 clip compared to the Braves' home mark 22-18 for 550.

The runnerup Athletics, only .018 points behind Cleveland, likewise are "terrors" on the road. They have won 28 and lost 14 for .667, compared to a home percentage of .526.

The following table lists how each team has fared at home and away for the season to date. (Figures in parenthesis give the team's overall pct mark).

INSIDE ATOMIC PLANTS

'Loyalty Checks' Arouse A Dispute

WASHINGTON, July 15 (U.P.)—Some atomic scientists are objecting to the way the government has handled accusations against the loyalty and character of people working on secret atomic projects. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has not disclosed how many employees may have been released for security reasons. Some scientists say that because there has been no announcement it is likely not more than a very few people, if any, have been dismissed.

But M. Gerson and M. L. Lesser, atomic scientists at Oak Ridge, Tenn., writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, say two research men at Oak Ridge have been suspended pending a hearing and six others notified there is "uncertainty" over their cases. T. H. Davies, assistant professor of chemistry and member of the Institute of Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago, says in the same issue that several employees in the Argonne National laboratory at Chicago; several at the Brookhaven, N. Y., laboratory and one at the Hanford, Wash., plant also have been notified.

Atomic officials who were asked about this said it is the policy of the commission not to comment on any loyalty cases. They added that the issue is not over the giving away of atomic secrets to spies or other governments. Such a case probably would be a criminal one, handled by the courts.

But the Atomic Energy Act requires the AEC to keep a check on the character, loyalty and associates of the thousands of persons working in atomic plants and related projects who have access to secret information. The main purpose is to weed out any likely to become disloyal in the future, or ones who may carelessly give out secrets by accident—just by talking too much.

The Commission has issued a set of rules, called the Interim Procedure, for local hearings. Analyzing the situation and the hearings have been held. Gerson and Lesser, members of the Association of Oak Ridge Engineers and Scientists, propose some changes. These are based on a study made by a group by Association members. They say two problems are involved:

1. Dealing with people who disclose atomic secrets. (Who under the AEC Act would be tried in courts of law.) 2. Constantly checking employees to be sure they are and will remain completely trustworthy.

"We are concerned with the way in which the second principle can, in practice, be abused," the two men write. "Assuring that employees are completely trustworthy" may be changed to "assuring that employees hold exactly the same political opinions as those held by persons in political power."

They recommended that all accusations be backed up by witnesses; that the prosecution be required to prove the accusations are true, as in a court of law, and that the prosecution be required to explain why the accusations, if true, might lead to a future disloyal act. Under the present rules, prosecution witnesses are not necessary. Thus the accused may not have the chance to confront his accuser, may not even know who he is. Officials of the AEC say this is necessary because:

1. They do not have authority to subpoena witnesses. 2. The FBI investigates the cases, and the FBI feels it is necessary to protect the people who give it information.

Furthermore, AEC spokesmen "charges" in the legal sense, but represent information about an employee which it seems necessary to have the employee explain. But Lesser and Gerson say an adverse decision can seriously cut the earning power of an employee, because of the cloud cast upon him. The Bulletin article suggests all decisions should be subject to review by federal courts.

The employee now has the right to appeal to the commission's personnel security review board, headed by former Justice Owen J. Roberts, but not to the courts.

SAVED FROM NOSE-IN-MUD END

Fiery Truman Speech Lifts Democratic Convention Into Air For First Time

By RELMAN MORIN
PHILADELPHIA, July 15. (AP)—The Democrats are airborne now, and they can thank the President for the near-miracle.

He pulled them off the ground at the very last moment of their convention, after it had been bounding and floundering along the runway, and seemed certain to come to an ignominious, nose-in-the-mud end. It probably was the most inept, dreary, shapeless and badly-handled convention in the history of the party—until Harry Truman came along.

That was at 2 o'clock this morning.

The delegates were tired, sweat-soaked and bored by that time. So was the costless audience, listlessly fanning and gasping in the galleries. The temperature at Convention Hall was 95 at midnight.

An endless series of speeches, studded with the tired old standbys of political oratory—"that great American," "a man who," "I am proud and privileged to be able etc."—had been yammered into the microphones, hour after plodding hour.

There had been one minor and one major demonstration. The first one came when the South nominated Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia. On direct orders from the platform, the band played "Dixie" for it.

And although the majority of the delegates were opposed to the Southern fight, the platform strategists ordered the music that kept the parade going.

"They want something to holler about," an official said. "Might as well let them have a little fun."

The major demonstration came after the President's name was placed in nomination. It was a duplicate of those subway-crushes that are standard equipment for conventions. Despite the heat, people poured into the aisles, snaking and bouncing, perspiring bodies pressed so tightly together that some of the demonstrators were lifted off their feet.

Two women collapsed, directly in front of the rostrum. The hall was a roaring furnace of heat and sound.

But after that, it sank into the old lethargy. The speakers droned on. Roll calls moved ahead with the ponderous weight of a steam roller.

