'Scarface,' Hughes' Daring Picture, Opens At R. & R. Ritz

Movie Czar Alarmed By Expose Of Gangland In Play, Orders Revisions

Intimidation Of Director And Producer Resorted To; Government Leaders, Gang Chiefs Oppose It

Incensed at the wishy-washy treatment of the gangster by the screen, Howard Hughes, a producer who requires no outside financing, determined to produce a gangster picture that would be based on fact, that would show up the gangster for the yellow cur he is and put the hoodlum on the run, and that would exhaust the subject of gangsterism that it would put an end to gangster pictures. And that, in a paragraph, sums up his picture "Scarface," which opens at the Ritz today, as originally produced.

Headless of the opposition with which he met with from Will H. Hays, nominal head of the picture industry, and of the intimidation visited upon him and his director, Howard Hawks, by gangland, Howard Hughes produced his picture. When it was completed, numerous deletions and changes were ordered by the Hays office. Mr. Hughes tried to oblige, spending immense sums in retakes.

When he assembled the revised film, Mr. Hughes found that the Hays dictum had effectively "pulled the teeth" from his picture, rendering it as innocuous as an indictment of gangland as had been numerous other gangster films. Here are some of the changes:

Foreword

The foreword that appeared in the original film was a direct challenge to the public. It read:

"This picture is an indictment of gang life in America, and of the callous indifference of the government to this constantly increasing menace to our safety and liberty.

Every incident of this picture is the reproduction of an actual occurrence, and the purpose of this picture is to demand of the government: 'What are you going to do about it?'

The government is your government. What are YOU going to do about it?'

This, of course, might be an uncomfortable question for the voters to answer, especially in a presidential year. A foreword advocating anti-gun legislation was substituted, together with officials making speeches on law and order.

Less Shooting

Mr. Hays insisted that various shooting scenes be eliminated, and many of the strongest ones, including the St. Valentine Day Massacre, were deleted. And the ending in which Scarface, trapped in his fortified apartment, is finally blasted out by tear gas was not approved. Mr. Hays wanted Scarface to be politely arrested, tried, found guilty and duly hanged. Hughes objected to this on the ground that no gangster had ever been hanged and very few imprisoned. Al Capone was jailed for failing to make an income tax return on his racketeering millions.

Also the title was not agreeable to the powers that be. It was changed to "The Shame of a Nation," then to "The Scar on a Nation," and finally to "The Scar." Mr. Hughes could not stomach this. He rebelled. And his rebellion, attracting the attention of government officials, Mr. Hughes received and refused an offer of "over a million" from the Federal Government. The intention, it is said,

PAUL MUNI AS "SCARFACE"

Of his performance in the title role of the Howard Hughes production, "Scarface," which opens at the Ritz today, Elizabeth Yeaman, critic for the Hollywood Citizen-News, says: "Paul Muni gives an incomparable performance. He has all the fascination of Clark Gable and is a far greater actor."

Edna Ferber's "So Big", Winner Of Pulitzer Prize, Scheduled At Ritz Friday And Saturday

"So Big" the new picture starring Barbara Stanwyck, which Big Spring picture-goers will have an opportunity to see Friday and Saturday at the Ritz theatre, has been adapted from the Pulitzer Prize novel by Edna Ferber which was not only a best-seller when it was published but has gone on selling steadily and largely ever since. It has, in fact, attained a place on the shelf of American classic fiction.

"It seems very important that 'So Big' should be faithfully reproduced on the screen," said Edna Ferber in New York, while Miss Stanwyck's latest vehicle was in production at the Warner Bros. studios in California. "So Big" holds a very special place in my affections, and so many people have written me since it was published, telling me that it holds a special

Linden Plays Reporter Part At R&R Queen

'Roadhouse Murder' Opens Today; Dorothy Jordan Featured

Far from being irresponsible reporters who speak profanely more fluently than they do polite English, newspaper reporters are hard, shrewd workers, possessed of ideals and high ambitions.

This is the conclusion reached by Eric Linden after weeks of close association with members of the fourth estate.

In preparation for his role as the reporter hero of "The Roadhouse Murder," the RKO-Radio Picture Company to the Queen theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, Linden hunted newspaper offices and press rooms. He covered beats with "leg" reporters and watched "sleazy" men weave bare facts into "sensational" stories. From these observations he reached the conclusion that the newspapermen too frequently has been maligned on stage and screen and in fiction.

