Balkans Fear Germans Will Soon Begin March To East

By The Associated Press

Fleets of German transport planes, identified as the type used to drop Nazi parachute troops in the 1940 blitzkrieg on the western front, were reported flashing southward across Hungary today in an apparent sequel to Britain's rupture of diplomatic relations with Rumania.

The planes were reported speeding in the direction of Rumania and Bulgaria. Balkan capitals nervously speculated that Adolf Hitler might be starting a thrust into Bulgaria for an invasion of Greece or Turkey.

Informed diplomatic sources in London said Britain is expected to break diplomatic relations with Bulgaria if German troops in uniform are admitted into that country.

Dispatches from Budapest said 31 of the giant tri-motor planes flew over the Hungarian capital alone, swooping so low their markings were plainly visible.

There was no immediate explanation of the hurried reinforcement of Germany's armies massed in the Balkans, already estimated to number in the hundreds of thousands.

Military and political observers in Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, declared, that events were moving rapidly toward a climax in south-east Europe.

The crisis was accelerated, these observers said, by reports that Soviet Russia had notified Bulgaria she would not oppose a German march through Bulgaria toward Greece, Turkey and the Balcans.

As a result of swift-breaking developments in the past 24 hours, diplomatic circles in Belgrade foresee two major possibilities:

1. That Hitler would serve an ultimatum on Bulgaria, demanding passage of German troops; or that Nazi columns now massed on the Rumanian frontier would simply begin moving across the Danube.

2. That Britain would declare war on Nazi-dominated Rumania and bomb the kingdom's rich oil fields, a vital source of Germany's fuel supplies.

Elsewhere, the war boiled toward the phase of "greater violence" forecast two days ago by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

British warships shelled the Flanders "invasion coast" in the night, the German high command reported, but were driven off by Nazi coastal batteries.

RAF bombers pounded the big German oil and rail center of Hanover for six hours, setting fires "too numerous to count," the London air ministry announced, and also attacked docks at Rotterdam, the Boulogne harbor, Cherbourg, Ostend, two air-dromes in Holland and other targets in northwest Germany.

Aside from the tense Balkan situation, diplomatic attention centered on an impending conference in Italy between Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain's leader, and Swiss reports said, Premier Mussolini.

Officials sources in Rome and Madrid were silent, but diplomatic dispatches to neutral Switzerland said the conference would be Mussolini's "supreme effort" to draw Spain into the war as an axis ally.

France and Ramon Serrano Suner, his foreign minister and brother-in-law, were expected to cross into France today, en route to the little Riviera town of Ventimiglia, the reported scene of the conference.

ISTANBUL, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Turkish official newspaper Otral Politika said today that German troops were arriving steadily in Bulgaria, their officers declaring: "Our goal is the Bosphorus and Mediterranean."

The newspapers attributed its reports to a Turk long resident in Bulgaria.

"German soldiers wearing civilian overcoats were taken from Dobruja and the Bulgarian Black Sea port of Varna to the interior of Bulgaria in trucks," the article said. "About 20 truck loads of these soldiers have been passing through a village of Dobruja."

Willkie Speaks For Aid Bill

Approval Of Bill Voiced By LaGuardia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City told the senate foreign relations committee today that "complete plans" for joint defense of the United States and Canada were now in existence.

LaGuardia, chairman of a joint commission created to coordinate defense plans of United States and Canada, made the statement in response to an inquiry by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich).

The plans, he said, embraced tactics, questions of territory and coordination of forces and were based on the assumption that equipment and personnel would be available to carry them out.

Adding his indorsement of the British aid bill to that of President James E. Conant of Harvard university, LaGuardia declared that the measure was "part of the national defense program" of the United States.

The issue in the European war, Dr. Conant testified before the senate foreign relations committee, is "the free way of life, opposed to a totalitarian way of life."

Senator Reynolds (D-N.C.) asked Conant how long American soldiers should fight if ever they were sent abroad and Conant replied: "I would like to see the axis powers made so innocuous that they could not continue to threaten us as they are threatening us now."

The Harvard president had argued in behalf of the British aid bill that "more terrible" than involving this country in war would be the responsibility for silently accepting "policies which might lead to the wiping out of this continent of the free way of life."

He described the present war as more "religious" than "imperialistic" and asked his hearers to imagine the position of this country in a world dominated by the German dictatorship.

"If the enemy is as I believe," he said, "is there any escape from the conclusion that our best hope for the free way of life rests in the defeat of the axis powers?"

Indorsing the administration bill, Dr. Conant said that as a citizen

MEMENTO FROM GUINEA FOR WILLKIE—Wendell L. Willkie unsheds a sword, made by the natives of Portuguese Guinea and presented to him by the governor, after he arrived back in New York from an 18-day tour of Great Britain.

GOP Leader Again Wants Modification

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Urging passage of the British aid bill "with modifications," Wendell L. Willkie proposed to the senate foreign relations committee today that the United States should furnish Great Britain with five to 10 destroyers a month.

The 1940 republican presidential nominee, appearing in the senate's big marble-walled caucus room where packed hundreds had waited for hours to hear him, declared in a prepared statement that Britain needs both "immediate" and "long term" assistance.

Willkie returned to this country Sunday from a flying tour of the British Isles.

As an example of "immediate aid," he told the committee that "if we are to aid Britain effectively, we should provide her with from five to ten destroyers a month."

"We should be able to do this directly and swiftly rather than through the rigamarole of dubious legislative interpretations."

"Incidentally, if we are to make more destroyers available to Britain we should reconduct them in this country in our own yards."

As for modifications, Willkie said it would be "wise" to limit the proposed aid to the British commonwealth, China and Greece.

Willkie told the committee that in discussing the legislation "we must not hide important facts and we must have the courage to draw the proper inferences from the facts—democracy cannot live by dodging around corners."

Willkie said he believed a policy of "isolation" eventually would destroy civil liberties in the United States and would bring economic upheaval.

The witness, last to be heard by the committee, declared that Britain would require some time, even with American planes to attain superiority in the air.

"To render ineffective aid would be disastrous," he continued. "Ineffective aid would give Hitler just as good a pretext against us as effective aid."

"But if our aid is ineffective Britain may go down."

