Free Employment Bureau To Be Opened Friday By Merchants' Association

Want A Job? Need Workers?

Through generosity of the Retail Merchants Association and Carl Bauer a centrally located Free Employment Bureau will be opened Friday morning in the Bauer building at 111 Main, L. A. Eubanks, manager of the association, announces. An attendant will be on duty each day. The telephone number is 671. All persons wanting employment are invited to register. Those having employment to offer are urged to register, too. This bureau will be maintained for one month without cost to any employer or any one who finds employment through it.

What music will do for a bunch of so-and-so 'tired business men, if that's the appropriate term, was demonstrated this noon when Harley Sadler's boys entertained the Kiwanians.

Oftentimes people do not like to see road shows come to town because they take everything out and leave nothing. Not so with Harley. The inimitable little showman, who has become something of an institution in West Texas, his home has earned a fine reputation for dealing liberally with business men wherever his show goes.

Perhaps showmanship is inappropriate in some places and at some times. But many a man has found fortune by dramatizing whatever business or profession he happened to be interested in.

Misplaced showmanship sometimes does harm. Hney P. Long is an example. His crude showmanship, which apparently has secured, entrenched him, politically, in Louisiana, brings forth friction and bitterness from other states.

In some of the professions showmanship is outlawed by codes of ethics. The showman is a 'quack' perhaps that is good, too, for the public that must be served by them.

The newsboy with a flair for showmanship gets rid of his papers more quickly than do his comrades on the sidewalks.

We all have seen storekeepers sell a lot of stuff by showmanship while his neighbors, lacking color to accompany their merchandise, did little.

The football coach who knows how to dramatize his teams as well as teach them fundamentals of the game, brings cash to the till along with the cheers of the crowd, and 'gets well' personally.

Results of showmanship by teachers, preachers, lawyers, oil men, and just ordinary politicians are seen almost daily.

And, if you'll only notice, the towns that present themselves to the world in colors rather than just plain black and white benefit thereby.

You can build traditions about a town that make it a 'household word' throughout the land. Dollars and cents are brought in, too.

A local housewife has offered to give a woman of good character a home in exchange for care of her house, and the cooking of one meal per day. Call the Herald.

TEACHES FARMERS TO ACT
DERBY, Conn. (INS)—Rural life in Connecticut may be heightened by theatricals in the future. The New Haven county farm bureau started the idea of securing services of Jack Stuart Knapp, of the National Recreation association, to teach its members how to put on plays with untrained groups. Then the other farm bureaus followed suit, and will keep Mr. Knapp busy here for weeks. His first engagement was in Derby, and farmers of the county turned out in large numbers to gain his training.

111 Main Is Address, No. 671 Telephone Number of Office

In an effort to create a centrally located agency through which local employment conditions may be improved and numerous requests of farmers for cotton pickers filled, the Retail Merchants Association announced Thursday it would open a Free Employment Bureau Friday morning at 111 Main street, in the Bauer building.

Through generosity of Carl Bauer, who is furnishing office space free of charge, this downtown office was obtained. L. A. Eubanks, manager of the Retail Merchants Association, said he would conduct the agency one month, furnishing an attendant at all times and maintaining telephone service. The telephone number is 671. Following initial announcement of the opening of the office Mr. Eubanks said a number of farmers called at his office late Thursday morning seeking cotton pickers.

The public is earnestly requested to cooperate with those making possible this method of bringing workers and employers together. Every person seeking employment and all those offering employment of any kind are extended a sincere invitation to file their names with the agency. Signs were being placed in front of the office this morning by Joe Jim Green, who offered his services without charge.

MAIN FRENCH RAILWAYS TO BE ELECTRIFIED
PARIS, (INS)—According to engineers' reports published here the four main railroad companies in France—the State, Midi, Paris-Orleans and P.L.M.—will be completely electrified before 1941.

Branding coal as "uneconomical" the railroads are planning to install giant hydro-electric power plants on the big rivers throughout the country, which they consider will considerably lessen the cost of transport.

Rapid strides have been made in the last few years, these reports state, and the electrification of the Midi system in the south of France is practically completed. The State has only begun to extend its power lines beyond the suburbs but the Paris-Orleans system is more than half completed. The P.L.M. is the most backward to date, figures show.

Engineers are so confident trains will travel with greater speed and safety over the electrified lines that they predict the other privately-owned companies will follow suit shortly.

PRESBYTERIAN STATISTICS
PHILADELPHIA (INS)—The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., in its annual statistical review just made public by Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the general assembly, with offices here, shows an increase in the number of new communicant members. Those added on confession of faith during the church year ending March 31, 1931, totaled 77,225, as compared with 70,724 during the preceding year. Sunday schools of the denomination showed an increase of 24,446, the enrolled membership totaling 1,629,496.

Corroborated?

Collins, who told officers her husband was thrown overboard from their yacht by strangers who abducted her and left their small daughter alone on the vessel, had her version corroborated in part Wednesday when Collings' body was found floating in the surf off Oyster Bay, hands and feet tied, head crushed. State's attorneys indicated they were not convinced Mrs. Collings was not implicated.

Death Claims Pioneer Figure

John Notestine, Retired Locomotive Engineer, To Be Buried Friday

John Notestine, one of the oldest and most beloved of the pioneer citizens of Big Spring passed to his last sleep Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock at a local hospital. Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Friday from the Charles Eberly Funeral Home. Pallbearers will be from the B. of L. E.

Mr. Notestine had been suffering from an attack of Bright's disease for sometime and was taken to the hospital yesterday. He was so much better early this morning that his grandson, Louis Biles, left for A. & M. College by automobile, believing that there was no immediate danger.

The end came unexpectedly and quietly, as though he had but fallen asleep. Back in the early 80's when Big Spring was cutting through its swaddling clothes, John Notestine, then a resident of Iowa, but a native of Peoria, Ill., came to town to identify himself in a long and useful career as a locomotive engineer with the Texas & Pacific Railway company.

Throughout the years he served as an engineer, the men who worked under him, as well as the officials, were among his best friends and his closest admirers. When he retired from work about six years ago, it was hard to say whether they missed him the more or he, them.

Mr. Notestine was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and a Knight Templar. He is survived by two sisters residing in Iowa and the members of his immediate family in Big Spring: his wife and two children, Mrs. J. D. Biles and Edmund Notestine, and two granddaughters, Louise Biles and Edmund Notestine, Jr.

The Rev. W. G. Bailey will officiate at the funeral services. Music will be by the Episcopal choir. The body of Mr. Notestine was in state this afternoon at the Funeral Home.

The J. D. Biles drug store will be closed all day Friday.

'Holiday' Bill Approved By S. C. Senators

Vote Is 21 to 13. Measure Sent To Lower House For Action

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—The house voted 57 to 47 to refuse an amendment to the Olsen bill limiting cotton acreage to one-fourth the cultivated area instead of one-third. The senate yesterday changed its bill to provide a reduction of one-fourth. Therefore, if the bills pass in both houses in their present form free conference committee consideration will be necessary. The house also rejected amendments to make a figure one-half and confine operation of the law to one year, and also to delete the enacting clause. Final enactment was expected late today.

COLUMBIA, S. C. Sept. 17 (AP)—

The senate today passed a bill prohibiting growing of cotton next year. The vote was 21 to 13. The bill was sent to the house.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17 (AP)—

Governor Huey Long in a statement late this morning said he had been misquoted in dispatches released earlier in the day. He declared he would not issue a proclamation declaring the Louisiana "no-cotton" law inoperative, leaving the bill in effect until other states had an opportunity to pass laws. He had been quoted as saying he would declare the bill inoperative because of failure of the Texas legislature to adopt a similar one.

