KENNY WAYNE HENDERSON

Sheriff's Son Slain In Canyon

Quarrel Results In Fatal Struggle

What began as a quarrel over a suspected room pilfering at West Texas State resulted in a death of a 20 year old Muleshoe youth and the jailing of a Dallas youth in Canyon Friday.

Kenny Wayne Henderson, son of Sheriff and Mrs. Bobby Henderson of Muleshoe was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Texas Hospital Friday. According to the coroner's report, Henderson died from a small puncture of the heart.

Barry Darnell Robbins (20) of Dallas has been charged with voluntary manslaughter and as of Friday was jailed in lieu of a $15,000 bond. The second degree felony charge is deemed manslaughter intentionally in the heat of passion or as a result of extreme or as a result of extreme provocation. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Jay Hall of Randall County.

The alleged stabbing occurred shortly after midnight when Robbins came to the dorm room of Henderson and roommate Kenny Williamson and began yelling profanities.

Robbins was apparently upset over an earlier incident that evening. Henderson and his friend, Doris Hough saw Robbins running out of Henderson's room. According to Ms. Hough, Henderson and Robbins had been quarreling for several days over the allegation of Robbins' pilfering Henderson's and Williams' room in Jarrett Hall. When Henderson and Ms. Hough saw him in the hall, Ms. Hough stated she heard Robbins dare Henderson 'to come on over if you're so tough.'

When Robbins came to the dorm room around midnight, Henderson slipped into the hall and motioned his roommate to the door. Henderson moved to the outside while Robbins spoke profanely.

Henderson is said to have stated he didn't want to fight, but Robbins pushed him and a fight ensued. Robbins slipped on some newspapers, fell and got up, and struck at Henderson's face. Henderson fell back and Robbins straddled Henderson's legs. Henderson was trying to overthrow Robbins, and Williams stated he heard Henderson grunt and saw him fall back limp.

Williams told officers he tried to pull Robbins off Henderson but he would not let go. Williams said

Robbins kept pounding on Henderson saying "have you had enough, have you had enough."

Williams realized Henderson was hurt, got a wet rag while Robbins kept saying "he can't be hurt." Robbins took the rag and tried to revive him.

John Hasse, dorm supervisor, was summoned and when he found Henderson he called for an ambulance.

On the way to Northwest Texas Hospital, ambulance attendants worked on the Muleshoe youth for a few minutes. He was pronounced dead. Page 6, Col. 1

Law Enforcement "Catching Up"

Not too many years ago, law enforcement personnel especially in the small towns and cities and rural areas were issued a badge, strapped on a gun and informed, "go out and enforce the law." Even though most cities had police academies for their own officers to attend, the rural officer most often had no opportunity to attend any of the schools, as the towns and small cities allotted no funds for training.

So the officer was placed in the position of enforcing laws he was not familiar with and did not know, in many cases, that some laws even existed.

Criminal elements became more sophisticated, and took every advantage of the officers' lack of legal training and experience. With the advent of the more sophisticated approach to crime exhibited by such criminal elements, the smaller towns had to take another look at the results being achieved by untrained officers.

Now, with modern technology, and the continuing efforts to professionalize law enforcement, almost all officers undergo constant training. Initially, all persons going into law enforcement are required to undergo eight weeks of 'basic' training, and continuing education has become a requirement.

Muleshoe Babe Ruth League May Fold

"At this point we are not even sure we will have it (Jr. Babe Ruth League) this summer," said John Agee, secretary of the Muleshoe league.

Although over 75 boys have signed up to play, the league may have to fold because of a lack of interest from the boys' parents and a shortage of sponsors, according to Agee.

An organizational meeting was held last Thursday and there were not enough in attendance to hand out duties. A board was selected including Jacinto Bara, president; Eugene Shaw, vice president; and John Agee, secretary. Coaches were also selected with officers doubling up.

"I can remember when I used to play ball, there were so many cars at the field, there wasn't any place to park," said Agee, who reports that the stands are pretty bare when the 13-15 year olds play today.

The league has scheduled player sign up for Monday, May 4 at the Tri County Meeting Room followed by a meeting of the parents and coaches.

