Hoffman Admits Visiting Hauptmann, Denies A Special Inquiry

A parade of all elementary school children in the county will be staged through downtown Big Spring Dec. 13 as the second of a series of celebrations planned for the holiday season here.

Leonard Short (above), former sports promoter of Galena, Mo., was among five inmates who escaped the city-federal jail at Muskogee, Okla. Detective Chief Ben Bolton was critically wounded and the sixth prisoner was slain during the break (Associated Press Photo).

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP) The New York Evening Journal said today that a source close to Governor Harold Hoffman of New Jersey had revealed that the governor has obtained new information which might save Bruno Richard Hauptmann, "or at least delay his execution indefinitely."

From Trenton, later in the day, Governor Hoffman revealed that he had visited the convicted German carpenter in his cell about a month ago; but said it was just a "casual visit."

Hauptmann's conviction for the kidnap murder of the Lindbergh baby is on appeal before the United States supreme court.

The Journal's story said that it was reported Hoffman's new information may become the basis for "the most shocking story ever brought before the American people."

Denies Investigation William Conklin, Hoffman's press aide, said the governor had formed no opinion as to Hauptmann's guilt or innocence. He said the governor had ordered no private investigation, as the Journal had stated.

A Boston paper had announced a week ago that discovery of wood resembling that used in the kidnap ladder, handwriting similar to that on the kidnap notes, and some of the ransom bills had caused a new investigation.

Several bills appeared in Massachusetts after Hauptmann's conviction, the Boston paper said. The department of justice denied at that time any knowledge of the new investigation.

Membership of the chamber of commerce again will serve as a nominating committee for the forthcoming directors election.

Ballots have been mailed to every member of the chamber and are to be returned not later than Dec. 9 with 10 names out of 20 approximately 300 checked. The 20 highest names will be resubmitted to the membership for a final vote.

There are ten hold-over directors who have another year to serve. They are C. A. Bulot, C. S. Blomshield, Calvin Boykin, E. O. Ellington, V. H. Fiewellen, Dr. P. W. Malone, Edmund Notestine, Shine Phillips, R. T. Piner and George White.

Nomination Ballots Are Sent Out; Will Be After Dec. 9

Mexico Teachers Promised Right To Carry Arms

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5. (AP)—President Cardenas promised today to give Mexico's 15,000 rural school teachers arms to protect themselves as the spread of socialistic education throughout the country.

The teachers had demanded guarantees of safety against rebels who have killed and mutilated many teachers recently.

Rainfall Light; More Forecast

Overcast skies with occasional mist prevailed in the Big Spring area again Thursday, after drizzling rains of Wednesday had brought a precipitation of 1.6 inch, gauged at the U. S. experiment farm. The fall was even lighter at the airport.

The wet weather was general over West Texas. Rains were forecast for much of the section again tonight and Friday.

By LUCILLE BIX Lights, red, green and white ones, were reflected by the wet pavements turning the Big Spring streets into a sparkling showplace when the official window unveiling which opened the Christmas shopping season in the city was held Wednesday night.

Windows were particularly beautiful this year. Getting away from the conventional red and green as decorative schemes, blue, silver and gold are being used more predominantly.

Among the popular toys Shirley Temple takes the lead in dolls, doll houses, story books, color books and nearly anything that she could possibly be interested in.

The Dionne quintuplets are a sure breath-taker from the little misses who like dolls and more dolls. One set of the famous copies provides a nurse and five little chairs.

Purchasing a playhouse would be simple as every household necessity in miniature can be furnished from the electric stove for the kitchen to rockers for the porch.

The old-time tricycle would never recognize its 1935 brother. It's so streamlined it looks more like a bug than a means of conveying the younger generation on its daily rounds.

Electric trains are still good, and they're streamlined. Games that can keep one busy for hours can be found in nearly every store.

These are always good as a gift because the giver can play too. Never has there been such a gorgeous display of lingerie.

Satin in every color and pastel shade is used in fashioning underwear, gowns, pajamas and robes. The gowns range in style from those with the tailored tucks to the ones that are decidedly feminine with lace and yards more of it. The negligees that accompany these more feminine gowns are cobwebby looking creations that are entirely made of lace.

Combinations in lounging pajamas are still holding to the "anything goes" idea. Unusual combinations of purple and green, orange and green, or anything with green seems to go. The most remarkable thing about it is that it looks really smart.

Evening clothes are strikingly beautiful. Satin and chiffon velvet are more popular materials and with contrasting accessories the wearer of any of those shown would be outstanding.

Street dresses are bright, with much metallic cloth used which is added brightness for the holiday season.

Gifts for men should be easy to find this year if one does not have too much trouble in selecting from the vast offering. Leather zipper cases are probably the most practical gift for the man who travels.

These, of course, can be bought in nearly any size desired. For the man who stays home at night, one might select a dressing robe, a pipe, slippers, a lounge chair, a good book, a reading lamp and many other things.

Of course, there is always the cocktail set that looks pretty on the buffet even if it is never used.

Loggare is something that no one would ever be disappointed in. Fitted cases as gifts to the young ladies who are forever going some place over the weekend are the ideal things. The new aviation luggage is about the sportiest shown in quite a while. Just carrying it would be a pleasure.

Everything considered, it would be hard to go wrong on any gift selected from those suggested by the stores in their window displays.

Warning To Japan He made an overture to Italy, however, to end aggression in Ethiopia, and pleaded for a basis of settling the African conflict.

Hoare in the same address warned Japan against aggression in China. He said the North China situation might be harmful to Japanese prestige unless the nation quickly clarified its attitude.

He said it lends color to the belief that Japanese influence had been exerted to shape Chinese internal political developments and administrative arrangements.

While Hoare's remarks on the Ethiopian question were being given, Paris diplomatic sources said that Britain and France had given Premier Mussolini their "last word" in peace suggestions before the oil embargo is imposed.

Means a "Fight" Premier Laval was reported as having given Italian Ambassador Cefauri the ultimatum late yesterday.

Fascist sources promptly gave new assurances that an oil embargo means a "fight."

Italy in the meantime made moves to reduce her gasoline consumption and obtain more oil to forestall a motor fuel shortage.

She also started a search for substitutes and new oil sources.

It was learned today that the British battle cruisers Hood and Renown, which were rushed to Gibraltar recently, will go into the Atlantic for exercises.

A royal Italian decree imposed official secrecy on Italy's financial situation, which, it has been hinted, was growing acute because of the league of nations sanctions.

Renew Move For Autonomy

Jap Activity Revived And Nanking's Program Is Threatened

PEIPING, Dec. 5. (AP)—A revival of agitation for the North China autonomy and a sudden reversal of Japanese activity in this area threatened today to block Nanking's efforts to retain its hold on the northern provinces through its broad program reforms.

It was learned the Japanese had warned General Ying-ching, war minister of the central government, to leave North China immediately. He was told that his continued presence would complicate the situation.

Several hundred demonstrators presented the minister petitions demanding autonomy.

Southwest Is Favored Area In Recovery

The Southwest is the "chosen" section of the nation in the recovery movement, and bids fair to witness tremendous development in the next few years as the United States heads up the comeback in the opinion of Roger Miller, manager of the southwestern division of the United States chamber of commerce, who was a visitor in Big Spring Thursday.

