School District Loses In Move For Debt Settlement

HOUSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly today granted a motion of the state to dismiss a petition of the Mission independent school district, which sought a plan of composition of its indebtedness of $115,000.

The state held more than $100,000 worth of the district's bonds. The school district had sought the composition plan under what is called the federal taking agency bankruptcy act, which permits cities, towns and school, drainage and road districts to make settlement through bankruptcy courts with creditors and bondholders.

Judge Kennerly said the state in 1925 passed an act giving its consent to such organizations going into bankruptcy courts to make such settlements. But in 1938, he said, the state passed an amended act, which he said, he considered to mean that, if any bonds of one of those taking organizations is owned by the free school fund, the state withdrew its consent.

Candidates On Fast Schedule

By the Associated Press

Candidates for railroad commissioner in the run-off race followed a gruelling schedule of half a dozen speeches a day from the stump and on the air as the campaign neared its close.

Speaking at Paris yesterday, Olin Culberson emphasized the importance of the railroad commission as an agency to preserve gasoline as war material, and Pierce Brooks at Jasper called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the commission's expenses.

Brooks appealed to voters to exercise their ballot privilege in the run-off Saturday, and urged his election as "a successful business man fresh from the ranks of the people."

Culberson bore down on the national defense responsibilities of the commission, stating that the major portion of high octane gasoline being used in war comes from Texas.

Brooks scheduled speaking dates today at Belton, Georgetown, Taylor, Elgin, Lockhart, San Marcos, Luling and San Antonio (radio). Culberson will speak at Mount Pleasant, Mount Vernon, Pittsburg, Gilmer, and Longview, the latter including one radio and one platform appearance.

The harbor at Dover covers 600 acres and cost about $20,000,000.

Marvin Woods Garage Will Open Friday In New Home On E. Third

Local Business At Another Milestone Of Growth

Marvin Woods Friday will observe another milestone in the progress of a business he established here less than eight years ago.

In that space of time his garage business has grown from an affair he operated single-handedly to one now requiring a new modern building and a personnel of nine people.

Woods came here from Longview, where he had been service manager for the Dodge and Plymouth agency for three years. On Sept. 23, 1933 he opened a garage at 214 W. 3rd street and ran it by himself.

Gradually his business increased, and he added new and modern equipment and mechanics. But always he supervised jobs to be sure of quality workmanship. This practice paid dividends, for his patronage enjoyed a steady growth.

Today, in a new building at 504 E. 3rd, he now employs a staff of five skilled mechanics, all thoroughly qualified and experienced by his own standards. He has a man to operate his service station with the assistance of a porter, and his business now requires not only his attention but the services of a bookkeeper.

Woods has mechanical equipment valued at $15,000 in his shop, and his building and grounds represent a comparable investment.

He specializes in wheel aligning, and business of this nature comes to his garage from over a wide section of mid-West Texas. In addition, his concern offers general garage service, including brake testing and adjustments, motor tune-ups, complete overhauls and other similar work. With a 70x100 foot building and 5,000 square feet floor space for his garage, he feels confident of giving additional service in quality workmanship.

STATE OFFICIALS ARE MOVED FROM ALSACE-LORRAINE

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 22 (AP)—German authorities in Alsace and Lorraine were reported today to have completed removal of all state employees—from provincial officials to common laborers—not of pure Alsatian or Lorraine origin.

The last group of such employees left the two provinces yesterday on German order, according to advices reaching Switzerland, for other parts of German-occupied France, or for the zone covered from Vichy.

They were permitted to take 50 pounds of baggage and 5,000 French francs, or 250 marks (nominally about $100), with them. All their other property was confiscated by the state.

SWIMMER DOES DOUBLE DUTY TO KEEP TITLES IN FAMILY

AP Feature Service

DETROIT—When infantile paralysis cut short her 15-year-old sister's brilliant swimming career, brunette Virginia Fischer decided it was up to her to carry on for both.

Virginia carried on so well that today she holds the Michigan state indoor medley title and the 100 yard free style crown as well. What's more, her coach, Stanley Bryda, says she could have won the breast-stroke event with ease had she entered.

Sister Mildred held the medley record herself and was being mentioned as an outstanding contender for national honors when infantile paralysis struck last year. Now she is gradually recovering, swimming when she can and promising friends she will be ready to compete next summer.

Wants Olympics Spot

Virginia exhibits the same Fischer determination as she works toward her big ambition—a place in the 1944 Olympics. The sacrifices she makes for swimming are hard on a pretty 18-year-old. Dancing tightens muscles so it's banned for two weeks before a race; smoking and drinking are out; bending exercises are necessary daily to keep muscles limber and eight hours sleep is an absolute minimum. Virginia doesn't let that get her down because 1944 is always before her.

She was taught to swim at five by her father, Henry F. Fischer, who wanted to make sure "she'd know what to do if she fell into the water." It wasn't until she met Eleanor Holm, Adolf Kiefer, Ralph Flanagan and other natorial greats that she took up swimming seriously.

Six years ago Virginia became a member of the Detroit Yacht Club team and within 12 months had won the national junior 50-yard championship. She held the state backstroke title at 15 and since then has won 10 state indoor and outdoor titles in that speedy event.