"Profanely was no more frequent in the news rooms I visited than it is in the average business office or on the motion picture set," the actor declared. "None of the reporters I met were hard drinkers and a lot of them never touched anything stronger than coffee. Every man was keenly interested in his job and each had great plans for the play, the novel or the short stories he was going to write."

In "The Roadhouse Murder" newspapermen are pictured as they really are. All activities in the typical news room setting were supervised from the technical angle by Gene Fowler, RKO-Radio contract writer who formerly was managing editor of the New York American, and most of the players cast as reporters actually had been in the newspaper game.

The plot of the story centers about a mysterious murder case and Linden's part in it. Supporting him are Dorothy Jordan, Roscoe "Stuttering" Ates, Phyllis Clare, Bruce Cabot, Purnell Pratt, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Roscoe Karns and others. J. Walter Ruben directed.

Baxter Star In Mid-Week Ritz Picture

Karen Morley Appears With Noted Actor Tuesday, Wednesday

Warner Baxter, whose latest picture, "Man About Town," comes on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ritz theatre, is one actor who has never been "typed." His film activities have been wide in scope. He has played a series of roles of diversified stamp since he hit the top through his performance in "In Old Arizona."

They range from the serious professional man in "Doctors' Wives" to the suave prisoner of war in "Surrender" and from the kindly benefactor in "Daddy Long Legs" to the swaggering Legionaire in "Renegades."

In "Man About Town," Baxter enacts the role of a gambler, joins the Department of Justice and distinguishes himself by getting his man. It is a highly dramatic story, depicting the unusual friendship of two men, who become enemies when they fall in love with one woman. Circumstances bring them together again and the climax finds them united in an effort to save the woman who has become involved in the shooting of a man who turns out to have been an international spy.

Karen Morley, who scored successes in "Arcene Lupin," "Scarface" and other films, portrays the leading feminine role and others in the cast are Conway Tearle, Lillian Bond, Alan Mowbray, Lawrence Grant, Leni Stengel and Halliwell Hobbes.

Denison Clift wrote the story. Leon Gordon prepared it for the screen and John Francis Dillon directed the picture.

Mrs. Annabelle Smith, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Ward, is in the hospital for treatment.

Miss Lombard Plays Lead In 'No One Man'

Ricardo Cortez, Paul Lukas Play Opposite Blonde Charmer

The widely read and warmly discussed Rupert Hughes' novel, "No One Man," which also ran as a serial in magazine form, reaches the Ritz Theatre screen Thursday as a Paramount offering.

It is a new kind of story done in the modern manner, relating the loves of a typical daughter of today, "Nep," who endeavors to solve the matrimonial problems, feelings, chiefly those of New York City and Palm Beach, are lavish.

Carole Lombard, Ricardo Cortez, Paul Lukas, Juliette Compton, Arthur Pierson, Frances Moffett, George Barbier and Marjorie Gatenon are the cast leaders. The direction is by Lloyd Corrigan.

Fay Wray Plays Opposite Newest Adonis, Leon Waucoff

You have no idea what commotion a stowaway can cause aboard ship—especially if a girl—and a pretty one—until you see the exciting drama of ships at sea, "Stowaway" which has its opening in Big Spring Wednesday and Thursday at the Queen Theatre.

The story of "Stowaway" is one of romance and two fitted action, dealing with a desperate little waterfront taxi dancer who seeks refuge from the persecuting law and pursuing men aboard a freighter, where a dot of other intrigues abounds. The young ship's officer who discovers the beautiful cargo, takes her part, and in attempting to protect her from the villainous mate, is implicated in a serious charge of murder. Last minute revelations of a sensational nature afford an exciting climax to events and provides "Stowaway" with an ending of complete, stunning surprise.

Lovely Fay Wray is seen in the appealing role of the little taxi dancer, who risks everything to escape from the sordid waterfront dance hall. Leon Waucoff, Hollywood's newest Adonis, has the virile role of the young officer with the understanding heart and the upstartting flite, and Montague Love provides the villainous opposition.

"Stowaway" includes in its supporting cast Lee Moran, Roscoe Karns, Betty Francisco, Paul Porcasi and Knute Erickson who are ably directed by Phil Whitman. The story was written by Norman Springer, who wrote that other whale of a sea yarn "The Blood Ship."