Willkie expressed approval of provisions made in the house to set a time limit on the powers granted the president in the British aid bill and authorizing congress to terminate the program by a majority vote of both houses.

A study of the bill's provisions, he said, had forced upon him the conclusion that "the only way to render aid quickly enough is to pass this bill with modifications."

Senate Votes For Exchange Of Students

AUSTIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—In a friendly hands-across-the border gesture, the Texas senate today approved, 24 to 4, a bill authorizing a total of 100 students from other Pan-American nations to attend state-supported colleges tuition free.

The bill, by Senators Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo and Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, now goes to the house.

Two years ago Governor W. Lee O'Daniel vetoed a similar measure on grounds it would possibly discriminate against deserving Texans.

Metcalfe said he did not anticipate another veto in view of an international situation which dictates friendlier relations between the Americas.

The bill permits five students from each nation—they must be native-born—to attend a state operated college or university. Governing boards of the schools would determine the method of selection.

State Auditor Questioned In Texas Senate

AUSTIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—State Auditor Tom C. King informed the senate today he had no intention of alleging overt acts in a report on which Governor W. Lee O'Daniel based recommendations for sweeping changes in state government.

Appearing before the senate as a committee of the whole to answer questions about the report on fiscal operations and governmental control, King said his complaints were against what had not been done rather than what had been done.

The governor's initial message to the legislature alleged usurpation of power by independent boards and commissions which he labeled a "fourth division" of government invested with power and no responsibility. He quoted freely from King's report.

King prefaced his testimony, taken under oath, with an explanation that his comments contained no direct statement of misconduct or abuse of power.

"What I attempted to do was show the lack of fiscal organization which has grown over a long period of years," he added. "No one person is at fault."

Defense Body Seeks To End Arms Strike

By The Associated Press

The defense commission brought its influence to bear today in an effort to end the three-week-old Allis-Chalmers strike which has tied up production on $40,000,000 worth of arms orders.

Commission members planned a conference with representatives of the Allis-Chalmers management and of the CIO United Automobile Workers, which called the strike at the Milwaukee plant. The CIO sees a union shop and other concessions.

The work stoppage has affected machinery needed for naval vessels, and for the army's gunpowder production program. Management officials talked to Secretary of the Navy Knox yesterday and reported some "helpful suggestions" had been made for removal of finished and partly finished orders from the picketed plant.

LINCOLN LEFT SPRINGFIELD FOR CAPITAL 80 YEARS AGO TODAY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP)—Abraham Lincoln, whose 132nd birthday anniversary will be celebrated tomorrow, departed from Springfield 80 years ago today on his journey to Washington to assume the presidency.

The following account of Lincoln's departure was found today by Paul M. Angle, state historical librarian, in the journal of Henry C. Latham, a state employe at the time. He wrote: "Unpleasant cloudy rainy day. Mr. Lincoln and suite left enroute for Washington, x x Great crowd at the depot to see the hero of the nation. Mr. Lincoln made a very beautiful little speech to his old friends, bade them adieu, desired them to pray for him to that God who controls the destinies of us all; and at eight o'clock, amid the cheers of the multitude, the train moved off taking our fellow citizen and president-elect to the field of his future labors as the head of 35,000,000 people."

"The scene at the time of departure was truly impressive: A great man affected to tears and those he loved lingering to catch his parting words—an audible goodbye, and God speed followed him, and the train disappeared."

Franco, Suner Enter France

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 11 (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain's leader, is expected to cross into France today, French and Spanish sources declared, on his way to the French-Italian border for a reported meeting with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Diplomatic dispatches said the conference, on which Rome and Madrid have kept silence, would be Il Duce's "supreme effort" to draw Spain into the war alongside the axis.

Spanish sources disclosed that Franco was accompanied by his brother-in-law and foreign minister, Ramon Serrano Suner. They were said to have left Madrid yesterday morning by automobile and were to go on today from a small beach resort near the French frontier town of Portbou where they were reported to have spent the night.

Reports from Vichy indicated that French chief of state Philippe Petain might see Franco along the Riviera coast some time during the trip.

An authoritative source said Petain, who had been ambassador to Spain until called home to become vice premier in Paul Reynaud's cabinet before the French-axis armistice, was expected to leave Vichy for a visit at his wife's Riviera estate.

The War Today - - Taking Initiative In The Balkans Shows Growing British Strength

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Britain's vigorous move to counter Hitler in the Balkans means that at long last John Bull is able to assume the initiative in that important theater—a development which in itself is significant as showing England's growing strength.

This gesture of confidence has been made possible by the sweeping Anglo-Allied victories in the battle of the Mediterranean. At the moment, paradoxical though it seems, the master of the world's most powerful fighting machine would appear to be on the defensive in southeastern Europe. Certainly fate has switched the cards on him, and he is playing a different hand from what he expected when he began his Balkan adventure.

The point is that the shattering of the fascist defenses in Africa is likely to release a large and wholly efficient allied military and naval force in the near future for possible operations in the Balkans. As I pointed out when Bengasi fell, British General Wavell then had completed an offensive which would enable him to choose as he wished from several further operations, one of which would be in the Balkans.

In short, the manner in which Mussolini's forces have been lathered, first by the hardy Greeks and then by the British and their allies, has so changed the complexion of the battle of the Mediterranean that, as I see it, Herr Hitler must fear the possibility of an attack on his eastern front through the Balkans.

That isn't the way the Hitler-Mussolini partnership read the stars some five months ago. When Il Duce invaded Egypt with so much dash and fanfare in September, the idea was that he should rush across the desert and capture the Suez canal, while partner Hitler drove down the Balkans (if things looked auspicious) and battled his way through to the Suez from the east. The British thereby would be smashed like a beetle in this great pair of pincers.

However, Mussolini signed a quit-claim to all that program, and to his African empire as well, when some strange impulse made him invade Greece. His debacle there and the catastrophes which piled up on him in Africa wiped the slate clean of one of the great strategic plans of the war.

Hitler's game now is to strengthen his hold on the Balkans for defensive purposes, and at the same time try to rescue the fascist army from the Greeks in Albania. Thus we see him swamping Rumania with troops and turning the country into a military and naval base, and we see him reaching for Bulgaria.

