Shown are cooks at an end-of-year "old fashioned" picnic or carnival on the school grounds of New Directions. A bountiful meal included the hamburgers prepared by a large grill by Southwest Digest editor T. J. Patterson, left, and LISD Dropout Resource/Coordinator Tom Brown, right. Mary Solis, teacher's aide (second from left), and principal Dorothy Phea coordinated the preparation of the foods for students and guests.

Students used tickets they earned through service to the school, academic work, etc. to participate in games at the event.

Household Products Can Pose Toxic Dangers

Many products people use every day contain hazardous chemicals. Improper use, storage or disposal of these products can contaminate our natural resources including our drinking water. One quart of motor oil, for example, can contaminate up to two million gallons of drinking water.

Sewage treatment plants and municipal landfills are not designed to handle hazardous wastes, so harsh household chemicals should not be poured down the drain or thrown in the regular garbage — and they should not be dumped on the ground.

Paints, Cleaners and Pesticides

Toxic chemicals are found in paints, glues, waxes and household cleaners and polishes. Many of these chemicals, and their containers, should be disposed of in a licensed hazardous waste facility although turpentine and some paint thinners can be recycled.

Fertilizers, fungicides, herbicides, insecticides, rat poisons and weed killers should also be treated as hazardous wastes.

Automotive and Other Products

Almost all automotive products contain toxic chemicals, but many can be recycled, including motor oil, anti-freeze, batteries, motor fuels and some auto body repair products.

Commonly used items such as flashlight batteries, fingernail polish, lighter fluid, moth balls and photographic chemicals contain toxics. Gun cleaning solvents are also toxic, but can be recycled.

Where Possible, Avoid Toxics

For example, there are detergents that are low in phosphates or are phosphate-free — such as many liquid detergents. Some consumers choose "friendly" alternatives to toxic products: cedar chips for moth balls; mineral oil for furniture polish; baking soda and powdered sugar for roach poison; etc.

And Recycle!

Today, most communities have recycling businesses or services that take paper, metal and glass products and some will take "hard" plastics such as milk jugs, soda bottles, etc. Some communities have "hazardous collection days" once or twice a year. Check the yellow pages for businesses that recycle tires, motor oil, batteries and other wastes. And, if you are unsure of how to dispose of a particular product, contact your local water utility or sanitation department.

If you have a consumer complaint, call your nearest Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

NOTHING TO FALL BACK ON

by
Stephen C. McIntyre

A few months ago I received a little flyer at church concerning the Overton area in Central Lubbock. It was an interesting little thing put out by The Committee of Churches. According to the flyer, in 1970 the population of the area was: 86% white, .5% black, and 13% brown. Today, it is 38% white, 15% black, and 46% brown. The poverty in the area went from 18% in 1970 to 29% in 1990. During the same time period the number of empty buildings increased from 10% to 27%, single parents from 15% to 31%, and renters from 78% to 94%.

Would the change in color, wealth, and status have anything to do with the current attitude of the LISD and city towards that area of town?

During the last few years all of us have read Jay Harris crying out on the AJ's editorial page that the economic boycott of South Africa was only hurting black Africans in that country and that responsible blacks were against the boycott. The Montgomery bus boycott probably prompted the same response from the editorial page of the AJ.

Of course, out of the other side of his mouth, he editorializes about the need to increase economic boycott pressure against Cuba because, after all, the boycott worked against Nicaragua.

The bottom line is clear, economic boycotts work. Perhaps, that nonviolent tactic would be appropriate to solve some of the sillier things still going on around this town.

The elections are coming up in the Fall. Those of you who need information about the incumbents should contact: Sarah Searcy, Editor, Public Policy Information Fund, 1205 Nueces, Austin, Texas 78701 (512)469-0158. Ms. Searcy can provide you voting records of all state and federal elected officials in Texas.

You have a choice of voting for Larry Combest for Congress or writing in the name of your favorite dead uncle. I am sure that once you have read about Larry's record a little bit you will join with me in writing in my Uncle Joe's name.

On May 24, 1990 two more Texas banks failed and were taken over. It was reported on May 11th that three other Texas banks failed. With these five Texas banks in two weeks that makes I believe, 38 Texas banks out of the 61 U.S. bank failures this year.

It was not too long ago that the failure of a bank was unheard of anywhere. It sure is a good thing we have fiscal conservatives and Wall Street wizards running things in Washington and Austin.