WILL ROGERS:

Among Lawyers, He Declares Darrow A Notable Exception

By WILL ROGERS

Well, all I know is just what I read in the writing papers. Can't we beat the world getting all worked up over something as though the world came to an end depended on it and then find its settled in some little easy way, and a week later we don't know we have ever been excited about it. That affair in Honolulu when we heard they were convicted why we all of us like to tore up the place. Then all there is too it is the Governor over there pardons them, and its all over.

Course every country has got its laws, and everyone of em have a right to act them out according to the Dictates of their own views, but we didn't think they got a square deal in the case, and we raised a howl. Now here is the catch in it. If this husband had come up on these men at the time and had killed not only one but all of them, why he would have come clear with medals on him, but because he waited awhile to shoot him, why that makes him a murderer. In other words I must shoot you quick if I am going to. Well it was terrible mess and its good its ended. There was several bad angles to it on both sides.

That old Darrow is a great old fellow. I have known and been friends with him for many years. I go to see him in Chicago. He is one of the most pleasant and entertaining men in America. You know for a real down right human starlin I doubt if he has his equal in our country. Color, creed, man or beast, Darrow has a sympathetic interest in him. Lord in this time with every kind of Shyster lawyer that we have, he is a notable exception. Poor old Honolulu I hope they take him back down, for it really was not their fault. Course I am for em getting their independence and run the thing like they want too. Darn this thing of being somebody else's country and taking it over. No good ever comes of it. We claim its for protection sake that we hold it. Thats a lot of hokey. Its two thousand miles away. If any Nation can come two thousand miles across an ocean and then lick us. Well we are good enough spera to say, "More power to you."

Those little Japs would be so seasick by the time they got here they couldnt sight a gun anyhow. Turn em loose, them and the Philippines and give Nicaragua back to the Nicks, then come home and take the country away from the Republicans and give it back to the Democrats where it belongs. Say this political thing is getting more cockeyed every day. Here in California, it looked like Roosevelt was a cinch, then Garner comes in and beats him, and Al Smith who had had no press agent, or advance work done, why he runs right up there almost with both of em, and he was like the girl at the tacky party when they voted on the ugliest person and she won, and said, "Why I wasent even running."

You are going to find this guy Smith has a very loyal following. They will always be voting for him. I met young Roosevelt's son out here the other day. He and his charming wife. He made some speeches for his Dad, and I wasent fortunate enough to hear any, but they tell me they were great. He has a lot of sincerity, plain wholesomeness and good common sense. His little wife was very nice. They have a six weeks old baby. They talked more of the baby, than they did of their mission out here. This Roosevelt is a very fine human man, sometimes I think he is too nice a fellow to be mixed up in all this politics.

We dont know yet as I pen these immoveable words, what is the things we will pay taxes on. Congress guesses at one thing, and the Senate reaches in the hat and frays out some other objects to be taxed. Mr. Hoover throws the dice and they bring up some more different numbers. Ogden Mills the Treasury Secretarys wegee Board calls out some more names. Everybody is trying to get it over on the other fellow. They all want to put it on objects but they dont want to call it a Sales Tax. They only want it on what is sold.

The English sure have taken to Mr. Mellon. He is the Lion of the hour in London. They figure that he will cancel the debt. The "Philistine Society" gave him a dinner. Thats a society that found the social going not so "Ho" in America and migrated from ham and eggs and coffee, to tea and marmalade. Well they dined him and the Statue of Liberty that was made in ice melted during the festivities and run into everybody's lap. Well if he cancels the debt, he better do it with his own money.

France is still dragging gold out of our Country by the millions and asking us to cancel the debts. And then they tell you a Frenchman has no humor. We are getting all excited out here over the Olympics, and hoping you will come out and see us. We got 65 Nations coming, war or no war. Of course depression will still be on us, but we will be used to it by then. It will be your only chance during your lifetime seeing one on in this country. Course you could go to Europe but you couldnt tell what language they was running in.

Girl Scouting Trains Future Home-Makers Child Leader Finds

MRS. SIDONIE M. GRUENBERG

Girl Scouting as a factor in the present day order of home-making was the subject of a recent discussion by Mrs. Sidonie Matzner Gruenberg, director of the Child Study association of America and lecturer on parent education at Columbia University.

"For many girls," Mrs. Gruenberg declared, "Girl Scouting maintains the only continuity with the crafts and mastery of the fundamental materials upon which the race has always depended, upon which the home has always rested."

