News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig

Written by a group of the best informed newspapermen of Washington and New York. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial policy of this newspaper.

WASHINGTON By RAY TUCKER Unloaded—

Administration economists have finished a private study of the effect of the Senate amendment barring suits for recovery of processing taxes to corporations which passed them on to producers or consumers.

Preliminary figures are confusing. But they indicate that cotton and wheat processors unloaded a large portion of the tax on the farmers or buyers off the finished product. Tobacco processors absorbed most of the tax, which amounted to only 3 cents on a package of cigarettes. Hog packers also made the farmer and consumer pay, but there was a limit for them. When prices got too high people turned to other foods. The demand for pork is more elastic than the demand for such necessities as clothing and bread.

The evidence is most clear on cotton. The price on overalls jumped 41 cents after the tax, although that was only 83 cents. It increased 31 cents on sheets, although the tax was only 86 cents. AAAers are happy at their find, for textile processors were the most vociferous in demanding relief from the processing tax.

Problems—

The government would have a tough time proving its case against the processors, however. Many other factors will be listed by eminent legal counsel as responsible for higher prices—NRA hours and hours, shortage of products resulting from crop control, currency manipulation, etc. In fact, the only people who may profit by the amendment are the lawyers.

Re-Deal—

Re-Tugwell's plan for remaking rural America was one of the New Deal's brightest dreams. A land and a people were to be taught how to live together profitably and abundantly. But for the present it has degenerated into a system of rural and suburban relief.

Vocal—

The administration has adopted the deliberate policy of ignoring its critics. It has refused to supply speakers for several round-table discussions of national affairs. It usually explains that Cabinet members and Senators are too busy.

It has assumed this attitude toward the American Liberty League more severely than toward other organizations. The League, now avowedly anti-Roosevelt, have frequently tried to engage anybody from the President down in a rough-and-tumble. But nary an acceptance do they get.

The League's unceasing attacks have fired resentment, however. Departmental publicists have prepared a list of League members and contributors, giving their corporate affiliations, including those of ex-Chairman Rankin, ex-Candidate Smith and Davis. It makes rich reading. The last computation presented by League members total more than $37,000,000,000 and this money is talking.

Mistake—
A few ubiquitous photographers in the West have caused embarrassment.

Observers Think Serious Results Be Forthcoming

MATIMOROS, Mexico, (AP)—Deadlock between forces contending for a change in city administration continued Friday with federal soldiers and customs authorities watching the situation, which experienced border observers believed was fraught with possibilities of serious disorders.

The chief danger is believed to lay in growing restlessness of more than a thousand Agrarians encamped in the city limits, many armed, and pressing leaders for action in conferences between Agrarians and General Gabriel Cervera, commander of the Federal garrison, and Mayor Rafael Munuera.

Ververa announced he awaited advice from Mexico City regarding future action.

Italo-Ethiopian Controversy To Be Considered

(By Associated Press)
The League of Nations council is expected to meet July 31st to deal with the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia. With a proposed session recognized as unpopular with Italy, authoritative sources in Rome indicated the Mussolini government preferred a revival of the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission.

Addis Ababa dispatches quoted authoritative sources that Ethiopia would refuse to accept a revival of the conciliation commission largely on the grounds the dispute could be placed on a path of conciliation on through delineations of frontiers between Ethiopia and Italian colonies Eritrea and Comaliland, which Italy contends the conciliation commission cannot undertake.

It was understood the British government is sending 100 soldiers to guard the British legation at Addis Ababa.

Pioneers Meet To Renew Old Acquaintances

Three Counties Represented In Cottonwood Park Gathering

Amid a setting tempered with hearty handshakes, gray hairs, tottering steps, and wrinkled grins, old settlers of Howard, Glascock and Dawson counties Friday got together again at Cottonwood Park, east of here.

It was the eleventh annual reunion for Howard county pioneers, but the first time the three counties held a joint session. Although the bulk of old faces belonged to those who came to Howard county as early as the 90's, or even before, not a few were from Dawson and Glascock counties.

Friday's affair was a double reunion for the Miller brothers. For the first time in 80 years, G. Miller, Sparenburg, W. H. Miller, Lorraine, and Adolph Miller, Big Spring, were together. The latter came here in 1884, and his brothers came to this area in 1887. W. H. Miller, his brothers remember, could speak three languages at the age of five years when the boys lived with their family in Bohemian and German settlements in Iowa.

Having as big a time as anyone were Windy Winn, Louie Hutto, Bob Powell and Bud Flannigan, all old cowhands in the early days of the county. Flannigan was one of the well known Slaughter punchers. Charles and Walter Robinson, who confused a cameraman as he sought to identify them, mixed with old neighbors and recalled what first farming outside of the old J. D. Boydston farm east of town was done in 1891 when they settled with their father, C. S. Robinson, two miles north of Coahoma. G. L. Bell told of how they had cotton ginned here the first year that the gin installed by W. M. Dering and associates was operated.