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (AP)—

The house of representatives of the Texas legislature delivered what was regarded as the "death blow" to the Long "No Cotton in 1932" plan this yesterday.

Senate Resolution

The senate meanwhile overwhelmingly adopted a resolution calling Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana, for whom the Long plan was named, a "consummate liar." The resolution was adopted 21 to 7 and was to be considered in the house today. It said Long's published statement that members of the Texas legislature had been bought like a sack of corn to vote against the cotton prohibition plan, was a "lie made out of the whole cloth." Some of the senators objected to the use of the term "liar."

Called Him 'Coward'

Senator Walter Woodall of Houston stated he was for the resolution because "Long is a coward and afraid to come to Texas" and "this is the only way we can reach him." Several senators wanted to rewrite the resolution in "more dignified language" and other sought to bring about adjournment but the forces behind the resolution were unyielding and insisted on quick action. The resolution quoted Governor Long's statement and then said "this statement is not only untrue but carries the vice of a lie and the venom of a liar."

Regarded as Slip

The vote in the house was regarded as a slip. (Continued on Page Nine)

Barons Down Buffs 1 to 0

Caldwell Bests 'Dizzy' Dean In First Dixie Series Game

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 17.—Ray Caldwell, the old master, triumphed over Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, in an great pitchers' battle as any Dixie series has produced when Birmingham defeated Houston, 1 to 0, in the opening game of the seventh annual series before a record crowd of more than 20,000 here Wednesday.

Greeted with a brace of hits in the opening frame, Caldwell was forced to call on the strategy and cunning 25 years old professional baseball has taught him to pull himself out of frequent holes. The Buffaloes touched him for a pair of hits in each of the first, second and fourth innings and for one in the sixth, after which he settled down to an afternoon of high wide and handsome hurling.

The Barons' scoring machinery was set up in motion in the eighth inning after Dean had set them down for seven frames with only two safeties. With two down, Ellis Taylor, Barons catcher, singled to right field. Caldwell shuffled to the plate and duplicated with a one base hit through the pitcher's box. Bancroft, second baseman, topped off the proceedings with a screaming double into the left field bleachers, and Abernathy closed the inning with a line drive to Selph, at second base. Bancroft's two-bagger in the eighth was the only extra base hit of the game.

Caldwell beat Dean at his own game, striking out five men, two of them in the eighth and one in the ninth. Dean, who left behind a strikeout record in the Texas League, failed to register in the strike-out column.

Billy West, Barons secretary, announced today a game set a new record for attendance for the Dixie series with a total of 20,974 paid admissions and total gate receipts of $27,701.50.

An added attraction was the appearance on the sidelines of George Kircher, former Atlanta infielder and one of the Southern Association's greatest comedians. President John D. Martin of the Southern Association saw Kircher in action in an exhibition game Monday and signed him up to perform during the two games here.

Manager Joe Schube of the Buffs Wednesday night indicated his choice for the pitching assignment for tomorrow's game would be Dick McCabe, a right hander, borrowed from Fort Worth. Manager Clyde Milan of the Barons said he would use Jimmy Walkup, a southpaw, in an effort to make it two straight for Birmingham.

Big Spring Faces Stubborn Roscoe Plowboys In Friday Encounter

Second fray of the season for the Steers will take place tomorrow when the Roscoe Plowboys invade the Steer pasture. This is a non-conference game but indications from the East are that a fighting club will represent the smaller school.

While the Steer coaches were not ready at the conclusion of the final scrimmage of the week to announce their starting lineup they were no less hesitant in stating that the starting whistles might find an entirely different eleven on the field from the one which faced La Mesa last week.

The squad is concerned right now not with the opening of the conference season on Oct. 17 but with winning every game between now and that time, and Coach Bristow will send his men on the field Friday with the idea in their mind of working in the present and worrying about future games when the proper time comes.

The Municipal band will be on hand to furnish music for the games. This feature alone will be well worth the price of admission. Tickets for this game as well as all other non-conference games will be sold below the prices set by District 4 officials. Mr. Gentry, high school principal said this morning adult tickets will be fifty cents while students will be able to see the game for twenty-five cents.

While the Steers are winning from the Roscoe club the Midland Bulldogs will usher in the season on the western end of the district with the Iran club as the guest on Lackey Field. The Doggies should have little or no trouble winning by a nice margin, in case Coach Barry is willing to turn his men loose.

While the Bulldogs, Steers, San Angelo Bobcats, Colorado and McCamey are taking on clubs with full confidence in their ability to administer a neat licking to their adversaries and keep the record of the teams in District 4 unimpaired by defeat, the Sweetwater Mustangs are going out in search of bigger and better game and are entertaining on their home lot the Ranger eleven of the Oil Belt.

The Mustangs are encountering by far a stronger club than any other member of District four this writer feels that the final whistle will find win number two chalked up in the Mustang column.

Double-Header At Abilene Split By Tiger Club

The Abilene Brown Eagles lost to the Big Spring Mexican Tigers 9 to 6 and won the second game from the Tigers 6 to 2 in a double-header attraction at Abilene Wednesday. The games were features on a six day celebration by Mexicans of this section.

We have heard from more or less reliable sources that our old school buddy "Sleepy" Eby, formerly of San Marcos and other points, is a member of the Midland faculty this year. We would like to confirm this if possible. Sleepy learned quite a bit about the fine art of packing the inflated hide pieces during his sojourn in Austin High by managing the Maroon BASEBALL team.

We can agree with Hank on one statement, 100 per cent. His remarks concerning one Bobby Campbell, creator of the Waterbucket, hit this writer right where he lives. We too have felt the lash of Sir

This And That By Mark

The Midland scribe comes forth in a blaze of glory in his column, talking like old man Vitaphone himself to take a crack at a writer for certain remarks made recently concerning the avoidance of the Bulldog eleven, and the fact that a tough winter is in store for the doggies in their initial campaign in Class A.

Our good friend Hankins, and we say that in all sincerity, remarks at length that he failed to see any holes opened in the Tornado line, basing his predictions on that he fails to see a difficult p. m. in store for the Barrymen when the Steers invade Lackey Field Oct. 17. We have said our say but we will just remind the Midland key-pounder that he has often been told not to believe anything he hears and not more than half of what he sees or he is liable to find his eyes playing him tricks when the Gold and Black stampedes on the greensward of the Bulldog grilliron.

We greatly fear that the name applied to the Breek scribe will not serve to keep the midget writer off his back though the "MISTER" in large letters is added.

This writer is living in hope that he will not have to witness the game here tomorrow with the Roscoe Plowboys and see so many boys in the pep squad conspicuous by their absence. The place of every high school student not on the Steer squad is in the rooting section. Nothing in the world will beat a good cheering section when it comes to getting the old pep and fight out of a team. Don't expect too much of any team however if the students are not willing to get behind it in every way possible.

We look not for a big score tomorrow. About four markers will be plenty. BUT we do look for a big change in the brand of ball played by the Steers. Potentially the Steers are as good as any team in the district—actually—well that all depends on the boys.

It is our firm opinion that in Roberts and Hopper we have two Bobby's verbal assaults, and we trust that he is far enough away now to confine his withering sarcasm to Prexy Anderson and scribes further East. We can hardly see how so many words and so much sarcasm can be found in such a small piece of humanity.

According to Hankins his back is just now beginning to get well from the stammerous diatribe dished out a few months ago by Mr. Campbell and that he hopes "he dried up lit tle wart does well in his new position—we know he will for he is a dean of 'em all. Sports writers call him "Mister." That keeps him off a little longer," the Midland writer concludes.