Miller was here on a combined business and pleasure trip. Headquarters of his division, which includes several southwestern states, are in Dallas, but it was the first time the USCC official had made an extended trip this far into West Texas.

He conferred with local chamber of commerce officials. Interest in Southwest "Federal Reserve reports showing that 46 million people, besides making a living, are able to maintain savings deposits and that 65 million are keeping paid-up life insurance, indicate strongly that the country is on the way up again," Miller said.

"Furthermore, we have reason to believe that the Southwest will lead in the nation in the upswing. Millions of dollars in the past few years have been invested in land and business in the Southwest. Farmers of other parts of the nation are turning to Texas. Industrial concerns and business enterprises are seeking Texas locations."

"The alert Texas town in the next few years will have remarkable opportunities to attract businesses and more people. They are coming to this state, and the town that goes after them will get them."

Miller was accompanied here by his wife, famed as an author. Writing as Helen Topping Miller, she has produced several novels and hundreds of short stories. Her work has appeared in most of the nation's major magazines. They started the return trip to Dallas Thursday.

Trucks Sold Here By I. L. McColister

Thirty trucks, two pick-ups and a coupe registered in Howard county this week by Morgan Construction company were not bought here, as erroneously reported. They were sold to the company by I. L. McColister, Dallas, and were shipped here from Kansas City. The machines were registered and tuned-up for service here and then taken to a job in Brady, McColister, Dallas Chevrolet dealer, is a brother of W. L. McColister of this city.

Early Action On Orders For Trees Requested By CC

An appeal to telephone or bring orders for trees to the chamber of commerce as soon as possible was made Thursday morning. The chamber will distribute approximately 500 trees again this year at cost. The cost is expected to be slightly higher than before.

Appeal Renewed For Discarded Toys For Needy Children; Collection To Be Started By Groups Here Saturday

That two-wheel tricycle you have been stumbling over in the dark can make at least two people happy. Saturday morning the town will be canvassed by Boy Scouts, the toys thus collected to be turned over to the city firemen for repairing.

Wednesday five members of the Lions club volunteered to furnish cars Saturday morning to assist in the collection. More cars will be needed. Those who can provide a car should either contact Dr. C. W. Deats or be at the high school building at 9 a. m.

The Ray Fuller VFW post is taking the lead in the move to obtain a large supply of toys but many other organizations are lending support.

Warning On Sunday Laws

Unless grocery and general merchandise stores close on Sunday, complaints may be filed. It was reliably learned Thursday.

Within the past few weeks many protests have come to officials against the operation of grocery stores all day Sunday. Worst offenders, according to the complaints, are suburban stores and small stores along the highways.

The law provides that grocery stores may stay open until 9 a. m. on Sunday but must remain closed the remainder of the day.

Authorities threatened to lodge complaints against several operators unless the stores are closed in compliance with the law.

LEAVES HOSPITAL

Mary Louise Gilmore, Big Spring girl injured in a car crash here Tuesday night, was dismissed Thursday from Big Spring hospital, where she had received treatment.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS—Cloudy, rain in north and east portions tonight and probably in southeast Friday morning.

EAST TEXAS—Probably rain tonight and Friday; slightly warmer north and central portions tonight.

Three Cities Invite Demos

National Committee Will Make Choice At Session Next Month

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (UP)—The race for the 1936 democratic national convention apparently has simmered down to three principal contestants—Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco — Postmaster General James A. Farley said today.

Holding his first press conference in months, the postmaster general reiterated back in his red leather chair and exuded democratic cheer.

"The convention, I assume, will go to the highest bidder, if that city has the proper facilities," he said. "It makes no difference politically where the convention goes."

He said he was assured bids would come from Chicago and Philadelphia, and that San Francisco would bid "if it thought it had a chance," and that he had been told Kansas City and St. Louis also were considering offers.

The democratic national committee will choose the convention city, he said, at a meeting here Jan. 7 or 8.

Farley predicted the next convention "will be just a nice time." He said President Roosevelt's chances for reelection never looked better and he believed the democrats next year will carry as many states as they did in 1932.

US Spending Involved In AAA Ruling

Adverse Decision Expected To Affect Other New Deal Activities

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Many government attorneys see much more than legality of the AAA processing tax hanging on the supreme court's forthcoming ruling on that measure.

Spending of tax money requires, theoretically at least, a specific grant of power authorized by the constitution; but the only clause of that document they can find which gives the AAA that power is the "general welfare" provision for improving the condition of the entire country.

It was under this clause, the attorneys say, that the Louisiana and Alaska purchases were made, that agricultural extension is carried on, that relief is given the unemployed, that the Tennessee valley authority is operating, and that the public health service, Smithsonian Institution, and other old-time government agencies, are continued.

One Argument
Thus, it is argued, if the supreme court should declare the AAA processing taxes, as such, unconstitutional, rather than merely the method of levying them, some doubt will be cast on the legality of these other activities.

Lawyers for receivers of the Hooanac Mills corporation, plaintiff in the test case asking repayment of processing taxes on cotton, are expected to argue that the levies are unconstitutional because the constitution does not specifically provide for them and also because congress unlawfully delegated its tax rate-making powers to the secretary of agriculture.

The government's petition to the court asking for a hearing of the case declared, on the other hand, that the act "represents the final decision of congress that federal assistance was and is needed to restore the normal functioning of the agricultural life of the nation and that such restoration was and remains vital to the halting of the disastrous period of depression which has threatened the country's very structure."

Millions Affected
It added that congress adopted the law after several years of considering the necessity for farm relief and recently had approved its administration, adding that "the provisions challenged in this case directly affect thousands of taxpayers, indirectly affect millions of consumers, and involve hundreds of millions of dollars of internal revenue."

Approval of the AAA by congress at the last session in passing the amendments to the act, which attempted to forbid suits to collect taxes already paid, was questioned, however, in a supreme court ruling of November 25 which directed eight southern rice millers to pay the levy on rice into a special depository instead of the treasury pending a decision on constitutionality of AAA.

Amendment Again
Many government officials have declared privately their belief that a ruling of unconstitutionality on AAA by the court immediately would result in a demand for an amendment to the constitution if the decision were based on irregularity of the taxes as such.

However, if it should hold only that the delegation of the taxing power to the executive branch of the government is unconstitutional, as it did in the case of code-making under NRA, then collection of processing taxes could be continued, they believe, because of

Pantry Demonstration Is Held At Soash Home

Mrs. G. T. Palmer, 4-H pantry demonstrator for the Soash home demonstration club, displayed her pantry Wednesday to club members and friends.

In her garden she now has turnips, mustard, collards, radishes, lettuce, carrots, two varieties of onions and spinach. Stored for winter use are pumpkins, cushaws, and 50 pounds each of butter beans, pinto beans and three kinds of peas.

She has grown 27 varieties of vegetables this year in her irrigated garden.

Her canned goods are stored on shelves in a cellar. There are 264 quarts of seven kinds of vegetables, 125 quarts fruit and tomatoes, 32 quarts preserves and jellies; 70 quarts of pickles and relishes. She has made soap sufficient for three families and plans to can a beef later and has cured three large hogs.

SYDNEY, N. S. W. (UP)—Many Italians living in Australia are applying for British naturalization papers, presumably owing to fears regarding the international complications of the Ethiopian dispute. In 25 days 60 Italians applied for naturalization papers, compared with an average of 15 a month in normal times.