Perhaps the old timer coming the longest distance was J. G. Lindsey of California. W. B. Allen was among the oldest but most active pioneers who got around to see many of his old friends.

A few of those from Lamesa and Dawson county were E. R. Yates, W. V. P. "Bills" Baker, Ross Simpson, Lambert Duke, W. E. McWhorter, R. E. Simpson, Hardy Morgan, G. Miller and Frank Cooksey.

Not a few old settlers kept inquiring of Bill Carpenter and J. Barnett, Long S cowboy, back when that outfit was perhaps the best known ranch in these parts.

These were just a few of the aging group which came to one of the three counties before 1905. They were only a small part of the large crowd which sat in the shade of trees older than they and reminisced, clasped each other on the back, asked about old man Jones' boys, where Tom was now, and a world of other questions in which they were genuinely interested.

Nothing happened during the morning except the renewal of old friendships. At noon the old settlers and their families spread sumptuous picnic lunches. To go with this there was a large supply of beans and bread donated by local merchants.

During the afternoon there were to be several short talks by old timers, an old time fiddling contest. In the evening the settlers were to have a dance. At 8 p. m. the dance was to be opened to the public at large for a nominal script charge.

Among those registered for the reunion and the year they came

NRA Employee Witness In Lobby Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—E. V. Sellers, NRA employee, a surprise witness, told the senate lobby committee Friday Representative Patton carried a small box from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power & Light Company, Sunday before the house vote on the holding company bill.

He said a couple of days later Patton showed him a bond he said he had just bought.

Before Sellers took the stand, Patton voluntarily appeared to deny any wrong doing. The committee questioned him about investments.

He testified he bought four government bonds of $1000 face value each since he came to Washington in January.

Sellers testified the box Patton carried out of the hotel did not seem to be a cigar box, which Patton said it was.

He told of conversations with Patton's nephew, Norris Shook, who accompanied them to the hotel, in which Shook expressed doubt the package was a box of cigars.

Chairman Black obtained statements from Sellers that he went to Carpenter's hotel with Patton and Patton left thirty or forty minutes later with a "light box."

"Taking the stand Patton, nervous and shaken, declared: 'I never heard of the little box Sellers tells about.'"

Others in the office will leave Saturday to take part in the final day functions.

Mrs. W. O. Low has returned from a 4 weeks visit in Denton, Pineland, Houston and Galveston. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Paul O'Donnell and daughter, Patricia, of Denton. Mrs. O'Donnell, formerly Miss Modelle Reyzer, is a sister of Mrs. Low, and his visited in Big Spring several times.

Park Officials To Be Tendered Dinner Saturday

Citizens of Big Spring Saturday evening will make a gesture of appreciation for a governmental expenditure of approximately a quarter of a million dollars when they give a buffet dinner honoring officials of the state park board and national park service.

For this is about what it has cost to maintain the CCC camp and national park service staff here for a twelve month period. For each six months period of camp operations, it has cost the army around $10,000 in salaries for officers, enrollees, for camp supplies, maintenance, etc. National Park Service has not had so great an expenditure, it has put more than $12,500 into buildings and other improvements in addition to a monthly overhead of about $1,560.

The greatest portion of total appropriations for the camp and park service has been expended in Big Spring. Virtually all of supervisory salaries have been spent here, and enrollees are allowed all they make above $25 a month, which they are required to send home. Although against regulations, some of this is returned to be spent here.

Saturday on the first anniversary of the establishment of a camp here, the citizenry will honor park officials, as well as resident officials, with a celebration which is to be climaxed by the buffet dinner from the Settles hotel.

Tickets for the affair are on sale and every person who can be urged to obtain a ticket and attend the dinner. After the informal dinner, a short program of entertainment, including introduction of visiting officials, a harmony trio, composed of Horace Penn, John Vastine, Pete Butts, a violin solo by Miss Evelyn Jackson accompanied by Miss Roberta Gay, short addresses, and speech of the evening by Judge Tom Beauchamp, Texarkana, member of the state park board.

The buffet supper will start at 7:30 p. m. and will last little longer than an hour and a half. Tickets may be obtained at the chamber of commerce office.

During Saturday residents of Big Spring are urged to make an inspection of the camp and park. Open house will be held at the CCC camp with a period of entertainment and refreshments furnished by the army at 3 p. m. A checker will be put on the gate to check the number of cars which go through the park Saturday, the anniversary date.

RODNEY BLISS OF OMAHA got within 10 feet of the home hole in the Western amateur qualifying round, then had to abandon his round.

To the credit of the authorities at Washington, these plans were heard. As a result, Lincoln keeps its postoffice. And the whole thing has a distinctive flavor of rural America which cannot fail to stir the emotions of anyone who has ever lived in a small town.

It would hardly be going too far to say that every American administration for the last century has had to stand or fall, in the long run, on the success or failure of its appeal to these village forums of post-office and general store.

