Farm Bill makes LDPs available for non-contract farms

Gary L. Six, Executive Director for the Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Yoakum County announced a special provision in the new farm bill which has removed the requirements prohibiting producers from receiving Loan Deficiency Program (LDP) payment if they are not enrolled in the Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) program.

Farmers who grew eligible commodities during the 2001 crop year on non-participating farms can now apply for LDPs at their local FSA field office. This exception also applies to farms that sold or fed crops on participating and non-participating farms before requesting an LDP or those who have farm-stored or warehouse stored quantities in excess of the amount originally requested.

"Literally, hundreds of farmers will benefit from these changes," said Six. "Stagnant prices over the past few years have splashed a lot of red ink over farm balance sheets. Opening up the LDP program is another example of how this farm bill is extending a safety net to all producers," he stated.

As a result of new prices, the contract participation requirement was lifted once before in June 2000. During the 2000 crop year Texas county offices processed 148 LDP applications for approximately $766,890.

LDPs provide a price floor for farmers during times of low market prices. Payments are issued when market rates fall below government established price levels for certain commodities. Payments to eligible producers under new provisions will be made as soon as national procedures are issued.

According to Six, "A producer will be allowed to receive an LDP for commodities harvested during the 2001 crop year, even though the grower has already sold or fed the commodity."

LDP payments will be based on the date the producer marketed, fed or used the commodity for seed. Farmers who retain control of the harvested 2001 crop will be given the rate in effect on the day the request is received at an FSA office.

Six emphasized, "Farmers must submit acceptable production evidence, such as sales receipts, that indicate when the crop was sold. If the commodity was sold, documentation must indicate the amount and the days it was fed out."

The final date for submitting 2001 crop LDP applications has not been announced. Farmers should contact their local FSA office for more details or visit the national FSA website at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Time to be thinking Rodeo, Reunion

The three young ladies shown here, Stacie Alldredge, Jamie Covarrubias and Megan Allsup, are the three 2002 Rodeo Queen Contestants, and their hard work will go a long way in raising funds to help stage the annual event. They will be selling one dollar tickets for the drawing of a custom made western saddle to be awarded on the final performance of the rodeo. The show runs August 1, 2 and 3.

Miss Alldredge, 16, will be a PHS Junior this fall, and is sponsored by the Plains Chamber of Commerce. Miss Covarrubias, 15, will be a Sophomore, sponsored by the Plains Lions Club. Miss Allsup, 17, will be a Senior, and is sponsored by the Roping Club. These three groups make up the Plains Rodeo Association.

Coordinator Carolyn Culwell last week gave each of the contestants 1000 tickets to get their sales campaign off and running. The winning Queen candidate will receive 20 percent of the total tickets she sells, the first Runner Up will receive 15 percent of her sales, and second Runner Up takes home 10 percent of her sales. Each candidate will receive $100 cash from their sponsoring organization to help with travel expenses. Small town rodeo numbers are dwindling every year, because of the expense involved in staging the events. Only the hard work of the rodeo queen candidates, and the generous support of local and area ticket buyers allows the Rodeo Association to continue the tradition of Western rodeos. When these girls ask for your assistance, please be GENEROUS!

Plains Baptists spread around globe on missions of service

Members of Plains First Baptist Church are busy assembling and distributing food packages to Palestinians and other displaced people in Israel's West Bank. Other church members are in Colorado, helping feed fire fighters and people fleeing the horrific forest fire on the outskirts of Denver. If this seems a bit unusual for a small town church with a membership of some 400 souls, it's nothing new for the FBC.

On June 23, members Jered and Kay Sellers, and Marc and Zanna Traweek and 14 other couples flew the Atlantic to the nation of Israel, to assist feeding the thousands of displaced families in the war torn West Bank of Israel. They are currently working out of the town of Ram Allah, the site of Palestinian leader Arafat's compound. In a recent phone call to her father, FBC Pastor Bill Wright, Kay Sellers reported the group recently had dinner in a restaurant across from the compound so often in the news the last few weeks.

The volunteer husband wife teams are assembling 80 pound packages of staple groceries which are distributed around the town and area. Life and work for the volunteers is not

Four Coaching, Teaching Slots Filled By Board

In the June 10 meeting, the Plains Independent School District Board of Trustees, approved the hiring of Ms. Treasure Thaggard, Thomas Rotunno, and husband and wife Dave and Kimberlee Wilkins. The following are thumbnail sketches of their teaching and coaching backgrounds, taken from their resumes submitted to the Board.

Treasure Thaggard is a 1979 graduate of Tarleton State University, with a BS degree in physical education and health. She has 23 years experience teaching and coaching. Her most recent experience was at Brownfield, where she taught English, creative writing and speech in middle school, and served as assistant coach in cross-country, track, basketball, and volleyball. She also has teaching/coaching experience at schools in Electra, Hico, Stinnet, New Home, and Llano. Thaggard will teach social studies here, and serve as the head girls basketball coach.