The household of today, Mrs. Gruenberg pointed out, is a total different place from that in which our grandmothers grew up.

"Most of the home arts and crafts have been taken over by industry and professional workers; and homemaking consists of a thousand new tricks that every girl needs to learn, of which grandmothers never knew anything at all. The school has taken over the teaching of some of them; specialists have taken over others; but there has been left for the girl herself a great deal that she is expected either to get for herself or do without. This residue, which usually determines whether a girl is really a homemaker and consequently a help to her mother, is exactly the part that the Girl Scout program provides," Mrs. Gruenberg said.

"But Girl Scouting does much more than teach knowledge of the household crafts," she continued. "There are also the opportunities which the program furnishes to girls to discover themselves, their capacities, their possibilities. What is started as a hobby may turn out to be a significant clue to a valuable talent. What is started as a game may turn out to be an important discipline in emotional adjustment. What is started as a more or less random troop may turn out to be a most valuable training in social adaptation.

"Finally, the essential techniques which the girls acquire thru these activities become their lifetime equipment for child-caring and home-building."

Child Study Club Elects Mrs. J. A. Coffey President

The Child Study Club met at the home of Mrs. R. E. Blount Friday afternoon for the last meeting of the fiscal year.

Mrs. Mary Bumpass, one of the two honorary members of the club, made an interesting and informative talk on "Child Psychology." Mrs. Coffey spoke on "What the Children Think of Us."

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. J. A. Coffey, president; Mrs. Jess Slaughtler, vice-president; Mrs. H. Earl Glaser, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Emory Duff, librarian; and Mrs. Alton Underwood, reporter.

Mrs. Jess Phillips was a victor. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Friday Luncheon Club To Become Picnic Bridge Club

Mrs. Beth H. Parsons entertained the members of the Friday Luncheon Club with a delicious luncheon at the Crawford Hotel, naming Mrs. Albert S. Barnett, of Dallas, as honor guest.

After the luncheon the afternoon was devoted to playing contract in one of the upstairs suites. Mrs. Ira Thurman made high score.

Those present, in addition to Mrs. Barnett, were Meses. J. D. Biles, Thurman, R. Homer McNew, Albert M. Fisher, Gariand Woodward, V. H. Fiewellen.

The members voted to meet for the summer at the homes in picnic fashion, holding the sessions in the evening and inviting the husbands. Mrs. McNew will be the next hostess.

One of the most important articles in this number is a short editorial called "Preserve the Old Shrines." It's worth quoting, we devote to it the whole of this review:

"Many of the old shrines have perished through neglect that has been almost criminal; many of the old memories have been lost in the mad whirl of that commercialism characteristic of all new countries. Recent movements of the restoration of those shrines and forts that have survived complete ruin show that Texans are becoming more appreciative of the glorious history of the state and of its achievements, both in war and in peace.

"In recent years, the state has acquired, and it is still acquiring, park grounds around which were fought the important battles that terminated in the independence of Texas. These parks will be improved and will become resorts for the descendants of those who won the liberty of the country and those who have been attracted to the state by the vast opportunities made possible by its founders."

A Simple Problem

DECISION of Governor Ross S. Sterling to seek the customary second term greatly simplifies the problem confronting the people of Texas as to their choice for a man of the state's highest office for the next term.

There are a number of men in Texas who would make good governors. We have had some good ones in the past, James E. Ferguson not one of them. Nor his wife, son was not one of them practicing law in the governor's office.

Since this year's race is undeniably pitched between the Ferguson and Mr. Sterling The Herald finds no difficulty in determining who shall receive any humble support it may be in a position to give.

Ross Sterling has had no spectacular regime. He has not appealed to prejudices and class-bickering. He has not attempted to cash in politically upon the unresigned state of the people. He has kept his feet on the ground and Texas should feel fortunate in having had such a man in the office during this particular term.

Errors of judgment must be charged to Governor Sterling. They have, however, been honest errors. His honesty can not be questioned.

There are those, of course, who opposed him two years ago because he was rich who will oppose him this time because he has lost his fortune. There are those who believe that no man who has ever acquired riches, especially by having developed oil properties and disposed of them to large concerns, who can be honest and fair.

Knowing Ross Sterling as we do there is not one bit of fear in our hearts that he will not continue to function as governor in the honest, dignified, fair manner that has marked his first term.

