

Signs Of The Times

Carl Coleman, Big Spring High School coach, didn't appear in the least surprised when a grinning football stared back at him from a mirror as he tried on a new felt hat. Footballs and felt hats have a lot in common, and Coleman confided that it was nothing unusual lately for him to see footballs in front of his eyes. As for the felt hats, there's no regulation against wearing them anytime, but they really come into their own for this season Friday, which has been designated as "Felt Hat Day" in Big Spring. And local merchants have all of the latest styles in stock for the big event.

Two C-C Groups Slate Sessions Here Tomorrow

Two area Chamber of Commerce groups are to meet in Big Spring Friday and one of the sessions will continue through Saturday. Starting tomorrow is the annual short course for Chamber managers, presidents and secretaries, a training session sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The school will be concluded Saturday afternoon.

Registration will be held during the afternoon followed by a reception and dinner arranged by the Big Spring Chamber.

A full day of instruction for managers, secretaries and presidents of local Chambers will start at 8 a.m. Saturday. ## Storm Threat To Florida Is Lessened

MIAMI (AP)—A tropical hurricane, packing winds of 100 miles per hour, took a slight curve to the northwest today lessening the threat to the Bahama Islands and the Florida coast.

An Air Force plane from Bermuda penetrated the season's fourth tropical storm at 7:45 a.m. (CST) and located the center about 600 miles east and a little south of Miami.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau, said that "if the hurricane continued on its present course it would not touch the Florida mainland."

Norton emphasized the "if" and said the storm was still in the formative stage, and conditions might change in a few hours. He said the plane reported Hurricane Dolly was still open to the south and had not formed a complete circle around the eye.

104 Counties Knocked Off Drought Aid List

Normal Years Urged As Cotton Acreage Base

TEMPLE (AP)—Rep. Bob Poage, Waco Democrat and ranking minority member of the House Agriculture Committee, has urged the Production & Marketing Administration "to fight the farmer's battle."

A meeting Poage arranged here yesterday of West Texas cotton and wheat farmers put acreage allotments at the top of its discussions.

Farmers looked to a government crop report today for a tip on whether rigid controls are likely to be invoked on 1954 crop.

Such controls already have been approved by growers for next year's wheat crop. A forecast Tuesday indicated controls will be proposed on next year's cotton. Big cotton and wheat crops this year are creating surplus supplies. Allotments are less restrictive than quotas. Farmers may abide by or ignore allotments, whereas quotas are, in general, mandatory. Urging the PMA to use normal years instead of drought years in setting up any allotments for next year, Poage said one million acres normally planned to cotton were lost during the drought in 1952 and 1953.

If the PMA considers only the actual crop acreage planted this year, the Congressman said, every county in the state will lose its pro rata share of acreage. Directing his remarks toward H. Marshall of the PMA's state office at College Station, Poage said the agency must take the farmers' figure on acreage prepared for planting.

"You are the most direct representative the farmers have," Poage told Marshall. "and the PMA has a duty to the farmers of Texas and the nation. It is your obligation to fight the farmer's battle."

Only farmers who comply would be eligible for price support aid on their crop.

Rep. Omar Burleson, Anson Democrat, attended the meeting in company with West Texas farmers.

At College Station, State PMA Chairman Claude McCann said: "Bob (Poage) is taking the attitude that we ought to go right ahead and measure the acreage. We can't do that. We received a telegram from Washington yesterday telling us not to measure it."

On Poage's suggestion that the PMA "fight the farmer's battle," McCann commented, "Who are you going to fight? If you assume you will fight a battle you have to have an opponent."

J. W. Sanderson Dies Wednesday

James Wesley Sanderson, 81, another of those who helped convert this from a range empire into one of farms as well, died in a hospital here at 9:25 p. m. Wednesday. Funeral will be held at 5 p. m. Friday at the Nalley Chapel with the Rev. Cecil Rhodes, West Side Baptist pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the city cemetery.

Mr. Sanderson, who resided 2 1/2 miles south of Knott, was born in Craighead County, Ark. on Sept. 8, 1872. He was married in 1898 and Mrs. Sanderson died on Nov. 20, 1943.

They came here in 1906 and had reared their family here. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Pierson Morgan, Big Spring, and Mrs. George Chapman, Knott; four sons, Lonnie R. (Mickey) Sanderson and Charles F. Sanderson, Knott, E. O. (Boots) Sanderson, Big Spring, and James L. Sanderson, Abilene. Fifteen grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren also survive. Pallbearers will be D. L. Knight, J. T. Chapman, Roy Phillips, Elvis Caudill, Harry Hurt, Elbert Roman, Aigie Smith, Leonard Smith.

Big Spring Area Is Still Eligible

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR. COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Ranchers in only 48 West Texas drought counties still can order cheap emergency livestock feed from the government.

The State Drought Disaster Committee in a closed meeting yesterday cut the list of eligible counties from the 152 declared a disaster area in July.

Claud McCann of Victoria, committee chairman, said the 104 counties lopped off were suspended only temporarily.

This also was the case when the committee earlier suspended 12 counties that had been added to the drought disaster area Aug. 18. McCann said the suspension did not mean ranchers were being left in the lurch while waiting for recent rains to grow new range grasses. He said "a lot" of relief feed is already in those counties, some still undistributed, and more is on the way from previous orders.

"This is an emergency program—not a cheap feed program," McCann said. "The suspension simply means that no more orders will be accepted from those counties."

The 48 counties remaining take in roughly the western third of the state. The border counties are Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Crosby, Dickens, Kent, Fisher, Nolan, Coke, Tom Green, Concho, Menard, Kinble, Edwards and Kinney.

Draw a line around those counties and you will mark off the area in which ranchers can still order relief feed.

"The idea," said McCann, "is to narrow this drought area down, get it down to the counties that are still in distress and stop shipments to the other counties."

J. R. Lyons, Amarillo farmer and state PMA Committee member who sat in on the meeting, said:

"There may be individuals in those 104 counties who might have got pinched. That's the only tragic part about it. And there isn't any way you can help it."

McCann said the committee will not recommend that the Secretary of Agriculture remove any county permanently from the drought disaster list.

"As far as this committee is concerned," he said, "there are no counties removed from the drought area—just suspended."

Asked if the committee based its decision to drop the 104 counties on information from the county drought committees, McCann said:

"We got it from all the counties and gathered it every way in the world—from various sources, including weather reports."

McCann said the 60 counties suspended counties might complain there wasn't enough time for grass to grow between the rains of late summer and the suspension.

"But there is a lot of feed in these 104 counties from previous distribution, and some still to be distributed," he said.

"Some feed already ordered is still on the way and it will be distributed, too."

"So these counties will have an interim period when they will not be out of feed."

"We are regrouping on these feed orders because this feed is really getting in there fast."

As of Aug. 31, state PMA records show, all drought counties had received a total of 34,912 tons of cottonseed meal; 77,219 tons of cottonseed pellets; 39,999 tons of corn; 30,999 tons of oats; 1,912 tons of wheat.

McCann said that on Sept. 4 some 250 carloads of cottonseed meal and pellets were on the road.

Drought committee members who attended the meeting were L. J. Cappelman of Dallas, regional FFA director, Grover C. Carothers Jr., Stamford rancher and farmer and Nolan Williamson, assistant director of the Texas A&M Extension Service.

Members not present were William McGill of Austin, state coordinator of civil defense and dis-

U.S. Aid Plan Backed For War In Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP)—An extra $85 million dollars to help France battle the Communists in Indochina was reported today to have been recommended by the U. S. National Security Council.

Round-sum figures were first disclosed here, and French Premier Laniel later specified the total in a Paris statement. He expressed great satisfaction.

The American funds would enable France to transfer nine battalions of troops from Europe to Indochina to lead a new campaign against the Communist-led guerrillas.

Highly placed officials who reported this said the security council, the government's top policy-making body, decided on this move yesterday at a review of the Indochina war.

President Eisenhower is expected to approve the recommendation after discussing it with key congressional leaders to determine how to scrape up the money.

Preliminary estimates indicate the new aid program would cost some 300 to 400 million dollars in addition to the 400 millions Congress appropriated for Indochina this year.

The Eisenhower military and foreign policy leaders are reported convinced the United States has no alternative but to back the new French Indochina program if it wants to keep this strategic Southeast Asia nation out of Communist hands.

Communist-led rebels, supplied by Red China, already have conquered large areas of Indochina during an eight-year campaign and have tied up more than 350,000 French and loyal Indochinese troops.

The new French plan for winding up the conflict was put forward by the government headed by Premier Joseph Laniel. Its author is Gen. Henri Navarre, who drafted it after a visit to the battlefield.

The offer to move nine battalions of French troops to Indochina to reinforce units already there is reported to be the principal feature of this new strategy.

But the French are said to have promised also that they will try to build up the loyal Viet Nam army further so it, along with Cambodian and Laos forces, can eventually take over the burden of defending Indochina.

To increase popular native support for the Indochina conflict, the French government also has pledged to grant complete and lasting independence to the three Indochina states.

The Laniel government secretly appealed to the United States for additional aid money about six weeks ago. The National Security Council and other key government agencies have been weighing the problem since then.

Eisenhower discussed the strategy and cost aspects with Secretary of State Dulles, officials said, during a foreign policy review Monday at his summer vacation White House in Denver. He had opportunity for a briefing on the security council views on a brief trip to the capital today.

Dulles said in a speech in St. Louis last Wednesday that full-scale Chinese Communist intervention in Indochina might provoke the West to retaliate against the China mainland.

Dulles, meanwhile, was concerned with other Pacific problems—those involving Australia and New Zealand, partners with this country in the ANZUS mutual defense treaty, which takes its name from the initials of the three signers.

Officials said that at yesterday's sessions the Prime Ministers of Australia and New Zealand agreed to oppose either diplomatic recognition of Red China or seating her in the United Nations until there is a Korean peace settlement. The United States has consistently opposed either step.

Last Tribute Paid To Fred Vinson At Capital Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—The humble and the great offered a last mournful tribute today to Fred M. Vinson who was born of modest origin and died as chief justice of the United States.

From the national capital and the country over they assembled for funeral services in the great church of Washington (Episcopal) Cathedral.

Special places were reserved for President Eisenhower, former President Truman, Supreme Court justices, Cabinet members, diplomats. There was space, too, for just plain people come to honor distinguished American.

Vinson died of a heart attack early Tuesday morning. He was 63. For nearly three decades this friendly man had served his country. As a congressman from Kentucky, as secretary of the Treasury and in other high positions in the executive branch of the government, and finally for seven years as chief justice.

Tomorrow he will be buried in Louisiana, the little town where he was born, in a cemetery on the bluff of the big Sandy River.

Truman counted Vinson as a trusted adviser. He put him in his Cabinet and then on the Supreme Court bench. Eisenhower, too, esteemed the jurist as a personal friend, even though Vinson was a lifelong Democrat.

And today President and former President were drawn together for the first time since the change of administrations for a final measure of homage to a man they saluted as a great citizen.

Eisenhower interrupted his Colorado vacation to fly to Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Truman came by train from their Missouri home.

The eight remaining members of the Supreme Court, the honorary pallbearers at the services here and in Louisiana, interrupted their own vacations to be on hand.

Vinson died less than a month before the Oct. 5 opening of the fall term of the Supreme Court. In the midst of the parting solemnities, Washington wondered about a successor.

Gov. Earl Warren of California? Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York? Both are Republicans. Associate Justice Harold Burton, former senator from Ohio and only Republican now on the bench?

Eisenhower was offering no cues that might indicate whom he will select. In the event the vacancy remains unfilled, when the court convenes next month, Justice Hugo Black, the senior member, will preside.

PROGRESS TOWARD BALANCE

Stable U.S. Economy Viewed As World Trade's Main Hope

By STERLING F. GREEN WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the United States to avoid depression will largely determine whether the world can achieve a free and stable exchange of goods and money, the International Monetary Fund declared today.

In its annual report to governors of the fund and the World Bank, representing 55 nations, the fund reported substantial progress toward a balance of world trade—a pattern free from recurring dollar shortages abroad.

But the balance is precarious and can be upset, the report said, if the United States and other creditor countries maintain high tariff and other trade barriers or, because of recession, curtail their imports.

"The possibility of 'even a rather small decline in American business activity' gives concern to many nations, the report said. It emphasized that the decline of U.S. military spending need not necessarily cause a business dip, and noted that the U.S. government is committed to take vigorous measures to combat any slump.

"However, any short downturn would at once bring back the dollar problem in its full severity, despite any action taken by other countries in the meantime to strengthen their position," the report said.

Ivar Rooth, the fund's managing director, in a speech prepared for delivery on presentation of the report today, echoed the appeal made yesterday by World Bank President Eugene R. Black for a more liberal U.S. tariff policy.

If the fund's debtor countries are to achieve "convertibility"—that is, make their money freely exchangeable for dollars and other currencies—they must have more ready access to markets where dollars can be earned, Rooth said.

Steady progress toward elimination of dollar deficits in the past year, Rooth went on, has brought the world to a point at which "the convertibility of currencies has become a practicable objective." He continued:

"Convertibility requires a willingness to permit considerably more free competition than is normal practice today, not only with other exports in foreign markets, but also with imports in domestic markets.

"What the great creditor countries, and particularly the United States, do about their foreign economic policies is highly important for currency convertibility."

The fund advised European nations to look to Western Hemisphere countries other than the United States as areas in which dollars can be earned. Canada, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Venezuela present no barriers to convertibility, the report said, and all have dollars available because of heavy U.S. defense buying in the Western Hemisphere.

Meantime, the World Bank, whose governors are holding their annual session jointly with the fund, approached a showdown with its last Iron Curtain member, Czechoslovakia.

The bank's Committee on Finance and Organization late yesterday voted to recommend to the governors that Czechoslovakia be suspended from membership on Dec. 31 unless the Czech government has paid by then the sum it pledged to the bank's capital.

Reds Hurl Series Of Truce Charges

By SAM SUMMERLIN MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists today accused the Allies of faking a list of missing U. N. soldiers, mistreating war prisoners and kidnapping a Pole who fled a truce supervisory team into American sanctuary.

The Reds unloaded this barrage as the Korean armistice moved rapidly into a new phase—the disposal of Red and Allied prisoners who refuse to return to their homelands.

The first group of 500 North Koreans moved into the buffer zone under control of Indian troops today.

A spokesman said they threw rocks in rage when they saw two Communist observers standing outside a barbed wire fence. The Communist backed out of range. Neither was hit.

The first group of 1,900 anti-Red Chinese was to be turned over to Indian troops Friday.

The angry Red charge of kidnapping the Pole came in a meeting of the four-nation truce supervisory commission.

Swedish Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, commission chairman, said Poland's delegate accused the Americans of kidnapping Jan Hajdukiewicz, a Polish interpreter who ducked from his inspection team into American hands as a plane warmed up to take him back to Red Korea Wednesday.

Grafstrom said the Polish delegate threatened to lodge a strong protest, probably Saturday.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen at Seoul, he wants no more of communism, which he termed "the subjugation of all life... cruel."

The other Red denunciations were broadcast by Peiping radio, often a wastehour for official moves to come.

Peiping said 4,579 Red prisoners returned in the exchange just ended have been hospitalized because of "physical and mental torture at the hands of the Americans."

