Due To Attract

In view of a general cessation of business here Saturday, many Big Spring business houses were remaining open until a late hour Friday as an aid to shoppers. Virtually all public offices will close for the day, but after planning otherwise, Postmaster Nat Shick received instructions from the postal department Friday to observe regular hours Saturday with the exception of no rural route service. The office will therefore remain open until 1 p. m., city and star route carriers will make their rounds, said the postmaster.

Army To Start Calling 1-B's Next Month

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)-The army announced intention today of starting the induction of regular quotas of men placed in the deferred 1-B selective service class because of minor physical defects. Beginning August 1, men with only one eye or complete deafness in one ear, among others, will be inducted for limit-ed military service, provided they otherwise meet require-

They will be assigned to duty with corps area service commands and the war department overhead organization, and thereby release an almost equal number of fully qualified soldiers for service with task forces. Induction, under the new standards, "will be limited to those with minor physical defects who are able to bring to the army a useful vocation which was followed in civil life," the Department said.

Men found upon re-examination to be qualified for full military will be inducted as 1-A registrants.

Among those now classified as 1-B who would be eligible under the new ruling for limited service status are men: whose weight and chest circumference do not meet 1-S standards but do not fall in Class 4; who have minimum 20-40 sight in one or both eyes if correctible with glasses to 20-40 in either eye; whose hearing in one or both ears is not less than 5-20, with complete deafness in one ear permitted if hearing in the other is 10-20 or better; who have insufficient teeth if the defect is correctible by dentures.

Guide For Deferment Expected By July 15

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) War manpower sources said today that rosters of essential civilian activities and "critical war occupations" would be published about July 15 to establish a definite guide for military deferment. The United States Employment service is preparing the lists in collaboration with the War Production Board, the War, Navy and Agriculture Departments, and with other government agencies, as a part of the general program to keep men with critical skills at their work benches.

By direction of Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt, copies of the lists will be sent to all local draft boards, and "to the extent required for the mainte-nance of essential activities, inals who are engaged in essential occupations in essential activities" will be deferred from

This does not mean, however, that every man of draft age work ing in one of the occupations listed will be automatically deferred, since the selective service act definitely prohibits "group" defer-

Below-Parity Wheat Sales Urged By FD

Assails 'Pressure Tactics' In Move To

WASHINGTON, July 3. CP9 - President Roosevelt stepped into the congressional scrap over the deadlocked agriculture. deadlocked agriculture appropriaations bill today to assail "pressure group tactics" and declare that the real issue involved was whether the government should be free to use its feed resources to produce food for wartime effort."

He strongly supported the administration's demand that congress authorize sale of 125,000,000 bushels of wheat for feeding purposes at prices under parity.

Mr. Roosevelt gave his views in a letter to leaders of seven farm, labor and religious organizations, who had written to him June 20 in behalf of the wheat proposal and in support of larger funds for the farm security administration.

The farm appropriation bill ha een firmly deadlocked because of inability of the senate and house to agree on selling wheat for feeding livestock.

"The authorization to sell some of the government's holdings of grain for feeding purposes at 85 per cent of the parity price for corn," the president wrote, "Is essential if the armed services and the civilian population are to be assured adequate supplies of pork, beef, milk, chicken, and eggs at prices that will neither break through the celling nor re quire excessive subsidies.

"The government will continue to ssure fair prices to farmers for their products.

Invaders Lose In Mass Engagement, Moscow Claims

By HENRY C. CASSIDY MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)-Thousands of people in and around Big Spring will converge at the city park amphitheatre Saturday for the traditional Independence Day celebration starting at 8:30 p. m. and featuring a bond and stamp sale, a patriotic address and lively music.

Burke Summers had called a meeting of his committee to set up the fireworks for 5 p. m. Friday at the chamber of commerce. At 7:30 p. m., J. B. Collins, Howard county bond and stamp chairman, has called a meeting of a committee to help him with war bond and stamp promotional at the program. The greatest tank battle of the current German offensive, with hundreds of machines engaged on both sides, is in progress east of Kursk while 75 and 100 miles to the meeting of a committee to help him with war bond and stamp promotional at the program.

While chamber of commerce officials were mindful that some would suggest funds put into the customary fireworks display would be better spent for stamps or bonds, they pointed out that the display had been contracted months ago and that the president had given approval for them since fireworks already made could be put to no other uss.

Dan Conley, director of the high school band which has a concert part on the program, issued an urgent appeal for all members of the unit to report at the high school gymnasium at 8 p. m. today for an important rehearsal.