There are those who always charge all their personal troubles to the governor, or the president; who fail to take into consideration any personal mistakes that may have contributed to financial troubles.

In spite of financial conditions everywhere Mr. Sterling's administration has been marked by an improvement in the financial condition of the state government itself. While the legislature largely ignored economic conditions when it approved appropriation bills he put millions from those appropriations in an earnest effort to keep expenditures within revenues.

Governor Sterling is entitled to a second term. We are confident that the people of Texas will elect him again.

SINCLAIR MOTOR OILS...
From Mid-continent's oldest crude or Pennsylvania's costliest crude...

WE don't presume to tell you which motor oil gives you best results—Mid-continent or Pennsylvania. But we can prove to you that in these two classes Sinclair Motor Oils are the finest that Nature and science together have produced.

Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil is refined from crude oils, mellowed and filtered for at least 80 million years; it is a blend of the very oldest Mid-continent crudes, including the famous Cambro-Ordovician crude taken from a mile and a quarter below the surface in Oklahoma.

Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil is a product of the Devonian Age of a hundred million years ago. Sinclair Pennsylvania is refined 100% from Bradford-Allegany crude oil—a crude so rich in lubricating quality that every barrel commands an extra price. (See crude oil prices in any petroleum journal.)

Both of these splendid motor oils undergo a special treatment in the Sinclair refineries. Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania are not only de-waxed—they are also freed from heavy, sluggish, non-lubricating petroleum jelly at as low as 60° F. below zero. Containing no petroleum jelly, the lubricating body of Sinclair Motor Oils is absolutely genuine and will not this out in engine heat.

Experience will tell you quickly why Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania are the finest in their respective classes. Note how these oils stand up in hard, fast driving. Note especially at draining time how little oil has been used up—positive, visible proof of protection for the last mile as well as the first!

the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HUMAN CAREY, 30 and beautiful, has become engaged to ERNEST HEATH, her former suitor. She is secretly in love with BOB DUNBAR, millionaire's son, whom she met at business school. Heath sends her aunt south to recuperate from an illness and the girl is grateful. BEN LAMPMAN, Susan's rejected suitor, shoots himself after wounding Heath. He recovers and goes away. Bob tries unsuccessfully to see Susan. He sees her at the theater one night with Heath and becomes angry. DENISE ACKROYD, debutante, wants Bob for herself. Susan meets Bob at a masked ball and he makes love to her. Denise appears and says she and Bob are engaged. Susan runs away. When Heath agrees an early marriage she agrees. Waring tells Heath that Susan cares for another. Almost on the eve of the wedding Bob comes to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLIII
 Ernest Heath did not fully understand the impulse that drove him to call on Susan before dinner. He could not have explained it to himself, but here he was rushing along in a taxi through the familiar, shabby streets. It was curious, he mused, that this drab environment could have produced a girl such as Susan. You could be proud of her in any company, he thought. He gazed at the prospect of showing her the world. It would be like opening a trinket box to the gaze of an adoring child. At this time next week she would be his bride. They would be sailing on blue waters with the future stretching ahead of them a paradise.

He felt suddenly humble, suddenly afraid. He had never expected life to be so good to him. He had given up hope and now, amazingly, a whole new vista had been shown to him. All at once he was impatient to see Susan and tell her something of what was in his heart. He was not an articulate man but he was shy and it was often difficult for him to conquer his inbred New England reserve. It was early spring twilight. The western sky deepened from rose to mauve and then to lilac. Almost without warning night closed in. The taxi jolted over the old pavements.

Heath dismissed the driver at the corner and paid the fare. Suddenly he began to feel rather foolish about his unannounced visit. It was simply that he had felt he must see Susan at once. There was no rhyme or reason to the impulse. He was moved by one of those inexplicable promptings which occasionally change and color an entire life. His steps quickened as he came in sight of the Miltons' house and he went up the steps lightly, on sager feet. His hand was almost on the brass knob of the door opening into the tiny vestibule when he stopped, arrested.

That was Susane's voice. There was trouble in it and pain, too. Without meaning to, without conscious design Heath listened. What was that she was saying?
 "I can't possibly do it now! I've to lay the table cloth.

 "No, you've got it on upside down, Feeny," Mrs. Milton said patiently. "Turn it over again. You may as well do it right while you're about it."
 She followed Susan into the room which the girl was sharing with Rose.

