Football fans here for Texas Tech's Homecoming Saturday will see a leading All America candidate and one of the top defensive players when the SMU Mustangs tackle the Red Raiders at 2 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

Heading the visiting Mustangs are halfback Jerry Levias and guard Rufus Cormier, two Negro athletes who have made a deep impression on opposing teams.

Levias, one of the fastest men in football, leads the Southwest Conference in pass receptions with 44 for 645 yards and four touchdowns. He also is second in the combined rushing-pass receiving category with 697 yards on 49 plays.

Levias also is fifth in scoring with 32 points, third in punt returns with 12 for 157 yards and has the longest return, 89 yards. The dangerous Levias is capable of breaking up any game and is one of the most respected and feared offensive players in the

Not much is heard of Cormier, but the husky guard is one of the prime factors for the Mustangs having a 4-1 record at this point in the season and being tied with Texas Tech for the conference lead after two games.

What Are You Gonna Do About Your Community?

What are you gonna do about your community? It appears as though no one cares anymore about what the situations really are. We are still concerned about fighting each other instead of working together as a team.

With the elections just around the corner, it would be a dynamic move if we would start then. We should utilize our strength at the polls and in turn have a loud echo at the polls.

Did you know that the several thousand qualified voters of our community could easily determine the destiny of any county or state representative from our area? Well, it can, and it is up to you to make up your mind to do something about it. Let's go to the voting arena come November 5th and prove it can be done.

Also, we must unite our efforts. We should all be on base with whatever we decide to do. Let's quit saying that our single vote doesn't make any difference. Believe me people, it makes a lot of a difference.

There is so much we can do here in our community to make it a better place in which to live. Voting November 5th, could be the beginning. We could erase some of the bad image we have had here for years.

Why not start thinking about our young people. Let's start setting good examples for them.

For your information, it has been learned that 60 percent of adult Negroes have never gone to high school. And, only 40 percent of Negroes who are eligible for high school are in this institution.

What does this say? Well it says that we must unite today and quit putting everything off until tomorrow. We must quit being happy with only a fair job and start doing a much better one.

The elections are only a few weeks away, but we could start today getting ready to make that trip to the polls. Not only must we go, but we must encourage others to come along with us. Tell them how important it is for them to stand up and be counted.

It's time for action — not lip service. Start off right by going to the POLLS Tuesday, November 5th. It's up to you citizens. You can do a good job if you really want to.

Show Me

"Show me someone who gives large sums of money to a flaw in the earth's crust," writes Robert J. Grode in the Saturday Review, "and I'll show you a man who is generous to a fault." Not to be outdone, James W. Cooper adds these: "Show me a woman who takes in laundry while her husband pickets, and I'll show you someone who irons while the strike is hot" and "Show me a poetic cosmetic salesman, and I'll show you the Bard of Avon."

FACING THE FACTS

With Lester C. Means

A July survey of 500 Florida and Louisiana Southern Baptist ministers showed 36 percent intended to vote for Wallace. Ordained Baptist minister John Buchanan, a Republican congressman from Alabama, has already announced he'll vote for Wallace if an Electoral College tie-up sends the election into the House.

A Gallup Poll last month of 3,011 adults in 320 communities showed 47 percent of the Protestants planned to vote for Nixon, 24 percent for Humphrey, and 22 percent for Wallace, with 7 percent undecided.

Nor is all the support Protestant. In a friendly March editorial, the Roman Catholic paper in Belleville, Illinois, said that "some former ridiculers of Wallace are coming around to thinking that he has a more realistic and workable solution to the race question than some others with overly sanguine remedies for the race problem, which remedies have so far not worked out too well in practice." In a straw vote last month, evening students at Catholic La Salle College in Philadelphia gave Wallace 26 percent of their votes.

But the Southern Committee on Political Ethics headed by former Southern Baptist President Brooks Hays charged this month "that the Wallace candidacy is based on fear and hostility and racial conflict", and that Wallace has "welcomed the support of many acknowledged and outspoken racists and has given them and their views a platform and a legitimacy they could not otherwise have achieved."

The assistant minister of a 3,000-member Alabama church commented, "I have never seen a man with such obvious contradictions. He's working his head off now to drop the label that he's a racist, yet Robert Shelton of the Ku Klux Klan and Gerald L. K. Smith, the anti-Semite, are among Wallace supporters.

"He may be drawing support because of his insistence on LAW and ORDER! Yet, during his entire administration as governor of Alabama, he was under court injunction not to interfere with desegregation, but he counseled Alabama educators to flaunt the lays, and perched himself like a fighting cock in the door of the University of Alabama, in an effort to prevent integration there." Does that sound like a man who is for It makes one wonder LAW and ORDER? "WHOSE LAW? and WHOSE ORDER?" is he really for. The "racist" label may be the most serious problem for Wallace as a Christian, (I use the title Christian with some reservations for the word means Christlike) and what is there about Wallace that is like Christ? - even among his supporters he is having trouble shaking the label "racist". The minister of a large Alabama Methodist church says "if Wallace is now serious about disclaiming racism he should repudiate his 1963 inaugural speech, in which he delighted supporters by promising "segregation now, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever".