"We are hoping more parents will show up so we can get organized, and get this thing going."

'Elisa' Helping Team Of Scientists

"Elisa" is helping a team of scientists from five nations develop a new way to treat cancer patients by protecting their vital bone marrow while poisoning the cancer cells.

"Elisa" is a testing method using enzymes to measure immunity at M.D. Anderson-University of Texas Cancer Center. Here, Dr. Karel Dicke, Professor of Medicine, is directing a group of biochemists, immunologists and surgeons, assembled from Holland, Australia, India Argentina, and the U.S. for a project involving bone marrow transplantation as part of a new treatment for cancer. The research is supported by an American Cancer Society grant.

Previously at other research and treatment centers, leukemia patients were treated by transplanting bone marrow from an identical twin. The bone marrow (which produces blood cells) from a close relative sometimes enhanced the leukemia patients' immune reaction.

Another technique involves temporarily removing bone marrow, to prevent damaging it, before chemical or radiation treatment of a leukemia patient. But leukemia cells could have remained in the extracted bone marrow, Dr. Dicke points out, and relapse sometimes occurs.

Dr. Dicke's team is adapting this technique to patients with "solid tumors." Until now, chemotherapy for this kind of cancers has failed to match its impressive success with acute leukemia in children, half of whom are now being saved.

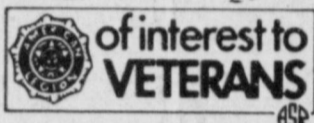

Patients with oat cell carcinoma, a lung cancer, are being treated by a moderate use of combined chemicals, while withdrawn bone marrow is safely repositied in refrigerated storage for six to nine weeks. During this time a combination of anticancer chemicals are given three weeks apart before the bone marrow is returned to the system. During treatment they remain in the Center's laminar airflow section to prevent contamination. Due to treatment suppressing their immunity, they are especially vulnerable to infection.

Patients treated two years ago, when the method was first devised, have survived.

To improve the technique, the body's immune system will be enhanced by a new method of producing antibodies that will attack only tumor cells. "Elisa" for "Enzyme-Linked Immunosorbant-Assay," will be used to select specific antibodies obtained from clones grown from rabbit and mouse hybrid cells.

This second line of attack will be used principally to kill any cells left in the bone marrow so it will not carry the seeds of fatal recurrence.

The federal government's Small Business Administration was created to help people go into business for themselves and stay in business. It provides information, advice, training, loan guarantees, help in obtaining government procurement contracts and other services at no charge.

SBA is required by law to give "special consideration" to applicants who are veterans of active military service.

An SBA official in Washington says that in 1980, veterans borrowed $450 million in SBA-guaranteed loans from banks, about 15 percent of agency-backed borrowing.

Under the program, the government guarantees 90 percent of the amount loaned to a qualified applicant, making the banks more willing to lend. Veterans with a 100 percent disability rating may qualify for SBA's Handicapped Loan Program with interest set at 3 percent, but money for this program is in short supply.

"This is a perilous time for small business in the United States," the official said, with bankruptcies running at an annual 20 percent of existing small companies.

He said current emphasis is on counseling and training for veterans planning to go into business. In recent months, SBA has held 120 seminars across the country that reached 6,000 veterans.

nounced dead at the hospital.

The coroner's report noted a small puncture in the upper left chest which was thought to have been caused by an object approximately four inches in length. A screwdriver has been recovered and taken to the Department of Public Safety lab with the rag which was used for analysis.

The District Attorney's office has taken a signed statement from Robbins but would not reveal its contents.

Henderson, who was very active in FFA and 4-H activities, received the FFA Texas Lone Star Farmer degree and was named Star Agri-businessman in 1978-79. He also qualified and attended the State 4-H Horse Show in 1978.

A member of chapter conducting teams, he represented Bailey County at the District 4-H shows for nine years. He also helped the junior 4-H'ers with leather drafts and other projects.

In his third semester at WT, Henderson was continuing his interest in agriculture by studying Agri-business.

