Estacado Relations from the Students' Point of View

(Part 2 of a 2 Part Series by Candida Johnson)

Graduating from Dunbar High School was a family tradition in the Gamble household. Both parents and four children all received their diplomas from Dunbar. Two of the Gamble brothers wore the crown of Mr. D.H.S., making the Gamble name a permanent fixture in Dunbar history. The family tradition will be broken this spring when the youngest family member, Shae Gamble, receives his diploma from Estacado High School.

"I found out Dunbar would be closing the middle of my junior year. I feel pretty unlucky that I'm the only person in my family that won't be graduating from Dunbar," says Gamble. Cheryl Stewart, a transfer student from Dunbar, expressed the same feelings. Her father and brother graduated from Dunbar.

"I still think about Dunbar and wish I was over there," says Stewart. Many former Dunbar students say they didn't believe the school would be converted into a junior high this fall since there was only one class left to graduate. The school board's decision to convert Dunbar happened as planned and has left some would-be Dunbar seniors feeling depressed and left out. Calling themselves the "Lost Class of Dunbar."

"The first few weeks of school us seniors from Dunbar were really scared and depressed, we pretty much stuck together in a small clump," says Gamble. Stewart agreed: "The first few weeks of school were very intense, but now things are going O.K. (knock on wood)."

The Estacado staff and student body say the reason for the smooth transition is that they've done everything in their power to make sure the students feel welcome. Some former Dunbar students disagree, saying there's more to going to school than not getting beat up and graduating.

"I feel that more provisions should have been made for us," says Stewart. "We recently voted for Homecoming Queen and none of the girls from Dunbar are finalists because people don't know us. I feel like I'm missing out on my senior year, because at Dunbar at least I had a fair chance at being a candidate," continued Stewart.

Emaucilla Hawkins, a former Dunbar cheerleader, says she would have loved to have been a cheerleader her senior year. "We didn't get a chance to try out for varsity cheerleader," says Hawkins.

Estacado cheerleading sponsor, Kathy Richardson, says she took a cheerleading sign-up sheet over to Dunbar last spring. "I think I was pretty fair because we were going to add at least two girls from Dunbar to our cheerleading squad. When I called to find out which girls were trying out, I was told that none of the girls from Dunbar wanted to try out," says Richardson.

Gamble expressed his disappointment at not being able to run for Drum Major. "At Dunbar I had a shot at being Drum Major but since the band director here didn't know what I could do, I will never experience what it would be like to be a Drum Major my senior year," Gamble adds that the current Drum Major is doing a great job and that he is thrilled to be a section leader in the band.

The thing former D.H.S. students say they miss most about their old school is the pride they had in winning. "At Dunbar we took pride in being the best, here at Estacado it's just a fashion show. The kids don't care about winning it's all about being cool and being seen on the field or court," said one student.

Seniors Russell Sheppard and Trishonna Turner, student body president, disagree. "We have a lot of pride in our school, I can't remember a time when I didn't want to be a Matador," says Turner. Both Russell and Sheppard are fourth year students at Estacado.

Sheppard, who is a member of football team says, "We proved everyone wrong, we really are getting along." Sheppard and Turner do however admit that they don't understand why the students from Dunbar still wear their maroon and white colors and old letter jackets.

Sheppard says he's been in on some of the wise cracks directed at the former D.H.S. students for wearing their letter jackets. But says it's all done in fun, not to hurt their feelings.

Stewart says those wise cracks do hurt. "We worked hard for these jackets, just because they took our school it doesn't mean they can erase our Dunbar experience."

Both Gamble and Stewart say they'll never forget what it was like going to Dunbar. But that instead of dwelling on the past they are ready to head for the future. "I'm not going to say I'm a full-out Matador but I'm getting there, the kids here are really nice and friendly," said Stewart.

Gamble says the students at Estacado should be applauded. "I find the students here very receptive. They've bent over backwards to make me feel welcome. I really appreciate it."

Turner says that she is really glad the students from Dunbar came to Estacado. "I can honestly say that I get along with some of the Dunbar kids better than I do the Estacado kids."

Russell agreed, but did add that he would be a little upset if one of the students from Dunbar were selected Mr. or Ms. E.H.S. This is the attitude that the "Lost Class" say they are getting used to.

