Diversity Lends Stability To Texas Electric Service Company

The successful banker spreads out his loans over a wide range of businesses and industrial enterprises. to equalize the toan burden and to give additional stability to his bank.

The successful merchant handles a varied line of merchandise to avoid seasonal slumps in sales and to balance his gross profits month after month.

The successful farmer diversifies his crops to assure a steady income in case a crop failure or low prices should reduce his profits.

> This same type of diversity stabilizes the business of the Texas Electric Service Company. Supplying electric power and light service to 65 cities and towns in West Texas and to several hundred growing industries creates a diversity of business which make this company as safe as West Texas itself.

> In addition, the Texas Electric Service Company has unified management and a unified electric power transmission system, two factors which give to West Texas an electric power company fully capable of serving this growing territory.

Let's Have a SHOWDOWN on Tires! . .

Do you know that many big tire makers are offering and selling "secondline" tires to the public?

And do you know that this is being done to set up favorable price comparisons against "FIRST-LINE" Riversides . . . all because Riversides save you about 27% in price?

Think it over!

Perhaps you have been beguiled into believing "second-line" tires of other makes are the equal of Riversides . . in quality, workmanship, strength and performance! Simply because the prices are about the same!

we believe you are entitled to the TRUTH . . . that RIVER-SIDES are "FIRST-LINE" tires, backed by our Unlimited Guarantee . . . that they are ONLY to be compared to "first-line" tires of other makes ... and that any other comparison is for the sake of making a favorable price impression on some hapless tire purchaser.

And listen to this . . .

You may save a lot of after-grief and about 27% of your good money . . . if you'll but refer to the tables printed below when you buy your next tire. . . So that you will know the names!

Best Known "First-Line" Tires

Goodyear-All Weather Goodrich-Silvertown Firestone-Gum Dipped

U. S. Royal Ward's-RIVERSIDE

Best Known "Second-Line" Tires

Goodyear-Pathfinder Goodrich-Cavalier Firestone—Oldfield and Anchor U. S. Rubber Co.'s Peerless Ward's—TRAILBLAZER

Let us show you the difference . . . besides, your visit to our store will be a compliment . . . and you'll not be urged to buy. We invite you.

> NOTE: If you want a "second-line" tire . . . buy Trailblazers ... sold only by Montgomery Ward & Co., also sold at very much less than other "second-line" tires. They're as good as, or better than other "second-line" tires . . . full of honest service.

P. S. You may buy Riversides . . . or Trailblazers . . . on Easy Payments . . . in all sizes. We invite you to come in . . . and talk over with us your tire needs. Don't forget . . . FREE MOUNTING SERVICE on all Ward Tires!

Another odd fact about pheasants in captivity is that they refuse to set. Therefore it is necessary to provide other means of hatch ing the eggs. For this purpose bantam hens have been found to be most adapted, as they are small enough to prevent crushing the eggs and young birds, and bantam mothers are good rustiers and protectors for the young birds. Pheasant eggs are light blue in color, approx mately the size of a bantani erg and twenty-one days hatching.

Beautiful Plumage

The plumage of the male pheasant is very gorgeous, that of the body proper being brown similar to the color of the ground while the neck and tail feathers are a beautiful golden vellow. He has a patch of red on either side of the head below the ears. The plumage of the female birds is a rusty brown thus rendering her difficult to distinguish from the earth. Because of the male bird's brilliant plumage he is an easy mark for his enemies hence he disappears when the female, begins to build her nest, leaving her to not only make the nest and natch the young alone but to feed and care for them also, reappearing after the brood is weaned. One hen will raise two or three broods during a season. For ten weeks after the young birds batch it is difficult to distinguish the male birds from the females for they are all the same drab brown color, but after that time the males begin to take on a ore gargeous celoring than the

Story of Strang "The story goes back to the death of Joseph Smith. You will remember that when he was killed several men claimed the leadership, among them Brigham Young and James Jesse Strang. Strang's claim was based on a letter from Joseph Smith, offering him the leadership in case of his death, but the letter was written and signed by a clerk, with no evidence of either kind whether Smith actually dictated it.

