1933 Meeting To Be Sought By Delegation

'It's Our Time', Directors Of Local Chamber Declare; Plans Started

Arrangements will be made to run a special train from Big Spring to the fourteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce...

Directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Monday evening, voted to put forth every possible effort to have a large representation at Sweetwater...

An On-to-Sweetwater committee to be in charge of mobilizing the delegation will be named at once by President T. W. Ashley of the local chamber.

It was pointed out at Monday evening's meeting here that Big Spring is the largest city in West Texas that has not entertained a general convention of the West Texas Chamber. It has met in Abilene twice, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Ranger, San Angelo, Brownwood, El Paso and this year will be in Sweetwater.

It is realized that the fact that this year's meeting will be held so near Big Spring will work against the city's 1932 chances. However, inasmuch as the other contestants for 1933—Mineral Wells and Amarillo—have entered the organization in the past, local observers believe Big Spring's chances are as good as any.

The Literary Digest's advance report of results of its special classified prohibition poll declares clergyman vote driest and lawyers wettest of professional groups in the country.

The bankers of the nation rank next to the clergy in their dry sentiment and the physicians vote practically as wet as the lawyers, according to the Digest's information.

District of Columbia clergymen voted nearly 4 to 1 for repeal of the 18th amendment. Names and addresses of the clergymen of the District of Columbia were taken from the latest denominational year book or the latest Washington city directory and included 79 clergymen of all denominations, says the Digest.

The clergymen in six states voted more than 4 to 1 for continuance of the prohibition amendment and the driest states, North Carolina, went 7 to 1 in that direction.

In the 1930 prohibition poll 57.59 per cent of the clergymen voted for enforcement of the Prohibition Act, while in the current poll the vote for continuance of prohibition is 54.868 per cent of the total vote.

The Texas poll by professions follows: Bankers, for continuance 1-132, for repeal 1,579; clergy, for continuance 903, for repeal 456; lawyers, for continuance 657, for repeal 1,295; physicians, for continuance 724, for repeal 1,381.

In 1920 the Texas poll by professions was: Bankers, for enforcement 1,605, for modification 661, for repeal 1,065; clergy, for enforcement 1,186, for modification 131, for repeal 322; lawyers, for continuance 847, for modification 420, for repeal 980; physicians, for enforcement 940, for modification 499, for repeal 758.

Midland Man Held For Death Of Jess Fore, 23, Cowpuncher, Killed In Apartment House There Sunday

MIDLAND—John McGaughey is being held here for action of a grand jury impaneled Monday, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting here Sunday of Jess Fore, 23-year-old cowpuncher.

Fore was shot to death Sunday at about 1:30 p. m. in the Haley apartments on West Wall street. McGaughey waived examining trial.

In a statement to officers McGaughey indicated family trouble as the cause of the shooting claiming his wife was about to leave him because of Fore's alleged alienation of her affections. He said Fore was breaking up his home. The McGaugheys have a 12-year-old son.

The shooting took place in the second story of the apartment house, when Fore and McGaughey met in Fore's room to talk the matter over, as a witness told authorities. Mrs. McGaughey was with them. Jeff Cowden, Midland man, was in his apartment between those of Fore and McGaughey and heard part of the conversation between them. He said while they were talking Date Layman, another Midland man, drove up outside and called for McGaughey, that McGaughey went out leaving his wife and Fore, and talked with Layman for a short time. He said the report of a gun sounded almost immediately upon the reentry of McGaughey to Fore's apartment.

Fore was shot just under the left eye with a .38 special, double action Smith & Wesson revolver, authorities said. They said Fore's face was powder burned. Death was almost instant. Peace Justice Gledhill held an inquest and returned a homicide verdict.

McGaughey and Fore had worked on ranches and at other jobs, McGaughey having run a restaurant here for a time. For the past few months Fore had been working on a ranch in Midland county. He and McGaughey had been friends until a few months ago, when their friendship was terminated in a fight. Fore beat McGaughey, court testimony shows, and paid a fine. He went back to work on a ranch.

Fore returned to Midland Friday night and on Saturday night talked to Jeff Cowden, assemblyman, regarding some of the aspects of the trouble between him and McGaughey. He took an apartment adjoining Cowden's on the east. McGaughey, his wife and son lived in the apartment joining Cowden's on the west.