We greatly fear that the name applied to the Breek scribe will not serve to keep the midget writer off his back though the "MISTER" in large letters is added.

Cards Down Phils; Cinch N. L. Title

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—Not content with winning the National League championship Wednesday by virtue of Cincinnati's victory over New York, the Cardinals downed the Philles, 6 to 3, for a clean sweep of a six-game series.

William Anthony Hallahan, who will probably face the Athletics in the second game of the world series, gathered a few preliminary honors Wednesday by pitching a six-hit game, and winning his eighteenth of the season.

Manager Gabby Street started a rest cure for some of his veterans in the sixth inning when he yanked all but Hallahan and sent in substitutes. Chick Hafey hit his sixteenth homer of the season.

ROBINS 11, PIRATES 5
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—A concerted seventh inning attack, in which they bunched seven hits for six runs off a pair of hurlers, enabled the Brooklyn Robins to come from behind and defeat the Pirates, 11 to 5, Wednesday in the final game of the season between the two clubs.

REDS 7-4, GIANTS 3-3
CINCINNATI, Sept. 17.—Dan Howley's lowly Reds handed the second place New York Giants a double licking here Wednesday, 7 to 3, the loss in their first game definitely eliminating the Giants from the National League flag race.

CUBS 6-3, BRAVES 5-7
CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The Cubs halted one late rally and staged another to defeat Boston in both games of a double header Wednesday, 6 to 3 and 5 to 7.

Pat Malone held the Braves almost helpless until the ninth inning of the first game when he tottered and just managed to stop a rally after he had netted four runs.

Buck Stanton, first baseman recalled from Wichita Falls by the St. Louis Browns, led the Texas League in doubles with 53.

Plainview Pro Agent Killed In Las Vegas Duel

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 17, (AP)—Ralph Rambo of Plainview, Texas, federal prohibition under cover agent, was shot and killed late today and J. W. Poe, alleged bootlegger, was arrested for the shooting after he had been wounded in a gun battle with the chief of police here.

Witnesses said Poe approached Rambo a block from the office of U. S. Commissioner W. G. Ogle and shot him. The bullet pierced Rambo's chest. He staggered away and witnesses said Poe fired twice more at him, each shot taking effect.

Wounded in Chest Poe fled and was pursued by Chief of Police Henry Cifire. In reply to Cifire's order to surrender, Poe threatened the officer with a pistol. Cifire shot Poe in the chest. Poe ran into a pool hall and Cifire stood behind an automobile and they exchanged shots.

David J. Leahy, former judge, accused Poe when he went from the pool hall into an adjoining building, and induced him to surrender. Poe was taken to a hospital. Physicians said his condition was serious.

POWER PLANT EARNINGS PROMISE TAXLESS CITY

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—This city, one of the few in the United States which have had no general municipal tax for seven years, will have no city levy of any kind by 1934, Harry A. Hayward, city finance commissioner, predicts. Earnings of the city's electric and water plants have taken care of the general tax. Hayward said accrued surplus would make annual bond payments on outstanding bonded indebtedness.

Senator Says Special Session, 'Born In Passions of the Hour' Hits At Government's Heart

AUSTIN, Sept. 17 (UP)—The farmers' session of the Texas legislature, "born in the passions of the hour and through the rousings of the rabble," is striking at the very heart of democratic government, Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston declared today. Lamenting that the Texas legislature should be seeking to interfere with private business in a week observed by the nation as "Constitution Week," Senator Holbrook nevertheless urged passage of the Long cotton holiday plan, if any bill at all. "If you must destroy the liberties and privileges of 6,000,000 people, then adopt the Long bill as the people desire." He objected to a percentage restriction bill because it is not wanted by farmers, he claimed, and still aims a vital blow at the constitution. "You cannot by any legislative action change an economic situation of God's creation," Senator Holbrook declared. "You're about to do a thing that will end everything the authors of our constitution sought to do." He pointed to the spectre of socialism that menaces a democratic republic when government interferes with private business, and argued that no governmental meddling had ever proved successful. He read to the senate a letter from Richmond, signed, Farmers, Bankers, Lawyers and Business Men of South Texas, protesting legislative action on cotton. "We appeal to you to fight any bill to place control of cotton production in the hands of the Texas legislature. We believe in acreage reduction, yes, but let the farmers reduce acreage of their own volition," they pleaded.

Corpus Christi Man Free On $10,000 Bond

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 17, (UP)—W. L. Lewis, was held under $10,000 bond today, charged with the murder of Paul Stiff, killed in a shooting affray at Violet pin Sept. 8. Lewis' son, Earl, died also from wounds received in the exchange of shots.

TREE BURIED 300 FEET—WATSONVILLE, Calif. (INS)—Two hundred feet below the surface of the earth a giant redwood, seven feet in diameter, has been discovered. The tree was encrusted with clay and was in a perfect state of preservation. It is believed that untold ages ago when the ocean covered this section the tree fell. Century after century passed with the top soil gradually shifting.

GRASSHOPPERS DID IT ELKHART, Ind. (INS)—After spending $10 to have the radiator of their car repaired, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Beardsley, just returned from a motor trip in Northern Michigan, reported that the trouble was the presence of two quarts of grass hoppers in the radiator.

20-cent cotton would probably have been the present fact.

Mr. Parrish said four years ago, immediately after his bill was killed: "I am fully convinced this bill, or a similar one, having for its purpose conservation of the soil by crop rotation, will be taken up by some future legislature which will be more friendly toward farm relief measures than the attitude manifested by the present legislature."

And after Governor Sterling called this session, his friends called attention to the prophetic statement.

The other man is Senator Oliver Cunningham of Abilene. Senator Cunningham sponsored the cotton regulation and rotation bill back in the regular session this year, and saw it killed by other members who did not take it seriously. It was more or less of a joke then.

Now Senator Parrish and the other, called back to face the grim reality of the situation, have suggested that Senator Cunningham deserves credit that has not yet been recorded for his effort, his foresight, and his conscientious attempt to meet the situation that arose through failure of the legislature to follow his urgings.

The Texas prison system already is practicing cotton acreage control. Less than one-third the total acreage, or only one-half the cultivated acreage of prison land is in cotton this year. Manager Lee Simmons pointed out in response to a question:

"No reduction in cotton acreage is contemplated or should be expected," he said of the prison lands.

The cotton acreage question has not been discussed by the prison board. In the light of the legislative session call, he said.

The prison system this year put in unprecedented acreage in vegetables and produce. It prepared to continue planting large acreage in foodstuffs, by installing a large canning plant.

It had over 80 barrels of sauerkraut and several tons of cabbages in store at one time. It is growing quantities of meat, and using some of the produce for the pasturing of cattle and hogs.

HOW'S your HEALTH?

Edited by Dr. Jago Golden, Academy of Medicine

STALKING DISEASE-I

The widespread interest in infantile paralysis offers us an opportunity to show how a disease is, so to say, stalked to its lair.

Some scientists maintain that infantile paralysis is a new disease; others bring convincing proof to show that it is a very ancient disease.

Since the latter part of the 18th century a great deal of material has been gathered on infantile paralysis, until today it has become a fairly well defined condition.

In defining a disease, it is important to separate it from other similar conditions and to establish what scientists call a "picture" characteristic of the disease. This picture makes diagnosis possible, and method for treating or preventing the disease follow as the product of further study.

In the case of infantile paralysis, its cause was not even approximated until the beginning of the present century.

Then it was shown that the disease, infantile paralysis, is caused by a filterable virus, a living agent, too small to be seen under our most powerful microscopes, and fine enough to pass through an unglazed porcelain filter.