Will Study Law

Virginia plans to enroll at the University of California in the fall and will study for a legal career in order that she may some day enter her father's legal office.

Her hobby (which shows she isn't planning on being either a swimmer or a lawyer all her life) is cooking. Virginia says she can turn out spaghetti, chocolate cake and steak that will bring you to the table faster than she can swim the fifty. That's fast.

HAVE DIFFICULTY IN GETTING OUT OF NABI-HELD AREAS

VICHY, France, Aug. 22 (AP)—Americans for the past week have found it practically impossible to get a permit to leave the German-occupied section of France, according to reports reaching Vichy today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22 (AP)—Frank G. Hart, charged with running a stop sign, protested "I couldn't see the sign. It was covered with overhanging limbs."

Hart went to the intersection, took a picture and showed it to Him Gowdy, acting police judge.

"I can't see the sign, either," said Gowdy. "Case dismissed."

Bullitt Will Have A Reply

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Ambassador William C. Bullitt withheld a reply to his congressional critics today but informed sources said he had plans for active participation in President Roosevelt's campaign for reelection which would afford him ample opportunity to at a later date, visit.

These sources said the ambassador to France may appear in the role of the chief administration spokesman on questions of foreign policy.

Bullitt was said to have received invitations to follow up his Philadelphia speech of last Sunday, although it brought sharp condemnation from some senators as "inflammatory," and a charge by Senator Clark (D-Mo.) yesterday that the state department had violated the criminal code by distributing copies of the address at government expense.

Bullitt's suggestions for safeguarding the United States included universal acceptance of some kind of national service, pressure on congress to enact the draft bill, and support of General John J. Pershing, who wants to sell destroyers to Britain.

Prominent Houston Democrat Succumbs

HOUSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—A few hours after he had called a mass meeting to launch a countrywide Willie-for-president campaign, C. A. Teagle, prominent Houston democrat, died suddenly today.

Teagle had called a meeting for Tuesday night to form a strong delegation which would attend a statewide Willie meeting at Dallas the following evening.

He was born in Staunton, Va., in 1866 and attended school in Charleston, W. Va., and in Cincinnati. He came to Texas in 1882, serving as city attorney for Orange from 1891 to 1896.

He was a member of the state house of representatives during its 26th session. Beginning in 1900, he practiced law for six years in Beaumont, serving as city attorney there.

In 1906 he moved to Houston, where in 1930 he was chosen president of the Houston Bar association.

His widow, prominent Houston club woman, is a member of the state prison board.

OIL PROBLEMS ARE UNDER DISCUSSION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22 (AP)—The special survey committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America met here today on the eve of an interstate oil compact commission conference.

Members went into executive session to discuss production problems and appoint three subcommittees to study 1—the interstate compact and conservation programs of oil producing states, 2—the hearings and evidence of the temporary national economic committee, and, 3—the question of imports and trade agreements with foreign countries.

The findings are expected to be presented at the annual I. P. A. A. meeting at Dallas, Oct. 16-18.

Tonight the I. P. A. A. supply and demand committee will meet. A report of its session will be presented at the opening of the compact meeting tomorrow.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22 (AP)—Governor Sam Jones today projected Camp Beauregard, where two major army maneuvers have been held this summer, as the largest army training base in the south.

After conferences here yesterday with Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming and regular army officers, Jones announced that orders made to the war department to expand the post to train between 75,000 and 90,000 men had been accepted.

A total of 2,800 square miles used in the maneuvers in Rapides and Vernon parishes already are under lease to the war department for field training and maneuvers.

Calf-Shocker Is Stand-Out Among New Patents

By EDDY GILMORE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The nation's inventors burst forth with a batch of new gadgets today, designed to make the world an easier place in which to live—but you'll have to use your own judgment about that.

Most "shocking" of the latest patents is the electric calf-wearer, aimed at making things more pleasant for mamma cow plus giving the calf a quicker start in life. The brain child of Patrick Kelly, of Anaton, Wash., it consists of a neat little battery carrier that fits around the calf's neck and a metal contraption that rests lightly on its nose. An unobtrusive wire connects the two.

It works this way: When the calf gets ready to go to lunch the metal contraption touches the cow, and closes an electric circuit, thus shocking the dickens out of the calf.

Mr. Kelly doesn't say what it does to the cow, but from the

ANOTHER ADVANCEMENT for Marvin Wood's garage is represented in the new building and station which his establishment is now occupying. Besides the modern structure, Wood has $15,000 in mechanical equipment and maintains a staff of five expert mechanics to handle his trade. The present business grew out of a garage he opened here by himself in Sept. 1933 and developed steadily since. In addition to the garage, Wood has a service station unit as a part of his new building.

looks of things, it appears that she is grounded.

A patent was granted Martin Plantz, of the Bronx, N. Y., for an arm support for a fishing rod which should just about make things perfect for the angler who wants to take it easy.

Joseph Burger, of New York, N. Y., thought up a little piece of mechanism that should be a boon to the man or woman who wants to look taller.

It's a sort of miniature platform that fits into the shoe, attaches onto a screw that goes into the heel. To raise yourself an inch or so, you turn the screw, which raises the platform and you on it.