Cowden told of having knocked on Fore's door Sunday morning, wishing to borrow a match. When he swung the door open he saw Fore standing inside the room, a knife in his hand. Fore explained, according to Cowden, he was afraid the visitor was McGaughey. Cowden said Fore was afraid, presumably, to leave for town, but that he went.

Not long afterward, McGaughey decided to go down town and talk with Fore, McGaughey said to officers. He found Fore and the two returned. The two men, with McGaughey's wife, went into Fore's apartment, and began talking. Cowden, in the adjoining apartment, did not hear all that was said.

F. H. E.'s Denman Drills Plug; Mann & Currie Progress

Two Howard county tests were ready to be drilled in to producing formations Tuesday.

Schermerhorn-Winton Co. No. 4 Kloh had cemented pipe at 1,730 feet and was preparing to test the shallow pay. Fifty-six feet of broken pay had been drilled, company officials said.

F. H. E. Oil company's No. 1 Denman had drilled out plug and was 15 feet below pipe set at 2,350 feet. Schermerhorn's test is 1370 feet from the south line and 2590 feet from the west line of section 13, block 33, township 2 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, Howard county—between the Roberts-Settles and the Phillips-Coffee areas.

The F. H. E. well is three-fourths of a mile southeast of Harrison's No. 1 Denman producer and is located 330 feet from the north line and 2310 feet from the east line of section 14, block 30, township 1 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, eastern Howard county.

Harrison's No. 2 Denman was drilling ahead from 875 feet. It is a south offset to Harrison's No. 1 Denman.

American Maracaibo Co. No. B-1 Settles, 330 feet from the south and 1650 feet from the west line of section 13, block 29, W&N.W. survey, was finishing tubing preparatory to going on production.

This well recently was plugged back from 2,979, the old producing level, to 2,377 feet. A whipstock was set at 2,865 feet and the hole drilled to 2,480 feet. It was shot with 60 quarts from 2,405-65 feet.

Peck and Service's No. 1 Gillen, west extension test of the Phillips Coffee area, was drilling ahead from 1,445 feet Saturday evening. Ten-inch had been set at 1,075 feet. This test is in section 21.

Mann & Currie's No. 1 Fee, north of Garden City in Glasscock county, bottomed hole at 1,055 feet in red rock and at the end of last week was underreaming 10-inch from 935 feet.

Penn Oil Co. et al No. 1 Habenstein, western Glasscock county wildcat, was bottomed at 639 feet in red rock, underreaming 12 1/2 inch pipe.

Corrected location for the Penn test is 2427 feet from the west and 2645 feet from the south line of section 47, block 38, township 3 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey.

The Mann & Currie location is in section 27, block 34, township 3 south.

Humble's No. 3 Arrington, 1380 feet from the south line and 330 feet from the east line of section 22, block 33, township 3 south, T & P Ry. Co., had spudded 90 feet and was reported preparing to rig up rotary.

Beauty Combined With Efficiency In Settles Shop

In what is considered one of the most beautifully appointed places in West Texas Mrs. J. E. Payne has opened the Settles Hotel Beauty Shop, on the mezzanine floor of the Settles building here.

Mrs. Payne, formerly proprietor of the Modern Beauty Shop, and known as a successful operator and proprietor for the past three years, has on her staff Signa Scarborough, Mrs. Kirby Miller and Miss Blanche Cook, all well-known to women of Big Spring and vicinity.

The Settles shop is done in modernistic mode, with furnishings in ivory and green. Each operator has her own private booth, each booth completely equipped. There is a special shampoo booth. The furnishings are all in harmony with the general green-and-ivory theme of the decorations.

Much new equipment was installed when Mrs. Payne opened the shop a few days ago.

Miss Nell Hatch will be toastmistress for the occasion. Music will be furnished by the Winslow orchestra. A pupil of Mrs. Lee Weathers will give a reading.

Each candidate will be given an opportunity to speak briefly.

Among other candidates expected are Jesse C. Levens and J. E. Lockhart of Lubbock, Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield and Clyde E. Thomas of Big Spring, all candidates for the state senate.

Five Injured In Motor Collision

Mrs. C. M. Tate and her two-year-old daughter, injured Monday afternoon in an automobile collision two miles east of Stanton, were discharged from Big Spring hospital Tuesday morning.

