

Composer Vexed At Inspiration In Odd Hours

Firemen, policemen and doctors are notoriously unhappy people because they have to answer the call of duty at any time of the night or day. But their plight is no worse than that of the poor songwriter who is dependent on inspiration for his melodies.

Until someone devises a method of making inspiration run on a timetable, composers will never know when, where or in what predicament their inspirations will catch them.

A typical member of the craft is Ray Henderson, versatile member of the song publishing firm of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, author of many of this country's finest hits and currently engaged in fitting music to words for motion pictures.

Henderson's most recent contribution is the melodic accompaniment to the five songs which highlight Shirley Temple's "Curly Top," the Fox film, now at the Ritz, the city.

The first of Henderson's recent inspirations came while the song-band was here earlier this year and drew good crowds at the Settles and VFW ballrooms and were booked for a one day return concert. In the band are Fortunato Maria, Ray Raymundo, Benny Estanislao, Pete Triangla, John Soriano, Tony Desigano, Al Francisco, La Marr Vella, Jimmy San-cisco and Jo Concepcion.

Labor Day festivities will be lived here by the music of the Manila Serenaders, playing a return engagement at the VFW hall. The writer was playing golf on a popular course in New York. He thought of his first tune idea for "Curly Top," stopped on the eighth green and jotted down the music on his score card.

When he wrote "Animal Crackers in My Soup," the song Shirley sings in this picture, Henderson was having dinner in a well known cafe on Broadway. The surprised waiter saw musical notes between courses. Ray paid for his meal and bought the table cloth too.

"When I Grow Up," another one of Ray's great tunes sung by Shirley, was inspired by the conversation of a couple of children playing in Central park.

"It's All So New To Me," sung by John Boles, the male lead in "Curly Top," and the "The Simple Things in Life" sung by Rochelle Hudson, occurred to Henderson while he was traveling on the first limited from California to the east. Ted Koehler, Edward Heyman and Irving Caesar contributed the lyrics to all five song numbers written by Henderson.

The five songs and Shirley's catchy dance routines all serve as a background to the story of a little orphan whose cheeriness and wit brought happiness to the people about her.

Irving Cummings directed "Curly Top," which features Jane Darwell

Gay Nineties Come To Life In "Diamond Jim" At Ritz

Characters of the Gay Nineties, the most colorful and romantic period in the history of the United States, come to life on the screen of the Ritz theater on Tuesday and Wednesday when Universal's special production, "Diamond Jim," starring Edward Arnold, is presented. This story is based on the life of James Buchanan Brady, the man who made the gay nineties gayest. It is in reality the portrait of an era—a lusty, gaily roaring drama of the muave decade. Across the screen troops the whole glittering, glamorous pageant of that era, blazing with life and gleaming with gems on beautiful women—charm and beauty and romance in a setting of splendor.

"Diamond Jim" is unique among pictures as depicting the amazing and unique career of the flashiest figure, most famous spender and champion good fellow of all time Edward Arnold, in the title role, actually resembles the super salesman who pyramided 90 dollars into 12 millions by sheer force of personality and genius as a showman. He earned several fortunes in commissions on sales of railroad equipment and royalties on steel coaches which he invented. He had a penchant for diamond jewelry, with which he adorned his person, owning two million dollars' worth. He once offered Lillian Russell, the incomparable beauty, a million dollars in cash to marry him. He gave millions to charity and to friends, and steel cars to America.

Born over his father's grog shop in the Bowery, this incredible man who often spent a hundred thousand dollars in champagne parties drank nothing but orange juice. He owned the first automobile in New York, a gold-plated, diamond-studded tandem bicycle on which he and Lillian Russell pedaled in Central Park, and numerous expensive baubles. An enthusiastic first-nighter, he had his own oversized chair in every theater on Broadway. He proved the safety of the all-steel coach he invented by riding in one in a pre-arranged collision between two trains.

Universal spent months in making a lavish production of the life of this fabulous individual. Eustachy's, Recker's, Delmonico's and other famous restaurants he frequented were reproduced, as well as the interior of the theater in which Lillian Russell made her debut as "La Cigale."

Supporting Arnold are Binnie Barnes as Lillian Russell, Jean Arthur, Cesar Romero, Eric Blore, Hugh O'Connell, George Sidney, Robert McWade and numerous others including a bevy of chorus girls with hour glass figures a la Mae West.

Walt Disney's newest and most highly acclaimed trichrome technicolor Silly Symphony, "Who Killed Cock Robin," is one of the units of the program; and Granddad Rice's "Making Man-Handlers," depicting athletics at Uncle Sam's service schools at West Point and Annapolis, another. News completes the bill which is presented as an R & R Super Roadshow program.

Civic Light Opera Company To Tour The United States

Following the run of the Civic Light Opera Company in its repertoire of Gilbert and Sullivan operas at the Adelphi theater in New York City, Lodewick Vroom will send this splendid organization on a 30 weeks tour of the United States. The company will play one, two and three night engagements in the smaller cities and from one to three weeks in the larger metropolitan centers. The same pretentious cast, chorus and production used in New York will be sent intact on the road, and popular prices will prevail. Only those cities whose civic, musical and other bodies, display sufficient interest to reasonably assure the success of a visit to them will be considered by Mr. Vroom. Already Mr. William G. Tisdale, general manager of the tour, has contacted a large number of Chambers of Commerce to this end. Sixty people, two carloads of scenery and a special orchestra will be carried on the tour, which will include the south, west and middle west and possibly New England. The tour will start immediately after the New York engagement.