"He was not the type who stood out in a crowd," said Ben Gramley, Muleshoe High School counselor. "He was an average young man who minded his own business and never caused any trouble. He was a good citizen and a fine all-around boy."

Henderson was an above average student and graduated in May of 1979 in the top third of his class. Wayland Ethridge, school principal, characterized him as one who "got along well with everyone."

A life resident of Muleshoe, Henderson has two brothers, Bobby of Canyon and Jimmy of Muleshoe. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edna Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Pearson all of Muleshoe.

He attended the Trinity Fellowship Church while a student at WTSU and attended the First Assembly of God in Muleshoe.

Services are to be held at 3:00 p.m. Saturday in the First Assembly of God Church. Officiating will be Rev. James Williams, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. James Golaz, pastor of the Assembly of God Church.

Burial will be in the Bailey County Memorial Park.

What's the cure for inflation? Profitable agriculture, according to Secretary of Agriculture, John Block. In a recent address, Block felt the best remedy for the nation's inflation was strong, productive and profitable agriculture. Block recently cited several impediments toward that goal which, he said, the Reagan administration has marked for correction. These include eliminating the target price concept, unnecessary food labeling regulations and the soaring cost of national government. Many responsibilities currently handled by the government, he believes are best left to local, state and private sectors. Urging cutbacks in many areas, one marked exception was agricultural research. Block believes it is urgent to continue to improve agriculture technology through additional research to meet the needs of the future.

Law...

Former low salaries for law enforcement personnel are slowly giving way to more competitive wages as law enforcement attempts to keep the trained officers from leaving for private industry and higher wages.

This was brought home to Muleshoe again this week, as officers from city, county and state police in this county were among officers attending a firearms training school in Muleshoe Tuesday and Wednesday.

The local officers were among approximately 20 from throughout the area, including Lubbock, Dimmitt, Morton, Floydada, Littlefield and Portales, N.M., as well as the local officers.

Both classroom and practical firing on the Muleshoe Police Association firing range were utilized. This was the first outing at the police firing range located just east of Muleshoe.

For the past several months, the MPA has been working at the firing range site, and have nearly completed what is expected to be one of the more outstanding police firing ranges in the area.

The police association is constructing the firing range without city, county or state funds, relying on funds accumulated by hosting youth dances, skating parties, and other methods. Their most recent acquisition was a 55 foot mobile home at the site. All of the work is being done by the MPA members.

Sponsoring the two day, 16 hour school in Muleshoe were the South Plains Association of Governments. In Muleshoe for the school was H.K. Henniger, director of Law Enforcement Training.

Conducting the classes were FBI Agents Scott Hendricks of Amarillo and Mike Connolly from Fort Worth.

City officers attending the school included Sgt. Wayne Holmes, Patrolmen Monty Phipps and Julian Dominguez, Animal Warden Connie Bynum, Bailey County Deputy Sheriffs Hal Bynum and Tony Wallace and DPS Trooper Carey Brooker, all from Muleshoe.

May 11-17 Salvation Army Week

Spring is a time of rebirth—a time when nature begins its cycle anew and turns leafless trees and lifeless lawns green again. A similar rebirth takes place each year in many individuals who seek the help of the Salvation Army. Those who feel lost, despondent, and forgotten by society often find their lives making a complete turnabout because of their experience at The Salvation Army.

Although The Salvation

Army was founded on religious principles, religious affiliation is not required to enjoy the Army's vast array of services. However, all programs are spiritually motivated.

This concern of Salvation Army personnel makes a key difference as individuals and families are counseled and aided. Case after case has shown that easing physical or emotional problems may not be enough to prepare a person to overcome future setbacks. Serving the total individual with spiritual guidance, concerned counseling and attainable goals provides a solid foundation for stability and personal growth.

This successful blending of spiritualism and social service has earned The Salvation Army a worldwide reputation for excellence in its welfare services, comfort to the elderly, aid to prisoners and their families, youth programs, etc. In recognition of these accomplishments, the government has proclaimed May 11-17 as National Salvation Army Week. As the country takes time to salute the good works of this organization, now in its second century of service, The Salvation Army will be working tirelessly to improve the lot of the less fortunate.