Five persons were hurt in the accident. Mr. Tate was given emergency treatment here. Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Shaw of Midland, riding in the other machine figuring in the collision, were removed to a hospital there. Mrs. Shaw received a hip injury and Mr. Shaw a severe laceration on the hand.

Mrs. Tate had cuts about the face, and an injury to the knee. The baby suffered considerably from shock.

The Tates, traveling in a light coupe, were enroute to their home near here from the west. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, in a light coach, were enroute to their home in Midland. Both automobiles were badly damaged in the crash, which happened at 2 p. m.

Cardinal Oil Company's No. 2 Settles, latest producer in Howard county, deepened Sunday from 2,355 to 2,401 feet with an increase in oil all the way down. Swabbing began with 1,100 feet of oil in the hole but after about 200 barrels had been swabbed in two to three hours without materially lowering the column the motor burned out, necessitating a shutdown.

No. 2 Settles likely will not be drilled deeper and will resume testing on the swab Tuesday or Wednesday, Sunday's brief test afforded little further idea as to what the well will be good for. When pay topped at 2,325 feet had been entered 10 feet Saturday and the well was swabbed for a short time without lowering 700 feet of oil, the operators estimated that No. 2 Settles would be good for 400 barrels.

After the oil was struck over week ago at 2,325 feet, 8 1/4-inch casing was run and cemented there, and standard tools were substituted for rotary equipment.

No. 2 Settles is 1,896 feet from the north line and 2,304 feet from west line of section 6, block 32, township 2 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, 472 feet southeast of Cardinal No. 1 Settles, which was completed for initial production of 1,600 barrels daily on the pump.

Major Shift In G. O. P. Policy On Prohibition Seen In 'Flirtation' With Wets; Hyde For Resubmission

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Hoover administration's flirtation with anti-prohibitionists is now taken to forebode a major shift in the republican party's attitude on the liquor issue.

One of the most significant indications was the declaration by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, the dry cabinet member, in favor of resubmission. Hyde will urge the republican national convention to adopt the "Missouri plank" urging reconsideration of the 18th amendment by a national constitutional convention restricted to that one issue.

Hyde is credited with a part in working out the "Missouri plank." As head of the Missouri delegation to the national convention, he is under instruction to urge its inclusion in the national party platform.

Though Hyde told the United Press President Hoover had nothing to do with the plank, it is a part of republican strategy to utilize such a well known dry as Hyde to batter down the opposition of dry forces.

Practically all President Hoover's political advisers favor a shift on prohibition. Their difficulty lies in modifying the organized dries who have supported the republicans in presidential elections.

Under the leadership of Senator Borah, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U. and Bishop Cannon, the dry votes were mobilized for Mr. Hoover in 1928. The danger of offending these dries and provoking retaliation is the greatest difficulty which the republican high command faces.

It explains the way in which this group, privately regarding prohibition as a failure in its present form, is gingerly approaching the resubmission issue.

Their desire to break away from the traditional republican law enforcement platform is increased by the expectation that the democrats will nominate an anti-prohibition candidate on a referendum platform.

Republicans have been consistently opposed by potentia on the domestic side. The Smith-Roosevelt conflict has assumed more ominous proportions. Smith's declaration at the Jefferson dinner that he would fight to the "bitter end" whetted interest in Roosevelt's speech at St. Paul last night.

Woman Causes Excitement In Court Room

Wife Of Defendant Screams, Collapses As She Leaves Stand

What had been just another 'plea of guilty trial' was made exciting for a few minutes Tuesday morning when Mrs. H. D. Hughes, wife of one of the defendants in a robbery with firearms case, collapsed as she left the witness stand.

Mrs. Hughes crumpled, screaming, to the floor in front of the jury box as her testimony was finished. Sheriff Jess Slaughter and others rushed to her assistance and she was revived in a few minutes.

Mrs. Hughes had testified that with her husband and Frank Bowman, his co-defendant, she drove to the L. F. Lawrence store at Luther, 16 miles northeast of here. She said the men entered but she did not know what occurred there. She denied that she had knowledge of any plans for a holdup.

Mr. Lawrence, on the stand Monday, said the men held him up at gun point, bound him, cursed him and left him gagged. He was freed by his wife, summoned by some campers who had stopped near the store, he said.

Bowman and Hughes were arrested at a tourist camp here the day after the Luther holdup.