It was said by a poet a long time ago that to be an outlaw and to survive for any length of time you have to tell the truth. Bob Dylan was right. There are, however, a couple of corollaries to that rule: the truth you tell may not always be believed and, while you may survive for a while, you probably will not ride into the sunset with those honorable retirees like Nixon, Reagan, et al.

I have heard from a couple of different folks that some of our elected minority officials have been receiving death threats prior to voting on certain issues. Those good 'ole boys making the threats should contact the good 'ole boys at George Bush's CIA and request them to come in and sit up some death squads similar to the ones in Chile, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Iran, Guatemala, or maybe there are some folks in the security forces in South Africa who will be unemployed soon, someone could make a quick phone call and ask....

DEAR TC: That was widely believed among cooks of a generation or two ago. But to nutritionists today it isn't so. Most brown sugar is simply white sugar with a touch of dark and flavorful molasses added.

Answers:

- A. True. Like sunburns and mosquito bites, skin injuries increase with warm weather activity. About twice as many injuries occur in summer than in winter.
- B. False. Spurting likely means an artery is damaged. Apply the compress, but seek medical help FAST.
- C. False. A puncture wound should be allowed to bleed for a brief period, so as to flush out bacteria which may have been forced into the wound.
- D. False. Some medical experts believe iodine and hydrogen peroxide harm healthy skin. One prominent dermatologist recommends that minor cuts and scrapes simply be washed in running cold tap water before being dried and bandaged.
- E. False. Research shows that generally speaking, covering a wound to

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast met in the lovely home of Delbert & Dorothy Hood last Saturday morning at 9 a. m. The meeting consisted only with prayer, intercessory and individual for the sick -- mentally and physically.

Scripture was Psalm 98:1-9 by our president, Sister Christine Burleson.

A few thoughts to remember:

You can do a lot more with what God prepares you with than that which you steal from him.

Everything God has to offer us, we have to qualify.

When someone pays back evil for good, evil never leaves his house.

No matter how hard we try to act like good people, we will have to deal with the hidden sin in our hearts first.

Why don't God's people wait on the moving of God's spirit instead of forcing the act, when there's no power.

The Bible says blessed are the meek which means self control. If you don't possess it you are in deep trouble.

Some are trading the work of the spirit for the toys of the flesh.

God loves our Children through us as Parents.

We are fighting against red or green hair or boys with ear rings, Crips of Bloods. Are any outward adoring of a dress code. God is against the inward sin, sin. It's not about what's on the outside that makes you a sinner, it's the heart. We've never seen a heart on the outside of a body.

What do you think about this generation? It seems as if people are running from the Truth!

We have many sick on the list this week. Among them are Mattie Lou Ervin, a patient in West Texas Hospital, room 350; Sister Patton, James E. Lacy, Brother Samuel Curtis, Sister Cora Williams, Brother Johnson.

We are sure there are many more.

Write in your prayer request or call. Prayer does work?? According to the faith. Write: P. O. Box 1223, Lubbock, Texas 79403.

Read and believe the Word of God. II Chronicles

7:14, Mark 11:22-26.

We love you. Keep loving your enemy, and praying for him, and don't forget to smile. It's an universal language freely given.

We will meet in the home of Sister Ardelia Hardrick, 2705 Boston Avenue. See you there!!

Closing prayer was offered by Sister Irma Cook. Christine Burleson, president; Ardelia Hardrick, vice president; Elnora Jones, secretary; Dorothy Hood, reporter.

Quote of the Week

FROM THE OF PARSON D. A. SMITH

Ephesians 4:32 reads, "And be kind, one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

Not everybody is kind. If a poll was conducted it would be found that not one of us is always kind. Most of us underestimate the importance of this supreme grace. Often in our prayers we pray to be strong, true, and faithful, but we seldom pray to be kind. Jesus made kindness one of the test of his judgement. Jesus commands us to love our enemies, and explains his meaning by adding, "bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them that despitefully use you." In other words, be kind. Win your enemies by kindness. Kill their enmity by kindness. Do you not know that their would be no wars among nations; no need for summits; no quarrels in the community; no troubles in the church; no disturbances in the home, if people were only kind. Maybe you feel that their are times in your life when you need to exercise something stronger than kindness. Takes note! There is nothing stronger. The person who has let him or herself become control by anger and display violent emotions is pitifully weak. Kindness is power. It is a divine achievement. Only the kind are Godlike, and only they in whom is the spirit of God can be kind.