Address of the evening will be by Capt. William Nevil, Midland Army Flying School, an ordained minister who has spent years of service in Uncle Sam's army.

Officers issued an appeal for people to drive slowly, sanely and safely to and from the program. They will be on hand to assist in the parking of automobiles.

The battle on the Kursk front began Wednesday morning with an attack by about 200 German tanks, the dispatches said.

These were hurled back, and then the real mass engagement began at noon that day.

The Germans have suffered tremendous losses, and in the thick of battle the red army has managed to increase the fortifications of its already-strong positions, said Red Star, the army newspaper.

Few details were given, but the Russians were said to have recaptured several villages. Kursk, a key front in the present

British, Reinforced, Strike Strongly In Counterattacks

By EDWARD RENNEDY CAIRO, July 3 (AP)—The battle of Egypt was rejoined with unrelenting fury today west of El Alamein in the bottleneck of the coastal approach to the Nile valley, with the resurgent British Eighth Army striving to exploit its first successful counter-stroke since the Axis invasion started.

Following their repulse in the El Alamein area yesterday the axis forces fell back to positions some three or four miles to the west to regroup.

The German and Italian forces under "Rommel the Fox" were forced to retreat last evening after a general assault on El Ajamein, less than 70 miles short of their main goal, Alexandria, was crushed.

The battle seemed to have b constricted to the northern sector, in the immediate vicinity of El clamein, and there were no indications of enemy movements on the edge of the Qattara depression. Qattara, with is supposedly im-passable terrain, lies some 30 miles inland. It and the Mediterranean

A mere three games separate he clubs in the standings and the game tonight and tomorrow's header will give the Red Sox a chance to move into a tie for the American league lead.

Till yesterday · Boston had as least a slender chance of taking exclusive possession of firs place on Independence Day, traditionally the date for tagging pennant winners, but weather kept

It took none of the lustre away from the Red Sox-Yankes series however, and chiefly furnished a lull during which Manager Joe Cronin fined slugger Ted Williams $250 and lectured him in front of the entire club for loafing.

The Sox have won 20 of their 24 games and with Williams pre-sumably chastened and ready to make his bat do his talking, they may add additional bruises to the already battered world champlons, who have lost 11 of 17 since leaving New York array three weeks ago. Boston arready has won five out of eight games from the Yanks this sea-

If New York is able to win the series, though, the champs may be hard to head. On this date a year ago they had precisely the same now hold-three gamesand won in a romp.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers both took advantage of the idleness of New York and Boston vesterday to tighten the boundaries of the first division. The Indians completed a sweep of their four-game series with th Chicago White Sox last night with a 7-5 triumph before 29,000 fans who turned out at Comiskey Park for an Army-Navy relief affair that netted $33,352. This lifted Cleveland within 6 1-2 pleasing the fans is concerned, and in many cases, such as Brooklyn, it is just about as important as having a winning team, And St. Louis is not very far behind. What fan doesn't get a thrill when the home team manager charges out of the dugout with vigorous protests of a close decision by the umpire? But to prove that it is mostly showmanship, and that the players who take part in the bitter arguments and scraps aren't half as mad as they let on, there have been cases here of late where the umpires let players fight it out, A player comes sliding into secon and is spiked by the second base-man. Old Clay Touchstone really made his former Dallas mates look sick by getting credit for a double header over them all by himself. The iron man stunt is seldom allowed by managers now. Touchstone, although he was credited with wins, didn't pitch all of both games. In former years pitchers thought little of working an occasional doubleheader, but since the clubs have developed and officials have so much money tied up in players, they take better care of them. Few managers of today would even hear to putting one of their prize pitchers on the hill twice in one day.

Almost unnoticed as they did it so easily, the San Antonio Missions slipped right up into second place Tuesday, when they whitewashed Shreveport 6 to 0 behind Big John Whitehead's fine pitching. Whitehead is having a very fine season with the Missions, and Manager Winegarner claims that the big righthander has just as much "big league stuff as he ever had.