COSDEN OILERS ARRANGE ATTRACTIVE SCHEDULE OF GAMES

REFINERS OPEN SEASON HERE NEXT WEEK WITH STOKES BLACK DEVILS

Cosden Oilers, one of the strongest independent basketball quartets in West Texas, have a fine list of games to offer Big Spring basketball fans this year.

The Oilers will open the season here Wednesday of next week, playing the Stokes Black Devils, an independent team.

Following the Stokes game, the Oilers will tie into several college teams, Manager Baker said. The Cosdenites are dicker for a game with the Hardin-Simmons University 'five' to be played here Dec. 13.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

FRANCIS SCHMIDT, coach at Ohio State, had an interesting spiel prepared for those attending the annual letter award ceremony recently. Here's what Schmidt had to say: "This team had an up-hill fight from the very day it started practice. It was not square on the spot when nominated as a sure thing for the national championship. In the pre-season rating no other team had a chance with it and it was doubtful if it would even be scored upon. You know the result. Every team we met pointed for us and as a consequence we had to be better on our off days than the opposition was on its 'on' days. We faltered once along the way, but I don't think that detracts in any way from the accomplishments of this year. It won a western conference title for the first time in fifteen seasons, and it was a fitting climax to a successful season for a fighting team."

FOR SOME mysterious, dark and secretive reason, your correspondent has been invited to attend some sort of a jamboree on the roof garden of the St. Angelo hotel Saturday honoring the Big Spring and Sweetwater football teams. Why throw that blow-out on the roof garden? We were lousy just as soon as that high place was mentioned. Further, more, this is not the roof garden season. There's no use in taking a chance of being tossed off the top of that hotel.

EMMETT COX, who gives you the nervous tremors just to look at him, is up to some devilment. Maybe Ed Blanton is in on it too. At any rate, they tell us Cox has made a special invitation to you Saturday to officiate the McCamey-Wink Class B championship game. Brown took the Devils to McCamey this season and thought his boys got gyped out of the game. Naturally he won't have much love for the Badgers. However, the McCamey coach is an old Texas Tech boy. Moffett will of course want to do right by him.

H. B. RUSSELL, veteran American Airlines pilot who has seen most of the West Coast teams this year, picks SMU to run away with Stanford. He says California has a better team than Stanford.

GREENVILLE PROBABLY has the toughest row to hoe in the state play-off of any of the pre-season favorites. To start with, Tyler is no slouch. If the Lions clear that hurdle, they face the winner of the Temple-Mexia game in the quarter finals. Temple, like Greenville, is a pre-season favorite, and if the Wildcats come through with a win over the Black Cats and face Greenville, the game will be one of the big features of the play-off.

SUPPOSE THE Lions beat Temple, then they face Port Arthur, the team with the most impressive list of wins of any team in the state. Port Arthur is favored to sweep through all early competition in South Texas.

THEN, IF Greenville should beat Port Arthur, it faces the upper bracket winner, which probably will be Amarillo. If the Lions survive that man-killing schedule, they will be champions in every sense of the word.

BOB COOKE of the Sweetwater Reporter discusses possible district changes:

"There is a possibility that Sweetwater will be placed in the Oil Belt district next season, according to rumors emanating in San Angelo following a meeting of the league executive committee, held in connection with the Texas State Teachers association. Roy Henderson, director of the league has let it be known on numerous occasions that he intends to have something done about the three-member district 3 set-up next year. Along with Sweetwater, San Angelo will likely become a member of the Oil Belt district. It is not known whether Big Spring would be included, possibly would. That would make an eight-team set-up, leaving members a chance to play only two non-conference games during the year.

"Had Sweetwater been a member of the Oil Belt this season, the Mustangs would have finished the season in third place. As it was, they finished in third place, but that was because it happened to be last place. The Mustangs beat three of the five teams in the Oil Belt this season. Abilene and Breckenridge were the only two Oil Belt local members whipping the Ponies. Personally, we would like to see Sweetwater in the Oil Belt. We understand the Mustangs have been invited by district officials to join.

"One has to talk to R. S. Covey, superintendent of the Sweetwater schools, only a few minutes to learn that Mr. Covey is going to do his part to see that a situation like the one developing here this season doesn't take place again where his school is concerned, regardless of what district the Mustangs are playing in next year. He says he will exert all of his influence in settling the matter of the games before the tie games develop. Mr. Covey explains that he hesitated to rule on the matter because he had no rule to go by, and he had ruled in favor of either Big Spring or San Angelo. It would have amounted to him taking a game away from one or the other. It would not have been a matter of passing on which was the stronger team."

Winning Golf

by Lawson Little

Babe Ruth was ready to give up golf when Little came to the rescue—cures Babe's hook on second hole.

Shortly after my return from England I played a round of golf with Ruth and Dan Topping of the Winged Foot country club near New York. While we were in the locker room changing into our golf clothes the Babe asked me: "Lawson, how can I get rid of this fool hook I'm getting on all my drives?"

"You don't mean to tell me that you, a left-hander, are hooking?" I inquired rather surprised.

"I certainly do," he replied. "Just wait until you see some of these curves I hit when I get on the course."

"Well, you are certainly an exception, Babe," I answered. "You know most left-handers slice, but if you're really hooking I'll tell you some of the main causes and when we are on the course I'll check you over."

"Fine, Lawson," the Babe said. (Note—Babe Ruth is left-handed, but as most golfers are right-handed I will speak in right-handed terms for the sake of clearness.)

"Babe, you know what makes a baseball curve, don't you?" I asked.

"I guess I should, Lawson. You know I used to do a little pitching. It's the spin on the ball. If a pitcher wants to throw an out-curve he puts a right to left spin on the ball when he throws it and a left to right spin for an in-curve."

"Babe, that's exactly what makes a golf ball curve, too. Now, you are bothered with a hook, which means that the ball leaves the face of the club with a right to left or counter clockwise spin. There are a number of causes for this. You may be swinging a little too flat, thus causing you to swing the right to left or hook spin."

"Then, Lawson, you mean I use too much right hand, don't you," the Babe inquired.

"Now, you are getting on to one of my pet theories," I remarked. "Let me ask you a question. How many home runs do you think you would have hit if you swung the bat mainly with your left arm, which would be a backhand swing?"

"Right-Hand Power" "Not very many, I'm sure," Babe replied, "because you get your power from your right hand; a forward and not a backhand blow."

"Well the same thing is true of golf," I told him. "Your power comes from the blow delivered at the moment of impact with the right hand."

"Then if you can hit with the right hand very hard, as you suggest, how do you stop the hook?" the Babe queried.

"On the way to the first tee I answered him by saying, 'By keeping control of the club with the left hand and arm and by using the right hand in the correct way.'"

"The Babe, true to his prediction, buried his first tee shot deep in the rough to the left of the fairway. He turned to me and quickly said: 'You see, I told you. What did I do? I've been hitting 'em like that for six weeks now, and I'm ready to give up the game.'"