It's all concealed and your friends will never know. If the wearer tires of the higher altitudes he can always come back to earth.

Robert S. Morris, of Mt. Calm, Tex., figured out a food tray that fits over an automobile steering wheel, which should make it easy for the motorist to eat up his food along with his mileage.

ITALIAN SOMILILAND PORTS BOMBED

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 22 (AP)—British warplanes have scored hits on the port and airdrome at Mogadiscio, capital of Italian Somaliland, and on buildings at the nearby town of Merca, the Royal Air Force announced today.

It also reported hits on the Italian naval oil tanks and a jetty at Tobruk, Italian coastal base in Libya near the Egyptian frontier.

Arms Output In England Gains

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Herbert Morrison, minister of supply, said in a broadcast tonight the war effort speedup has given Britain "an arms industry greater in its output and far greater in its future productive capacity than anyone would have dared to think possible three months ago."

Britain, however, is still behind Germany in arms making, he observed.

"We are beginning to see daylight through the trees," he said, and cited the case of one ordnance factory which began production four months ahead of schedule.

"It's a lovely thing to beat the clock in these days," he added.

House Approves Requisitioning Of War Equipment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Legislation authorizing President Roosevelt to "requisition and take over" military equipment and munitions sold—but not sent—to foreign countries was passed by the house on a voice vote today and sent to the senate.

Sponsored by the war department, the bill would authorize the president, in the interest of national defense, to confiscate especially large quantities of machine tools which had been sold but which were denied export recently under a presidential proclamation.

The legislation would require the present owners of these materials to be paid a price which the president might determine.

If the figure was not satisfactory, the owner would receive half of it and he could sue the government for any additional sum.

Men Of Morley Answer The Call To Arms Again; It's 100 Pct.

MORLEY, Tenn., Aug. 22 (AP)—By the eternal, old Andy Jackson would have been proud of the men of Morley!

They are the same breed of lean, tough mountaineers who followed him at New Orleans against the British, into Florida against the Spaniards, and against the Indians more than a century ago.

Conscription? Not for them. They just up and joined the army when the word got around that soldiers were needed to pack a rifle.

And maybe someday the war department will put a bronze tablet in this mountain hamlet with raised letters reading: "This is the town of Morley, Tenn., where every able-bodied eligible man volunteered his services to his country in the year 1940."

There are about two-score families in this village in the shadow of the Cumberland mountains and all their sons who are eligible are in the army. Letters come back to the little postoffice with strange postmarks of far-away places such as Panama and the Philippines.

Out of Morley have gone 24 youths to don soldier's garb. The last was 22-year-old Roy Brannan, a wide-shouldered, 175-pound hill lad towering six feet and two inches. Roy rode down the big road with the recruiting officer early this month to leave behind the cluster of cottages, the general store and the postoffice that comprise the village.

Most of the youths found their way into the army through the one-room postoffice where Mrs. Carrie Witt, a middle-aged, motherly woman, gave them counsel and advice.

"I love every one of them," she said. "I urged them to join the army because I thought they would be better off there than working in the coal mines part time or doing nothing. And, too, the country needs them."

And so it is that Morley typifies the spirit of the "Volunteer state."

Woman Driver Tells Men How--And Gets Paid For It

By JOSEPH MORTON
AP Feature Service

CLEVELAND — When Mildred McKay started teaching women to drive there were a lot of problems besides making them shift gears accurately.

She had to induce fat women to twist around while backing. She had to make them stretch enough to use rear-vision mirrors properly, and to sit at the steering wheel easily.

The solution:
First reduce 'em, then teach 'em.

Calisthenics are part of her curriculum.

Miss McKay directs the Cleveland Automobile Club's driving school, one of the country's largest.

Three years ago, at 30, she had a second-hand car and an idea. Now she teaches men as well as women, and bosses a dozen fellow instructors, all men.

Not A Serious Accident
She has supervised instruction of 2,000 persons, 14 to 73 years old, and has yet to hear that one has been involved in a serious accident.

Wives go to driving school because "the (dear) mate, just won't teach me," or because "I wouldn't think of asking him."

Exception was a pupil who wanted to drive "so I can get my husband home on Saturday night."

Forty per cent of the pupils are men, however. Their main difficulties are (1) heavy feet--inclination to race the motor; (2) a tendency to "crucify" the brakes.

Young persons are the most adept pupils.

Women are naturally handicapped through fear. Professional men and women often are "very slow" to learn, Miss McKay says.

All enrollees start with a classroom discussion of mechanics. Then they drive a dual control

Italians Claim U. S. Trying To Gain Territory

ROME, Aug. 22 (AP)—Italian newspapers showed discontent with the plan for the United States to lease naval bases in Britain's western hemisphere possessions by charging today that the United States is seeking to gain territory in the "break-up" of the British empire.

Il Resto Del Carlino, important Bologna paper, said the United States not only is trying to get control of Canada by offering to send an army to defend her but added that unless something happens in the Pacific America will try later to get Australia.

"Japan rightly is rather alarmed at this new development of American imperialism," Il Resto said.