The vast National Baptist Convention Inc. counts among its members some of the nation's most conservative Negroes. At its Atlanta meeting last month, a New Yorker whose opinions nearly outstripped denominational President Joseph H. Jackson in conservatism was asked by a white moderate if he would vote for Wallace. The quick retort; "Of course NOT. Wallace is a racist".

Wallace statements like: "If any demonstrators lie in front of my car, it'll be the last car they lie in front of", make some question whether Wallace is the man of love described by Vickers.

The Governor — as he is called lovingly and otherwise in Alabama — has not spared verbal assaults on those consigned to his blacklist. His typical accounting runs "all those preachers and professors and newspapers editors that have been looking down their noses at us working people on the street".

One preacher who could easily find a place on the list, and one of the few who dare talk about Wallace for attribution, is the Rev. Donald Shockley, 31, an Alabama native who is chaplain of Methodist-related Birmingham Southern College. "Wallace is religious in the same sense a demagogue," he says. In his view Wallace is akin to Salem's witch-hunters. "I'm beginning to wonder if we don't have a tendency to go witch-hunting in times of great disillusionment," he says, as in the present ferment over Viet Nam, poverty, and

THE COLLEGE STUDENT SPEAKS--ABOUT SPOILING ONE'S OWN ARGUMENT

The caller was calm, but a little indignant.

She was talking to a reporter for a black newspaper, and she had a complaint to make.

"I read your story about the Negro family being harassed after moving into a formerly all-white neighborhood," she said.

"But what about white people whose businesses are wiped out by Negro rioters? Why should your paper be concerned only about black victims of disorder, and not white ones, as well?"

The reporter found the questions reasonable. Although she did not say so, she agreed with the caller that interracial violence is never justified-regardless of its purpose or the race of its perpetrators.

But then the caller went on:

"That's the trouble with you people. You want to have your way all the time, with no regard for the rights of others. You want to move into any neighborhood you choose and mess it up, to your heart's content."

The reporter began to sense the caller's anger and disturbed state. No longer was the call a rational statement about the justifiability of violence. Instead, fear, bitterness, worry, and guilt dominated what she had to say.

Her argument if she still had one—was mixed up with her emotionalism on the race problem. She stopped talking and started ranting.

"We whites aren't gonna stand for you (——) (——) nonsense any more," she continued. "The next one of you who moves into our block is going to have his (—) whipped."

And then, in a trembling voice, she signed off with an obsenity.

While abusive phone calls were nothing new to the reporter, this call bugged her, for she was struck that the woman did, at first, have something to say-but then threw it away by letting racial hatred get the best of her.

She was right, the reporter felt, in her criticism of people who find extenuations and even justifications for Negro violence, but are comparably horrified when it comes to white violence.

And she was correct, the reporter thought, in her implicit notion that there must be one standard for both black and white people—whether in culpability for interracial animosity or anything else.

But then she spoiled her own argument.

And how many of us do that!

Consider some of the oratory so often voiced in the militant civil-rights camp. It correctly recognizes that the white man's slavery and segregation institutions have held the black man down, denied him his rights, and kept him in economic bondage.

But, then, that militant oratory sometimes takes on a bigotry and racism of its own-often outdoing the white man's racism in virulence, if not in practical effect.

Like the white woman who called the Negro paper, the black racist throws his own argument away. And that's a shame, because there is nothing more wasteful than sullying one's cause.

Whatever one promotes—whether it is his personal well-being or his racial dignity—should be upheld with honor and discretion. Any fool can run his mouth. But an intelligent man guards his soul.

the dissolution of order.

The young minister said his greatest fear about George Wallace is that "the man has no sense of humor. He can't laugh at himself or his aims."

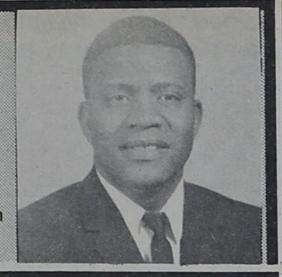

Wallace in his speeches may emphasize lawand-order but don't fool yourself Wallace is not committed to the Christian attitude in the area of human rights.

Cutting

We often hear of a cutting incident, but it has been a rare case when the victim involved is a 15 year old youth and the assailant is only 18 years of age. However, this did happen last Saturday evening.

You see, a 15 year old youth was just coming from a dance at "Soul City" when an 18 year old youth came up and hit him in the face.

It would appear as though the boy had hit him with his fist, but after seeing the knife used, it well assured that he was cut. He suffered a four inch cut on the left side of his cheek. He was taken to the hospital and later released.

The youth who did the cutting was not in custody at this reproter's findings.

Parents, here I go again, but I think it's imperative that you have communications with your children. Know where they are and what type of activities they are involved in. Did you know that this 15 year old youth could have been your own?

House Burglary

Mrs. Odessa Long, 2411 Ash Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone had entered her property at 1022 David Avenue and had removed several items. They included a stove, dresser, bed and boxed springs.

It was learned that entry was gained through an apparent unlocked window. The looter was smart, he used the back door to remove his loot.