They are represented by Charlie Sullivan, C. C. Collins and Walton Morrison, appointed by Judge A. S. Maurey. The court's charge was read Tuesday afternoon. The case was expected to reach the jury by nightfall.

65 Farm Boys Enter County Crop Contest

Committee Gratified Over Interest Being Manifested

Sixty-five boys of Howard county have notified a joint committee of farmers and members of the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee that they wish to enter milo maize and cotton production contests to be conducted during the coming season.

Fred Keating, agriculture committee chairman, reporting Monday evening to the Chamber of Commerce directors, said that the interest shown in the contests by farmers and boys was very gratifying.

Forty-five boys already have said they would enter the maize contests and about 20 will enter the cotton contests. They hail from twelve Howard county communities.

S. M. N. Marrs, Two Appeals Judges Dead

Funeral In Austin Wednesday For Veteran School Superintendent

(By The Associated Press) Three deaths within 24 hours robbed Texas of S. M. N. Marrs, 70, state superintendent of public instruction; R. H. Buck, associate justice of the second court of civil appeals, Fort Worth, and Hal C. Randolph, 71, associate justice of the seventh court of civil appeals, Austin.

Their deaths brought to four the number of prominent officials claimed within a week. Dr. Paul Horn, president of Texas Technological college, died at Lubbock last week.

Mr. Marrs died at College Station Monday night. Judges Buck and Randolph died Tuesday morning.

Governor Sterling must appoint successors to Messrs. Marrs, Buck and Randolph. All three were seeking re-nomination in the July democratic primary.

Some probability that the Marrs funeral might be delayed until Thursday was seen after request from Nat M. Washer, San Antonio, chairman of the state board of education. He asked the request to allow members of the board to attend.

Mr. Marrs' body was being sent from College Station to Austin Tuesday.

Judge Buck died at his home in Fort Worth. He was a native of Waco and had been a school teacher, newspaper man, lawyer, assistant county attorney and district judge before election to the appellate bench.

Judge Randolph died of bronchitis. His funeral will be held Wednesday in Amarillo. His widow, two sons and a sister survive.

COLLEGE STATION — S. M. N. Marrs, 70, veteran state superintendent of public instruction died here at 9:30 o'clock Monday night of heart disease. He had been stricken on about seven hours earlier.

Marrs was here attending the annual Smith-Hughes judging contests. He suffered the attack this afternoon on the steps of the A. & M. college administration building. He was given first aid and rushed to the college hospital. A brother, R. W. Marrs of Santo, Palo Pinto county, was with him at the time of the attack. Mrs. Marrs reached College Station before her husband's death.

Marrs was serving his fifth two-year term as state superintendent. He came to Texas in 1922 and served as school superintendent at Stephenville, Hamilton, Cleburne and Terrell.

At Terrell 25 Years After remaining at Terrell 25 years he went to Austin in 1919 to become chief supervisor of high schools under state Annie Webb Blanton, then state superintendent. He later became first assistant superintendent.

Athletics Compulsory

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY at Waco is rather sole on the idea expressed in the old Latin phrase, the meaning of which was a sound mind in a sound body.

The university faculty acted on a resolution introduced by Head Coach Morley Jennings, in which the requirement for physical education of freshmen male students was extended one additional year and made to include sophomores as well as first-year men.

The course, as outlined, is not concerned solely with physical exercise, but includes a balanced course in physiology, general hygiene, principles of education and other topics. The object is to improve the physical equipment of the student, as well as to fit him for work as an instructor along physical lines.

The Waco News-Tribune headline phrased it, "Athletics Listed as Compulsory at Baylor next year." That may give misleading impression on a number of points.