To "gain possession" of the British West Indies, Il Resto said, Washington is ready to "cede" motors, guns and even some obsolete destroyers in payment for a 99-year lease on England's American islands.

Il Popolo Di Roma, expressing the same view, applauded Mexico and Guatemala for reported opposition to United States occupation of naval and air bases in British Honduras.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 22 (AP)—Sgt. Alvin C. York, conscientious objector in the World War who was drafted and became a hero for the single handed capture of 132 German officers and men, favors conscription.

York, here en route to Los Angeles to attend the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said conscription would "remove the morass of disgrace" which separated volunteers and drafted men in the World War.

"But," said York, father of boys 17 and 20, "I would advise my sons to enlist and not wait to be conscripted if their country needed them."

War Boosts Exports 35 Pct. In 10 Months

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—War demands for airplanes, steel, machinery and other vital military supplies boosted United States exports 35 per cent to a $3,273,000,000 total in the first 10 months of the European conflict.

The commerce department reported today that shipments from Sept. 1, 1939, to June 30, 1940, went in larger quantities to the major parts of the British empire, Latin America and the Far East. Gains in these territories overbalanced lost markets in the countries occupied by Germany and blockaded by Great Britain.

American imports increased 19 per cent over the 1939 figures for the same period, and totaled $2,097,000,000.

While war products were sold in greater volume, foreign customers cut down on tobacco, fruit, automobiles and other non-essentials. Cotton exports picked up early in the war only to slump off again.

Although France, Italy, Scandinavia and the Mediterranean countries were open to American goods for substantial parts of the 10-month period, the gain in British purchasing made the empire the outlet for 37.2 per cent of all the goods sent abroad. This proportion was growing steadily, moreover, and in June reached 46.2 per cent.

The period saw the export of $183,100,000 worth of airplanes, mostly all to England and France, or three times the amount in the corresponding months last year.

Farm Tradition Retained
OTTAWA, O. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Hall celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on the same farm on which Mr. Hall's parents and paternal grandparents celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries.

REACH AGREEMENT ON DEFENSE PLANS
ST. JOHN'S Newfoundland, Aug. 22 (AP)—Canadian and Newfoundland officials have reached "general agreement on all points" covering defense of Newfoundland, with special regard to this vast island's position in the "first line of defense of the North American hemisphere."

This phrase from a statement issued at the conclusion of a conference last night was regarded by some observers as significant in connection with possible United States acquisition of naval and air bases in Newfoundland.

LARGE BOMBS LOOK LIKE TORPEDOES
BERLIN, Aug. 22 (AP)—Observers here said today that the "aerial torpedoes" which some Britons report were dropped in England last night probably are large bombs, possibly of 1,000 kilograms (2,205 pounds).

Observers say the 1,000-kilogram bomb resembles a torpedo in many respects. It has fins on the tail and a barrel-shaped fin behind the fins to steady descent.

SELF-RULE OFFER REJECTED IN INDIA
WARDHA, India, Aug. 22 (AP)—The working committee of the all-India nationalist congress passed a resolution today rejecting the latest British offer of ultimate self-rule for India.

It urged Indians to condemn the attitude of the British government in public protest meetings.

Willkie Seeks To Gain Votes In The South

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Co-ordination of anti-Roosevelt campaign activities among southern democrats was a major object today of conferences called by Wendell L. Willkie.

A chartered plane brought the republican presidential nominee here from Rushville, Ind., last night. He will return there next week to set up personal headquarters.

Willkie arranged a talk tonight with John W. Hanes, former under-secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt cabinet and Lewis W. Douglas, the president's first budget director. They are heading an organization of independent democrats supporting the republican candidate.

CONTINUE BATTLE ON FOREST FIRES

HAMILTON, Mont., Aug. 22 (AP)—Forty lightning-set fires spouted smoke and flame today in the wild Bitter Root national forest, but fire fighters elsewhere in the thirty northwest reported gains in their widespread battle of the blazes.

In the Bitter Root, which sprawls across the Idaho-Montana boundary, six parachutists dropped from planes in the trackless back country extinguished three fires yesterday and ground crews corralled seven others. The fires were among the 50 ignited Tuesday during a "dry lightning" storm.

England, One Year Later: Only The Fog Is The Same

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN AP Feature Service

LONDON—When I left England a year ago—just before the outbreak of war—English muddle-heads still had their heads in the sands which for years had hidden their view of ever-blackening storm clouds.

Coming back, I find there is no sand for such purpose. It has all been scooped into burlap bags and stacked up for a finish fight against an expected invasion.

The peaceful greensward I left has been changed into an island fortress.

Gone is the blind reliance on the "channel barrier," the reasoning that "we haven't been invaded for a thousand years, therefore we never shall be."

"Handbags everywhere for a finish fight."

That classic foggy day headline, "Continental Cut Off By Fog," would not appear in this new England.

"One thing has not changed—the foggy, rainy English weather."

Only a year ago the man in the pub still was likely to associate the word "crisis" with the progress of his favorite cricket team. The rare bloke who had an air raid shelter in his garden apologized laughingly for it.

To The Trenches! Today red and white striped poles topped with arrows point the way "To The Trenches" and to deeper-type shelters. Even a part of Trafalgar Square has been given over to them.

