Blacks Are Still Stuck On Marion Barry

Washington, D. C. ... By now, most people around the world think they know about D. C. Mayor Marion Barry. D. C.'s highest ranking public executive has been examined personally and professionally, by "news experts" in print and broadcast reports from London to Lisbon. But the real question that the general media has ignored is, what do the grass roots people in Southeast, Northwest and Southwest have to say about the black guy that they've elected 3 times to be mayor of the nation's capital? In the March 23rd issue of Washington's largest black newspaper, the Capital Spotlight, its Business Editor William Reed gives the people on the other side of the tracks something to think about when he says to the world that, "Mayor Barry is all right with me."

Reed, a registered Republican, says that, "The current witchhunt on Marion Barry is being led by a bunch of hipcorites I'd call The Court of St. James Righteous Indignation Duplicity and Marching

It Needs To Be Said

by the Mystery Writer

As a recent article stated, "looking between the lines" is an important thing we of East Lubbock must make a habit. Well, the affordable housing program is one that all segments of our community should delve deeply before concluding it's good or bad. The key behind the entire program is "what is the long range impact and who will benefit the most from this affordable housing program?"

First, we must realize that in today's world, you get what you pay for, that you simply do not get something for nothing. With that in mind, what will the affordable homes program offer. As I look between the lines, I see plenty of FOR SALE signs on homes in East Lubbock that look good and should not cost more than $30,000, yet they are not being sold, why? Therefore, what is the big difference between building new affordable homes and existing affordable homes. To build a $30,000 home today, some corners must be cut or inferior material and labor or these homes will not be homes of the 1990's. From what I have heard about the affordable home program, the houses will be between 800 and 900 square feet, this is small ladies and gentlemen. But let's be fair, build one and let's look at it and then let's decide whether this is something we want in our community.

A very important aspect about purchasing any home from my experience as a home buyer is, the requirements of the bank. When I purchased my home, the bank wanted proof of my credit history, my income, how long employed plus so much money before the keys to the front door were placed in my hands. On these affordable homes, how are the buyers to get around the bank's requirements. As an average East Lubbock person, who waited until I could meet the requirements, how are the others going to get around these same requirements? As most of us know, those who want a home, that can meet the bank's requirements, already have homes. And those who can't are the ones who need your affordable homes. And I'm already buying my home that cost or is valued at $20 to $30 thousand, why move into a new home for $20 or $30 thousand.

Now to me, if these good nature people really want to do something, let's talk about building homes that people who can meet the banks requirement may want. Our East Lubbock community already has ample affordable homes that people who need and want them can't get. If the bank requirements could be altered for the current affordable home program, maybe they can do the same for all East Lubbock. Some of us in our homes just may want and can afford $40, $50, or $60 thousand homes within East Lubbock. Then we can sell our homes, move up and East Lubbock will be making progress in lieu of standing still or going backward.

Read between the lines, do we really need or want more affordable low cost homes or do we want homes that will reflect our community moving forward? We have taken the cheap way long enough and we keep coming up short. Let's ask those behind the affordable home issue, what kind of arrangements can be made on homes that will reflect a community entering the 1990's and year 2000. East Lubbock deserves the best.

The largest painting now in existence is probably The Battle of Gettysburg, completed in 1883, after two and a half years of work, by Paul Philipp Jenauw and 16 assistants. The painting is 410 feet long, 70 feet high and weighs 11,792 pounds.

Bureau Expects Increase In Scams Due To Publicity

President Bush's remarks about Lubbock's positive economy is being welcomed by all segments of the South Plains area. The value of such publicity is priceless. However, as usual, there is a down side to the very good news. Consumers can be sure that the nation's schemers will listen to the coverage with great interest. Once they perceive Lubbock's economy as good, they will direct their scams to the Lubbock area. South Plains consumers and businesses should prepare for an increase in telemarketing, direct mail and transient peddler scams. When the economy is good, scams usually involve investments, business opportunities, get rich quick schemes, etc.

Also, since its spring, the home remodeling schemers will be heading this way. Remember if it sounds too good to be true it probably is.

Namibians News Digest

Namibians Greet UNTAG (NIS) ... The first arrival of United Nations Transition Assistance Group (UNTAG) commanders were greeted in Windhoek by an estimated 2,000 Namibians, chanting freedom songs and clad in SWAPO T Shirts.

