LOCAL AMUSEMENTS FOR COMING WEEK

Brilliant Cinema Week Opens With 'Hell Divers' At Ritz

Variety of Entertainment Billed At Two R&R Showhouses Greater Than for Months; Schedule Shows

Extremely new and notable pictures continue to appear at the Ritz and Queen Theatres this week. The only stage attraction announced to date, will be under the auspices of the American Legion Friday night. A group of local dancers, singers and entertainers will be seen. It is being staged for the benefit of the recently formed Drum and Bugle Corps.

"Hell Divers," which comes to the Ritz today and tomorrow, could be looked at no more opportune time. With the threat of war in the far east, it shows the fine training and modern equipment of the United States Navy and air corps, which was used by the producers for the making of the American epic of the sea and air.

Queen Film Is Rollicking Fun Picture

'Stepping Sisters' Wednesday and Thursday Feature

While rollicking comedy is the dominating role of "Stepping Sisters," the Fox picture coming to the Queen Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, romance is one of the features of this production.

The most important roles are portrayed by Louise Dresser, Minna Gombell and Jobyna Howland who appear as former queens of burlesque and find themselves on various rungs of the ladder of society, each one fearing in her heart, that her previous occupation of choice will be discovered. Quite by accident they meet at a social function and the fun begins—to continue until the final explosion which finds everybody surprised and happy, if somewhat embarrassed.

Supporting the principals is a cast that includes such well known personalities as William Collier, Sr., Howard Phillips, Stanley Smith,

Freaks From Many Side Shows In Cast of Ritz Picture

"FREAKS," latest contribution of Tod Browning, director of such eerie thrillers as "Dracula" and "The Unholy Three," opens Tuesday at the Ritz theater, as the most fantastic and unusual picture ever produced on the talking screen.

Strangely deformed people gathered from sideshows in every part of the country play prominent roles in this picture, suggested by the story "Spurs" by Tod Robbins, which unfolds an intensely dramatic story of the grotesque love affair of a midge and a scheming trapeze performer who marries him in order that she may inherit his money and run away with the circus. Strong Man who is her real lover.

What is reputed to be the most horrible and actually thrilling climax ever used in a screen story is the revenge taken by the freaks on the ill-fated trapeze artist and her lover when their plot to kill the midge is discovered. The macabre atmosphere of this strange plot has its lighter moments in the attractive romance of Leila Hyams, who plays a seal trainer, and Wallace Ford, as a clown and also in the comedy interludes of such well-known laughmakers as the stuttering Rosco Ates, Edward Brophy and Mat McHugh.

Olga Baclanova has the dramatic role of the trapeze performer and the Strong Man and Midge are played respectively by Henry Victor and Harry Earles, who will be remembered for his outstanding performance in "The Unholy Three." Daisy Earles, Rose Dione and Daisy and Violet Hilton also have important roles.

Among the famous freaks who appear in the picture are Johnny Eck, the boy with half a torso; Hanidan, Living Torso; Schiltale and the Snow Twins, white Pin Heads; Pete Robinson, Living Skeleton; Olga, the Bearded Woman; and Koo Ooo, the Bird Girl. The more familiar sideshow performers, such as the Sword Swallower, Fire-eater, Snake-charmer and Fat Lady are also present.

180 Navy Ships Fly Formation In 'Hell Divers'

Gable, Beery, Nagel, Misses Rambeau, Jordan, Prevost In Cast

One hundred and eighty naval airplanes, in perfect formation, diving and looping in sensational evolutions, is one of the many thrills in the latest film drama of the air, "Hell Divers," co-starring Wallace Beery and Clark Gable, and opening today at the Ritz theater.

This thrill was filmed at a special air review, at North Island, by Admiral H. E. Yarnell, commander of the naval West Coast carrier division.