"They don't mind us playing on their sports teams or doing things that will bring Estacado a good name, but they don't want us taking away things they've been waiting to win, as if we weren't waiting to be Homecoming Queen or Head Cheerleader," said one student from Dunbar.

Estacado principal Kenneth Wallace says that he is well aware that the students are going through some changes. Wallace has made an extra effort to get to know the former Dunbar students personally. By doing this he hopes to gain a better understanding of what each student is going through so that he in conjunction with his teaching staff can better help the teenagers.

Only time will reveal what lies ahead for the "Lost Class of Dunbar." The Estacado student body and teaching staff have already proven that East Lubbock residents can stand united and rise to the occasion.

Black Publishers Lead Fight against AT&T Cartoon

Economic Sanctions Threatened

By Stephanie Gadlin reprinted from the Chicago Crusader

As pressure continues to mount against the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. (AT&T) for reproducing, authorizing and distributing a racist cartoon which depicted Africa as being the homes of apes and gorillas, the Black newspaper publishers are vowing to launch economic sanctions against the long distance firm.

In a letter to AT&T corporate media manager Jeff Bauer, National Newspaper Publishers Association President (NNPA) Robert W. Bogle said he is appalled that "you would print this insulting reference in a company publication... it would appear that your reference to apes as people in Africa is certainly a reflection of African-Americans in this country." NNPA represents more than 200 newspapers across the USA and Virgin Islands.

Bogle referred to an illustration that appeared in AT&T Focus magazine, which is distributed to about 300,000 employees worldwide, that showed five characters on several continents chatting on the telephone. The character representing the African continent is a white-faced monkey, complete with bug-eyes and a wide, toothy smile. The other characters depicted are humans.

Outraged, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) launched a nationwide assault on the firm and called for African-Americans and others to switch to an alternative long-distance service, such as MCI or Sprint. The NNPA has demanded a meeting with AT&T executives to determine the firm's commitment to African-American reciprocity.

"This is an insult on the highest level," said Dorothy R. Leavell, publisher of the Chicago and Gary Crusader newspapers and treasurer of NNPA. "AT&T had long been a respected firm in African-American homes, but with this clear racist and insensitive illustration, which was distributed throughout the world, it is clear what the company thinks of its Black customers, and people of African descent in general.

"This is indicative to what the Black Press has been fighting against for years," Leavell continued. "While the mainstream media in this city failed in its duty to report the blatant act of racism, the Black media has stepped up to the challenge. We will fight AT&T until our community is redeemed of this severe level of corporate insensitivity. Perhaps the alternative should be for us to urge our community of 30 million strong to boycott and choose another long distance carrier."

Although AT&T chairman Robert Allen did not return telephone calls to the Crusader, a spokesman said in earlier interviews that the use of the illustration was due to negligence on part of the company responsible for producing it.

Carol Brown, manager of public relations for AT&T's Chicago branch, said, "We are terribly embarrassed as a company. Mr. Allen has sent a letter to all employees apologizing and will be meeting with Black organizations to discuss this matter. We are hopeful that Blacks won't switch the service."

Brown, who said African-Americans comprise 15 percent of Chicago employees, but declined to give employee figures worldwide, said the artist who drew the illustration has been fired.

"I am not sure that an apology would be enough," said Leavell. "We must now begin to question AT&T's hiring and vending practices with Black-owned businesses. We must now question their corporate integrity and how Blacks are being promoted within the company."

Leavell said African-American consumers should call Allen at (212) 387-5490 or (800) 336-6939 and express their dissatisfaction and outrage at the cartoon. The Chicago-based corporate offices of AT&T are located at 227 W. Monroe, Chicago, IL 60606. Susan Atteridge is corporate vice president and can be reached (312) 230-1000.

Ruby Jay's Corner

The New Hope Baptist Church, located at 2002 Birch Avenue, the "Church Where The People Really Care," Rev. Billy R. Moton is the proud pastor. Sunday School began last Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. with Supt. Thelma Brown presiding. Last Sunday was Youth Day, and the Primary Department led in the devotional period of Sunday School.

A song, "Praise Him," was sung, and the classes passed to their respective classes for 30 minutes.

The Attendance Banner was presented to Junior Class; and the Offering Banner was given to the Immediate Class. The Adult Classes lost the banners last Sunday. Men's Class lost the Offering Banner and Class No. 2, with Sister Dorothy Kinner as teacher, lost the Attendance Banner to Class No. 4, Sister Joan Y. Ervin's Class.