The Fuehrer's purpose has been to make his Balkan advance and consolidation peacefully if possible, for he doesn't want war at his back door at this critical juncture. However, having acquired Bulgaria he might be in position to aid Mussolini against the Greeks, and thereby weaken Britain's strong position. In any event, his move would be calculated to compel the British to maintain powerful naval, air and land forces in the eastern Mediterranean while the Germans made a direct assault on England.

Apparently, however, Britain isn't having it quite that way. There certainly are signs of aerial action in the British severance of relations with Rumania and in the warning to Bulgaria that she will be bombed if she allows the Germans to use her territory as a base. It is now Britain who is providing the distraction in the Balkans for the nazis, just as the latter are preparing for another mighty onslaught on England.

The insistence in Berlin by a German military spokesman that a two-front war isn't in the realm of possibility lacks conviction in view of developments. The Germans may have a two-front war thrust upon them in due course. If we could peep into the minds of the British command for a couple of ticks, we might get some "badly needed hints." For instance, one would like to know at what juncture Turkey might join Britain under their defensive alliance.

It is hard to believe that the British are challenging the nazis in the Balkans without assurance that the Turks are going to put those two million bayonets into action on the allied side if necessary. Still, Russia's reported notice to Bulgaria that the soviet won't use force to oppose a nazis troop movement into Bulgaria might change the picture. At the moment that is a speculative point.

British Liner Calls In USA

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The 27,750-ton Georgic, first British liner to arrive here in almost three months, entered the harbor shortly after 9 a. m. (CST) today, reportedly carrying 576 passengers from England.

The last Cunard liner to come here was the Samaria, 19,297 tons, Nov. 18 with 684 passengers. Three days later the liner Western Prince, 10,926 tons, brought 96 passengers. Homeward bound, the Western Prince was torpedoed 400 miles off Ireland Dec. 14 with a loss of 16 lives.

The Effects Of Liquor Cannot Be Repealed

Judge Arthur S. Guerin, of the Los Angeles municipal court, recently appeared before the police commission to urge the establishment of a prison farm for the rehabilitation of drunkards. He explained that he had handled approximately 5,000 "drunks" a month at the night court over which he presides, and that many had been sent to Sunshine Farms, a county establishment at Castaic, but that there was not room for any more. The results of the experiment were so pleasing to Judge Guerin that he wants to see it made a permanent thing.

Judge Guerin's heart is in the right place in this matter. But immediately this question arises: Why not remove the cause that produces drunkards, rather than try to cure them after the damage has been done. This does not mean that men who are the unfortunate victims of those who sell this alcoholic poison should be denied all possible help, but it does mean that if the sale of liquor were restricted as other poisons are, we wouldn't see 5,000 "drunks" going through our night courts every month, and the taxpayers would not be called upon to build special hospitals and farms to take care of the "finished product" of the liquor business. — (Submitted by and published at the request of the local WCTU.)

British Planes Attack Italy

ROME, Feb. 11 (AP)—British planes bombed Sicily and southern Italy last night, causing some damage at an unidentified town in Apulia and near Avellino, where four persons were killed and several injured, the Italian high command reported today.

Anti-aircraft guns at Battaglia were reported to have shot down one British plane. Its crew parachuted to the ground and was captured, the high command said.

English Get New Harbor

WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, Feb. 11 (AP)—The British navy has taken over the spacious harbor of Bengasi and is turning it swiftly into a base for operations in the central Mediterranean which may play a vital part in attempts to knock Italy out of the war.

The British regard Bengasi as one of the most important prizes to fall into their hands since Italy entered the war. The city has a naturally fine harbor, and the Italians spent large sums in recent years for improvements from which the British are now preparing to reap the benefits.

Possession of Bengasi has enhanced Britain's vast mastery of the Mediterranean, military circles asserted, by giving her a naval base on the North African mainland relatively close to the midway point along the sea.

Elberio Britain's only central Mediterranean base has been the island of Malta, isolated between Gibraltar and Alexandria.

Bengasi is 600 miles west of Alexandria, and fleet units based there would be within easy striking distance not only of Tripoli but Italy herself. It is about 400 miles from Bengasi to Tripoli, 425 miles to Sicily and 460 miles to the toe of the Italian "boot."

AAA Official Tells Of Aid South Needs

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11 (AP)—The south is now more than ever the nation's economic problem No. 1, an Agricultural Adjustment Administration official said today, because of the national defense program and the European war.

I. W. Duggan, director of the AAA's southern division, declared in an interview there is no one solution to this predicament of the region where live one-half of the nation's entire farm population.

"They will discover the price of their product going down," Duggan said, "while the price of their needs goes up."

Pointing out that the average yearly farm income is $80 per capita out of which must be purchased tools, equipment, food and other living needs, Duggan said:

"We could help increase the farm incomes in three or four ways: Expanding crop uses; moving defense industries into the south to use some of the population damped upon farms; improved forestry cultivation to provide more jobs; and the AAA's stamp plan which is intended to improve living standards through more gardens and food and feed production for home consumption."

Latty's death occurred less than six weeks after that of his father, Jim Latty, who was struck by a car and killed on the streets of Westbrook on New Year's day. The father was killed on the son's 38th birthday.

Latty's wife, the former Nellie Snellgrove, whom he married in Sterling City in 1922, died nineteen months ago. Surviving him are three children, Billie Joe, 13, Bobby Jean, 11, and Nelda Mae, 9; and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. E. C. Airhart of Stanton, John Latty of Westbrook, Mrs. Mike Davidson of Big Spring, Mrs. J. O. McNew of Westbrook, Mrs. Wyatt Berry of Garden Grove, Calif., and Mrs. Ben Elliott of Big Spring.

The only brother, John Latty, was reported to be near death in a Big Spring hospital from a long-standing illness as funeral services for Buck Latty were held.

Child Carried 2,000 Miles To Get Treatment

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11 (AP)—A one-year-old boy, suffering from a lung infection and a bad cold, lay in Temple University hospital today while physicians prepared to remove a peanut kernel from his right lung.

The child, Alma Scott Lloyd, arrived here last night, accompanied by his worried father, Alma M. Lloyd, after their first airplane flight—a 2,000 mile journey from Salt Lake City, Utah.