Condemning what it termed "ghastly examples of American brutality . . . American torture chamber methods," Peiping said "a shocking number" of the 75,799 repatriates were suffering from various diseases. It said others were "gassed, bayoneted and

Missing Men List To Be Made Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—A faint spark of hope went out from the Pentagon today to the next of kin of 944 American servicemen whose whereabouts are unknown since their reported capture by the Reds in Korea.

The Defense Department list will be made public beginning tomorrow, 24 hours after telegrams are dispatched to the relatives of the men missing and unaccounted for.

The list includes 610 from the Army, 312 from the Air Force, 19 from the Marines and 3 from the Navy. The Communists were asked yesterday to account for them.

The list of missing men was based on Communist propaganda reports, the word of their exchanged buddies, private letters and other sources.

The Communists have not reported that any of the men escaped or died in captivity.

The Pentagon said yesterday the next of kin of the 944 Americans are being sent this message:

"The secretary of the (appropriate department) has asked me to inform you that the name of (the missing serviceman) was included in a list of servicemen who, there is reason to believe, were at one time in Communist custody but for whom no accounting has yet been made. This list has been presented to the Communists with an urgent request for such an accounting.

4-H Club Junior Rodeo Set For Opening Tonight

Ninety young people, with enthusiasm to make up for any lack of finesse, will match skill and endurance tonight with some of the wildest rodeo stock seen here in years.

Action in large doses is forecast for the opening performance of the eighth annual 4-H Club Junior Rodeo at 8 p.m. in the Rodeo Bowl. Other shows will be at the same hour Friday and Saturday evenings.

Entry lists swelled to larger proportions than expected when the lists were closed Thursday morning. There were so many calf and ribbon ropers that extra divisions will have to be run.

As a prelude to the event, a parade with three bands and a host of mounted riders is slated for 4:30 p.m. today through the downtown section. The Webb Air Force Band and color guard will be in the front, followed by riders, the Coahoma High School and the Big Spring High School bands. There also will be floats.

Music for the three shows will be furnished by the Big Spring High School band under direction of Clyde Rowe. Concerts will start 15 minutes in advance of the show time.

The colorful grand entry at the arena will include the presentation of the rodeo directors: James Shortes, president; Lorin McDowell II, vice president; Marie Petty, secretary; Jesse Overton and Sonny Choate (4-H president), directors. Also to be presented will be judges Jack Buchanan, Tools Mansfield and Sonny Edwards. Timekeepers will be W. F. Driver and Jess Slaughter.

Entries stacked up like this, according to Virginia Low:

Calf ropers 37, bareback bronc riders 23, barrel race 11, flag race 18, ribbon roping 41, boot scramble 4, bull riding 33.

Appraisal of the salty characteristics of the stock was no guesswork. Club leaders and others put the calves, horses and bulls through their paces in a tryout Wednesday evening. Wild and woolly, was the verdict. Fresh off the range, the animals had not been schooled in the niceties of the rodeo and didn't seem to know when to quit trying.

That, however, was expected to be the situation with the performance.

Because he "said it with sales" during June, a month set specially apart to honor the Packard company president, James J. Nance, a plaque was presented to H. M. Rowe here Wednesday, F. E. McCarty, Dallas, district manager, made the presentation for the achievement of Rowe Motor Company. With him at a dinner attended by Mayor G. W. Dabney, County Judge R. H. Weaver and other community leaders was another district official, Oscar Dunn.

Martin County Cuts Budget By $18,700

STANTON (SC) — Budgetary reductions aimed at staying in the black will top off $18,700 from anticipated expenditures of Martin County for the next year.

County Judge James McMorris, in announcing reduction of some office forces and of general downward salary revisions, said that the action was precautionary.

"We are operating in the black now," he said, "and we want to stay that way. Because of drought conditions, we don't anticipate as high a percentage of tax collections as in the past."

Discontinued as of Oct. 1 will be the office of secretary to the county agent and one of the deputy positions in the county clerk's office. Unless conditions should warrant a change in plans, one deputy sheriff's place will be eliminated Oct. 1 and a tax deputy position on Nov. 1.

The salary adjustment approximated 10 per cent with some revisions for the county attorney and treasurer, he added. The custodial salary will be unchanged.

In addition to general conditions which have affected the promptness of payments this year and may cut the ultimate percentage this year, McMorris said the activity which had caused addition of certain deputies had subsided.

"If tempo of things were to step up," he pointed out, some of the places might be maintained. But as it is now the fees of office have fallen off to where the places can hardly be justified in light of anticipated revenues."

Judge McMorris explained that county balances over-all were as much as on Jan. 1, 1953, but that the customary transfer between funds had not been done so that for bookkeeping purposes the general fund was overdrawn. The economy steps, he added, are designed to help bring this fund back in the black without necessity of transfer.

Collections this year amounted to 96 per cent of the last roll, but about 40 per cent were tardy. Based on this, McMorris said the commissioners court had pegged a 70 per cent estimate for '53 taxes. The county has not found it necessary to borrow, and he hoped that action being taken would preclude such a course.

Ten Warrants Are Executed Where Tickets Ignored

Ten of a group of warrants issued from the Corporation Court for the arrest of persons who have ignored traffic tickets in the past have been executed, according to the records.

Police officers are now engaged in a search for the others and the warrants will be executed promptly upon the persons being found, an official announcement says.

Clerks are now engaged in going through the files checking on tickets and agreements to appear in court which have been ignored by motorists and warrants will be issued on these as soon as possible.

Corporation Court Judge Mack Rodgers says that persons who have received tickets in the past and who have not appeared in court to answer them may avoid having a warrant issued for them if they will bring these tickets in promptly.

Washington Penitentiary Quiet As Tear Gas Ends Newest Riot

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Quiet settled over the Washington state penitentiary today and a prison official said "all appears peaceful" after last night's damaging riot and fire.

Deputy Warden Al Remboldt said 800 inmates who took part in a noisy uprising that followed a half-million dollar prison fire remained in their cells and "no fresh trouble" is expected.

Guards, who broke up last night's disorders by spraying prisoners' quarters with tear gas, patrolled prison walls and buildings. They had the help of state patrol and sheriff's officers who hurried to the prison when the trouble began last night.

The guards kept the outbreak to a minimum. They quickly herded prisoners into their cells when 14 inmates began acting up at evening meal time. Dishes were thrown and chairs smashed as a group of "young but tough" men began misbehaving.

This occurred about two hours after an unexplained fire roared through the institution's metals plant, destroying it and over one million license plates destined for use on Washington state automobiles in 1954.

Damage from the fire was estimated by Deputy Warden Al Remboldt at half a million dollars. No disorders accompanied the blaze. It started after the plant had been closed down for the evening.

Officials were prepared, however, for unrest and acted quickly when the dining room melee broke out. Back in their cells, the men apparently became annoyed. Remboldt said, because the prison's ventilation system failed when the fire burned out part of the power circuits.

Soon the convicts began hurling materials and abuse out the barred doors of their cells.

Mattresses were set afire and tossed out windows which had been broken with fists or articles ripped from cell walls. Lavatories were broken from their supports and smashed. Disorders grew more violent until they reached their peak about 8 p.m. in four wings.

Eighty guards and 30 police officers entered the cell blocks, filling the cells with tear gas. Cursing and shouting taunts, the inmates continued their depredations through a second volley of tear gas.

They quieted down after a third treatment and guards started moving from cell to cell, cleaning up the mess and getting the convicts bedded down for the night.

Two convicts were overcome by the tear gas and given treatment in the prison hospital. Five others were removed to an isolation tank. Damage from the disturbance was estimated at as high as $150,000.

Guards said the ringleaders apparently were a group of younger inmates who were "feeling their oats."

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Former Queen Narriman has filed suit for divorce and asked $14,350 a month alimony from ex-king Farouk, 33.

She "has no plans so far" to claim the custody of their 19-month-old son, her lawyer, Sheikhi Muharrin Fahim, said yesterday. He said Narriman charged adultery, maltreatment, mental cruelty and estrangement.

Farouk is living near Rome with his son. Nineteen-year-old Narriman fled Egypt with him but returned last March and since has lived quietly with her mother in Heliopolis, a Cairo suburb.

Business Is Seeking New Money For Expansion Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Business is out this month actively looking for "new money." The would-be borrowers show no sign of fearing a slump and being ready to draw back into their shells.

Corporate debt has about doubled in seven years as business seeks new money to finance the building of plants and buying of equipment. It also borrows because inflation and growth have boosted its need of working capital.

After the summer lull, September is seeing an active revival of offerings of new corporate securities. A prime example is American Telephone & Telegraph's plan to seek a record 625 million dollars this fall.

New capital issues (excluding refunding) by corporations this year apparently are going to just about equal last year's record total of nearly nine billion dollars, the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago predicts.

Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission foresee a slight let-down by year's end in the present record pace of business spending for plant and equipment.

"Capital outlays may fall from current peak levels," the Chicago

POW Exchange Ends Without Word About Death March Hero

By DON WHITEHEAD
 Editor's Note — Pulitzer Prize winner Don Whitehead was a war correspondent in Korea at the time the story of the major about whom he writes here first came to light.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Operation Big Switch has ended in Korea and still there is no word of what happened to "The Major"—the hero of a Communist-ordered death march from Seoul in the early days of the war.

His wife is still waiting after three years for someone, somewhere to end the terrible suspense of not knowing.

She is like thousands of other Americans who had a husband or a son or a father among the almost 8,000 men missing in action. She had hoped her man was still alive and would be among those freed.

Now she hopes there is someone among the returning prisoners who will be able to tell her the fate of her husband. There are undoubtedly hundreds of others with similar hopes.

Here is the beginning of the major's story. Perhaps someone among the returning prisoners might yet be able to write an end.

The major is William Thomas

McDaniel of Aboskie, N. C. and Albany, Ga. He was stationed at Camp Haugen in northern Honshu Japan, when the war began. He was 35 years old, a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy in the class of 1941. He lived at Camp Haugen with his 27-year-old wife Helen and his two sons—then 4 and 3.

The war had been under way only a few days when McDaniel was ordered into Korea with the 24th Infantry Division. He told his wife it would be best for her to take the children home to North Carolina until he could join them.

A few days after he left, Mrs. McDaniel received a letter. The major told her not to worry. Everything was going to be all right.

McDaniel reached the front about July 15, 1950. Elements of his division—commanded by Maj. Gen. William Dean—were fighting a desperate battle for time around Taejeon. The Reds had overrun part of the artillery. Even Gen. Dean was down with his troops shooting at tanks.

McDaniel led a foray to recapture howitzers overrun by the Reds. He did, leading his men through a gauntlet of enemy fire.

And then McDaniel was captured only five days after he entered the fight. He never knew he won the Silver Star for his bravery and a promotion to the rank of lieutenant.

About three months later, we heard the story of McDaniel from survivors of a Red massacre at a railroad tunnel near the little town of Suncheon in North Korea.

The boys who escaped the massacre knew McDaniel only as "The Major."

"He was a wonderful guy," one of them said. "The major risked his own neck to get better treatment for us. He always gave us part of his food and shared his cigarettes and he took care of us at best he could."

McDaniel was forced to march from Seoul to Pyongyang with a prisoner group. Whenever a prisoner died on this death march—died of illness or a Red bullet in the head—the major insisted on a Christian burial. He refused to go on until he had said a prayer over the grave. In each grave he left a bottle containing the name and serial number of the dead man.

A survivor said: "We never would have made it except for the major." And others who escaped agreed.

It was in October 1950 that the Reds put McDaniel and other prisoners on a train which was to carry them from Pyongyang to Manchuria. U. S. bombers attacked the train and it stopped in a tunnel to wait for the shield of darkness. And there the Communist guards decided to kill their prisoners.

At dusk the guards told McDaniel to come with them—that they were going to get food for the prisoners. The major left the train with his captors.

Then the guards took the other Americans from the train in three groups. As the boys sat in the fields with their rice bowls in their hands, waiting to be fed, the guards opened fire. We found 68 bodies. Somehow 22 youths survived that night of horror. And they told the story of the major.

"We never saw the major after he left the train," one youth said. "We don't know what happened to him."

For three years Mrs. McDaniel has been hoping someone will be able to tell her whether the major still lives—or what happened at the tunnel after he left the train.

She is living now in Williamsburg, Va. Both McDaniel boys, Tom and John, are old enough to go to school this year. And Mrs. McDaniel has decided to get a job.

"For a long time I couldn't bear to talk about what happened," she says. "But finally I knew I had to face reality. I still hope there will be someone coming back who can tell me something. Anything is better than this."

Advanced Class In First Aid Is Planned Here

An advanced first aid course will be taught here early this fall by Jack Lamb of Foran, F. G. L. Snow first aid chairman of the Howard-Glasscock Chapter of the American Red Cross has announced.

Deadline for registration has been set for Sept. 25. Snow said that persons who wish to take the course may register by calling the Red Cross office at 4-3033.

The course consists of 10 hours of practical instruction and is open only to persons who have completed the regular 20-hour basic course in first aid.

"This course is all practical work with the student participating in actual demonstrations of the various things learned from the book in the basic course," Snow explained.

The enrollment will determine the site of the class work, and a definite schedule will be drawn soon after registration is completed. Snow said that arrangements would be made for facilities to accommodate a large class if there is enough interest.

Refugees And Son Reunited

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—The long vigil for one of the countless Korean families separated by war ended for a moment yesterday in a short, silent reunion.

Choe Jae Man, a policeman, learned from a newspaper that anti-Communist North Korean prisoners held on Koje Island would pass through Pusan.

He and his wife, both refugees from North Korea, traveled 60 miles to this port city. They spotted their son, Choe Hyong Sok, 26, among 500 prisoners who were transferred from a landing craft to a train bound for the demilitarized zone.

The tearful mother rapped the tightly closed window of a U. S. Army bus which carried young Choe to the train. Without a word, parents and son waved at each other. Then the bus pulled away.

The father said his son, a former medical student, was forced into the Red army soon after the war started and later captured by U. N. forces.

Choe must remain with the group resisting repatriation for 90 days, during which time the Reds will attempt to persuade him to return to North Korea.

"I am sure my son will come back to us and live with us in the Republic of Korea," his father said. "We will wait until he goes through what he has to. I know he will endure anything and never return to Communist North Korea."

84-Year-Old Is Held To Have Loiter Right

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man of 84 years "has a right to loiter," Mayor Roy Hofheinz exclaimed yesterday.

Hearing the appeal of an 84-year-old man arrested Monday in a pool hall, the mayor volunteered to pass a hat around and take up collection should a fine be levied against him.

7 White Men Indicted For Holding Negroes As Slaves

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A seventh white farmer was expected to surrender today to face federal charges of holding Negroes in slavery. Six others from Alabama and Mississippi were freed in bond yesterday.

U. S. Dist. Atty. Frank Johnson Jr. said Lindsay Winyard Dall, 43, one of six Dial brothers and cousins who were indicted by a federal grand jury, would appear at the U. S. marshal's office during the day.

The indictment charges that one Negro man died after being bound and whipped at gunpoint.

Three alleged beatings of Negroes were listed.

The defendants paid fines for Negroes who were in Mississippi jails and took them to their extensive farm holdings in Sumter County, in west-central Alabama, Johnson said. There the Negroes were required to work out the debts.