It is there, on drowsy afternoons and long evenings, that local sentiment solidifies; that local issues are canvassed and men's minds made up; in fact, that the public opinion of the nation is put into shape.

It is altogether absurd as homely an institution as any the country possesses. It is also one of the most powerful. It settles the fate of presidents and senators, of tariffs and foreign policies, of swings to the right and swings to the left. No matter who you are or what you are trying to do, sooner or later you have to sell your idea to the crowd in the village postoffice. If you fail, you are doomed.

SAN ANGELO (Sp.)—First round match play of the sixth annual invitation tournament of the San Angelo country club got away to a slow start here Friday morning. Matches were several hours behind schedule.

Total in the Calcutta Pool was a record $1,805. Oble Bristow of Big Spring, who captained the invading Mertz cup team and qualified for the tourney with an 80, bought Ed White of Odessa, national intercollegiate champion and favorite in the Angelo meet, for $425. In partnership, Bristow also got Ransom of Fort Worth for $100, Mary of Angelo for $35, and Jack Speer of Waco, a former state champion for $175.

Chemists Lose To Stationmen

By MARK HART
The Flower Stationmen experienced better luck Thursday evening with the Cosden Chemists than have the other teams of the Mury league and succeeded in downing the Richardson forces, 2-1, but it took them nine innings to turn the trick.

The Howard County Refiners caught the Cosden Oilers in a vicious mood in the evening's second game and fell before an 18 base hit attack, 10-3.

The Operators were limited to seven hits by Horace Wallin but bunched these in the second and ninth innings to score both their runs.

Grovelle Malone had the Chemists swinging at his fast ball, setting the Labmen down to two scattered hits. A bingle by Rex Edwards in the fifth resulted in the Chemists' only run. Edwards led off with a lick into the outfield, went around on an infield roller, and romped home to send the game into extra innings on a fly to right field.

The Oilers broke loose in the first inning of the second game and punished Roy Lee throughout the game with their assortment of base hits.

The Henninger forces were never put down in order and succeeded in scoring in every inning except the sixth.

They batted completely around in the fifth, scoring ten runs on seven base hits, two free passes and a pair of errors.

Diddle Young, who collected a hit in each of his four appearances at the plate, came up twice during the barrage, hit safely both times and succeeded in recording a run each time.

Fred Simmons was stinky with his base hits, allowing only six through the seven innings.

"Hot Shot" Moore was the only Refiner to solve Simmons's delivery, connecting safely twice in three tries.

All of the Cosdenites joined in the best hit attack except Simmons, and even the Oiler fielder counted a run. Whitt, Edwards and Martin recorded nearly half of the Oilers' runs, each marking up three.

golfers en route to his title. Charles C. Pettijohn, Jr. was his first victim, and he won that one, too, with a late rush after being two down with five to play. George Voigt, former Walker cup star, T. Suffern Tallier, millionaire dilettante linksman, and Willie Turnesa of the many golfing Turnesas were in between Pettijohn and Creavy on the Billows budget.

Ed Chapman, Manhattan lawyer who was paired with Billows in the qualifying round and told the kid at the outset that he was a cinch to win the tournament, was Ray's sponsor and godfather—and mascot. He responded to Ray's urgent S.O.S. to join the gallery on the final four holes and his presence, the winner swore, was the straw that finally tipped the scales his way.

The president of that printing company caught an airplane to come on from Racine to watch his $17-a-week billing clerk play that final round!

The Crow Was Ticked
When Ray squared that final match with a par foru on the 35th hole the fans went rushing for the bill green, grinning broadly and patting total strangers on the back, the way a crowd does when it's tickled.

"Changing Country Life" General Theme At Texas A.&M. Short Course

26th Annual Meeting July 29-Aug. 2

COLLEGE STATION—Every phase of the program of the twenty-sixth annual Farmers Short course to be held at Texas A&M college July 29-Aug. 2, will relate to the general theme, "The Changing Country Life," stressing the adjustment of rural life to changing conditions. The work of the AAA through its adjustment programs will be discussed as well as the Federal Housing Administration's program in its encouragement of building and improvement, the regular Extension Service program in home improvement, horticulture, livestock, farm crops, poultry, dairying, and agricultural engineering.

Roy W. Snyder, chairman of the short course committee, has announced that many problems of agricultural operations from house to field will be included in the program. Because of AAA discussions that have taken place over the country, the committee has planned for group discussions on each commodity.

In addition to the regular short course programs planned by the committee special conferences will be held by the following organizations: Texas Home Demonstration Association, Texas Bee Keepers Association, Rural Pastors and Laymen's conference, county school superintendents and supervisors conference, Texas Agricultural Writers conference, Agricultural Workers association, Institute for Cooperatives.

Entertainment during the evening will include the civic circus of home talent from Gainesville, a humorist, a program honoring Gold Star boys and girls, and band concerts.