Race Is Close In Sofeball League

Thursday night's softball games failed to relieve pressure on the leaders in the city league, as today W.O.W. is leading State Hospita by only one game and Radford is closing in just a half game behind the hospital. There is still a chance that the regular play of the league could end in a three-way tie.
Thursday night State Hospita trampled the often beat Scouts 17 to 6, to keep in the running for first place honors. The game ended in the sixth when Triplett smashed a home run which put the Hospital 12 runs shead. The matches are usually called when team gains a lead of 10 runs of

The ABC-Lions made a game of it most of the way before finally bowing to Radford's 18 to 15 in the second game last night. However, a scoreless fifth and a blank sixth, in which Radford's counted seven times, sent them down in defeat. WASHINGTON

Washington Daybook-Extra! Navy Is Saving Salaries In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT of Things to Come:

The Navy has pointed the way and unless every other wartime agency ignores the lesson taught by the Navy experiment, our reaucratic government is in a streamlining of personnel and mination of red tape which will save millions every month of war. In mid-April, the Navy Department had 17,500 civilian employes here and was talking in terms of hiring 1,000 a month "for duration." In the face of this Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox did a dar-ing thing. It went practically unnoticed at the time except am the big war agency employers is to put it mildly. He froze Navy personnel for 45 days. In other words, he said there will be no more hiring until June 1 (he since has extended the freeze 30 days to July 1).

The result is that in two months, Navy civilian personnel has been DECREASED to around 17,000, in spite of the rapidly expanding naval forces at sea. Efficiency in handling office routine and paper work has mounted. Red tape has been cut. Morale among civilian workers is outstripping that of almost any other depart ment. And some other war agency personnel directors are biting their nails and wishing that their bosses had fired that first gun instead of allowing Secretary Knox to point the target with his brace of

This is soft ball I'm talking about. Practically all the big musical comedy hits have teams. ducer George Abbott ("Best Foot Forward") never loses an oppor tunity to talk about his outfit. which has attained a great deal of fame on local soft ball diamonds recently. The team is known as Abbot's Rabbits. They wear pale bluturtle-neck sweaters with a white rabbit on the front, plus the ini-tials "B.F.F.," which stands for "Best Foot Forward."

The lineup of the Rabbits reads like the cast of characters in Best Foot Forward. On the lineup you'll find Kenneth Bower, who plays Hunk, the funny boy with a face like Joe E. Brown. You'll find Gil Stratton, the hero; there's Bobby Harrell, the tumbling acrobate dancer in the checkered racetrack pants. There's Stuart Langley. Richard Dick, and the Barton twins, William and Wilber, who hail from Baltimore and who look so much alike that they draw each other's checks on payday.

Most of these games, that is with local teams, are played on the soft ball diamonds at Central Park. Among their opponents have been the "Sons O' Fun" (Olsen & Johnson), and the "Let's Face It" crowd. . . . The word now is that "By Jupiter," the street's newest hit, is organizing a team

Ultimatum
The hot tub soon absorbed the weariness from Delia's legs, but as she lay there soaking, the sense of bodily contentment was gradually counteracted by a growing It was after six now, and until five thirty she had been tramping the streets in search of that elu sive hat which was to match Joyce's brown suit. In the end they had found one at Lucille's, and Joyce had been dropped at her imagination that bothered her, that Delia would be back at seven for dinner. During that time she had not though much about the murder of Perry Clarke; now those neglected fears again were on the prowl.

She was, she told herself, being silly. Actually it was nothing but herimanigation that bothered and this was not very flattering to Ward. He had gone to see Clarke, to be sure; he had wanted those clippings, had argued about them at Hestor's and had gone there last night to get them. He had been the one who had knock ed at the door. It must have been his voice she heard while she was taking the envelope from the bed-

She sat up, slapping hard at the water in anger and exasperation at herself for thinking about it The splash rained against the wall and spread upon the floor and she stood up and reached for the towel as she stepped to the bath mat.

Why must she torture herseld this way? Why couldn't she trust him when she knew nothing at all except the fact that he had been in Clarke's apartment? She knew, She was afraid. She had the wind up and couldn't do anything about it. Never in all her life could she remember happiness like that of the last six months, and thought of losing it was terrifying. The knocking on the door cut sharply across her thoughts and she realized that, except for the towel in her hand, she was quite naked. She smiled at herself and reached for her robe, a spark of quick excitement touching off her Ward? It must be. No one ever called on her, and although he usually telephoned before he came he probably had just stopped off on his way home. She took off the rubber cap and shook out her hair, stepped her mules and tightened the robe about her. Passing through the bedroom she heard the knocking again, but stopped at the vanity as she scuffed across the living tentative crack and peered out. The man stood very close to that small opening, not Ward, someone she had never seen be-fore: a short, solid looking man, with nondescript clothes and a sweatstained gray hat pushed back "Hello," he said,

"How do you do," Delia said, thinking about the chain-stop Ward Alien had insisted she install and wishing she had fastened "Talk to you a minute?"