Other defendants besides Lindsay Dial are his first cousins Oscar Edwin Dial, 34, Fred N. Dial, 25, Grady Clarence Dial, 28, Robert Mitchell Dial, 44; Arthur Arnold Dial, also known as Otto Dial, 27, a second cousin of the four Dial brothers; and Charles Harper, also known as Francis Harper Portersville, Miss. Oscar Dial and Harper were placed in $2,500 bond. The others posted $1,000 bond.

The indictment alleged that when the Dials brought the Negroes to their farm near Boyd, Ala., to "work out the debt," the Negroes were held in "involuntary servitude and slavery."

Roderick Beddow of Birmingham for the seven, said they made statements that they were innocent of the charges.

Federal authorities claim that Herbert Thompson died after being beaten because he tried to run away last May.

148 Naked Paraders Are Under Arrest

NELSON, B.C. (AP)—Seventy-one women and 77 men in the Doukhobor tent village of Polatka were arrested last night for parading in the nude in protest to orders that their children attend public schools.

The arrests were made by Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the village situated on the outskirts of nearby Perry Siding, 250 miles east of Vancouver, B.C. The members of a radical wing of the Doukhobor colony were rounded up and put on Canadian Pacific Railway cars for shipment to Vancouver. They offered no resistance but remained unclothed during the roundup.

All of the 148 persons arrested have been charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Only a few of the Doukhobor children showed up at school opening time.

RCMP officials said the tent village would be dismantled. Polatka is the Russian word for tent village.

The radical group has for years opposed regularly constituted authority. They have been a headache to provincial authorities ever since coming from Russia early this century.

Houston Termed Not Liable For Damages

HOUSTON (AP)—City Atty. Will Sears recommended disapproval yesterday of insurance companies' requests for $300,000 damages sustained by their policy-holders in the June 5 Alco Fireworks and Specialty Co. explosion.

"The city has no liability," Sears asserted. The explosion killed four people and injured about 100.

Woman, Missionary Reach High Summit

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A petite French dressmaker and a Swiss missionary turned mountain climber have conquered 23,410-foot Nun Kun peak in Kashmir, according to reports reaching here today.

Mrs. Claude Kozan, 34, of Nice, France, and 27-year-old Pierre Vidvoz reached the summit Aug. 28, the report said. The two are members of a French expedition led by Parisian silk merchant Bernard Pierre.

Houstonian Has More Time Than Money

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—John H. Hernandez apparently has more time than money.

Admitting a marijuana charge to Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay, Hernandez hardly batted an eye when told of his five-year sentence in prison yesterday.

He flinched when told of his $10 fine, however, and swung around with a worried look on his face.

"When do I have to pay the fine?" he asked.

The Small Fry Have Beauty Problems, Too

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD—In September the mass movement of returning back to school puts the family's spot light on the small fry. Even though they may not be in their teens they have beauty problems too.
 With this in mind I went to Universal International to lunch with Gigi Perreau, talented child star who has been working in pictures since she was two.
 As soon as we told the waitress what we wanted, Gigi proudly displayed a lipstick.
YOUTHFUL ADVICE
 Both the Senior Mrs. and the Junior Miss will receive valuable Hollywood tips on skin, hair, make-up, grooming, grace, etc. in leaflet M-7, "Junior Miss Technique." family doesn't want you to wear lipstick even when you're sixteen—well, that's different."
 At this point lunch arrived and Gigi looked at her plate wistfully before she turned to the waiter. "I don't think I'd better have the potatoes," she told him. "Will you please take them away."
 "Do you have to watch your weight?" I asked.
 "When you're growing you can't," Gigi explained. "But I watch my inches. They make my clothes for me on a dummy and I can tell by that what is happening. When I first came to Universal my waist was twenty-five inches, but now," Gigi said proudly, "it's down to twenty-three."
 "I watch myself on the screen," Gigi confided, "and when I see I'm getting fat I don't look at a nice pie when it comes to the table but I go to the icebox and get a dish of jello. It doesn't have many calories and," she added, "is also pretty looking."

played a lipstick. It was rosebud pink. "But look," Gigi said, rubbing it on the back of my hand. "The color doesn't come off. I like it because it keeps my lips from getting chapped."
 I asked Gigi if she had decided at what age a girl should start wearing lipstick.
 Little Miss Perreau, who is twelve, had very definite ideas about this. "I don't think you should wear lipstick until you're a teen-ager. Thirteen may be a little young but I think you should use it lightly in a pale pink color. "But," she added, "fourteen is O.K."

Pole Declares Now Not Time For Revolt

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN SEUL, Ia.—A young Polish interpreter who bolted from Communist control and was given U.S. sanctuary said today his people some day will rise in revolt against the Reds "but now is not the time."

Jan Hajdukiewicz, 28, told a news conference the Communist rulers of his homeland could not be overthrown "without outside help" even though 99 percent of the Polish people oppose the Red regime.

Hajdukiewicz was a civilian interpreter for Polish members of the neutral nations inspection commission supervising the Korean truce. Yesterday he asked U.S. Col. Harold T. Babb for political asylum as a plane to carry him back to North Korea warmed up at Kangnung Air Base in East Korea.

His request was granted and he was quickly taken to a place of safety. "We had to get that guy out of there in a hell of a hurry," said one U.S. officer.

Only an hour before the balding young Pole met newsmen in Seoul a Communist official at Panmunjom charged that he had been "kidnaped" by the U.S. Army.

The Polish delegate to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission did not demand the return of Hajdukiewicz but said a strong protest would be lodged. Hajdukiewicz, wearing green U.S. Army dungarees, told his news conference he made his dramatic break because "I knew it was my last chance."

He said he believes his escape will encourage others in Poland. "The Polish government is based on fear," he said. "I didn't want to return to my country which has been subjugated by the Communist regime. I should like to go to the United States of America."

He described communism as "the subjugation of all life." After the news conference Hajdukiewicz was accompanied by U.S. officers to an undisclosed site, presumably in the Seoul area. He probably will be flown to Tokyo in a day or two, but Army officials said they had no information on this.

State Department officials in Washington said the circumstances were unusual but it is U.S. policy to grant political asylum to persons honestly at odds with communism.

seek U.S. asylum he replied: "I suppose there are some persons who would like to remain here. They are in North Korea. I cannot say for sure."

Speaking of his homeland, Hajdukiewicz said: "We cannot say anything—we cannot discuss anything. Our industry is working only for war" against "the free world — The United States of America, against the Western states."

The Communists do not openly oppose religion. "The war between the Communist regime and religion is underground."

"Of course" there is an active underground operating against the Reds. "Asked if he thought Poland would help the free world in the event of war with Russia he told: 'I think so, if they are told about it in advance.'"

He said there is no food shortage in Poland but everything is expensive. Hajdukiewicz said he received no special instructions before coming to Korea but it was possible other Polish members of the neutral teams were told to spy on the Allies.

He said he had no idea why he was chosen as an interpreter. "I suppose it was by chance," he said. "I didn't belong to the Communist party."

Hajdukiewicz said the Polish people were permitted to listen to Voice of America broadcasts but not to discuss them. He described Voice and Radio Free Europe broadcasts as "the only true news for us."

He said the Polish people believe war will break out soon and that the only way they will win liberty is through war. The U. N. Command went to great lengths to invite other Polish and Czech officers to attend the news conference but all refused.

Hajdukiewicz told the news conference he did not believe Red charges that the Allies waged germ warfare in Korea and that the Polish people do not believe them.

He said he spent much of his life on a family farm at Lodz and attended the university there. He said he worked as a "foreign correspondent" in the import-export agency of the leather industry in Poland.

Asked what the Communists would do if they got him back, he replied calmly: "That would be very dangerous for me. It is sure that I shall be thrown in prison."

He said that when he learned he was to return to Panmunjom and then North Korea he acted immediately because "I knew it was my last chance to stay here."

The young Pole said he was afraid of what might happen to his parents and a sister still in Poland. Asked by newsmen if other members of the Polish delegation might want to flee from communism and asked if he thought Poland would help the free world in the event of war with Russia he told: "I think so, if they are told about it in advance."

Samia's King Has Yen For New Dancer

NEW YORK (AP)—Shepard (Abdullah) King, the Texas oil heir, has found himself another exotic dancer.

He said today his highly-publicized romance and marriage to Egyptian belly dancer Samia A. Gamal is "fall off" and that he is going to marry a Turkish terpsichorean, brunette Nejla Ates.

She is dancing at the Latin Quarter, a night spot. King said he intends to get a divorce from Samia. "I'll get it in Houston," he said. "It should take me about six weeks."

Samia has been saying in Cairo with varying degrees of firmness that she intended to rid herself of King. Now, the amiable Texan says he is going to take the initiative.

"There has been a situation going on for months for about four and a half months," he said, "and I am tired of playing cat and mouse."

King met Miss Ates (pronounced Atish) about three days ago and already has given her a diamond ring. "The New York Journal American said today: 'To say that Nejla sends the boy is the understatement of the century. She brings him back.'"

The writer quoted the Turkish girl: "When he married Samia I saw his pictures in all the papers, and how I wished he belonged to me."

Then, this week he walked into the nightspot and saw her dance. "I am verree happy," she said.

McCarthy Asks Army To Explain 'Red' Document

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has demanded that the Pentagon explain, by nightfall if possible, how the Army came to send out to 37 of its commands last year what the senator termed "clearcut Communist propaganda."

"If you read this and believed it, you would move to Russia," McCarthy said, pointing to copies of 70 pages of a document he said was prepared for an indoctrination course for intelligence officers and others.

A preamble said the purpose of the study was "to develop an understanding of the Soviet people which would be militarily useful in case of war," and it added: "The problem is not to demonstrate the political injustice and economic tyranny of the Bolshevik government but to illuminate the Russian in his existing habitat."

McCarthy, in other activities of his Senate investigations subcommittee, said he had: 1. Called two witnesses for closed session questioning today about Communist infiltration of Army civilian employ ranks.

2. Ordered an inquiry into the promotion of an Army major, not named, who had been convicted in a case involving "unusual morals."

McCarthy said he had called on the Army to name, and produce for questioning, the author of the secret document intended for use in the training of intelligence officers. The document itself said 100 copies were distributed in January 1952, mostly in the Far East.

McCarthy said he wants to question the author of such statements as these: "The Soviet Communist code continues to honor the workers above all..." "Siberia in a social sense is rather similar to our Far West in the late 1800s...There is abundant opportunity for rapid advancement in the skilled trades and professions and a man is paid according to what he produces..." "Whatever the other restrictions of Soviet authoritarianism, one freedom is maintained: That is the freedom of self-improvement and advancement within the occupation..." "Two million white Russian refugees and numbers of deserters and escapees cannot be taken as representative of the 200 millions who remain in the U. S. S. R."

Laughlin Case Testimony Shows New Conflicts

By MAC ROY RASOR AUSTIN (AP)—More conflicting testimony developed today in the hearing of ouster charges against District Judge Woodrow Laughlin of Alice.

The hearing swung back to the prosecution after the defense rested. W. C. Hornsby, a former Jim Wells County grand juror, testified that Jim Wells County Commissioner W. M. Laughlin, brother of the judge, seemed to him "very much concerned" over possible indictment.

Hornsby said the commissioner came to see him Dec. 27. He quoted Laughlin as saying the judge had told him to have his bondsmen ready, because the commissioner was going to be indicted. Commissioner Laughlin had testified he had no conversation concerning bondsmen either with the judge or the grand juror.

Hornsby said the commissioner went before the grand jury two days later and told he would do anything in his power to make things right. "Did he appear to be concerned before the grand jury?" Hornsby was asked.

"Yes, sir, he did," he responded. The defense tentatively rested yesterday after W. M. Laughlin, Jim Wells County commissioner and brother of the judge testified. Defense Counsel C. C. Small Sr., said the commissioner was his last witness unless more evidence was found.

The defense used 12 witnesses. Sen. William Shireman of Corpus Christi told the Supreme Court master in chancery, Judge D. B. Wood, he wanted to call two or three more witnesses for the prosecution. The prosecution had called 17 witnesses earlier.

Accusations against the judge include one that he discharged a Jim Wells County grand juror Jan. 1 partly to protect his brother from possible indictment. The commissioner testified he was never worried about being indicted. He detailed the trips he made about his sale of caliche for building county roads, his rental to the county of road equipment, and county workers' paychecks bearing his endorsement.

He said he later heard a rumor he was going to be indicted and went before the jury Dec. 29 "to clarify" it. He said the jury told him they were not going to indict him. Dismissals—Mrs. Helen Haynes, Hobbs, N. M.; Mrs. Nell Curlee, 601 State; Clevehand Brockman, Monahans; Mrs. Lavonia Boyd, Vealmoor; Edith Gay, Settles Hotel; Mrs. Jackie Smith, Lamesa; R. O. Carothers, 1405 Stadium; Mrs. Lela Baker, 1103 Blackmon; Mrs. Zoe Carol Ham, Big Lake; Mrs. Vera Mae Dean, Hobbs, N. M.

U. N. Probe Asked NEW DELHI (AP)—Premier Nehru has asked India's representative at the United Nations to investigate whether U. S. Admiral Chester Nimitz has quit as plebeian administrator for disputed Kashmir. Previous reports here said the Texan had submitted his resignation.

To Take 'Measures' BELGRADE (AP)—The Yugoslav undersecretary for foreign affairs, Ales Bebler, informed Parliament today Italy has failed to withdraw troops sent to this country's border as a result of the controversy over Trieste. He said Yugoslavia plans to "undertake measures."

Freeway Plans Move Forward The State Highway Department is moving ahead with plans for development of its "freeway" system in Howard County.

Freeway Plans Move Forward

The State Highway Department is moving ahead with plans for development of its "freeway" system in Howard County. County Judge R. H. Weaver has received deeds for right-of-way for the freeway from east of the Cosden Refinery to the Big Spring city limits.

Field notes cited in the deeds also provide for space for the traffic circle to be located just east of the city limits. An 80-acre tract is asked for this purpose in the area just east of Birdwell Lane.

Projection of Highway 80 from the traffic circle to Fourth Street also is provided. Judge Weaver said county officials are expected to proceed immediately with efforts to secure the right-of-way for the improvements.

Previously it had been announced that freeway development would start west of the city toward the Martin County line. Judge Weaver said that apparently rapid progress is being made on plans for the freeway development. He said the county is anxious to cooperate with the Highway Department in completing arrangements for the improvements.

Cleveland Newsmen Convicted For Taking Pictures In Court

CLEVELAND (U)—Common Pleas Judge Joseph H. Silbert late yesterday convicted three members of the Cleveland Press' editorial staff of contempt of court for a picture taken in the judge's courtroom. Their attorneys announced they would appeal.

City Editor Louis Clifford was fined $500 and costs and ordered held in the custody of the sheriff for one hour. Reporter Sam Glaimo was fined $100 and costs. Photographer James Thomas was fined $100, suspended.

However, the sentences were stayed after Atty. Gen. J. Edwards general counsel for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, announced he would file a notice of appeal. The newsmen were released on bond.

At issue was the taking of a photograph of former Probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer as he was arraigned last Aug. 20 on a charge of embezzlement. Brewer pleaded innocent.