Mrs. W. W. Inkman Is Informal Hostess

Dean Of Local Ministers Closes Work Here After Building Lutheran Church

In 1929 when the district officials of the local Lutheran church were discussing the prospects of the Lutherans in Big Spring, one of them said: "Big Spring will never get any farther than it is now." They had suggested to the Lutheran pastor, the Rev. W. G. Buchschacher, that they settle the Loraine and serve the Big Spring flock from there. He had therefore moved to Loraine, August 28, 1929. Not long after the prophecy, Mr. Buchschacher himself sized up the Big Spring situation. The town was centrally located and he saw a future that the official did not see, in spite of the fact that a depression was on. It was true that in the 45 years of the church's history there had been only one resident pastor up to that time and it was also true that the members attended services in their parlors with ministers from either Loraine or Abilene speaking in the German language only, and coming over only twice a month. In spite of this background Mr. Buchschacher was hopeful. In November 1929 he moved to Big Spring. Before that time he had started working for a church building and dedicated it in September before he moved from Loraine. When he settled here, he introduced sermons in English and started building up membership and church attendance. Today Mr. Buchschacher preaches his last sermon on the topic "Our Parting Prayer." He has served his flock seven years, six of them as resident—the longest period of time that any one minister has served the local church. It is a long period of time for any minister of any denomination to stay in Big Spring. After Mr. Martin of St. Mary's Episcopal church left, Mr. Buchschacher was dean of ministers, by virtue of having held the longest tenure of office of any resident minister. Next Sunday Mr. Buchschacher will be in Temple. He will be installed as pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran church and will preach his first sermon on the following Sunday. He will also act as pastor of the Cameron Lutheran church, 35 miles from Temple, preaching there twice a month.

Revival To Start At 1st Baptist Church Sunday Morning With San Antonio Minister Speaker

Beginning today and continuing throughout the next two weeks the First Baptist church will conduct a revival with Dr. C. Roy Angell, pastor of the First Baptist church, San Antonio, Texas, doing the preaching. Pastor Day and his congregation are indeed fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Angell for this campaign, inasmuch as he is one of the most popular among Texas Baptist ministers. He ranks with Drs. W. R. White, G. L. Yates and George W. Truett who have led the church in previous revivals. His wide experience, pleasing platform performance and earnest messages are contributing factors in his increasing popularity. He will arrive Monday afternoon in time for the evening services, and will speak twice daily during the series of meetings. The music will be under the direction of Ira M. Powell, with Mrs. Bruce Frazier and Mrs. Ira M. Powell, all of the local church, as pianists. Services will be held daily at 10:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

In the Pictures

Miss Audrey Philips will resume her teaching in East Ward after spending the summer in Fort Worth. Mrs. Pete Sellers is secretary to the superintendent, W. C. Blankenship. Most of the summer she spent in her office here, taking a late vacation to points in South and Central Texas with Mr. Sellers. Miss Fowler, teacher of primary grades in West Ward, has been vacationing in her home at Huntsville.

Mrs. Angeline Sikes Is Married To Roland P. Teague Of Abilene

The wedding of Mrs. Angeline Sikes and of Ronald P. Teague was solemnized Saturday evening with a simple ring ceremony at the home of the Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church. The couple were accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Katy Caloway and J. S. Lamar. Immediately after the ceremony, they left for a short honeymoon trip in the east. Upon their return they will reside at the Wooten hotel in Abilene. The bride was becomingly attired in three-piece suit of sandweed crepe with brown accessories and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Calloway, who now live in Ardmore, Okla. They made Big Spring their home in 1930 and '31, at which time Mrs. Sikes also resided here. She moved to Canyon from here but returned in 1934. She attended W. T. S. T. C. at Canyon for two years. While living in Big Spring she has been employed by the Albert M. Fisher Co. Mr. Teague is supervisor of the sales department of the Gulf Refining Co. with whom he has been connected for 11 years. Beaumont was his home until he came to West Texas five years ago. He was located in Big Spring until last fall, when he was transferred to Abilene. Every member of St. Paul's Lutheran church except Mr. and Mrs. Gus Oppgaard who are out of town, went to the City park Friday evening to a farewell picnic.

Miss Marie Faubion Surprised By Farewell Shower Given By Friends

Miss Edith Gay Honoree For Lovely Evening Party Complimenting Friend Who Is Moving To Midland.

Miss Edith Gay was hostess Friday evening for a farewell miscellaneous shower honoring her friend, Miss Marie Faubion, who left Saturday to take her new job in Midland. Miss Faubion has been employed by the First National Bank here for several years.

Miss Gay entertained in the attractive C. H. McDaniel home which was beautifully decorated with dahlias and other flowers from the McDaniel garden. Music was rendered during the evening by Miss Evelyn Jackson who played the violin, with Miss Edith Gay as her accompanist and by John Vastine and George Favin who sang several duets. A most delicious salad course was served by the hostess at the close of the evening.

This chart shows the agricultural production, prices received by farmers and income for the years 1919 to 1934 inclusive. It will be noted that since the low point for the price and income indexes of 1932, the improvement has been steady with agricultural production gradually declining. Increasing benefit payments in the last two years have added to the income. The payments shown are for adjustment contracts during the calendar year.

The Big Spring Week

New Service, Yarns, Wise Program, Well Spent

One of the things which may easily be considered important to Big Spring was the inauguration of a new air service Saturday. When the Mid-Continent Airlines set its first plane down with its president, E. H. Clement, aboard it may have marked the beginning of a West Texas transport service.

While a large group of Big Spring business men were standing around awaiting arrival of the first plane, they spun some yarns of early aviation, too precious to pass on to you. Although they are not editorially significant, we pass them to you.