"What is it you want?"
"I want to talk to you. About ast night." Something tightened up in Delia and her hand was cold on the doorknob. "Who are you?" she saked. man said, "It's what I've got to say that counts." "But I don't understand. If you could tell me what-" "Not from out here talking through a crack in the door."

"Couldn't you come back other time?"

"But I-I'm not dressed." "I'll wait."

Della hesitated, conscious of a rapidly growing sense of alarm. What could he mean by that reference to "last night"? She could feel his eyes boring into her and small and nondescript. There was something menacing in his very presence and as much as she wanted to shut him out she dared not "Can't you at least tell me what t's about?" she asked hesitantly. "About a guy named Clarke," he said. "Go ahead, get dressed. I'll wait." Delia closed the door, the coldness creeping up her legs and sapping at her strength as she hurried back to the bedroom and began to dress, trying to think and then trying not to when she found the result so frightening.

She did not bother with the details of her appearance, nor stop to primp before the mirror. She donned underwear and slipped a green woolen dress over her head. As soon as she had her stockings and shoes on she went back to the hall door and opened it. "Thanks," the man said, and entered. He took off his hat, stopped in the center of the room.

Delia put on what she thought was a smile and tried to be polite, to keep her voice and manner com"Won't you sit down?"

The man did so and she crossed to the sofa. He sat on the edge of the chair, leaning forward a little, studying her, holding his hat so that it dangled between his knees. His face was round and shiny and unworried; his hair was thin and straight. Only his eyes served to warn her that for all his outward complacency there was something about him that could be hard and shrewd and ruthless. Small, and partly hidden by their fleshy setting, those eyes were steady and fathomiess, revealing nothing.
"Now," Delia said. "What was

"You went to see Clarke last night. You went to his apartment."

Delia drew a breath. "Did I?" "A little before eleven. You weren't the only one, understand, but you were the first."

She waited, trying to keep her smile, fighting hard to meet the announcement calmly, knowing all the time that if this man knew she had been to see Clarke, he must know that Ward had also called "And Clarke had some papers," the man went on "Somebody took them. The police didn't find

"You're from the police?"

"Then I don't understand-" "You will. Clarke had some papers. Somebody lifted them. Either ou or somebody else." Delia had control of herself ow. "But if you're not from the police," she said, "how do you happen to know so much about police," "You were there, weren't you?" Delia surveyed him coldly and said nothing. The man bunched his lips and stood up.

"Okay," he said flatly, "Til put it this way. You've got until tomorrow noon. "I'm afraid I don't follow you." "Until tomorrow noon. I'll tele-phone you here. Either you've got those papers or you know who has. Get them. I'll tell you what to do with them when I call." "I'm not supposing anything. If you don't deliver the police get tipped off. I think they'd like to know where you were at eleven clock last night; I think they'd like to know who else was there."

He put on his hat and went to the door, opening it before Delia could reach him. In the hall he "You've got until noon. Play ball

Stop Inflation, Save 62 Billion. Henderson Says

WASHINGTON, July 3 (A)-Leon Henderson told a senate com-mittee today that if prices could be held at present levels, and a re-petition of the last war's inflation prevented, the nation could save 62,000,000,000 on its war program in the next 20 months.

Emerging from a closed session of a senate appropriations committee considering his request for an increase in price administration funds, Henderson told reporters he had warned that the danger of inflation had been increased greatly by huge recent military appropria-

"The $42,820,000,000 appropria-tion just voted by congress for the army has made the problem of controlling inflation more critical than ever before," Henderson said.
"But if we can hold prices in line, we can save $62,000,000,000 in the cost of the war program in the next 20 months." He explained he had arrived at this figure by computing the average rise in prices during the last war and comparing this with the even keel of prices he hopes to maintain through operation of the

Hit And Run Case Is Investigated

Police were investigating Friday reported hit-and-run case that occurred near the city limits on N. Gregg street Thursday at 10 p. m.

Hospitals said they had no record of treating a young woman whom Mrs. W. C. Newton, enroute to the county warehouse to get her husband after the Texas Defense Guard drill, had picked up from the road. The woman appeared to be suffering intense pain and said she had been hit by a car which failed to stop. None, however, seemed to have her name.

Three Recruited Here In Air Corps

Three enlistments in the U. S. Army Air corps were reported here Friday by Sgt. Edwin R. Turner, in charge of the recruit-ing post in the postoffice basement.