Reporter Glaimo on the preceding afternoon no pictures would be allowed. He said he informed Glaimo and another reporter this was because of a section in the Canon of Ethics of the American Bar Association, stating that courtroom pictures should not be permitted.

Edwards argued Silbert's order had no legal effect because it was not a part of the Court Journal, and that "a court can speak only through a journal."

He also contended that there was no obstruction of justice in a "mere click of the camera." He said the Canon of Ethics was not binding on the press, and asserted that the judges of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, as a group, had discussed the canon at a meeting earlier in the year, but had failed to adopt it.

John J. Mahon, assistant county prosecutor, argued that there had been "since last May" a rule in Judge Silbert's court that no courtroom pictures would be allowed. He declared it "was a reasonable order and a reasonable rule." He said it was not necessary for the court to publish a rule in order to regulate conduct in a courtroom.

Judge Silbert, referring to Clifford, said it was a case of "open defiance." He said Glaimo was acting under orders and that "I might have done the same thing under those circumstances." Because testimony failed to show Thomas knew of the picture ban, he was convicted only of obstructing and delaying the Aug. 20 proceedings.

The judge remarked that the only question was "whether the court made an order, whether it was reasonable, and whether it was violated."

He said "no elected official who is in his right mind gets into an argument with a newspaper," but "judges must have courage." He declared that if the defendants felt

Gen. Gruenther Qualifies The If In His Prospectus For Peace

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Supreme Commander, Allied Forces in Europe—a job created by Gen. Eisenhower—told U. S. News & World Report this week that before NATO was organized Russia would have found the conquest of Western Europe an easy task.

Now Russia's task would not be so simple. "But they could do it, and I emphasize could, if they were willing to devote the necessary resources to the task," the NATO chief declared.

He said he felt that "we are going to reach a position of strength which will make aggression so unprofitable that it will never take place."

He denied that he had told Congress that he did not expect the Russians to launch an attack in Europe now or at any time. Instead, the NATO chief emphasized he had actually said he did not expect a war by the Russians at any time IF—"if we, the NATO nations, take the proper action. In other words I feel that we have it within our power to prevent a war from taking place by continuing to build an adequate defensive strength now."

The big question is, Have we taken the proper action? Gen. Gruenther might throw some light on that question if a military man could afford to be perfectly frank, which of course he can't without violating discipline.

And are we continuing to build our strength? The funds on which Gen. Gruenther operates NATO have been seriously reduced. The money for an effective West European military defense will be far less than General Gruenther asked for.

If Russia is kept from attacking only because of the knowledge that the West can make it too expensive to do so, will she be encouraged to attack now that U. S. military aid to West Europe has been reduced, our own military budget severely cut down, our uniformed manpower reduced, our first line of defense, the Air Force, deprived of 30 per cent of its budget, and plane production forcibly restricted?

That's an interesting question to every American citizen.

Tidelands Back In Courts, Issue Should Be Cleared Expediently

In his informal speech to labor leaders in Detroit Harry S. Truman cast sheep's eyes at the White House, either in his own behalf or in behalf of a man of his own choosing. That was clearly evident in his strictures on the Eisenhower Administration, in which he called on Democrats in Congress to stop supporting like and start throwing punches at the "ins."

One of the barbs in the Truman speech was condemnation of what he called the "give-away" of oil-rich tidelands, but he neglected to mention that quite a few Democrats as well as Republicans voted for that "give-away."

That the administration intends to defend the tidelands legislation to the hilt was indicated Tuesday when the Justice Department applied to a federal district court to throw out the Arkansas challenge of the constitutionality of the measure. The attorney general's office contends that Arkansas has no legal interest in the tidelands, and it does not have the right to sue the federal government without the consent of Congress.

Arkansas has until September 17 to reply to this motion. If it wishes to press the matter further, date for a hearing will be set when both sides will present their arguments.

It is just as well that this question of constitutionality be brought up, fully aired and settled now rather than later. Why it should have been injected by Arkansas, a state touching two of the most important tideland states, Texas and Louisiana, and allied with both economically and traditionally, isn't clear.

But Arkansas' attorney general did file the suit, and it is incumbent on the Department of Justice to defend the action of Congress in the premises.

Should the issue linger long in the courts, Texas and other tideland states would be further delayed in the receipt of revenues from oil leases and royalties, all of which in the case of Texas goes into the state's common school fund.

For that reason, as well as in simple justice, all legal actions in the tidelands issue should be cleared up as rapidly as possible.

Soldiers Who Aided The Reds Should Face Court Martial

In every large body of men there are slick, tricky persons who try to find small advantages for themselves at the expense of others. In the Korean War, these jobbers of influence were correctly nicknamed "rats," although that seems to be too polite a term.

What our sons suffered at their hands in Korea is only now coming out. They spied on other American soldiers. They advised the Koreans and the Chinese Communists how to force Americans to sign statements. They squealed on Americans who spoke unfavorably of communism and the Russians.

Now some of the rats are being protected from the national desire of our boys to teach them a lesson. It seems altogether unnecessary. It would help the rats to understand the morals of our race if the boys were permitted to beat them up, to dunk them in the ocean, to make them salute the American flag for hours on end. A little vengeance goes a long way with a rat.

But what our military should do is to court-martial the rats under any articles they find and then to publish the findings, including the names of these villains. We ought to have their names. Their photographs should be published, particularly in their local communities, so that all men may know who they are and what they did to other Americans, fighting in a foreign land, 6,000 miles from home. We ought to spew them out as we do anything foul.

In the Korean War, there is another kind of indecent, disgusting, foul-smelling creature called, "a progressive." He is an American soldier, including some officers, who were Communists when they were conscripted, or who became Communists in prison camps. Some of them became Communists because it gave them advantages; others because they believe that Russia will conquer the world and they want to be among the conquerors. Some of them have become addicts of the gospel of Karl Marx.

There are those who fall for the assumption that the Russians accomplish all this by brain-washing; that is by a propagandist method which removes from a man's mind all his earlier knowledge and beliefs and turns him into an abnormal monster who serves the Russian without will.

I do not go along with this theory, except in isolated instances during which drugs are used to destroy the will. So far, little evidence has been adduced to justify the charge of brain-washing by drugs of our sons. It is easier to accomplish with weak-willed creatures by a better bed, by access to women, by extra food. We need not grow too fanciful on the subject. It is sufficient that these so-called Americans have joined the enemies of our country and have done their bidding.

Some of these progressives have chosen to remain in North Korea, in Communist China and even in Soviet Russia. Technically, they are missing persons. Sooner or later, the government of the United States should have an authentic list of American prisoners-of-war who formally stated their preference not to return to the United States.

That list should be given the most widespread publicity. Americans ought to know who these progressives are, where they come from, what their background was. They ought to know why these people hate their own country.

This is something that has never happened before. It is perhaps true that in World War I and World War II some Americans were missing because they were shackled up with native women and got lost. In the Korean War, it is altogether different. These are prisoners-of-war who are asked to express a choice: Do you want to go home to your own country or do you refuse to go home?

And they made their choice. They prefer to remain in a slave civilization rather than to return to their native land, to their families, to their own. It is almost impossible to believe that such persons exist in the American society. Yet, we have witnessed the Hollywood ten, the trial of the eleven in Foley Square, the trial of the Alger Hiss case, the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg case, etc. We know that even here at home, we have both rats and progressives and just perverted traitors. And what we have at home, we have in our Army.

Communists May Indicate At Regular U.N. Session Plans For Peace Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the American ambassador to the United Nations, was supposed to attend the American Political Science Assn.'s annual meeting which opened here today. But he sent word he could not be here because of the pressure of his work at the U. N. in New York.

His work at the U. N., no matter how busy he was this week, will probably be multiplied next week. On Tuesday, the General Assembly opens its eighth regular session. The special session which it began and ended in August was to choose U. N. representatives at the Korean peace conference.

That was not a particularly pleasant session. And Andrei Vishinsky, representing Russia in the U. N., may try to make life miserable for the United States at the regular session. At any rate, the Communists may disclose at the regular session whether they really want to have a peace conference at all.

At the special session, the United States, with Lodge doing the steering, worked its way through several tough situations to get what it wanted. What it wanted was for the U. N. to pick as representatives at the peace conference only those nations which supplied troops for the Korean fighting.

This meant the United States did not want either Russia or India on the U. N. side of the conference table. Russia not only did not supply troops for the U. N. in Korea, but was the main source of military supplies for the Chinese and North Korean Communists.

The United States argued that India, if allowed to sit on the U. N. side, might offer suggestions which would snarl up the conference. Besides, South Korea didn't want India at the conference and said so. In the end, India was not chosen.

And, in accordance with Lodge's arguments, the U. N. said Russia could not attend the conference on the U. N. team, but only if the Chinese and North Korean Communists wanted Russia on their side. Although the U. N. thus chose its representatives, the Chinese and North Koreans haven't announced theirs.

Vishinsky may try to reopen next week the whole question of U. N. representation, although it all seemed settled. Such a maneuver, while probably doomed to defeat because of the friends the United States has in the U. N., would reopen old wounds.

The Chinese and North Koreans Communists may name to sit with them at the conference not only Russia but India and possibly other nations not in the U. N. The conference is supposed to open sometime in the last half of October.

The Communists, by delaying tactics, might mess up this date. It could be held later, if the Communists want it held at all. At this time there seems some uncertainty they do. But they have plenty of time before Oct. 31 to show otherwise.

This uncertainty, however, about having a conference at all doesn't compare in depth with the skepticism that the conference, if held, will be successful in solving the problem of divided Korea.

South Korea's Syngman Rhee is determined upon unification of both parts of Korea. This would mean unification under Rhee, since the South Koreans outnumber the North Koreans. No doubt it would mean retaliation against any Communists Rhee found bold enough to remain in North Korea. It is difficult to see either the North Korean or Chinese Communists agreeing to Rhee's desires. They would truly have lost the war then.

Rhee has talked of resuming the fighting if the conference looks like a Communist stall after 90 days of talking. He has between 16 and 20 divisions with which to renew the war. But South Korea, without United States help, couldn't support such a force for long.

Because Rhee needs United States help, this country should be able to put some restraint on him. Yesterday a special U. N. commission said South Korea couldn't make such a military force—even without fighting and even with economic aid from this country—if it wanted to repair its shattered economy.

The manpower in those 16 to 20 divisions would be needed in Korean rehabilitation. But that's still in the cloudy future.

Writer Stares At Lots Of Interesting Ceilings

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten years ago it began.

There I was in Sicily, waiting to get on a boat for the Salerno landing in Italy. Not a care in the world!

Then a press officer handed me the shattering cable from my boss: "Start writing daily human interest column immediately."

The press officer saw my face turn blue, and asked "What's wrong? A death in the family?"

"Yes," I told him, "a long slow one—mine."

I remembered how Don Marquis had once described writing a newspaper column as "digging a daily grave." Later, when I showed Ernie Pyle the cable, he gave an elfin grin and said, "Cheer up. In between the moments of suffering there are long periods of unconsciousness."

Now, after ten long years in a brown study, I am convinced both Marquis and Pyle were right.

It has been a tremendous and terrifying decade. In that time I have turned out about 2,800 columns from some 55 countries and written them in such diverse places as the Eiffel Tower, beneath a Sherman tank, and in a roadside ditch in Korea.

You would think a fellow would learn a lot in all those years. But all I have found out is that people are as good and bad in Casablanca and Calcutta as they are in Mule.

People often ask, "How do you get your ideas? Do they just come to you?" Well, yes and no. Sometimes they are suggested to you. Sometimes they come in the mail. But generally you just take a coal chisel, put it to your head, and start quarrying. The thing a columnist sees most often is the ceiling. You get to lean back in your chair and stare at a lot of interesting ceilings in this trade.

The hardest thing to realize is the impossibility of writing a column that will please everyone including, perhaps, yourself.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

A decree issued by the King of Spain on this day in 1772 caused considerable unhappiness among the settlers of an East Texas town.

For by this order the Spaniards withdrew their frontier of missions and small fortifications from East Texas to San Antonio, and the inhabitants of Los Adaes were instructed to abandon their homes and move to the vicinity of Bexar, where lands would be issued to them.

Notable among the East Texans who protested was one Gil Ybarbo, an enterprising ranchman and trader, and leader of his community. The Los Adaes people submitted to the removal but continued to petition for permission to return. Finally Spanish authorities allowed them to establish a town on the Trinity River.

But nothing less than a return to their old homes would appease these early-day "displaced persons," and several years later Ybarbo and his people simply picked up and returned to Los Adaes without a by-your-leave to officialdom. There they founded the historic town of Nacogdoches, where some of their descendants still live.

No Matter What Is Done, Or Undone, Somebody Records It

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

This seems to be an era of records. Half the people are doing something and the other half keep books on the activities. Somebody accomplishes something and somebody else looks in a book to see if it had ever been done before.

Some of the records are significant, like the most homeruns in one season, the fastest speed anyone ever traveled, and the most sales of cotton ever made in Howard County in one year.

Some of the data could just as well have gone unrecorded, though. Who cares who it was struck out the most times in one inning on a July 24th in a Class A ball league? Or that so-and-so flew a Type Z-3-L aircraft higher than anyone else ever piloted that particular kind of plane?

If you look far enough, you'll probably find some record readers who can tell you the greatest number of syllables ever spoken in one breath or the most consecutive nights a husband has come in late. And in the same volume, it'll tell you perched the longest on a flagpole or plummeted to greatest number of feet before he pulled his rip cord.

Of course, some records are important.

Baseball players and some other athletes, they say, draw pay which is high or low, to some extent, on the basis of their past accomplishments.

And Howard County's "record" cotton crop has some significance, at least when compared with present prospects and future hopes. And the record this drought sets might have some bearing on future land prices, not to mention effect it is having on odds that someday it'll rain again.

But does anybody really give a hoot who hung the longest by his toenails from the 17th-floor ledge of a 43-story building?

If so, that bit of information probably is on record somewhere, and the next time someone tries the stunt there'll be a reporter hauling it out for comparison.

Reporters are a lot to blame for all this record stuff. Pretty often, it seems, they find it easier to talk about the records than dig up the more pertinent facts on occasion of the story. Records are one thing that aren't being kept off the record.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs

Tariff Commission Chairman Used All Types Of Pressure

WASHINGTON — The more things change, the more they are the same. And if you want proof of that ancient saying you have only to go to that most venerable of bureaucracies, the Tariff Commission.

The Tariff Commission is like a fly preserved in amber, defying time and the elements, kept perfectly intact through the passage of the years. No less miraculous, measured by survival value, is the commission's new chairman, Edgar B. Brossard.

Brossard's original appointment to the commission in 1925 goes back to a recommendation by the late Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, co-author of the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Law. One fact alone makes Brossard unique in government. He has been named to office by five Presidents. Calvin Coolidge first appointed him to the Tariff Commission. Presidents Hoover, Truman and Roosevelt re-appointed him. And when the Republicans came back into power, President Eisenhower raised him from commissioner to chairman.

Because it is outside the main stream of the news, the commission sometimes seems to be a kind of relic on the shelf reserved for government antiquaries. Actually, the recommendations the commission will make in the next few months will effect foreign policy, politics and business at home and abroad to an incalculable degree.