Thomas Rotunno was hired as girls athletic coach in Plains' Middle School, and will teach social studies. Rotunno attended college at New Mexico Military Institute, New Mexico State, Texas Tech, and graduated from University of Texas at Arlington with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Exercise and Sports. He has teaching and coaching experience at Grand Prairie, Hurst-Euless-Bedford ISD, Tatum N.M. middle and high school, and was last employed at Brownfield Consolidated ISD, where he taught and coached in the Intermediate and Middle school. He was active in sports in both high school and college, winning the New Mexico high school wrestling championship in 1981, and attended NMSU on a football scholarship.

Kimberlee Wilkins received her BS degree in Kinesiology from Angelo State University in 1993, where her academic specialization was mathematics. She also attended one year at Wayland Baptist at Plainview where she was named an All-American track athlete, and also received All-American honors in track at ASU. Wilkins work history includes working with junior and high school athletes at the San Angelo YMCA, and teaching math and coaching experience at Water Valley High School, Junior High in the Magnolia ISD, and was last employed as a math teacher and coaching at Bracket High School. Mrs. Wilkins will teach high school math here.

Her husband Dave Wilkins will work with Special Education students here. Wilkins holds BS degrees from Texas Tech University in agricultural education and Wildlife Management, and six graduate hours in special education. His work experience includes Special Education and Physical Education Director at Wall High School, serving as college scout for the National Scouting Report, head coach and athletic coordinator duties at Magnolia ISD, where he had golf and football coaching duties, leader of FCA, and handling required state paper work for the special education program.

PISD Superintendent Jim Haynes reported at least one more teaching position must be filled, the replacement of Sonya Young, middle school science instructor. She and husband Ray Young will be moving to Carlsbad in the near future where Ray will serve in the Church of Christ.

other FBC members are in fire ravaged Colorado. The church disaster relief trailer is being used as the food preparation vehicle helping feed thousands of fire fighters and citizens who have had to flee their homes from the huge fire.

The Texas Baptist Men Association received word Plains' and other disaster relief units were urgently needed in Colorado, and on June 7 the local church dispatched the first crew. Blue Cap leader Jeff Roper led that crew, including Karen Bearden, Diane Bennett, Bill and Linda Wright, Mark Barefield, Jerome Head, Loretta O'Neill, Tommie Brown, Melba Crutcher and Bucky Johnson.

They first set up operations at Canon City, where they prepared thousands of meals for fire fighters and evacuees. When the large forest fire threatened Denver, they moved their operation to Castle Rock, about 60 miles south of Denver.

The first crew was relieved by Blue Cap Tim Willis and wife Kim, and the crew included Bill and Pam Rowe, Elvina and Brad Friesen, Dorothy Herman from Wolfforth, Kayla Willis and Steve Alldredge. This team is scheduled to be relieved by another group of volunteers this week.

A phone call Monday morning, June 17, indicated the fire fighting forces in the area received some 1,800 reinforcements, with about 4,000 fire fighters now in action, increasing the work load dramatically for the disaster relief units.

FBC Plains purchased the state of the art disaster relief trailer in 2000, with donations from the congregation and friends of the church. Since that time, the unit or local crews have been on the scene of many disasters, including the devastating fire at Los Alamos, New Mexico, the September 11 disaster in New York City, the flood in Houston, storm damage in Austin and San Antonio.

Pastor Bill Wright said to date, the volunteers have prepared more than half a million emergency meals.

"It continues to amaze me how our people respond to these situations. Our leaders have become so proficient in directing the work, and our workers are so dedicated and tireless, the Red Cross, usually in charge of these relief programs, now seek us out to help lead the work. We are truly blessed to have these folks helping do the Lord's work... loving their neighbors, no matter how far off they are."

Water and Swimming great for summer, also great exercise

Swimming is one of the best ways to get a total body workout. It has cardiovascular, strength and flexibility components, essential parts of being fit.

The biggest advantage of swimming is that water's buoyancy reduces a persons 'weight' by 90 percent. Therefore, weight bearing muscles, bones and joints have less stress on them. You do not need to be able to swim to benefit from water exercises. You do not even have to put your face in the water. Any continuous stroke, even the dog-paddle, is a good aerobic exercise.

IDEAS FOR YOUR WATER WORKOUT:

Water 'walking or running' offers a cardiovascular workout and strength training, from water resistance. Simply stand in waist deep water and move forward or backward to work different muscle groups.

For another aerobic exercise, tread water in neck deep depth while moving your legs as if riding a bicycle.

Use aquatic equipment to intensify your workout. Use a kickboard to target your legs, or hand paddles to target your arms.

As with any exercise, check with your Doctor first, and don't forget to protect your skin with sunscreen!

Probable decline in county mineral evaluation is forecast for coming year

Two representatives of the Thomas Y. Pickett & Company made a presentation in the June 17 session of Commissioner's Court, predicting a decline in Yoakum County mineral valuations, the principal source of tax revenue for local taxes. The prediction had been expected by most Court officials, but not one they wanted to hear.

The Pickett representatives explained appraisal evaluations on petroleum industry assets follow a complex formula, based on valuation of physical assets, the price for crude oil and natural gas, and estimated reserves in county production fields.