The devotional period for the morning worship services began at 10:45 a.m. with the Youth in charge.

The processional was conducted with the Youth Choir leading. They marched in singing out of their hearts and souls.

Altar prayer was led by Deacon R.J. Givens. A song, "We Worship You," The scripture and prayer was done by a youth. A song, "Twelve Gates to the City," was sung by the Youth Choir.

Responsive reading was done with the help of the congregation. The morning hymn was "Blessed Assurance."

Due to the absence of Pastor Moton, Rev. E. Johnson brought the message of the hour. His sermon was entitled "Beyond a Shadow of a Doubt." His text was Job 19:25-26. Rev. Johnson really did hold up for his "Father" in the Gospel. All present could see that the Lord was in this place.

Pastor Moton and family were in Pittsburgh, Pa. last Sunday.

The New Hope Baptist Church members will be journeying to the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday, October 17, 1993 in the anniversary of Rev. & Mrs. N.H. Franklin, at 3:00 p.m. Pastor Moton is asking all members to join him there.

The teaching of the services at New Hope were the same as usual last Sunday morning.

Remember the sick and shut-in of the community with special prayer.

Among them who need special prayer is Andrea Thompson, who is a patient at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital. Also ill is Rev. A.L. Dunn, former pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, who is a patient at South Park Hospital.

Sister Lillian Struges is ill at home.

Our prayers, love and sympathy go out to the Arthur Chase family who succumbed here last Wednesday. Final rites were held Wednesday, October 13, 1993. More on this next week.

A special prayer for Sister Chase is most appreciated.

Members of New Hope were glad to see Sister Knighton at church services last Sunday. She has been shut in for a time.

Mrs. Lila Griffin, a resident of Waco, Texas and former teacher at Dunbar High School, is visiting in the "Hub City" this week. She is a guest of Aunt Sug Johnson.

LEGAL MATTERS

By Attorney General Dan Morales

Telemarketing

Every day, Texans receive telephone calls offering them "free" prizes, soliciting contributions for charities, or pitching them "deals" on an endless variety of goods and services. Most telemarketing companies are legitimate, but you must be careful: last year alone, American consumers lost over $1 billion to fraudulent telemarketing scams.

Beware

Telephone sales fraud takes many forms. Some salespersons pressure you to act immediately because their special offer will no longer be good tomorrow. Others lure customers with phony gift offers or get rich quick schemes. Travel packages are billed as "buy one, get one free" but the first one costs more than the entire package is worth. You're notified that you've won a prize in a contest that you don't remember entering. All too frequently, no contest has been held and the only winner is the con artist who takes your credit card number for "verification purposes."

New Law to Protect You

My office worked closely with members of the state legislature to pass a law that makes it far more difficult for telephone con artists to "rip-off" Texas consumers. As of September 1, 1993, telephone solicitors, whether located in or out of state, must register with the Secretary of State's office. The required registration must disclose any felony or misdemeanor convictions, as well as any civil judgments, bankruptcies, or injunctions relating to the business's activities. The new law enables my Consumer Protection Division to investigate companies before a significant amount of harm has been done, and authorizes my offices to bring civil actions for violations with penalties of up to $50,000.

Know Who's Calling

Ask for the name, address, and phone number of the company that you are dealing with and check it out. Call the Secretary of State's office. Be leery if the only address provided is a post office box. Consult the telephone book or directory assistance: fly-by-night businesses often won't bother to be listed and will change their names frequently to avoid detection. Call the Office of the Attorney General or the nearest Better Business Bureau to see if any complaints have been filed against the company. Remember, though, we can't tell you with certainty whether or not a company is legitimate, and a new business may not yet have any complaints registered.

Get it in Writing

Request that any offers be sent to you in writing to ensure that there are no restrictions or conditions that you were not told about over the telephone.

Don't Be Afraid to Ask

Ask how much everything costs and be sure you know the total amount you're obligated to pay. Are there shipping and handling costs? If you're purchasing a travel package, what is included and what are the restrictions? If the caller claims that you have won a contest, are you required to pay a service charge?