The President takes the final action and he can, of course, ignore commission recommendations. But where political pressure builds up for greater protection for an American industry, as is happening in half a dozen instances, it is difficult to go against the findings of a group of experts who have supposedly gone over all the relevant facts.

This, of course, raises a question as to whether the Republican-dominated commission is likely to be more protectionist. The vice chairman is the newly appointed Joseph E. Taft, former Congressman from Connecticut, whose record in the House was for the most part against the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act.

Brossard, a big man looking much younger than his 64 years, says that while he is a protectionist, he insists that while he owes his first appointment to Reed Smoot, the high priest of high protectionism, he is not a high tariff man. Brossard gets down, in Brossard's plain talk, to the fact that the United States has a high wage economy and that high wage economy must be protected from the low wage or no wage competition of most of the rest of the world. You can talk about Adam Smith and freedom of competition even across international boundary lines. But that freedom has been repealed by the fact that America is on a high plateau far above most of the rest of the world. In Chairman Brossard's view, it is as rudimentary as that.

In his nearly 30 years with the commission—he was an economist before he was raised to commission rank—the chairman has learned where the pressures come from and how real and persistent they are. Take, as an example, the hearings due to start in November on whether a higher tariff is required on lead and zinc. Not a week went by while Congress was in session but at least 40 calls came from "the Hill" wanting to know what in blazes the commission was going to do for the lead and zinc miners. Didn't Chairman Brossard know that mines were closing down, putting hundreds of men out of work? From towns in the panhandle of Idaho come petitions pointing out that grocery stores are stretching their credit for miners off the payroll and hadn't the commission better do something quickly.

Or take wool. The wool growers in the Western states can be heard almost without benefit of telephone and telegraph, so loud is their collective clamor. Or take pottery and glass. From centers in Ohio and a half dozen other states complaints are pouring in about cheap Japanese competition. Or iron nuts. Or tuna fish. Or fish fillets, and you should hear what the New England fishing interests say about Japanese competition on that score.

All these are the subject of commission cases which are being ground through the dusty, misty bureaucratic mill. If the commission, or a Republican majority on the commission, finds these industries are being harmed, then a recommendation for a rise in the tariff will go to the White House. And the pressure, as Chairman Brossard points out, is numerically speaking much heavier from the trade unions than from the side of ownership.

But if our friends, in the free world must sell their goods to us, as President Eisenhower has said, what about some long term solution such as a government subsidy to transfer workers from one industry to another? Brossard calls this dream stuff. Henry Wallace stuff. And he is a practical man who knows every cog and wheel in the tariff mill.

Russian Abacus

VANCOUVER (AP)—A bookkeeper in a West Vancouver business house has a simple adding device which is not conducive to gaining the favor of the adding machine salesman.

In fact, Woldemar Jantz showed recently that the modern adding machine is no match for his ancient Russian abacus, which consists of seven horizontal rows of 10 beads. With the aid of his manual calculator, Jantz defeated an adding machine in a straight test for speed and accuracy.

At one time Jantz used his abacus to compute the payroll for 600 employees in a west coast logging camp. The Lynn Valley resident says his Russian abacus, which is much simpler than the more famous Chinese abacus, "requires almost no mental effort." In fact, he says, "Anyone with common sense can quickly learn to use it. Speed can be attained very quickly."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hinshaw decided to take a three-day vacation trip. They've managed the store 35 years. Hinshaw's parents bought it a half century ago.

People Once Lived In Caves

Stone Age men used caves as cold-weather homes. There are clear proofs that many of the caves were occupied during the time of the last ice sheet which spread over Europe.

I have spoken about the improvement of weapons during the Stone Age, and you may wonder how we can know about the order in which the weapons were invented. The main proofs have been found in layers of material under the present floors of caves in southern Europe.

Scientists have dug into depths as great as 40 or 50 feet. In some cases they have found layer after layer of material left by Stone Age people who lived in the caves many thousands of years ago.

We know that these people used stone weapons because they left the remains of stone hammers, axes, knives, spearheads and arrowheads. In the deepest layers, the chipped stone tools are more crude than in the layers above. Pointed stones which would make the heads of spears have been dug up from deep layers. Other pointed stones, found in upper layers, are like the flint arrowheads used by American Indians.

It is plain that the lower layers are the older ones. The upper layers are those left from the period near the end of the Old Stone Age.

Later came another period which we know as the New Stone Age, or Late Stone Age. During this period men used wooden handles for their axes, hatchets and hammers. The stone parts of their tools and weapons were smoothed by grinding and polishing.

At about the time that the New Stone Age started, there was a strong movement of people away from the caves. At this time southern and western Europe enjoyed a milder climate.

Different kinds of homes were enjoyed by people of the New Stone Age. Some built houses out of stone blocks, entirely above the ground. Others dug out large holes in the ground, and covered the holes with roofs.

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Cecil Leatherwood and A. J. Pirkle of the Howard County Farm Bureau are anxious to hear from farmers who plan on hiring Bracero labor. Already they're making plans to send a truck to Eagle Pass for at least 60 of the Mexican Nationals.

The capacity of the truck will be about 75 workers and so if anybody needs a few more hands on the place they may be able to get them in this first transportation if they will see Leatherwood or Pirkle as early as possible with in the next day or so.

It takes from eight to 10 days to process the workers through the recruiting center.

Leon M. Kinney of the Texas Employment Commission, which organization handles this employment, says it is impossible at this time to estimate how many Braceros will be needed in Howard County this year. He says the farmers just aren't sure yet how much cotton they are going to produce or what other farm or ranch jobs they may have open for these workers from below the Rio Bravo.

The West Texas drought has made it possible for the Border Patrol to pull practically all its patrolmen from this area and send them to Southern California where the Westbacks are coming in by the thousands. From San Diego County alone, just recently and within a period of a very few days, more than 12,000 Westbacks were sent back across the line.

Border Patrol inspectors regularly stationed in Big Spring are now working in that Southern California area. Just when they will be returned here has not been noted. But West Texas isn't likely to be overloaded with Westbacks this year. They have a drought of their own at home.

A choice selection of Shorthorn cattle from the top herds of Texas will go through the auction ring

Divorcee Faces Fraud Charges

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jean Elizabeth Dusing, 24-year-old divorcee, today faced charges of misappropriating $112,222 belonging to the Central Bank and Trust Co., where she worked for two years.

Five men, former customers of the bank, also were arrested and charged with the woman with conspiring to have her hold up bank checks which they had written.

They were identified by the FBI as Tom E. Howell, 65, who allegedly received $71,932; Chester C. Smallwood, 34, who said he got $11,245 which he lost at dog races; William Malone, 34, who admitted getting $3,530; Arthur H. King, 35, charged with receiving $3,728; and Warren Schmickel, 32, accused of taking $375.

Mrs. Dusing, Howell and King waived preliminary hearings and were released in $1,000 bonds each. The other three said they might want hearings and United States Commissioner Roger E. Davis set them for next Wednesday. Bonds for two of them were set at $1,000 and for Schmickel at $500.

The five accounted for $91,131; the remainder was attributed to six other customers against whom no charges were filed because they made restitution to the bonding company which made good the bank's loss.

Mrs. Dusing handled all insufficient fund checks written by the bank's customers and the FBI said she covered her manipulations by submitting false figures to the bookkeeping department at the close of business each day.

Bank examiners uncovered the fraud last March, when the woman was fired. An investigation has been under way ever since.

Mrs. Haymes Won't Like Reno Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Crooner Dick Haymes' estranged wife says he'll be a bigamist if he goes ahead with reported plans to get a quick Nevada divorce and marry actress Rita Hayworth this month.

Nora Eddington Haymes has filed suit for a California divorce. A hearing is expected the first part of October.

"There's a waiver in a Nevada divorce requiring my full consent to it before it is legal in California," she said last night. "I don't care if Dick and Rita want to get married. I hope they'll be happy. But I'm going to insist on having my hearing first."

"If Dick marries without my consent to the divorce, he'll be a bigamist."

Mrs. Haymes, former wife of actor Errol Flynn, said she was shocked to learn from a deposition hearing that she was the crooner's third wife and not his second. At the hearing on Aug. 26 it was brought out that the Argentina-born Haymes, 34, had married Edith Harper, a singer, 14 years ago in Chicago. He testified the marriage lasted only two or three weeks and "I had just about forgotten we were ever married."

"I get more surprises," said Nora. "How can you forget a marriage? But he's not going to forget me if he and Rita try to marry before I get my divorce in California, and that's final. It's about time they started showing us some consideration."

Reports On Chinese Harvest Contradicting Each Other

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China may or may not be having a good harvest year. It depends on which Communist report you believe.

The Communist news agency, Radio Peiping and the Internal radios of Red China are telling different stories about farm crops—and also are contradicting their own earlier reports.

The result—no one can tell how much the crop was damaged by spring frosts, droughts and summer floods. If Peiping radio's most recent stories are to be taken at face value, the loss was not serious.

On the other hand, reports still heard on Hupeh radio at Hankow and some western radios covering such provinces as Yunnan, Kwelchow and the South say flood losses are serious and are mounting.

Peiping radio—which said last spring the nation's wheat crop had been ruined by spring frost—now says the wheat harvest in Shensi came to 1,650,000 tons or 30 per cent above last year. This is one of the rare cases where actual tonnage is given.

Wheat in Chekiang and Fukien provinces (which are not big wheat producers—rice is their major crop) was up 10 per cent over last year. The increase in Kwelchow and Yunnan was up 20 and 10 per cent respectively.

No figures or percentages were offered for the large wheat producing areas of Anhwei, Shantung, Honan and Hopeh. These supposedly were worst hit by frosts.

As to the first rice crop, the one that was supposed to have been seriously cut by spring and early summer floods in Kwangtung, Hunan, Yunnan, Szechwan and a few northern provinces, the Reds are now saying a 7.2 per cent increase over last year "is indicated." Cotton crop "indications" are for an increase of 7.6 per cent.

Late July and August brought good growing weather, but before that there was too much rain too fast and rivers went out of their banks. At that time the Communists proclaimed a calamity, and issued all sorts of orders to lessen the famines that would come in the fall and winter. Now everything is fine and crops are 10 per cent above last year's.

So what to believe? Since the Reds have never quoted crop figures on main wheat areas, it still looks like the wheat crop fell well below last year's crop, which the Reds claimed was "bumper" and which certainly was above average.

As to rice, the floods must have caused serious loss but they may have gone down soon enough for the usual double crop (summer and fall). The first crop would have to be reseeded.

It has been suggested that the Reds themselves may have exaggerated the disaster reports to condition farmers for heavier purchases by the government at controlled prices.

It is estimated that since the white men first settled in the United States about twice as much wood has been cut as existed in the original forests of the country.

$30,000 Reward Offered As Search For Hall Continues

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP)—The Concor Oil Co. said Wednesday a $30,000 reward is being offered to anyone who finds the plane in which the firm's president, Ellis Hall, and four other persons disappeared on a northern flight in mid-August.

The oil company and the family of the Albuquerque, and Abilene, Tex., man are continuing the search, abandoned by the U. S. and Canadian Air Forces and the U. S. Coast Guard.

The Hall plane, on a 800-mile flight from Juneau, Alaska, to Bellingham, Wash., was last seen over Ketchikan, Alaska.

It's Easy To Kill Household Insects

September is the month when insect life is at its height. During this last warm weather month, insects multiply, swarm, and invade houses in search of warm spots to hole up for the cold months ahead.

It is the time of year for vigilance on the part of the housekeeper. At the first sign of roaches entering her domain, it is time for her to brush Johnston's No-Roach across window sills and door sills. Crawling pests that then attempt to enter her home will die.

Johnston's No-Roach may be brushed just where you want it. The colorless, odorless, stainless coating kills roaches and ants, and then stays effective for months to kill off strays.

No-Roach is available in Big Spring at Safeway, Furr Food Store, Piggly Wiggly, Red & White Stores, Cunningham & Phillips Drug Stores and Collins Brothers Drugs.

The roach is a troublesome, unpleasant insect found throughout the world. It is closely related to grasshoppers and crickets. There are more than a thousand species of roaches.

A roach has a flattened, slippery body, covered with a shiny leathery coating. It has long strong legs covered with bristles. The legs are very strong, and the roach is a swift runner, one of the fastest among insects.

Roaches eat food, garbage, clothing, furniture, bookbindings, and other insects, such as bedbugs. Swarms of them slip out at night through cracks in the walls or floors to look for something to eat.

They are suspected of being carriers for polio germs. Roaches are dirty and contaminate everything they touch. Many kinds of roaches are also found outdoors, especially in the south. They often can be found under stones and leaves, or in palm trees, or in rotting wood.

Roaches grow and produce best where there is dirt, grease, and moisture. To date, it has been very difficult to keep them out of one's home. But now science has come forth with a new and modern way to control roaches. This product is a colorless, odorless, stainless coating called Johnston's No-Roach.

You brush it on food cabinets, near sink, baseboards, window and door sills. Roaches and other insects that walk across the coating, slowly become paralyzed and die. The live ones eat the dead roaches, and then they in turn die. At the end of a week, you will see the little baby roaches lying dead, each no bigger than the head of a pin.

This means you have eliminated the nests, and your home will then be cleared—because the invisible coating of No-Roach stays effective for months to prevent re-infestation.

Schoolboy Spotlight Is On Odessa Game

Few Contests Set Tonight

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The legions of Texas schoolboy football open the season on every front this weekend. Starting Thursday night, the four divisions that battle through to state championships will play 260 games.

The bulk of the schedule comes Friday night when the major attraction will be the clash of two Class AAAA powers—Port Arthur and Odessa.

Port Arthur, from the Deep South, journeys into West Texas for a crack at a team that's aiming at knocking Lubbock from a pedestal.

Lubbock, defending champion of Class AAA, is in the same district as Odessa. Port Arthur comes from the district that spawned Baytown's two trips to the state finals in two years, falling to Lubbock each time.

Other top games in AAAA are Highland Park (Dallas) at Abilene and Waco at North Dallas.

Class AAA vies mightily with its big brother for attention with three of its members flexing their muscles against Class AAAA teams—Palestine engaging Tyler, Vernon trying its hand against Wichita Falls and Temple meeting Austin.

Class AA is filled with important games with Levelland getting the biggest test. The boys on the rim of the Panhandle take on Sweetwater. Other Class AA headliners send Childress against Phillips, Ennis against Weatherford and Brenham trying its hand against Bryan of Class AAA.

Defending titlists in two of the four classes open the season. Breckenridge, kingpin of Class AAA, engages Graham of Class AA. Wink, champion of Class A, steps up against Class AA Monahans.

Lubbock waits until next week to open the campaign and so does Terrell, the title team of Class AA.

SALE PASSES 500 MARK

Sale of season tickets to Big Spring High School home football games continues at a lively clip.

J. O. Hagood of the School Tax Office reported that 509 of the 500 tickets, good for six home games, have been sold by 10:30 a.m. today. Last year, only 203 of the tickets were purchased by local patrons.

Ellison, Hollis Are Still Out

Tackle James (Tiny) Ellison and Back Jimmy Hollis were the only players not in uniform as the Big Spring High School Steers went through their drills Wednesday afternoon.

Both will be out indefinitely due to injuries. Ellison, favoring an ankle mishap he suffered last spring, has scant hope of seeing action in the San Angelo game a week from Friday.