Just before the President appeared, long with his nominee for the vice-presidency, portly, dignified Sen. Alben W. Barkley, some doves were released. What they were intended to symbolize is hard to say.

But anyway, the doves had been brought to the hall several hours before in a cage, concealed beneath a floral liberty bell.

They reacted, to the surroundings pretty much like the delegates. That is, when they were released, they simply stood, blinded by the lights, crushed by the noise, largely incapable of any action at all.

Chairman Sam Rayburn had to pick up one of the birds and throw it into the air. Five or six others managed to get off the floor, flitting around and perching on the electric fans, in imminent danger.

If they were meant to symbolize the Democratic fortunes, next November, superstitious Democrats must have been slightly dismayed. Then the President appeared.

Despite the hour (he usually rises at 5 a.m.) he looked alert. He walked to the rostrum with a quick spring step. His white linen suit was immaculate. He was grinning. Then he started to speak.

With a few lesser exceptions, his speech was the only notable and really vital part of the convention.

He quickly fell into a fighting mood. His anger and indignation had all the appearance of sincerity.

His theme was an old one—the sins of the Republican-controlled 80th Congress. Democratic orators had been grinding at that ever since the convention began. You would have thought it had been too thoroughly chewed over to leave anything for still another speech.

But the President hit hard and his aim was good. Moreover, his manner was such that the audience could hardly fail to react. He was, by turns, angry, amusing and poisonously sarcastic. It was a good speech.

It got the Democratic aircraft off the ground.

Pennsylvania Dutch Oven Treats

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Most interesting of the many new cook books that keep coming into my kitchen are the ones devoted to regional cooking in this country. There's an especially attractive "Pennsylvania Dutch Cook Book" by Ruth Hutchison, published by Harper and Brothers, New York. As is becoming a custom in regional recipe collections—and one to be cheered—this cook book combines folklore and cookery, by including interesting and informative comments at the beginning of each chapter.

One American custom I am personally glad to see in every part of the country is the practice of serving fruit pies with ice cream! As for the fruit pies themselves, the author of "The Pennsylvania Dutch Cook Book" says that if they were invented in New England then it is at least apparent that the Pennsylvania Dutch have developed them to their last possibility! One of the good things about this cook book is its old-fashioned recipes. Take this one, for instance, for Huckleberry Pie. Nothing could be simpler—nor better. Bake the pie in the early morning, before the heat of the day descends, buy a package of ice cream before dinner, and let this luscious combination beguile you in the cool of the evening.

Huckleberry Pie
Rich pastry
4 cups huckleberries
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Nutmeg

Line a pie dish with the pastry, pour in the berries and sugar, mixed. Sprinkle the flour and salt over the huckleberries and add a little nutmeg. Cut air holes in the top crust, seal carefully, and bake in 350F. oven for about 40 minutes, or until crust is golden brown. Makes one 8-inch pie.

Rich Pastry
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
5 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon ice water

Sift the flour into a bowl with the salt and sugar. Cut in the butter. Mix lightly. Stir in the egg yolk. Add water. Chill. Roll out lightly on a floured board. One tablespoon of lemon juice may be added if preferred, for fruit pies. Makes one 8-inch crust. Chill again before filling.

Of course just as delicious as pie-a-la-mode is cake-a-la-mode. If you can get your hands on some hickory nuts and really want to taste something good, then make the following cake and frosting from "The Pennsylvania Dutch Cook Book" and top it off with vanilla ice cream.

Shaker Nut Cake
1/2 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 heaping teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped hickory nuts

Cream the butter and sugar. Beat the egg yolks and add. Sift the flour and baking powder and add alternately with the water. Beat the egg whites stiffly with the salt and fold in with the chopped nuts, which have been lightly dredged with flour. Bake in 8-inch loaf pan in 350F. oven for about 40 minutes. Ice with hickory nut icing.

Hickory Nut Icing
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 cup chopped hickory nut meats

Butter the size of a walnut. Cook the sugar and cream together for a few minutes until it thickens. Add the butter and simmer until the mixture forms a soft ball if dropped into cold water. Remove from stove and cool. Beat until of a fudgelike consistency. Mix with the hickory nuts and spread quickly on the cake.

Fish Potato Puff

A fish main dish for everywhere—one that ignores limitations of your fish market—is this flavorful fish potato puff.

Fresh, canned or frozen fish go into this fish puff—and they all make equally good eating. If you can get fresh fish it's probably your most economical buy. For some plentiful fresh fish fillets cost less than the least expensive grades of canned salmon. But you'll still do well if your market doesn't offer fresh or frozen fish. For the pink salmon you'd need for this recipe costs about 45 cents—figuring on using a pound can.

The whole dish costs only about 65 cents.

1 1/2 cups cooked flaked fish
1 1-3 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
2-3 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
1 1/2 tablespoons chopped celery
1 1/2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 1/2 tablespoons minced onion
2 eggs, separated.