HERO-FHA Week Highlights

During the week of April 6-10, HERO participated in HERO-FHA Week. One of the HERO activities was a softball game in which FHA challenged HERO. The outcome of the game was a score of 20-6 in favor of HERO. Thursday, April 9, HERO prepared a "Mom and Dad Supper." Each member of HERO brought a covered dish for the meal. After the supper, all parents and students played volleyball and basketball in the high school gym.

The HERO Chapter would like to give a special thanks to all of the supporters during this week of activities.

Student Council Attends Convention

The Student Council State Convention was held April 23, 24, 25 in Dallas. The five newly elected officers who attended were Jan Whitt, President; Wayne Precure, Vice-President; Robin Burgess, Secretary; Monty Hysinger, Treasurer; and Susie Pierce, Historian. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Taylor sponsored the trip.

Thursday, April 23, the group left at 8 a.m. and drove to the Amfac Hotel in Dallas. All meetings and sessions were held in this one building. The first general session began at 7:30 p.m. with Free Fare, a rock group from Orlando, Florida entertaining the 3,000 Student Council members of Texas.

The theme of the convention, "Climb Another Mountain" was then discussed, and the State President delivered his speech. Friday was a busy day with meetings and workshops scheduled throughout the afternoon. At 9:00 a.m. skits and speeches were presented to the voting delegates. Following the meeting, delegates voted for State Officers.

An extra activity planned for the members was a TSCA dance. The convention gave the members a lift and many new and exciting ideas for the upcoming school year. The Muleshoe group returned home on Saturday.

Wayland Baptist College Offers Twelve Hours Graduate Credit

A total of five classes offering up to 12 hours graduate credit toward a master's degree are being offered this summer through the Department of Education at Wayland Baptist College. (The courses are part of a joint program launched this spring between Wayland and Houston Baptist University, fulfilling requirements for the master of education degree from HBU.

Two courses will be offered during the first six weeks of the summer (June 1 through July 10), while three others will be taught during the second half (July 13 to August 21). Persons may enroll for as many as four of the five classes.

"We're making a special appeal to public school teachers in the Plainview area who previously were forced to Canyon or Lubbock to do graduate work," said Dr. Terry Northup, head of Wayland's Education Department. "We feel we have an excellent program under way that will prove beneficial to many teachers."

The joint effort was successfully begun during the current term when 12 students enrolled in the first course. "We'd like to have about 25 more for the summer terms to give our program a solid foundation on which to build," Northup added.

The degree includes 36 hours of course work, all on the Plainview campus. No thesis is required, although a comprehensive examination is given near the end of the program. All requirements must be completed within five years although it is possible to finish in three summers.

Courses to be offered during the first term are Educational Psychology, to be taught from 8:30 until 10 a.m. daily by Dr. Ray Musgrave of the Wayland faculty; and Research Techniques and Procedures, which will meet from 6 until 9:45 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Dr. Mackie Bobo a parttime Wayland professor from Lubbock, will instruct that class.

During the second six weeks, persons may enroll for "The School in a Multi-Cultural Society," to be taught by Dr. Dan McLallen, academic vice president, each morning from 7:30 until 9. Northup will be teaching courses in Curriculum and Instruction from 9:30 until 11 each day, and students may enroll for the class on either the elementary or secondary levels.

Local and area school teachers interested in the program this summer should contact Northup at 296-5521 as soon as possible for admission procedures. Financial aid is available.

OF HEALTH

If you want sun fun without sun worries this summer, use waterproof, moisturizing sunscreens that protect your skin from the burning rays of the sun while you get a tan or enjoy water sports.

Whatever your skin type, these new Sundown sunscreens come in SPF (sun protection factor) designations for your needs—Moderate, Extra or Maximal protection. There's even a water-resistant Ultra Protection sunblock (SPF 15) for the fairest skins.

Dermatologists urge consumers to expand their "sun sense," to stem the alarming rise in sun-related skin cancers. A helpful, educational leaflet is available free to consumers by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Sun Hazards and Sun Sense", Johnson & Johnson Baby Products Co., P.O. Spring Means Outdoor Fun, But Watch For Fire Ants

AUSTIN--The latest beautiful spring weather is bringing more children outdoors to play, but Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown warns parents to be cautious as the imported fire ants have spread into many new areas of the state and their venom can be fatal to some persons.