If Hollis sees action at all in that one, he will be used sparingly. He suffered a jaw injury in a recent scrimmage.

Both Ellison and Hollis paid calls to the field, however, to keep abreast of the developments.

J. C. Armistead, Pinky Medlin and one or two others, who have been missing from drills due to illness, were back in camp.

Ace Boyler, a promising lineman, took a banging around in a rough and tough body contact drill. He suffered bruises around both eyes and was already favoring a cut lip. He kept coming back for more, however. His spirit is typical of that being shown in the local camp.

Under a scorching sun, the Steers took extensive blocking, passing and kicking drills before getting on to the rougher work.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The city of Cleburne takes credit for giving Ben Hogan his professional start in golf but Our Town's Ray (Shorty) Snyder says it isn't so.

Hogan got his start as a pro in Ranger, at the age of 17. Snyder lived there at the time and began a friendship with the gritty youngster that still endures.

Hogan lived in Fort Worth at the time and Snyder used to drive him home on weekends.

Ray recently had a letter from Ben, who mentioned he regretted missing Snyder at Fort Worth's recent celebration honoring the Wee Ice Man.

The monkey has been placed on Coach Carl Coleman's back, so to speak, by Joe Kerbel of the Breckenridge coaching staff.

Kerbel told a service club there Big Spring had been rated at the top in District I-AAA and deserved such respect, since the Steers have the experience.

The entire conference is well balanced, Kerbel added, and none of the teams would prove easy opponents.

Jerry Payne, injured recently, has been lost to the Buckies for the entire season. Ronnie Daniel has been moved up from the B team to replace him.

Incidentally, the Buckies will make use of the "sucker shift" again this fall.

The Greenies will run from both the T and the Single Wing this year.

Here's a new wrinkle.

In order to keep his footballers stream-lined for the opening of fall workouts, Coach Bud Wilkinson of the Oklahoma Sooners sent out color charts to the gridgers. Most of the athletes took the hint and reported in good trim. As a result, Wilkinson didn't have to waste any time with reducing drills.

Joe Riney and George Murphy, the ex-Big Spring baseball players, got homesick after they were sold to Laredo of the Gulf Coast League and departed the ranks of the Apaches.

Glen Groomes, another former Steed, has been used sparingly at Paul Valley in the Sooner State League. Groomes had won once, lost once, according to the latest averages.

A sports fan in Honolulu, Hawaii, who simply signs his letter that way writes to praise the fine job Charley Warren did in representing Big Spring in the sports world.

Warren is the ex-HCJC cage star who made the trip to Brazil earlier in the summer with an evangelistic sports team.

The writer recalls Charley's brother, Billy Ray, who he says was "tree-top tall" and had fine ability.

"I know Charley will be nothing short of a sensation at Texas University next season," the writer concludes.

Bill Fletcher, the one-time HCJC basketball scoring ace, was out from Dallas for the Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament.

Fletcher is now managing a paint store in his native Dallas and plays independent basketball in season there.

He's had several opportunities to return to college but is still favoring a leg injury he suffered in school here.

Dan Hart, the Texas Wesleyan coach who played in the golf tournament here, let it be known he'd like to have Fletcher, if Bill changed his mind.

Coaches Select Tentative Lineup For Stanton Game

Coaches Roy Baird and Harold Bentley have selected a tentative Big Spring High School B team lineup they will send against the Stanton Buffaloes in Stanton Saturday night.

The mentors indicated they would use Kenneth Davidson and Bobby Fuller at ends, John Birdwell and John Davenport at tackles, Roy Hughes and Preston Bridges at guards, Le Roy LeFever at center and Charles Johnson, Gene Odell, C. T. Kilway and either Wiley Wise or Edwin Faubian in the backfield.

The coaches were not overly pleased with the Dogies' performance in a scrimmage with the Coahoma team earlier this week and prescribed hard work for the youngsters for the remainder of the week.

The team is handicapped by an overall lack of experience.

Carl Anderson, one of the better backs in camp, has been handicapped by injuries but may be used sparingly in the Stanton game.

Eighteen lettermen returned to Coach Melvin Robertson at Stanton this season.

The Buffalo attack is built

Much In Store For Football Fans This Fall

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—A quarterback playing center? There's that and more in store for college football fans when the 1953 season opens in less than two weeks as coaches do some fancy personnel shuffling for the coming no-platoon era.

The story of Don Babers at Oklahoma A&M provides an example of what's going on across the country. As a sophomore quarterback two years ago, Babers ranked fifth nationally in passing, accounting for 1,352 yards via the air-lanes off the Cowboys' spread formation attack. He held down the job last year too but in '53 he'll be starting at center in Jim Look-abaugh's newly installed split-T setup.

Bud Wilkinson, whose Oklahoma Sooners are once again in the national spotlight, is doing plenty of experimenting—particularly in the backfield where the departure of Billy Vessels, Buck McPhail and Eddie Crowder left a huge gap.

Halfback Buddy Leake has been taking a turn at the vital quarterback assignment in the split-T with Gene Calame, a converted end. Wilkinson's transfer of Max Boydston from end to fullback appears to have paid off. Boydston broke away for a pair of 80-yard scoring runs in the first major scrimmage at Norman this fall.

Elsewhere, Steve (The Horse) Mellinger, Kentucky's all-anything boy, will try his hand at halfback for the Wildcats after starring at end and in the backfield in '52. At Notre Dame, Dan Shannon, whose fumble-inducing tackle set up the winning Irish touchdown against Oklahoma last year, will operate both ways at end rather than at linebacker where he played in the two-platoon days.

Johnny (Jeep) Bednarik, brother of Penn's great Chuck, will throw the 217-pound frame at William and Mary's opponents from end this season where the Indians are thin. He had been a tackle.

With newcomer Bowden Wyatt shifting Arkansas' offense from the split-T to the single wing, sparkplug Lamar McLean goes from quarterback to tailback to handle the heavy duty work for the Razorbacks.

The new season brings other major changes too.

Carlsbad And Angelo Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Carlsbad opened up its Longhorn League playoff-stand Wednesday with a 5-4 triumph over Artesia, making it five straight victories for the Cinderella club that clinched the pennant the last night of the regular season.

The runner-up San Angelo Colts crushed Midland, 11-4, in the other half of the semi-final opener.

The Poishers slammed across four runs in the seventh inning, cracking a 3-1 tie. Marshall Epperson then held off the Drillers although they fought back with two runs in the eighth and a fourth score in the ninth inning.

Al Rosen's 40th homer was the big blow in the Indians' success. The slugger third baseman connected with a man on base in the eighth inning to enable Mike Garcia to gain the decision over young Bill Henry. Garcia blanked Ted Williams for the first time since the slugger started in left field for the Red Sox. Ted had hit safely in 15 previous games.

Billy Pierce tried to become the first pitcher since Walter Johnson in 1908 to blank the Yankees three times in succession and failed—just as 12 others did before him. The White Sox southpaw opened the game with 19 scoreless innings against the Yanks and added four more. Then the Yankee Stadium fell on him. Seven hits and seven runs were recorded against him before he was mercifully removed from the mound—without getting a single batter out in the fifth.

Panthers And Indians Win First Playoff Battles

By BARD LINDEMAN

Fort Worth and Oklahoma City went to the front in the semi-final round of the Texas League Shaugnessy playoffs Wednesday night. The Cats fought past Tulsa, 4-3, and Oklahoma City easily whipped pennant-winning Dallas, 7-1.

The second game in each series is on tap for Thursday night. The scene shifts after the second games for three weekend games in Fort Worth and Oklahoma City.

Fort Worth won its first playoff game since September 1949 with Carroll Beringer, a small, right-hander curve-baller, turning back Tulsa's left-handed power.

Alas, those poor Indians! They keep winning and winning and where do they wind up? In second place.

Twenty victories in the last 23 games. That's Cleveland's remarkable record during the past three weeks. But today, with the season's end a little over two weeks away, they still trail the New York Yankees by nine games.

That's the way it was last year. Too late and too little. The Indians won 18 of their last 21 games, but in the same period the red-hot Yanks gained half a game on them. They finished two games behind the world champions. It won't be that close this time.

The Yankees need only a combination of nine victories and—er—Cleveland losses to clinch their record—breaking fifth straight championship: following last night's 8-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The Indians boosted their second-place margin to four games over the White Sox, edging out the Boston Red Sox, 2-1.

Brocklyn's National League-leading Dodgers reduced their "magic number" to two for mathematical elimination of Milwaukee, shutting out the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-0, while Philadelphia was blanking the Braves, 2-0.

The New York Giants dropped St. Louis into a tie for third place, defeating the Cards, 3-3. Chicago's Cubs won their sixth straight, defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-0, and Ralph Kiner's 31st homer run with two mates aboard in the ninth inning.

The two twilight double-headers in the American League ended in splits. Mickey Vernon's double scored Eddie Yost in the 12th inning to give Washington a 2-1 victory over St. Louis after rookie Don Larsen had pitched the Browns to a 3-0 triumph in the opener. Marion Francis hurled a four-hitter and Pete Suder batted in three runs with a triple and homer to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 7-1 victory after Ralph Branca had pitched the Tigers to a 7-2 opening game triumph.

Baptists Of Three Counties Here For Association Meet

Baptists of the Big Spring Association begin their annual accounting and planning this evening at the Baptist Temple Church.

Most of the 24 churches in the association, which embraces Howard, Glascock and Martin Counties, will be represented at the conference which extends through Friday.

Two state leaders, L. H. Tapscott, Dallas, Brotherhood secretary for Texas Baptists, and Dr. James N. Morgan, pastor of the North Fort Worth Baptist Church, will be featured on the program.

After organizational matters at the opening session at 7:30 p.m. today, Burt Haynie will report on Brotherhood activities. Mrs. A. W. Stowe is to give a similar report on Woman's Missionary Union activities. Dr. F. D. O'Brien, First Baptist pastor, will deliver the sermon of the evening.

Some services at 9:45 a.m. will open the Friday sessions. The Rev. W. M. Irwin will read the Scripture; the Rev. Leslie Kelly will report on Training Union; and the Rev. J. M. Stagner, will report on Sunday School activities. Baptist benevolence and opportunities will be talked by The Rev. Ellis Carnett, while the Rev. J. W. Arnett, district missionary, will discuss the unified mission program.

In the afternoon, the Rev. A. W. Shewmake will conduct the devotional. Committee reports will be received at 1:50 p.m. and reports will be heard from E. R. Hammock on Mexican missions, while Billy Rudd will report on music matters. The Rev. Stagner, Forsan Baptist minister, will deliver the missionary sermon.

The Rev. Mark Reeves, Coahoma, leads the evening devotion at 7 o'clock. The Rev. C. T. Holliday speaks at the advance in 1953 and the Rev. Arnett on mobilizing membership for stewardship studies. L. H. Tapscott will outline denominational objectives and after a film, "The Way Forward," Dr. Morgan will deliver the associational sermon. Music will be in charge of Darrell Mock, First Baptist music director, and Rev. James Parks will be host pastor. The Rev. Warren Stowe, Airport Baptist pastor, will be in charge of the sessions as associational moderator.

Parents' Role As Teachers Is Stressed

Parents should not leave teaching young people the values of integrity and other ideals to the schools or community alone; they must accept the major responsibility themselves. Mrs. W. A. Hunt told members of the Child Study Club Wednesday.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Woodrow Dowling. Mrs. W. A. Hunt's topic was "The Complete Home."

She drew a comparison between the modern home and our grandparents' homes. The physical aspects of our homes have made great advances in comfort and beauty, she pointed out, but the cabins of earlier Americans, humble as their homes were, were far ahead in the attainment of a warm homelife.

Mrs. Wacil McNair presided at the meeting. Mrs. Betty Paula and Mrs. Wayland Yates were welcomed as new members. Mrs. A. M. Simpson was a guest. Eleven members attended.

Social Security Pay Goes To 159 Minors In Howard County

Monthly social security payments amounting to $4,530 are being received by 159 minor children in Howard County, according to Jack Calvert, manager of the area office of Social Security Administration, Odessa.

For the nation as a whole, more than a million children are receiving the social insurance, said Calvert. Most of these benefits are in the form of monthly survivors insurance payments which result from death of the family breadwinner. Benefits are based on average earnings of the person whose work was covered by the social security law. Average is $30.44 per month for children, while the largest payment to a family group is $168.75.

A representative of the Odessa Social Security Office is in Big Spring each Wednesday to assist residents with social security problems. Calvert said next visit here will be at 10 a.m. Sept. 16 at the Texas Employment Commission.

Details On Communist Warship Firing On British Boat Lacking

By FRED HAMPSON
HONG KONG (AP)—This British crown colony prepared today to bury a reserve captain in its army defense force and five Royal Navy men killed yesterday when a Chinese Communist warship fired on a Hong Kong naval patrol launch.

Five wounded survivors of the attack in the estuary of the Pearl River were in the Royal Navy's Hong Kong hospital under tight secrecy guard. They had been picked up by the destroyer Concord after reportedly suffering both bullet and shrapnel wounds.

The one identified victim of the fray was E. Frank Gower, an accountant with a Hong Kong firm who held a reserve captaincy in the colony defense force. He had served as a royal artillery officer during World War II.

Identities of the other slain have not yet been disclosed but all were believed to be members of the Royal Navy. Funeral services for all six were scheduled to be held tomorrow.

It was reported that the battered launch was still afloat and would be brought to Hong Kong later today. In London, the admiralty identified the ill-fated little boat as the 72-foot Launch 1323. It was understood the craft, which normally carried two officers and a crew of 12, was on normal patrol duty at the time of the shooting.

Presumably the rest of the men aboard the launch were rescued.

The Navy said the clash occurred yesterday in international waters seven miles southwest of Lin Tin Island. This is south of Hong Kong and on the east side of the Pearl River Estuary leading to the Communist Chinese port of Canton, 90 miles upstream.

Official details of the incident were lacking. Colony officials maintained a close-mouthed attitude, apparently seeking to avoid heightening the already tense relations between Hong Kong and Red China.

Commodore James Thorold, the colony's naval commander, conferred with Gov. Sir Alexander Grantham early today but declined any comment.

Reserve navy officers unofficially said the attack probably was made by a Red Chinese corvette usually stationed in the estuary on patrol.

Another navy source said, however, that one report claimed the launch had been hit by shells from a Communist LST (tank landing ship). The Reds captured a few such vessels from the Chinese Nationalists during the civil war but there has been no previous indication of any in use on the Pearl River.

This source said one Royal Navy man was killed while trying to reach the 40mm. gun at the front of the launch after the Communist vessel opened fire.

The launch was never able to return the Red fire, the source added, but immediately summoned the destroyer Concord to its aid. The bigger vessel arrived too late to engage the Communist ship.

The source said he did not know whether the launch suffered more than one hit.

Navy launches maintain a constant patrol of Hong Kong waters, serving as the outer screen of the harbor defense arrangements for this trade center and naval station off the south coast of Communist China.

The Reds occupy many of the small islands near the colony and in many areas the demarcation line is in dispute. Scarcely a month goes by without reports of one of more Chinese firings on the patrol boats.

Presidential Primary Law Changes Expected Shortly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political researchers declared today America's voters chose presidential nominating delegates in "intolerable confusion" last year, but that television and public debate may soon bring changes.