Combine fish, potatoes, salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Fry celery, parsley and onion in fat until tender. Add to fish mixture. Add well-beaten egg yolks and beat until fluffy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pile lightly into a greased baking dish. Brush with melted fat and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) 30 to 40 minutes or until firm and lightly browned. Serves 4.

If you use fresh fish for this recipe, poach it by simmering in a little water until tender.

Let's try a summertime menu like this with our main dish:

Fish Potato Puff
Spinach
Carrot-Raisin Salad
Strawberries and Rhubarb

FOR SUMMER GUESTS: Warm weather takes so many families to the open road that you can expect company almost any time. So you will need an emergency shelf with the makings of meals that go together in a hurry.

You'll want "quickie" recipes on hand too—like today's fish puff. Keep a can or two of salmon on your shelf—and when guests come unexpectedly here's a dish that's on the table in a hurry.

Canned meats are other convenient items to have on hand. The canned smoked pork products may run around 64 cents a pound—but you can extend this meat.

You can use it instead of the fish in today's puffs. Or slice it and serve it hot with raisin sauce.

There's canned corn beef too—about the same price as the pork—fat until tender. Add to fish mixture. Add well-beaten egg yolks and beat until fluffy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Tossed green salad, chilled fruit and homemade cookies—these will round out a hurry-up meal.

6 canned cling peach halves
1 cup canned cling peach syrup

6 to 8 whole cloves
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 slice ham, approximately 1-inch thick.

Drain peaches. Heat syrup together with spices, mustard and horseradish. Brown ham in skillet. Top with peaches and hot syrup. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven 1 hour, basting with syrup occasionally.

German Air Depot Recognizes Beauty

ERDING, Germany, June 1948—Mrs. Jennette Williams, 37-year-old Texas beauty, and daughter of Mrs. W. R. Sheppard, of Abilene, emerged as undisputed winner of the "Miss Erding Air Depot" title, bestowed upon her on the third anniversary of this depot, the supply center of the U. S. Air Force in Europe.

The attractive brunette, well known at the Erding Air Depot for her participation in the depot athletics, was mentioned on nearly every ballot.

Jennette Williams is the librarian and treasurer of the Women's Club of Moosburg, Germany, where she and her husband, First Lieutenant Leland V. Williams, have lived since Jennette arrived overseas in November 1946. The Erding queen is also the star member of the women's bowling league of Erding, averaging 135 points per game throughout a recent tournament.

In 1940 she graduated from the Abilene High School. For two years she worked as secretary-cashier for a finance company in Abilene, and with another finance company in Fort Worth.

On September 7, 1942, she and Lt. Williams, then a corporal with the Air Force, were married in Panama City, Fla.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Williams expect to return to the United States in May, next year. Planning the Air Force for his career, Lt. Williams hopes to be stationed in Texas, preferably at the air base at Carswell, where he already has seen thirty months service.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Ranchers Start Deferred Grazing

O. E. Hamlin, rancher-cooperator with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District, is deferring 1100 acres of pasture land this summer. Hamlin, whose ranch is twelve miles north of Big Spring in the Vealmoor ranch soil conservation group, took his livestock off the pasture to give his grass a chance to grow and recover from the drought.

Hamlin has protected his range from close grazing for several years. Deferring the pasture this summer will bring his range back he says. Close grazed ranges have suffered more from the drought and will take longer to come back. Hamlin also reports that 350 acres of chiseled land soaked up more water from the recent rains than land that was not chiseled. The chiseled land is still too wet to plow, Hamlin says, while the unchiseled land has already crusted over.

Hamlin has 85 acres of sudan ready to turn his cattle on, which will give his pasture grasses a rest during the growing season.

Nine-sections of range land on the J. B. Calverley ranch will be deferred from grazing all summer. Calverley has moved his sheep and cows off his ranch eight miles northwest of Garden City to rest his pastures during the growing season to give his grass a chance to grow. Deferred grazing is part of the coordinated soil conservation program followed by Calverley and Hamlin to improve the cover of grass on their ranches.

Calverley is preparing twelve acres of cropland for irrigation. He started work this week building laterals and borders to irrigate an alfalfa field which will be planted this fall. The Soil Conservation Service helped him lay out the irrigation system.

District cooperators who have their farm land terraced and with rows on the contour are well pleased with the way the terraces saved water and kept their fields from washing during the rains that fell last week. While some terraces in the heavier rainfall belt suffered damage the fields were not washed as badly as unterraced fields and more water was held on the land. A field on the D. W. Christian farm would have "sloughed off" without terraces, Mr. Turner, who is farming the land, reports. The terrace system was damaged by a five-inch rain but saved a lot of soil and water.

J. E. Sampley, who is farming the G. W. McGregor place across the road from D. W. Christian, said his terraces held all of the five-inch rain. The terraces which were blocked at the ends were level full of water after the rain, Sampley said.