Battle Maneuvers

Acting of Beery, Gable, Conrad Nagel, Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Rambeau, Marie Prevost and others in a cast of unusual importance, is interspersed with some of the greatest thrills ever staged by the navy. The battle maneuvers in Panama with swarms of planes in the air, and the sensational new Curtiss-Wright "Hell Divers," hurling themselves through space, two miles in less than thirty seconds, the landing of a giant Zeppelin on the air-ship carrier Saratoga, and sensational landings and takeoffs from the gigantic vessel, are among the things caught by camera and microphone.

Through these runs a vivid drama of life with the fighting fleet. Beery is seen as a grizzled veteran of the aviation service, and the central romance, which is a love story with something actually heroic in it, takes place between him and Miss Rambeau who plays a Panama resort keeper.

Old and New Navy

Underlying the drama is the theme of the supplanting of the old ideas in the navy by the new ideas of modern progress. Gable exemplifies the younger school of naval service.

George Hill, noted for "The Big House" and "The Secret Six," directed the new production, most of which was actually filmed with the fleet at Panama, aboard the Saratoga and at North Island.

Humor, The Seriousness of Motherhood, Cowboys, Are All Grist for Local Writer's Mill

For a comparatively small, obscure Western town (here's dodging the Chamber of Commerce) Big Spring seems absolutely and positively determined to put itself on the literary map, at least on the map of contemporary literature.

Mrs. H. S. Faw started springing into prominence about two years ago with her short stories. About that time Miss Grace Gaddis was discovered blushing unseen by the local citizens, but recognized as a poet of marked ability by critics throughout the Southwest. She escaped to San Angelo but not before Big Spring began claiming her. Recently Mrs. J. L. Sullivan's story "The Love Miser" brought more dollars into town for one single literary effort than anything else written by a Big Springite—so far as this reviewer knows.

Now comes Mrs. W. A. Stall, who is both poet, short story writer and contributor of articles to the feature sections of newspapers.

Mrs. Stall, whose pen name is L. Isbell, is a very modest and retiring person. Only for the sake of posterity and that great reading public that will appreciate getting acquainted with her numerous sketches, has she been prevailed upon to allow this interview—and it took much and powerful prevailing at that, with ammunition being fired on all sides.

The same vein of humor which has made Jan Isabelle Fortune one of the most popular writers of the feature section of the Dallas News permeates Mrs. Stall's prose. This is not a comparison of the two sisters. Mrs. Fortune unselfishly insists that Mrs. Stall is the smarter. What Mrs. Stall thinks of herself, if it were put in print, would make the reader wonder why all this space was devoted to her. The point is that the world—even the state—is large enough for them both and that Mrs. Stall belongs primarily to the West.

Readers of the Dallas News, who read "When the Pitter of Little Feet Changes to Clatter" last Sunday had enough chuckles and giggles over it to pass it on to their neighbors. Those who had the chance to read it and didn't deserved their fate and there will be no quotations here.

Mrs. Stall has written more or less spasmodically for several years. Her health has not been good and she has a severe breakdown in Wellington and for that reason Mr. Stall moved her and the children, Lucille Isbell and Louis, to this part of the West. The climate has been good for her and she has had enough rest and quiet and consequently enough time to pound the typewriter to her heart's content—if content is ever achieved by a writer.

She has in manuscript form a novel, "Rodeo," which the Saturday Evening Post has commended highly. She has contributed several feature articles to the Dallas News and to the Houston Post.

Before she came to this city, she wrote a war poem called "Mary Alone," which David Guion, the Texas composer, asked to set to music. The firm of A. Schirmer & Co. published it and the Dallas Penwomen held a special meeting in the Adolphus Hotel in Mrs. Stall's honor, at which the song was sung by Mrs. Leon Elum with Mr. Guion himself at the piano. Later Hilton Greer included it in his anthology of southwestern verse called "Voices of the Southwest."

Philatheas Study Citizenship At February Social

The Philatheas Sunday school class of the First Methodist church met for an all-day social and business session Thursday at the church, with Mrs. O. M. Waters, leading the devotion.

Dr. Spinn made a fine talk on the subject of the meeting, "Citizenship and Democracy."