Emil Fabrenkamp remembers the first airplane which came to Big Spring. A pilot by the name of Fowler was at the controls and he brought down a rickety crate with great grace. It was the biggest thing in the life of Big Spring.

Tom Ashley, who for a number of years furnished gasoline for the planes stopping here, tells one of the best. "I remember one day an old Jenny hove into sight, a rearing and a bucking. The pilot made a couple of breath taking dives at an open pasture used for a field. Pretty soon he zoomed down and let her go. That crate hit like a ton of lead, bounced 20 feet into the air and hit again, then coasted to a stop. Out climbed an old cowboy chugging the ground, and a Bull Durham tag fluttering from his pocket. He said he learned flying in no time at all. It wasn't any trick for him. He smoked a couple of cigarettes and started the motor again. He took off with the motor sputtering and popping and went out of sight wobbling and bucking."

Reester Short had no trouble in recollecting his first airplane ride. He paid a barnstormer an exorbitant price for a few minutes ride. Once in the air, Lester recalls, "I looked out at the wings. Boy there was 200 pounds of balling wire holding those flapping things together. I looked at the pilot. He didn't seem the least bit concerned. So I figured everything was all right, if he wasn't worried, I wouldn't fret."

In their reminiscences they brought up the formal opening of the Big Spring airport. It was a gala occasion and attracted thousands and thousands of people here for two days.

In order to keep that spirit from dying, the Chamber of Commerce intends to foster a celebration in October commemorating the inauguration of air mail service five years ago. Big Spring people ought to accept this affair seriously and participate wholeheartedly.

A mode of transportation used by everyone is the automobile. To make this type feasible and profitable, good roads are necessary. Howard county is planning a program for later roads which will mean much to improving our rural transportation set up. The court has in mind approximately 60 miles of surfaced lateral roads, either joining important highways or which could be used later for intercity roads. One of the court said he believed it would require all the money in the road and bridge

McCumber Enters Plea Of Not Guilty

W. H. "Bill" McCumber, charged with working radio operator, Saturday pleaded not guilty to a charge of robbery with firearms at Barstow and had bond set at $10,000 in connection with the mid-day hold up of the Citizens State bank at Barstow.

McCumber, Midland, was arrested by Sheriff A. C. Francis of that county, after Harry, 5 year old son of Sergeant Tony Bauer, had found a stack of bills under the seat of McCumber's black coupe at the Midland airport.

"what God says. If we should worship upon the basis of what man likes, we would have banquets, picture shows, dancing and many other things in the worship, because many people 'like' them. Many think them a help or aid in life. But it is not what man likes, but what God commands and authorizes, that may be used in worship unto him."

Position Of Church Of Christ On Instrumental Music Is Discussed

Position of the Church of Christ in regards to use of instrumental music in the church worship was discussed Friday evening by Forrest R. Waldrop, minister, now conducting a revival meeting.

"Men have defended it on the basis of the Law of Moses, but the law is not binding on us today; and as Jesus said that the Holy Spirit shall guide you into all truth, it remains that we must find our authority in the words of the Holy Spirit after Christ's death, and not from the Law of Moses. There is no mention either by command of example, in the New Testament of the use of a mechanical instrument in the worship. Therefore, it is true either (1) the Holy Spirit forgot to instruct the apostles to use it, or (2) He did not intend for them to use it. Where is the man who will say that the Holy Spirit forgot to tell them to use the instrument? None will say that the Spirit made a mistake in this particular, and therefore, it must be concluded that it was not intended to be given."

"No authority is found in the New Testament for its use, and early historians all tell us that the instrument was not used in the early church, but that the song worship was purely vocal. The Church of Christ, therefore, does not use the instrument, because the New Testament church did not use it in the early day, and man cannot add unto the teachings of Christ without violating the commands of Christ."

"It is not what man likes that constitutes acceptable worship, but

MUDDLED

Relations between United States and Russia seem to have become thoroughly muddled. Nor can any simple formula be applied which would solve all the intricate angles involved.

To better understand the matter, it is necessary to go back a little. It is generally conceded that there were two chief reasons why the present recognition sanctioned recognition of Russia. The first was because of potential trade gains. The second was because it was felt the move would have a cooling effect on Japan's imperialistic movements in the Far East. Too, there was a feeling that if diplomatic relations existed between the two nations, the United States would be in a better position to exercise a measure of control over red propaganda and activities.

In this last surmise, it appears the United States was sadly mistaken. For months there has been concrete evidence submitted that the Communists have received aid and encouragement in fomenting strikes in certain areas. The army and navy have complained that red agitators have been found in increasing numbers. To all of this the United States registered repeated unofficial protests. In the face of these objections, the practices seem only to have increased.

A straw which broke the camel's back occurred recently in the international meeting of the Communist party in Moscow. One of the high party officials even went so far as to suggest the Communist party support Roosevelt, lest he were beaten and recognition withdrawn. Naturally this aroused the righteous indignation of Mr. Roosevelt and immediately brought matters to a head. It is significant that shortly afterwards United States Ambassador Bullitt lodged an official protest with the Soviet.

Grounds for this apparently was the agreement struck by Mr. Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff, Russian diplomat extraordinary, prior to recognition. This agreement was to the effect that Russia was in no way to meddle in United States domestic affairs, or as it was put, attempt to change the political status of any foreign nation.

There are those who believe that Mr. Roosevelt would withdraw recognition quickly, since Russia flatly rejected the protest, were it not for two things. (1) It would cause serious complications in the East, and (2) it would be the admission of a blunder in having recognized Russia.