The experimental manner in which this was shown is somewhat as follows:

A portion of the spinal cord of a child that died of infantile paralysis was taken and made into an emulsion. This emulsion was injected directly into the brain of a monkey. Within a definite period of time, the monkey developed the disease.

Upon the death of this animal the disease could be transmitted to other monkeys using an emulsion made from the first animal's spinal cord.

The fact that the agent of infantile paralysis affected the brain and spinal cord was evident from the paralysis the victims suffered.

Careful study under the microscope of the nerve cells of persons dying of the disease, revealed the damage which the cells suffered.

Trained wild animal acts are the force in this season's Al G. The secret of it is very simple," says Miss Stark. "Keep close in upon the animals you are working and no harm is likely to come to you. Never let yourself be placed upon the defensive; always take the offensive tack. As long as I keep after my animals they back up. I keep close to a horse's head, and he is not likely to receive a bad kick, and this in a measure is true of 'cats.' And, most essential of all

Tragedy Of Royal Love

IT IS pretty hard on the children when their parents are kings and queens. Especially when they reach the age of marriage. They can't ask a cherubic Cupid to do some straight shooting for them. They have to hope that there are nice young princes or pretty princesses with a sense of humor and good disposition, waiting around to get married, too.

The announcement that King Carol II of Rumania has sent his friend, M. Manescu, to Rome to seek the hand of Princess Maria Francesca, youngest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, brings the marriage problems of the sons and daughters of the reigning houses of Europe into the spotlight again. Even though the Rumanian government has denied the attempted engagement in this particular case, such is the customary method of royal wooing, so the point remains the same.

Maria Francesca is only 17. She has hardly had time to get a thrill out of watching the soldiers on dress parade in the way that even a princess can do. But she may be married to a king from another land.

There are so many things Maria Francesca has never done. Being a princess, of course, she never can. She can't answer the honk of a gray sports roadster at the palace curb, and go skipping down an enchanted road in a world of moonlight and roses and well, if not love, the first youthful stirrings of the grand emotion.

She can't wear a fraternity pin on her blouse, or go to a football scrimmage and cheer for a certain helmeted figure whom she is meeting after the game. She can't get excited when she meets a handsome young man, for she knows that unless his coat of arms grew up along with her father's throne, they aren't going to see much of each other.

Being the child of a king has its limitations. Now and then some brave member of the group, who has fallen in love with a commoner, manages to pull off a regular American marriage, founded on love alone. Now and then, the princess and the king or prince she is marrying are really as much in love as though they had nothing to do with political intrigue. Not often, though.

Royal life is hard on a princess when she is small. She can't get chocolate bars from the freckle-faced boy across the aisle at school, or go coasting with the one who lives next door regardless of whether his father is the cousin of the king or not related at all.

But when she grows up and has to have a canned-romance life is even more difficult. That is unless Cupid gets busy and treats the princess and the prince or king exactly like he does other young people.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER.

WASHINGTON—One of the capital's most interesting and historic buildings—the old British embassy building—has gone.

Built in 1870 the old building ended its life cycle six months ago when His Majesty's ambassador to the United States—Sir Ronald Lindsay—moved into the magnificent new structure at U. S. M. A. sachusetts avenue. Wreckers have just completed the structure of the old place on Connecticut avenue.

Few houses in Washington are richer in dramatic memories than was this old embassy.

Here Sir James Bryce, in the quiet library, pored over his manuscript of "The American Commonwealth."

Here in a walnut bedroom, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice dressed for the wedding of Miss Mary Leiter and Lord Curzon, in which this ambassador served as best man.

Here was held the wedding reception of the Hon. Lillian Pauncefoot and Sir Robert Mromley, and in a sleeping chamber above, the bride's father, Sir Julian Pauncefoot, died two years later.

SYNOPSIS: Juanita's discovery that her chapero, the marquesa, is responsible for the robbery of a number of her friends, causes them both to leave Kirk Stangard's home without a word to him or Nelly Bellaire, his grandmother. Protecting at being thus used, Juanita returns to the gambling resort run by Divitt, who reveals his discovery that she, Juanita, is Beatriz Montega, wanted for a Vera Cruz crime. Juanita, protesting by the knowledge that Divitt knows her past, heads the death-bed request of his wife, Molly, to resume her work as the resort's veiled cigarette girl. Meanwhile, Gabreau, Divitt's servant, tells her that Kirk, kidnapping and loving her as Senorita Flores, has been told by Divitt's Hotel Tljon that she and the marquesa have departed.

Chapter 34
THE MARQUESA'S PLANS

Spike, reflected the marquesa, was a widower now. What was to prevent their combining as they had once combined?

Not here in New Orleans; that was out of the question. But Philly again—Jersey—

The thought had kept her a willing prisoner in her room. For that she stayed inside, did not venture downstairs where Divitt feared she might be recognized.

Divitt, she told herself, was straightening already after the blow of Molly's death. Today he had even seemed to see her as they passed each other on the balcony.

"How are you, Mister Divitt?" she had asked, and he had answered, "Oh, well enough." She would go in to see him.

Rain—rain—droning on the balcony, dripping from the eaves. Who would have supposed the heavens could hold all this rain?

They did not play so late in the parlors now. Spike would perhaps come up earlier to the office where he counted his gains every night with the result that it was seen as an effort to direct United States nationals in the interests of Great Britain.

Too, it was here that Ramsey MacDonald and his daughter, Isabel, decided when the head of the British government came to Washington to discuss with President Hoover the question of naval parity.

An Historic Past
Sir Frederick Bruce, then His Majesty's minister to Washington, supervised the construction by an American builder of this famous old mansion.

And it was not until 1893 that it was raised from the status of a legation to that of an embassy.

With the appointment of Sir Michael Herbert in 1902, his wife, the former Lilla Vanderbilt—sister of Cornelius, sr.—became mistress of the mansion.

After Sir Cecil Spring-Rice resigned and war missions were established came Lord Chief Justice Reading, and later Sir Edward Grey and Sir Auckland Geddes, and more recently Sir Esme Howard.

Twelve ministers and ambassadors have left contributions to the memories of this old embassy.

One million people rode on Dublin street cars on a recent weekend.

Rumanian State Railways have just launched a program of festivity.

night. It was past the hour when Umberto should have telephoned him. "Upton 0696." "No. Wrong number." Then he would have known everything was all right.

The marquesa went on softly. "I am so lonely I say to myself, 'I can go to the supper and tell him I am leavin' again tomorrow.'"

"That," said Divitt, "is an idea entirely worthy of you. Who is this man?"

The marquesa liked the question and the way Divitt asked it.

"Mr. Eric Ledbetter," she answered with dropped eyes, having chosen carefully.

Divitt nodded. "Ledbetter is not in New Orleans," he remarked. "He sailed for Paris and the Orient something like a week ago."

"He may have gone suddenly," said the marquesa.

"Just as well you found out, isn't it?" observed Divitt.

"I do not want to go," she answered, laying by her cape. "I am just so lonely. I would much rather talk to you. . . It is too bad the parlor have gone down."

"Who says the parlor have gone down?" demanded Divitt.

"But have they not? . . . So many people do not come any more."

"It's the new chief of police. They're afraid."

Divitt had risen, walked to the window. This Cranshaw job . . . Things had been too easy for Umberto.

Divitt, she told herself, was straightening already after the blow of Molly's death. Today he had even seemed to see her as they passed each other on the balcony.

"How are you, Mister Divitt?" she had asked, and he had answered, "Oh, well enough." She would go in to see him.