"Oh, I don't think it's as bad as that, Babe," I consoled him. "If believe your fault can be corrected fairly easily. It looked to me as if you let your left hand loosen as you came into the ball and your right hand naturally overpowered the left hand and arm. This caused the club to turn over on the ball, giving it a right to left spin and the resultant hook. The answer is a firm grip with your left hand, and let your left arm follow through as far as it can, unrestricted, toward the hole. You will find

Total receipts last year amounted to only $6,640.83, but expenses paid out, $4,047.47, was $2,223.18 less than total expenses paid out this year.

Babe On Way To W. Coast

Miss Didrikson Will Give Golf Exhibitions In California

Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, wonder girl athlete from Dallas, spent last night in Big Spring. Miss Didrikson, accompanied by her parents and brother, is on her way to the West Coast for winter golf exhibitions.

Rainy weather prevented the Babe from playing a practice round on the Mundy course early this morning. "I seldom play on anything but grass greens," Miss Didrikson told a Herald reporter. She said she had lost interest in practically all sports but golf.

Miss Didrikson, who's amazing athletic career started as a star basketball player in Dallas several years ago, gained world-wide recognition in all forms of sport in the Olympics.

Taking up golf less than two years ago, the versatile young lady has been a sensation. "I get a big kick out of golf," she said in answer to questions popped to her about exhibitions she has been playing with Gene Sarazen and Al Espinosa.

"The Babe plays" mostly for distance, drives averaging between 270 and 290 yards. Her long, accurate drives, combined with a good short game, keep her score down in the low 70's.

Although she declared that she was not particularly interested in football, she plans to see the Rose Bowl game in California New Year's day.

Miss Didrikson's next exhibition will be at Roswell, N. M., Sunday. From there she will go to California for two and one-half month's exhibition work with West Coast stars.

Ranchers Open Drills Again

ABILENE, Dec. 5.—Hardin-Simmons university gridlers who will meet New Mexico A. & M. in the annual Sun Bowl game in El Paso, Jan. 1, went back to work Wednesday to prepare for the New Year's encounter. Absent from drills since their thrilling 46-0 victory over the School of Mines two weeks ago, all hands reported to Head Coach Frank Kimbrough for the first drill.

The Ranchers wound up one of their most successful seasons with six victories and three losses. The victories were met at the hands of Texas Tech, Baylor and the Rose Bowl bound S. M. U. Mustangs. The Wranglers scored a total of 168 points to their opponents' 50 for the entire season.

Chances for a victory over the Aggies picked up Wednesday when Ed Cherry, 190-pound fullback, who has been on the injured list for a month, reported for practice. Cherry played only a few minutes of the Howard Payne and Mines games but will be in great shape for the great season skirmish.

The Cowboys will be accompanied to El Paso by the world famous Cowboy band and the Cowgirls, the Southwest's most colorful drill team. A special train will carry these groups and several hundred Abileneans and West Texans to the game. G. B. Sanderfer, athletic business manager at Hardin-Simmons has announced.

The Cowboy band under the direction of Marion B. McClure and the Cowgirls will appear in the Sun carnival parade Wednesday preceding the game.

WILDCATS ARE FAVORED OVER McCAMEY TEAM

PECOS, Dec. 5. (Sp1)—Wink and McCamey will wage a Class B district battle here Saturday afternoon.

Wink was the winner of the north half of District 7-B with victories over Pecos, Monahans, Crane, Midland and Odessa, while McCamey came in ahead of all other teams in their half of the district, the south, by winning all conference games.

BRONCOS TURN IN EQUIPMENT FOR SEASON

Fifteen Of 27 Boys Will Be Eligible For Devils

The Broncos, junior high school football team, turned in their equipment this week and called it quits for the season after cancelling a game with the Colorado Juniors.

Of the 27 boys who reported for the Bronco squad during the season, 15 will be eligible for Ben Daniels' Devils next year.

Players finishing their Bronco eligibility: Bobbie Martin, quarterback; Wendell Woods, back; Johnnie Miller, back; Tabor Row, center; Harold Bethel, tackle; Orvil Wright, end; Bobbie Savage, quarterback; Dee Foster, back; Kenneth Hall, center; Robert Mullins, guard; C. B. South, tackle; Stewart Merrick, end; Bob Schultz, tackle; L. Bostick, back.

Coach Gardner will have back next year, U. Hall, Charles Sanders, Oscar Nolan, Jack Graves, Horace Bostick, R. E. Creek, Buster Bostick, B. Reeves, Clifton Patton, Russ Campbell, Felix Campbell and Clayton Hendrix.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 5. (UP)—Winners of the annual 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be immortalized in silver in a $10,000 trophy to be presented here next May 30.

Bas-relief heads of all past winners from Ray Harroun, who won in 1911, to Kelly Pettiford, current champion, will be sculptured on the solid sterling silver trophy which will stand five and a half feet high.

Silver profiles of future winners will be added each year. Twenty-five blank spaces are reserved for this purpose.

The trophy will rest permanently in Detroit, center of the automotive industry. Each year's winner will receive $1,200 in cash, paid in monthly allotments of $100 each.

The trophy is donated by the Borg-Warner corporation, makers of automobile parts, to succeed the Wheeler-Schebler trophy which Harry Harts won permanently in 1933 by owning three cars which won the race.

FARMERS BANK ON THE LINE

Wilson and Company May Be Too Much For Cadetmen

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 5.—Down in the depths of the line, where football games are really won, seems to be Texas Aggie hopes for victory over Southern Methodist's Mustangs Saturday on Kyle field. They lie more than ever in the line as the Pony backfield seems to have a decided edge, in performance to date at least, on the Cadets.

The hopes seem forlorn at that, as the Mustangs' Rose Bowl line rates as one of the strongest in the southwest conference history. But Bill James, chief line fide to C. B. Homer H. Norton, has turned out one of the finest forward walls Texas Aggie land, once noted for sterling line play, has seen in years.

From end to end there is little difference in weight. The Ponies, however, have an edge as regards size and strength. They also have a decided margin in experience, as their sterling line is made up entirely of seniors. The Aggies' forward wall lists only one senior, two juniors and four first-year varsity players. The teams seem about even at the ends and center, with the Mustangs having the edge at guard and tackle.

Offer Tipton
The Mustangs offer Bill Tipton, 175-pounder, and Maco Stewart, 185-pounder, as their starting ends. Both rate highly as pass enders. The Aggies have two 185-pounders, Taylor Wilkins, a senior, and Johnny Morrow, a sophomore. Tipton and Stewart each played sixty minutes against the TCU Horned Frogs. Wilkins went the route against the university of Texas' Longhorns and Morrow played all but a few minutes of that game.

In Maurice Orr and Truman Spain the Mustangs have two fine, 60-minute tackles receiving much all-conference mention with Spain also getting all-American recognition. They weigh 210 and 211 pounds, respectively, and both went the route against TCU. Orr handles most of the Pony place kicking.

The Aggies will have Martin (Bomber) Lindsey, 225-pound sophomore, and Selmer Kirby, 200-pound junior, to do their heaviest tackle duty. Lindsey is considered one of the outstanding conference tackles. He turned in great games against Rice and Texas but was bothered with injuries earlier in the season. Like Orr, he does much place booting. Kirby missed two tilts with injuries but has been back as a regular since the Arkansas game. John Whitefield and Roy Young are chief reserves.

J. C. (Iron Man) Wetzel, an 185-pound all-American Mustang, leads the route against TCU. Orr handles most of the Pony place kicking.