Among the reports made by the officers were that 31 visits had been made by the class members, 63 telephone calls and 31 cards and letters sent out.

Those attending were Meses. Hal Hart, Calvin Boykin, C. E. Andrews, H. G. Keaton, R. L. Bell, Cecil Burman, T. E. Johnson, T. J. Coffey, Vestie Leverett, Jimmie Mason, C. T. Watson, C. C. Carter, Hugh Duncan, Clyde Watta, Jr., A. Schmitzer, Roy Martin, V. W. Latson, H. V. Crocker, Joe Barbee, J. L. James, John Wotten, W. J. Goodson, A. A. Eden, J. E. Frigg, R. D. McMillan, W. R. Smith, Wayne Parrish and Miss Maggillou Aycock.

Carl S. Blomfield returned Friday morning from Fort Worth where he attended a quarterly meeting of district managers of the Texas Electric Service company.

Miriam Club Members Meet in Coahoma Home

The Miriam club met with Mrs. Maggie Cook, of Coahoma, Friday afternoon. After a business session the members devoted time to piecing a quilt.

Mrs. Walter Miller was a visitor and Mrs. E. J. Todd, also present, was taken in as a new member.

Refreshments of cake, sandwiches, coffee and chocolates were served to the following: Mmes. Miller, Todd, E. G. Dameron, Dee Foster, Lela Andrews, J. A. Kinard, Gene Crenshaw, J. N. Cagle, Mary Alfred, Glass Glenn, Eula Robinson, Ora Martin, Gracie Lee Greenwood, Lula Harper and C. L. Mann.

Mrs. Todd will be the next hostess.

J.O.Y. Class Has Jolly Party at Elizabeth Graves

The members of the J.O.Y. class of the Methodist church met at the home of Elizabeth Graves at 1601 Gregg street Friday evening for a party.

Valentine motif prevailed in the games and the refreshments.

This present, in addition to the teacher, Miss Alice Leeper, were Zollie Mae Dodge, Faye Yates, Anna Belle Pruitt, Mary Helen Axten, Frances Rogers, Dorothy Hawkins, Dorothy Coleman and Lona Tish Hebison.

Informal Club Meets With Mrs. Steve D. Ford

The members of the Informal Bridge club and their guests were entertained at the home of Mrs. Steve Ford Friday afternoon in Edwards Heights.

Mrs. Biles made high score for club members and Mrs. Temple for visitors.

A delicious plate luncheon was served after the games to the following: Mmes. J. D. Eiles, P. M. Temple, J. B. Young, V. Van Gleason, Homer McNew, Shine Phillips, W. W. Tolman, E. V. Spence, R. T. Piner, A. M. Fisher, A. E. Service and Chas. K. Blivings.

Mrs. McNew will be the next hostess.

Howard County Honor Roll

One of a series of sketches on careers of former boys and girls of Big Spring and Howard County who have gained success in their chosen professions.

Whatever he is called over there is probably lost James, says his sister, Mrs. Geo. Brown, who is in charge of the clothing classes in the home economics department of the Big Spring high school. When he was a youngster his father called him Buckshot. The boys shorted it to BUCK and Buck he will always remain to his Big Spring friends.

He was born in Fairfield, Sept. 1 1901 and moved with his parents to this town at the age of six, finishing high school here in 1919.

He had his college training at Johns Hopkins where he received his B. A. in '24. During his three years there he made varsity football team the first year, was chosen as all-star halfback of Maryland for that year. During his Junior year he was class president and during his senior year, captain of the football team, as well as a member of student council and most popular man of the college. He had another honor that year that was a sufficient distinction in itself; he was chosen as one of eight seniors who in the eyes of the student body had done the most for John Hopkins during their senior year.

His membership of college organizations included the following: Kappa Alpha, Omicron Delta Kappa

(of which he is vice president) and Sigma Chi Beta.

While he was in college he spent his summer at all kinds of occupations: street car conductor at Asbury Park; tent manager for Red path Hornor Chautauqua in a summer tour through nine eastern states.