Rain—rain—droning on the balcony, dripping from the eaves. Who would have supposed the heavens could hold all this rain?

They did not play so late in the parlors now. Spike would perhaps come up earlier to the office where he counted his gains every night with the result that it was seen as an effort to direct United States nationals in the interests of Great Britain.

Too, it was here that Ramsey MacDonald and his daughter, Isabel, decided when the head of the British government came to Washington to discuss with President Hoover the question of naval parity.

An Historic Past
Sir Frederick Bruce, then His Majesty's minister to Washington, supervised the construction by an American builder of this famous old mansion.

And it was not until 1893 that it was raised from the status of a legation to that of an embassy.

With the appointment of Sir Michael Herbert in 1902, his wife, the former Lilla Vanderbilt—sister of Cornelius, sr.—became mistress of the mansion.

After Sir Cecil Spring-Rice resigned and war missions were established came Lord Chief Justice Reading, and later Sir Edward Grey and Sir Auckland Geddes, and more recently Sir Esme Howard.

Twelve ministers and ambassadors have left contributions to the memories of this old embassy.

One million people rode on Dublin street cars on a recent weekend.

Rumanian State Railways have just launched a program of festivity.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Cunningham And Parrish

Austin American:
TWO MEN, one a banker, one a lawyer, neither of whose names probably will lead the cotton control bill that will be passed by this month's session of the legislature, are now getting credit for foresight on a proposal that was taken lightly when they brought it up.

The are M. C. Parrish, former house member from Travis county, and Senator Oliver Cunningham, Abilene.

Mr. Parrish offered the first cotton acreage bill in Texas. His measure was offered in February, 1927, and killed by committee February 4. Just now, when the best bill in sight is one to require rotation of crops, it will be of keen interest to recall just what Mr. Parrish's bill proposed, four and a half years ago.

"In order to conserve the fertility of the soil and protect it from deterioration and final destruction, hereafter it will be unlawful for any owner, lessor or tenant . . . to plant . . . any land in cotton for a second year in succession."

If the Parrish bill had been passed, and followed by other states,

In addition to reducing the price of ginning and wrapping $1.75 per bale, we are going to divide the profits of the gin on a 50-50 plan to be distributed on a per bale basis.

Continental Co. Opens Contest In Herald Today

POINCA CITY, Okla., Sept. 17.—A prize contest in which $10,000 in cash is being offered for the best answer to a question was announced here today by Continental Oil Co. The contest is backed by the largest advertising campaign the company has ever used.

Today's advertisement announcing the cash prize contest is appearing in 1,669 newspapers, with a combined circulation of more than 9,000,000. The advertising in connection with this prize contest will constitute one of the largest campaigns ever conducted by an oil company during a similar period of time, according to Wesley I. Nunn, advertising manager of Continental Oil Company.

"During 1931 Continental will spend considerably more than half of its entire advertising budget for newspaper space," said Mr. Nunn. "Despite the general downward trend of business conditions during the early part of this year, we have decided to increase our advertising budget. The result has been that we have had a very worthwhile increase in volume of business this year, and have definitely proved the wisdom of going after business by a stronger advertising appeal during the so-called depression period."

The contest announced today is one in which $10,000 in cash prizes are offered for telling how the "hidden quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil benefits motorists. The question is "What becomes of this 'hidden quart' and how does this quart benefit the motorist?" There are 29 prizes, first prize being $5,000.

The contest closes at midnight, September 28, 1931, with all communications being sent to Continental Oil Company, Ponca City, Okla. Judges of the contest are: Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma; John A. Hunter, professor of mechanical engineering, University of Colorado; and Frank L. Martin, associate dean, School of Journalism, University of Missouri.

A's Down Tribe For 100th Win

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—The world champion Philadelphia Athletics, after clinching their ninth American League pennant Tuesday, Wednesday won their one hundredth game of the season by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 7-4.

Earnshaw allowed the Indians only six hits in winning his twentieth game of the season. Mickey Cochrane had to leave the game because of a wrenched knee.

SENATORS & BROWNS 2
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Trouncing St. Louis 6 to 2, the Washington Senators drew another half game ahead of the New York Yankees in the close between the two for second place.

The Yankees were idle today.

Fair's Visitors To See Strides In Radio Sight

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (UP)—Two years' progress in television is to be revealed to the public this month.

It will be visualized through the demonstration of radio pictures on a screen ten feet square—the first showing outside the laboratory.

Under the direction of U. A. Sanabria, youthful Chicago engineer, equipment is to be operated during the eighth annual Radio-Electrical World's fair in New York, Sept. 21 to 25, inclusive, showing both transmission and reproduction, with the received pictures varying from two feet to ten feet square.

The previous public demonstration of television was made two years ago.

Electrical History Recalled

The show also will mark the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the principle of electro-magnetic induction, basis of modern radio and electrical apparatus.

Included will be a display of replicas of inventions of Michael Faraday, Englishman, and Joseph Henry, American, supplied by the New York museum of science and industry.

In addition to television studios for both transmission and reception, there will be set up two large glass-walled broadcast studios where visitors may watch microphone artists at work in regular network programs.

Another feature of the show is to be the crowning of the third radio queen, to be selected from a group of broadcast entertainers representing stations all over the country.

Operator To Get Medal

During the fair, the Veterans Wireless operators association will make its annual award of a gold medal to the radio operator who accomplished the year's most outstanding communication feat.

The show is to be opened with a talk by David Barnoff, president of RCA.

UNEVEN HEMLINES

MARK EVENING GOWNS
NEW YORK. (UP)—Irregular hems plays a part in styling these days. Many new fall evening gowns are designed with skirts five inches from the floor in front and almost touching it in the back.

Others have skirts made of volants which fall irregularly at the hemline. Several new coats had hems 12 inches from the floor in front, making a sharp drop of two inches at the sides.

AMERICA'S ONLY REFINER OF GERM PROCESSED OIL OFFERS . . .

$10,000 IN CASH PRIZES

FOR THE BEST ANSWERS EXPLAINING THE MYSTERY OF THE "HIDDEN QUART" AND TELLING HOW THIS QUART BENEFITS MOTORISTS

Fact No. 1—Thousands of motorists and service station men have observed that after a car has been given its first fill of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and is driven 200 to 350 miles, a look at the crankcase gauge shows that about one quart of oil is apparently missing . . . but

Fact No. 2—These same people have noticed that on the second and later fillings with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, scarcely a drop of oil will disappear during the first 350 miles and practically none at 500 and up to 1,000 miles!

THE above facts have been checked by actual tests with cars that use six quarts of oil for the crankcase, cars in good mechanical condition and driven at ordinary rates of speed. These facts will also prove true for your car, in proportion to the amount of oil your crankcase usually holds, your car's mechanical condition and the speeds at which you drive.

What becomes of the "hidden quart"? The answer is easy if you study the Facts given above and keep in mind the things that only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can do.

The explanation of the whereabouts of the "hidden quart" is simple—no technical knowledge of motors or oil is necessary.

Remember—The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil does not escape through leakage . . . does not burn up, wear out nor evaporate. It is "present but unaccounted for." Fact No. 2, given above, proves all this.

After you've found where the "hidden quart" goes, you can easily see the special benefits it gives the motorist—advantages that no other oil can give.

Ask at any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer for free entry blank, which contains information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil that may help you win. Conoco Station and Dealer employees will gladly answer your questions. Remember, you do not have to buy anything to enter this contest. . . Any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer will give you, free of charge, a convenient Official Contest Entry Blank for writing your answer.