Brown cautioned everyone to "be careful and watch young children closely during the warm months."

Researchers at Texas A&M University found that 41 persons in a random sample in Bryan-College Station could die quickly if bitten. One percent of the sample were found to be highly allergic to the imported fire ant venom.

Brown advised that homeowners who have imported fire ants on their property to use approved control chemicals. "MC-96, Amdro, and Durban are relatively safe chemicals if they are used as prescribed on the label. These chemicals have been approved for use by the Environmental Protection Agency.

"For several years, the imported fire ant was considered only a farm problem, but now people are finding mounds in city parks, school yards, and in their own lawns. The infestation has spread from the Gulf Coast into Central Texas and the Edwards Plateau. We are having reports from newly infested areas every day.

"I hope that people won't treat the imported fire ant lightly. We know more about this pest now than ever before. He's a tough customer to control and his bite is painful and dangerous," Brown said.

New Farm Equipment Built In Muleshoe

A new innovation in farm equipment has been built here in Muleshoe.

After being furnished with an idea from a local farmer, Preston Cargile, Roy Wrinkle of Wrinkle Welding designed a new concept of a "crustbuster" to be called the Crust Master. This new piece of equipment was built by Wrinkle's employee, Raymon Serna.

The new plow is designed for eight rows, spaced at 40 inch intervals. Designed strictly for use on row crops not yet above ground, the Crust Master is built with gauge wheels and is spring loaded with adjustable action.

This new equipment is built to be used after a ground crusting rain which has seared the ground to the point of making it impossible for seeds to sprout. Cargile, made the statement that "the plow can be pulled as fast as it is possible to stay on the row."

By having the roller effect, the new Crust Master is virtually trouble-free and eliminates the problem of digging up sprouting seeds. It is designed for a fast hitch and will provide quick ground coverage with a minimum of maintenance.

Although this equipment is built to certain specifications, it may be modified to personal needs and types of equipment.

The new Crust Master may be seen at Wrinkle Welding or Preston Cargile farms. Possible application for a patent is being considered.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—With the Texas Legislature steaming toward a June 1 closing deadline, intricacies in the end-play will deepen as legislators move to approve or kill major legislation . . . and try to save smaller bills from falling in the fray.

Heading the list of major issues are the appropriations bill, public education, redistricting, interest rate ceilings, products liability, and tax reform.

The House Appropriations Committee last week finished its mark-up of the state budget and the Senate Finance Committee was expected to complete its version this week. House Speaker Bill Clayton and others have indicated they want the State budget bill approved before the Legislature tackles redistricting in earnest.

The Finance and Appropriations versions are different in many aspects and the kinks will have to be worked out in conference committee. Whether or not the conference committee finishes its work early remains to be seen. Traditionally, the budget bill has remained in conference until the waning hours of the session.

A proposal by Rep. Susan McBee, D-Del Rio, granting property tax exemptions for livestock and poultry, was the first measure this session to win unanimously on a record vote. McBee told members it was inconsistent to allow exemptions for farm products like grain, and not give them for livestock.

The House is expected to consider this week a bill granting initiative and referendum powers to voters on tax and spending issues only. The measure by Rep. John Sharp, D-Victoria, is a compromise bill on the issue which many legislators wish to avoid. Both conservative and liberal lobbying groups oppose the I&R process.

Many legislators feel the issue is an unnecessary carry-over from the California Proposition 13 tax revolt two years ago, pointing out that Texas ranks 48 among other states in per capita taxation.

Supporters, however, say citizens want it and deserve it, and add that some 26 other states already have some form of I&R process.

Redistricting

Redistricting bills are expected to reach the chamber floors for debate sometime in mid-May. Many observers predict the issue is too complicated to be solved in a short two or three weeks and will be sent to the redistricting board this summer.