Straight from college he entered the International Banking Corporation in New York City, dealing with foreign business only.

A year later he sailed for Osaka Japan, for the same concern, whose name is now the National City Bank of New York, where he was located for four and a half years.

His side line was sports, especially tennis and baseball. When he returned home in the spring of 1929 for his vacation he brought with him a number of trophies which he had received in tournaments.

After an eight-months' furlough he returned and was transferred to Harbin, Manchuria in January of last year.

The last letter his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bonner, of Corsicana, received from him (he is unmarried by the way) was dated January 5. At that time war had not developed.

FIRST METHODIST SERVICES

At the First Methodist church the morning sermon will be the third in a series by the pastor, Dr. J. Richard Spinn, entitled "I Believe," rating the Apostle's creed. Today's sermon topic will be "Glorious Our Humanity." There will be special music consisting of an anthem with a violin accompaniment, under the supervision of Mrs. Morris.

In the evening Dr. Spinn's message will be the second in the series, "Present Day Obstacles to Christian Living." The special music will be furnished by the male quartet of the church.

Clifford Jones for Congress

TWO of the three new congressmen at large that Texas will elect this year belong to West Texas, on the basis of population. In the ordinary course of events, with a flock of candidates in the race from all parts of the state, West Texas will not succeed in getting even one of the three, much less two to which she is entitled. The older and more thickly settled sections of the state will outvote one, just as they have in the past.

The only chance West Texas has to elect even one of the three is to concentrate on one man, get behind him with all its strength, and see that he polls practically a unanimous West Texas vote. He must be a man of outstanding accomplishments, of sturdy character, of proved worth and of experienced leadership—a man on whom West Texas can concentrate without having to apologize for him, and on whom they can depend to represent them with dignity, force and sound sense.

The only man we can think of, at the moment, to fill the bill is Clifford B. Jones of Spur. When Jones runs in this year, he probably will blurb, grab his hat, and go for a long walk in the pasture somewhere. "The idea," he'll say, "Why, I haven't given it a moment's thought! I'm not a politician—and besides, I have my hands full already."

All right, Mr. Jones; we know you feel that way about it. But all the same you have never turned a deaf ear to any appeal for the advancement and upbuilding of West Texas and this is one of them. West Texas needs you in Washington, Mr. Jones—and besides, you're the only West Texan who has a chance to get one of those three at-large places. If West Texas gets in after you, and drafts you, you can't say nay. Imagine Clifford B. Jones dodging a responsibility or a call to duty!

What man is better qualified? Mr. Jones has ability of a high order. His work in colonizing ranch lands around Spur will stand as a monument to his genius for organization, for getting things done. His dealings with the purchasers have been fair, honorable and extremely humane. He does not believe in hard-boiled methods. There have been no disruptive foreclosures at Spur; indeed, there have been none of any kind.

As president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its formative years, Mr. Jones set the pattern for efficient and substantial territorial development. He helped lay the foundation upon which that great organization rests.

As a member of the board of Texas Tech, and as the present chairman of that board, Mr. Jones has brought to bear the full force of his personality and his ability, with results that speak for themselves.

In a dozen different capacities, Clifford Jones has served West Texas well and honorably. We believe that West Texas would give him its vote for congressman at large, enthusiastically and almost unanimously.

How about it, West Texas? Do we want at least one of those three new congressmen? Of course. The only way to make sure that we get one is to draft Clifford B. Jones of Spur to make the race. His native modesty will keep him from kicking like a bay steer at being drafted, but let's do it anyway. He would add dignity and poise to a legislative body easily in excess of these qualities, and he would be an invaluable representative of West Texas during the crisis of the great reconstruction period.

JUDGE SMITH IMPROVES

J. H. Chilton, court reporter of the 3rd district, writes that on visiting Judge Fritz R. Smith of that court at his home in Snyder Wednesday morning he found the judge greatly improved after suffering an attack of acute indigestion.