Exercise Caution

Never give your credit card, social security or bank account numbers over the phone unless you are absolutely certain that the company is reputable. Be wary of anyone who insists that you send payment through a commercial overnight mail service, rather than the U.S. Postal Service—they may be trying to avoid federal mail fraud charges.

When in Doubt, Hang Up

If you receive an unsolicited call and are not interested in the product or service, simply ask that salesperson not phone again and that your name be removed from their marketing list. Even if an offer appears legitimate, if you still have doubts, remember that it is better to say no now than to be sorry later. Once you have been bilked by one of these con artists, it is almost impossible to get your money back.

You can have your phone number removed from many national telephone sales lists by writing to: Telephone Preference Service, c/o Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd St., New York, NY 10017.

We're here to help. Please contact your nearest OAG Consumer Protection Office.

Home Repair Needs

Students in the Master of Public Administration Program at Texas Tech will conduct a survey about home repair needs among homeowners of East Lubbock. The students are working on this project with Danish Wilson, the neighborhood services specialist of the City of Lubbock.

The City administers two home repair programs, called Helping Hands and Barrier Free Living, for homeowner occupants who fall within certain income guidelines. Typical repairs under "Helping Hands" are water, sewer, and gas line repairs and replacement of unsafe, unvented heaters with vented wall heaters. "Barrier Free Living" is for persons with mobility limitations. Typical work includes removal of structural barriers, such as too narrow doors or hallways.

The purpose of the survey is to find out whether eligible homeowners in East Lubbock know about the two programs and what kinds of repairs their homes might need.

Simultaneously the students learn how to do survey research.

A questionnaire has been written, and the phone calls or home visits will be made after October 14th. The students and instructor are asking for the cooperation of persons who will be contacted. The callers will identify themselves, and the respondents can be assured that the information given will be kept confidential.

LISD Students Commended

A letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Program Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, were presented by the schools to these outstanding seniors who are among about 35,000 students throughout the nation who are being honored for their outstanding performance on the 1992 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Commended Students have shown exceptional academic promise by placing among the top five percent of more than one million program entrants, but their qualifying test scores are slightly below the level required to continue in the 1994 competition for Merit Scholarships.

Better Business Bureau® Report
by Nan Campoell, President
Better Business Bureau® of the South Plains, Inc.
National Consumers Week is October 24-30 and the BBB and other consumer organizations are working together to educate the public on a variety of consumer topics. One topic that continually generates questions and confusion is how to repair a bad credit record. Consumers who have had difficulty obtaining a credit card or loan or making a major purchase because of a bad credit history, may be tempted by advertisements that promise to "fix" their credit records. But the BBB warns not to pay large amounts of money for something that may not work, or could be taken care of for free. For fees ranging from $50 to more than $1000, so-called "credit repair" companies claim they can remove negative information from a credit file, even if the information is accurate. This is not true. After taking your money, the company may do little or nothing to improve your credit report—the company may vanish, but the information in your file won't.
If an advertisement for a great deal on books, music or video entertainment has caught your eye, the BBB warns that comparison shopping may prove these offers are not the best deal in town. There are many "clubs" that offer books, records, cassettes, compact discs and video cassettes at discount prices with the added convenience of ordering from your own home. To attract members, they offer special introductory deals, such as 10 compact discs for one penny. Before you sign on the dotted line, the BBB recommends that you compare all of the advantages and disadvantages of such club offerings. Most of these clubs use what is known as the "negative option" plan. They will notify you that they intend to send a book or CD unless they hear from you otherwise. These clubs provide a service to many members, but before joining, the BBB advises that you understand your responsibilities as a club member first.

Workshop to Emphasize Role of Family in Diabetes Care

A free workshop for diabetics and their families will emphasize the role families can play in the care of diabetics.

The University Medical Center preventive medicine program will present "Families at Risk: Diabetes" Oct. 12, 19 and 26, 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., at the City of the Lubbock 19th Street Senior Center, 2001 19th Street. Sign-up sheets are available at all city senior centers or by calling 743-1683.

The workshop will consist of three two-hour sessions, focusing on various aspects of diabetes, such as the consequences of uncontrolled blood sugar and making choices when eating out.

Studies show that the more involved the family is with the care of a diabetic, the higher the rate of the patient's medical compliance, according to Arlene Guccione, director of the preventive medicine program.

"This means that there is a higher chance of that patient taking control of his or her blood sugar, nutrition and life with diabetes, and that is always a good thing," Guccione said.

