Howard Beach Verdict Leaves New York Racially Tense

New York, N. Y. -- The New York City area was racially tense for much of last week following the longawaited verdict in the Howard Beach racial attack which left a 23-year-old Black man dead last December. Three of the four white youths charged in the incident were charges. Hundreds of Black demonstrators reacted angrily to the jury decision. That anger was made known when at least 800 protesters disrupted New York City traffic by blocking the Brooklyn bridge, jumped on packed subway trains and pulled emergency brake cords while another 200 protested in front of a Brooklyn police substation. Speakers at the various demonstrations charged that the whites should have been found guilty of murder not the lesser charge of manslaughter. There was even talk referring to the beginning of a "racial war." The tragic incident itself occurred December 20 last year when three Black men whose car had broken down in the virtually all white community of Howard Beach, Queens were attacked by more than a dozen whites coming from a party. In an attempt to flee his attackers. Michael Griffith was struck by a car and killed.

Jesse Jackson Says Sandinista Buildup Justified

Washington, D. C. --Appearing on a television news program, presidential contender Jesse Jackson charged last week that the Sandinists government in Nicaraqua may be justified in its current military buildup. Jackson said the Reagan administration continues to spend millions of dollars financing the Contras who are trying to overthrow the Sandinistas. In addition. Jackson called up the U.S. Congress to stop U. S. financing of the war against the Nicaraguan people.

Panel Fails To Find Answer In Forsyth, Ga. Dispute

Allania, Ga. -- A committee established to study the source of the racial problems which brought allwhite Forsyth, Georgia to national attention has issued two conflicting reports. Forsyth jumped into the national spotlight last January wher angry whites attacked a small group of Black demonstrators protesting the county's refusal to allow Blacks to live in the small Georgia community. #### The Greatest Running Back

Recently I was interviewed by Frank Gifford during the halftime of a Monday Night Football broadcast. We talked about great running backs and I gave my opinion that the top running back of all time was Jim Brown.

Fans love to debate who was the greatest player at each position. Naturally I've heard from some who would pick Tony Dorsett, O.J. Simpson. Walter Payton, or any one of several other fine running backs over Jim Brown.

It was a reminder to me that a lot of people just don't remember Jim Brown. If you are 30 years old today, Jim Brown quit playing when you were ten. Another factor is that because of expansion to new cities and increased television coverage, the National Football League has attracted many new fans who never saw Jim during his great years with the Cleveland Browns.

When you consider the conditions Jim played under, his records are even more phenomenal. He played in an era where the defense's primary purpose was to stop the run first and the pass second. Today, it's the other way around and that helps the running back.

When Jim took a handoff, he was likely playing on a frozen or muddy field. There were no domed stadiums or artificial turf fields back in the 1950s and 1960s. I feel the good track artificial turf provides adds 25 to 50 yards per game to a great running back's total.

Back then the hash marks were out where the college hash marks are today. Officials spotted the ball on the hash marks and there was always a short side of the field. Defense slanted to the wide side. You simply didn't run to the short side because the sideline is the best tackler a defense has going for it.

Jim ran from a split backfield where he started from about three yards behind the line of serimmage. He didn't have the luxury of starting from seven yards deep, as in the "I" formation, and the advantage that gives you in picking your holes. And, of course, he played when the NFL season was just 12 games.

Even with those disadvantages, Jim set records that lasted for nearly two decades. He was that rare player who combined all the talents desired in a running back. He had moves and speed, and he also had the power to run over defenders.

Of today's running backs, I would choose Eric Dickerson of the Indianapolis Colts as the best of those still at the top of their game. Walter Payton of the Bears will be retiring this year after a great career, and Tony Dorsett has had many fine years with Dallas. But there's no doubt in my mind that Jim Brown was the greatest of all time. In

Gaie Sayers is considered one of the greatest running backs of all time. The former Chicago Bear is a member of the National Football League's Hall of

Baseball Withdrawal

By Bert Randoph Sugar PM Editorial Services

The TV set was still warm, Minnesota reliever Jeff Reardon had retired the last St. Louis Cardinal only seconds before to preserve the Twins' World Series victory, and already I was suffering withdrawal pangs. No more baseball for four months! The only thing I could think of that could be worse would be if I asked a guy to cush a check for $10 and found it was someone I already owed $9 to.