Judge Smith hopes to be back on the bench very soon. Practically all cases have been disposed of for the present term of court at Snyder.

SUNSET PASS

by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Enmity between Trueman Rock and Ash Preston comes to a head at last, in open battle at Amy Dabb's masquerade. Ash does not recognize Rock, but has threatened any cowboy interested in his sister, Thiry. Rock has dared the Prestons' reputation for cattle rustling, hoping to win Thiry's love.

Chapter 35
CONSPIRACY IN THE PINES

In one single action Rock freed himself from Thiry and struck Ash Preston on the side of the face. Ash went down with a thud. Women screamed; men shouted excitedly; and all spread back hurriedly. Up bounded Preston, with caulked quickness, his hand flashing back for his gun. But it was not there. He had passed the sheriff and had forgotten. If it were possible his wolfish face gleamed fiercer. His tawny hair stood up.

"Greaser, I'll kill you for this!" he ground out.

"Caramba!" replied Rock, and made at Preston with terrific fury. His onslaught was like a battering-ram. He cared nothing for Preston's sudden blows. He broke through them, beat him back, and knocked him against the wall.

Ash fell, but got up cursing, to come back wilder than ever, his face red with blood. There was a swift interchange of blows between one from Rock staggered Preston. Another swift and hard hitting sold like an ax on beef. Preston in a long fall. Before he could rise Rock plunged upon him, beat him with right, left, right—tremendous blows that made Ash sink limp.

Rock seized him by the neck, choked and shook him as a terrier with a rat, and raising, dragged him to the fountain and threw him bodily, into the shallow water. Ash lay on his back, his head just above the surface, and though still conscious he did not have strength to get up.

Rock, remembering his mask, felt for it and found it intact. That helped release him from the grip of an awful anger. Thiry's white mask lay where Preston had dropped it. Snatching it up, Rock whirled to Thiry.

"Come—we'll get out of here," he panted hoarsely, and placing a firm hand under her arm he led her away from the gaping crowd, toward the outlet.

Thiry was weak. She leaned on his arm. Still she kept up with his rapid steps. Not for three blocks did Rock speak, nor did she.

"He—didn't know you," she burst out, then. "Called you greaser!"

"Yes, that's the only good thing about it," returned Rock, stirring to recover under such pressure as he had never experienced. He was wringing wet with cold sweat and quivering in all his muscles. A knot of fire within seemed to be loosening. His mouth was dry, his tongue thick.

"My God! What shame—what disgrace—a distress I've brought on you!" he muttered when he could speak.

She was sobbing a little and clinging to the arm with which Rock upheld her.

"He tore my waist. The gown mother so treasured. She loved it so. . . . She'll be heart-broken."

"What's a dress?—That can be replaced."

"You love me so much?"

"Thiry girl, I love you more than I can prove."

Blindly, with unreckoning impulse, she bent and met his upturned lips with her own. Quickly, with a gasp, she broke away to stare a moment, as if some realization had struck her, then she fled across the porch and into the house.

Ash Preston did not return to Sunset Pass for a week after the Fourth. Rumor drifted down by rider that Preston was hunting for the Mexican who had beaten him at a dance.

It was an anxious and brooding time for Trueman Rock until Ash returned, sober yet showing the effects of a prolonged debauch. One moment Rock stood on the porch his hand quivering, while Ash strode over from his cabin. Sullen, his face black and blue, still swollen, he presented no encouraging aspect. But manifestly that moment proved he did not know or suspect Rock had been his assailant. Then the suspense of this meeting for Rock ended when Thiry almost fainted in Ash's arms.

"Aw, Thiry, I'm sorry," rasped out Ash. Tears were streaming down his bruised cheeks. "I was drunk that night. . . . I'll never go to town no more."

This had happened in the middle of the afternoon, upon Ash's arrival home. Gage Preston was absent. It was Rock's opinion that Gage did not care to be present when Ash met Thiry and Rock. Supper that night no longer seemed something like a funeral feast. Gage Preston came in late, and his gruff heartiness, his steely glance, embracing Ash and Thiry and Rock, were strangely at variance.