The last sight I recall as the train carried me to Dover that summer day a year ago was of sheep grazing in green fields. The first sight I met after stepping out of a seaplane on my return was of sandbags and barbed wire and of soldiers in khaki patrolling with modern rifles. The soldiers even carry their rifles on dates.

Coming up to London from the seadrome, I saw sheep again. But in adjoining fields were camouflaged barracks, airdromes, barrages and sandbagged machine gun nests cleverly worked into the landscape.

Stepping out of Waterloo station, I found the streets of London filled with soldiers—women as well as men. Women volunteers no longer were the butt of music hall jokes.

People were carrying gas masks. And the skies above were dotted by cable-trailing balloons, like giant spiders ready to trap marauding enemy aircraft.

The same red doubledecker buses were swinging perilously through narrow, winding streets. But there also were snub-nosed auxiliary fire engines. To serve these engines, in case mains break in a raid, are large oblong tanks of water installed like old-fashioned horse troughs at strategic points.

"The peaceful greensward... has been changed into an island fortress."

At Buckingham Palace, reached after negotiating a formidable barrier of sandbags and barbed wire, I found the guard wearing khaki battle dress and helmets in place of picturesque red jackets and black bearskins.

"If 'E's Been There" It took little plumbing to discern the new spirit in the air. Winston Churchill, vindicated after years of abuse from Conservative politicians who accused him of crying wolf, has become dictator. A clerk in a hat shop said, "If we'd ad 'im in Downing Street four years ago, this'd never 'ave appened."

Daily air attacks on various sectors, an enormous increase in the income tax and general cost of living, food rationing, the severe blackouts—so black the bobbies wear white coats and carry red lanterns—and casualty lists—the English have grown accustomed to all these since last I was here.

But there is one thing not changed—the foggy, rainy English weather—a more effective defense against enemy raiders than fleets of Spitfires.

FRENCH GENERALS ARE RECOGNIZED FOR HEROIC CONDUCT

VICHY, France, Aug. 22 (AP)—The heroic conduct of eleven French generals, seven of whom were killed in the war with Germany, was set forth today in the first official account of what has become of France's high ranking officers.

It said the errors of some commanders were offset by the bravery of other generals, more of whom were killed or wounded at their posts than during the World war.

War Profits Cases Before High Court

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The government asked the supreme court today to review two decisions involving alleged excess profits on World War shipbuilding as a matter of "immediate national concern."

The cases, involving the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, were filed in 1925 and 1936. In one, the company sued the government for $7,500,000 profits not paid to it, while in the other the government sued the corporation for recovery of alleged excessive profits already paid. About $13,365,000 is involved in the suits. The government lost both in district court and is appealing from a decision of the third court of appeals which upheld the lower court.

Solicitor General Francis Biddle, in a petition filed with the supreme court, contended that the government had no choice but to deal with Bethlehem at its terms, and added:

"The government is now engaged in a program of military and naval armament comparable to or greater than that undertaken in 1917 and 1918. It is, therefore, of immediately national concern that there should be an authoritative determination of the extent to which the country's need should place the government at the mercy of its contractors."

Sentenced In Extortion Case

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Leon Benjamin, Newton, Mass., attorney, was sentenced to 14 months in prison today for conspiracy to extort money from Charles V. Bob, mining engineer now serving a seven-year term for mail fraud.

Benjamin was convicted in federal court last week. His brother, Jacob, of Austin and Houston, Tex., who pleaded guilty at the opening of the trial, was sentenced to a year and a day in the federal house of detention.

The brothers were accused of conspiring to extort several thousand dollars from Bob under threats to reveal that a juror in Bob's first trial in 1931—the jury disagreed—had been "fixed."

In the Benjamin trial, it was testified that Bob turned over between $9,000 and $10,000 to the Benjamin and Julius L. Homes, the "fixed" juror, who also pleaded guilty. His sentencing was adjourned until next Monday.

Lamesa Beats Amarillo In 11 Innings

LAMESA, Aug. 22 (Sp)— Paul Reeves and Al Carr formed a woman blitzkrieg last night to pull a game out of the fire for Lamesa, their ninth inning efforts accounting for a 7-4 victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox as they went into the ninth, the Lobos chances went glimmering as Gus Dorman whiffed Patterson and Miller. But Reeves doubled to left and Carr rose to the occasion to clout one over the right field wall to knot the score.

Again in the 11th, Patterson and Miller opened by popping to D'Antonio. Then came rumpling home when Carr beat out a slow roller to second.

After the sixth, Miller settled down to pitch marvelous ball, holding the Amarillo batters hitless and striking out seven of the last nine men to face him. He also had a double in the fifth that drove in a run.

Looking over the field for the coming football season has left the prognosticators a bit dizzy. Every team in the Southwestern Conference is due to be stronger, with the possible exception of the Aggies.

Right now S.M.U. is getting most of the play as the conference favorite. They tied with Baylor for second place last year. Have their team back almost intact with some great additions coming in, and have built up for a championship in 1940.

Biggest hurdle faced by the Aggies is the fact that every team they meet next fall, from opener with A & I through the Turkey Day game at Austin, will be primed and inspired, ready to call it a successful season if they can bowl over the "Champs."