Susan was aghast. She had completely forgotten she was wearing her wedding clothes. When Bob had come earlier in the afternoon and urged her to go for a walk so they might talk, Susan had agreed without thinking. Now it seemed to her she had been intensely disloyal.

waited and when I went into the living room and didn't find you I couldn't imagine where you'd gone."
 Susan was scarlet. "I guess I'm fairly witless," she said.
 To her relief, Mrs. Milton quizzed her no further. The woman said as she turned to go, "Well, I guess a girl has a right to behave queerly the week before she's married. Most of 'em do. I notice. Just don't mislay yourself. That's all I ask."
 "I won't," Susan promised fervently. With the door shut on her hostess the girl went to the mirror and stared appraisingly at her own reflection. Surely the dullest observer could have guessed what had happened. Her skin glowed with a new luminous quality. Her eyes were starry under their preposterous lashes. Her breath came and went quickly as she thought of what Bob had said. He had been masterful and she liked him to be. But she was glad to remember that she had stood out against him proudly. She almost laughed, remembering the fierce, set line of his jaw at what he had termed her stubbornness.

termining to put this scene away in some quiet corner of her memory. She could not with honor go on thinking of Bob. With a new sobriety she took off the lovely suit and hung it away, slipping into her sober office dress for the evening meal. Tomorrow Aunt Jessie would be home and the hours would be crowded until Monday morning when she would be married.

"Is your man coming tonight?" Rose wanted to know, Susan said he wasn't. He had had to go to a dinner at the club.
 "Well, I won't say I'm sorry," cried Rose. "We can have a comfortable, gossip evening. What have you been doing all day?"
 Susan said, "Nothing much." She had been for a walk. She hoped her voice did not betray her.
 "This time next year you'll never set foot on the ground, I suppose. You and your limousine!" said Rose with affectionate gallantry.

Swimming Rules At Scout Camp Outlined

A. C. Williamson, area executive, Saturday outlined the safety methods to be used at the summer camp for boys of the Buffalo Trail area on the Nueces river near Barkadales June 13 to 27.

He particularly detailed the safety measures used in swimming. All swims are held at regular periods and boys are not allowed to swim at any other time. Several Red Cross life savers keep watch from the banks at all times. The "buddy" system, whereby the boys are divided into pairs with each boy staying with his "buddy" while in the water, will be used. At intervals of five minutes a whistle is blown, each pair joins hands and a check is made to make sure all boys are accounted for. An added safety factor this year will be the clearness of the water. Every movement of a person under the water may be seen.

On the first day in camp before any regular swims the boys are checked on their swimming ability. They are divided into three groups, the non-swimmers at different periods each day. A shallow pool is used for the beginners, and instructions in shallow water. Only the good swimmers are allowed in deep water.

Prospects are that more than 75 Big Spring boys will attend camp.

Men Who Worked In Cemetery Express Thanks For Lunches

Otto Lawson, speaking for himself and "each and every man" who worked during the past two weeks in the cemetery here, last night asked that the Cemetery Association, through John Wolcott, be thanked for the lunches furnished them. Mr. Lawson expressed his appreciation of the cooperation given by the men, over whom he was foreman.

Hyperion Club Closes Study Year With Handsome Fine Arts Tea At Settles Hotel

Members Of All Study Clubs Of City Are Invited Guests; Many Original Songs, Poems And Literary Compositions By Local Talent

The members of the Hyperion Study Club were hostesses to the other study clubs of the city and the members of the Executive Boards of the Texas Memorial Museum Saturday afternoon at the Settles Hotel ballroom.

The occasion was the presentation of the artists of the city in a program composed chiefly of original productions.

It was one of the smartest social events of the closing club season. The setting of the handsome ball room, the lovely evening gowns of the hostesses and artists and the decorative floral effects made the scene as attractive to the eye as the program to the ear.

Mrs. R. T. Piner, president of the Hyperion Club, met the guests at the door and introduced them to the presidents of the following clubs: Mrs. J. T. Brooks, president of the Arno Art Club; Mrs. R. E. Blount, president of the Child Study Club; Mrs. Victor Mellinger, president of the West Texas Memorial Museum; Mrs. Joe Fisher, president of the City Federation; Mrs. Felton Smith, president of the Big Spring Study Club; Mrs. Frank Boyle, vice-president of the Epistolary Sigma Alpha Literary Sorority; and Mrs. Robert Parks, president of the Junior Hyperion Club.