Young men interested in the development of their physical equipment are not likely to engage in vices and habits that will prove a bar or a drawback to such development. A healthy interest in wholesome sports and physical exercise is one of the finest products of our modern educational system.

the MAN HUNTERS
BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SUSAN CAREY, 19 pretty and an orphan, lives with her AUNT JESSIE on the West Side of Chicago. On finishing a business course she is employed by ERNEST HEATH, architect. She meets JACK WARING, man about town, and RAY FLANNERY, stenographer in the office across the way. Waring seems flirtatious but Susan discourages him. MRS HEATH openly snubs Susan. BOB DUNBAR, young millionaire, who attends business school with her, invites Susan to lunch, starts to say something important and is interrupted by DENISE ACKROYD, society girl. Dunbar sails for Europe and Susan realizes she cares deeply for him. BEN LAMPMAN, another admirer, takes her to a studio party but she hates his friends. Aunt Jessie departs to visit her sister and ROSE MILTON, slightly older than Susan, comes to stay with her. Susan, lonely, accepts Waring's invitation for an evening's fun. Ray Flannery and another man go with them. They go from one noisy pleasure resort to another and Susan is disgusted. When Waring takes her home he kisses her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV
"Well, you are a fine one!" Rose exclaimed.
Susan did not answer because for the moment she was too busy fumbling about in her purse for her key. She was conscious only of an exquisite sense of relief. It was enough to be safe at home with that nightmare behind her.
"I waited and waited," Rose was saying bitterly. "There wasn't anyone I knew to call, although I nearly did give Ben a ring," Susan gasped in horror.

"Oh, thank Heaven you didn't!"
"Well, I like that!" Rose stood transfixed, eyeing her. "You are a cool one! Here I've been fretting myself sick for the last three hours!"
They were in the living room now and Susan, having switched on the lights, sank into a comfortable chair. Rose pursued her grievance. "You haven't even told me whom you were with or anything," she said, annoyed. Susan could have laughed from sheer relief but she didn't dare. Rose was so much in earnest.

"If you'll just let me get my breath," Susan begged, "I'll tell you all about it. I don't blame you a bit for being furious, but honestly it wasn't my fault. I tried and tried to break away hours ago. It was ghastly!" She shuddered at the memory. How could she have been such a fool as to envy other girls those casual "dates" she boasted of? She knew now that she had been better off at home with Aunt Jessie sewing or reading, no matter how much she had resented the dullness of it. Well, she had had her lesson. She interrupted Rose's continued plaint to cross the room and stare at herself in the mirror.
"Do I look older?" she inquired.
"I feel it—years and years."
"You look a fright," Rose assured her with a best friend's frankness. "You're pale as a ghost and there are rings under your eyes."
Susan slipped an arm around Rose's waist. "Please don't be so cross," she said. Then to an accompaniment of "ohs" and "ahs" and "I don't believe it!" she poured out the whole story of her adventure. When she had finished Rose crossed the room and stared at herself in the mirror.
"That was all. Having said her say Susan was content to forget the affair and Susan was grateful to her. She knew the story would drop off to sleep but so superb was her health and so clear her conscience, now that her fault was confessed, that in five minutes she was breathing deeply and evenly, safe in the land of dreams.

The next morning, however, the ordeal came flooding back to her. She began to worry. What if Mr. Heath should find out? What if Ray should talk? Susan knew her own conduct would bear a close scrutiny but she also knew how such matters can be distorted. She arrived at the office in a fever of apprehension.
Everything seemed quite as usual. There was Pierson at his high desk with his ledgers spread out before him. There was the neat little pile of mail to be sorted and, in five minutes, there was Mr. Heath, dapper and well groomed as ever. Susan felt like a thief and a coward as she returned his cheery good morning. Quite well she knew what would be his opinion of her part in last night's entertainment. She valued his esteem. It had, in fact, become necessary and important to her. Because she was a woman she knew that esteem had been increasing of late. Little things that had happened, words dropped by Pierson, the occasional flash of approbation from Heath's keen eyes had told her that.
"Do you have that Walker correspondence?" he asked. She had, and laid it before him.
"Good girl," he smiled at her. "You seem to know what I want these days before I know myself." Susan flushed, deeply and rosily. This was high praise, indeed, from Ernest Heath. Confusedly she murmured her thanks. They went on with the morning's work and nothing more of a remotely personal nature passed between them. Still the glow remained. Susan felt it and Ernest Heath felt it.

The man thought, "Dash it all, that's a nice girl and a smart one, too. I shall be almost sorry to see Miss O'Connell come back." Treasure indeed this was to Miss O'Connell who for seven years had toiled over his files, had worked overtime without complaint, had bought birthday presents for his wife, who had, in fact, been the perfect model of a selfless secretary.
Susan thought, "I feel a hypocrite letting him say that." But the glow warmed her just the same. She went about all day with the lift in her heart. It seemed a divine dispensation that Jack Waring had been sent to South Bend that morning. Susan had a little more time to compose herself for the ordeal of meeting him again.