Their preliminary report was prepared for the annual meeting of the American Political Science Assn. (APSA), which has attracted some 2,000 political scientists from all over the world.

It was made by a group of researchers headed by Dr. Paul T. David of the Brookings Institution, who, cooperating with the APSA, studied the 1952 delegate-picking procedure.

The findings dealt exclusively with six classifications of primaries held in 17 states and the District of Columbia. The rest of the states name delegates by state and district conventions, with a few in the South picking by state party committees.

David suggested that a model might be developed for state presidential primaries based either on variations of the California-South Illinois system.

Held under laws "as different from each other as fingerprints," no two presidential primaries were identical, the researchers found. Minor differences in legal wording, they said, often produced major differences in operation.

"Even if significant changes do not occur before the 1956 conventions," the report said, "the impact of another session of the conventions on television, in conjunction with the discussion that is already occurring, may quite possibly result in significant changes before 1960."

David said the main feature of the California-South Dakota-Minnesota-Wisconsin primary system is a combined ballot. By making a single mark, the voter in these states can express a presidential preference and also vote for a slate of delegates committed to the preferred candidate. California introduced the systems 40 years ago.

But David said the combined ballot systems are far from perfect.

"The Achilles Heel of all these systems is the question as to which presidential possibilities, real or alleged, will be on the ballot," he said. His report pointed out that President Eisenhower's name was not carried on any of the four streamlined ballots last year.

The New York-Pennsylvania-Illinois primary systems, discussed as another base for developing a national model, provide for direct election of unpledged district delegates. State party organizations pick the delegates at large.

"This type, the report said, has a 'certain massive strength not unlike that of the three powerful states' where it operates. It is likely to find favor in such powerful states as long as the national conventions survive, the report said.

A national convention composed entirely of delegates picked by the latter type would seldom have to fight over credentials, it said, nor would such a convention be likely to "stray very far from the desires of the national party constituency."

Prince Akihito Scheduled To See Eisenhower Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Crown Prince Akihito, 19-year-old heir to the throne of Japan, was scheduled to visit President Eisenhower's at the White House today soon after the Chief Executive's arrival from Denver.

The President is interrupting his Colorado vacation to attend the funeral of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson. He will fly back to Denver tonight.

Prince Akihito, making a month's tour of the United States on his way home from the coronation of England's Queen Elizabeth, had originally planned to see Eisenhower Sept. 21 in Boston.

The prince will be touring New England then and the President will be in Boston to deliver a speech.

The young prince, who leaves Washington Saturday, will tour the nation with his suite until Oct. 7, when he leaves San Francisco for Hawaii and thence to Japan.

Besides a sightseeing tour, the prince's schedule today included a formal dinner in honor of Secretary of State Dulles and a reception honoring the prince at the Japanese Embassy thereafter.

Dulles welcomed him to the United States last night at a state dinner.

"On behalf of President Eisenhower and the people of the United States we are happy to have you here," Dulles said. He offered a toast to the Emperor of Japan.

The prince, in clearly enunciated English, responded with thanks and praise for Dulles personally. He proposed a toast to the President and said:

"My visit to your country will be memorable. I look forward to seeing its many wonders. I shall never forget them, just as I shall always remember the cordial welcome I have been given."

Village People Put Sea Harvest To Use

By ULRICH GRUDINSKI
RANTUM-SYLIT. Germany (U)—The tragic harvest of shipwreck at sea goes into the thatched roof cottages of this tiny fishing village on the north German island of Sylt. Window shutters here are made of ship planks washed ashore. Carved figureheads of forgotten three-masters and ancient brass cabin lanterns decorate its drift-wood homes.

For centuries this small community behind the North Sea dikes has lived on the flotsam of shipwreck. After heavy gales the young and old of Rantum walk the windswept beaches looking for whatever the sea has cast up with the tide. Landlubbers may say it's a mean way to make a living, but Andreas Nissen, Rantum's shore bailiff, only shrugs and says, "Somebody's death is somebody's bread."

Nissen's cottage, built two centuries ago and shipshape from thatched roof to tarred cellar, is solid evidence of the days when beachcombing was a really lucrative enterprise. Every part of its dark sturdy woodwork has a story of its own. A medieval figurehead over the gable window was sawed off the bow of an ill-fated Dutch merchant ship.

But "the fat years of beachcoming are gone forever," complains Frau Voltjes of Langeoog, the only woman among West Germany's 200 shore bailiffs.

The rewards for Rantum and its sister communities have been diminishing steadily since steamships replaced sailing vessels.

"When a modern steel ship goes to the bottom the odds are she takes her cargo along," Frau Voltjes says. "Only in rare cases does the vessel break up and spill her load."

Gone are the days when unscrupulous beachcombers set up false beacon fires to lure ships on the shoals and no longer can beachcomber rightly claim as his own the goods he finds washed up on shore. He is bound by law to hand whatever he finds over to the shore bailiff.

The bailiff stores flotsam in a shed and gives public notice. If the owner does not appear, the goods are sold at auction. The receipts go to the state treasury and the beachcomber gets a small cut.

In the bailiff's shed at Rantum now are bales of sticky rubber, barrels of English ale, sulphuric acid, liquid ammonia, cases of rancid butter, cans of lard, miring timber and lots of unripe bananas.

Some Meats Listed At Attractive Price

This will be a good weekend to buy meat, reports from the nation's food stores indicate.

Beef, pork and lamb prices generally will be lower. Sirlion steak is being trimmed by four to 12 cents a pound in some stores. Rib roast will be unchanged to four cents cheaper, pork chops will be down in selected localities by from six to 10 cents a pound.

Lamb chop prices will be lower in many areas. Specials being featured by stores include beef liver and smoked picnic hams.

One meat specialist forecasts that while beef and pork prices will be lower this weekend, they probably will go higher next week. Wholesale prices of beef and pork rose this week. Lamb prices remained down this week in wholesale markets.

Prices of frying chickens will follow no set pattern this weekend. They'll be up four cents in some places and down several cents in others. Top grade white eggs will be unchanged to eight cents a dozen lower.

Nearly all fresh fruit and vegetable prices went up early this week in the wholesale markets. Produce men picked beets, carrots, corn, onions, potatoes and summer squash as the best buys. They described beans, cabbage, eggplant, spinach and lettuce as moderately good buys.

Seedless grapes rose, but were still named as a good buy. Apples were selected as a fair buy in fruits. Canteloupes, honeydew melons and peaches all went up in price at the wholesale level.

Hybridization May Extend To Many Vegetables Soon

By FRANK CAREY
 Associated Press Science Reporter
MADISON, Wis. (U)—Hybridization, which revolutionized corn production, may soon be extended to various other vegetables, promising higher yields and quality, a University of Wisconsin horticulturist reported today.

Dr. W. H. Gabelman told the annual convention of the American Institute of Biological Sciences (AIBS) that prospects look good for furnishing the American dinner table with hybrid onions, beets, carrots, celery and Swiss chard.

A hybrid is a plant developed from two different varieties of the same vegetable. The scientist said a new horticultural discovery has made it possible to overcome a difficulty which hitherto has limited hybridization to corn alone on a practical economic scale. Hybridization has meant tremendous increases in corn yield and quality, Gabelman declared.

The difficulty, in the case of other vegetables, has been in finding economical ways to cross-pollinate two different varieties of these plants in order to produce hybrid seed.

With corn, the situation is easy. Pickers merely go down a row of corn and take the pollen-containing tassels off the plants that are to be saved for seed. These plants are then sterile as far as their "male" component is concerned. But, nearby plants of another corn variety furnish pollen which is carried by wind or insects to the pollen-sterile plants, resulting in production of hybrid seed. The following year, hybrid corn is grown from such seed.

But other crops don't lend themselves to this easy "detasselling" process. Thus, any production of hybrids from them has necessitated the very tedious task of removing all pollen-carrying parts from the seed plants. And this is not economical on a practical scale.

Now, said Gabelman, horticultural methods have been perfected which make it possible actually to produce plants which have sterile pollen, thereby eliminating the need for removing the pollen. He said, though, that even with this development, hybridization would perhaps not be possible for certain vegetables, like tomatoes, which seldom cross-pollinate.

In another report, botanist Wayne J. McClirath of the University of Chicago described a still-experimental chemical technique for producing sterility in the male parts of sorghum plants, thus pointing to the possibility of hybridizing that important crop. But he indicated that considerable work remains to be done before question of commercial application could be settled.

Judge Didn't Add Insult To Injury

BRIDGETON, N. J. (U)—An abandoned wife does not have to pay for the clothing which her husband wore when he left with another woman, a Cumberland County judge has ruled.

"Do I have to keep on paying for the very shirt and pants in which my husband ran away with another woman?" Mrs. Beatrice Beczynski asked Judge David Hurovitz.

"You do not," the judge replied. The suit was brought by a haberdasher.

Woman Kills Herself Due To 'Awful Joke'

LOS ANGELES (U)—A woman killed herself Wednesday because of an "awful joke."

Police said Amelia Gress, 63, shot herself at home after worrying about a door to door check federal income tax collectors are making in this area.

Her husband, Andrew, said she told fellow workers at a creamery about her fears and they kidded her into believing she would go to jail.

"It was an awful joke to play on her," he said. "Her income tax papers were in perfect order."

State Institutions Due For Expansion

AUSTIN (AP)—A $17,500,000 two-year building program to care for "desperate needs" of the state mental and tubercular hospitals was outlined Wednesday.

The State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools adopted building plans calling for expenditure of $10,235,000 out of funds made available from cigarette tax money.

The board also will spend $2,650,000 for new tuberculosis hospital space at San Antonio; $2,600,000 for TB patients at Harlingen; $2,100,000 for the Tyler Tuberculosis Hospital.

This money, all to be spent in two years, comes from special legislative appropriations.

The board will try for more funds under the Hill-Burton program for the Tyler institution. Hospital boardmen will appear before the State Board of Health Monday to request approval of this application for federal money to supplement the $2,100,000 already granted.

A new two million dollar tuberculosis unit has been finished at San Antonio and patients will begin moving in next week.

Operating expenses of state hospital and special school units will jump $100,000 a year because of gas utility rate boosts, the board was told. John Dudley Jr., member from Houston, said he thought the board should "fight to the bitter end" against further utility boosts.

The hospital system's $10,235,000 building program, for which priorities have not yet been decided, include these items:

Maintenance and improvement, all institutions, two million dollars; Kerrville State Home, $1,250,000; Mexia State School and Home ward buildings, $850,000.

Ahliene State Hospital, ward buildings for 250 patients, $700,000; Wichita Falls State Hospital, central kitchen and dining halls, $200,000; Corsicana State Orphans Home, replace boys dormitory, $180,000; Mexia State School, administrative and special services building, $300,000.

Some of the buildings to be replaced under this program were built nearly 100 years ago, the board was told.

Wild boars imported from Europe by sportsmen now run wild in Tennessee, North Carolina and California.

Cab Driver Proved Handy For Couple

DALLAS (AP)—About midnight Henry Callahan Jr. and Florence Vaught asked cabbie W. C. Collins to take them to the Rockwall County Courthouse.

He did.

They had Collins drive them around for about two hours hunting a minister.

When they despaired, the cab driver quietly informed them he was a minister in the Assembly of God and could marry them.

He did.

11-Year-Old Admits Piggy Bank Theft

WACO (AP)—A man complained to police that someone had broken a piggy bank in his home and taken $5.

While officers searched the house for clues, a neighbor boy, 11, walked in.

"Mister, I got that money," he said. "I spent a nickel of it. Here's the rest." He gave the man $4.95.

The case was dropped.

Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

New Gasoline Development

Ted O. Groebel (left) and Joe T. Dickerson look at advertising material in connection with the introduction of Shell gasoline, of TCP, a new gasoline additive described as the greatest development in motor fuel since the introduction of tetraethyl lead. Shell is now adding TCP in its premium gasoline, to give more power and more mileage. Groebel is head of Westex Oil Company, Shell jobber here, and Dickerson is Midland area vice president for Shell.

INTRODUCED BY SHELL

New Gasoline Additive Gives More Power, More Mileage

A new gasoline additive described as "the biggest development in motor fuel since the introduction of tetraethyl lead 31 years ago" is now being added to Shell Oil Company's premium gasoline. It is announced by Ted O. Groebel of Westex Oil Company, Shell jobber.

The new product is the result of research Shell began for the Air Force over five years ago. It has been used in Navy fighters and Air Force B36 bombers for the past two years. After proving it for use in aviation, Shell engineers began testing it for automobiles. It has been tested extensively in the company's large laboratory test fleet in California and by the Southwest Research Institute in Texas. These tests showed that on the second tankful, gasoline containing the ingredient would produce the full effects of increased power and mileage and insure reliability of spark plug performance.

"It gives the average car up to 15 per cent more power, more mileage and from 5 to 150 per cent longer life for spark plugs," Groebel said. Gasoline containing the new product also cleans old plugs and cuts down pre-ignition, the most serious cause of knocking. The new additive is TCP, a cresyl (rhymes with wrestle) compound, he said.

The price of Shell Premium with TCP will be half a cent above that of other premium gasolines without the additive. Groebel said that the average American motorist buys 666 gallons of gasoline a year and that the increased price, which amounts to a little over $3 a year, would be repaid many times over in increased power and mileage, and reduced spark plug costs.

TCP gets its results by ensuring more efficient burning of the gasoline. As an engine is used, a metallic deposit, sometimes so thin that it can be examined only by X-ray methods, forms on the spark plugs. This deposit can short circuit the plugs and prevent them from making the spark that ignites the fuel.

According to Shell scientists,

TCP may mark the beginning of a new era in fuel improvement. They point out that gasoline has been greatly improved in the last 20 years but that the big improvements so far have come mainly from better refining processes—careful control and rearrangement of the crude oil molecules. Refining processes have now been developed to the point at which they get from the crude oil just about the best gasoline possible. Future progress probably will come from some other source—the use of chemical ingredients. TCP may be a pioneer in the field.

Census Bureau Fails To List Texas Cowboys

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
Associated Press Staff

This may jolt visitors to Texas: The Census Bureau in its detailed occupations in Texas doesn't even list cowboys.

The Texas labor force, 2,121,282 men and 747,324 women three years ago, is a varied and versatile army from the 16 women blacksmiths to the 243,956 farm owners and tenants.

Some Texans do the most interesting things at the most unusual places. For instance, Dallas, through which the Trinity River flows, has three employed female sailors and deck hands and 15 men with jobs in that nautical field. The Fort Worth area, a few miles upstream, has one woman and eight men at work handling its maritime commerce. In the Waco area there are four men and one woman similarly employed.

Fort Worth and Dallas ran neck and neck when it came to women loggers. Both had two each when the census was made, but a Dallas newspaper tried in vain recently to locate its female Paul Bunyons in lumbering camps around the city.

Nine women worked as airplane pilots or navigators, 228 women were lawyers and judges in the state. By 1950 the number of employed women physicians and surgeons had increased to 365, including 10 Negro women.

Visitors who expected to find punching cattle the main occupation may also be disappointed to learn from the census that clergyman outnumber bartenders three to one.