The men were Raymond T. Smith, Randolph A. Myrick, and Joe T. Turner, all in the air corps,

Sgt. Turner said that there was an urgent need of more 18-19 year old men, and that as an inducement, they could name their branch of service. Men from 20-44 now can choose from the infantry, field artillery, coast artillery, corps of engineers, signal corps, armored forces, medical department, quartermasters corps and the air corps, Special appeals are being made for glider pilots, open to men from 18-35, and for the infantry parachute troop unit, age 18 to 31, inclusive, said Sgt. Turner.

Two Sent Off For Navy Enlistment

Navy sub-station here Thursday evening and left to complete their enlistments at Dallas,

They were Richard David Hatch, Jr., Coahoma, who enlisted for fireman 3-C under V-6; and Theo Bradley McQuerry, Coahoma, ap-prentice seaman, USN.

Friday four men had gone from the sub-station for construction corps interviews, said A. H. Walker, recruiter. They were Jimmie Berle Marshall, Monahans, Opie Read Crowell, Odessa, Cecil Irvin Frost, Big Spring, and Onree Rus-sell Banks, Big Spring.

War Factories Will Observe No Holiday

A nation fighting to protect the freedom it won in other wars celebrates tomorrow its first wartime Fourth of July in a quarter-century under conditions that may make it really "safe and sane." Most war factories will hum on, many fireworks have been abandoned and, on the populous east-ern seaboard, gasoline rationing will keep the greatert part of the area's 10,000,000 motorists off the

True, many of the 54,000,000 residents of the 17 gas-starved Atlantic coast states plan to make their usual holiday trips by train or bus, and some municipalities - mostly in the midwest - are to stage huge fireworks displays, but travel generally will be in the form of parades and fireworks in the form of speeches. Army warnings that fireworks displays and large gatherings might present opportunities for token air raids and for saboteurs and actual bans on such celebrations on the east and west coasts as well as the gulf states indicated that those areas would observe the holiday quietly.

In the nation's capital, Washington's annual municipal fireworks display was cancelled and it was announced that work would go on in all government offices conwith the war effort.

Inland, however, in some central and southwestern states, where the danger of possible air raids is less than that on the coasts, many big events were planned to attract great throngs of celebrants, un-hampered by gas rationing.

New Agreement In Conservation Dist.

The Martin-Howard county soil conservation district closed out June with a total of 18 new agreements covering 38,702, records from the Soil Conservation Service of fice showed here Friday.

This boosted the number for the year to 82 agreements on 89,710 acres, and the total since the office opened to 191 agreements for 147,-582 acres. This, Dudley Mann, in charge of the office, said represented roughly about 12 per cent of the 1,232,000 acres in the district up to the end of the month. Since then Midland county has been added,

School Units Are Lauded By State Men

Praise on organizations, exhibits and library of the Big Spring high school are contained in the report of E. H. Boutler, Labbook, deputy state superintendent of district No. 2, to the state department.

Boutler said that "an excellent library is being enjoyed by both the high school and elementary pupils of the Big Spring schools." He added that "this school is well organized and well administered; that the "school exhibits were early accessible for the supervisor to check" and that "excellent exhibits were found."

He also expressed thanks to W.

He also expressed thanks to W C. Biankenship, superintendent, King J. Sides, assistant superin-tendent, and to John Coffey, high school principal, for courtesies ax-tended during his study of the system.

The supervisor made one rec mendation, namely that "a school of this size and organization should benefit from the study and appli-cation of the new evaluative cation of the new evaluative criteria. It is recommended by the supervisor that this study be ap-plied this coming school year." The "svaluative criteria" is an exhaustive study of the entire sys-tem by a board of schoolmen who measure what the school is doing toward accomplishing its own goals and the goals they believe it ought to accomplish.

Remodeling Urged As Best Solution For Local Housing

R. L. Cook, chairman of the housing committee, the remodeling program appears to be the best immediate if not the only hope of solving an increasingly acute housing problem in Big Spring.

Application Form Required For New Security Number

"Some workers are under the mistaken impression that when a social security account number card is lost, a duplicate may be obtained by writing a letter or Security Board field office from which the number was secured," says Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring office of the Social Security Board.

He explained that if a worker wishes a duplicate account num-ber, Form SS-5, which may be secured from a post office or a Social Security Board office, should be completed exactly as the original application with an additional statement that a duplicate num-