6-7-90 We Thank God For Jesus "The ABC's Of Walking With God!!"

Part I

Psalm 1:1-2 -- Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of the sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

When I became a Christian; then I began walking after my Lord.

Deuteronomy 13:4 -- Ye shall walk after the Lord your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve Him, and cleave unto Him.

I then began to study his word, and walk before Him with the truth in my heart.

I King 2:4a -- That the Lord may continue his word which he spake concerning me, saying, if thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth with all their heart and with all their soul.

I then prayed to the Lord to help me to walk: "Christ Like," at all times.

Colossians 2:6-7 -- As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus, the Lord, so walk ye in Him: Rooted and built up in Him, and established in the Faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

Lord, and I don't want to walk in darkness; it's like blind leading the blind.

Psalm 82:5 -- They know not, neither will they understand; then walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth are out of course.

And I pray Lord that I walk not like an enemy; giving shame to the cross.

Phillippians 3:18 -- For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ.

I don't want to walk after this flesh of mine; some will be loss.

Romans 8:1 -- There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit.

Lord, I pray that I walk not as the Gentiles; wanting the riches of the mind.

Ephesians 4:17-18 -- This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart.

Lord, I pray not to walk like the fools of this world; it is blind leading the blind.

Ephesians 5:15-16 -- See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

Lord, I just to walk humble; with all the love that you gave me.

Micah 6:8 -- He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.

I will walk with the integrity; for thy has bestowed mercy to me.

God is not through with us yet. So let's pray for one another always.

Meet Pfc. Thomas Hawkins

Chicago — A blow-up of the above photograph of Pfc. Thomas Hawkins of Graystone, N. C., is part of an outstanding historical exhibition on the Camp Logan "mutiny", assembled by Carver Cultural Center of San Antonio, Texas. The exhibit is on display in the viewing rotunda of Independence Bank of Chicago, owned by the nation's largest black bank holding company, INDECOHP, Inc. "Camp Logan," a play about the mutiny, tours the same cities as the exhibition.

Private Hawkins served in Company I, Third Battalion, 24th Infantry, in the Philippines and with General Pershing's forces along the border, arriving in Houston's Camp Logan in July 1917. He was one of 13 black soldiers executed on Salado Creek near San Antonio in December 1917. The infantrymen were charged with mutiny and killing white citizens after months of growing tension between the black soldiers and Houston's white civilian police force.

Pfc. Thomas Hawkins

Hawkins denied any involvement but was sentenced to death on the testimony of witnesses who did not know him but claimed to have seen him in the column of soldiers who marched on Houston. The black soldiers had legal counsel from a nonlawyer.

Private Hawkins' mother, Cassie Hawkins, sought for weeks during the autumn of 1917 to learn his whereabouts from the War Department, but failed. His family learned of the circumstances of his death only after he wrote his mother and father the night before he was hanged. His father's request for his body was denied and he was interred with his comrades near the site of the hanging on Salado Creek.

His last letter began: "When this letter reaches you, I will be beyond the veil of sorrow. I will be in heaven with the angels."

Old Glory

Peace! Here Old Glory flies,
Proud and dutiful beneath our violet skies
Displaying all the integrity for which our country stands
Waving continually with pride over this young and gifted land.

For here each man can choose his own belief;
Reach for the stars, be great, small or meek
Every ethnic group did build this Nation
Here we stand tall and strong for our salvation.

Two hundred years more Old Glory will fly
Beneath our still and peaceful sky,
Displaying fully the meaning of our life,
Standing for Peace, Integrity and Pride.

Freedom will ring in the heart of every man,
Throughout this proud and bountiful land.
Peace! Here onward Old Glory flies,
Forever beneath our peaceful skies.

C.P.
Houston

Dear C.P.:

It depends on who provides the service. If the service is provided by a hospital owned by a city, county or hospital district, the service isn't taxable. But if it's provided through a private hospital -- profit or non-profit--it's a security service and is taxable.

Young Drug Fighters Join Forces

Austin, Texas -- Junior high and senior high students from across Texas will gather at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas for the sixth annual Texas War on Drugs/ Texas Youth in Action Leadership Conference, June 6-9, 1990.

Sponsored by the Texans' War on Drugs, the four day conference highlighted the growing number of youth who are choosing a drug free lifestyle. Participants participated in a variety of workshops and activities that provided information and training in the areas of drug education starting drug-free youth groups, community action planning, drug-free activities, personal growth, decision making and quality leadership skills.