When it actually did happen it was not nearly so bad as she had expected. The South Bend business dragged on for days and it was not until the following week that she and Waring met. There was a brief interchange of greetings. The man was as cool and composed as if they were complete strangers. Susan, answering his "good morning" as calmly as possible, began to think she had fanned the episode of the kiss. She felt immensely relieved.
"Well, that's that," she told herself. What she had been dreading so bad came to pass and proven her fears groundless. Maybe life was always like that. She hoped so.

Susan had been avoiding Ray ever since the night the latter and Scully Webb had completed the foursome. But she could not do this forever. Ray's puppy-like friendliness knew no reserves and recognized few rebuffs. There came the inevitable day when Susan lunched with Ray again. Ray's lunch orders were always faintly preposterous. Her favorite selection was a ham and cheese sandwich, a bowl of baked beans and a chocolate malted milk. It was what she had ordered today.
Susan watched the other girl, fascinated. "I said to Mamma, 'I said, 'It's funny but I haven't seen a thing of Susan since the night we had the double date?' She sank her sharp, little white teeth into the appalling sandwich and continued in a slightly muffled voice, "I said it's funny, but it kinda seemed like Susan didn't have a good time that night."
Ray's round, incredibly fringed eyes searched Susan's. The other girl wriggled uncomfortably.
"What I always say is," Ray went on, "when you get a fellow who's a good spender like Waring you ought to be thankful. Most of these kids around are penny pinchers, and if they take a girl to a movie they think they're showing her high life or something. Waring's different. He knows his way around, and baby, can he dance?"
Susan started to speak, but discovering Ray's question had been purely rhetorical and a reply was not expected, she sank back in her chair again. The monologue continued.
"If a girl played her cards right and was really smart I think she could land Waring. He's making good money" (Susan wondered how relevantly what other sort of money there might be) "and I think he'd like to get married again."

Susan made a low sound which might have been interpreted as surprise or agreement. "You're a funny guy," Ray pursued, demolishing the last crust and beginning on the baked beans. "He was married a long time, you know, and his wife give him the run-around. I think," finished Ray, "if the girl was the right kind—what I mean, had a little life in her and so forth—she might turn out to be a good husband."

Demurely Susan inquired what Ray's idea of a good husband might be. Ray expounded her theory glibly.
"Well, first of all, I think a man shouldn't expect a girl ever to put her hands in dish water," she said. "When I get married I'm going to live in a hotel and have all the meals sent up. I'm going to have a mink coat and a permanent wave every three months. Not one of these" (she touched her yellow locks disdainfully), "not one of these but an expensive one at that place on Michigan avenue. Then I want a sporty roadster and a chow or maybe—I don't know—a Peking-ee."
Ray's expression was rapt and grateful. Susan wanted to laugh but dared not. As if interpreting her unspoken thoughts Ray turned to her sharply.
"You want to take some advice from me," she said oracularly. "You want to work things the right way and you'll go over big—what I mean, like a million dollars. But you can't go on parties and pull a long face and expect the boys to like it. No kidding!"
Susan stood up. She felt she had had enough of all this. If Ray went on much longer she might have to be rude to her and she didn't want to do that. Ray paid her check, dazed the fountain boy with a smile, and linked her arm companionably in the other girl's. "You mind what I say," she finished, "and you'll be sitting pretty."

The "Experts" cheered— when he proved the value of the GERM PROCESSED "HIDDEN QUART" . . . . .

The "experts" around the general store at Hooper, Nebraska, stuck their tongues in their cheeks when told that Conoco Germ Processed Oil actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. They jeered at the idea of a "Hidden Quart" up in the motor protecting the motor from damage when run with the crankcase drained.

But a champion of Conoco germ Processed Motor Oil accepted their challenge, drained his crankcase and drove 16 miles without damage to the motor. The "experts" were convinced—their jeers changed to cheers!

What a test! And what convincing proof that a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. That always-present film that protected this car will cut down costly starting wear in your car, save you gas and give your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills. With Conoco Germ Processed Oil in your car, you'll drive with peace of mind, knowing you have the safest, surest lubrication.

Remember that only Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. The next time you change oil, get Conoco Germ Processed Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle. . . . .