She said there is strong evidence also that genetics plays a large part in who develops diabetes.

"If one person develops diabetes in a family, there is a strong chance that other relatives are also at risk for having diabetes. It's important that people learn the signs of uncontrolled diabetes just in case," she said.

HEALTH AND HOME—In the aftermath of a tidal wave in September of 1992, this Nicaraguan family, which lost its home in the disaster, faced a risk of contracting water-borne diseases from contaminated water. Even in the best of times only 49 percent of the population of Nicaragua has access to clean water. CARE, the world's largest relief and development organization, stepped in to provide latrines and water containers to hold fresh water, as well as building materials for a new home. [CARE photo]

What the Digest Is; What the Digest Is Not! by Eddie P. Richardson

Some of you have read our flag on the editorial page of the Southwest Digest. If you have not read it, then here it is:

The Southwest Digest is an independent newspaper serving Lubbock, West Texas, South Plains of Texas and Eastern New Mexico Areas printing impartially supporting what it believes to be right without opposing what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics. "Devoted to the Industrial, Educational, Social, Political, and Economical Advancement of African American People."

You may be critical of some things that are written, but at least you will have the satisfaction of knowing they are truthful and to the point.

People will react to that which is pressure, and we will publish these articles as precisely as is humanly possible. We will also give credit and respect to those who are doing good things for the Lubbock Area and the people. We will be critical of those who are not doing as they have said they would, and this, we think, is fair.

So it is our resolution to you, "Feel free at anytime to call this office for information concerning this newspaper or any other matter that is of concern to you." This is not a propaganda sheet made to chastise or vilify. This is a newspaper made to educate and not to agitate.

The opinions expressed by guest columns or editorials are not necessarily the opinions of the publishers/editors or those of the advertisers.

Comments and pictures are welcome, but we are not responsible to return articles unless a self-address envelope is submitted. All notices must be paid in advance. ## Crazy Horse by Stephen C. McIntyre

You may recall the successful involvement of Rolando Rios and Bill Garrett in the election cases against the City of Lubbock and Lubbock Independent School District and in dozens of other West Texas cities. It was those lawsuits that ended the discriminatory at-large election system in this area.

This past weekend Rolando Rios of San Antonio and Bill Garrett of Dallas received an award from the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MALDEF) for their decade of work on voting rights cases all over Texas. It was an honor they earned the hard way by fighting the powers that be year after year.

But their efforts in the courtroom are meaningless if we do not do our part by participating in the elections. Demand that our elected officials effectively represent our interests, and then back them up when they are attacked.

- 10/15 1968 Federal Court prohibits use of whips on prisoners
- 1969 Over 2 million participate in first U.S. Moratorium Against Vietnam War
- 1970 Henry Kissinger claims that all U.S. coup plans against Pres. Allende of Chile have been abandoned.
- 1971 John Ehrlichman denies that anyone in the White House has any knowledge of political "dirty tricks."
- 10/16 1898 William O. Douglas born
- 1965 Black soldiers convicted for refusing to fight in Vietnam
- 1973 Presidential Press Secretary Ziegler claims it is the conduct of the press rather than the White House which should be investigated about the Watergate incident.
- 10/18 1973 Hag calls Attorney General Richardson to warn him that Special Prosecutor Cox's investigation of Watergate is going too far.
- 10/20 1962 Former FBI agent Jack Levine reveals in The Nation that there was one informant for every 5.7 Party members, making the FBI "...the largest single financial contributor to the coffers of the Communist Party"
- 1973 Nixon fires Special Prosecutor Cox and Attorney General Richardson resigns during the "Saturday Night Massacre"

A few weeks ago it was reported from Ruidoso that the Lubbock

City Council believed the allocation of over $59 million of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) money in north and east Lubbock had not done much in the way of changing or stimulating the community. There was talk of a new plan.

Of course, if there was some sort of standard government-issued correct plan to accomplish change then everyone in the country would be following it and there would be heaven on earth. It is more complicated than that. Personalities, racism, politics, and good faith are critical factors that affect the CDBG money.

A few weeks ago the head of the CDBG program resigned. The hiring of the right person is critical. Whether we like it or not, the person chosen for the job will have a lot to say as to what happens with the CDBG plan and money. Despite all the protestations of community input and oversight by the city council, the CDBG plan has been and probably will continue to be strongly affected by the personality and bias of the director.