Among the speakers and experts addressing the conference were Mark Scharenbraoch, internationally recognized motivational speaker; Sharon Scott Iona, speaker; Sharon Scott, M. A., L. P. C., nationally known of her peer pressure reversal techniques; and Alan Bium, M. D., Baylor College of Medicine, Houston.

Texas Youth in Action, the youth arm of the Texans' War on Drugs, is one of the fastest growing drug prevention programs in the nation. Its goal is to train teens to say "No" to drugs and alcohol, as well as provide a network of support to reinforce young people's commitment to be drug free.

Other Texas Youth in Action Leadership Conference being held this year include Texans' Christian University, July 9-12, 1990, Del Lago Resort and Conference Center, Conroe, Texas, August 6-9, 1990, and MO Ranch in Hunt, Texas, November 29 - December 2, 1990. By attending these conferences, over 2,500 young people will be trained to start prevention programs in their local communities.

Summer School Gets Underway June 11, 1990

Summer school classes get underway June 11 in the Lubbock Independent School District. Registration will be Thursday, June 7; however, many students have already been pre-registered.

A variety of programs are offered, some of them to help students reach required levels of accomplishment to begin next year on grade level and some designed for advancement and enrichment.

Senior high, junior high, elementary, and special education programs will be available. Transportation will be available for most programs. Many of the classes will be offered tuition-free to students who reside in the school district.

It's a new experience for this writer, CLARISSA JAY, but will do what we can until my mother, RUBY JAY, is back in the saddle in the near future. At this report, SISTER JAY is a patient at Methodist Hospital, 410 West. She continues to talk about the outstanding service she receives from the medical staff at Methodist Hospital, and to let you, her readers, know that she's doing just fine. Keep praying for her as she continues to grow stronger.

With the theme, "Lift Him Higher," the services were great last Sunday morning at New Hope Baptist Church. Everything began at 9:30 a. m. with Sunday School, and all teachers were at their post of duty. It was a good lesson. During the morning worship hour at 10:45 a. m., the Deacons and Deaconesses were responsible for the devotional period. The Senior Choir did a splendid job in singing God's praises. After the Mission and Educational Offering, conducted by the Deacons and Ushers, Pastor Billy R. Moton gave his pastoral observation.

After the morning hymn, Pastor Moton brought the sermon of the hour.

A welcome was extended to all visitors by Sister Celestine Kyle.

Vacation Bible School will be held June 25-29, 1990, beginning each evening at 6:30 p. m.

All youth and adults are asked to come out and participate in this annual event.

Federation of Choirs will be held Sunday, June 24th at 2:30 p. m. with Rising Star Baptist Church as host of the month.

Our sick and shut in list include: Rodney Pitts, John H. Middleton, Katie Lynn, Vera Mitchell, K. G. McCullough, Harrison "Bull" Davis, Charles Krind, Ollie Mayberry, and Nancy

Also Rev. A. L. Dunn, Anner Johnson, Wilson Campbell, Rev. F. N. Nelson, Encie Parsons, Ben Andrews, and George Thompson.

Let us continue to pray for the Johnson and Phillips families in this time of bereavement. God knows best.

Budget Summit:

Economic Crisis or Money Grab?

By Stephen J. Entin

Washington is whipping up deficit hysteria to lure the nation into accepting a major tax increase. The "budget summit" has nothing to do with an economic crisis. Washington simply lacks the political will to cut government spending and waste.

There has been substantial progress in reducing the federal budget deficit in recent years. The deficit peaked at 6.3 percent of gross national product (GNP) in FY 1983, and peaked in dollar terms at $221.2 billion in FY 1986. It has since fallen sharply, to 2.9 percent of GNP and $151 billion in FY 1989.

When the deficit is less than 3 percent of GNP, it is not an economic threat, even on a continual basis. The economy will be growing, on average, faster than the debt, and interest on the debt will take up a shrinking share of the budget. The economy can grow its way out of the remaining deficit problem without further tax increases, if spending is not expanded beyond projected growth under existing law.