Lloyd, a Soda Springs, Utah, farmer, said little Alma swallowed the kernel about Jan. 15 "but we don't know how or where." He added that when all attempts to effect a remedy at home failed doctors recommended the baby be brought to the famed bronchoscopic clinic of Dr. Chevalier Jackson.

The long trip east began with a 300-mile automobile trip from the Lloyd's farm home to the airport at Salt Lake City to board the transcontinental airliner.

Broken-Hearted Dog Recovering

MONTEREY, Calif., Feb. 11 (AP)—Faithful Laddie, the grieving airside who almost died of sorrow when his master went off to army camp and left him behind, seemed today to have a slightly better chance of living.

A good night's snooze, some warm broth and restoration to Private Everett Scott appeared to have revived the spark of life that was fast fading when the feeble old dog was brought here yesterday by plane from Chanute, Kas.

If only Laddie's weakened heart will carry him through the period it will take to build him back to normal weight, attendants at the Fredonia of Monterey Veterinary hospital believe he will live to become mascot of the 7th Division.

Carlebad Rocks Darker
CARLEBAD, N. M.—It may have taken centuries for the famous Carlebad Caverns to develop but that doesn't prevent the rocks from being sensitive. That's the opinion of one woman visitor who wrote the superintendent that she had noticed the formation had taken on a darker tone and suggested that maybe the breath and cigaret smoke from tourists were responsible.

Doors Quarantine Proof
READING, Pa.—Health officials are hoping no one in the Glenside low-cost housing project homes contracts a contagious disease. Dr. Ira J. Hain, city health officer, complained there's no place to tace the quarantine placards. The doors and door frames are made of metal, so they can't be fastened with tacks. To paste the cards on would ruin the finish.

"WHAT IT TAKES WE'VE GOT"

"Come On, You Howling Devils," shout the linemen and trouble shooters of the power maintenance crews. Wind, rain, sleet, snow, floods or fire throw down the gauntlet...and these unsung heroes accept the challenge. Trained to deft skill...hardened to any danger...they brave any odds to maintain the nation's light and power.

Ghost Reminders of the havoc wrought by a recent nature's freak; full grown trees crushed and stripped of all but the central trunks, following an ice storm in Amarillo, Texas. Amarillo is served by a neighbor of Texas Electric Service Company.

Pole Holes Frosts—Power for locomotion and for boring holes almost on the run. This modern power line crew is made up of E. E. Dozier, left, and J. P. Gilmer, both of Fort Worth, and two helpers. New construction or reconstruction is their "meat."

Construction Cruiser on Wheels carrying everything required for construction for a half-mile from a pair of poles to a pole-bolting winch; a self-sufficient workshop for a crew of six. Bing Barron, Big Spring; Wayne Gregston, Midland; and Doug Rayburn, Big Spring, are the men shown working on a wish line.

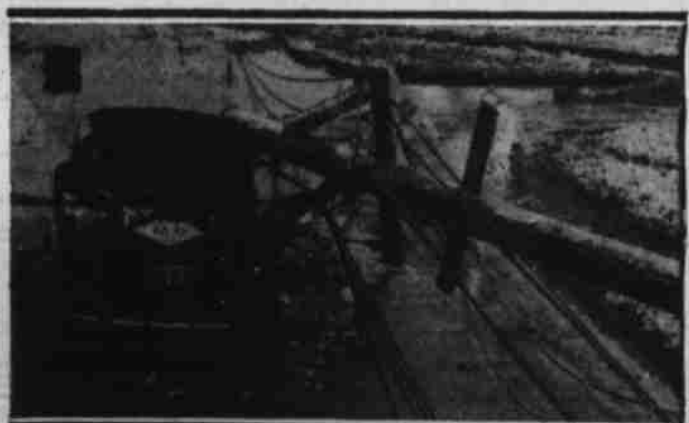

Victory at Amarillo in 36 Hours—freezing mist; ice five inches thick on every exposed surface. The crushing weight of countless tons; shrinking, tightening like a vise. Tree trunks snapped; poles and wires a tangled mass of wreckage. Yet, said the papers: "Power was restored to part of the business district within 36 hours."

"On Your Toes and Up She Goes"—one moment the pole with cross-arm assembly is on the ground. A few turns of the hoisting winch, a bit of strong-arm stuff and, presto, it's ready for wire stringing. Photo shows Bing Barron and Doug Rayburn, Big Spring; Hazel Waddins and Goodner Driver, Midland; K. O. Shoulters and E. P. Nevecek, Wichita Falls; Curly Orr, Fort Worth.

One reason why the giant poles of electric distribution and transmission lines can withstand the terrific strains that they do is because they are securely guyed wherever possible. Here Hazel Waddins and Wayne Gregston of Midland make secure the guy wires on a transmission line dead-end.

The Head of Pole dealt kindly with J. A. Harrington. Many times a back seat passenger in this taxi, this time riding with driver. Pole crushed back; front-seat passenger and driver, Otis Sanders, uninjured.

ELECTRIC POWER IS PREPARED FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

War bombers in droves could not have wreaked more havoc on electric lines than Amarillo's ice disaster. Electric power's preparedness was put to a crucial test. Picked crews from 15 neighboring power companies, including contingents from Texas Electric Service Company, rushed to the aid of the company serving Amarillo. The amazing achievement of quick restoration is a peacetime example of what could happen in war. But in preparing for defense, it's good to know that present power facilities exceed our needs; can be stepped up to meet defense demands.

Texas Electric Service Company is but one system of a great family of similar systems which net the nation with wires. Power plants, strategically located, are interconnected by high voltage transmission line systems. These lines of various systems are largely interconnected. Power can flow either way. Thus our national network or "Grid" is ready to meet defense demands. Present capacity and distribution facilities are greater than those of England, Germany and Italy combined. Power workers of America sling the challenge: "What it Takes, We've Got... We're Ready for Peace or War!"

Big Spring, Forsan Play Ball Tonight

A runner-up in small school basketball and a runner-down in big school cage work will be pitted against each other when Big Spring's Steers basketball challenge Forsan's Buffs at Forsan tonight at 7:30.