Scanning New Books

By JOHN SELBY If Vance Randolph lived in France he would be known by the natives as an "original." Mr. Randolph is a Kansan, however, and when he felt the need of immuring himself for quiet work, he went to an Ozark "holer" near Pineville, Mo.

He has written four books about the Ozarks. Before he wrote these he had peddled tinware, taught school, tramped the whole country, graduated from Clark university, written a number of Haldeman-Julius' little blue books, and learned to understand and appreciate the Ozark mountain people.

Now Mr. Randolph has written a novel called "Hedwig" (Vanguard). It is the story of a German immigrant girl's life in the middle-west, told by herself, in dialect. It is a simple story of a simple soul. Trouble, in the person of a husband and numerous other men, besets Hedwig. She almost goes blind, she is ill from other causes, she is sometimes hungry and never with money for long.

But she has the peasant soul. She is close to life and the earth, and not so intelligent that she transforms the slams of fate into neuroses. Her philosophy is simply that although things are bad, they might be worse. She sticks to it, and because she really believes it, she is never betrayed by it.

Parts of "Hedwig" are not easy to read. But the book takes hold of one.

Thumbnail Reviews "Bright Destination," by Darwin Teilhet (Doubleday, Doran): a charming, mad, and almost invariably amusing story about a young man on the trail of an erring wife determined to marry a French count; the young man mixes up with a French circus, with engaging and cockeyed results.

"The Big Town," by O. O. McIntyre (Dodd, Mead): one of the best known "men about New York" selects 51 of his favorite columns for perpetuation in book form; some delightful lines.

"A London Story," by George Buchanan (Dutton): English attempt to express young people to-day through the contrasting characters and experience of two brothers, one a "collar ad," the other introspective and serious; the denouement is expected, but logical.

Young Love "Angel Making Music," by Ferenc Molnar (Smith & Haas): a delightful story of young love in Venice, handled with the traditional Molnar tenderness; the ending is bitter-sweet.

"The Wolf at the Door," by Robert Francis (Houghton Mifflin): an important novel by a Frenchman new to America; the story of three peasant girls of Northern France, their family, their friends, and their careers, all brought to life with astonishing truth.

"Black Reconstruction," by W. E. Burghardt du Bois (Harcourt, Brace): a well known Negro's effort to correct the accepted historical version of reconstruction days after the War between the States; a serious, documented, intelligent book.

"Forever Wandering," by Ethel Mannin (Dutton): Miss Mannin makes the "grand tour," and tells what she sees with all the frankness she can muster; a pleasant if not striking book.

TIME TABLE AIDS IN COOKING MEATS

A cooking table cannot be entirely dependable, because each one's stove behaves a little differently from the next. But for the young housewife who wants a general idea of a cooking time table here are some regarding the time it takes for roasting meats.

If beef ribs are to be roasted so that they are to be rare, allow about 10 minutes per pound of meat. Begin with a very hot oven, reducing it after 20 minutes or so. If the beef ribs are to be well done, about 15 or 20 minutes per pound, following the same system as with rare beef above.

A leg of mutton well done requires about 15 minutes per pound. A leg of lamb or shoulder of lamb requires from 15 to 20 minutes per pound.

Chicken requires 15 minutes per pound and turkey between 15 and 20. For chicken, lamb, turkey the oven should be hotter at first than after the meat has cooked for 20 minutes or so, but it should be slightly less hot even at the start than when beef is to be cooked.

To Use Small Potatoes Little potatoes that seem almost useless can be used. Wash them thoroughly, boil with the skins on and put through the ricer. The potatoes will emerge fluffy and fine while the skins obligingly stay behind.

A Meringue Secret Meringue falls when the oven is too hot. The secret of success with meringues is a very moderate oven—less than hot.

HOW TO WASH WOOLENS Woolens should be washed in luke-warm water without much rubbing or wringing. Rinse them well always in water of the same temperature.

When sponging woolens put them flat on the table and then place a wet sheet over the piece on which you are working. Have the sheet wrung out so the water will not drip. Then roll material and sheet together from one end and let them remain that way for the better part of a day. After this press on the wrong side with a moderate iron for scorching is a danger to be avoided by using mild heat.

HINTS ON STAINS: For grass stains use cold water, soap and cold water, or alcohol. For black coffee and tea stains use boiling water, bleaching if necessary.

For creamy kinds of stains use cold water and then boiling water. For grease and oil stains use French chalk and blotting paper. For iodine stains use warm water and soap, alcohol or ammonia.

For ink stains, try cold water, and then use acid or a bleaching substance.

Menus Of The Day

WINNING OVER HEAT
The wise housekeeper finds that careful planning and shopping are the secrets for keeping her family and herself comfortable during the hot weather. She uses the oven twice weekly for preparing foods to be used the remainder of week. Cakes, cookies, pies, breads, meat and fish loaves, roasts and baked beans can be baked and stored carefully for future use.