In January, the administration forecast that, as a result of economic growth and past spending cuts, the deficit would decline rapidly, reaching $100.5 billion (2.3 percent of GNP) in FY 1991, with a budget surplus by FY 1995. This would have made it easy to meet the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings (GRH) deficit reduction targets with only moderate additional spending restraint. The administration's economic assumptions were too optimistic. It now estimates that the FY 1991 deficit will be at least $155 billion under current programs and tax rates, excluding one-time spending for the S&L bailout.

This is not an economic crisis. The deficit is not ballooning out of control. Even after adjusting for the administration's revenue error and overly optimistic interest-rate forecast, the deficit would still be trending down in the years ahead under ongoing programs and tax rates.

The problem is a legal one. The GRH deficit target for FY 1991 is $64 billion. Assuming the budget summit does not include the S&L bailout in the GRH targets, this leaves a gap of $91 billion between the new budget projection and the GRH target. This gap is the source of the budget "crisis"; Congress and the administration don't think they can agree on spending cuts of that size, and do not want to risk automatic spending cuts.

The key is to adjust the GRH targets. They should be reset at $125 billion for FY 1991, falling $25 billion a year until the budget is balanced in 1996. Since revenues are rising under current tax law by $60 billion in a slow year, and by $80 billion in a good one, such targets can be met with modest spending restraint and no tax increases.

These targets exclude additional borrowing for the S&L bailout, which could reach $130 billion over three years. However, this will be a one-time event, if the federal cleanup crew does its job right, and some of this money will be recovered when the S&L assets are sold. Since Washington is largely to blame for the S&L mess, it should not be rewarded with a tax increase to pay for it.

Tax increases, whether income taxes, payroll taxes or excise taxes, directly threaten economic growth. They increase the cost of goods and services and cut sales and output. They cost jobs by making labor more expensive and work less rewarding. They discourage savings and investment. There is no historical evidence that deficit reduction via a tax increase would lower interest rates and make up for this direct anti-growth damage.

Spending cuts are different. They reduce government's use of the public's savings, and they also release the manpower, steel, computer chips and other real resources the government would have used up, leaving them for the private sector to create homes, factories or consumption goods.

Cutting the deficit gradually through spending restraint alone is much better than a quick cut via tax increases. There is no economic crisis

Ask Dr. Epstein "All About Adolescents"

Dear Dr. Epstein: I've lived in the same neighborhood for 25 years. Around the corner from my home lives my dearest girlfriend. Recently, I've noticed her fifteen-year-old daughter being picked up by an older man in front of my house. When I approached her, she seemed lost and very disoriented. She walked away, got in his car, and they drove off. Should I let my girlfriend know? Concerned Neighbor

Dear Concerned Neighbor: You are right to be concerned. Too many people choose to ignore uncomfortable situations today.

You should tell your friend what has been happening and let her know that you want to help. If the girl's behavior has changed drastically, her mother is probably aware that things are not right. However, the mother may not know what is wrong. Because you mention that the child seemed very disoriented, substance abuse should be considered as a cause. Often, parents go through a denial stage when they see their children's behavior changing. They may wish to believe the child is going through a teenage phase rather than face the probability of drug use.

You should suggest to your friend that she speak to her daughter candidly about this older man and also that she look for signs of drug use. If your friend does find evidence of drug use, she should bring her daughter to a treatment program for diagnosis without delay.

By bringing this problem to your friend's attention and letting her know you're willing to support her, you would be doing her a favor. The problem will not go away by itself; it will only become worse.

Dear Dr. Epstein: My husband and I were divorced two years ago. My twelve-year-old daughter and seven-year-old son have been extremely close to their father. My ex-husband remained a year ago. When my children visit their father on weekends, their new stepmother tells them that the only family she recognizes is my ex-husband, their baby daughter and herself. She belittles my children and tries to separate my ex-husband from them by cancelling planned visits. I have tried to explain to my children that it will take time for their stepmother to adjust to the situation. My children feel they've lost their father's love and are extremely upset. What can I do to remedy the situation? Frustrated Mom

Dear Frustrated Mom: The situation you describe is, unfortunately, all too common today. When parents divorce and remarry, it is usually most difficult for the children. You have no control over the behavior of your ex-husband's new wife. Neither do you have control over your ex-husband's behavior. However, you do have a degree of control over what your children experience. If visiting their father in the presence of his new wife is a negative, unpleasant experience for your children, you not only have the right, but the responsibility to end those visits. Explain to your children that their father loves them and that he can visit them either at your home or on outings alone. Explain to your ex-husband that you want him to spend time with the children, but that you will not allow them to be belittled by his new wife. Tell him he is free to see the children, but that you will not allow them to continue to be exposed to the negative environment created by his new wife. If your ex-husband has the best interests of the children in mind, he will agree to this arrangement. In time, if his new wife becomes more secure in her marriage, things may improve. However, you must think of your children's welfare now and limit visits with their father accordingly.