Forsan, up to its defeat by Sterling City last week, had won 13 of its 15 engagements during the current season. Coach Cagle Hunt has a quintet that has bowled over opposition in its own class and has held San Angelo's mighty Bobcats to a slim victory in previous engagements.

Big Spring's cagers, showing at times great court potentialities, then moments of extreme mediocrity, are due to have the edge on the Buffs because of their superiority of numbers, but the contest is anything but in the bag.

Wednesday night the Steers journey to Odessa for a district conflict with Joe Coleman's outstanding five then do not play at home again until next Tuesday, when they are hosts to Forsan in a return engagement.

Lookin 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Pre-season training in both baseball and football is getting in the air these days. High schools in district 3-AA are making preparations for the usual grind, although most of the mentors are looking over prospects with a rather gloomy eye. Of all of them, Odessa's Joe Coleman seems to be the one with more hopes, judging from what we have been told, than any other coach in the loop.

Abilene is an unknown quantity. Coach Hilliard, recently put in the saddle in Abilene's camp, will be faced with the prospect of shaping a crew from a combination of old and new material—a thing which, in his particular case, might be in Miami Friday of this week. Cleveland Indian batteries are due at Fort Myers the following Tuesday.

Texas will be host to the Boston Bees this year, the Bostonians having decided to leave the warm winds of Florida, where they worked out last year, and test out the blistering breezes of the pasture country.

Auto Of '35 Still In Service

RIDGE, N. Y.—Demus J. Kuhn has good reason to be proud of his 1913 vintage automobile—it still takes him where he wants to go. The car has chugged an estimated 400,000 miles and has been driven every year since its purchase.

Judging from plans going on at College Station, the Farmers are determined to go through another great season in 1941. That is, they hope to have a year similar to 1940, with one exception—no freak loss to Texas University.

Baseball will be in the air within the next three weeks. Florida will be the scene of action for five American league teams, five Nationals, seven from the International loop, seven from the American association, and four from the Southern association. First on the bill in Florida will be New York Giant pitchers and catchers, both groups being sched-

Buck Shaw Not Candidate At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 11 (AP)—Lawrence T. (Buck) Shaw of Santa Clara has counted himself out as a candidate for the post of Notre Dame athletic director and head football coach, one of the most sought after positions in the collegiate sports world.

Shaw has been mentioned prominently in connection with the vacancy ever since Elmer Layden resigned the dual post a week ago to become commissioner of professional football.

But the handsome, prematurely gray Santa Clara coach said last night that he had advised Notre Dame officials that he did not want to be considered for the job. He added that he had sent word to the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, Notre Dame vice president, before last night's meeting of the board of athletic control.

Father Cavanaugh, chairman, said the board would hold another meeting, probably Wednesday night, before making any recommendations to the Rev. Hugh O'Connell, president. Last night's meeting was the board's second session so far to discuss the flood of applications for the job.

Many of the country's most noted coaches have been mentioned as possibilities, but several of them have said already that they are not seeking the job.

Such notables as Jim Crowley, Fordham; Harry Stull, Wake Forest; and members of the school's famed "four horsemen" backfield; and Dr. Edward Anderson, Iowa, have said they are well satisfied in their present positions.

The Notre Dame post carries a tremendous amount of prestige, but it is admittedly one of the toughest jobs in the coaching profession.

The football world, since the days of Knute Rockne, has expected the Irish to come up with a winning team every year regardless of material or the schedule.

In addition, the position entails much traveling, public speaking and executive detail as athletic director.

Ott And Hubbell Slowed By Age

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11 (AP)—Mel Ott and Carl Hubbell, the last of the McGrawmen, face the imminent baseball season without what you would call bubbling optimism.

"King Carl" admitted today that age might be creeping into his 38 year old left arm, which has grown progressively weaker in the gray since it pitched the New York Giants to the pennant in 1937 and tamed the Yankees in the fourth game of the world series.

Mel of the mighty budgeon, who has hit more home runs against National league pitchers than any other man, said his eyes which annoyed him last season had given him no more trouble but would venture only enough of a prediction on the season to say, "we hope it will be better than last year."

Most Modern Of Cage Teams Uses Relic--Standing Guard

AP Feature Service
KINGTON, R. I.—Your Aunt Matilda, who's giggling her head off over the way sophisticated moderns have adopted her old split skirt styles, doesn't have a thing on Frank Keaney.

Keaney coaches the craziest, point gettin'est machine in this point-crazy basketball era — and one of his major cogs is a "standing guard."

Now that "standing guard" stuff in basketball went out just about the time Aunt Matty was putting her split skirts away in the attic mothballs.

But Keaney uses a standing guard on his Rhode Island basketball team, the outfit which outmodered every modern crew in the land in winning its first ten games and averaging 77 points a contest—almost two a minute.

Very Funny
Funny? Keaney thinks it's a howl. And he thinks the funniest part of the whole situation is the guy who plays his standing guard.

His name? Warner (Flip) Keaney, team captain. Weighs 260, stands 6 feet 4.

Frank loves the Flipper like a son, which is perfectly natural. Flip's the image of his coaching dad.

The nickname Flip, says Warner's pop, came from the way Warner shoots on the rare occasions when he takes a shot. He holds the ball straight out, drops his hands from the wrists, and flips.

Could be, though, because of Flip's wisecracking, the coach admits. Frank often sends in a substitute to order a change in tactics. Like as not Flip will look over, link, and stage whisper: "Okay, Pop, don't get hysterical."

Then Warner proceeds to do something entirely contrary to directions.

Flip's job is to guard that basket. Quite a job on the Rhode Island outfit because outside of Flip no one is supposed to pay too much attention to defense. Except in the front court. Up there every time Rhode Island loses the ball.

If the enemy gets the ball away toward their own basket on a quick maneuver it's pretty much up to Flip to stop the attack. And he's surprisingly agile for his build. Where he shines brightest, though, is in picking that ball off the backboard. Two hundred and fifty pounds of leaping avoirdupois is a pretty convincing argument in a rebound tussle and Warner usually comes down with the ball.

Then Flip tips it out to a streaking forward, often the length of the court on a line as straight as a bullet's path — and Rhode Island has scored its two points for that minute.