Even canning and preserving can be done in the oven and it requires little attention, merely an occasional stirring.
The daily food preparations should take place early in the morning and selections should be those foods easily digested and "cooling." One hot food a meal is advised even for warm weather but this food can consist of soup, stew, vegetables or hot beverage.
The ideal summer desserts consist of fresh fruits, berries or melons and these are easily prepared. Of course frozen foods win favor too and they can be quickly made from chilled fruit juices stored in refrigerator.
Canned fruits, vegetables, meats, fish and soups are labor savers and should be used extensively.

Chapter 16 GLADYS ARRIVES

The arrival of her sister Gladys was a relief as well as a joy to Laurie.

She found herself incomprehensibly anxious for Rex Moore's safety.

In her two years' work at Albery's she had heard so much more than the general public of accidents, minor and major. She had been stupid from surprise when she asked him whether his flight over Central Africa to search for the missing airmen was dangerous. She knew it was. All long-distance flights were dangerous.

But she could not understand why she felt as she did. She reasoned with herself. He was nothing to her, no more than any other airman doing his job. He had gone out of his way to be horrid to her.

parently simple, not so childishly gay. She was always restless, eagerly excited, as if she were expecting something. Dashing to the door when the postman came, to the telephone when it rang.

Besides, she seemed to have "shut herself up", as Laurie called it. She did not talk all the time about her dancing, and the other girls, and "old Carstairs," the manager of the troupe.

But how lovely she was! It was the Saturday after her arrival when the doubt first came into Laurie's mind, when she had met her sister for lunch in a little cheap foreign restaurant in Soho.

How she sat, smiling her indescribable baby smile, as if knowing that everybody was looking at her. In that thin navy-blue silk two-piece, with the ivory scarf, and the tiny navy knitted silk cap on her glorious loose curls, sheer sunroom, and saw a glittering object at the bottom of the wardrobe. It was a gold cigarette case. A very expensive looking one, obviously real. Glad's initials were engraved on it.

Laurie frowned, and a pang of dismay shot through her. It was a beautiful thing, as simple and costly as the handbag Mr. Albery had given at Easter.

But this was quite a different matter. She herself was only an ordinary girl whom nobody would look at twice. And Mr. Albery had been pleased with her work, and it was because he thought so much of Rex Moore that he was so kind to her.

But Glad, who drew all men's eyes with her beauty, who was so young, who naturally loved pretty costly things... Laurie could hardly contain herself all day until she got back to the flat.

But Glad was not there. She did not come back to dinner, not until ten o'clock. Laurie saw awful visions, lived through an age of fear, and was so keyed up as to be hysterical when the girl did appear, as fresh and slender as a young peach tree, greeting her sister with her enchanting smile.

"Sorry I'm late! I've had a great time. Nelly's brother took us to the pictures. I've had my food."

"Who gave you that gold cigarette case?" interrupted Laurie, speaking sharply in her anxiety. "I found it lying in your wardrobe. It must have cost pounds and pounds."

"I don't see what it's got to do with you, old girl," retorted Gladys hurriedly. "I suppose it dropped out of a pocket. I don't carry it about. Makes me look too rich."

"Don't be silly, Glad! You must know you can't take presents like that from men."

"How do you know a man gave it to me? Good Lord, I'm not a baby! I earn my own living."

But Laurie was not to be put off. "Please tell me, Glad! If you've got a friend, you surely don't want to keep it from me?"

"Oh, all right, Inquisitive!" laughed the girl, and her face was all gay and sparkling again. When she frowned and her mouth closed in a downward line, she could look quite sullen. It was no easy disposition to deal with. "He's a very nice boy, very posh, and with pots of money."

"Have you seen much of him?"

"A bit—in Liverpool. He came to the show lots of times."

"And he takes you out?"

Glad nodded.

"Did he give you that sapphire pin, too?"

"Yes. What of it? It's nothing to him."

"What's his name?"

"Jimmy Smith. Any objection?"

Gladys turns the tables on Laurie, tomorrow.

THE WORM

"Who gave you that cigarette case?" demanded Laurie.

He was just making use of her for as long as it suited him. Why should she worry about him?

In a few days, however, she found something more definite to worry about.

It began when the first excitement of having Glad with her had worn off: of waiting on her, of ordering her favorite meals, of showing her off to the admiring Mrs. Budd. Then, she began to notice a change in the girl.

It was what she had seen in Liverpool at Easter, only more definite. Glad seemed older, not so trans-

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene may come out of the west a candidate in the governor's race of 1936, persistent reports which reach the Texas capitol corridors hint.

The entire outlook of the governor's race will be shaped by Gov. Allred's decision to seek or against asking a second term.

It did not appear at Austin that he is prompting the feelers or preliminary discussions of his name for the chief executive office; but rather that one or several influential friends have been trying out the idea.

The smiles of world-renowned men of war and of politics, and the smiles of Texas friends beam down on Chm. Ernest O. Thompson from photographs upon the walls of his office in the Texas capitol.