requiring a crash effort. In fact, a "crash" is what we may get if we allow Washington to use the S&L bailout and other temporary factors as an excuse to burden the economy with permanently higher taxes to support more government waste. ll

"Man & Woman Of The Year"

The Lubbock Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. will be sponsoring their annual Community Services Award at 7:00 p. m. Monday, June 18th at the Mae Simmons Community Center.

This program will honor several public servants and school retirees in the community. Also the "Man and Woman of the Year" will be chosen on that evening.

The theme for the event will be "Education: The Pathway To The Future."

Dr. Theodora Phea will be the keynote speaker.

The public is urged to come out and enjoy this program.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The Federal Commitment

On the eve of his first run for the presidency, Republican Thomas E. Dewey observed, "It is a cruel illusion to pass laws which are a mere promise without also taking the measures necessary to fulfillment of that promise."

Dewey's 1939 observation could today serve as a commentary on federal laws that support public education. For despite the President's and the governors' pledge to improve education, despite their commitment at the recent education summit, rhetoric and reality remain out of sync. We still await the performance that would give substance to these promises.

Just how wide the chasm between promise and performance has become is documented in a recently released report titled Federal Education Funding: The Cost of Excellence.

This research-based document details the gaps in funding for 12 of our nation's most important, and most successful, federal education programs—programs such as Head Start, Chapter 1, college student grants, and the Education for All Handicapped Children Act.

The Cost of Excellence documents the decade-long decline in federal support for essential education programs. The report also offers realistic estimates of the level of federal assistance needed to make these programs available to all eligible students.

Federal education funding has been on a treadmill for several years. In fact, in many areas we're actually going backwards. Case in point: the federal government promised to fund 40 percent of the cost of educating America's handicapped young people, currently $8,800 a year. Meeting that promise would require a federal contribution of $3,352 per handicapped student. In reality, the contribution is $352. That's a 90 percent shortfall!

Time To Stop Promising, Start Performing

KEITH GEIGER

Another example: Head Start, arguably our nation's most successful preschool program, currently serves 450,000 students. That's impressive. But 2.5 million American youngsters are eligible for Head Start. That means our federal funding commitment denies more than 2 million needy students access to this program.

This performance makes a mockery of recent promises. It was, after all, less than three months ago that President Bush and our nation's governors set forth an impressive agenda designed to ensure America's preparedness for the 21st century. They defined six national education goals—all ambitious, all impressive, all true to the ideal of equity.

These goals will remain no more than pipe dreams unless, and until, fiscal commitments match rhetorical commitments.

If the pledge to improve education is not to be an empty gesture, all segments of our society—teachers, administrators, parents, businesses, religious institutions, and communities—must demand fundamental shifts in national funding priorities. Progress in this direction has been, at best, sluggish.

Congress is now debating the federal budget for fiscal year 1991. It's time for all Americans to band together and insist that powerful promises be matched by powerful performance. We need strong action, action that gives real meaning to the pledge that all our youth shall be prepared for the challenges and the opportunities that await them.

We must remember that today's students are the guardians of America's tomorrow. Right now, too many of those students are suffering. They are victimized by policies of neglect, policies that border on child abuse.

The only way to end this abuse is for the President and the Congress to stop promising and start performing. And the place to begin is with a new fiscal agenda that will unleash rather than stifle the potential of America's young people.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met last Saturday morning in the lovely home of Delbert and Dorothy Hood at 9 a. m. It was changed because of an emergency. We will go to Parkway Nursing Center Saturday morning at 10 a. m. Looking forward to seeing you. We will also participate in the Juneteenth Parade on Saturday morning.

The devotion last Saturday was led by Sister Christine Burleson, president. Prayer was offered by Sister Dorothy Nash.

The morning lesson was taught by Sister Linda Smith. Her scripture was Psalm 42:5; 43:1-5. Her subject was "Praise."

Then will I go unto the altar of God, unto God my exceeding; joy, yes, upon the harp will I praise thee, O'God, My God.