What's that, you say? There are other sports to turn to during baseball's off-season? Sure, there's hockey, where you can watch players go the entire length of the ice just to clobber someone with their stick. Then there's horse racing, where you can go watch the windows clean the people. Or even boxing, where most, of the time all you see is tap dancing with gloves on. And then there's the counterfeit football season, a half season played by guys whose names are memorable only if you're naming the All-Eye Chart Team. No, there's only one way to satisfy my sports "fix": Baseball. To believe otherwise would be akin to believing that a myth is a female moth.

And so, during the current offseason lull, instead of bothering with other sports I'll review the 1987 baseball season in the basepaths of my mind-a season that had more unforeseen circumstances than ever were experienced at the monthly meetings of the Clairvoyant Society.

Some of those magic moments of '87 that bring seasoning to the offseason like garlic to a salad include the time an Orlando policeman

Or Pedro ing, Every time I hear that song I Guerrero of the Dodgers, forced to have a bad game." And A's relief miss a game after injuring his wrist pitcher Jay Howell becoming the first trying to save his giant-screen TV set hometown player in All-Star history when an earthquake hit the Los to be booed during the pre-game in-Angeles area.

No Hiding Place

There is a story told about an astronomer who was observing the sun setting beyond a hill several miles away. Suddenly, in his line of vision were two boys stealing apples from a large orchard. While one picked the fruit, the other watched carefully, making sure they were undiscovered. But the astronomer saw every movement as plainly as if he had been in the orchard.

In the 28th chapter of Isaiah we notice that the Israelites thought that they could hikd their sins from God by making secret agreement with the pagan Egyp: __.s. God prononced it a "covenant with death that would not keep them from the wrath of the Assyrians.

How many times have we tried to hide or cover-up our sins from God. We cannot hide from God, Our sins hurts and disappoints Him, but any willful, arrogant attempts to ignore that sin and cover it up truly angers God. Humply seek His help in prayer

CHRISTIAN CURSING

I. Introduction

We approach a delicate, yet important, subject to all the saints today and especially to those in the Lord's churches, that is: the matter of "Christian Cursing." The Christian of today thinks nothing of taking upon himself the ways and appearances of the world. In our society nearly every one professes belief in the Lord but few give evidence of repentant, converted hearts that is characteristic of all who are truly saved. An area that points out this psuedo-christian trend is the utilization of the language of the world. To directly accuse professing people of using God's Holy name in vain as an outright, deliberate curse word would be an overstatement. Yet, many euphemisms for God are heard every day and often truly born-again saints are guilty.

A. What is a Euphemism?

Let me give Dariel Webster's report: "...to use good or auspicious word for an evil or inauspicious word..." - of good sound.

1. It is the use of a word or phrase that is less expressive or direct but considered less distasteful, less ofensive, etc. than another.

2. A word or phrase so substituted. Thus, it is a form of cursing that replaces a direct curse word with a more acceptable word which in effect does the same

B. The question must be asked of modern-day Christians: Do you ever use the name of the Lord in

The word "vain" means "empty," "as nothing," or "lightly." When referring to the subject at hand, it apare words that have little meaning, or an empty purpose or something that is said lightly. Some will use the name of the Lord, yet, go on to defend their position by saying, "I didn't mean anything by it." Others make a defence by claiming that God knows our weakness and therefore will forgive us. However, premeditated sin in God's sight is inexcusable. C. Are we responsible for our words?

What does the Scripture say in the 3rd commandment? Ex. 20:7, "Thou shait not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." The words, "in vain" mean empty, without thought, or lightly. This is clearly a violation of the 3rd commandment and that is a transgression of God's law which is SIN in God's book! The TRUTH is that God still holds all of us accountable for our words: Matt. 12:36-37, "But I say unto you, That every idle word that men speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

Your swiftest defence may be to quickly bring up the fact that God's saints will not stard in the judgment of sinners. That is true. But beware that words have a way of describing what is in the heart. Matt. 12:34, "O generation of vipers, how can ye being evil speak good things? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. "While the truly saved will not be judged as to their eternal position in Christ by their performance of works, it is difficult to believe that born-again saints, those changed by the Spirit of God within and have been taken out of the pig-pen of sin, will want to return to it. Scripture says that a pig returns to the mire but that is because of its nature. Therefore, the person who says he is a saint of God but by nature loves the practices of the world and is not convicted of the use of sinful words of the world, that one is of the world. Ignorance is no excuse to sin when we have the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit to keep us in truth. So, let us develop and identify some words. This will not be an exhaustive lim but rather examples.