One of the groups includes autographed pictures of Gen. Pershing and generals and admirals of France, England, and Italy.

A fine photograph of Pres. Roosevelt, bearing a cordial personal message to Thompson in the president's handwriting, is on Thompson's desk.

Thompson has pictures of Gov. Allred and the governor's son, of Gov. Neff and others and of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and James E. Ferguson with him when an oil-control bill was signed.

Another group includes Will Rogers and Col. Thompson, and pictures of Sen. Ben G. O Neal, Capt. E. N. Stanley, Federal Judge Randolph Bryant, Robert Lee Bobbitt, Sen. Gordon M. Burns, an ink sketch of Paul Wakefield; Beau-fort Jeeter, Jack Blalock, Tom Pollard, Elbert Hooper, Palmer Bradley, Leslie McKay, George Hill, Charles I. Francis, Raymond Buck, Dean Ira Hildebrand, H. A. King, and his graduating law class, and fellow officers of the 344th machine gun battalion at Camp Travis.

One group includes members of the interstate commerce commission and the Texas railroad commission.

mission in a joint rate hearing. Former Sen. T. H. McGrager chuckles when he recalls the temporary discomfiture he caused a Williamsburg county house member when he was in the senate.

The rural resettlement administration, just now taking shape, and certainly the most important of all the complex governmental activities now listed as rehabilitation, relief and recovery.

Rep. Harvey O. Jones of Runnels in accepting appointment as postmaster of his home city, Winters, will have created a vacancy in the legislature to be filled at a special election Aug. 24, date of the constitutional amendment election.

Floods destroyed 4000 acres of cotton on Texas prison farms, but Prison Mgr. Lee Simmons reported here that the rest of the cotton is in such fine condition that the total crop will run close to normal years.

The State of Texas has approximately 13,900 employees. This is limited to those actually working for the state as a whole, and not officials or employees of counties, districts or cities.

The state's payroll runs approximately one-half the number of people that it also supports on relief. Assuming the state's share of direct relief is one-third, with 65,000 relief cases, the state would be caring for about 22,000. The relief load in the past has been very much higher, and the relief cases have dependents, but 65,000 will be shifted from relief to employment in federal projects.

The big "state family" of officials and employees is made up, approximately, of the following: University and colleges, 2400; institutions, 1600; department, 400; prison system, 400; highway department, 6000; courts, district judges, district attorneys and district clerks, 1000.

Of these, the highway department is by far the largest single unit, and has about 40 per cent of the total. A few hundred officials and employees are in the state highway department and in the division headquarters. By far the greater part of the list is made up of those employed directly by the department in the work carried on by it and not under contract. The maintenance program is the biggest factor of this payroll. It does ordinary maintenance and force-account construction work.

More persons are employed by contractors to work on road construction under contract with the state than the entire state's employed personnel.

State salaries run all the way from $866 down to about $40 a month. They will average out for the total, close to $100 per month; since the prevailing wages are paid for skilled, semi-skilled and ordinary labor on the work projects; and the bulk of regular salary items run from $100 to $300 per month, per person.

BOND OIL WINS THREE STRAIGHT

The Bond Oil company, with Stanley Wheeler in the leader's role, took all three games Thursday evening in a city league bowling match at the Big Spring Bowling club.

Wheeler, coming through with a score of 192 in his last game, ran his total to 513 for the evening, which was 56 points better than J. C. Douglas, mark.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Events in several parts of the world have raised in acute form the question of what a nation like the United States is to do in defense of its ideals and intangible interests abroad.

Though it cannot be shown that any important moral interest jeopardized, the feeling exists that somehow or other the United States ought to be able to exercise some moral authority in defense of elementary human rights and of the sanctity of treaties.

The simplest of these questions is that presented by the demand that the government give moral support to the Kellogg Pact by condemning Italian policy in Ethiopia.

An official denunciation of Italy would rest, therefore on no firmer basis than that American officials in Washington, after reading the newspapers and the reports of their diplomats abroad, had set themselves up as judges of Italian policy.

This may be unfortunate. But the misfortune is in the pact itself which is merely a pious resolution that each signatory is to abstain from war. It must not be confused with genuine treaties like the Washington treaties concerning naval arms and China or with the Covenant of the League.

The State of Texas has approximately 13,900 employees. This is limited to those actually working for the state as a whole, and not officials or employees of counties, districts or cities.

The state's payroll runs approximately one-half the number of people that it also supports on relief. Assuming the state's share of direct relief is one-third, with 65,000 relief cases, the state would be caring for about 22,000. The relief load in the past has been very much higher, and the relief cases have dependents, but 65,000 will be shifted from relief to employment in federal projects.

The big "state family" of officials and employees is made up, approximately, of the following: University and colleges, 2400; institutions, 1600; department, 400; prison system, 400; highway department, 6000; courts, district judges, district attorneys and district clerks, 1000.