Keaney, 21 years at Rhode Island with a record of 228 won and 90 lost, pointed out the standout men as his squad worked out: every time Rhode Island loses the ball.

That little blond kid, that's Stutz Modzelewski. He scored 509 points for us last year, set a new national collegiate record. He's good on any shot—set, lay-up, one-hand with either hand, or what have you. Bud Conley, the good-looking, curly-haired six-footer over there, scores almost as much.

Stutz averages 20 a game. Bud about 18. And that red-dish-blond boy, Bill Rutledge, is our old dependable. Day in and day out he's probably the best ball player we have. Quiet, steady—but a whiz. The long fellow there, Bob Applebee, is a smooth worker, good floor man.

"And that big guy. He's the one that has fun. Look at him throw it. Ain't he funny? Look at him. He's funny, ain't he?"

"That's my boy, the Flipper."

First Round Of Major-City Play Closes

Crystal's Chefs continued their winning tactics, Cities Servicemen edged by Ward's, and Phillips' Tremenmen went on a rampage with only four men on its team to soundly trounce Empire's Gassers as the first round of Major-City basketball league competition was brought to a close Monday night in the high school gym.

In the curtain-raiser Ward's held the Servicemen to a 19 to 13 victory. The second engagement of the evening was a nip-and-tuck struggle between the Chefs and Vaughn's Doughboys during the first half, with the count standing 16 to 11 for the Chefs. In the final frames the Doughboys were unable to cope with the Chefs' man to man maneuverings, and the game ended 27 to 16 for the Chefs.

The Tremenmen put on the most surprising show of the night and of the season. With only four men on the court, the Tremenmen rolled over the Gassers with a 50 to 22 score card. High point man for Phillips' was Huevel with 22 counters.

There is to be a meeting of the league members' managers at 7:30 Wednesday night at the City Hall. Up for discussion will be arrangements for the final rounds and player limits.

Dog Show Attracts Man On The Street

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Westminster Kennel club opens its 65th annual dog show at Madison Square Garden today and that's an event of interest to more than dog fanciers these days.

The man on the street—the fellow who likes dogs, whether they're thoroughbreds or just mutts—has been persuaded to take a look at the show during the past few years and he's come to like it. The introduction of obedience tests a few years ago proved tremendously popular with spectators who couldn't understand all the fine points of judging dogs in the ring. So now Westminster officials, in addition to "streamlining" the show so that it only takes up two days and nights, have added several other side attractions.

Southwest Cellar Teams Play Tonight

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11 (AP)—A couple of teams with but one victory between them clash here tonight in the week's opening game of the Southwest conference basketball race.

Texas A. & M. has won once but Texas Christian university has failed to break into the credit column this season although the Frogs have come close several times.

This game means little in the conference race but tomorrow night Rice opens a series with Arkansas at Fayetteville. The Owls have lost two games but could climb into the middle of the title drive with a double victory over the Porkers.

The little Russian with the grim, lined face gained national notice in October, 1939 when he declared in testifying before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities that "undoubtedly" there were Russian secret agents in the United States army and navy. He told the committee of navy members that he broke with Josef Stalin's government in 1937 over the Russian "purge" carried out that year.

Before that, Krivitsky testified, he served for two years as chief of Russian military intelligence for all western Europe.

Lamesa Chamber Of Commerce Due A Cheer

Due a word of commendation from progressive West Texans is the Lamesa chamber of commerce and its membership. Lamesa is really "on the map" for a town of its size. A good town from a business standpoint it is also a good town in which to live, made so by its pleasing appearance and progressive institutions. The Lamesa chamber of commerce has played a vital part in making the Dawson county seat what it is. Like all other chambers of commerce, it has promoted the area's resources, worked for civic improvements, aided in supplying entertainment for the people of its area, and extended the goodwill of its people to their neighbors. Lamesa's chamber of commerce has done these things better than many such organizations in other towns, however. As a result, the town is showing more than just an accidental bit of progress. It does not look as if Lamesa is at the top of its ladder, either. Last year the membership in the chamber of commerce increased 25 per cent. A growing institution is a progressive institution, so great things can be expected of the Lamesa chamber this year, as well as last. We're all watching you, Lamesa!

Why Italian Riot Rumors Were Started

WASHINGTON—Chasing down rumors from the Balkan riding Junior's tricycle up Mount Everest.

Take, for instance, the latest ditch about riots in Milan and Turin, Italy.

I am in a position to tell you (and my source of information is unimpeachable) that all those reports up to and including those of January 28 have been checked by your Uncle Sam and found to be false.

According to the word here, there hadn't been even the shadow of a riot in either city before January 28, when I made the last confirming check.

And when I say checked, I mean American eyes trained to observe phenomena of this kind have seen that no riots occurred and so reported to Washington.

What interests the international experts in these parts, however, is whence came reports of riots in Italy, why they came, and who started them.

I've got a line on that, but I want to warn you that here on out all it's part guess and part fact. All I can tell you is that my sources of information are in a position to know.

The rumors came, of course, from Belgrade. That's because the three big powers of Europe—Great Britain, Germany, and Russia—have the best facilities there for spreading tales that can't be traced to their sources. They all have big diplomatic staffs of front men to harbor their under-cover agents. And they all have crack crews of spies and rumor makers on hand.

New, about the why of the rumors. I understand the agents of all three big powers have perfectly good reasons for spreading dirt on the Italians.

The British, for instance, are well aware of the new food restrictions in Italy, know that unrest is spreading, and therefore hope rumors of this kind will help along that unrest and bring about disorders. Rumors of riots have started riots before. These rumors, too, can be the means of finding out whether a push is enough to start Mussolini flying down the chasm of oblivion. And if that happened, wouldn't the monarchy rise again with pro-British sympathies—with the help of the Italian army?

Russia is only too happy to see the Italian end of the axis falling badly. Stalin has his own designs on the Balkan states, just as had the czars. As long as Italy remains strong, Italy will oppose Russian dominance in the Balkans with all the force at her command. But if Italy's all tangled up with internal chaos and Germany should be going all out against England this spring, that would mean Russia's Balkan day had arrived.