Answers written on one side only of any plain white paper will be accepted as accredited entries in the contest. But we recommend that you secure an Official Contest Entry Blank, which gives valuable information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and its operation in motors—clues about the "hidden quart" that may help you write an answer that will win a prize.

Kilkare Club Goes to School At Meeting

Mrs. W. A. Gilmer Hostess For Clever Costume Party

Mrs. W. A. Gilmer entertained the members and friends of the Kilkare Bridge Club with a clever school party Wednesday afternoon. She met the guests at the door with an old fashioned school bell. She was arrayed in a long skirt and a shirtwaist to represent the teacher. The guests came dressed as school children.

Before the games were over recess was called and soda pop was served.

Refreshments were served in the lunch boxes and consisted of a real school lunch.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Battle, scoring high for club members who was given a pair of hand-embroidered pillow cases; Mrs. M. A. Cook, scoring high for visitors, who was given a pair of black bud vases and Mrs. Wilkerson, who cut high, and received a black bulb bowl.

The guests were Mrs. M. A. Cook, Jimmie Mason, F. G. Gunt, J. R. Leysath, H. F. Williamson.

The members were Mrs. Mae Battle, Chas. Koberg, J. S. Nunally, Tom Slaughter, Bart Wilkerson, W. A. Gilmer and Miss Lone McAllister.

Mrs. Battle will be the next hostess.

What to Do for That Unexpected Guest, Lecturer's Theme

"My dear—company for dinner and not a thing in the house!" It's a frequent and plaintive wail among housewives, that old refrain of unexpected guests who must be invited to stay for dinner when there's nothing for them to eat. It is an embarrassing situation, too, when the hostess has little time to prepare a meal, and possibly the dinner hour is near and the neighborhood stores and markets are closing.

Usually there ensues a frantic period of sending the children among neighbors to "borrow" while the hostess must sit with her guests frenziedly calculating just what is in the refrigerator and pantry. And can she give an air of graciousness and respond as pleasantly in conversation with her guests?

"Certainly not," asserts Myra Oliver Dougan, whose free cooking school under auspices of the Daily Herald is to begin September 29. "A flustered, worried hostess must necessarily make her guests feel the same way; the conversation becomes awkward, the laughter nervous, and everyone in general feels apprehensive."

The emergency meal is a test for the housewife, usually. For this reason I always try to devote special time to this topic in the hope that it may help solve this problem for some woman. There are numerous quickly prepared and appetizing dishes for these unlooked for occasions which every woman should know.

An emergency measure which Mrs. Dougan always urges is a special shelf stocked with those canned foods and products which are slightly more "dressy" for the table than the average dishes, and easy to prepare. The housewife should make it a rule, she should not to use these foods for anything except the emergency meal; or if she does, to replace the item used immediately.

And there should be always in the linen closet one tablecloth and set of napkins never used ordinarily. Almost every woman, at some time or other, has experienced the embarrassment of having to use a soiled tablecloth and napkins for an unexpected company meal—and by putting away one set of table linen the "predicament" can be avoided, Mrs. Dougan shows.

These, and other emergency measures for the housewife of limited means will be incorporated in the daily lectures of the free cooking school conducted by the Daily Herald.

Short Program To Feature P.T.A. Tournament Friday

The Junior Hi P.T.A. bridge and 42 tournament to be held Friday afternoon at the Settles Hotel ballroom will feature a short program of dances between the games and the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ballou Hughes, who will open a dancing studio here in connection with Mrs. Lee Weathers will give a number. So will Janice Jacobs, who has been a pupil of Mrs. Weathers.

Guests are reminded that it is not necessary to call for reservations, unless they wish. Mrs. Shine Phillips, Mrs. R. T. Piner, in addition to Mrs. J. L. Webb and Mrs. Victor Mellinger, are taking reservations.

Clubs who play in a group are asked to bring their own cards.

The hour of the party is 4 o'clock.

A deal at a whist party in Reading, England, recently resulted in each of the four players having 12 cards of one suit.

Twice Market Price For Farmers' Products Offered By Herald As Pay For New or Renewed Subscriptions

Under a special plan evolved by the circulation department of the Herald farmers can use products grown on their farms as payment on subscriptions to the Daily Herald or the Weekly Herald. Products used in this manner must be brought to Big Spring, Saturday, September 19.

A special feature will be that double the market price will be allowed farmers who use their farm products in paying for their Herald. The plan may be used by both old and new subscribers—the former being allowed to pay for his paper as long as he likes and the latter using his products as payment for his new subscription.

Every farmer who has poultry, eggs, cream, cotton, cottonseed, wheat, okra, tomatoes, beans, peas, mauls, peaches or garden produce can take advantage of this unusual offer by selling his goods or next Saturday to one of the following firms who will be in the market for the various products:

Two-States Produce Co., 1221 W. 3rd—garden produce, including okra, tomatoes, beans, peas, all bunch vegetables, etc.

Big Spring Produce Co., 511 E. 2nd; hides, poultry and eggs.

Boadle Produce Co. and Cream Station, 111 E. N. 2nd—poultry, eggs and cream.

Planters Produce Co., 109 E. N. 2nd—poultry and eggs.

Cooperative Gin, 511 E. N. 2nd—cotton, wheat, oats and cottonseed.

Big Spring Gin Co., 701 E. 1st—cotton, cottonseed, wheat, oats and maize.

Each of these firms will buy the items indicated and issue in payment a receipt at the regular market price that day. The receipt will be accepted at the Herald office Saturday or any day until September 23 at twice its face value as payment on old or new subscriptions to the Daily Herald or Weekly Herald. If the farmer desires he may have the purchasing merchant issue him receipt in part payment and give him cash for the balance.

It is expected that by this plan the Herald will aid a large number of farmers in a material, worth while way. A great many farmers have products that they will ordinarily sell at standard market prices and by taking advantage of the Herald's plan for next Saturday they will be able to secure double the regular price as payment for their Herald subscription.

Big Spring Man Is Defendant In Suit for Damages

ABILENE, Sept. 17.—Arguments were heard in 42nd district court this morning in the $15,000 damage suit of Sinclair Balch, 9-year-old Abilene boy, against the Jacob E. Decker & Sons Sales company and John R. Hutto, Big Spring school teacher. The petition was filed by the boy's father, E. A. Balch.

Testimony of plaintiff's witnesses was that the boy was injured in July this year when struck by an automobile driven by Hutto, on First street, and that the Decker company was partially responsible for the accident, in that D. C. Coffman, driver of a company truck, increased his speed as Hutto attempted to pass the machine. The Hutto machine left the pavement striking the child as he was about to step from the parkway of the Woods barbecue shop on the east side of Butternut between South Ninth and Tenth streets, according to plaintiff's testimony.

Hutto testified he saw the child standing in the street as he was traveling south on Butternut and he swerved to the left to avoid striking him, that the youth stepped backward in the path of the car and that after striking the child, the car went onto the parkway.

Coffman testified he did not know the driver of a car was seeking to pass him and did not increase the speed of his truck at the point where the accident occurred.

Testimony in the case opening yesterday morning was concluded at mid-afternoon, and Judge M. S. Long then prepared his charge to the jury. The plaintiff is represented by Cox & Hayden, defendants by Scarborough, Ely & King.

Hutto came here from Big Spring where school opened Monday, to attend the trial.

730+ In this neat and becoming model, the plait of the skirt is buttoned to the waist at rounded tab extensions. The sleeve may be made short with a shaped upturned cuff, as shown in the large view, or long and finished with a hand cuff as in the small view. Contrast is expressed in this style. The skirt collar and cuffs are of mixed brown and tan woolen and the waist and sleeves of wood crepe in a tan shade. One could have the dress of one material or color. It would be very pleasing in velvet and crepe combined or in contrasting linen.