The redistricting board is composed of the Lt. Governor, the House Speaker, the Attorney General, the Land Commissioner and the Comptroller, all Democrats. Should the task fall to them, some foresee Gov. Clements may well call a special session on some issue to bring Republican legislators back to the Capitol to keep an eye on redistricting events.

Interest Ceiling

Last week the Senate approved its version of the bill allowing a higher interest rate ceiling in Texas. Senators kept the 24 percent maximum ceiling already approved by the House, but kicked up to 28 percent the maximum which may be charged on commercial—not farm—loans of more than $250,000.

Leading the fight to increase the interest was Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene, who finally settled for a bill only slightly better for lenders than the House version.

House sponsor Rep. Bill Messer of Belton would not predict whether the House would vote to keep the Senate amendments.

Clements reportedly told Jones privately he will sign the Senate bill.

Products Liability

The Senate is also expected to begin hearings this week on the House-approved products liability bill, which makes it harder for consumers to collect damages for defective products.

Defense lawyers vigorously fought the bill to no avail. The measure's sponsor, Rep. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, pushed through provisions to let judges and juries decide that if a consumer was 75 percent at fault for injuries in product cases, then he could not collect damages.

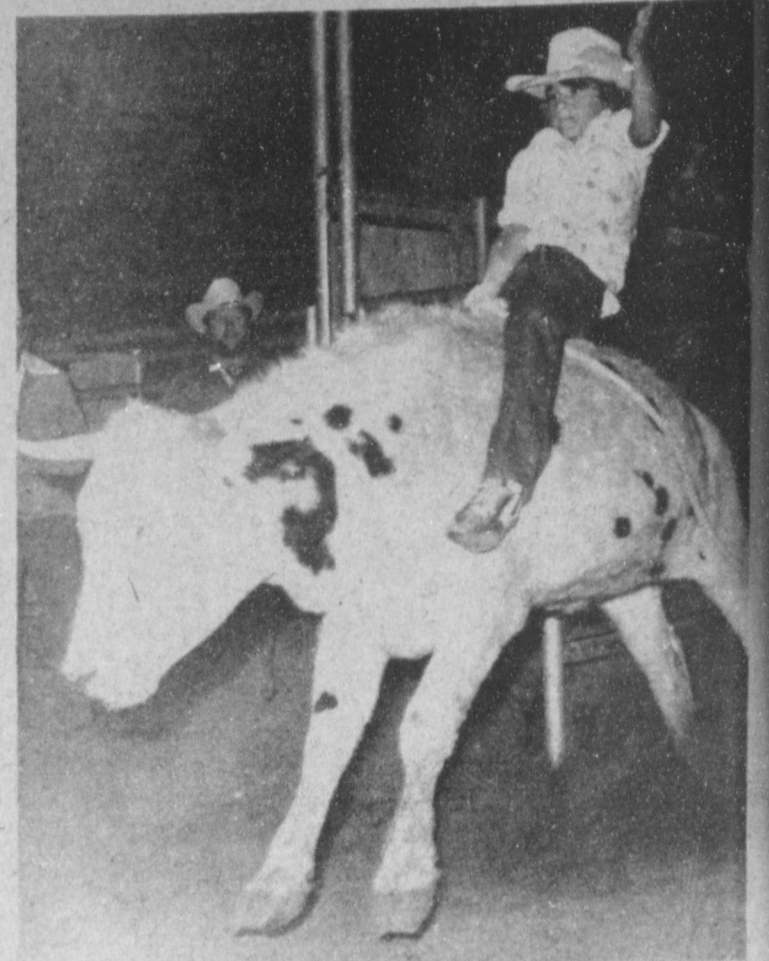

If the product had been used past its normal life and an accident occurred, the injured person will not be able to collect damages.

Senator Bill Meier of Eules will sponsor the bill in his chamber, but has opted to polish it through the Senate committee process instead of bringing it up for an immediate Senate vote.