The Aggies' Charley DeWare and the Mustangs' Art Johnson are rated equally well as starting centers. Each weighs 180 pounds and each is an excellent line backer. "Buster" Raborn and Stan Stach, Pony and Cadet relief pivots, respectively, also rate even, with Raborn's 185 pounds giving him a six-pound advantage over Stach. Stach is a senior and DeWare a junior.

Three Big Spring coaches, Obie Bristow, George Brown and "Speedy" Moffett, will officiate the game.

Camey fullback, will bear the offensive threats of each team more on their shoulders than any other men, but it is very probably that they will be watched so closely that some other back will steal their thunder.

Three Big Spring coaches, Obie Bristow, George Brown and "Speedy" Moffett, will officiate the game.

Wink was the winner of the north half of District 7-B with victories over Pecos, Monahans, Crane, Midland and Odessa, while McCamey came in ahead of all other teams in their half of the district, the south, by winning all conference games.

According to comparative scores the Wildcats will be heavy favorites to win the game, but the scores are based on early season games, and it is well known that the McCamey Badgers have shown startling improvement in all games played since they lost their first two of the season to Pecos and Midland.

After being roundly defeated by Midland, the Badger coaches revamped their team and since that time only two teams have managed to cross their goal line, neither making more than one tally. The Badgers, with a quartet of jackrabbit backs, have run up margins of from one to eight touchdowns in all games since their two losses.

Neither team boasts any particularly outstanding star but each is a well coordinated club that has managed to sweep all before them in their respective districts. Small, Wink halfback, and Hoffman, McCamey

UPSETS MARK 20-YEAR PLAY IN CALIFORNIA'S ROSE BOWL

THE FOUR HORSEMEN TRIUMPHED

Rockne's Great Combination Rode Stanford, 27 To 10

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series on Rose Bowl football written by George H. Beale, who has seen all of the games he describes.

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (UP)—From a modest beginning as a means to call Southern California's winter climate to the world's attention, the annual New Year's Day Tournament of Roses football game has grown to be recognized as one of the brilliant closing contests of each intercollegiate football season.

In the beginning the game attracted small crowds, no great attention and, in some instances, inferior teams.

Now the Rose Bowl attracts from 75,000 to 90,000 fans, the game commands universal attention and frequently settles the national championship.

An example of this is the coming Tournament of Roses contest which will bring together two of the outstanding teams of the nation.

Packed With Thrills
The success of the Rose Bowl clashes—all of which means the further success of the idea of publicizing the climate—finds its base in the tradition that they have furnished football history through the spectacular.

Every football fan, for instance, remembers that day in 1929 when Roy Riegels, one of the gamiest and best centers the West ever had, ran the wrong way to give Georgia Tech an 8 to 7 victory over his own California team.

Few gridiron followers can forget the 1921 game when Harold (Brick) Miller threw a 70-yard pass that helped California demoralize and defeat Ohio State 28-0. The record books for years carried it as the longest pass ever completed.

Another famous Rose Bowl contest saw Knute Rockne's Four Horsemen ride to a 27 to 10 victory over a great Stanford team that featured Ernie Nevers. Pop Warner once said Nevers was the finest man ever to play under his coaching.

Upset In 1922
Then there was the memorable occasion in 1922 when little Washington and Jefferson, unheard of on the Coast, came west to hold the California "Wonder Team" to a 0 to 0 tie. Another feature game saw Columbia, supposedly a weak sister, defeat a Stanford team that was touted as unbeatable.

The first Rose Bowl football game seldom receives attention. It was played in 1902 when Michigan and its immortal Willie Heaton roughed out a 49 to 0 win over Stanford.

The first of the modern series of games was in 1916, when Brown went west to lose, 0 to 14, to Washington State.

Only 7,000 persons turned out that day to watch the Cougars, coached by the Indian, Lonestar Dietz score two touchdowns on a muddy field while completely checking Brown's great negro star, Fitz Pollard, all-America halfback.

Kentucky Derby May Be Run In May This Year
FRENCH LICK, Ind., Dec. 5 (UP)—The Kentucky Derby, America's horse racing classic, may be run as early as May 2 next year, Col. Matt Winn, Chicago, head of the famous Churchill Downs race track at Louisville where the meet is held, said during a visit here.

Meyer Predicts Real Battle With Louisiana
DENVER, Colo., Dec. 5 (UP)—Coach L. R. (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian university today predicted a "real battle" when his eleven meets Louisiana State university's gridmen in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans New Year's day.

"I consider Louisiana State one of the strongest teams in the country, despite their defeat by Rice," the Frog mentor said when his team stopped here en route to San Francisco, where Saturday it meets the Santa Clara Broncos.

"I think Texas Christian is deserving of national recognition, too," he continued. "Last Saturday we lost to Southern Methodist, and Southern Methodist was a better team that day—but the just the same we do have a wonder team."

MAKE READY FOR OPENING PLAY-OFF THIS WEEK
By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Dec. 5 (UP)—Led by four top-flight teams of 1934, sixteen of Texas' finest schoolboy football squads bore down in practice today for their biggest tests of the season—the bi-district round.

Natural favorites in each bracket are the quarter-finalists of last year—the champion Amarillo Sandies of District One; Masonic Home in District 7; Greenville in District 9, and Corpus Christi, runner-up to Amarillo, in District 16.

Coach Blair Cherry's Amarillo eleven will be after their fourth straight bi-district victory over the "Oil Belt" representative when they meet Breckenridge in the Buckaroo's own park Saturday.

Last year, Amarillo was pressed to win 19 to 14 from a strong Ranger team.

For the second consecutive year, Masonic Home will meet Dallas Tech for the bi-district title. The Masons, playing at home this time, beat Tech in Dallas last year.

The scrappy Greenville outfit is favored to win over Tyler at home Saturday. Waco will be the scene of another headline battle Friday when the mighty Temple Wildcats meet Mexia, a former class "B" team that bowled over all district 11 rivals to take the championship in their first season in Class "A" competition.

Corpus Christi, the south Texas champion, will have a stellar opponent in Breckenridge of San Antonio. They play at Corpus Christi. Coach Tom Dennis' Fort Arthur team rules a slight favorite over San Jacinto of Houston because of the decisive manner in which they knocked Beaumont from the undefeated ranks on Thanksgiving day. Fort Arthur has the added advantage of playing at home.

El Paso high school's team will journey to San Angelo Saturday to meet that school's representative for the West Texas title. El Paso, giving away a weight advantage, will attempt to offset that handicap with speed.

Wichita Falls will clash with Sherman Saturday at Sherman. Both were eliminated in district play last year. District 5 was represented by Vernon and District 6 by Highland Park of Dallas.

Five former state champions are represented in the bi-district round this year. Three others lost only in the final game.

Breckenridge and Fort Arthur were co-champions after a scoreless draw in the 1929 title game. Tyler upset Amarillo 25 to 13 to top honors in 1930. Abilene was champion in 1931 and Corsicana in 1932. In the latter game, Corsicana was awarded the title on penetrations after playing a scoreless tie with Masonic Home. Greenville beat Dallas Tech in the final 1933 game, and Amarillo swamped Corpus Christi last year.

Wool, Sheep Prices Go Up

Ranchmen Asking More For Holdings Because Of Heavy Demand

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 5 (AP)—West Texas ranchmen have marked up their asking prices for wool and sheep.