Rock did not tarry with the family. He carried away with him a look from Thiry's eyes—the first in which she had met his since that unforgettable last moment on Winter's porch—and it drove him to pace under the pines.

He paced a beat from the open back to the gloom of the thick-spreading trees. On the soft mats of pine needles his feet made no sound; against the black shadow of the slope his figure could not be seen. But his own sharp eye caught a dark form crossing in front of a cabin light. He heard a voice low but clear—Gage Preston's: Ash, come hither."

Then two dark forms made black upright bars, to obliterate the light; then passed on. Rock watched, crouching to peer through the gloom. Silently he sank behind the log by which he had crouched, immensely glad that it lay between him and the approaching men.

"What you want?" growled Ash. "Not so loud, you ——" replied Preston, in a low harsh tone, "I want to talk."

"Wal, I ain't in no humor." "Sit down there," ordered Preston, with heavy contact of hand upon his son's person.

Rock felt the jar of the log where

George White Is Candidate

George G. White Friday authorized The Herald to announce that he is a candidate for re-election to the office of county commissioner of Precinct 3, Howard county, subject to action of the voters in the democratic primary election in July.

There is no need for introducing George White to the people of Howard county and especially those of his own precinct, whom he has served so faithfully and so usefully.

George is known as one of those younger citizens who just naturally possess the judgment more often found in men of greater age. His character and his ability are unquestioned. His record in office stamps him as an official who regards public office as a public trust. His influence has helped to save much for the taxpayers of the county. Under his leadership the system of county roads has been greatly improved and expanded and the people of his precinct have signified their appreciation with generous support. Continuation of that confidence and support will be sincerely appreciated.

Missionary Council Of Assembly of God Meets

The missionary Council met at the Assembly of God church on West 4th street Thursday afternoon in regular session, with the house called to order by the Rev. W. D. Hall, pastor.

After a business session a Bible lesson was given by Mr. Hall. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Little gave some very interesting talks.

Those present were, in addition to the speakers, Meses. S. P. Binton, Ruth Pierce, Lena Stutes, Laura Davison, Harlen, R. T. Campbell, White, Hilliard, Anna Belle Langston; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith and Miss Laura Ogden.

Mrs. Marchbanks Gives Valentine Party To Club

Mrs. Lindsay Marchbanks was hostess to the Ace-High Bridge club Thursday afternoon with a very lovely Valentine party. The Valentine color scheme was carried out in the tables, the decorations and during the refreshment hour when lighted red tapers were used for individual decorations.

Mrs. Liberty made high score for visitors and received a rubber bath mat. Mrs. Fiddle made high for members and received a cigarette lighter. Miss Hair cut for high and was given a Valentine box of candy.

The members and guests present were Mrs. F. H. Liberty, H. C. Timmons, Al Collins, Glen D. Gullik, Larson Lloyd, Clarence Wear, Werner Neese, Randall Pickle, D. M. McKinney, Leon Smith, Obie Britton and Miss Mayme Hair.

Mrs. McKinney will be the next hostess.

SIEBERLING Tires and Tubes

—the tire that will deliver you from fifty to one hundred per cent more mileage, and two hundred per cent more non-skid miles.

Incorporated in this tire are three outstanding features that have only to be seen to be appreciated.

LONG LIFE—through elimination of heat, the greatest enemy of rubber.

SAFETY—accomplished by continuous non-skid tread and the principle of relaxed rubber in the tread.

EXTRA WEAR—because of added thickness of tread and a patented construction that makes this tire as nearly break-proof as is possible to build a tire.

We have a complete spread of tires and prices.

WILL ROGERS: Russia and Japan Will Be Fighting Over Manchuria For Years, He Says

By WILL ROGERS
(Somewhere East of Suez, by mail)

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I go thither and thither. The thing that makes it tough out here in all these Countries is that you don't get any news, that is I mean OUR news.