Don't think the Aggies are not going after that record of two titles in a row. They'll play harder this year than they did last, but they've got a harder and steeper hill to climb.

One of Big Spring's better assets also is one of its newest. It is the amphitheatre in the city park. When it was started, many looked upon the project as some sort of folly, and indeed it took vision to foresee the beauty and scope of the completed job. Even then, its sheer immensity furnished ammunition to the doubters. It was so large, they said, that it never would be filled. Yet the very first program held in it saw a capacity crowd. Since then it has never been filled, but each succeeding week the number attending the series of weekly entertainments has been increasing until last week it was estimated 4,500 witnessed the affair. It is conservative to say that from the time the "bowl" was opened officially on July 4 more than 35,000 have gathered in it. By the time the season closes, it is safe to assume that the number will have been increased to around 45-000.

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the time will come when every whistle stop in the United States will have air mail service—and I don't mean the kind that travels by some creeping mixed local from the nearest big air terminal. I mean the kind of service that picks it up and lays it down each day, right back to the general store or at least no farther away than Jones' cow pasture. The post office department and the Civil Aeronautics board, after experimenting a year, have just issued new certificates to All American Aviation, Inc., Richard C. du Pont's company at Wilmington, Del. This extends the service to seven eastern states and gives the advantage of mail with wings to 131 small communities which haven't had it before. Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Say, did you hear the one about the Eskimo who lived at the North Pole but who wanted to know what the Eskimos at the South Pole were like? He decided it would be a good idea to go down and see. So he started out. He traveled for weeks. Finally he got down to the equator, and as he was crossing it he met up with an Eskimo from the South Pole who was on his way up to the North Pole. "Gee, gub, gub," said the Eskimo from the North Pole. "To which the Eskimo from the South Pole replied: "Gub, gub, gub, you-all". Frank Case, the hotel man, has taken time out to write a second volume of anecdotes and reminiscences acquired over a period of 30 years as an inn keeper. Case in the old days frequently put up free board for such fledglings as Irvin S. Cobb, John Barrymore and hundreds of others hoping to get started. His hotel is the Algonquin, regarded as the most famous theatrical hotel in town. Known widely as a fellow who can't say "no", Case figures prominently in one of Barrymore's best stories. John was walking down Broadway with a friend extolling the virtues of Case. "He is the best fellow in the world," cried Barrymore. "He is the salt of earth. He will put you up for the night, he will feed you, he will lend you money, he will even... See this," cried Barrymore, unbuttoning his coat and tugging at his shirt. "This is Frank's shirt".

HOLLYWOOD—When you think of British refugee children who will be brought to Hollywood, what's the first picture that pops to mind? A lonely, miserable wail wandering disconsolately around vast halls and gardens of a fabulous estate, bewildered by luxuries showered upon his head by a generous but impractical movie star? Or do you think of that cynical description of the children of movie families as "paupered brats who have seen everything and done everything—and don't like it!" Well, there aren't many fabulous estates left. There's Harold Lloyd's (and he's been selling the tax people what a burden his showplace is) and there's Chaplin's, and there's Pickfair—and that about tells the tale of the best-known, other-era landmarks. Today's stars don't dwell in hovels, but they don't buy all the acreage in sight and throw up cavernous mansions with the nonchalance once accorded to them. Movie youngsters, with few exceptions, aren't the oddball brats of the legend. They get the best of care, and they get a raft of toys and pets, but they get discipline, parentally administered or via trained domestic help. They get about the same rearing that is the lot of wealthy children everywhere—and most of their parents, real or foster, have had plenty of hard knocks in pre-compare with it. Seating capacity has not been accurately established, but 6,500 is a conservative estimate. It conceivably might accommodate 7,000 within its confines with a thousand or so others able to view proceedings from the retaining walls. Doubtless there will be few occasions which will demand such large seating capacity, but when those occasions arise, Big Spring will be in a position to handle them in the most efficient manner. This is, within itself, an asset. Because of its beauty and size, the amphitheatre is rapidly becoming one of the "show spots" of the community. People are doubly impressed and often amazed to discover something of its beauty and magnitude in a city the size of Big Spring. There is this final thing about the amphitheatre. It is becoming the "testing ground" that uncovers a world of local musical and other talent which constantly surprises the community. Thus it has the potentialities of becoming an instrument of culture. It has proven a boon to local churches in cooperative services. With its fame spreading into the surrounding area, it also is an agency of good will. Almost any way it is viewed, the amphitheatre must be regarded as an asset to the city.