Oklahoma Story Is Feature For Sadler Company

In Oklahoma there is a story of the warfare between the cattlemen and the "nestors" as the early farmers were called. ### Muddiest Rush of Making Locations Ends In East Texas

KILGORE, Texas, Sept. 17 (UP).—The muddiest rush of making locations probably ever experienced yesterday as the state railroad commission's new order limiting the drilling of one well to each 20 acres became effective.

The order, becoming effective at 12:01 p. m. Tuesday, resulted in virtually every major company in the field, as well as many small and independent concerns, taking advantage of perhaps their last opportunity to drill more than one well per 20 acres.

Georgians Ask Special Session

ATLANTA, Sept. 17.—A large number of persons who had attended a mass meeting of the state capitol lawn crowded into the offices of Governor Richard B. Russell late today and demanded that a special session of the Georgia legislature be called for cotton relief.

Governor Russell was not in the office when the crowd appeared. By vote they decided to await his return.

When the governor arrived, the crowd, through a spokesman, told him a special session of legislature to act on the cotton situation was imperative.

He replied he would call a special session when Texas passed legislation governing the planting of cotton.

The crowd withdrew and appointed a committee to "demand" that the governor call a special session provided a majority of members of the house and senate agreed to serve without compensation.

The committee presented this demand and Governor Russell said: "When a majority of the members of both branches of the legislature advise me in writing that they will serve in a special session without pay, I will call a special session immediately."

After this statement the crowd withdrew.

GLACIER PARK, Mont. (INS)—One of the world's most spectacular horseback trails in available to tourists in Glacier National park this season.
Climbing to the mountainside at an elevation of 7000 feet—2000 feet above the valley floor—the new Ptarmigan trail, completed July 1, will give horseback riders a thrill as well as a sweeping view of glaciers and peaks.
Tunnelled for 183 feet through the Ptarmigan wall, and carved out of the perpendicular mountain side for another 2000 feet, the six-foot trail cuts about 10 miles off the route from Many Glaciers Hotel to Crossley lake and the Belly river region, where fishing is an attraction.
The tunnel is claimed to be the longest on horse trails in any national park and the trail is protected by a heavy masonry wall.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan Gould

Football coaches, particularly in the south, who are planning extensive experiments this fall with the new type of pigskin can go ahead without worrying over possible action this year by the rules committee.

Of course this matter of a football made of eight sections instead of four hasn't as yet become an official fact, so far as the game is concerned. It will not until the season is started and the first new pigskin is booted into play.

An official of the rules committee, who for that very reason does not want to be quoted officially, has this to say about the matter: "Naturally the new football has come to the attention of the committee but there has been no official discussion. There will not be, either, until teams have had a chance to play with the ball and we have had an opportunity to weigh the results of actual play."

"But of course there have been informal discussions and some of the faults of the new ball have come to the surface.
"The chief complaint of those who have tried the new pigskin seems to be that it does not rebound as the old one does when dropped to the ground for a drop kick.
"The chief advantage held forth is that a ball of eight sections, with eight seams binding the sections together instead of four, is easier to pass.

"Most passers, though, lay their fingers on the lines of the ball and they one seam with the thumb. No matter how many seams there are to grip there will remain only one thumb to grip with and only one set of laces for the fingers.
"The new ball does seem to have more accuracy because of the increased wind resistance against the added four seams.
"One possibility that seems to have been overlooked, however, is the chance that inferior leather will creep into the manufacture of the ball.
"The present ball, with four sections, requires the use of fairly large pieces of leather and fine quality is necessary. The smaller strips can be cut from inferior leather."

Hurdles Really Needed
Only in the south, where the new ball first was introduced, has the eight-section pigskin been given serious consideration although Andy Kerr, at Colgate, will give it a test to see if it really makes forward passing easier.
There has been no change in size or shape. And the boys will tell you that seams or no seams, a football never will be really easier to propel until they put hurdles on them.

Wildcat-Indian Encore
You can hear plenty of chatter already about the early season engagement between Notre Dame and Northwestern at Soldier Field. These two were tented rivals for national honors last fall when they collided at Evanston, with the Fighting Irish on top.
Both have powerful teams again and Dick Hanley's Wildcats are hopeful of gaining revenge at the expense of the Rockne-less Ramblers.
"We expect Notre Dame to be as strong this year as last," Spud Lewis, Northwestern's backfield coach, told me between rounds of the golfing battle at Beverly.
"The Rockne spirit is carrying on at South Bend to a remarkable extent. But Northwestern also will be strong. Our great passer, Pup Rentner, is back and that will add considerably to our attacking strength."

PARK IN THE CLOUDS
OTTAWA, Canada (INS).—What is regarded as probably the world's highest park is the National Park on Mount Revelstoke in the Canadian Rockies. It covers an area of 160 square miles on the wide plateau which forms the summit of Mount Revelstoke, which is above the clouds. A new motor road to the top provides one of the most thrilling drives in the mountains. Known as the "Royal Drive," it has been included in the itinerary of every royal party to tour Canada since the inception of the road. Ascending through heavy forest growth the view provided from the top is very attractive.

BLACKSMITH SHOPS DWINDLE IN CHICAGO
CHICAGO (INS).—Horses have become so uncommon in Chicago that only one of the city's ten remaining blacksmith shops is able to keep as many as two full time employees.
A recent survey showed that the combined working force of all the horse-shoeing establishments in the 230 square mile area totals eleven. Only nine men remain in the harness trade.
Chicago paid only $60,933 in wages to its horsehoers and harness makers in 1930, according to income tax reports, with the "mishys" taking in $48,764.

Holiday

garded by many members as a direct slap at the executive of Louisiana. Throughout the debate on the bill, his attitude and statements were subjected to the bitterest criticism on the floor in many years.
The bitter fight on the bill culminated when the house sitting as a committee of the whole, voted 212 to 37, against substituting the cotton holiday bill for a bill prepared by a special sub-committee that would restrict cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to one-third the cultivated area and prohibit planting the same land to cotton in successive years.
The action was not final. The acreage reduction bill, introduced by Representative J. J. Olsen of Yukon, was set for special order at 9:29 a. m. today after being given a favorable report to the house by the committee of the whole, 96 to 28.
Strength of the Long plan advocates dwindled as each vote was taken. On the motion to substitute the sub-committee bill for the original Olsen bill, Long plan adherents were defeated, 95 to 34.

Votes Come Swiftly
Votes on the proposals came swiftly after the house had listened to a long list of speakers for and against the Long plan. It had been feared no vote would be reached but late in the session leaders succeeded in ordering the previous question cutting off debate, and placed the hour under call until disposal was made of the question. Sergeant-at-arms scoured the city in search of absent members to insure the full voting strength of the house for the test.
Leaders for the Olsen bill were confident they had sufficient strength to finally pass the measure tomorrow under suspension of the rules. No attempt was anticipated to offer the Long bill as a substitute for the Olsen bill when consideration is started in the house proper. The smashing defeat by Long plan advocates precluded this possibility, it was argued.