"Strang was able to convince a small crowd that he was the real successor and those that did not follow Young into the wilderness or accept Smith's son as the logical leader, became Strang's followers and located first at Vorce, Wesconsin and later at Beaver Island, Michigan.

"It was on Beaver Island where Strang made himself king. Of course he had first received revelations from God to reestablish his kingdom on earth. James Jesse Strang was his saint; therefore it was to be called the Kingdom of St. James. In an impressive ceremony, with the Prophet wearing a bright red robe he was crowned with a metal crown bearing a cluster of stars in front. He offered a sacrifice of a heifer and his followers sacrificed beasts or fowls:

Strang's Death

"Strang's kingdom became prosperous and Strang was enlarging his ambitions when he was assassinated. He was planning to become congressman and possibly to dictate the issue of the coming presidential election. But he had taken into his confidential council a Baltimore doctor with a fondness for drink. The doctor learned too much and when they attempted to put him out he found confederates who were willing to shoot down the Mormon prophet in cold blood. That was the end of the kingdom.

"No story of a Mormon is satisfying until one understands his attitude toward polygamy. Strang was not unlike our popular conception of Mormon prophets. At the start he denounced polygamy, although it was said that he knew along with others, of secret practices and beliefs of Joseph Smith to that end. One day Strang fell in love again with a strong-minded young girl. He told her that he had been instructed by the Lord to allow what was called among the Mormons spiritual wifery and it was her privilege to be the first chosen of his plural

Polygamy Introduced

"She agreed. But it was not considered wise to enter upon this state of matrimony openly. So Strang left on a speaking tour and she accompanied him dressed as a boy and known as his was a lot of scandal because Charley's figure did not resemble a boy's. Strang denied it and finally quieted the uproar until it was considered politic to make polygamy a public doctrine. In the meantime the girl's parents searched in vain for her.

"There were three other plural wives. All of them bore children to the Prophet. At the time of his assassination all four were pregnant. The wives, so Mr. Quaife has every reason to be lieve, were sincere religious women and believed then we ones are generally designed on an oblique line.

"One of the later wives died only a few years ago. She remartled in Utah after his death and became a physician. Here, so by Strang never knew the name of his father; after Strang's death she forswore polygams of his winter than in many sea same family of her part, and when her some ones are generally designed on an oblique line.

FOOTBALL FOLK Second Heat HOUSTON

DALLAS, Aug. 30 CP-Along with the ducks, geese and other migratory fowl, the Southwest's football folk are drifting southward tonight, harbingers of an early grid season.

From the far corners of the state, coaches, officials and the inevitable purveyors of sporting paraphernalia converged on Houston for the annual pre-season pow-wow. The meeting proper was not schedule until Monday, but most of the boys plan ned to be on the ground tomorrow to talk things over.

The annual pilgrimage to central point is on the order of a preliminary to a battle royal. They discuss the rules, shake hands and then square off. Most of the mentors will have their squads out early next week and the seven southwest conference coaches will begin bearing down in unison on September 10.

Probably the most Important feature of Monday's session will be the interpretation of new rules. The role of head master formerly held by Dana X. Bible. now of Nebraska, falls this year to Ray Morrison, the conference's oldest coach in point of service. If there is anybody who can teach his fellow mentors how to play dead, it should be the Mustangs' tricky leader. His teams have become noted for their "almost" infractions of the by-laws.

No player sales or trades of any consequence were anticlpated at the Houston gathering. coaches were pretty we'll satisfled with what they had, and the other three, Arkansas, Rice and the Texas Aggles had waited too late to do anything about it. The latter three, however, had some fine material coming up for 1931 delivery.

The Red Menace in America Today

How organized labor looks to a This placard used in a New York rally, gives the A. F. of L. plug hat and fat cigar of A Labor Day message from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on the new Russian drive to enlist workers under communist banners, the unemployment situation, injunctions, old age pensions and labor legislation

RODNEY DUTCHER

USSIAN newspapers recently raised a great cry that the American unemployment situation offered a golden opportunity for spreading Com throughout the United States.