II. Words that are used which involve God's name in vain or with lightners. These definitions will be according Webster's Die-

Any good dictionary will give you all of these. A. Euphemisms of God.

1. Goth: "...an interjection, an exclamation of surprise: a euphemism for God." The world would make light of the use of this word but the saints ought to heed the meaning of words. It is the using of the word "gosh" in the place of the word "God" to make it seem

2. Good: (used by itself or together with other words as in "good-night," etc.) a. The word "good" is often used as an adjective with a descriptive intent by comparison. However, the etemology of the word shows that it is not an innocent word when used as an interjection. Esemology: from the word "gode;" Anglo-Saxon, god, akin to Ger-

b. Used as an interjective: "In some exclamatory phrases expressing surprise, consternation, etc. (e.g. good-gracious) good-grieft good-night!) Good is an euphemism for God." That includes forms of the word goodness, even when we personalize and say 'goodness me," there is a wrong connotation and it is just a replacement for being able to use the name of the

3. Golly: "It is an interjection, an exclamation of surprise, etc.: a euphemism of God." It is a sailder, socially acceptable way to use God's name in vain. This also includes all the shortened forms as in "gol" (gol-

4. Gracious: "as an interjection, an exclamation of surprise, it is a euphemism of God."

5. Geo: "it is an interjection (a euphemistic contraction of Jesus), (slang), an exclamation of surprise, etc." All forms of Gee, Geez or Cheez, Cheese, Cheece, Sheece, still relate bact to the Lord Jesus Christ when used as an exclamatory remark.

6. Jiminy Crickets: has been used by many professing people, however, it is also a euphemistic expression of Jesus Christ. It is just a way to try to exchange acceptable words with which to euphemistically use our Lord's name lightly. It is an interjection.

7. Many forms of expressions as: Great day, Toledo, etc. While the words may not in themselves mean anything wrong, their usage makes them a replacement for the Lord in an exclamatory remark.

8. The expression "man at the wheel" has a direct reference to the Sovereign God of the universe who is in control of all things, but here euphemistically applied and taken lightly or disbelieved altogether. It is not a light thing to acknowledge God's sovereignty in an empty statement. For He is Sovereign.

9. Egad: "(igad, 'egad') interj. (prob. ah God), a softened or euphemistic oath.

B. The usurping of God's authority of judgment or making light of His character.

1. Darn: (all forms of this word included) an interjection, a suphemism of the word dann and is a form of a curse. A curse is never inflicted seriously except it call upon God to do the damning. It places the curse: in the seat of authority in God's place to sit judgment over the one being cursed and makes God subordinate to the one using the curse word to inflict damnation at their ill. It is calling God to take ones own side and condemn the other person to Hell. It matters not whether the person says, "dag-nabit," or "gosh-darn," or "darmation," all of these words use God sauthority and name lightly and wrongfully.

2. Holy Cow: Holiness is an attribute, a perfection of God in which we view God separated from all sin (morally and spiritually). A cow has no soul, it is a-moral and is without a spirit. These kind of words have a way of making light of God's character. There also is nothing Holy about smoke. It too, is a euphemistic way of using a word with a wrong intent to make it seem acceptable, and with lightness (in vain).

3. The Lord willing and the creeks don't rise: is a mockery of the Lord's sovereignty. As a matter of fact He does control the creeks, therefore, the two are not

(Beware of telling of jokes that use the person of God as a character within a joke. And while it need not directly attack or directly mock His being, it does use Him in a lightness or manner of foolish jesting.) Eph. 5:4, Neither filthiness, or foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks.