Contour rows on the L. Z. Shafer farm two miles east of Fairview spread the water evenly over the land Shafer reports. As a result his cotton is growing off uniformly over the field. Cotton on straight rows on a nearby farm is spotted, smaller where water ran off and larger where it collected.

conservation group. Part of his field which has had Johnson grass on it was still too wet to plow Talbot said while he was planting the rest of the farm.

Greek Rebels Throw Out Peace Feelers

WASHINGTON, July 15. (AP)—American officials wondered today whose side the Greek Communists are on in the feud between the Russian-dominated Cominform and Yugoslavia's Marshall Tito.

A new peace feeler sent out yesterday by the Greek guerrillas stirred official doubt that Rebel Gen. Markos Vafades is lining up with Russia in the quarrel with Tito. The proposal by Markos' clandestine radio station to "end the senseless bloodshed" in Greece was turned down promptly by the Athens government—which gave similar treatment to an earlier overture six weeks ago.

But American diplomatic authorities noted with interest that the station apparently still operates from within Yugoslavia—even though only recently it broadcast the Cominform's denunciation of Tito.

What's more, it is believed here that Yugoslavia is keeping up a flow of supplies to the rebels across the Greek border.

Because of the strong Yugoslav support he seems to be getting, American officials doubt that Markos actually is prepared to sue for peace—despite the two-fold threat marked by (A) the American-backed military drive by the Greek government and (B) his possibly delicate position in the Tito-Cominform quarrel.

It offered a flat 13-cent raise and The Athens drive against the guerrillas has run into difficulties in the rugged Grammos Mountains near the Yugoslav border, and officials said Greece appealed this week for increased American aid.

Odessa Moves Into Town Tonight To Begin Crucial 3-Game Stand

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

A few of the sports followers would refer to the fans task of selecting the teams for the annual Longhorn baseball league all-star game. After all, they point out, it is their show.

It's a tasty morsel wrapped up in a bright ribbon. True, there's nothing to it but a lot of hard work for the players chosen.

Others would have the league's leading team, selected on a date set prior to the season, playing a team made up of athletes from all the other teams. Such a game could be played in the city whose team is setting the pace at the appointed hour.

LOCAL DELEGATES SHOULD SHINE IN CLASSIC
At any rate, we come up to another of the annual classics Tuesday in Odessa and the boys chosen to represent Big Spring in the show are able delegates. Last year, seven Broncs rated the honor and bathed themselves in glory.

This year, if they play up to par, the local representation should do equally as good.

SEVERAL COMPETANT HANDS ARE OVERLOOKED
We couldn't see any reason for leaving Sam Harshaney of Del Rio, Ralph Kennedy of Odessa; Merle Coleman of Odessa; and Our Town's Franny Perez off the squad.

True, Kennedy was injured several weeks ago and it is doubtful that he would have been ready but he should not have been deprived of the honor. He and Tony Traspuesto of the Big Springers appear to be the class of the league's receivers.

BRIDGES TAKES ANOTHER LOOK AT BAKER
Frank Bridges, the old Baylor coach who now scouts for the Chicago White Sox, was in the village last night to get another look at Jimmy Baker, Angelo flinger.

He saw Gerald Fahr, the Vernon flinger, at Angelo before coming up this way and was said to be favorably impressed.

Sammy Malvica, the Angelo utility man, is out of the lineup because of a heel injury.

From all indications, the Colts are going to be a major problem for all teams from here on down to the wire. As a matter of fact, there are no push overs in the league anymore, not even Del Rio.

Harshaney has turned the Cowboys into a battling outfit that seems bent on escaping the cellar.

NEW PARK ALL BUT ASSURED FOR SAN ANGELO
It is now practically assured that a new park will be built in San Angelo before next season, a park that will put all other stadiums in the shade for class.

The ball orchard will be located much nearer the center of the city than the present one.

AL LEEDY TO FILL BILL FOR SAN ANGELO
The Colts' new flinger, Al Leedy, bids fair to win a lot of ball games in the league. He appeared surprised that his curve ball didn't break as much out here as it would in East Texas (in damper climates a ball naturally bends more) but his poise on the hill was something to see.

Leedy, as has been told before, was a 16-game winner in the Big State league last year but wasn't flinging regularly this season.

Rodriguez May Face Oilers

Three games off the pace but coming like the wind, the Odessa baseball Oilers move into the village tonight to open a crucial three-game set with the Big Spring Broncs at Steer park. Starting time of this evening's imbrogio is 8:15 o'clock.

Pat Stacey, the local straw boss, has his pitching staff in shape for the stand. Odessa's Merio Coleman has been looking forward to this one for a long while.

Fredly (Tromponco) Rodriguez, boasting a 5-1 won lost record, is primed to go to the rubber for Big Spring. Ed Arthur is apt to be Oilers' mound choice. If Arthur doesn't go then Ernie Faccio, who beat the Broncs in a 13-inning test earlier in the campaign, may get the nod.