Of these, the highway department is by far the largest single unit, and has about 40 per cent of the total. A few hundred officials and employees are in the state highway department and in the division headquarters. By far the greater part of the list is made up of those employed directly by the department in the work carried on by it and not under contract. The maintenance program is the biggest factor of this payroll. It does ordinary maintenance and force-account construction work.

More persons are employed by contractors to work on road construction under contract with the state than the entire state's employed personnel.

State salaries run all the way from $866 down to about $40 a month. They will average out for the total, close to $100 per month; since the prevailing wages are paid for skilled, semi-skilled and ordinary labor on the work projects; and the bulk of regular salary items run from $100 to $300 per month, per person.

BOND OIL WINS THREE STRAIGHT

The Bond Oil company, with Stanley Wheeler in the leader's role, took all three games Thursday evening in a city league bowling match at the Big Spring Bowling club.

Wheeler, coming through with a score of 192 in his last game, ran his total to 513 for the evening, which was 56 points better than J. C. Douglas, mark.

today the only question involved in official protest is whether it does good or harm. The most seasoned observers think that in the present state of nationalist feeling, the chief effect of official protest of any kind from abroad is to undermine fatally the position of the liberal opposition in the persecuting countries. The very fact that they are liberal at all makes them suspect to the dominant mob, and when foreign governments support their position, they are weakened.

Unofficial protest, if it is made with dignity and restraint, is a different thing. It is not likely to be effective immediately. The censorship are too impenetrable for that. But it is important, none the less, in order to prevent the moral outlook of the free-nations from becoming insensitive to evil and confused about what is fundamentally right and wrong in human relations.

In the last analysis, however, the defense of civilized ideals today must depend, not on protests, but on far-sighted policy. For those nations which are threatened with aggressive violence, the only defense is diplomatic combination backed by military force and a willingness, when deeply challenged, to use it.

For the other nations, of which the United States is the most conspicuous, the only lasting and effective contribution they can make is to help lead the world back to prosperity. After all, the violence and intolerance in the world today are the unmistakable consequences of an intolerable and violent pressure on the afflicted peoples.

A free civilization is one in which the mass of people can live without destroying their neighbors to make room for themselves. It is only in a reasonably prosperous world that freedom and reason will again flourish.

Gene Stratton-Porter's famous novel, "Keeper of the Bees," came to the screen of the Ritz Theatre today with Neil Hamilton and Betty Furness in the featured roles. Laid against the colorful background of a seacoast California community, the new Monogram film is a faithful transcription of the Porter novel, and was adapted from the novel which has sold more than 1,500,000 copies since its initial publication and is estimated to have been read by nearly 20 million people. Mrs. Porter is probably the most famous of American novelists, and has more best-sellers to her credit than any other American writer.

The current presentation marks the second time that this gripping novel has been brought to the screen. The silent version, produced many years ago, was one of the pictures which lifted Clara Bow to stardom. All of the flavor of the Porter original has been preserved and the Monogram production officials had the assistance, throughout the making of the picture, of Mrs. Jeannette Porter Meehan, only daughter of the famous novelist.

CENTER POINT — Preparations are being made for the annual summer revival at the Methodist church here. The meeting will be held from August 25th to September 8. The preaching will be done by Rev. Jim Sharpe, pastor of the First Methodist church of Stanton. Sharpe has been unusually successful in revival labors over West Texas.

C. S. Harrington has been appointed superintendent of the Center Point Methodist Sunday School, succeeding John A. Davis, resigned. The appointment will be confirmed in an election at the fourth quarterly conference of the circuit to be held at Vincent in October. He takes charge next Sunday.

Rev. Hamilton Wright, pastor, left this week for White Pass, to conduct a two weeks' revival meeting for Rev. Jesse Young. On August 11 he will begin a two weeks' meeting at Newlin, in the Panhandle, for Rev. Charles W. Young, well known former West Texas evangelist, but now in the pastorate.

ment for a score of junketing statesmen and leaders who let them quit their Congressional posts in the midst of a session.
Only a few sympathetic colleagues knew they had sneaked off. Certainly their constituents did not—they never do. But recently there appeared in the Sunday rotogravures a picture of the vagabonds sailing beneath Boulder Dam. Clad in white suits and sashes, they were obviously not worrying over work or heat at Washington.
Inquiry discloses that they are members of the Naval Affairs Committee and naval sub-committee of

Snooty—

Senate Democrats are growing careless with respect to the little things that count in depression-time politics. And they're fooling themselves if they think that the Republicans are not keeping an eye on these peccadilloes.
In the past the Democrats prided themselves on their simple living. They boasted that they were "old-fashioned Jeffersonians." If they belonged to exclusive clubs they concealed the fact by keeping any mention out of the Congressional Directory. But they never failed to write down that they were born on a farm. Republicans were baptized with silver spoons in their mouths.