(5) Why art thou cast down, O' My Soul? And why art thou disquieted within me? Hope in God; for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

This speaker said: "Praise is very important. Praise is not asking for things. It's not thanking him, it's just exalting, and loving him, because He, God, and praise clears out the path for him to honor our requests.

On Saturday, we just praised God, and had a period of silence. Just being still and humbling ourselves before God. Seeking direction by the Holy Spirit. There are additional praise scriptures which were read by Sister Elnora Jones: Psalm 135, 136, 146, 147 & 149.

Read, Praise is so important!

Prayer is more powerful than cocaine; stronger than Jack Daniel and Pearl Beer; stronger than Jeritol. Are you tired?? Don't just take Hadacol, pray!

Let God arise and the enemy be scattered.

Satan hinders prayer, because prayer hinders Satan.

There are many sick today. Trust God; have faith. Read Mark 11:22-26.

Our bereaved families include: Phillips, Johnson and Lacy families (brother of Dorothy Hood, Earl Wheeler and Irma Cook).

The Memorial Building Fund continues to need your support, both ways -- prayerfully and financially. Write: Outreach Prayer Breakfast, P. O. Box 1223, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Keep smiling, Lubbock, and loving and praying for your enemy.

Closing prayer was offered by Linda Smith.

Can any good come out of Nazareth??? You come and see!

President, Christine Burleson; vice president, Ardelia Hardrick; secretary, Elnora Jones; reporter, Dorothy Hood.

"Happ Father's Day"

"A Portrait Of A Good Father!!!"

Proverbs 22:6 -- Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

Lord, we know "The Father" is to be the leader of the home. He's to walk with the respect; "where no man can lay him to wrong."

He's to teach and train his children, the ways & commandments of God. "He's to step in when the Mother is helping them to be spoiled."

Proverbs 1:7-8 -- The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; but fools despise wisdom and instruction. My son, hear the instruction of thy Father, and forsake not the law of thy Mother.

Lord, we know the Father is to help train the children in the way to go. He's to do things with them, and speak out against "their no, no's."

Proverbs 4:1-4 -- Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding. For I give you good doctrine, forsake ye not my law. For I was my Father's son, tender and only beloved in the sight of my Mother. He taught me also, and said unto me, let this heart retain my words: Keep my commandments, and live.

(King David was not a good Father, even when his first son Amnon raped his own sister.

In II Samuel 13:1-14 -- King David was very mad, but didn't carry out the law of God. Because he loved his son. Lev. 20:17. So now his other son Absalom hated his brother for this rape and killed him for it. Which now makes his son Absalom a killere, because he did King David's job).

Leviticus 20:17 -- If a man shall take (rape) his sister, his father's daughter. His Mother's daughter, and see her nakedness, and she see him nakedness; it is wicked thing; and they shall be cut off in the sight of their people: he hath uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall bear his iniquity.

O. T. Apocrypha Ecclesiasticus 30:8-12 -- An horse not broken becometh headstrong; and a child left to himself will be wilful. Cocker thy child, and he will make thee afraid; play with him, and he will bring thee to heaviness. Laugh not with him, lest thou have sorrow with him, and lest thou gnash thy teeth in the end. Give him no liberty in his youth; and wilek not at his follies. Bow down his neck while he is young, and beat him on the sides while he is a child, lest he wax stubborn, and be disobedient unto thee; and so bring sorrow to thine heart.

Lord, we know this U. S. A. is now doing the same old thing. We won't do what you said for us to do: "Shame, Shame, Shame!"

Galatians 6:7 -- Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

Lord, we need more Fathers like "Zedee," the Father of James & John." The Bible never lives details of him, "but his name follows his son's."

Matthew 4:21 -- And going on from thence, He (Jesus) saw other brethren, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their Father, mending their nets, and he called them.

God is not through with us yet. So let's pray for one another always.

Your Brother In Christ Jesus Always.

FROM THE OF
PARSON D. A. SMITH

In the Interdenominational Ministerial Fellowship Alliance worship services on last Sunday evening as Rev. Kado Lang was expounding with vigor on the subject "The Gospel Is Good News," receptiveness to the message by the membership of New Jerusalem Baptist Church caught my attention. They listen as if their ears were trained to hear the Good News. Their facial expressions seemed to say "Tell us more and more about this Good News of Jesus."

As I observed the host church membership and the other beautiful Christians who had come to share with the ministers in worship their relationship with God, Romans 5:1 and 11 drew my attention.