Court members were presented with charts and graphs indicating yearly production of both oil and gas for the entire county, and for larger production units including the Bennett Ranch, Denver, Wasson and Willard Units. All graphs depicted steady but not drastic declines in production. The chart showing county wide production, for example, depicted a decline in production of some 96,000 barrels per day in 1998, to an estimated 84,000 barrels per day by the end of 2002.

The Pickett representatives said prices for crude are always volatile, and chiefly influenced by OPEC member nations, but said his firm did not foresee very severe price declines the remainder of 2002 and probably 2003. He explained in petroleum producing areas like Yoakum County, decreases in production are inevitable, regardless of supplemental drilling, injection of CO2 or water flooding.

The bottom line of the presentation indicated Yoakum County could be looking at an approximate 15% drop in mineral evaluations by the end of the year. County Commissioners and other department heads are already conducting budget workshops for the 2003 budget, and department workshop figures must be ready in July. It's almost a sure bet all departments will be faced with sharpening their knives for budget trimming when the final evaluation numbers are in place.

From The Hack

As a pitifully amateurish amateur golfer, no doubt doomed to the lowest class of mediocrity, due partly to lack of playing time, but due chiefly to lack of skill, I have finally come to an absolute truism about the game: Those Scotsmen who thought the game up so many centuries ago were either (A) descended from demented ancestors whose origins were Hell itself, or (B) severely dependent on the fermented malt liquid the country is world famous for.

Bride and I watched portions of the U.S. Open golf tournament last weekend, played on the infamous Bethpage Black course on the outskirts of New York City. Who ever designed the thing I am sure descended from those crazed or drunk Scots of centuries ago.

Think on this - it features a couple of par 4 holes almost 500 yards in length. The dozen or so people I normally play with here usually start off our par 5, 500 yard holes with driver, then three wood, then long iron, and sometimes, a short iron to just get on the green. Most of the pros in the Open tourney were hitting driver, then 4 or five iron to the green. Amazing.

It's customary in the U.S. Open to have the USGA select a very tough course, then select one with extremely fast, very undulating greens. Those greens at the Black course had more undulations than an Egyptian belly dancer, and balls rolled off the surface so swiftly I'm quite sure I heard mini-sonic booms as they sped down hill.

And the rough bordering the narrow fairways was terrifying. The un-mown grass was so deep in some areas an NBC camera crew just disappeared from sight, camera and all, causing all sorts of problems for TV viewers. I forget where, but between two holes the rough was not quite so severe; You could see small portions of the wooly backs of a flock of sheep grazing in the sun.

Being able to watch only portions of the tournament convinced me of one thing - Phil

Mickelson continues to come up with some truly amazing shots, and truly needs to be wearing a high-dollar Maiden Form bra when he strolls bouncing along in front of the camera.

I'm glad 99.6% of my golf activity is confined to our fine county course. Is it easy, you ask? OF COURSE it's easy! How else could I consistently shoot in the high 90's, except of course on those inevitable bad days? It is a gem.

The same cannot be said of most of those regulars who swarm around like packs of piranhas, salivating at the idea of taking a hungry bite of my wallet or buttocks, whichever comes first.

I played with such a group last week. One is a USDA government employee, NOT aligned with the soil conservation thing. One is a large cotton, peanut, watermelon producer, and no, it was NOT Eddie Earnest or Brad Palmer. The other is just a large - no, make that VERY LARGE farmer, frequently seen in the Tokio area whose daughter recently graduated from PHS. After that afternoon session, I didn't so much feel as if I had been mistreated - I felt physically violated. I also felt quite a few dollars lighter, and I am convinced methods used against me by the unholy trio can be found in the Golf Rules Book under the "Thou Shalt Not" section. It's OK .... paybacks are Hell.

City Report On Water Quality

The City of Plains is proud of the drinking water it provides. This annual quality report contains information about the results of the test run on our drinking water. It is published today in the paper as a requirement of the 1996 Safe Drinking Water act. The city of Plains will notify you if there is any reason for concern about our water.

THE BOTTOM LINE: IS THE WATER SAFE TO DRINK? ABSOLUTELY

Call us for information about the next opportunity for public participation in decisions about our drinking water. Our water source is the Ogallala Aquifer, water is pumped out of the ground throughout the surrounding area. This water is transmitted to our water treatment facilities through a network of underground pipes. A Source-Water Assessment has been performed for our area to provide baseline data about the quality of water before it is treated and distributed to customers. To complete your understanding of our water supply, you can request a copy of the assessment from TNRCC P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711.

WHAT DOES THE TABLE MEAN?

This report is based upon tests conducted in the year 2000 by and for the City of Plains. MAXIMUM CONTAINMENT LEVEL OR MCL. Is the highest level of a containment that is allowed in drinking water.

The City of Plains did not test for Radon or Cryptosporidium.

The Fluoride and the sulfate along with the Total Dissolved Solids occur from the erosion of natural deposits in the aquifer in this region. In common terms we have "Hard Water". Studies have been conducted to search for other approved sources of water, whose delivery could be obtained at an economical price.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk.