A heavy demand for ewe lambs is reported by ranchmen, especially in the Trans-Pecos section, and a number of sales have been made at 8 1/2 to 9 cents a pound. Some ranchmen, buyers state, have refused the top figure. Mutton lambs, which have been selling around 7 1/2 cents a pound, hit a new high when Roy Hudspeth, Sutton county bean milk, states that a compound has been found which is a useful substitute for milk for those unable to afford tinned or natural milk. The compound is made of ground soya beans with sugar, eggs, salt and calcium.

ranchman, sold 1,307, weights 60 pounds, at 7 1/2 cents a pound. Yearling ewes are selling at $8 a head. Although no major clips of wool have sold recently, the market has been running from 24 to 25 cents. Roy Hudspeth, banker and warehouseman, refused 30 cents for 66,000 pounds of 1935 wool on hand. He predicts early contracting of 12-months 1936 wool at 30 cents a pound or more.

The state's mohair clip was materially reduced when Tom Richey bought 330,000 pounds from the Sonora Wool and Mohair company at 50 cents for the grown and 60 cents for the kid hair, equaling the top price of the season.

Increased sales of cattle are reported at range market points with steer calves moving at 7 1/2 to 8 cents a pound.

The San Angelo territory is green with oats and wheat, about half of which is estimated to be volunteer. Harvesting of the second crop of grain sorghums is in progress. The first crop was above average but many farmers lost part of it through heavy rains. The second crop is also better than in years.

Sunburn is more easily acquired on the seashore than inland.

Deserter Faces Court Martial After 20 Years

PARIS, (UP)—Sentenced to death for desertion from the French army twenty years ago, a soldier must appear before a court martial in Paris.

Felix Weisman, under the influence of his French mother, left Germany at the outbreak of the war and enlisted in the French army. After being wounded later, his feelings underwent a change and he made his way to Germany and was posted to the regiment he should have joined when originally called up for service.

When the news of his action filtered through to France he was in his absence sentenced to death for desertion.

Years afterward, believing that his history had been forgotten, Weisman returned to French territory, where he was later denounced.

Military authorities are not seeking enforcement of the death penalty, but they insist on some punishment to mark disapproval of Weisman's conduct, since he enlisted of his own free will on the plea of sympathy for France.

SHOULD PROVE VALUABLE

There has been much work accomplished toward the development of a program whereby the city of Big Spring in the future might construct a dam and reservoir, together with pipeline and filtration facilities, to assure the municipality a permanently adequate water supply.

The possibility exists that such a project could be perfected with federal aid; and the opportunity for that assistance should not be passed up. The Herald believes that any West Texas city of the size and potentialities of Big Spring should never lose sight of the fact that water supply will always demand attention, if it is not a major problem.

But let us say that the lake project can be delayed. Even so, complete information as to the section's water sources—their location and extent—is of inestimable value. Knowledge of what this city faces in the matter of providing adequate water will be a basis in making plans for increasing the supply as needed.

All this is preliminary to the observation that the underground water survey for Howard county, soon to be inaugurated by the United States geological survey, under sponsorship of the Texas board of water engineers, should be an extremely valuable project for this city.

Competent geologists making a thorough survey will be able to tell us—in cold figures—how we stand now and will stand in the future in the matter of water supply.

Credit is due the city administration, chamber of commerce officials and other civic leaders who have foreseen the need of this survey as a basis for future policy.

To safeguard the water supply we have and to know how and when to increase it when that becomes necessary is a sensible step. The survey will enable the city to know where it stands.

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff: Spectacular innovations in Broadway productions which are sometimes looked upon as revolutionary and generally avoided by producers (because the chances of failure are too hazardous) bring to mind the really stunning set-up Billy Rose has for "Jumbo." He has transformed the old Hippodrome into a circus, with seats rising in tiers from the sawdust ring, and from its hidden reaches emerge from time to time such mastodontic things as elephants, horses, and Jimmy Durante's nose.

The fanfare that preceded it was really a masterpiece of showmanship, engineered by Dick Maney, one of Broadway's busiest and most astute ballyhoosers, the whole "come on" idea being hinged on its "stunt" possibilities. Broadway always goes for stunts, if they are good.

There was "The Miracle" for which Morris Gest transformed the Century theater into a cathedral. It was one of the most spectacular productions ever brought to Broadway. After its sensational run in New York Gest went all over the country rebuilding theaters into cathedrals for its presentation.

"Grand Hotel" was another stunt, involving fast revolving stages. . . Its arrival was really one of the most exciting first nights in rialto history. . . "Strange Interlude" was a stunt pure and simple. . . The idea of nine acts, with dinner intermission, greatly excited and intrigued playgoers. . . "The Great Waltz" was so tremendous the stage had to be built to fit it, and when the Center theater, in Sixth avenue, got through with the transformation $100,000 had been spent. . . There is, too, the ever current "Tobacco Road," which has three tons of dirt on the stage. . . They tell me the actors, to kill time, have planted some Irish potatoes backstage and that they are getting ready to harvest a real crop.

They go in for numbers at the St. Moritz. . . There is the new Continental room, where one of the pretty Lane sisters, Lota, is singing in the smart dinner and supper show. . . Then there is the Cosmopolitan dance with six rhythms by Caperton and Columbus. . . And finally, the glass murals on the walls representing the seven deadly sins. . . A delightfully mad Englishman, A. Gordon-Foster, designed the murals, which are a new type engraved on glass by a blowing process. . . Each of these wall murals is four feet by ten and they represent Anger, Envy, Greed, Gluttony, Pride, Lust, and Laziness. . . They encircle a room really continental in design, where an ultra social register crowd dances to the rhythms of Ron Perry's excellent music. . . Jack Dempsey once said to me, "I fear all fighters; they are all dangerous until you have them on the floor." Perry said, indicating with a sweeping gesture the high hat and ermine crowd: "They're Park avenue now but watch them go Main Street and sing." . . . He went back to his orchestra and gradually slipped into a melange of tunes which everyone knew. . . One of his men began to sing. . . A pert young deb unconsciously joined in. . . In five minutes everybody was singing. . . I don't know what the Greeks called it but on Broadway that's showmanship.

The Russians and the Japs have buried the hatchet, but both of them now know exactly where it is.—New York Herald Tribune.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Senator George Norris will be a candidate for reelection next year.

Under pressure of strong pleas from the president, his senate colleagues, and thousands of admirers in all parts of the country, the veteran Nebraska liberal has reconsidered his decision to retire from public life. A public announcement to this effect will be made by him shortly.

Since his statement some weeks ago that he would not seek another term, Norris has been deluged with letters and telegrams urging him to carry on. In Nebraska, a movement was launched to put his name on the ballot despite his declaration.

Members of the senate progressive bloc were particularly active. Senators Wheeler and Nye, en route to the Philippines, wireless him from mid-Pacific.

While Norris has decided to seek another term, he has not as yet made up his mind on what ticket he will run.

In the past he has hewed an independent course regarding national issues and candidates, but personally he has always run as a republican. Close friends say he no longer wants any association, even nominal, with the GOP.

On the other hand, while Norris' admiration for President Roosevelt is unchanged and he expects to support him for re-election, the democratic party label holds no attraction.