The potential influx of international trade between Russia and the United States did not materialize on the scale hoped. If this were all that were keeping back a break in relations, it would happen soon. Just what Mr. Roosevelt will say in reply to Russia's curt rejection of his protest is a matter for conjecture. He is reported to have reached some decision. It will be highly interesting to see what the next few weeks hold in store for this nation and its relations with Russia.

One thing is certain. The United States is getting its fill of USSR meddling with internal affairs. If relations are maintained on present basis, the near future may find Russia protesting against handling of her party members in America and the United States dealing out the rejections. Then we may find just how well the goose can endure the gander's sauce.

Talks By Snell, President Seen As Opening Guns

BY BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Although election day still is some 14 months away, the disposition of political leaders now is to speak of the 1936 campaign in the present, rather than the future, tense.

Various unusually early party activities have contributed to this, but the culminating event—widely regarded as a sort of curtain raiser—was the exchange of speeches between President Roosevelt and Republican House leader Snell.

Mr. Roosevelt disclaimed political intent, but he spoke over the air to a democratic party gathering, and he dealt almost exclusively with topics which are surrounded by the most active political dispute. Mr. Snell hardly alluded at all to political affiliations, but his address to the nation was delivered under the auspices of the republican national committee, and his appeal for votes against the New Deal was frank and open.

Motives, whether partisan or not, usually weigh far less than results where politics is involved. What the politicians think of is the political effect, and most of them are thinking that these two speeches really opened a political campaign.

President Spoke To Youth This being true, it is well worth while to examine the speeches and the surrounding circumstances in some detail. The following facts are set down for whatever they may be worth as indicating what is to come hereafter:

From among many invitations, the president chose to deliver his message to a gathering of young people, among whom the bent toward liberalism is commonly supposed to be far stronger than it is among their elders.

From among many available orators, a speaker commonly regarded as a staunch conservative was selected to make the republican reply. Both addresses were couched largely in general terms, with little specific mention of concrete governmental problems or individual legislative proposals.

The one specific measure to which Mr. Snell devoted considerable space was the bill increasing the tax on wealth, which he condemned as designed to "confiscate property."

The special points advanced by Mr. Roosevelt were in relation to regulation of banking and industry, which he spoke of as necessary to save the economic structure.

Background Shadows Easily discernible in the background of the discussion lay the shadow of the constitutional issue; but its outlines remained almost as nebulous afterward as they were before the two speeches were delivered.

Mr. Roosevelt talked of challenging "the methods of the old order," but he did not say what, if any, constitutional amendment he favored.

Mr. Snell rejoined by protesting against any new order which would require "that our federal constitution must be wholly rewritten."

The disparity in terms between these two utterances is obvious. Whether Mr. Roosevelt's mind and Mr. Snell's mind met in a clear-cut constitutional issue remains a mystery; certainly their words did not.

Nor is there any real assurance that this issue will be more clearly defined before election day—that is, that the democrats will say directly that they favor any constitutional change, or that the republicans will say directly that they oppose all constitutional change.

Such issues have a way of getting tangled up in inconclusive language when the platform committees of political parties come into possession of them. That easily might happen to this issue next year.

HONORING LABOR. It is fitting that once a year the nation pause to remember and honor Labor, the spirit and power back of all industry. Legal tender is the medium of exchange of labor for the necessities and pleasures of life. Paper money, which is printed by the Government in the building above, is the most convenient form of exchange and the only base on which the banks of America have erected their marvelous credit structure, which makes business possible on the immense scale we know today. The State National Bank provides both business firms and individuals with the ultimate in financial service. The State National Bank

EDDIE MORGAN MEDALIST IN COUNTRY CLUB MEET Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare Wins Nat'l Women's Golf Championship

1st ROUND FOR TODAY

Eddie To Clash With Grady Newman, Colorado, In Initial Match

Eddie Morgan, young lanky Big Spring golfer, set a burning pace for eighty-five shot-makers from the far corners of West Texas who qualified here Saturday for the fifth annual invitation golf tournament of the Big Spring Country Club.

The young Morgan boy, who has been an unsuccessful bidder for West Texas golf titles for several years, went three under par to win the medalist award. Eddie had six pars and three birdies on the first nine holes and tacked up five pars and two birdies on the West stretch...

Morgan should cop his first match today handily. He plays Grady Newman of Colorado who qualified with a 75. First round matches in all flights are scheduled to be played off this morning.

SENATORS WIN FROM RED SOX

Two Runs In Sixth And Another In Seventh Spell Defeat For Hub Town Lads

YANKEES TRIM DETROIT LEAD

Cut Half Game From Detroit Lead By Copping Both Ends

PHILADELPHIA (Sp) - Behind the brilliant pitching of Vernon "Lefty" Gomez and Walter Brown, the New York Yankees cut a half game from the lead of the Detroit Tigers by taking the Philadelphia Athletics into camp Saturday in both ends of a doubleheader, winning the first, 6-2, and the nightcap, 7-3.

Gomez limited the A's to five hits and pitched shutout ball until the seventh frame when the Elephants got to him for both their runs.

The New Yorkers made their seven hits count, jumping into a first inning one run lead, tallied again in the fourth and tallied a quartet of runs in the eighth after the Phillies had tied the count an inning earlier.

Although outthit by the margin of 7-6 in the second game, the lads of Gotham broke loose for another marker in the sixth and sewed up the game with a run in the eighth.

Pinky Higgins tallied the A's lone run with a boundary belt in the fourth. Doyle and Marcum did twirling duties for the losers.

First game: New York 100 100-04-6 7 0 Philadelphia 100 009-200-2 3 3 Batteries-Gomez and Dickey; Blacholder and Berry.

He was replaced by Tom Baker.