The Longhorn league lead is at stake Big Spring could lose all three games and still lead by a few percentage points. But they would be in danger of losing ground on an eight-day road trip which follows the end of the home stand.

The contest tonight will mark the first local appearance of big Bob Cowser in an Oiler uniform. Cowser was the league's top slugger while at Sweetwater in 1947 and only last night hit a terrific home run that sparked the Odessans to a victory over Ballinger.

A capacity crowd, one of the largest of the season, is due to look on the proceedings tonight.

McGraw Attains SJ Semi-Finals At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, July 15. (UP)—The State Junior Golf Tournament reached semi-final play today.

L. M. Crannell, Jr., of Dallas, 1943 champion, tangles with Gervy McGraw of Abilene and Gene Towry of Dallas, 1946 titleist, meets Charley Tims of Arlington.

Tomorrow's championship match will be over the same distance as today's semi-final grind—36 holes.

Tims was the only one of the semi-finalists to have trouble winning yesterday. Morris Williams, Jr., Austin, pushed him to a 2 up decision.

McGraw beat Medalist Don Addington 6 and 5, while Crannell defeated Don January 6 and 4, and Towry downed Sammy Reynolds, Wichita Falls, 5 and 4.

In second round matches in the morning, McGraw whipped Bob Seman, Houston, 4 and 3; Crannell topped Richard Patton, Ft. Worth, 5 and 4; Towry bested Joe Conrad, San Antonio, in a re-play of the 1946 title match that went three extra holes before the Dallas 125-pounder dribbled in an 8-foot putt for a birdie 4, and Tims upset Joe Ruby, the 1944 champion from San Antonio, 5 and 3.

Before bowing to McGraw, Addington won in the second round from James A. Smith, Vernon, 5 and 4.

Also in the second round, January beat Sid Frink, Freeport, one up; Williams won from Bill Smith, Hillsboro, 3 and 2, and Reynolds dumped Dilmus James, Abilene, one up in 21 holes.

Felines Blank Sports, 11-0

Fort Worth may not be able to beat the pick of the Texas League, but it certainly can tee off on just one team.

The Cats rebounded from a 4-2 loss to the Texas League All-Stars last night to hand the Shreveport Sports a 11-0 licking behind the eight-hit pitching of Chris Van Cuyk.

The victory stretched the Cats' lead over Tulsa to three and one-half games. The Oilers dropped a 11-1 decision to San Antonio.

In other games, Oklahoma City downed Houston, 6-1 and Beaumont squeezed by Dallas, 3-2.

Dee Fondy and Manager Bobby Bragan paced a 14-hit Fort Worth attack off two Sport pitchers. Fondy hit four for four and Bragan three for three.

Ray Murray hit two home runs and Preacher Dorsett scattered seven Houston hits as Oklahoma City won easily. There were seven double plays in this game, just one shy of the league record.

Clarence Iott, making his first start for Dallas since being purchased from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, cut loose with a wild pitch in the 9th inning and

Good Word Is Said For Pro Baseball Scout

NEW YORK, July 15. (UP)—A great many words have been written about baseball's high school rule, the violations thereof and the efforts to draw up a collegiate counterpart . . . Now comes a guy who speaks up for the poor professional baseball scout who has to compete with the collegiate talent-hunters . . . This guy, and there's no indication that he does any scouting, protests: "A major league scout isn't permitted even to bid the time of day to a high school player . . . His only approach to a potential star is by some remote manner, say taking the parents out to dinner . . . College ivory hunters aren't handicapped by any such barriers. They move right into the lair of a high school athlete . . . Coaches' after dinner speeches provide a wonderful means to attain their objective . . . Eager preppers fight to shake the hand of the coach. Soon they are in a huddle and Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy, announces he is to enroll at Titanic Tech . . . Mind you, the coach not only gets the boys free, but a meal as well."

BRIEF REBUTTAL
Maybe the guy has something, but the college ivory hunter usually gets only one chance . . . Subtle means he can suggest that a kid (if he plays football, baseball doesn't pay) can get free room, board and tuition and maybe a little extra . . . If that fails, the prospect is lost to some other schools . . . The pro baseball scout can start the day after school and keep on trying until he or some other club signs the lad . . . And we still have to hear an after-dinner speech as persuasive as a $50,000 bonus . . . Come to think of it, we saw a lot of scouts at the free dinner during the recent college world series and very few missed an evening in that hotel room where there were sandwiches and something cold on ice in the bathtub.

NOT THE SAME
When the U. S. Olympic team was getting ready to sail yesterday, photographers cornered the University of California crew on the stern deck, where the shell was lashed, and took a lot of pictures . . . Coach Ky Ebright, his knees creaking; finally arose from a cramped position, looked around at his tall boys, mostly former GI's and remarked . . . "Well, boys, it wasn't like this the last time you sailed."