We neither encourage "dry crankcase" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, tell of this and hundreds of other runs with empty crankcases but without damage.

'MORE DRINKING NOW' SAYS ENEMY; WELL, IS THERE?

"There is more drinking now than when the saloons were run- ning" is a statement we hear con- tinually. It's not so.

The official federal figures show that there were more than twice as many commitments for drunken- ness per population before prohibi- tion. "Current History" magazine printed the figures showing arrests for drunkenness per 10,000 popu- lation in the leading cities of the world. This showed Stockholm (Swedish system), 182; Toronto (Canadian system), 88; Glasgow (license), 89; Montreal (Canadian system), 83; Liverpool (license), 55; London (license), 50; Paris (license), 47; New York (prohibi- tion), 18.

The wets wail because prohibi- tion, in spite of organized lawless- ness, is too effective.

A Meditation For Nineteen Hundred Thirty-Two

Who cry the loudest for more bat- tlehips And guns methinks, are those af- flicted with A selfish greed for gain: And those who prate "The Prohibition Law is not en- forced." And most desire to have repeal are they. Who thirst for gold, nor care that broken homes And hearts result; that children run or hide From fathers demonized by fiery drink.

Le: those remembering scenes of former days, Paint graphic pictures—warning to our youth Who ne'er have seen the bloodshot eyes of men Who staggering from saloons at every turn With zigzag gait sought refuge in their homes. Their mates bent to the task of earning bread For pale and ragged children, while their sires In drunken stupor slept the price- less hours Away, God pity them! And yet, methinks, The selfish men who make—and ply this most Nefarious trade—the guiltier are, before The judgment seat of God, who bade all men Beware of evil brew of serpent bites And adder stings, wherein lurk death and woe.

For America—the Beautiful, we pray. Renascent be the spirit of Wash- ington; Of Lincoln; Beecher; of Frances Willard, too; Of Christian patriots; and which shall rise To fight all wrong, and stay the awful Reign Of Terror in our Land whose minted coin Proclaims our Nation's faith, "In God we trust." O, Lord of Hosts, be with us yet; and grant A sober people and a warless world.

Election time comes on apace, God give Us still—Republican or Democrat— Good men and brave, from Presi- dential Chair To least in all the line of officers— A service bent on Nobler Common- wealth. L.M.B.

Mrs. G. A. Brown returned home Sunday with her daughter, Nell. She is not yet strong enough to have many visitors.

Jim Ferguson To Open Ma's Battles Soon

First Speech May Be In Large City, Contrary To Past Practice

AUSTIN (UP) — The Ferguson speaking campaign for Governor will get under way about the middle of May, former Governor James E. Ferguson announced here.

This time the opening may be in one of the big cities instead of in the smaller places, as has been the Ferguson custom in the past. If a city opening is decided upon, the city will still have to be chosen. Possibility that it might be Hous- ton, home city of Governor Ross Sterling, was broached to Ferguson but brought no response. The reason he is considering a change to a city opening is based on population shifts. It used to be, he pointed out, that two-thirds of the population was rural. Now half of it is in the cities.

"Feeling fine politically and awfully bad agriculturally," was the way the former governor expressed himself. "If we do not get some rain I do not know whether the people will be interested in politics at all," he said.

Pointing out that the Democratic primary election is just 90 days from next Saturday, Ferguson evinced considerable interest in whether any announcement has come from Governor Ross Sterling saying whether or not he will be a candidate.

"After the middle of May," he said, "I expected to speak three or four days a week. Then I will devote a couple of days to week to getting a few 'parenthetical re- marks' for the Forum. Radio will also be used."

Looking in excellent physical condition, he appeared ready to go through as strenuous a campaign as any in his history.

Now is the time to try Herald Want-Ads.

Spending to Save ... through ADVERTISING
Not many of us, these days, are troubled with so much money that we cannot spend it. But we are interested in spending the money we have, to get the most out of it.
One way—and not a new way, either—is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that comes in. Put down beside it, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing, so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.
It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, breakfast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost, before you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here, a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!

Clem Calhoun Launches Race Calls Allied 'Jimmie, The Giant Killer'; Charges Inconsistency

SHERMAN—A new and challenging personality in statewide politics launched formally here Saturday the 1932 political campaign in Texas and began his own quest for the office of the attorney general.