Herald Wins Loop Title

By HANK HART

Roland Swatzy delivered in the pinches in Friday evening's final softball game to give his team a 4-3 victory over the Cosden Oilers and the cup emblematic of the Muni championship.

The Herald flinger, after holding the Cosdenites to eight scattered blows, sent a slow roller to Martin, on the left side of the infield, scoring Savage from third base for the winning run in the seventh inning.

Freddy Simmons, on the hill for the Henninger forces, held the dangerous Type Lice on even terms, going up on seven licks throughout the game, but he weakened in the seventh and the Newbies put the winning run across before he could retire a man.

The Oilers jumped into a second inning one run lead when the whole Herald infield blew up. After Savage had snagged Smith's pop fly, Harris erred on Greer's hopper down the first base line, Morgan made a miscue of Martin's roller, and Baker came through with an outfield lick, scoring Greer. Ward also kicked in with an error.

His boobie coming on Simmons' ground ball, but another pop fly by young and Moxley's ground ball, to Morgan, who this time succeeded in picking it up, ended further threats to count.

The Newbies fought right back to take the lead by chasing two runs across in the fourth stanza. Gant initiated the attack by singling, Harris sent him all the way home with a terrific line drive that got by Edwards at short and bounced sharply into the outergarden, and Edwards put them both across by crossing up the Herald defense and singling briskly over Savage's head.

Simmons weakened as the Oilers returned to field, however, and the Newbies promptly tied it up. Driver walked, went to second when Moxley failed to snag Martin's throw at second after the latter had accepted Swatzy's ground ball, and to third when Payne singled, and scored when Tody Williamson popped out to West in right field.

Swatzy gave up a pair of hits and a free pass during the sixth, but both pitchers escaped trouble during that frame. The Herald pitcher was stronger, however, as the game went into the final inning and after putting the Oilers away during the first half, came to bat to win his own game.

Williamson and Savage took two hits for the Herald with two licks each, while Smith, West and Ollers collected more than half the Herald's licks with a pair each. Box score - AB R H PO A E.

COSDEN - AB R H PO A E Swatzy 4 2 1 0 1 0 Moxley 3 1 0 1 1 0 West 3 1 0 1 1 0

MOTOR TEAM WINS LEAGUE

Score Thirty - Nine Points In Number - Three Loop

Scoring a total of thirty-nine points in ten matches, the West Texas Motor golf team clinched the championship of Muni league No. 3.

Only one time did the motorists come in on the short end of the score. They lost their fourth match to the Big Spring Laundry, 4-2.

Roy Hancock, Horace Garrett, Carter and Roy Ivey played with the West Texas team.

The Cosden Refiners held second place in the No. 3 loop with 29 points, and the Big Spring Laundry team has slipped into third position with 26 points. Neither team has finished last round matches.

LaMode Wins Bowling Tilt

COPS FROM PATTY BERG

Seventeen-Year-Old, Freckle-faced Girl Is Downed By Count, 3 And 2

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare won the National Women's Golf championship Saturday for the sixth time in fourteen years by beating sensational Minneapolis freckle-faced, seventeen-year-old Patty Berg, 3 and 2, before a gallery of six thousand.

Determined to prove to golf that a champion could marry, raise two children and still come back to climb the loftiest heights, Glenna climaxed a drive that twice left her beaten in the finals of the 1931 and 1932 meets to sweep through a great field that lacked only the defending title-holder, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, to score a victory that probably was the sweetest of them all.

Her triumph, gained against the sorrel top youngster who fought with sub-par golf in a last desperate rally over the closing holes, added to one of the most amazing records in the game.

Chapter 47 ACCIDENT

Rex Moore came into the little salon. In his eyes was a glint of satisfaction. He ordered food, and a bottle of champagne. With the quick response of the French to all culinary emergencies, it was soon brought. Hot soup and cold chicken. Gladys took some soup and a glass of wine, and almost immediately afterwards fell asleep on the couch.

Rex Moore and Laurie said very little. "I gave that young cur a sound thrashing," he said. "I don't think he'll forget it." "How did you come to meet Gladys?" she asked. "I followed you, Laurie. As soon as the car turned the corner, I got out. I couldn't let you go off like that, alone. I saw you go into this hotel. They told me at the office that you had called on Mr. Dallas. I—well, I guessed something was up. So I walked up and down outside, and then came across this poor child."

"Thank God, you were there!" she said aloud. "And then, in an immense revulsion of feeling, she spoke soundlessly to her inmost heart."

"I love him! I love him! He is the finest man in the world—the only man in the world. How can I go on living? How can I?" Laurie and Gladys came back to London by train and boat.

Rex Moore flew back alone. A shock awaited him when he reached the Chelsea flat. He found a message to say that Mrs. Steele had been in a motor accident and was seriously injured. They had rung up from a nursing home to say that Mrs. Steele was asking for him. She wanted to see him very urgently.

He drove immediately to the address, and saw from the face of the woman who received him that Wanda must be very ill indeed. "There is no hope," the matron said. "She is barely conscious. A spinal injury. If she lived, she would be a cripple."

In silence he stole into the room, and looked down with sad, self-reproachful eyes at the grey face on the pillows.

He thought she was unconscious, and did not speak. "She is slipping away," the matron whispered. "Say something to her. She wanted so much to see you."

"Wanda!" he said gently. "Wanda dear, I am here!" It took a perceptible time, but his voice reached her and brought her back literally for a few seconds from the other side.

His voice changed to passionate exultation. He took her in his arms. She was caught in the merciless spokes of the wheel of life. She was helpless. She could only submit. Next week she would be Mark Albery's wife. And life would be over for her.