Police reportedly held at bay large crowds that had gathered at the Kalahari Sands Hotel where the UNTAG team was meeting. That scene in Namibia's capital contrasted sharply with a disturbance in Rundu on the day of UNTAG's arrival. The weekly newspaper the Namibian reported that South West Africa Territory Force (SWATF) police disrupted a SWAPO rally in that heavily militarized northern region.

In Windhoek meetings were held between the UNTAG military chief General Prem Chand and South Africa Administrator General Louis Pienaar. The first contingent of multinational forces which arrived late last month included troops from Kenya, Malaysia and Finland. The full military deployment is scheduled for April 1.

AN EDUCATOR'S OPINION

Old Fashioned, Yet Radical

What's happening here?

- Students are spending a considerable amount of school time engaged in original inquiry into important subjects.

- Class periods run more than the usual 50 minutes so that students can probe ideas in depth.

- The curriculum is a tightly integrated whole. What students learn in different subject areas is complementary — and each grade builds on the year before.

What's happening is NEA's Mastery In Learning Project. In 26 elementary and secondary schools across the country, this project is helping faculties change the structure of teaching and learning in their schools.

These faculties are testing three old-fashioned, yet very radical ideas.

The first: every decision about learning that can be made at the local school level should be made at the local school level. This commonsense notion is based on the principle that the people best positioned to help students learn are those closest to the learning process — teachers, administrators, and others right at the school site.

The second idea behind Mastery In Learning: research can help guide school programs. Over the past two decades, education researchers have garnered an impressive body of knowledge about learning, teaching, and the conditions necessary for quality education. The NEA project offers classroom teachers ready access to this research through a computer network, and school faculties are using this information to literally "re-form" themselves and their schools.

The third idea: the only lasting standards of educational excellence are standards that are community-owned and community-specific. Excellence must be based on the unique characteristics of each school system and its special relationship with its community.

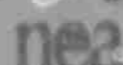

The faculties of the Mastery In Learning schools are working hard to involve their communities. And the response has been enthusiastic. Businesses, for instance, have contributed both financial support and a practical approach to determining the skills students will need beyond school.

The Mastery In Learning Project is demonstrating that individual school faculties can make enormous improvements in student learning. NEA is now looking forward to applying the lessons we've learned from the project schools to entire school districts.

Through NEA's new "Learning Laboratory" initiative, which will get under way later this year, NEA will cooperate with local school districts committed to improving student learning by restructuring schools. We're anxious to see what happens when school districts apply themselves to the challenge of significant and lasting educational improvement.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

Your Absence from Church is A Vote To Close its Doors

FROM THE  OF
PARSON D. A. SMITH

Sunday morning as I looked at the faces of many who had come be a witness to the Resurrection nearly two thousand years later, I could feel the excitement and the joyous anticipation. Tears were shed and faces were radiant with joy as they witness: "He is not here! He is risen. Christ is alive."

The death of Jesus is beyond the power of the human mind to fully comprehend. Even the disciples of our Lord had extreme difficulty in understanding the mystery of His tragic death upon the cross. For One who had been their friend, companion, and the hope for the nation of Israel, His death was a cruel, horrible murder at the hands of wicked, ungodly men. For them His death was a public disgrace. For them it was a personal, political tragedy. It was only after the Resurrection that they were able to comprehend the teaching of their Master concerning how it was written that He must suffer and die for the sins of men.

The Resurrection says to us today that God is not defeated in his creation. Death is swallowed up in victory. We do not understand it all. But a body that was cold, lifeless, and dead was transformed, made alive, radiant, and victorious. Because He lives, we live today.

Would it not be wise for you to put your faith and trust in a Saviour who loved you to the extent that he was willing to die for you and who was so divine that He conquered death and the grave. Christ alone deserves to be the Lord of your life.

We Thank God For Jesus "Lord, No, I Don't Wanna Go!"

Part I

Joel 2:28: The Lord said, and it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy. Your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions.

Friday night, November 21, 1980,  My Father, Billy, II, called me in Garland, Texas, and asked me to come to Benchly, Texas to our homeland. He said he had stocked the fishing tanks, and when he would throw grain into feed them, you could see their backs 10 to 12 inches long. I told him he didn't have to tell me that to get me to come down, but that I would. (I begin to think, with a net what a catch that would be.)