Finally, if the Germans are convinced Italy—or at least Mussolini—is doomed, they are interested in a little first class rumor-mongering themselves. For, what better excuse for occupying the upper half of the Italian boot (and beating the British to the draw) than riot and disorder? Reports of riot and disorder would be enough, from the German point of view, to convince the world that the Italians should be kept from killing each other off. Thus there would be a humanitarian motive—at least that's what the censored news stories of the occupation could say.

Wouldn't it be a historical scream if Hitler should invade Italy on the same pretext Hannibal used when he crossed the Alps so many centuries ago?

As the Great Carthaginian (no mean propagandist for an old timer) captured each Italian town after crossing the Alps, he was careful to tell the local bigwigs that he had no enmity for the Italians. He loved 'em. The only reason he was conquering them, he said, was to save them from Rome.

It seems that's the way city slickers of those days had of inducing suckers to jump out of the frying pan into the fire. Nobody seems to have improved on it, either.

Manhattan—Soldier Says George Faces Bankruptcy

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—It was just 18 years ago last Tuesday that Grace Moore was introduced to Italo Montemezzi, and since that night in 1923 one of Broadway's warmest and most lasting friendships has grown. I mention this because when Miss Moore sang Firoa in the opera "The Three Kings" at the Met the other night she was fulfilling one of those long ambitions which sometimes have, Montemezzi composed "The Three Kings." When they first met Miss Moore was singing musical comedy at the Music Box. Montemezzi said, "You must sing one of my operas some time."

"I will," Miss Moore replied. "And now she has done just this. Scotty Reston, the returned war correspondent, reports this incident (but you aren't to take it seriously) about England's King when he went to review his troops just evacuated from Dunkirk.

The men were drawn up in company front, and a ragged lot they were. Their uniforms were in tatters. Many wore blood-stained bandages, their shoes were broken, and their faces were begrimed and unshaven.

The king walked slowly down the line and finally paused before what appeared to be the only optimistic face in the whole group.

"Tell me," said the king, "what do you think of the German army?"

"They're not so hot, Your Majesty," replied the little Limey.

"But their dive bombers and their tanks, didn't they have a lot of those?"

"Yes, your majesty, they did. Their bombers were wonderful and so were their tanks. Their whole mechanized equipment was wonderful."

"And even with this you weren't impressed with the German army?"

"They're not so hot, all things considered," the little Limey said. "Thank you, my man," exclaimed the king, heartened by so much optimism. "Have you got any suggestions, or recommendations to make?"

"Just one thing, your majesty," the Limey said, "all them colonies you've got, it's none of my business, but if I were you I think I'd put 'em in my wife's name."

A flip piece of impertinence is alleged to have saved Eddy Howard a traffic violation ticket the other day. The singer was driving to the studio when a big cop suddenly bawled, "Why don't you blow your horn?"

"This horn is too darn indifferent," explained Howard.

"Say that again," said the cop.

"It just doesn't give a hoot."

Tax Hearings Set In Austin

AUSTIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—The gigantic, controversy racked task of determining whether to tax and, if so, who, starts in earnest in the Texas legislature today.

An opportunity to express its opinions will be presented the public by the house of representatives revenue and taxation committees which inaugurates a series of hearings on proposed levies, starting with ones which would boost taxes on cigarettes and telephone companies.

The senate, which must wait on the house for tax proposals, balked yesterday at an attempt to force quick action on Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's proposal to finance the social security program by loading it onto the deficit-ridden general revenue fund.

A house committee, however, approved by vote of 10 to 5 a bill which would take $3,500,000 out of that fund, currently $28,000,000 in the red, to provide state matchings of teachers retirement contributions.

March 3 was set by the lower legislative chamber's state affairs committee for an argument-packed public hearings on a bill pro-

Hollywood—Actor Awake Plays Better Sleep Scene

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Set-ups: They have built a nice bit of Coney Island on a sound stage for "The Devil and Miss Jones." It is not exactly a sound stage, or maybe it is, for several times as Director Sam Wood orders action down the studio street intrudes.

Coney is somewhat disoriented, though in the picture they'll doubtless fit the pieces together neatly. Over here is a littered expanse of sand, the boardwalk, a lifeguard station, over there, the bath-houses. Right in front of the camera, a separate setup on a raised platform, is a bit of breeze-blowing beach. Lying side by side on the sand are Jean Arthur and Robert Cummings, whispering. Asleep directly behind them, also side by side, are Spring Byington and Charles Coburn. The breeze comes from a small fan off-stage, and the sand—in the close-up—is very white. This is imported sand from Pismo Beach, Calif., where the sand is sufficiently similar in texture and whiteness to Atlantic beach sands.

Before one of the takes, the cameraman asks Coburn to move his hand down over his vest. There is no reply, except a gentle whine, almost a moan. Then Sam Wood has to wake up Coburn so that he can play the part of a sleeping man.

On the set of "The Man Who Lost Himself," Director Edward Ludwig wishes the title could be changed. "This is a comedy," he says, "but the title doesn't say so."

"We have lightened things up around here some, however," he remarks, referring to John Otterson's lavish set representing a wealthy home. "See the light fixtures on the woodwork, on the pictures frames, on the chandeliers, everywhere. It's good for comedy—strikes a light color note and sets the mood. For anything else, we'd use heavy colors, purposely massive gilded frames, dark tapestries."

Kay Francis, smart in a striking modern gown, is doing some brightening on her own white co-star Brian Aherne in his dressing room. Kay has been working on bundles for Britain. Now, seated at the piano where she will be photographed comedy-wise, she goes through the scene with dignity—concluding, after Ludwig's "Cut," by making faces and comic noises, unworthy of a dignified star, but adding to the gaiety of this set.

Joan Blondell and Dick Powell, married still in real and reel life after clicking in "I Want a Divorcée," are making "Model Wife," and today's is a funny scene built around bank night or a similar movie theatre customer lure. The young couple, who need cash badly, are asleep in their little apartment when a neighbor awakens them with news that they've won $200 at the movies and must be there within three minutes to collect.

The ensuing scramble to get dressed and make the theatre is wild—so funny that visitors from other sets and studio departments drop in before the final take.

Bill Would Tax Texas Rice Crop

AUSTIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—Proponents of a bill taxing rice for advertising and research purposes today awaited legislative committee action set for Feb. 24.