DESPITE ONE-HITTER Monahans Wins From Pipeline

FORSAN, July 15. — Monahans swept a double header from Codden's Pipeliners in a Texas softball league makeup set here Wednesday night, copping the second contest, 2-0, after winning the first, 5-3.

The Pipeliners outthit the visitors in both games but did not use them to the best of advantage. Their own fielding lapses hurt, too.

Jim Arrington hit a home run for the Coddens in the opener. Monahans did not gain an earned run during the evening. L. D. Cunningham twirled four-hit ball for the Pipeliners in the opener while Winnie Cunningham had a one-hitter in the afterpiece.

Levie Huevel collected two blows for the Forsan-Big Spring team in the aftergame while Arrington had one.

The first contest went nine innings before the guests could gain the edge.

First game:
Monahans 200 001 002-5 4
Codden 210 000 000-3 3
Watts and Nelson; L. D. Cunningham and Tidwell.

Second game:
Monahans 001 010 0-2 1
Codden 000 000 0-0 3
Middlebrook and Nelson; W. Cunningham and Jones.

School, McKee's Muny Winners

The Vocational School nine and McKee Construction Co. captured decisions in softball league play Wednesday night on the City park diamond.

The T&P Shop aggregation pushed across two runs in the top of the seventh inning, but the rally fell short. Both teams scored freely in the early innings. Final count was 15-14.

McKee had little trouble with T&P transport. The victors fashioned an early lead and clinched a triumph with an eight-run uprising in the fifth inning, and went on to finish ahead by 18-6.

Another double bill is booked on the City park diamond for Friday night. The Merchants will angle with McKee in the opener, while the Ready Mixers will test T&P Shop force in the second game.

Wednesday line scores:
T&P Shop 081 210 2-14
Voc. School 620 042 x-15
Stewart and Tillett; Bradley and N. Newton.

T&P Transport 120 000 3-6
McKee 141 282 x-18

Lamesa Club Changes Hands

LAMESA, July 15. (UP)—Dale McIlroy is the new president of the Lamesa Lobes, last-place club in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

The Lobes changed hands for the fourth time since league play resumed in 1946 when they were sold yesterday to Dale and his father, Dr. O. L. McIlroy, local chiropractor.

The McIlroys bought the Lobes from Day Y. Davis, previous principal stockholder. Young McIlroy will be president and the elder McIlroy vice president. Purchase price was not disclosed. A business manager is expected to be hired soon.

The franchise, which belongs to the city and cannot be moved to another town, was not included in the transaction.

BRONCS RALLY TO SALVAGE FINAL GAME OF ANGELO SERIES, 5-4
San Angelo's Colts put the wham-loss in the first game, struck out my on the Big Spring Broncs again here Wednesday night, splitting a twin bill with the locals to escape with a one game edge in the three bout series.

The Colts copped the first one, 5-4, and battled all the way down to the wire before losing the second one, 5-4, in an extra inning.

A near riot occurred on the last play of the first game when the arbiters, Jim Taylor and Bill Odum, ruled Bobby Fernandez out for running into Miles Smithhart, trying to field Ace Mendez's hopper, between first and second.

One of the arbiters', Odum, made the mistake of coming to the loud speaker's stand to explain what had happened and several irate fans loosed a pillow barrage in his direction and would not let him talk.

At the time the play occurred, Jake McClain was tracing home from third base. Fernandez represented the tying run.

J. B. Garland, making his third start for Angelo, received credit for his first win of the campaign.

The Colts jumped into a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the second game but could not hold on. Big Spring came right back with three tallies in their part of the frame and then went ahead in the second when Orlando Echeverria scored on a hit by Ray Vasquez.

The Vasquez safety, his second of three, spelled the doom of Bob Fry, starting Angelo hurler. Jimmy Baker came on to finish out the inning and then Al Leedy reported for duty and was eventually saddled with the loss.

The Colts tied the count in the fourth when Leedy tied off with a safety and cruised home on a hit by Red Cowly and a misplay by Echeverria in right, then were prevented with an excellent opportunity to win in the seventh only to queer it.

Bert Baez, on his way to his sixth win, gave up a single to Joe Phillips and a double to Ken Chuley to start that round. Chuck Chapetta was out on a gallant stop by Bosch, then Pep Martin was passed intentionally.

Phillips' mental lapse enabled Tony Traspuesto to catch him off third on the next play. Baez threw a pitch out on what started out as a squeeze play and Phillips found himself in the hot box. He was tagged by the Big Spring catcher.

In the eighth, Ace Mendez led off for Big Spring with a freak double that skimmed by Chapetta at first base. Echeverria was hit by a pitched ball and Baez advanced both runners with a sacrifice. Bosch then tore into one of Leedy's pitches for a single that went through the slot between second and short and Mendez was home.

slaughts from Republican lawmakers the platform a states' rights statement. But the crowning blow was the 65 1/2 to 32 1/2 vote by which the convention decided to write into the platform a flat endorsement of Mr. Truman's civil rights program.