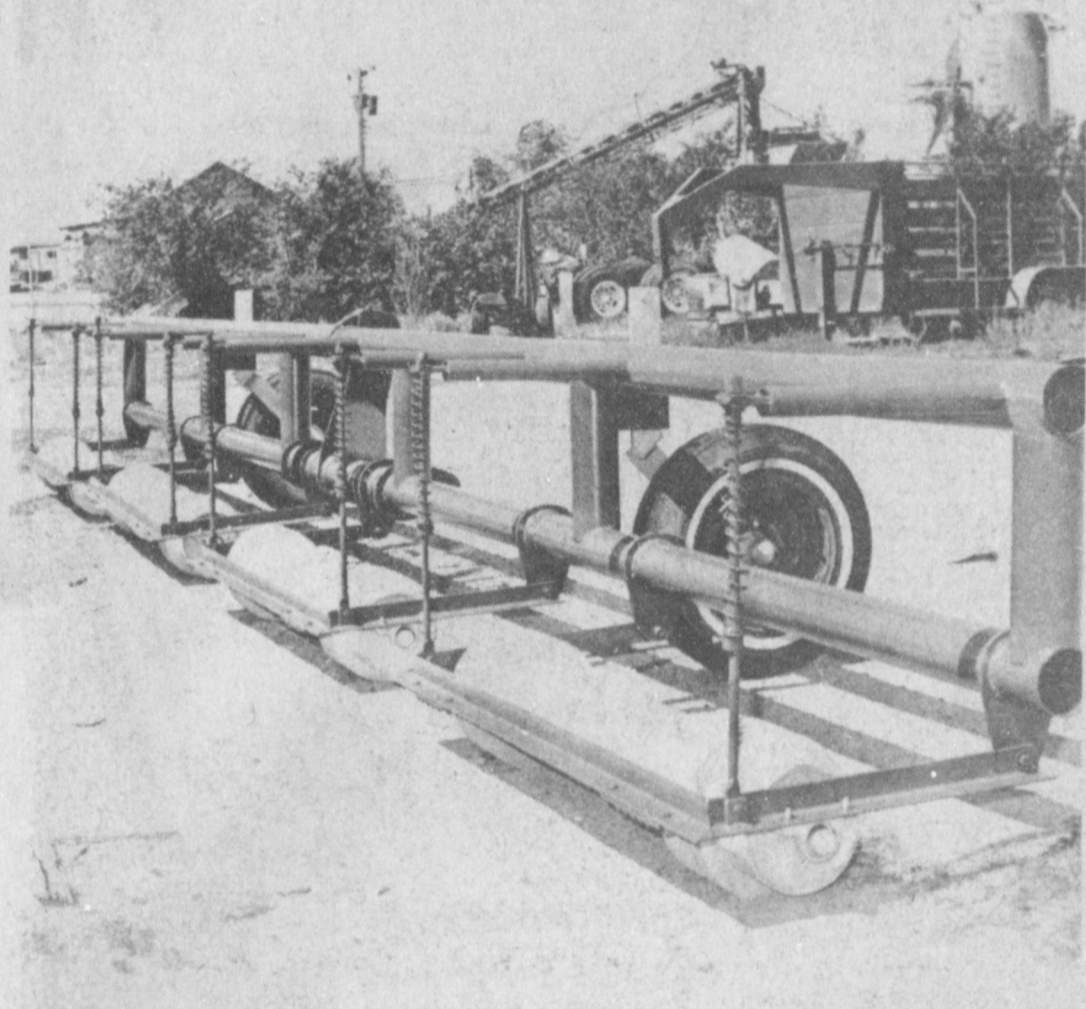

Constitutional Amendments

Last Thursday the House overwhelmingly approved proposed constitutional amendments creating a water projects fund and granting tax exemptions on livestock and poultry, but postponed a limited version of initiative and referendum.

The water bill, sponsored by Speaker Clayton, will take surplus revenues and place one-half in a fund to develop special water projects, and one-half in a fund which could be drawn on in times of state need.

Homes harbor fire hazards

COLLEGE STATION — Each spring millions of homeowners unknowingly leave potential bombs around their homes, warns a fire protection specialist.

The danger comes from gasoline tanks on lawn mowers and the containers used to store fuel for dozens of gasoline-powered tools, appliances and recreational toys. These potentially explosive materials around the house create a major source of fire, death and property loss each year.