The LaFollet brothers, Senator Bob and Governor Phil, both very close to Norris, have advised him to follow their example, cast off both old party affiliations and run as a progressive.

Probably this is what Norris will do.

Members of the securities and exchange commission have a private joke on Oscar D. Young and C. E. Groesbeck, heads of General Electric and the Electric Bond and Share company.

One morning, during the barrage of suits against the SEC on the holding company act, Young and Groesbeck suddenly appeared at the SEC. The report was flashed immediately over the news wires that the two men were negotiating with the commission for a compromise in the holding company regulation battle.

Actually they had come to consult the commission on securing exemptions, permitted under the law, for foreign subsidiaries owned by their companies.

Members of the SEC received them cordially and discussed their problem fully. At no time was the holding company fight mentioned. Young and Groesbeck, their business completed, returned that night to New York by sleeper.

Now for the SEC's joke: While Young and Groesbeck were conferring with the commission, its staff of lawyers was working furiously preparing the surprise suit against the Electric Bond and Share company to compel it to register under the holding company act. At 4 o'clock next morning, while the two utility men were rolling serenely homeward, the necessary legal papers were completed, rushed to a plane and shot to New York.

Young and Groesbeck, after leisurely breakfasts, arrived at their offices to be greeted with first news of the SEC's suit.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, who handed down the 50-50 decision on the Guffey coal act in the District of Columbia supreme court, has a unique distinction.

He was opposed for appointment to the federal bench by his father. It happened this way: Adkins' father got word that President Coolidge was going to name his son to the district supreme court. Hastily seeking out Coolidge, he begged the president not to make the appointment.

"Well," said the amazed Coolidge, "this is extraordinary. You, his father, urging me not to name him to this coveted position. What have you got against him?" The elder Adkins explained that he had nothing against his son, that he had nothing against his son, that he had nothing against his son, that he had nothing against his son.

Those in the know predict that Michigan's Senator Jim Cotzens will not be opposed by a democrat when he runs for re-election next year. Big Jim Farley seems to have passed the word down the line

Highway Wage Plans Offered

Labor Men Present Methods To Correct Conditions

AUSTIN, Dec. 5. (UP)—Three methods were advocated before a house of representatives committee here to prevent what labor men considered evils in working conditions on state highway jobs.

Wallace E. Reilly, Austin, executive secretary of the state federation of labor, urged an amendment to the present law calling for payment of prevailing wages. The amendment would take away from the department letting a contract the right to say what is the prevailing wage and vest the power in the labor department. Such an amendment was defeated at the last regular session of the legislature, after having passed the house.

Other proposals were: Inclusion of specifications of proportionate number of skilled, intermediate and common laborers to be employed. Placing labor inspectors on jobs to see that intermediate workers are not required to do the work of skilled workers for the smaller pay.

R. E. Roberts, Dallas, member of the general executive board of the carpenters' union, said that the most highway work is done under conditions that make it impossible for union men to accept work. He said there was complaint on a recent Dallas underpass job that skilled workers were paid only 50 cents an hour.

W. J. Swartzler, Austin, and T. C. Cagle, San Antonio, testified. Both are contractors. Swartzler said an effort was made to classify as a mechanic a man who could not read or write, and he paid on that basis to avoid trouble. Cagle believed the prevailing wage scales set by the highway commission are right or "if anything, higher than they should be."

Chapter 35 ACCUSATION

"You say you were in the boat with the Sorli brothers," said the sheriff. "Why were you in that boat?"

"John Neuman sent the boys after me when he found the fishermen were determined to take the law into their own hands. He thought that I might appeal to them in the name of Luke Farnsworth, as his daughter."

"You're not his daughter," snapped Tom Farley. "Will you let me take care of this, Farley?" roared the sheriff. "I think you'd better get out in the other office, before I . . . well you'd better go."

"You can't put me out of here, I'm an attorney."

"And you're not on this case. The other room."

"As the door closed behind him, the sheriff turned again to Anne. "Continue, please."

"We saw the men leaving in their boats and followed them in ours, taking a final chance to reach them."

"You say 'ours'?"

"I own a third interest. You were not in that boat when it got back to port." The chief made this statement.

"No," she agreed, "I've tried all along to protect my identity. When I realized I was too late to help, I only wanted to go back to the peace of being just Nikki. The boys took me to Hunter's wharf, and I walked back to town."

"If you were so eager to protect your identity, why did you come to the sheriff's office and give yourself up?"

"Give myself up?" she repeated. "You don't understand. Mina, she's the boys' sister, told me they were being held because a gun had been found in the boat. I knew they couldn't have fired that shot, because Orvi was still at the engine and George at the wheel, when . . . must I repeat that?" she begged.

"I'm afraid so. Tell me exactly what happened."

Anne told him of someone calling her name, of something whizzing past her head, of seeing Lee Farnsworth fall even as she turned to look at him.

"I remember a boat bumping in to ours and then hearing a thud," she recounted. "I believe whoever did the shooting threw the gun into our boat then."

"And you came down here to free them with your testimony, was that it?" he asked.

"Yes, and please may we all go home now?" The shock of Uncle Lee's death is almost more than I can stand. He was the only one in the family who was good to me."

Anne felt that if she couldn't reach the piquancy of her room, she would break before these men who eyed her so accusingly, so silently accusing.

"Miss Nikki," there was tolerance in the sheriff's voice, sympathy even, "where did you get the gun?"

"What gun?" she asked. "Perhaps the boys had it and you didn't know about it," he surmised.

"You mean—" she paused in consternation, "you mean you don't believe what I've just told you?"

He shook his head. "Sorry, my girl, but the easiest thing for all of us is for you to get clean; tell the whole truth; get it off your mind. You'll suffer if you don't."

Anne surveyed him pityingly. "I've told you the whole truth," she said calmly.

"You've told me your version. I know from questioning the Sorli brothers that they were protecting someone. I didn't realize it was a girl. Yes, Harry," as the deputy came to the door a slip of yellow paper in his hand.

The sheriff took the slip, studied it and looked at Anne. Where before there had been pity, there was now only stern condemnation.

"One more question, Miss Nikki," he said, and his voice was cold and metallic. "Why did you carry your foster father's gun away from the Portland home, when you left?"

"I didn't carry any gun away with me," countered Anne in wonder.

"Miss Nikki," he pointed to the slip of yellow paper. "The gun which fired the shot that killed Lee Farnsworth is registered to Luke Farnsworth. It disappeared from the house about the time of your departure. It was found in a boat at the scene of the shooting. You were in that boat. You didn't come to the wharf like an innocent person, you sneaked in; walked two miles out of your way, to keep from being found."

"Young woman, you killed Lee Farnsworth."

Anne listened to the sheriff in sharp amazement. The words fell with the driving force of hammers, pounding nails into her heart staples into her memory. She had thought she needed courage before, but now . . . Luke, or John . . . she needed someone to stand by her in this moment and give her strength.

"You are wrong," she heard herself saying calmly, and then her voice broke. "I love Uncle Lee, please let me go now!"

"Take her Harry." The sheriff nodded towards the deputy.

Anne started forward eagerly, moving toward the door of the outer office, but the deputy caught her arm and swung her, gently, in the opposite direction.

They passed through a door, into a corridor. The deputy motioned the jailer, who brought out a ring of keys, fitted one into the lock of a door, and opened it.