I was raising and training Doberman dogs, I had one that could climb a ladder. I took it with me. We got there that morning and it was drizzling raining. We didn't fish. My father, being a truck driver, went to work. I stayed on the farm for a little while.

My Mother had a sister about 3 miles from there, and she's been in the ministry for about 35 years. We've never hardly gone to see Aunt Ellen Allen, because she would always talk about the "Bible", and living in sin. We didn't want to hear the truth. I heard that she was sick, and I had time to kill, so I went by to see her. "She gave me the word of God."

John 12:32: Jesus said, and I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

I went back to the homeplace, and my Father hadn't gotten off his job, so I went up to his sister's house, Aunt Corene, and while we were talking, she told me that my Father and Wife were having problems, and if I would talk to them, she believed they would listen to me. But I told her that I didn't want to get into other people's business, and I was going to stay out of it. (My Dad and I were very good friends, and I didn't want to hear mind your own business.)

Proverbs 18:24: A man that hath friends must shew friendly; and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a Brother.

I went back to my Father's house, and he had made it home. After eating supper, we decided to go to Hearne, Texas for a "Saturday night get down." I didn't talk to him on the way up there, nor on the way back (about the family "His problems.")

Sunday morning after eating breakfast with Dad, I called back to the bedroom to Miss Ophelia, my stepmother, telling her goodbye, and would see her next trip. I went out and loaded my dog and started to Garland, Texas. After going about a mile from the house and getting on the main highway, I heard a rubbing sound on the front of my pickup. I pulled over and there were three of the five bolts off the wheel. The words came: "I & we..."

I drove 12 miles with 2 bolts holding the wheel on, I was booking football, and needed to go home, and not to turn around. (But the Lord turned me, and what a turn.)

Revelation 3:20: Jesus said, Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

God is not through with us yet. Let's pray for one another always.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met last Saturday morning in the lovely home of Delbert and Dorothy Hood. President Christine Burleson presided over the weekly prayer meeting. She gave some beautiful remarks.

The scripture was read by Sister Elnora Jones, Matthew 27:1 thru 10; while Sister Dorothy Nash gave a beautiful prayer.

The morning scripture lesson was taught by Sister Adelia Hardrick. Her scriptures were Matthew 28 and Isaiah 60:1. Her subject was "Come Out of the Tomb."

(5) And the angel answered and said unto the women, fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. (6) He is not here; for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. (7) And go quickly, and tell his disciples that He is risen from the dead; and behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him; lo, I have told you.

Isaiah 60:1: Arise, shine; for the light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.

"We are living stones, people."

This speaker said: "Come out of your tomb of depression, and shine. God is in control, don't look at your circumstances. Look to Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith."

This teacher certainly did brighten up our day.

Thought for this week: "The devil has stole every major day which points to our Lord and Saviour."

Thanksgiving: We have given to the turkey.

Christmas: We have given to Santa Claus.

Easter: We have given to the Rabbit.

Rev. E. V. Hill says: "Why can't we call Good Friday "Crucifixion Day," Easter "Resurrection Day."

The rabbit has no right to override this important event. The time is far spent. Christians. Our Saviour went to that cross for you and I, and we are still coloring eggs, buying Easter coloring eggs, buying Easter frocks and bonnets. By the way, rabbits don't lay eggs. The Lord can't stand a liar in his sight. Think about it!!

Breakfast was served with all kinds of breakfast foods, including home made sweet rolls, baked by Sister Annie M. Johnson. This lady sure can cook!! Come by!!

We will meet in the home of our President, Sister Burleson, at 2407 East 9th Street, Saturday morning. We're looking for your presence.

The Memorial Building Fund donation (The Master Builder is Jesus Christ): Dorothy Sowell, $25.00; and Irma Cook, $5.00.

Thank you so kindly for your gift. We will continue to walk by faith and not by sight.

Closing prayer was offered by Sister Elnora Jones.

Our sick and shut in list include: Sister Bonner, Sister James Lacy, Rev. Wilson Baldwin, Sister

Ruby Jay

For now, we invite you to take advantage of this special sale. It'll only last two weeks... so the sooner you get here, the better the selection.