After hearing arguments for and against the proposal, the house agricultural committee last night agreed to delay final action to allow advocates more time to offer evidence. The bill, submitted by Rep. Price Daniel of Liberty, proposes a tax of two cents per 100 pounds on milled rice.

posing creation of a new Texas oil and gas commission, taking those regulatory powers from the railroad commission.

Chapter 21
MARGO'S PUZZLE
"I don't think Warren's the sort of man to let his family go hungry," said Polly. "Mind getting those four cups out of the basket I brought? They're odds and ends, but good enough for picnics."

Margo found the cups. She was placing them on a board near the oven when the two men joined them.

"Boy, does that coffee smell good!" Warren said.

"Ready for me to broil the hot dogs?" David asked.

"Yes," said Polly. "And don't waste any time. I feel as though I could eat six of them myself."

"And where," Warren asked, looking at Polly's small form, "would you put them?"

"Maybe I've got a hollow leg!" said Polly.

Soon the meal was in full swing. The sun disappeared. An afterglow filled the sky. An indescribable peace settled over the scene.

Warren got out his cigarettes. He passed them around.

Soon they were all smoking, relaxed about the remains of the picnic supper.

"Get your banjo, David," said Polly.

"Yes, do," Warren urged. "Let's do some singing. I haven't done any in ages."

"Do you know any negro spirituals?" David asked.

"I used to. Let's see! Oh, how about the one about 'standing in the need of prayer'?"

"It's a favorite of mine," said David.

"Mine, too," said Polly. "Then let's see if we can remember 'Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party'—You know that one, don't you, Margo?"

"I think so," Margo answered. "I have a faint recollection of singing it in public school."

"Of course!" said Polly. "We had it once when we gave an entertainment."

David got up. "Swell!" he said. "We'll sing ourselves back into the good old horse and buggy days."

"Which," said Warren with a touch of wistfulness, "weren't bad days, by any means. More intimacy and friendliness then—and not so much mechanism. People got together and did things—dined, sang, played games, contributed bits of talent; and now—well, all people do now is sit around with their mouths open listening to a lot of asinine that comes over the air. They don't even read any more. Just sit and sit and sit—and never use their brains or their hands."

"You sound," said Margo, "as though you had lived your life dur-

Army Report On Trinity Canal Due Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The report of army district engineers on the feasibility of dredging and maintaining a barge channel nine feet deep up the Trinity river to Fort Worth and Dallas is expected to reach the general board of engineers at the war department by March 15.

Proponents of the project are optimistic that the report will be a favorable one.

Conceding that national defense projects will have priority and practically the entire attention of congress this session so far as appropriation of funds for new works is concerned, the advocates of the waterway hope they at least can get it authorized.

Authorization must always precede actual appropriation of funds, so getting a legal status for the Trinity project would place it a step nearer reality and in an advantageous position when the present emergency is over and peace-time works again get full consideration.

Briefly, the Trinity project calls not only for dredging operation, but for the construction of several dams and locks along the course of the river from the Gulf to Fort Worth and Dallas. The locks are necessary to lift, in stages, the tugs and barges from sea level to an altitude of approximately 500 feet at the head of proposed waterway total cost of the proposed improvement, which has been advocated for more than three-quarters of a century, is estimated at $75,000,000 to $80,000,000.

Its supporters argue that such a project, built with government funds, would be especially desirable when the present emergency and world crisis is past. Not only would it be self-liquidating by giving a great inland area cheap water transportation, they say, but it would provide employment for thousands of men at a time when unemployment might become acute through the curtailing of defense activities.

less residents must look to members of congress for help and guidance, and it is to a tall, slender West Texan that they now look for financial assistance in maintaining their schools, police department and other vital agencies.

The legislator is George Mahon of Colorado City, appointed recently chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee which considers all appeals for funds to run the district. Recommendations of the subcommittee almost invariably are enacted into law.

Mahon accepted the chairmanship, but without relinquishing his position on the currently all-important subcommittee which studies measures appropriating funds for national defense projects.

Crude Production Shows Small Gain

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Daily crude oil production in the United States increased 19,800 barrels to 3,614,565 for the week ended Feb. 8, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Italian General Dies Of Wounds

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 11 (AP)—British headquarters said today that General Teller, commander of the Tenth Italian Army, a British captive, had died of wounds suffered in fighting south of Bengasi.

General Teller apparently was the army commander mentioned by the British among seven generals they said they had captured in occupying the Libyan port of Bengasi and subsequent mopping up of Cirenaica.

Oil Employes

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11. (UP) - A well-informed source said today that the government oil administration, undeterred by threats of a strike in the vital Tampico zone, was determined to displace more than 4,000 employes in its economy reorganization drive.

This would reportedly restore the operating personnel in the industry practically to the number at work when ex-President Cardenas expropriated the 17 United States, British and Dutch companies in 1938.

Backed by President Avila Camacho, the present oil administration will discharge this many workers as part of its efforts to liquidate the industry's deficit, variously estimated from 80,000,000 pesos to 150,000,000 pesos, despite a rumbling undercurrent of discontent among the 18,000 employes.

Four Die In Philadelphia Gas Blasts

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11. (UP) - At least four persons were killed and more than a score injured early today in illuminating gas explosions that wrecked two homes in South Philadelphia and caused a fire which destroyed seven others.

One of the dead was Patrolman James Clark who was crushed to death by a falling wall when he ran into a house in an attempt to rescue its occupants. Three dug from debris were not immediately identified.

The first blast occurred at 5 a. m. and was followed in about 15 minutes by a second. A third came four hours later as rescuers were digging through the ruins.

The force of the explosions cracked the pavement in nearby streets and hurled chunks of asphalt into the air. Burning gas shot through the crevices. Windows were shattered in homes for two blocks, and many residents ran screaming from their homes.

In addition to Glass and Langley, the Howard county list was comprised of Earnest Henry Briggs, Merritt Hall Barnes, Francisco Torres Moncada, Crestino Torres Correa and Harold Steck. Departing from the procedure followed in previous send-off ceremonies for trainees, when they were feted by a program just before taking the bus, this detachment was given a banquet by the Baptist Brotherhood Monday night at the First Baptist church.