Texans make all sorts of money, from very little to quite a lot. There were 738,400 persons over 14 who either lost money or made less than $500 a year. There were 59,435 who had incomes of $10,000 a year from all sources.

The median income was $1,546 for all Texans 14 or older. Men, with $2,090, did better than women, with $759.

In case your income wasn't $10,000 or better last year, don't fret too badly. There were 3,338,400 of the 3,397,835 persons who didn't make it either.

Enlisted Man Charged With Striking Swede

SEOL (AP)—The Army said Wednesday a U. S. enlisted man had been charged with striking a Swedish member of a neutral nations inspection team and would be tried by a special court. Names of the soldier and Swedish officer were withheld.

The incident occurred there several days ago. The soldier apparently became irritated at the Swede in the communications center. The officer was not hurt.

General Rains Aid East Texas Pastures

AUSTIN (AP)—General soaking rains gave fall range and pasture feed prospects a big boost over the eastern two-thirds of Texas last week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said Wednesday.

Its crop reporters told of good rains south and east of a line from Wichita Falls, San Angelo and Del Rio, extending to the Rio Grande, the Gulf and the Louisiana and Oklahoma lines.

Wheat planting continued in the High Plains and was starting in the Low Rolling Plains. More moisture is needed over much of that area to keep grain coming and produce needed early fall pasture.

The drought breaking rains in South Texas two weeks ago started grass and weeds to growing. They needed 30 to 60 days to make full recovery.

The heavy rains delayed field work in the favored two-thirds of the state. A heavy planting of oats is expected in all areas where the ground dries.

Cotton harvesting made slow progress in upper coastal, eastern and central counties. Rains hampered picking and caused some damage.

New Vitamin Element Causes Milk To Remain Fresh Longer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO (AP)—Milk stays sweet, without souring, up to four times longer if cows are fed a vitamin element costing a penny a month, two chemists reported today.

Only a tiny amount of vitamin material, menadione, is needed daily. It apparently acts like an antibiotic against bacteria involved in making milk sour, Dr. Karl Dittmer and G. G. Kelley of Florida State University, Tallahassee, told the American Chemical Society.

Menadione is a raw material or precursor for vitamin K.

Milk from cows getting menadione stayed sweet for 18 to 24 hours at body temperature, 98.6 degrees. Milk from untreated cows sours in about 12 hours at that temperature.

Pasteurized milk from cows fed the vitamin element stayed sweet about 20 per cent longer than milk from other cows. Fresh raw milk, before pasteurizing, stayed sweet at 68 degrees for four days, against one day for other milk. Stored at 59 degrees, the treated milk stayed unsoured 20 days, against five days for other milk.

The cows tested got only about a thousandth of an ounce of menadione daily. One pound of the stuff is enough for 50 cows for a year, in food or water. It can be made easily from available chemicals.

Dittmer and Kelley said such milk has no detectable change in flavor. When it does sour, it does so without hard curds or smell. It has a clean sour taste.

They advised more study by other researchers of their findings, to see if this is a practical way to keep milk from souring.

The antisouring effect doesn't show up until after several days of menadione. Whether the milk chemical seems to be a potent long-lasting local anesthetic. None of them has yet been tested upon humans. They are known as piperidinal compounds.

MRS. HERBERT SMITH AND JOE
... after school snack

Banana Nut Bread Does Double Duty

A recipe that "goes anytime," Mrs. Herbert Smith's banana nut bread, does double duty. Serve it plain as a special treat for bread with the main course or as an after school snack. Or dab a little whipped cream on top to serve it as a dessert.

Prepared either way, it's a favorite with Mrs. Smith's 10-year-old son, Joe, who attends Central Ward School.

Mrs. Smith is a member of the First Methodist Church and belongs to the Gold Star Mothers, the American Legion Auxiliary and the P.T.A. She does volunteer work at the Veterans' Administration Hospital.

The Smiths live at 901 Scurry. Here is her recipe for banana nut bread:

BANANA NUT BREAD
Ingredients:
2 or 3 bananas
2-3 cup sugar
1 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening

Beef For Babies

Babies are now being fed beef as early as six weeks of age and studies have shown that these infants are healthier, happier, and have greater resistance to infection.

2 eggs
1 teaspoon lemon rind
1 small package pecans
Method:
Cream sugar, shortening, and add the eggs one at a time.
Beat until smooth. Mash the bananas, beat into the mixture. Combine the flour, baking powder, soda and salt and add to the mixture. Pour into a pan, measuring 8 inches by 4 by 4, and push up at the corners. Bake at 350 degrees for about 55 minutes. Turn out on a rack and cool. Keep overnight before serving.

Surprises In Lunch Box Delight Child

Little surprises in lunch boxes delight children. Stick toothpicks in chunks of pineapple, cheddar cheese, small pickled beets, pickles or raw cauliflower. Marshmallows, nuts and mints are also good bottom-of-the-box "prizes." Let the youngsters eat their way down to the "secret."

Make "treasure chest" sandwiches for lunch boxes or back yard picnics. Cut the top from a long frankfurter bun. Heap the filling in the scooped out portion of the lower half. Put the cap back on and you have a tasty and easy-to-eat sandwich.

Meat Sandwiches Are Lunch Box Favorites

Sandwiches, the lunch box mainstay, take on new importance with the beginning of school. Here are three taste tested recipes for meat sandwich fillings, perfect for Junior's lunch with his friends at school.

The first spread is built around that old standby, bologna. Chili sauce and chopped green onions give it interesting flavor.

CHILI-BOLOGNA SANDWICH SPREAD

Ingredients:
1/2 pound finely chopped or ground bologna (about 1 cup)
4 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons finely chopped green onions
Mayonnaise to moisten

Method:
Combine ingredients and chill. Spread on buttered bread, top with a leaf of lettuce, if desired, and top with another slice of buttered bread. 4 to 5 sandwiches.

Liver sausage, always a favorite for sandwiches, takes on added zip with these seasonings: chopped celery gives it crispness.

LIVER SAUSAGE SANDWICH SPREAD

Ingredients:
1/2 pound liver sausage (about 1 cup)
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1 1/2 teaspoons horseradish
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 to 3 tablespoons mayonnaise

Method:
Mash liver sausage and combine with rest of ingredients. Make into sandwiches, using a lettuce leaf in each, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 sandwiches.

Then "there's our old friend salami or summer sausage which is popular in so many households."

SALAMI SANDWICH SPREAD

Ingredients:
1/2 cup minced soft salami or summer sausage
1 finely chopped hard cooked egg
2 tablespoons pickle relish
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Mayonnaise to moisten

Method:
Combine all ingredients and make into sandwiches, with or without lettuce. Makes 4 to 6 sandwiches.

In case you're not in the mood for making sandwich spreads, here are some other suggestions for using sliced cold cuts in sandwiches:

Low Water Cookery

To make sure you get all the good possible out of cooked fresh vegetables, use only about a half cup of water to a medium-sized pan. Cover the pan and cook slowly just until the vegetable is tender. Be sure to serve it in its natural juice. When large amounts of water are used in cooking, the valuable vitamins of the fresh vegetables are lost in the liquid.

Beef Steaks Solve Company Problem

When you're wondering what to serve company, beef steak is the easy solution to your problem. With the wealth of beef now on the market, beef is your best meat buy—and juicy beef steaks always are favorites with guests.

If you want a really festive dinner, serve individual club steaks done to each guest's liking. For an easier-on-the-cook dinner, purchase one or two thick steaks to serve everyone. When buying steak, allow 1 1/2 to 2 pounds (with bone) per person. Depending on the thickness, a sirloin steak will serve 5 to 8, a porterhouse 3 to 6 persons and a T-bone 3 to 4.

Puerto Rican Pot Roast Is Exciting

Adventurous cooks find great fun in trying new recipes. This Puerto Rican Pot-Roast is sure to capture the imagination for the surface of a heel of round pot-roast (boneless wedge-shape cut from lower part of beef round) is slit at intervals and alternately filled with stuffed olives and salt pork. It's cooked in tomato juice, with a resulting flavorful tomato gravy.

PUERTO RICAN POT-ROAST

Ingredients:
3 pound beef heel of round pot-roast
1 small bottle stuffed olives
1 slice salt pork, cut 1/4 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or bacon drippings
1/2 cup hot water
1 cup tomato juice
1 medium onion, chopped
Salt and pepper

Method:
Cut small slits in both cut surfaces of the meat at 3-inch intervals. Stuff slits alternately with olives and inch strips of salt pork. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Add water, tomato juice and chopped onion. Cover tightly and simmer gently 3 hours or until tender. Thicken liquid and serve the tomato gravy with the meat.

Honey Of A Drink

Traditional feed tea takes on a delicious and different flavor when sweetened with a spoonful of honey instead of sugar—and don't forget to add a mint sprig.

lettuce, mayonnaise.
2. Luncheon meat, sliced American cheese, mustard.
3. Salami, sliced tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, mayonnaise.
4. Bologna or summer sausage with a thin topping of cole slaw.
5. Summer sausage, egg salad, lettuce.
6. Corned beef between slices of bread spread with horseradish-mustard butter.
7. Swiss cheese and deviled ham, lettuce.
8. Ham and Swiss cheese. (Spread ham with mustard. Use horseradish butter on bread.)

LEFTOVER ROAST

Whenever you have leftover roast, the last bits of meat are best when used in sandwiches. Here are ideas for making tasty beef and pork sandwich spreads. Roast pork sandwiches: Finely chop or grind leftover pork, moisten slightly with mayonnaise and

Top Coffee Parfait With Butterscotch

Coffee ice cream, toasted almonds and butterscotch sauce all topped off with whipped cream makes a concoction that is well worth the time it takes to prepare it.

COFFEE-ALMOND PARFAIT

Ingredients:
1 pint coffee ice cream
1/2 cup chopped toasted almonds
Butterscotch sauce
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
Fill four parfait glasses with alternating layers of ice cream, almonds, sauce and whipped cream. Makes four servings.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

Ingredients:
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup light cream
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
3 tablespoons butter
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
Combine brown sugar, cream, corn syrup and butter in deep saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil without stirring three minutes. Remove from heat; add vanilla; cool. Makes four to six servings.

season with sage, salt and pepper. Spread bread with mustard or horseradish butter.

Roast beef sandwiches: Finely chop or grind leftover beef, moisten with a little catsup and mayonnaise and season lightly with Worcestershire sauce, horseradish, salt and celery salt.

Weather Men Hold Outing-Indoors

The men who operate the Dallas, Tex., Weather Bureau and their families held their annual picnic—under a roof. Here Meteorologists John Geyer, Tom Wilson and Dick Wise, left to right, carry the food through rain to the pavilion at a local park. The weathermen said the outing was planned several weeks ago and insist they did not predict rain. (AP Photo).

THE SPRINGBOARD

News From Webb Air Force Base
By A-2C FERD BORSCH

GRADUATION

Major General Fred H. Smith, vice commander of Air Defense Command at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado Springs, Colo., will be guest speaker when class 53-F graduates in special ceremonies at the Academic Auditorium next Wednesday. Time of graduation is 3:30 p.m.

Class 53-F is composed of 17 student officers, 62 American cadets and 28 MDAP students.

Of these, six student officers, 11 MDAPs and 24 American cadets will receive their wings Wednesday.

All of the American cadets will receive commissions as second lieutenants.

KIDS DAY

The Kiwanis Club has proclaimed Saturday, September 26, as its annual National Kids Day.

As in the past, Webb, along with other bases throughout the country, will observe an "open house" policy for youngsters in the surrounding area on that day.

After a full morning in town conducted by the Kiwanis and including a parade and free movie, the kids will be transported to Webb in the afternoon for a complete tour of the jet pilot training center.

The tour will get under way at 1 p.m. and close at 5:30.

TESTS

A total of 214 airmen at Webb are eligible for higher level proficiency tests in three career fields the week of September 21-25. Fields to be tested include Supply, Administration, and Aircraft maintenance.

Airmen passing these exams will receive a higher duty level, thus paving the way to further promotions.

DANCE

All enlisted personnel—from airmen basics to master sergeants—and their wives, dates and guests are invited to the grand opening informal dance at the John H. Lees Service Club Friday night.

Named in honor of Sgt. John H. Lees, a native Big Spring who was killed in the Far East during World War II, the club was recently opened following memorialization ceremonies.

Members of the 509th AF Band will provide dance music from 8 to 12.

NCO WIVES

The NCO Wives Club will hold a general election of officers Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at the NCO Club.

All wives are urged to attend this meeting. Refreshments will be served.

There will be no initiation fee for new members joining the club in September.

NEW CLASS

Class 54-D, consisting of 64 student officers, arrived at Webb last week to begin its aviation training in T-28 and T-33 aircraft.

This is the first class assigned to Webb made up solely of student officers.

RADIO

Lt. Eddie Holden of Personal Services, A-2C M. B. Jacobsen of Medical Group and T-Sgt. Don Lomprey of the 509th AF Band were guests of the "Dottie Tyler Show" this week. The program is aired over radio station KBST from 1 to 1:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

HOLY NAME

The St. Christopher Holy Name Society will hold its monthly Communion Mass Sunday, 9 a.m., in the Academic Auditorium. A breakfast-business meeting will follow at Morales Restaurant.

SPORTS

Webb's Dusters swept an exhibition softball doubleheader from the Midland All-Stars at Midland last week. Both scores were 7-0.

Field Maintenance notched one victory to jump into a first place tie with Idle Pilot Training. FM stopped Food Service, 7-0. Both leaders have 4-0 records.

French Crack Down On Tax Non-Payers

PARIS (AP)—Cracking down hard on income tax dodgers, the French government gave out Wednesday a few samples of the treatment evaders are getting.

In Paris, a Frenchman who failed to declare any income though he owns three autos and employs three servants was taxed 15 million francs ($42,857).

Another was taxed 10 million francs ($28,571), though he had declared his wealth at only 326,000 francs ($917). The government said he owns two autos and employs four servants.

In Nice, the government slapped a tax of 7 million francs ($20,000) on another Frenchman who had declared no income though he owns two villas and a big auto.

Australia May Get Income Tax Reduced

CANBERRA (AP)—Australian Treasurer Sir Arthur Fadden, presented to Parliament Wednesday a budget calling for a 1 1/4 per cent income tax cut.

He told the House the government believes bold tax reductions are the best way to cut costs.

Company taxes will be cut from 45 to 35 cents on the dollar and the sales tax from 50, 33 and 20 per cent to a maximum of 16 1/3 per cent. It abolishes or eases several smaller taxes.

Fadden estimated that the tax cuts would total 240 million dollars.

A diver must have nitrogen and oxygen to breathe mixed in different proportions than found in the air and differing at different depths or he will be poisoned.

11 Drowned When Trapped By Tide On Ocean Sand Bar

LA ROCHELLE, France (AP)—Three women and eight men were trapped on a sand bar and drowned by a fast rising Atlantic tide early Wednesday.

They were setting for fish off the island of Oleron, a few miles off France's west coast, when the tide caught them.

Only one man in the group escaped. Marcel Jourdain swam ashore. Jourdain said he guessed he was in the water several hours.

Jourdain said that he and the eleven others had ventured too far out and were so busy dragging the big net through shallow water that they did not notice the quickly rising tide until it was too late. He said the rest may have gotten lost in a heavy fog which suddenly swept in.