Among those who are not worried by this prospect is William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and as such spokesman for three million organized American workers.

The thing to do, Green believes, and points out in this interview surveying the position of the American worker on Labor Day, 1930, is to solve the unemployment problem, create work for the thousands of unemployed. Then there will be little for Communists to work on.

Speaking briefly of Communism the labor leader says there can be no compromise with the movement on the part of the A. F. of L.

"Eternal conflict will continue between Communism and trade-unionism," he declares, "because they are so different in character and so different in operation and so different in application to the social, economic and industrial con-ditions in this country—and political conditions as well. It is the avowed purpose of the Communists to capture the American rederation of Labor.

"The importance and influence of Communism in this country need not be exaggerated, however. I do not regard it as of a serious nature. If we are permitted to deal with Commo tists as successfully as we have in the past, without having to divert our attention continually to fighting em-ployers who seek to destroy us, we will be able to control "Traveling Communist agitators are not nearly so strong and influential in developing Communism as are some of the capitalist representatives who would crush the workers and keep them from exercising their rights. The American worker becomes a rebel when he is crushed. Although Communication has not made any great munism has not made any great progress in this country, it is important to remember its potential-ities as a disturbing factor when economic conditions are bad and the unemployment situation as it has been recently.

TEEPING Communists out of our ranks is but a side-line, however, among the vital tasks that lie before us in the constant fight to gain for the worker the assurance of a job, fan wages, just treatment and adequate economic security.

Unemployment, Green believes. has become the most serious prob-lem faced by American labor. The use of court injunctions against labor organizations and the "Yellow Dog" contract will be fought persistently until Congress passes a law to curb them.

Old age pension systems are gradually being established in a small way and this humanitarian plan is regarded by labor as an inevitable step in the march of social progress.

The present Congress has shown a complete lack of interest and understanding in the problems and needs of labor, and union men will be asked in the November elections to distinguish between those members who have been friendly to labor legislation and those who have ignored or opposed it.

Leaders of organized labor believe they are making progress, and that most wages maintained at a high level despite entirely inadequate scales prevailing in some industries.

The five-day week is becoming more and more common and is recognized as an important means of meeting unemployment as well as of stimulating business by the creation of added leisure.

The 3,000,000 members of the A. F. of L. will be fully informed. Green said, of the records and labor sentiments of candidates for re-election.

'We can present the facts to the voters, and we plan to do so pretty extensively this year as a result of the dis-appointing indifference displayed by the Seventy first Congress, the labor chief promised.
"We are going to send questionnaires to all candidates and find out whether they are willing to support specific legislation. Particularly we want to know where they stand on the unemployment and anti-injunction bills. Then we will pass the information along to our local unions.

N American labor party is still repugnant to most labor

A leaders, Green says, including the dominating forces in the A. F. of L.

"It would make an even worse mess of the situation," he declares. "and it would leave us without any friends

Green says the A. F. of L. couldn't understand how the House of Representatives, after many months of serious unemployment, could fail—as it did—to pass the constructive legislation provided in the three Wagner bills which were passed by the Senate. Only one of these bills passed the House—the one authorizing collection of additional statistics on employment. The others, strongly backed by organized labor, would have set up advanced planning of public works to meet emergencies and a national system of employment agencies.

'Unemployment in the first six months of this year presented a most distressing picture.' Green explains. 'Reports from our trade unions showed that it averaged more than 20 per cent among the workers in organized labor, which means, according to our estimates, a persistent unemployment for the first half of the year of more than 3,600,000

Wage earners.

"Instead of improving as the year wore on, the situation was as bad in June, with 20 per cent unemployment, as it was in January. In 1928 and 1929 the situation was clearing up rapidly by May.

"The importance of employment and continuous wages to prosperity has long been clearly apparent to everyone. Higher wage rates and stable employment would increase wage earners' incomes so that they might buy the things they want and need — bathtubs, shoes, dentists' services. books, automobiles and good clothing.