House Burglary

Charlie Johnson, 614 Avenue E, reported that an 18 year old man used a chair to break his window in the front door to gain entry to his residence. Because Johnson returned earlier, the subject had not made up his mind as what to take with him.

When he saw Johnson coming, he broke and ran. He was caught.
The damage to the window was $7.50.

House Burglary

Lonnie Hollis, 1801 Beech Avenue, another victim of a looter, reported to the police that someone unknown took items worth $68.83 from his residence while he was away.

Entry was gained by forcing the back door open. It was bolted from the inside.

Aggravated Assult

This type of an incident always makes one think. For example, did it really happen. If so. Why?

You see, a couple in East Lubbock was returning home from town one night last week. When they opened the door to their apartment, according to the husband, a man stepped from behind the door and struck his wife over the head with a blunt instrument. At this point, the husband became shocked and the unknown party left running down the street.

Yes, this actually happened. The lady was taken to a local hospital where she was treated and released.

However, the neighbors began to talk about the incident. According to the police, they admitted that this couple had weekend quarrels and fights regularly. This could have happened. I wonder why they didn't tell the complete story? Well, I know. Do you?

Attempted Murder

Kenneth Watson, 512 18th Street, told police he was sitting in his car minding his own business when two men came up. One of the men pulled a pistol and shot him once in the left arm.

Kenneth admits that he didn't know the men. One thing for certain now, Kenneth — and any other Kenneths — will watch where they sit in their car. This happened at 17th and Avenue C.

These training sessions are designed for workers that come in daily contact or direct contact with the poor of the target areas in which they work, to better acquaint themselves with the problems of the poor. The meeting was a success, in that the ground work was done in many areas so that we can move forward in the next meeting. We saw a lot of friends which we had not seen for some time such as, Len Chew, formerly of Lubbock, Texas, now CAP director at Marfa, Texas, T. J. Volunteers Needed For YWCA Work

Volunteers are badly needed to teach sewing and typing in the Carver Heights Adult Education classes which are part of the program of the Young Women's Christian Association in Lubbock, according to Mrs. R.G. Richards, Executive Director.

These classes began in the winter of 1960 when several older women who had never learned to read or write requested help from a YWCA board member, Mrs. Grover Colvin. Mrs. Colvin, who was a speech therapist for the Lubbock schools, held the early classes in her home. The news of the classes spread, and so many came that there was neither room nor adequate teachers.

The YWCA rented the basement of the Bethel Methodist Church and Mrs. Colvin secured a staff of volunteers in order to fill all the requests for help in reading, writing, arithmetic, sewing, music, typing and driver education.

Since the advent of the Adult Education classes through the Adult Education classes through the Lubbock Public school system classes in the basic courses are no longer offered, but there are still numbers of women who wish to learn typing, sewing or music.

In the fall of 1967 when Mrs. Colvin moved, Mrs. Tony Johnson replaced her as director of the program. Through the cooperation of H.E. Owen, Coordinator for Adult Basic Education and George Scott, Principal of Dunbar High School, the classes were moved to the high school.

Many men and women, in addition to Mrs. Colvin and Mrs. Johnson, have contributed their time and money that others might learn. The Church Women United have given books, paper, and sewing equipment. Hesters Office Machines donated equipment for use when the classes were held in the church basement. The YWCA has provided staff consultation.

Now the program is in need of additional volunteers. The classes meet on Monday nights at 7:30 p.m. at Dunbar High School. They are free and are open to any adult who wishes to learn. Do you have a talent or time you might share? If so, please call the YWCA office, PO 3-0469, or Mrs. Johnson, SH 4-7322. Your time and talent are needed if the needs of women and girls are to be met.

KNOWING WHEN TO REMOVE MEAT FROM THE OVEN IS AS IMPORTANT AS KNOWING THE RIGHT SAUCE TO SERVE WITH IT. BONELESS ROLLED ROASTS COOK MORE SLOWLY THAN LONG SLENDER CUTS OF MEAT, FOR BEST RESULTS ADD ABOUT 10 MINUTES PER POUND TO COOKING TIME OF ROLLED ROASTS. IT'S MUCH EASIER TO CARVE ROASTED MEAT IF YOU ALLOW IT TO "REST" ABOUT 15 MINUTED IN A 170 DEGREE F. TEMPERATURE AFTER COOKING. THE MEAT'S TEXTURE ALSO IS IMPROVED. WHETHER YOU PREFER MEDIUM RARE OR WELL DONE ROASTS THEY CAN BE COOKED TO TASTE CONSISTENTLY IN A GAS OVEN EQUIPPED WITH ROBERTSHAW CONTIROLS COMPANY'S AUTOMATIC MEAT PROBE. YOUR LOCAL GAS APPLIANCE DEALER WILL EXPLAIN THE AUTOMATIC PROBE'S ADVANTAGES.

State Offices will make a brief campaign stop in Lubbock, Friday (Oct. 25) at 1:00 p.m. They are Millard Neptune, candidate for Land Commissioner and E. G. Schuhart, candidate for the office of State Agriculture Commissioner.