Every person is born with a sinful nature, and as such that puts him or her at war with God. Most people live and die in that state of warfare, and they face eternal torment and alienation from their Creator. However, for those who have been justified because of their faith in Christ, there is peace with God.

Sin is a terrible thing. It weakens the body, impairs, cripples the memory, deafens the spiritual sense, and brings sadness and death. Righteousness brings joy and life. Christians like those who worship in the I. M. F. A. worship services at New Jerusalem Baptist Church where the Rev. E. W. Austin is the proud pastor, have every right to rejoice over the Good News: Jesus died on the cross to bear away the sins of the world. He opened up a new and living way. He took the hand of mankind and placed it in the hand of God. And since Calvary God looks at the repentant sinner through His beloved Son and sees him, holy, perfect, justified.

How To Hold On To Your Faith

If a believer is to hold on, and be true to his faith, he must not be caught up in the surrounding territory that is controlled by the enemy. He must know what causes the overthrow of one's faith and how to prevent it. Before we look at these two points, however, we will think about the meaning of faith.

What Christian Faith Is

To some people, the word "faith" conjures up feelings of optimism, positive thinking or fantasy. Sometimes people will say, "I have faith, I believe everything is going to work alright!" But for a person who is under duress, this concept is not adequate.

Ground Breaking Ceremonies

Last Sunday afternoon, scores of Lubbockites, along with others, gathered for the Messiah Presbyterian Church and Presbyterian Center Doctor's Clinic at 802 Quirt Avenue.

One of the presenters, Don Jones who has been a member of Messiah for 30 years, gave the complete history of the church and those who had given so much of their life for the church.

The church and new doctor's facilities are expected to be completed in October, 1990.

CENSUS '90

This is Our Chance!
Answer the Census.

The Christian's faith is a system of belief, a world view, that touches every aspect of life objectively. The sincere Christian who knows the content of his faith will be better able to stand when he is surrounded by unbelief. Some people say they pray all the time, at certain hours of the day, but nothing ever happens for them, evidently that person is praying the wrong prayer. Prayer is a sincere desire of the heart. When you pray and belief, have faith in God, and in the prayer. It will be changes made. You can go ahead and start thanking God for answered prayers. The Bible gives an overview. A coherent whole, to the understanding of existence, of origins, of knowledge, of theology, of morals, of meaning. Solomon, in the Book of Ecclesiastes, showed that men pursue liquor, laughter, lust, learning, labor, wealth, and everything else to find meaning in life. Solomon tried them all. And what did he come up with, they are vanity, emptiness, futility! Only faith in God can bring meaning and value to life. The day in which we live the Bible and its credibility are subject of ridicule. A person once said, no educated people believes in the Bible, but after the talk session, the main instructor dismissed the class by saying, "Well, those men may be highly trained, but they are not educated." Do not be deceived. There's no way a person can divorce the Christian faith from an inerrant Bible. Make up your mind to build your life on God's word.

of our everyday life, by no means, is just a one day event.

However, the members of the Senior Citizens Juneteenth Committee and the Emancipation (Juneteenth) Committee want to show their appreciation to the senior citizens by celebrating Juneteenth, the old fashion way, with food, religious activities and fellowship. During the year, you may have seen members of the Senior Citizens Juneteenth Committee at Fiesta, United or 7-11 selling BBQ. Well, now is the time for us to give to the community.

FREE BBQ dinners will be served on Sunday, June 17, 1990, starting at 1 p. m. until our supply is gone, at Mae Simmons Park (UNDER THE TENT).

Those senior citizens who are bed ridden or otherwise unable to get to the tent, please contact Buford Wiley, 763-8483, Marvin Turner, 744-0889 or Dwight Pierce, 763-3171 in order for a plate dinner to be delivered to your residence around noon time, Sunday, June 17th.

Realizing that senior citizens will have little enjoyment without their relatives, friends and neighbors, they are also invited to join the festivities. If you would like to see us continue this tradition, donations will be accepted from anyone who would like to contribute. We hope the community will take the time to join us and our senior citizens in another Juneteenth, Sunday, June 17, 1990 under the tent at Mae Simmons Park.

We also like to thank all those who have supported us throughout the year, without your support, we could not put this event on. A special thanks to the managers and staff of Fiesta Supermarket, United Supermarket and 7-11 at Zenith and Parkway.

An additional thanks to Mr. Willie Stewart and Tyree Woodard for their support.