III. Conclusion:

There is no intent to go into all the foul, filthy words of modern-day vocabulary, it should not be necessary. Eph. 4:29, "Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the heavers.' Col. 3:8, "But now ye also put of all these; enger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth. '

The Jews, as was their human custom, would use God to call upon Him to be their witness in oaths. They refrained from using His Holy name in conversation because of His power and Holiness. They had first-hand historical experience for disregarding His Holiness. Yet, because they were not born-again their actions were often only legalistic in nature and not because of their love and relationship to the Lord. They were commanded to "not swear" in lightness. Matt. 5:34, "But I say wao you, Swear not at all; neither by Heaven; for it is God's throne: Nor by the earth; for it is His footstool: neither by Jerryalem: for it is the city of the great King ... " (vs. 37), "But let your communication be yea, yea; nay, nay, for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil. "Israel was taking onths lightly and calling on God to back their position. Jesus said just say yes or no and back your word with action.

What's wrong with using sound proper words? Why do Christians need the crude, rank, unwholesome, blasphemous cursing language of the world? Lock at Col. 4:6, "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answir every man.

To use euphemisms for God is the same as if His own name were used. Thristian cursing and cussing is getting more popular and socially acceptable as the world infiltrate: the circle of the Lord's people, Many of the New Evangelical churches (which are no more than some type of religious organization of people) are using this modern jurgon to identify themselves with the world and to show them that they are just like them. Well, maybe they are. But that does not justify us.

Remember, it is not always the words by chemserves that we use, but often it is the intent of the expression, whether anger, frustration or disagreement that we feel toward God.

Now what can we do? It is simple. Don't use words (actual or suphemistically) that will break fellowship with our Saviour. And as important: learn to direct our thoughts, words, and feelings to the Lord. He is Sovereign. He a coming soon!!!

Renewed Push for Tough Sanctions

(NIS) -- Antiapartheid advocates promise a renewed push in 1988 to gain passage of comprehensive sanctions against the Pretoria government. They also pledged to make sanctions, the occupation of Namibia and South Africa's regional war against its neighbors election issues for the 1988 elections.

About 75 representatives of church, civic and public policy organizations met on Capitol Hill last week for what was billed as a strategy session aimed at charting a 1988 agenda. Organizers say they will launch an intensive grassroots campaign to get additional cosponsors of HR (1580).

The comprehensive sanctions measure, sponsored by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums (D-CA), has 77 cosponsors. The Senate version (S.556), sponsored by Sen. Alan Cranston, is cosposored by Sens. Edward Kennedy (D-MAS) and Carl Levin (D-MI).

Dellums, who convened the meeting, urged the group to activate the lobbying network that helped to pass the orignal House sanctions package. He maintained that tough sanctions are a "moral and political imperative."

Savimbi Film Shot In Namibia

(NIS) -- Actress Grace Jones, actor Dolph Lundgren of Rocky IV and director Steven Spilberg are reportedly on location in Namibia shooting an $8 million "adventure" film focusing on the life of UNITA rebel leader Jonas Savimbi.

The weekly tabloid the Namibian reported in its December 4 issue that the celebrities are maintaining a "low profile" and have been instructed not to speak to the press. The film, Red Scorpion, is being shot by the Moonrose Production Company.

Shooting is expected to be complete by mid-January and the film is scheduled to be released in the U.S. during

The Johannesbrug-based executive product. Jack Abramoff, told the Namibian that Swaziland was initially planned as the site for the film, but that the government was "nervous" about the use of explosives and military equipment.

An Educator's Opinion

The Urban Challenge

Mary Hatwood Futrell

In communities across America, lights of this special season sparkle. But in America's cities. hopes dim. The accident of geography deprives millions of children of their brightest source of hope: education.

Analysts trace this development to the 1970s, a decade during which the population drain from urban centars was swift and dramatic. Those who fled were those who had the means of mobility-in short, the affluent. They left behind a trapped people-prived and the desperate. They also left behind, many analysts believed, school systems that would die slow deaths, systems that would wither as the poverty rate spi-

the poor, the destitute, the de-raled and crime sprawled. The analysts were rightand wrong.

We in NEA know well the adversity that confronts urban school employees. But we also know that in the nation's most urbanized state-New Jersey-NEA members are breaking new ground in the attempt to rescue urban schools from the pulverizing impact of poverty.