Wanda Steele was buried in England, according to her wishes, and the eabled confirmation of her nearest relative, a brother in New York.

After the funeral, Rex Moore learned the meaning of those laud words that she had breathed.

A member of a firm of solicitors that had been acting for her, who, besides himself, her maid, and her chauffeur, were the only mourners, drove him back from the little country churchyard of the village that her family had originally come from, and asked him to come into his office.

Here he revealed the fact that Mrs. Steele had made a fresh will the very day before her accident, in which she had left him nearly the whole of her property in California, and securities that would bring him in a very comfortable income.

Rex was overwhelmed. His first thought was that he would be independent of Mark Albery. He felt an inexpressible gratitude to the dead woman who had demonstrated her love for him beyond the grave.

Everything was in perfect order, the lawyer assured him. He had exchanged cables with Mrs. Steele's men of business in California and with her brother. There could be no question about the validity of the will.

Rex Moore went out, dazed, into the hot July afternoon. He felt humble; so unworthy of the dead woman's great love.

He walked swiftly through the streets; not only a free, but a rich man.

The next day an even greater blessing was bestowed on Rex Moore. On paying a visit to the famous eye specialist, he was told by the great man:

"I can find no more trace of the trouble, Mr. Moore. I am happy to pronounce you completely cured." (Copyright, 1935, Coralie Stanton)

"BACK! BACK! ON YOUR LIFE STAND BACK!"

"ADELE, I LOVE YOU." "AND YOU WOULD PROVE YOUR LOVE BY ACTS OF VIOLENCE?" "YOU ARE WRONG, I WOULD ONLY PERSUADE YOU TO BE MY WIFE."

"HEAR ME, LYMAN TREADWELL, I AM BUT A POOR SHOP GIRL; MY PRESENT LIFE IS A STRUGGLE FOR A SCANTY EXISTENCE; MY FUTURE A LIFE OF TOIL; BUT OVER MY PRESENT LIFE OF SUFFERING THERE EXTENDS A RAINBOW OF HOPE --- LIFE IS SHORT, ETERNITY ENDLESS --- THE GRAVE IS BUT THE ENTRANCE TO ETERNITY, AND YOU, VILLAIN, ASK ME TO CHANGE MY PRESENT PEACE FOR A LIFE OF HORROR WITH YOU, NO, MONSTER, RATHER MAY I DIE AT ONCE!"

Rodeo

Deputy Sheriff Andrew Merick corralled the yelling cow-hand as he weaved down West Third Street past the courthouse. Well soaked on bay rum, he was whooping it up for the rodeo and had a small crowd following him.

Preceding the grand opening 2 p. m. Monday, a parade will start from the courthouse at 1 p. m. and will cover most of the downtown portion. In addition, to all rodeo performers being in the parade, many merchants have entered cars.

Leading amateur ropers and riders of West Texas and New Mexico were beginning to arrive here late Saturday, lured by the prospect of participating in the fat $1,800 total cash prize award posted by the management.

In addition to the cash awards, there will be special saddle, spur and hat wards presented to ropers.

Other regular attractions are giving away the first three days of the week in favor of the rodeo. Management of the Big Spring Athletic club (wrestling arena) not only cancelled the weekly card but donated chairs for the rodeo box seats.

With best three day average in calf roping and belling and wild cow milking. Attractions for the performances include calf roping, wild cow milking, calf belling, steer riding, and bronc busting. Bulldogging exhibitions will be given daily in addition to educated horse stunts. A cutting horse contest is to be a last day feature.

John Lindsey and his stonemule, "Hoover," were due in during the week end. Lindsey, Byers, was official clown last year. Bud Spillbury and his educated horse, "Nuisance," are already here. The new plant erected at a cost of approximately $10,000 includes grandstand and bleachers with seating capacity for 4,500, new pens, judges stands, large arena, and flood lights. It is said to be the best equipped rodeo plant in West Texas.

School will be dismissed in all schools Tuesday and Wednesday not later than 2 p. m. to permit attendance of the Cowboy Reunion. George Gentry, junior and senior high school principal, announced the following schedule for students in the two schools: High 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th grade students in the high school auditorium at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday. This includes all former students who have had credits evaluated.

All 5th, 6th and 7th grade students at 9:45 a. m. in the auditorium. All low 8th students in the auditorium at 10:45 a. m. Gentry said "it will be impossible to interview students who have not had their credits evaluated" before 3 p. m. Tuesday." He urged that they contact him at his office at that time.

During the year schools will begin at 8:30 a. m. and will dismiss at 3:15 p. m. Persons who have employment to offer to rural school high school students who are trying to earn their board and room during school months are urged to contact school officials.

High school teachers and officials for the year follow: George Gentry, principal, Miss Freddie Adkins, Miss Nancy Enid Alviret, George Brown, Mrs. George Brown, Nell Brown, Paschal Buchner, Mrs. Mary Bumpass, Miss Pearl Butler, J. A. Coffey, D. W. Conley, Miss Agnes Currie, C. E. Gardner, Ralph Houston, Miss Marie Johnson, Miss Dorothy Jordan, Miss Loraine Lamar, Mrs. W. O. Lowe, Wayne E. Matthews, J. M. Moffett, Seth H. Parsons, Miss Clara B. Pool, Miss Marie Ramsey, Miss Edna Shick, Miss Margarette Wood, Miss Catherine Young.