All in all, it was a revolt that failed. There were one or two points in the President's speech that didn't go over so well with some Democrats outside the South.

For instance, Carroll O. Switzer of Des Moines, chairman of the Iowa delegation, said Mr. Truman's reference to farmers "may have been unfortunate." The President and the Democrats had helped the farmers to prosperity and "if they do not do their duty by the Democratic Party they are the most ungrateful people in the world."

The President used about the same language in calling on organized labor members to support his ticket.

By contrast, the 20-minute show Dixieland put on for Russell had a hard time getting started but was more liberally sprinkled with rebel yells.

For six minutes, the Russell supporters struggled to make what noise they could vocally. Then National Chairman J. Howard McGrath told an aide: "Get these boys some music."

The band burst into "Dixie" and the show was on the road. State flags and a color-crayon drawing of the Confederate banner furnished color.

But that was about all the Dixie delegations had to yell about. They put Russell, who has called Mr. Truman's proposals a "civil wrong" program, as their protest candidate after Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas quit the race.

They collected slightly less than one-fifth of the convention's 1,234 votes for their candidates. They took a bad licking, 925 to 309, in an attempt to tack on to

Glen Johnson Is Director Of T&P Chorus

DALLAS, July 15—A choral conductor who has spent all his school and working days in music has been appointed to direct Texas & Pacific Railway's Male Chorus. He is Glen R. Johnson, Baylor '37 graduate, founder of Texas College of Mines music department at El Paso and currently minister of music in Dallas' First Methodist church.

In announcing the appointment effective Sept. 1, Jack C. Vanable, Male Chorus president, said that Johnson was taking over the T&P singers in addition to his church music work.

Upon graduation from Baylor, Johnson founded the Texas Mines music department, and when he left 10 years later it had been developed to the point where majors in the vocal, instrumental and theory fields were offered to degree-seeking students. Johnson has been directing church choirs for 15 years, beginning as an undergraduate at Baylor. He has done graduate work at the University of Southern California.

One of Johnson's announced goals is a representation of the cantata "Big Spring", which the T&P Chorus premiered here in the spring of 1947. The cantata will be reduced to its essentials, making about a 30-minute program out of it which will be particularly suited to recording. On the tentative T&P choral program for next season now under discussion, "Big Spring" would be ready for performance possibly in February, 1949.

CARAVANERS COMING — Here are members of the Presbyterian Youth Caravan who will be here next week to lead in a series of young people's services at the First Presbyterian church.

Presbyterian Youths Here For Meeting

Dedicated to the purpose of helping other young people plan and develop programs, a team of Presbyterian youths will come here this weekend for a series of meetings.

One of the caravan group, John Craig, Dallas, will assist in the morning worship Sunday, and other members of the team, Carolyn Lightfoot, Dallas, Frances Pishny, Fort Worth, Dorothy Sykes, Abilene, and the adult advisor, Lena Clausell, Waco, will assist in young people's and evening worship services.

Monday will begin a series of morning workshop programs for the week, and each evening there will be special emphasis on various subjects at 8 p. m. A daily feature, too, will be the recreation and fellowship hour at 9 p. m. following the evening services.

Members of the team, who were specially trained for their work at the recent Kerville Young People's conference, will conduct the devotional programs over radio station KBST at 4:45 p. m. daily next week.

Monday evening there will be a forum on "Worship and Evangelism;" Tuesday on "Program Planning;" Wednesday on "Organization;" (plus an all-church covered dish dinner); Thursday on "Recreation;" Friday a service of dedication.

The workers will come here from Amarillo where they have conducted similar programs. They were selected for their records of activities in student and religious affairs in their own communities. For this team, and others working form ratified by a majority of the delegates. So from the South, only the name of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia went before the convention—futilely but bitterly in a nominating speech by Delegate Charles J. Bloch of Georgia.

"You shall not crucify the South on a cross of civil rights," Bloch shouted to the delegates. But at his home at Winder, Ga., early today—after he got 263 of the convention's 1,234 votes—Russell said he will have no part in Saturday's Birmingham meeting.

Yesterday's walkout recalled the great party bolt of 1960 when Democrats, in convention at Charleston, S. C., split on the slavery plank in the platform.

Southern Democrats wanted the platform to say that a slave-owner could go into any new territory of the West and be fully protected by the federal government in his constitutional right to own slaves.

The platform committee upheld this view. But a minority report was presented to the convention—just as it was yesterday. It ignored the slavery issue.

After a terrific fight, the minority report was adopted. Eight Southern delegations walked out. The party was so shaken that it adjourned without nominating any candidates.

Later it met again at Baltimore. Three more Southern states bolted. The remaining delegates nominated Stephen A. Douglas for the presidency.

The bolting Southerners held a convention at Richmond and nominated John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky. The Republican Party was solidly united under Abraham Lincoln and was elevated to the White House.