There are literally thousands of testimonials to Frank Case in the epigrams and writings of his friends. But perhaps the best of all is from Jim Tully, who wrote of the Algonquin: "It is the warmest spot in the coldest city on earth". Booth Tarkington, who has spent part of each of the last 37 years in Maine, calls his Kennebunkport home "The House that Penrod Built". The gangling Hooster spends most of his spare time fishing. His waterfront studio isn't very far from the oldest summer theatre in America. This is Peak's island, built in 1774. Peak's island may be the oldest, but the most novel is the Barter theatre in Virginia, where ham, vegetables and milk are used instead of money. When you mention summer theatres these days you mention a "rash" that has affected the rank and file of the New York theatre. These days find Betty Furness, Diana Barrymore, Sheila Barrett, Block and Sully, Ina Claire, Jane Cowell, Sinclair Lewis, Midge Evans, Henry Carey, Jimmy Savo, Jack Kirkland, Joe Holton, Walter Reed Smith, Karen Van Rye, Branwell Fletcher and literally scores of others working out on the "red barn" circuit. Reason: The actors can pick up some extra change. The playwrights can obtain a bird's eye view of their brain children and detect flaws. The producers can have some sort of idea what may be best for full production. And the customers can have some fun.

Refugee youngsters probably won't get into the movie homes at all. Hollywood's principal organized effort for transplanting children is being undertaken by the British colony here, with Dame May Whitty a leading spirit. The particular children they want to shelter are the 57 now in the Actors' Orphanage near Chertsey—and they want to bring them on masse and keep them together in a selected ranch home they'll lease for the purpose. The hope is that after the "duration" the children will be together for the return journey. There may be difficulties in this plan: the U. S. government requiring refugee entry as individuals under individual sponsorship; but the committee here has been trying to iron things out. Both American and British stars have put out the welcome mat, to say nothing of lesser studio workers who have applied for children only to be stumped, they say, by the requirement that the applicant have at least a $5,000 bank account. The British colony raised $35,000 in its first effort among its own stars, directors, writers and producers. According to Dame May, the British felt the child care question is theirs but that attitude hasn't kept Americans like Fredric March and Doug Fairbanks from kicking in.

"Gee, gub, gub," said the Eskimo from the North Pole. "To which the Eskimo from the South Pole replied: "Gub, gub, gub, you-all". Frank Case, the hotel man, has taken time out to write a second volume of anecdotes and reminiscences acquired over a period of 30 years as an inn keeper. Case in the old days frequently put up free board for such fledglings as Irvin S. Cobb, John Barrymore and hundreds of others hoping to get started. His hotel is the Algonquin, regarded as the most famous theatrical hotel in town. Known widely as a fellow who can't say "no", Case figures prominently in one of Barrymore's best stories. John was walking down Broadway with a friend extolling the virtues of Case. "He is the best fellow in the world," cried Barrymore. "He is the salt of earth. He will put you up for the night, he will feed you, he will lend you money, he will even... See this," cried Barrymore, unbuttoning his coat and tugging at his shirt. "This is Frank's shirt".

The Herald's Serial Story

TIBER STANDS STILL
I had forgotten to latch that bedroom screen! My senses came back to me. I reached a wildly trembling hand to the light bulb of the lamp on the table and turned it until darkness fell like a heavy curtain. Then I slid out of my chair and down on all fours under the table. The chair teetered for an instant as I released my weight from it, then it crashed heavily to the floor. I heard the door flung open against it, the clatter of metal on the polished floor and the muffled thud of a falling body—a thud made sickening and horrifying by the lack of any vocal accompaniment of grunts or curses. Only that silent, moving presence quietly disengaging itself from the fallen chair and preparing to stalk me. If I could reach the corridor door— I began to crawl toward it, hoping my sense of direction would not fall me, praying that my shaking arms and legs would support me, fighting a stupefying terror at the knowledge that I was shut in with Sandra's murderer. Silence now. I might have been alone in the room. I held my breath for fear it would betray me and my heartbeats shook my whole body. Then, almost simultaneously, there were two sounds—the faint creak of a board in the corridor, and the scratching of a match within the room. Not two yards from me a small flame licked the darkness, showing me a white hand and a face that was black and blank except for two malevolent eyes. It was then that I lost all control and screamed. The flame described an arc in the air and went out. In the same instant steel hands were at my throat in a lunging attack that threw me violently backward, and my head was being beaten with dogged, diabolic intent against the hard, bare floor. I heard the doorknob rattle and the drive of a body against the locked door. Then a bomb exploded in my head and I heard nothing more. "Back To Stay" I went places for a while. The screaming wind between the worlds caught me up and whirled me past Mars, past the flaming outer planets, and there abandoned me to the long plunge back to earth. Time stood still while I dove through space until I brought up quivering, with daylight striking me like a flying anvil between the eyes. An involuntary groan shattered my skull into a thousand pieces, then I felt hands on my shoulders forcing me back and down, and I found that I still had a little fight left in me. "Hold it!" said a startled, familiar voice. My shoulders were pinned down, my arms pinioned. The shooting pains began to subside. Gradually it came to me that there was a pillow under my tortured head, and that the voice was telling me that I was all right. I opened my eyes a wary slit and saw Adam's face, ludicrously concerned, close to mine. I saw other things, too—blank, unfamiliar walls, a screen in front of a window. The air smelled antiseptic. I began to draw conclusions, and to remember. It was coming back to me—that turning doorknob, the awful stalking in the dark. "Kay, don't you know me?" he was asking anxiously. "There must be something I ought to tell him while this moment of sanity lasted. "Lovers' Return," I whispered. "Yes, dear. I'm back. Back to stay." There was a catch in his voice. He put his cheek, rough and unshaven, against mine. He was being very dense. And my head hurt. "Not you," I murmured crossly. He sat up and said "What?" in such a funny voice that I had to pry my eyes open and submit to the torture of focusing them so I could see him. His thick white lashes were rayed as if with blond mascara. The puffy blue circles under his eyes were the only color on his face anywhere. His expression of misery was obscuring satisfying. I waited a moment before I dispelled it. "Manuscript," I said at last. "Oh, that!" he dismissed it with a wave of his hand and continued to look at me with such brooding intensity that I grew restless. "You look as if you've been trying to drink New York dry," I observed, and closed my eyes again on the fireworks that long speech had set off. "You're no magazine cover yourself," he said absently. He got up from the edge of the bed, and when I stole a glance at him, presently he was pacing the floor. "Don't go so far away," I said, in a voice that insisted on fading to a whisper. He came back then and took my hand between both of his. "I'm still scared," he said huskily. "You've been unconscious for eight hours. Your eyes were open and staring and you didn't seem to breathe. They said you'd be all right, but—I've been here all night. I swore I'd never leave you again if—" Tears welled into his eyes. "Don't—please don't," I begged. "It wasn't your fault. And I feel quite well, really." But he went on as if I had not spoken. "I knew what a fool I'd been when I read about Sandra in the afternoon paper. I was in Penn Station waiting for a train that would have brought me here this afternoon. I went to Mitchell Field instead and found an army pilot to fly me out here. And then I was too late. They were carrying you out to the ambulance when my taxi pulled up. They thought at first your skull was fractured—that mop of hair was all that saved you—" "You can tell your re-headed grandchildren that," I murmured. He tried to laugh, but it wasn't a very successful effort. A nurse came in then and took my pulse and my temperature and engaged in a brief argument with Adam in which he lost, of course. He stood by the bed for a moment, looking down at me intently as if to assure himself that I was really there. "Go to sleep," he said huskily, then vanished through the door the nurse was pointedly holding open. No Curiosity Later in the morning Captain Jones came in with a strange gray-haired officer whom I had never seen. He proved to be the senior surgeon, just returned from leave. He was friendly and reassuring as he felt gently of my aching head, examined my eyes and asked me what seemed ridiculous questions until I remembered that they do that to football players who have been knocked out. My neck was stiff, too, and for a moment I couldn't think why until I remembered those steel hands. The senior surgeon nodded when I told him about it, but when he spoke it was across me, to Captain Jones. "Take a look at these bruises," he said dryly. "Nothing phony about them." Captain Jones, I saw with surprise, was very red. "And you might read that chapter on 'Maltreating' in Ford's