Junior high school teachers and officials are: Anderson B. Alexander, Miss Margarette Collins, Miss Zella Counts, Miss Reta Debenport, Miss Ailsiey Ferrester, Mrs. Waldo Green, Miss Eloise Halley, Miss Maymie Ruth Harris, Mrs. Ralph Houston, Miss Lorena Huggins, Miss Lottie Mae Liggett, Miss Ione Moxley, Chick Gezer, Jack Smith, and Pepper Martin; pitchers, Grovella Malone, Horace Wallin, Fred S. Simmons, and Roland Schwarzenbach; and catchers, Mikeaway Baker and Pop Payne.

A monkey with a bun on might be an amusing thing to see. But a monkey with a hangover—ah witness this tragic scene! One of the fugitive simians from Frank Buck's zoo at Massapequa, N.Y., is shown above. Whisky was used for bait with the idea the monkeys would drink, pass out, and be easy to capture. They did and they were, but one died. (Associated Press Photo)

Deputies Break Up Wedding Nite Bliss Before It is Begun

Shame on the sheriff. His alert deputies broke up wedding night bliss before it got started.

Friday morning Don Bobo secured a license and wedded Miss Pearl Elmo Horton of Quanah. That evening at 8 o'clock Deputy Mr. McDaniel dates his first call from the sheriff at Quanah that Bobo had an alias of D. C. Freeman and was wanted for burglary.

In fifteen minutes they had Bobo in jail and away from his bride. Saturday Hardeman county Sheriff M. S. Wilson and a deputy came here and gained custody of Bobo.

Frost Dates

The first killing frost of the season will arrive November 29, or thereabouts, said C. H. McDaniel, local frost forecaster. Mr. McDaniel dates his first 90 days from the first August norther, and there is always an August norther, no matter how long the hot spells in that month. The first one occurred this summer on Thursday night. Mr. McDaniel has been forecasting for his friends for about 35 years and for the Herald for about 5, and so far no one has ever found him mistaken. The frosts have hit Howard county three days within his stated date every time.

Right After LABOR DAY

... WE SHALL look at our houses, to see if they had better be repainted or reroofed before the rigors of winter set in. ... We shall figure the needs of the coal bin (or perhaps decide to install that oil burner we've long wanted) ... We shall take stock of the living-room, bedrooms, bathroom, kitchen and clothes closets, to find out what replacements are needed.

And if we are as foresighted as we ought to be, we will buy now for future as well as immediate needs. For September is the month of advantageous buying; of inviting close-outs and attractive pre-season sales. Knowing where to find exactly what we want is certainly knowing how to save money. Look on the pages of this newspaper — in the advertisements. There is no better or easier way.

Remember: Money saved through judicious buying is money earned — and as real as that gained from any wage increase. Read the advertisements.

Whirligig

"chiselling" hasn't led democratic members of congress to throw their hats in the air for the new legislation demanded by the president. The leaders promised to give him what he wants at the next session, but that's a long way off and many things may happen.

Although the fact-finding experts reported more than 10,000 examples of wage, hour and price reductions the figure did not impress legislators who examined them closely. They noted that most of the violations took place in trades and industries where compliance with NRA regulations was only nominal even in Blue Eagle days.

How the major industries behave will determine what congress will do. The July report listed about 1,000 instances of "chiselling" in this field. They had better watch their step, for the checkers will scrutinize their pay and time sheets more vigilantly as and if business improves.

Liberal

Another warning that the president means business in demanding strict regulation of industry passed almost unnoticed. He has quietly revamped the Federal Trade Commission so that he has a majority which sympathizes with his ideas. Although the law definitely restricts that body's authority the "right" kind of men can swing a fairly big stick.

The president has reappointed Member March, whose political sponsor is Farmer-Laborite Shipstead of Minnesota. He has filled an existing vacancy with L. E. Freer of Ohio. Although unknown to the trade, Mr. Freer endeared himself to "Joe" Eastman, government-owned railroads apostle, while serving as chief of the ICC's valuation division. Mr. Eastman recommended him when Burt Wheeler was looking around for a lawyer to advise the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Eastman-Wheeler protege did heavy duty for the committee during the construction of the holding companies bill. The thought of government ownership of railroads does not shock him. His friends call him a "sound, unbig game liberal." He is young enough—38—to be aggressive in attitude, though no rabble-rouser.

Balanced

If enactment of the modified death sentence hasn't convinced the Hopson-Robinson team of enter-tainers that buying drinks for big-wigs at the capital doesn't pay, the inside story of the appointment of J. D. Ross as public utility czar may open their eyes.

The man credited with suggesting the Seattle believer in public ownership of utilities is Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, who embarked on his chief by being discovered taking a highball with Mr. Robinson, Messrs. Ross and McIntyre struck up a close friendship when they first found that they belonged to the Scottish "Ross" clan. J. D. is the only person who calls Mac "Colonel McIntyre."

'ZEBRA' SUITS APPEAR ON BEACH

Those who believed about all styles and colors of bathing suits had already been invented might take a look at these. They were stumped for a color, so to be original they used a zebra for a model. The wearers are Dorothy Colletter (left) and Gene Myers, shown on the sands at Santa Monica, Calif. (Associated Press Photo)

While the president was racking his brain to think of a man who fitted his ideal, Mac is supposed to have popped the name of Ross. If being caught with Robinson was a social error this suggestion was a political home-run—maybe. Anyway, Mr. Roosevelt selected the western over four prospects picked by the Securities Exchange Commission.

Immune

William Edgar Borah still maintains a sentimental lead in the race for the republican presidential nomination in 1936. But his support of inflation and bonus measures seems to spoil all the schemes of the faction which is putting on an under-cover drive for him.