My Goodness, I was out here a month before I found out that Notre Dame had lost a Game. Imagine newspapers being printed in any language and in every Country and not having that in it. Now that I have heard it, I can't find out how it happened, so that makes you madder than ever. Well they made a great record, and I bet they give a great account of themselves at that. You see these papers have just a few lines of some event that happened back home. But whoever picks em out to print must be someone that was never over home, or if so it was just after the Boxer uprising. Now Congress was to meet at home just a week after I left, now as far as we in the far east are concerned they never did get a course as far as you all at home are concerned they never did either, but they did meet, I am afraid what have they done?

Japan has one awfully good English speaking paper, its the Tokio Advertiser. Its about the best in the far east, unless it is Manila. Course this little one-sided war out here has so upset the news, you don't get anything but it. But is so much Propaganda mixed up in it, on both sides, that they just fill the papers up with a lot of junk put out by whichever Country the paper happens to be in.

The funniest thing in all the war is that up in Mukden there is about twenty Co-respondents gathered from all over, and they have been in one Hotel for over four months, just waiting for the one little Battle that they knew must come, but they didn't know when That is the Battle of Chinchow. They all wanted to go to their various Posts like Shanghai and Peking and back home to spend Xmas but they couldn't leave for fear the Japanese would pull the thing off while they was gone. They sure are a fine bunch of fellows. I was around there with em for about a week. This Mukden that you read all these war Dispatches out of used to be quite a City. Its the Capital of Manchuria, and was some place in the very old days. But since the hear a thing, and I guess you all there cant either, so in lots of respects we are equal.

But darn it, I miss my paper. I used always to sit a long time over breakfast and read my papers and just think, over here I sit, but that's all. A breakfast dont taste good to me without a good paper.

Japan has one awfully good English speaking paper, its the Tokio Advertiser. Its about the best in the far east, unless it is Manila. Course this little one-sided war out here has so upset the news, you don't get anything but it. But is so much Propaganda mixed up in it, on both sides, that they just fill the papers up with a lot of junk put out by whichever Country the paper happens to be in.

They sure are a fine bunch of fellows. I was around there with em for about a week. This Mukden that you read all these war Dispatches out of used to be quite a City. Its the Capital of Manchuria, and was some place in the very old days. But since the Japanese took it over, and there is martial law, why there is not even a Movie in Town. Over at some other Hotel they have one a week they of course are all silent. Not only silent but absent.

There is a pretty nice hotel there with good food and rooms and Baths and a Bar. But over in this Country everybody sits down at a Table, and have the drinks brought to em. They sure do like to holler "Boy-ann." I think that it and it means Boy. They just put the San on to make it harder. Well a, For elmer does like to holler at the Boys, so you have the boy do every thing but actually take the drink for you. The American and English, well in fact all the foreign Colony in all these towns like Durien Mukden, and Harbin, all have a Club, which will stand comparison with any of our Clubs over home and most of their social activities are held there, and their dances and gatherings. There is always the Consuls, of the different Nations. The Standard Oil is in all these and the Texas Co, Ford's, and General Motors have men, then up that way you run into a lot of Fur Men that go to Harbin to get their Furs for you Women. Their headquarters are in Tientsin, China. There is twenty or thirty of those that are American Buyers, Kolinsky is the main fur, and then the Mongolian Dog, its a sort of a half wild dog well they render that up into pretty nearly any fur you call for, but its originally Mutt.

The Trains on the South Manchurian Railway are very nice up to date Trains thats the line that the war is over, as the Japanese say they are doing all this to protect that line. Course they have gone out three or four hundred miles on each side to do it, but its supposed to be all just to protect their line. They do run everything in first class shape. Their trains are always clean and right on time, sleepers are some of them like ours, but most of them are the European style, Wagon Lits (like France's) They are the best kind; they heat out. Course some of those lines there is a lot of robberies on. The Chinese lines are not so well protected now. For the Japanese have kinder got em all disorganized and the Chinese dont know whether to run em or leave em. But the Japanese says they are not safe on account of the Bandits. Course there is naturally lot of Bandits, for the Chinese Army has been kinder let go, so they got nothing to do but Banditry. There is no work and nothing to eat, and they got Guns so they aint going to starve.