Military Medical Administration. Not that you'll find much application for it in 'peacetime,' he added more tolerantly, "but it's interesting reading. Surprising to what lengths people will go to fake a disability. He says, if I remember correctly, that a copper penny, bound on with a cloth soaked in vinegar, leaves a very fair imitation of a bruise." It was about then that I began to get the drift of the conversation. "You're talking about Sandra, aren't you?" I demanded, and then remembered something. "So that was why she got the vinegar from the mess hall—and the towel Felicia said looked as if Jeff had been polishing brass with it—?" The surgeon looked at me sharply. "Any idea why she should want to fake a black eye?" he asked. "Yes. Oh yes. To take out a grudge on Jeff. I'm glad I found that out. I don't feel so sorry for her now. She had potentialities, didn't she?" "She had indeed." He paused, looked from Captain Jones to me in some embarrassment. "Of course I was not teasing the captain here for not having discovered the fake when he first examined the body. Anyone might have overlooked it. Matter of fact, he's had a good bit on his mind this past fortnight. Three violent deaths, and his wife very ill in Chicago. She's all right now, I'm glad to say, and the mother of a fine boy. The scamp arrived ahead of schedule, otherwise I wouldn't have been on leave." I congratulated the captain and saw that he looked nicer when he smiled. Then the surgeon delivered his opinion that I was in my right mind and had nothing to worry about. X-rays taken during the night showed no fracture; my coma had probably been due ninety per cent to shock. I should remain in bed for a few days to give any mild concussion time to subside. They went away, and I partook sparingly of a modest lunch. Afterward I slept. In my dazed mental state I had no curiosity about the night's events. It was easier to lie there, safe and thankful, thinking of nothing but my aches and pains and the blessing of being alive. To be continued. Defense Unit Successful In Mock Warfare
 WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP)—Military observers in the nation's mightiest mock battle turned attention from a premature defeat of "invading" land forces to aerial warfare today and found a newly-created civilian air raid warning service "highly successful."
 The "Blue" defending aircraft "shot down" 26 enemy bombing planes and 24 observation ships with a loss of but one combat plane.
 That was the decision of the aerial umpires on "casualties" of the two-day air battle which brought into play an intended permanent organization of about 4,300 civilian "spotters" in northern and central New York.
 The "spotters" telephoned warning of the number and direction of the enemy bombers enabled the air defense command at Watertown to bring into play anti-aircraft artillery and pursuit ships before the "Blacks" achieved their mission of destroying military and industrial objectives.
 Brig. Gen. James E. Chaney, air defense commander, credited the civilian organization with "excellent work" which permitted interception of the bombing planes.