Anne stared before her. There was a big, white room and in it small compartments, divided one from the other by iron bars. She heard the door clang behind her. Obviously she started to follow the deputy across polished linoleum to a desk, behind which sat a plump, white clad matron.

"A girl for you, Mrs. Nelson," said the deputy.

Anne looked at the floor, which was buckling beneath her feet. She looked once to see the plump woman spring into action, brush the deputy aside. She caught Anne in her arms.

"I own a third interest," stammered Anne, with shivering dignity. She looked at the matron who seemed gyrating about at one side of her at the white bars which whirled around. It reminded her of a composite picture on the motion picture screen.

"Tech-tech-tech," said the matron between her teeth, propelling her towards one of the small cubicles. "Soaking wet," she added.

"Well, let's book her and get it over," suggested Harry.

"Book her my eye," retorted the matron. "I'm going to get the child to bed."

Anne shuddered violently. "Cold," she managed between chattering teeth.

"Open that door, Harry."

Anne stepped over the grating at the bottom of the door, saw a white cot and sank onto it.

"Harry," the matron was still snapping orders, take this key, go to my locker and bring that brown wool robe. Then put a teakettle of water to heat on the gas plate.

"I've got to get back."

"Do what I tell you."

"Oh, all right."

Anne sat dazed as the woman stooped over, pulled off her white sneakers, her stockings, loosened her slacks, pulled them off, slipped a plain white gown over her head, then wrapped her in the brown robe Harry brought her.

The matron was one a few moments, then returned with a hot water bottle for Anne's feet, and a steaming glass of hot lemonade for her to drink.

Anne's teeth chattered against the edge of the glass until she feared she might break it, but she tried until it was done, and then she was allowed to sink back, fatigued, racked her bones like physical blows.

Dimly she tried to follow the events of the evening. She was in jail. That was funny, she, Anne Farnsworth. No, Nikki Nielsen was in jail. Wouldn't Aunt Charlotte and Sharice gloat? But, no Uncle Lee was dead, someone shot him.

She heard her name mentioned. "Anne Farnsworth. She's traveling under Nikki Nielsen, but the sheriff says he figures the other's her legal one."

There was the scratch of pen on paper.

"Hold for investigation," Harry prompted.

Again the scratch of the pen which seemed intolerable to Anne's nerves.

"No charge yet. District Attorney's calling the grand jury in the morning, and by the time they're through she'll be held for the murder of Lee Farnsworth."

Anne was flushed with sudden copyright. (Copyright, 1935, Jeanne Bowman)

TOWNSEND PROGRAM IS STILL LIVE ISSUE, SULLIVAN WRITES

Advocates Better Organized, Plan Certain To Be Brought Up At Next Congress

By MARK SULLIVAN
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—When the "Townsend plan" failed to make much headway in congress last winter, many took it for granted the plan would go the way of other "white rabbits" that swarmed during the depression. Actually, the Townsend plan is today much more formidable. The promoters of it have now organized along lines that made the Anti-Saloon league successful as an agency in bringing about national prohibition. Many of the present workers in the Townsend movement had experience in the Anti-Saloon league. The same atmosphere is created of association with churches, church leaders, and church folks. The literature is sprinkled with quotations of Bible texts. The movement is given the spirit of a holy cause.

Movements like the Townsend plan, the Anti-Saloon league, the Ku Klux Klan and others rest on two American traits. The basis is a popular emotional responsiveness to causes which inspire numbers of people regard as altruistic, religious, patriotic, or otherwise appealing. Once the cause shows itself to be infectious, there appear men with gifts of organization, publicity and propaganda. There has come to be an immense number of these, who from experience have learned a technique of organization and who can make a modest living out of a well-developed system of small fees collected from membership, from voluntary collections taken up at meetings, publication of a periodical devoted to the cause, sales of buttons, banners, and other paraphernalia. I do not mean to imply that the workers in the Townsend plan are mercenary. The total receipts from July, 1934 to September, 1935 are reported as $636,803. The percentage which the full-time organizers and other paid workers receive and divide is comparatively small.

Clubs Organized
 In the Townsend plan as in the Anti-Saloon league, the unit of organization is the congressional district. The aim is to have in the villages, towns and rural communities of each district one hundred "Townsend clubs," co-ordinating to bring pressure on the member of congress or the candidate. Over the clubs in each district is a board which passes upon candidates for nomination or election to congress. This strategy looks to the fact that in the election next November, and in party primaries next spring and summer, candidates will be chosen for every one of the 425 seats in the lower house. At the same time one-third of the senate seats, 32 out of 98, will be filled.

The effect of tactics directed toward next year's election would show in the new congress which will not sit until January, 1937. However, because practically every one now in congress is a candidate for re-election, the effect of the Townsend campaign will show in the session of the present congress, which opens Jan. 3 next. That the effect will be formidable and immediate syndicated by a recent happening in Michigan. In a Republican primary to fill a vacancy in congress, one candidate was supported by the Townsend clubs. He received more votes than four other candidates combined. The following day, Townsend plan headquarters in Washington reported cheerfully that fifteen members of congress, alert to rising political breeze, called up to ask for literature about the plan.

Linked With Inflation
 The country will have to look at the Townsend plan as a movement perhaps as formidable as the Anti-Saloon league was in its beginning stage. Whether the Townsend movement will go on to success as the Anti-Saloon league once did depends on conditions differing from those that affected the anti-saloon movement. The Townsend plan is coupled with inflation. If inflation comes, the Townsend

Lewis' Move May Bring On Labor Fight

Controversy Over Organization Has Been Brewing For Years

By HERBERT PLUMMER
 AP Staff Writer
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (UP)—Organized labor long has been expected the division within its ranks between craft and industrial unionists to be brought out into the open by some incident such as the resignation of John L. Lewis as vice president of the A.F.L.

The controversy has been working its way to the surface for years. A fight to the finish is in prospect between the old-line craft and trade unions and the newer industrial or vertical unions. The issue involved is whether the workers in a given industry are to be enrolled in a single union without relation to their skill or lack of it as craftsmen.

William Green, president of A.F.L., heads the trade unionist group. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, heads the group fighting for unit unionization of the mass production industries.

The A.F.L. was founded on the trade union plan, but it has risen to a place of power through the unions in the mass production industries.

Figures Again
 The fiscal fallacy of this has been explained again and again. But it will do no harm—and perhaps no good, either—to give the figures once more. Two hundred dollars a month is two thousand four hundred dollars a year. Twenty-four hundred dollars a year for eight million persons, estimated as the number of beneficiaries, would be nineteen billion, two hundred million dollars a year. This year, the total national income is about sixty billions. That is, the cost of the Townsend plan would be just about a third of the national income. In other words, persons under sixty would be compelled to give a third of their wages or income to support these over sixty. It just isn't possible. Even if we had the good will, the thing is financially impossible. We can give the old two hundred dollars a month if at all only by saying ten cents in a dollar, or giving the name "dollar" to what is now a dime. That would be the familiar process of inflation.

To all such figures and arguments the answer of the sincerely exalted Townsends is, "to God all things are possible." But I think that God knows arithmetic as well as the rest of us.

Miss Fannie Stephens arrived Tuesday from Dallas. She is on a two months' leave of absence which she will spend in Big Spring.