Nowadays the New Dealers are stepping out. Most publicized hot-dogging in their week-ending at the exclusive Jefferson Island Club in Chesapeake Bay. Dues and expenses are higher than a $10,000 Senator can afford if Republican scouts can be believed. Such adjectives as "snooty" have crept into cloakroom discussions of these week-enders. Sounds trivial, even petty, but that's politics.

Notes—

Many useful pieces of legislation are crowded aside and must wait till next year—such as safety on steamships. . . . The Federal Housing Administration puts all its officials through school. . . . National Archives is tackling the job of sorting 2,500,000 documents—and that's only the first batch. . . . The foldup of NRA gives the Department of Commerce needed room in its own building. . . . The match industry is afraid Russia will begin dumping matches into this country by the shipload.

NEW YORK
By JAMES McMULLIN
Firm—
Uncle Sam is going to help a lot of people solve their investment problems if a plan now in preparation comes through. They will be able to get a 5% return and at the same time have the safety of their principal guaranteed by the U. S. Treasury. This sounds like more mysterious New Deal magic—but the explanation is simple.

The idea is to create trusts which will enable investors to purchase mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration direct from their banks. The mortgage will pay altogether about 6 1/4%—of which 5% goes to the mortgagee, one-half of 1% to the bank as a service fee and the balance for insurance. That sounds like an awfully high rate to pay in these days of cheap money but don't forget that the mortgage can borrow up to 80% of the appraised value of his property and can amortize the loan over a 20-year period. Administration officials figure they will find these advantages well worth the extra cost. New York real estate circles are confident the plan will go over big.

The protection referred to would consist of an agreement by the treasury to pay off bondholders in government guaranteed 3% bonds in the event of default. The proposed arrangement is one of those rare ones which appears to satisfy all concerned. If it pans out at all the mortgage market will once again rest on a firm foundation.

Boost—

Informal sources understand that the long-awaited and much-advised move to help the railroad, renovate their equipment is also about ready to serve.
The system contemplated would involve government purchase of rail equipment with its own funds. Then the railroads in turn would be permitted to lease the equipment at a cost of 5%.

Streamlined trains will be included. It looks like a busy and prosperous season ahead for rail equipment manufacturers and for heavy industry in general. Work-relief funds will be allotted for the purpose. The development of streamliners may be featured in a publicity campaign to capture public interest and forestall criticism of spending relief money "at the top."

Antique—

Conservative leaders have what seems to them a swell idea for throwing this horse-and-buggy stuff back in FDR's teeth.
They figure his refusal to accept the excess profits tax as a substitute for his graduated corporation income tax mean only one thing—the destruction of bigness as such ranges ahead of any question of revenue.

On that basis they insist the president must want to revert to pre-telephone days—which is further back than the Dobbin era. Large corporations were impossible until the phone made free and immediate communication possible. This argument is being developed in a form which it is hoped will intrigue the public. It looks as if New Dealers and their opponents will soon be staging a contest, the supporters of each side striving to prove that they are modern and their rivals antique.

Expert—

The National Industrial Conference board got plenty of valuable news space for its report that the administration's tax program was an unfair method of achieving social ends.
Naturally financial New York agree in principle but several shrewd observers are moved to wonder how came the conference board qualifies as an authority on tax matters. The board knows its statistics all right but has never indicated that it pays any attention to the human equation. Tax questions are as much a matter of politics as of economics and any appraisal of a tax plan which ignores the element of national psychology is bound to be a bit top-sided.

The conference board decidedly represents the employer viewpoint. Dr. Virgil Jordan—its head—is a staunch foe of the New Deal. Critics can't see how an organization whose background must obviously be special pleading can expect to have its views accepted as those of an impartial expert.

Oversight—

People who have contributed for years to private pension funds maintained by their employers need not worry too much about what will happen to them if the social security bill is enacted without the protection of the Clark amendment for private pensions.
At worst, they are bound to get the cash surrender value of the insurance on which they have been paying premiums. While the public pension plan will not be as generous to its beneficiaries as private pension plans usually are, the amount received from the government plus the accumulated nest-egg from contributions already made should leave prospective pensioners about as well off as they were before. The point should be emphasized that the premiums they have paid for their own protection must be paid back to them—and cannot be paid to the government, the employer or anyone else.

Losing—

Huey Long's bolt is shot so far as Wall Street is concerned.
A couple of months ago a number of conservatives regarded the Kingfish as the best available lightning-rod to draw off large sections of Mr. Roosevelt's left-wing supporters. There was much talk that "At least you know where you stand with Huey."

But that's all over now. The senator is now rated a losing horse and Wall Street has a loser for a loser.

Loophole—

The city of New Jersey and the state of New Jersey really ought to get together about this sales tax. Many Jerseyites do their shopping in New York. They pay no New York tax because the things they buy are delivered out of town.
But the point is that they aren't taxed in New Jersey either—because New Jersey has no possible method of checking up on the purchases its citizens make elsewhere.