But its a rich country in resources, and they will be fighting over it for years, for Russia in the Northern end and Japan in the Southern, no they aint going to live in the same kennel, and when Russia gets ready, if this scheme of theirs even just half way works they are building up a big Army and a great air force, and they havent forgot the Russo-Japanese war yet. So that will be a real war for dont you let anyone tell you these little Japanese are not Soldiers. They fight, and will be hard to lick, so dont put all your money on peace. War to end wars was a bust.

Susannah Wesleys Hold Valentine Social At Church

Friday afternoon the Susannah Wesley class of the Methodist Sunday School met in the Church parlors for the regular monthly social and business session.

The meeting opened with the class singing a hymn with Mrs. Morris at the piano. Mrs. Manual gave the devotional.

After the business was dispensed with, the hostesses presented a most entertaining program. Miss Peden accompanied by Miss Gay rendered a Valentine reading, and Gene Hardy Flewelling read a Washington number. Miss Verbena Barnes told of the origin of St. Valentine's Day. A clever valentine idea was carried out in the guests matching hearts for partners. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames J. B. Dalton, W. R. Ivey, C. E. Thomas, M. W. Paulsen, and G. C. Graves.

They served delightful refreshments carrying out the valentine theme to the following: Mesdames Tom H. Vastine, W. O. Thompson G. E. Fleeman, W. J. Riggs, S. J. Jones, W. D. Dehlinger, Chas. Morris, C. E. Shive, V. H. Flewelling

W. A. Miller, F. A. Steelman, Logan Baker, J. A. Myers, Berry Williams Emma Davis, A. D. Franklin, J. M. Hayley, C. M. Watson, Mrs. Will Olsen, D. W. Rankin, Joe M. Faucett, Edward Dabney, J. C. Waits, sr., F. D. Wilson, Claude Myera, D. H. Heblson, Mildred What H. F. Williamson, L. W. Croft, J. L. Hudson, Arthur Woodall, Horace Pann and Felton Smith.

Mrs. E. V. Spence spent Saturday in Sweetwater.

C. A. Eason killed a large rattlesnake near the new city wells Friday.

When Firemen Ran To Fires

In the days when firemen ran to fires, losses were proportionately greater than they are today. In those days everything moved slowly.

You became ill, however, just as suddenly then as now, but many times it took your physician hours to get to you, and when he did arrive, the service he could render was limited by restricted knowledge.

Thousands of families right here in your county have cause to be thankful for the physician's high powered motor car of today, for speed has saved many a life.

Because the physician is a professional man and not usually thought of in the same class with the merchant or manufacturer, the public, while fully recognizing "increase in overhead and production costs of the manufacturer", does not seem to think the same conditions apply to the doctor.

As a matter of fact, overhead costs for the physician have increased as much and in many instances much more, than have those of the merchant or manufacturer.

Yet the physician has not increased his fee for either office or home attention in anything like the proportion in which his overhead has grown. Neither has the physician laid any more stress on collections than he did when overhead was but a slight consideration with him.

Perhaps it never occurred to you that the man who enters medicine, is temperamentally entirely different from the man who enters business. He takes up medicine with the same idea that the young man takes up the ministry—to serve and help humanity. He enters a profession that requires years of study before he can realize a dollar, and when he begins to practice, he naturally has a very large percentage of charity work. His thoughts are about the patient. If they were not, he would not respond to any and all calls at all times of night and in all kinds of weather.

A few physicians have a business secretary or office assistant but most of them trust to the honesty of their patients. Sad to relate, many, many times the physician's bills are the last ones thought of in many families.

Treat your physician fair. No service you get in this world is more important than this. If it isn't convenient to pay cash at the time the service is rendered, at least be fair enough to pay within thirty days as you pay all other bills.