John Rauch, an official with the firemen's training division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service, advocates three rules for accident prevention:

- store gasoline only in approved, self-closing containers;
- never store or use gasoline in an enclosed space where spark sources can ignite gasoline vapors;
- never use gasoline for cleaning.

Rauch pointed out that homeowners invariably store gasoline in the garage — usually attached to the house — where water heaters are also located. Pilot lights on water heaters can easily ignite vapors from leaking tanks or containers, he warned.

"Gasoline tanks on cars, boats, mowers and other appliances can leak," Rauch explained. "Gasoline cans are usually kept around until they rust through, spill fuel and cause a fire."

Rauch said air currents carry the gasoline vapor, which is heavier than air, considerable distances to ignition sources. Fire flashes back to the container. Liquid gasoline itself does not burn, but gasoline vaporizes above minus 45 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rauch uses only self-closing containers approved by Underwriters Laboratories or Factory Mutual, indicated by a diamond symbol containing the letters FM. Tin gasoline containers commonly sold in stores should not be used for prolonged periods of time and should be treated with the utmost respect," Rauch cautioned.

"A container with a spring-loaded cap can be in a fire and not cause an explosion," he said. "As pressure inside the container builds due to heat, the lid vents vapor that will burn. But as soon as the pressure is relieved, the spring forces the lid to close, shutting off the vapor source and flame."

The veteran fireman also warned that oil-based paints, paint thinner and turpentine can vent explosive vapors. Rauch believes an outbuilding is the best paint and gasoline storage site, along with gasoline-powered appliances.

"Power mowers, edgers and chain saws will also leak gasoline," he warned. "The best thing to do when storing an appliance for the next season is to drain out as much of the gasoline as possible and run the engine until the remainder is removed from the tank and fuel line."

Student Council Redeems Labels

Members of the MJHS Student Council have been collecting labels from Campbell and Franco-American products, Swanson's Chicken, and V-8 juice for the past several months. These labels have been redeemed for 2 sets of reference books in the past and recently were used to get 2 cassette players for use in the Jr. High building.

The students and sponsors wish to thank everyone in the school and the entire area who have contributed to this project by saving and turning in these labels. The Student Council currently has approximately 900 labels toward the redemption project for next year and urges anyone who wishes to help to save these labels and give them to someone in Jr. High. Mrs. Mary Scoggin and Mike Richardson are Student Council sponsors.

The Lord knoweth the thoughts of men, that they are vanity. -Psalms 94:11.

GOOD FRUITS

The wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and GOOD FRUITS.

There are two forces at work in this world, evil and good. We have the freedom to choose between these two things.

"O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

'Rainy Day' Fund Proposed By Clayton

The innovative water trust fund sponsored by Speaker of the House Bill Clayton cleared a big hurdle Thursday, April 16, with overwhelming approval by the House of Representatives.
 The House voted 127-14 to approve a proposed constitutional amendment that would take any surplus state revenue and place half in a fund to develop water resources and half in a "rainy-day" fund which could be drawn upon then the state's revenue becomes more critical.

 The proposed amendment, House Joint Resolution 33, still must be cleared by the Senate. Governor Bill Clements has said he favors the proposal.

"I am especially pleased that this effort to secure the future of Texas has received such a vote of support in the House. I am confident that the voters of the State will have the opportunity on November 3, 1981, to approve it in the general election."

During debate on the bill, Clayton, who is recognized as an expert on state water legislation, said the creation of such a fund could future generations of Texas from any state debt.

If surpluses continue along lines of the past decade, Clayton said there could be as much as $1 billion in the fund by 1992, which would be enough to guarantee $10 billion in water bonds.

"We are actually implementing a form of tax relief for our citizens," Clayton said during the debate. "By setting aside these funds today, and starting water projects that would cost more in the future because of inflation, we are saving people of Texas not only in money and future taxes--we are providing for the future."

Clayton's water plan has received widespread support around the state. A large number of water and flood control oriented organizations have pledged support to the plan. Newspapers and journals throughout the state have hailed it as a plan which holds much promise for the State.