Senate Debate Goes On
The senate continued debate on the cotton acreage reduction proposals after voting to limit acreage to 25 per cent of the cultivated land. An effort was being made in the senate to substitute the reduction bill for the Long plan bill which held first place on the calendar.
The action of the house was expected to accelerate a vote in the senate and it was predicted the senate would follow the house action tomorrow.
In closing for the no-cotton substitute, Representative Walter Jones of Jourdanton declared the attack on Long yesterday by Representative T. H. McGregor was "unworthy of a member of the house and bring a blush of shame to the cheeks of Pancho Villa." McGregor had compared Long to the mule, saying he was "without pride of ancestry or hope of posterity."
Assaults Sterling Jones also criticized Governor R. S. Sterling who at a recent mass meeting had attributed much of the national unrest to the Republican party and had referred to President Hoover as "that spineless cactus."
"I want you to know," Jones stated, "there are some officials in this state who need a little starch in their backbone."
The closing argument for the committee substitute was made by Representative A. P. Johnson of Carrizo Springs. Johnson urged the legislature to steer away from radicalism and predicted passage of the Long plan would cause widespread unemployment with its attendant misery and unrest.

FORECASTING SCIENTIFIC
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17. (INS)—Weather forecasting is strictly scientific, reports and weather charts are concerned. Roscoe Nunn, meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Bureau in St. Louis, said in an address at a recent meeting of the local Intellectual Research Society. "Weather forecasting is a rational, systematic, scientific business," he said. "But mathematical formulae for weather improvements have not been found, as yet, and probably will never be."
William Glencroo, last of the pre-railway carters in Scotland, has died at Banquhar, aged 82.
Twenty-two letters will be in Coach Russ Cohen's football camp at Louisiana State university.

A survey reveals approximately 27,000 public high schools and about 3500 private ones in the United States.

CHILEAN CITY PLANS GREATER CONEY ISLAND
VALPARISO, (INS).—This city is making ready to inaugurate next January a great seashore resort modeled after Coney Island, although the Chilean Coney Island will resemble much more Atlantic City.
The extensive Alejandro Barros park is being converted into the future playground, an immense stadium will be ready on January first, there will be roller-coasters, piers, vast hotels, a cement walk for several miles along the shore and bath houses to accommodate thousands.
The newspapers are enthusiastic in their descriptions of what they term the "Chilean Coney Island," and the admittance is repeated constantly to make the new development at least equal to the popular American resort.

Unpoliced American Theater In Paris Run By Jamaica Youth

By CROSWELL BOWEN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—An unfettered and unpoliced American theatre is scheduled to open in Paris this coming fall for the benefit of homesick American exiles and French people who believe "it is smart to speak English."
The theatre will be much like the New York Theatre Guild and will always remain experimental in nature, according to Harrison Gladstone, a Jamaica, Long Island youth who is to guide the destinies of the new venture. And no mere dream is this theatre for it is already built and Gladstone is present in this country hiring up actors and actresses.
"We intend to produce plays of all kinds and descriptions," he said, and there will be only two requirements; that the play is artistic and that it is worth while. We will not cater to the whims of managers and propaganda plays, as called, will be taboo. However, if a play is worth while and artistic we will present it and there will be no Manhattan cops to raid us.
Gladstone is being back by Madam Helena Rubenstein, beauty specialist, and her husband, Edward Titus, a Paris publisher. The theatre is located at 216 Boulevard Raspail in the heart of the Montparnasse quarter. It is capable of seating 300 and prices will range from 20 to 60 francs—about 20 cents to $240. Some of the space in the theatre building contains large studio apartments. Both Gladstone and his colleagues expect the theatre to be a very paying proposition despite the depression.
There are a good many reasons why an American theatre should be profitable in Paris, according to Gladstone. In the first place there is a colony of many thousands of Americans living permanently there. Most of them are wealthy and of the theatre-going class. Besides this, Paris being a highly metropolitan city, thousands of travelers pass through it all the time. The theatre, regardless of its American nationality will appeal to peoples of all nations and tongues, he says.
A school of drama is also to be carried on in connection with the theatre. Scenery designing, lighting, acting, and the general technique of the theatre will be studied. Gladstone is known as an expert scenic designer as well as a director and stage manager. Part of his experience was gained while conducting the Little Theatre in Paris.
He is somewhat of a smallish man with kindly yet quick moving eyes. He seems to have boundless energy and maintains a high pitch of enthusiasm for his work.

College Shifts Hinted In Test Of Ineligibles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17. (AP)—A three-year test which holds possibilities of bringing sweeping changes in student entrance requirements of institutions of higher education is announced by the University of Southern California.
Seventy graduates of secondary schools, who are not more than 21 years old and who do not meet the set entrance requirements of the university, will be selected for the test, which will begin this fall, Dr. Frank C. Toulton, vice president, said.
"Students in the experimental group will not be permitted any time in their college careers to compete in intercollegiate athletics," he said.
"During the time they are members of this group they may not hold membership in campus clubs or societies or other campus groups, and may not be pledged to a fraternity or sorority."
"Specifically the object of the experiment is to measure validity of tests of scholastic aptitude and of high school grades as entrance criteria for admission to college."
The group will be selected by use of entrance test criteria which measure scholastic aptitude and by "personal judgments as to scholastic promise, one of which should be from a high school principal."
The test will be conducted in the college of letters, arts and sciences. "The group," said Dr. Toulton, "will be closely observed and given guidance based on scientific studies with the view of developing, if possible, methods of study and work which will increase the probability of college success."
"The 70 entrants will be divided into groups of 35 each for instructional purposes so that significant contrasts will be made possible."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17. (INS)—A pair of real man-eating sharks founded into the net of three men who were getting bait in the harbor here, and then towed the three out into Long Island sound for a distance estimated at ten miles before the sharks were killed. The three fishermen were Anthony Dorso, Frank DiMarino, and Patrick DiMichael. The men were photographed with their catch. One shark weighed 300 pounds and the other 210 pounds. It was the first invasion of the harbor by sharks ever recorded.

Prince of Siam Has His Opinion Of Interviewers

His excellency Prince Svastil of Siam is a royal potentate, father of a queen and uncle of the only absolute monarch in the world.

When he stepped off the train in Denver recently, however, the prince was just another heat-ridden tourist escaping to the coolness of Colorado from the sweltering mid-west.

"Hot, prince?" some one asked him. "hot!"

The prince, who stopped over in Denver to visit his son, Lieut. Svastil Pradish, military observer at Fort Loper, cheerfully posed for his picture with a group of pretty girls.

Later, in his hotel room, he was no longer the jovial traveler of the station platform but a man with rather outspoken views on world affairs.

Prohibition doesn't appeal to the prince. In his country they lay a heavy tax on foreign spirits. The chief drink of the natives is arak, made from rice.

"I don't shut newspapermen," he said. "I am a published myself, but I am tired to death of being asked silly questions by boys just out of college. In an interview I don't want to lecture on geography."

The prince was accompanied by his wife, Prince Arjuna, a son, and Pra Noraraj, chamberlain of the royal Siam household.

FIRST WHITE MAN TO VISIT ARCTIC INDIANS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (NS)—Cornelius Osgood, 23, assistant curator of anthropology at Peabody museum, Yale University, was the first white man from America to visit the Harekin Indians in the Arctic Circle and return.

This is revealed in an announcement by the secretary of Yale of the publication of Osgood's adventures in a book called "Steps in the Dark," written by Chicago newspaperman.

Previous to Osgood's trip to the Indians, two missionaries reached the tribe in 1915 and were soon slain. Osgood went up in May, 1928, while a graduate student at University of Chicago. He went to reconstruct the ethnology of the race and returned fifteen months later with his work done.

The Harekins live in the vicinity of the Great Bear Lake, on the Arctic Circle, and are supposed to have crossed over from Asia by way of Bering Strait. There are 1,000 of them in existence today, and are considered forerunners of the American Indian.

Milton Mayer and John Howe wrote the book in which Osgood's adventures are related.