ERE is a huge potential market right at home which should be used to turn the tide of business pros-perity. Over 7,000,000 families in the United States have no automobile. About 20,000.000 have no adequate adio set. In our cities alone, without counting farm population, there were in 1928 over 4.000,000 families who had no bathtubs in their homes, and over 3,000,000 who had not even a kitchen sink with running water and probably no plumbing of any kind in their houses. Over 13 000,000 families in our cities have no telephones; over 4,000 000 live in homes not wired with electricity.

"About 5,000,000 families in America today are living below the minimum health and efficiency level. They need furniture, food and better housing. And the four and a half million who have barely enough to support themselves at a minimum health level are only too eager to raise their standard of living by buying industrial products. All these are eager customers for our industries.

"The market of the future is with the wage earners.

Mass production calls for mass buying, and our problem is to make it possible for the millions who are not yet cus-

These depressions come upon us without provisions for initiating local or national programs, despite the fact that the principle has been discussed for years and has been generally approved.

Green recalls that President Harding's unemployment conference of 1921, in which Herbert Hoover was a very active participant, had formulated a co-ordinated for anticipating cyclical unemployment through deterred planning, and machinery to initiate execution of public works at the right time,

Labor will not only continue to fight for such a program, he said, but also for the proposed national system of em-

done efficiently through a national organization. It is now-left to local undertakings or to private initiative. Private employment agencies feed on a worker's misfortune or necessity and make him pay a fee for a job when his finances are at low ebb.

"All society benefits when workers prosper, and teding them where they can get jobs for which they are suited seems the obvious thing to do. Such a service would meet the normal needs of industry and workers as well as help meeting emergency situations."

Besides cyclical unemployment, Green says, the two main types of unemployment are known as technological and seasonal. Technological employment is not a new thing, but it has been developing at an alarmingly rapid rate in th last 10 years.

"What thought has been given to musicians displaced by music reproductions, to the art of the actor forgotten in the latest talkie?" Green asks. "To the Morse operator displaced by the teletype, to the steel worker displaced by a new process, to the carpenter watching a house assembled by units, to the printer turned out by the teletypesetter?

"These great changes have so united the number of wage earners needed in our manufacturing industries that men and women are forced to walk streets looking for work. To be sure, some jobs are consted in the service industries, where employment has been increasing in the last decade, but these are not nearly enough to make up for the change in manufacturing.

"We need more than six million new jobs." Shorter working days and shorter working works would

Some industries have made substantial progress in establishing the five-day week," he said. "It is estimated that 25 per cent of the building trades workers now have it." The United States, China, and India, Green points out. are the only three countries which have made no provision to care for the aged. Old age pensions are inevitable.

Just a few days toll - accidents caused by

Actual clippings from the newspapers daily tell why thousands of safety-seeking car owners are equipping with the new General Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon.

ODERN speed and traffic conditions demanded The Blowout-Proof Tire. Only a few weeks old, it's hailed already as the greatest safety advancement in modern motoring.

And no wonder! Blowouts didn't mean much in the day of slow speeds and small tires. But with tires bigger today, speeds faster, highways narrow and crowded-over 400,000 deaths and injuries yearly are caused by tire blowouts, punctures and skidding.

A blowout today is almost never a minor accident—it's a sure crash with only a split second of warning. At 60 you are going 88 feet a second. Even at half that speed there's less than a twentieth of a second between your wheels and the ditch or oncoming traffic. Don't Spectacular tests of the new Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon have proved its absolute safety against the sudden impact of road holes and bumps—against the hidden, unseen blowout hazard of internal heat.

Only the patented new Blowout-Proof principle of the Dual-Balloon can give you this safety. It eliminates the common causes of blowouts reduces every tire hazard, regardless of road, speed or weather. It smothers road shocks, keeps your ear quiet and new thousands of miles longer. You can trust your life to the Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon.

Yet with all its unmatched safety-with easy riding comfort that challenges any comparison-the new Dual-Balloon is the most economical of tires. It actually costs less per mile than you pay now. Come in today for facts and a demonstration.