No Democrat got back for 24 years. Returned Home Mrs. S. H. Morrison, injured several weeks ago in a fall, has been returned to her home. She will, however, be confined to her bed for several weeks yet although she is making satisfactory progress.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Brummett Gives His Views On A Price-Fixing Act

(Editor's Note The Herald has been presented with a copy of a letter written by Dudley Brummett, candidate for state senator from the 30th district, to the editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Since The Herald Monday discussed editorially the proposed "Fair Trades Act" and listed Brummett as one of those who had not announced a position on it, his letter is printed as a matter of information to the voters.)

Mr. Chas. A. Guy, Editor, Avalanche Journal, Lubbock, Texas. Dear Mr. Guy:

One June 2, 1948, in your column (The Plainsman), you extended an invitation to all candidates for State Senator from the 30th Senatorial District to state their position regarding the so-called "Fair Trades Act". It is more commonly called "price-fixing by the manufacturers."

In order that the general public may be informed as to the more recent efforts on the part of those who would foist such an evil, monopolistic, price-fixing law upon the people of Texas, I must say this: During the past few days representatives of various groups, whose profits would be increased by passage of the so-called Fair Trades Act, and who are very much in favor of the Fair Trades Act, attempted to buy my vote as State Senator, by pledging their support and influence and in addition by contributing large sums of money to my campaign. I told them frankly that Dudley Brummett would not sell his vote as State Senator. I told them it would mean much to me and my family to be State Senator, yet if I had to sacrifice the principle of being true to the people I was representing, then I had rather not be State Senator. I told them my vote was not for sale for any price, that I would not sell the vote of the people of my district in the State Senate for any price. I felt that the consuming public is entitled to this information.

In order that my position may be clear on the so-called Fair Trades Act, I make the following statement: I am opposed to any kind of legislation that would in any way deprive a private citizen the privilege of buying his or her necessities of life at the lowest possible cost. I am also opposed to any legislation that would attempt to tell the independent merchant what he must sell his merchandise for.

In fact any attempt to eliminate competition and to restrain free trade and to destroy private enterprise is certainly un-democratic and should be beyond the thinking of any person holding public office in this great state of Texas.

I shall, as State Senator, continue to oppose price-fixing or price-raising legislation regardless of whether it is entitled "Fair Trades Act," or any other name or title which may be used in an effort to deceive the people and foist such a law upon the people of Texas.

Thank you again for the availability of your columns to express my views on matter pertaining to the best interest of the people of this Senatorial District. I assure you that I will be ready any time to state my views on any public question that might involve future legislation.

Yours very truly,

For or Against

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (U.P.)—Voters in Glynn County, Ga., apparently have found the way to take personalities out of politics. When the election comes up July 22nd, citizens will get ballots with no names. Rather they will be given two choices: "For the city court judge to stay in office" or "Against the city court judge staying in office."

TEXAS POLL

Jester's Lead Is Still Overwhelming

By JOE BELDEN

AUSTIN, July 15. — Governor Beauford H. Jester continues to have an overwhelming lead over seven opponents in his race for reelection.

The latest statewide survey of the Texas Poll shows:

- Three weeks before the July 24 primary, one out of every four eligible voters had not yet decided for whom to vote for governor.
- Among voters with opinions, Jester was favored by seven out of every ten. Casp March of Waco and Roger Q. Evans of Denison trailed far behind in second and third place, respectively.
- There was no significant change in the results of the last survey from the previous one. Here is how the candidates stood among voters who had made up their minds:	June 12	July 3

Jester	74.8%	72.5%
March	12.8	12.1
Evans	8.5	10.1

Convicted Slayer Given Reprieve

AUSTIN, July 15. (U.P.)—A second 30-day reprieve and stay of execution has been granted Riley B. McCaine, convicted of murder in the slaying of Miss Elnora Collins of Houston in the fall of 1945.

Acting Gov. Allan Shivers signed the proclamation Tuesday moving McCaine's date of execution from July 21 to Aug. 20. Notice of the reprieve had not been made public until today.

The reprieve was granted in order that an insanity hearing might be held for McCaine. The hearing was completed Tuesday when a Jefferson County district court jury found the convicted murderer to be sane at this time.

Defense Attorney Sam Minter of Houston said he planned to appeal. The partly-burned body of Miss Collins was found near Beaumont Oct. 4, 1945, and McCaine was arrested in Seattle, Wash., in April, 1947.

Every two years, the Texas Poll undertakes to test the accuracy of its system by making a forecast in one or more primary election contests. These forecasts are based on surveys conducted immediately preceding the election. In ten such predictions, the Texas Poll has missed the winners on the average by less than 3.5 percentage points. Its misses have ranged from a high of 6.9 points to a low of 0.3.

The Texas Poll will make forecasts this year in two election contests: the race for U. S. Senator and the race for Governor. Its predictions will be published in this newspaper on the day before the election.