Bowls of Phlox and pink roses were used for the hall decorations. The stage of the ball room was decorated with tall baskets filled with purple and white larkspur and with the native creamy-colored yucca plant before a green baize curtain.

Mrs. Piner presided over the meeting and Mrs. Albert M. Fisher, chairman of the committee which arranged the program and leader for the afternoon, announced the numbers with lovely tributes which she paid to each artist who spoke. Mrs. E. Reagan, in behalf of the hostess club, extended a few well-selected words of welcome.

The program was opened with a violin selection played by Mrs. Ned Beaudreau, accompanied at the piano by Miss Roberta Gay, after which Mrs. E. R. Watts read three original poems, including her well-known, "My Mother's Hands" and "An Ode to Texas."

Mrs. Robert Parks sang a solo accompanied by Miss Elsie Jeanette Barnett at the piano. Mrs. J. L. Sullivan, author of several stories in popular magazines, read an original short story, "Room 362" after which Mrs. R. E. Blount, accompanied by Mrs. Bruce Frazier, sang "Mary Alone," a poem composed by Mrs. W. A. Stall and set to music by David Gulon. Mrs. Tracy T. Smith read "Ojy Blood," a prize-winning poem written by Miss Grace Gaddis, of San Angelo, and Miss Emma Louise Freeman read "When the Patter of Little Feet Changes to Clatters," a feature article by Mrs. Stall which appeared in the feature section of the Dallas News.

Cow Boy Ballads

Mrs. Victor Fiewellen, wearing a cowgirl's costume, lent for the occasion by Mrs. M. M. Edwards, sang colorfully two cowboy ballads, "Home on the Range" and "Wrangler Joe." Mrs. Frazier was her accompanist.

Mrs. H. S. Faw read a short story entitled "The Miracle of the Little Red Wagon," after which Mrs. Lee Weathers gave an original composition called "Signs."

Mrs. David Watt read a sketch of H. W. Caylor's life, naming his better known pictures and calling attention to a painting which Mr. Caylor had lent especially for the occasion.

The program was concluded by the singing of "The Eyes of Texas," with Mrs. C. T. Watson as song leader.

Tea Served

At the close of the numbers, the guests were invited to gather around the punch bowl for an informal conversation. The table was spread with a handsome flit lace cloth and decorated with cutglass bowls of pink roses and phlox, relieved with touches of purple larkspur. Grape punch containing limeade ice was passed to the guests with little cakes iced in pink and green. Mrs. J. D. Ellis presided over the punch bowl and was assisted by Mrs. V. Van Gieson, Mrs. Homer McNew and Mrs. Shine Phillips. The members of the club acted as hostesses in greeting the guests when they entered and during the tea hour.

Story Behind Poppy Day Related By Local Auxiliary President

Mrs. J. S. King, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, in commenting on Poppy Day which is May 30, relates the following in regard to the custom of selling poppies annually:

"On one day in the year every man, woman and child is asked by the American Legion Auxiliary to wear a red poppy in memory.

"The poppies sold are 'Veteran Made' in hospitals and work shops by needy disabled World War Veterans.

"The Auxiliary women sell them to the public and from the sale proceeds carry on local relief work among the disabled men's families and assist the overburdened hospital centers through donations made to the department funds set up for this purpose.

Say It With Veteran-Made Poppies This Memorial Day. "Our Texas department sponsors the making of poppies under the direction of Miss Alice B. Eads, Poppy chairman at Legion Hospital, where men drawing little or no compensation yet having dependents earn one cent for the poppies they make. The number they make depends on the number we purchase.

"Miss Eads only keeps a jump ahead of the orders because it is our policy to have no poppies left over.

"The men have been at work for weeks now making poppies for the Memorial Day sale since many Texas Units have selected this day as the one on which every man, woman and child in the community shall be given an opportunity to purchase and wear a poppy in memory of our fallen heroes.

"Last Armistice Day the people

Scoreroom so that after November eleventh the poppy making began for Memorial Day. Many of the poppies that are being sold this Memorial Day were made by the patients before Christmas and the money made in this way used to pay the expenses of the Christmas turlough. While they enjoy and appreciate making the poppies at all times, believe they get more pleasure out of making them during the holiday season than at any other time. Perhaps it is because they realize that because of the poppies it will be possible for them to make the much longed visit to home folks at Christmas.