Roughly 40,000 of our 126,000 New Jersey members work in urban districts that rank among the most disadvantaged in the United States. Among cities with populations exceeding 100,000, for instance, Newark is the nation's poprest.

But NEA members in New Jersey are resisting despair. The Urban Challenge, a prolect launched by our New Jersey affiliate (NJEA), aims to halt the callous pattern of neclect that has for so long victimized children who attend

NJEA began the Urban Challange project last year by sponsoring a statewide series of hearings on the problems besetting New Jersay's urban schools. The results made it clear that underlying all other problems within city schools-underlying the unmanageably large clave sizes, the anticipated textbooks, the ratinfested buildings, the sycle of drug use, viclence, and despair-are the stark funding disparities between urban and non-urban school

The local tax bases of New Jersey's six largest urban districts make a mockery of funding equalization formulas. In these districts, less than $61,000 in taxable property value supports the education of each student. Statewide, by contrast, communities draw from over $213,000 in property value per student. The Urban Challenge initiative aims to redress this disparity-to make access to quality education less dependent on the accident of geography.

The legal logic that supports this effort emerged from the landmark 1971 decision of the California Supreme Court. In Serrano v. Priest, California's highest court found the state's school finance system unconstitutional on the grounds that it made the quality of education a function of local taxable wealth. This system, the Court ruled, introduced massive funding inequities that clearly violated the equal protection provisions of the California State > Constitution. Ironically, the New Jersey Supreme Court issued a similar ruling in 1973 (Robinson v. Cahill). But today, 14 years later, inequities persist. And NJEA's urban initiative may

President, NEA bast be understood as an attempt to end the violation of the equal protection clause that is the heart of Article I of the New Jersey State Constitution.

In short, NJEA is demanding nothing more and nothing less than fidelity to the principles of fairness and equality that the New . 'ersey Constitution articulates. Toward this end, Nation formally recommended that the governor and the legislature move away from over-reliancy on tocal property taxes. That action had import: New Jersey's State and Local Expenditure and Reverue Commission is soon expected to make a similar recommendation to the state legislature.

NJEA's campaign is az much ethical as legol. The ideal that animates the Urban Challange program is the ideas of charling. And the understanding that austeins the NJEA initiative is the understanding that no state can for long prosper if a third of its young people are danied the gift of education.

In this season of gift-giving, we would all do well to heed that message.

Smoking Ban Looses

Voters in the seaside town of Del Mar. Calif., handily defeated a ballot initiative on November 3 that sought to ban smoking on all beaches, parks, streets and other outdoor public places, with the exception of three outdoor smoking areas. The initiative, introduced by former Del Mar mayor and former smoker Richard Roe, would have been the nation's toughest smoking law on the books.

Opponents of the proposal, including current Mayor Ronnie Delaney as well as the majority of council members, feared that the measure would hurt business and argued that it was unneeded and unworkable. One councilmember went so far as to call the initiative an "ash-anine" idea. Iil to 1987, PM Editorial Services

Court Nixes Smoking Law

The New York Public Health Council recently lost in its efforts to implement restrictive smoking regulations. The New York Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, upheld by a 6-1 vote two lower court decisions against the Public Health Council.

'We hold that the Public Health Council overstepped the boundaries of its lawfelly delegated authority," Judge Vito Titone wrote for the court's majority. "In this instance, the council usurped the (legislature's) role and thereby exceeded its legislative mandate," he said. In © 1987, PM Editorial Services

Celebrate "Z" Day

Attention all Zieglers, Zimmermans and Zukes: The first day of 1988 has been declared "Z Day." The purpose is to recognize "all persons and places whose names begin with the letter 'Z' and are always listed or thought of last in any alphabetized list." The day was founded by Tom Zager of Sterling Heights, Mich., for obvious reasons.

"The alphabet was supposed to start with a 'Z,' and they messed up," claims Zager. [1] © 1987, PM Editorial Services

Phoenix, Az. -- Foes of Arizona Governor Evan Mecham have collected enough signatures to force a re-call election. Mecham is a right-wing republican who has managed to anger Blacks, women, gays and Jews with a series of insentitive and often hostile statements. His troubles began when he rescinded a state holiday in honor of stain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Unless Mechem can successfully challenge the petitions, he will face a recall election in mid-May.