They poured out their troubles in a letter to William Allen White, the Kansas sage. He replied that the Idahoan's espousal of panaceas unpopular in the east wouldn't hurt his chances. "It reminds me of what happened years ago," he said. "A certain prominent gentleman lost the nomination because it got abroad that he liked a cocktail or two. But Teddy Roosevelt could have rolled a beer keg down the staircase of a YMCA, tapped it and drunk the contents without damaging his political future. It's the same with Borah. People like him for what he IS, not for what he has not done."

The senator has more substantial backing than many people realize, despite his record as an insurgent—perhaps because of it. If he takes his friends' advice, he will enter his name in every GOP primary. It looks as if he will, though people have lost their wardrobes betting on Borah in other years.

Notes

Efforts are made to twist Tugwell's resettlement fund into a lending agency for hard-up farmers... President Roosevelt has been elected honorary chairman of the commission to celebrate 150th anniversary of the constitution... The GOP is on the lookout for radio discrimination during the campaign... Some stations are suppressing strike broadcasts... Senate lobby committee will go right ahead, says Chairman Black... "Either the Soviet can suppress Third International meetings or the Third International is the real government of Russia," is private state department talk.

NEW YORK
By JAMES McMULLIN

Tempered—
Now that the holding company bill is law New York sharpshooters predict a change in the relationship between the administration and big power groups. The organization built by the utilities to fight the bill extends into every congressional district. It is staffed in many cases by business leaders of considerable local influence—heads of Rotary, Kiwanis, etc. It could be forged into a weapon of effective political retaliation on FDR. Its potentialities are much broader than those of the American Liberty League. The natural assumption is that it will be sharpened to carve the daylight out of New Dealers next year.

But don't be too sure it will work out that way. The new law gives the president a mighty potent club if it stands up in the courts. Follower people realize it isn't safe to be overconfident that it won't. And it depends chiefly on Mr. Roosevelt whether the club is used merely to prod the utilities into behaving like little gentlemen (according to New Deal standards) or to batter them out of existence. In many respects the law is open to flexible interpretations.

So astute utility chiefs are inclined to be cautious about raking everything in a hall-for-leather assault. Informed sources expect the development of a sort of informal and unofficial working arrangement between the administration and some of the more responsible holding groups—not all. Obviously the latter will continue to fight FDR and the law—they can hardly do otherwise—but they may deliberately pull their punches. They might even privately agree to disband the army referred to above. That would simplify Mr. Roosevelt's 1936 political problems and might have a definite bearing on whether the law is tempered in execution.

Discreet—
Most New York power men are still bitter about treatment they feel is grossly unfair—but at the same time they are acquiring a philosophical viewpoint. One of them puts it: "We must recognize, like Grover Cleveland, that we are now up against facts and not theories. Roosevelt wasn't content with dealing himself the best hand—he has swiped the whole deck. It looks as if we will have to play by his rules."

"Of course we hope and believe that the supreme court will throw the whole business in the ashcan. But we can't be sure. So the smartest thing to do is to refrain from overt acts of hostility which would certainly lead to having our heads chopped off if the court should fall us. We need to be as discreet as a diplomat's confidential secretary."

Nucleus—
Mayor LaGuardia of New York expects victory for his municipal power plant project in the popular referendum this fall. He is preparing to cash in on it and meanwhile loses no opportunity to put the squeeze on Consolidated Gas. Insiders figure this is one motive behind the city's move for speedy action on the proposed East River Parkway. This threatens the coal supply of New York Edison—a Con Gas subsidiary—which has a $50,000,000 power house investment in the neighborhood affected. Sources which should know believe the mayor covets that power house as the nucleus of his municipal plant and is proceeding on the principle that if he makes life uncomfortable enough for the Edison people he may be able to pick it up at a bargain.

at a bargain.

Tapping

Mussolini's strenuous search for foreign credits—scrubbed by British and American banks—has met success in France. No exact information is available as to the amount of money the French have put up but it's understood to be a tidy sum.

France's willingness to be of service to her Italian neighbor is likely to make possible the tapping of American reservoirs of credit for Il Duce's benefit. The French banks still rate well enough to command substantial lines of credit with American financial institutions. There's nothing to prevent their using these for the purpose of relending directly to Italy—and thus to replace the Credito-Italiano, cut off from New York credit lines—in financing Italian purchases in the United States.

Radio

New York learns that President Roosevelt may be compelled to shorten his western trip—and perhaps to abandon it entirely. He can't finish preparatory work with regard to execution of new laws before he leaves—and the foreign broil demands close and constant attention at Washington.

That's why some of the president's friends have urged him to cancel his western tour and convey his messages to the nation by radio. They point out that radio reaches everybody and serves every purpose that could be served by making the arduous trip.

Nobody any longer takes the idea seriously that the public must be reassured as to Mr. Roosevelt's health by personal appearances. So he doesn't need to show himself for that reason. His radio talks speak for themselves.

Build-up

The well-publicized refusal of New York School Superintendent Harold G. Campbell, to accept funds from the National Youth Administration (though none have been offered him yet) unless he is guaranteed a free hand in spending them is strongly flavored with politics.

Tammany is not alone in its suspicions that the Youth Administration is a beautiful build-up to strengthen the Roosevelt political machine. Campbell is loyal to the Tammany wing of the party. Naturally he opposes a system which would permit Roosevelt-Farley appointees to steer the spending and reap the rewards. The amount in question will be small, change but the Tiger isn't overlooking a trick on the comeback trail.

Conversely LaGuardia berates Campbell for his stand in order to cement his growing friendship with the national administration.

Bag

A lot of Wall Street wise guys outsmarted themselves on the post-adjournment stock market. They were sure stocks would skyrocket when congress quit and have been loading up since about Aug. 10 for the big killing. The market flailed—as real experts foresaw—and left them holding the bag.