He is Clem Calhoun, of Amarillo, widely known as the fighting prosecutor who cleaned up Borger, and he began his campaign at his old home town today by hurling the gage of battle at Attorney General James V. Allred.

Characterizing Mr. Allred as "Jimmie the Giant Killer," Calhoun charged that the attorney general has the "instincts of a dictator who would rob the people of the right of home rule."

"His meddlesome attempt to deprive the people of their exemption from payment of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes," said Calhoun, "convicts him of negligence of the public welfare in favor of his personal and political career."

"I refer to the attempt of Mr. Allred to invalidate the levies enacted by the legislature to remit penalties and interest on taxes delinquent up to and including October 1931. It was a relief measure enacted in times of acute public distress. Yet Mr. Allred, sworn to safeguard the public interest, assailed it as unconstitutional. The Supreme Court over-ruled him, however; handed him a spanking on that."

"Inconsistent!"

Calhoun charged the attorney general with flagrant inconsistencies between pre-election pledges and his official report of policy in office. He said:

"Posing as the champion of the poor, who even now are poorer, he tried personally to get through the legislature a bill which would have set him up as a dictator," Calhoun continued. "That was the Bradley bill which would have empowered the attorney general to dictate to court commissioners in the matter of fixing tax valuations on property in which tax remissions had been granted.

"Moreover, he would have made it so that the attorney general would sit in at a dictate to all meetings of county commissioners treating upon such matters. He would require county clerks to notify the attorney general of such hearings. Failure to do would be official misconduct. Further to entrench himself in his would-be dictatorship, Mr. Allred had written into the bill a clause which would have made county clerks subject to trial at Austin. The legislature balked. The bill failed.

"That was an attack on the right of home rule, both in the matter of taxation as well as in the matter of democratic justice. There is too much centralization of government. The right of home rule should be jealously guarded instead of cunningly abrogated. It is outrageous that the law should compel an accused to stand trial among strangers."

Calhoun referred to the Small River Bed bill, which Allred attacked as unconstitutional, as another instance in which the attorney general deprived landholders of their titles to river bed land bought in good faith from the state.

Oil Suits

Referring to the attorney general's ouster suits against the major oil companies of Texas, Calhoun said:

"After putting the state to enormous expense at a time when economy is the watchword and taxes are ruinous, Jimmie the Giant Killer is in the awkward position of finding himself with virtually no case whatever because the trial court ordered so much of it stricken that there is nothing left, but Jimmie's desire for what he hoped would be an issue. It is not. He went off half-cooked, as usual."

In closing Calhoun said that "the office of the attorney general should not be used as a political football or prostituted for private political ambition. If I am elected to it I shall not become a candidate for any other office while occupying it or during the period for which I am elected."

Clem Calhoun is a lawyer and a soldier who began the lean road to achievement as a farm boy in Grayson County. He worked his way through Austin College, through a law course at the University of Texas, and, at the outbreak of the war, into the army as a private. He came out as a lieutenant.

He began his record as a dynamic prosecutor at Pecos, serving there and at El Paso before Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson named him district attorney of the 39th judicial district. There he became the terror of bar robbers and killers and earned the sobriquet of "Sand 'Em Up" Calhoun. He is 36 years old.

When Borger gangsters topped their terrorism with the assassination of District Attorney John A. Holmes, Gov. Dan Moody drafted Calhoun to "go in and end outlawry." Nineteen days later the governor's laconic comment was, "And he did it!"

NEW DISCOVERIES CONFIRM VIRTUES OF BRAN IN DIET

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green packages. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

40000 miles

for better taste

FROM Xanthi and Cavalla... Smyrna and Samsoun... the finest Turkish tobaccos travel 4,000 miles to add flavor and fragrance to CHESTERFIELD.

CIGARETTE smokers owe a lot to Turkish tobacco, for it was cigarettes made out of Turkish tobacco that first became the vogue in this country.

Then it was found that a blend of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos was better than either kind of tobacco straight. It takes just the right amount of the right kind of Turkish tobacco to give a cigarette better taste. For Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the spice—the sauce. You want enough but not too much.

There is just enough Turkish in CHESTERFIELDS to give them a better flavor, a more pleasing aroma; to make them taste better.

Turkish tobacco must pay an import duty of 35c a pound; but cost doesn't count when it comes to making CHESTERFIELD the best cigarette that science and money can produce.