And then there is the old problem of racism. Whether it is the old-fashioned attitude of Bull Connors or the so-called polite benign neglect, it has the same effect on north and east Lubbock. It manifests itself in a number of ways, such as:

- failure to build homes
  - difficulty in obtaining bank loans because of redlining
  - mid-management and management hiring practices and decisions
  - insurance redlining for housing and small businesses
- CDBG stimulation that is not followed up by good faith efforts by the entire community will have a difficult if not impossible chance of making a real impact.

We need to move to the next level of economic stimulation and development. We need constructive and bold leadership for community and economic development. In the end, however, it still all adds up to an almost impossible situation to overcome.

We need folks who will in good faith articulate the real problems, who are willing to try new approaches, and who are willing to admit they are wrong and will try again if something does not work. There are not a lot of those kind of folks around. It takes a new kind of politician and a new kind of city employee. Folks who can rise above the good ole boyism of the past. If you know someone like that tell them to run for office or call up Mayor Langston for a job application.

In Cinque by Renetta W. Howard

Educational theory as taught in colleges and universities perpetuate the idea that a school is supposed to reflect the values of the community it serves. In the past couple of decades, the very opposite has been true. The most visible effects of this trend has been in the area of morality.

When Mrs. Madalyn Murray and her son William J. Murray, III, avowed atheist, protested the reading of the Bible in public schools, it seems that many people felt that they were not supposed to read it anywhere. The country's values as well as personal values began a trek downhill. Schools had not lost sight on moral values, but it would appear that its constituents had.

Are schools supposed to reinforce callous spirituality in a country which was founded on religious values and principles? Did the justices underestimate the ramifications of allowing the good for two individuals to prevail over the rights of the majority?

It is difficult to teach new ideas and even more difficult when there is no transfer of ideas or motivation to learn new ideas. When children go to school to a set of values which are completely foreign to them, they have a difficult time assimilating the new ideas. Thus, they have a difficult time learning what is taught at school.

It appears that a decline in moral values in the country has effected a decline in the outcome of education in this country. We need to get "in cinque" and have a positive effect on raising the level of moral maturity in our communities even if it means going to court to retrieve rights lost to Mrs. Murray and her son. Otherwise, we will be "without a prayer!"

Combest: "I Want Us Out of Somalia—Now!"

WASHINGTON, D.C.—U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) on October 5, 1993 issued the following statement regarding U.S. troops in Somalia:

"My opposition to American troop involvement in Somalia began with last December's deployment because there was no timetable for getting out. Now, almost one year later, American troops are human targets in Somalia and the goal has shifted to something called 'nation-building.'

"Even last week, I voted against a congressional resolution to withdraw by mid-November because I feel six more weeks is too long to wait. I want us out of Somalia—now."

Mats Show Speed over Tors, 48-0

The Estacado High School Matadors showed off their pure speed in a 48-0 victory over the Lamesa Tors in a District 2-4A game last Friday night at Tors Stadium in Lamesa.

With this win, the Mats improved their record to 4-2, and rushed for 529 yards on 36 attempts against Lamesa. If you would put the calculator to these numbers, it will reveal that the Mats had an average of 14.7 yards a carry.

Talion Scott, senior running back, had 11 carries for 260 yards, including touchdown runs of 77, 70, 41 and 2 yards.

The Mats exploded for 28 points in the third quarter, and left the Golden Tors with a 0-6 record for the young season.

Estacado got on the scoreboard in the first quarter with a 2-yard dive by Willie Fay.

The Mats led at halftime by a score of 13-0.

Adrian Ross and Randy Bates scored touchdowns for the Mats.

The Mats had 15 first downs to the Tors 7. The Mats had 7 penalties for 65 yards, while the Tors had 4 for 30 yards.

The Mats, who will host Snyder this week, held Lamesa to only 79 yards of total offense.

Friendly Competition

Baseball has given me many things, but none do I value more than the warm friendships formed during my playing years. The world seemed just a bit smaller back then and moved at a slower pace. When I broke into the majors, teams were still traveling by train, and that meant hours of swapping stories, trading tips on how to bat against the next opposing pitcher and general kidding around.

The baseball world certainly was smaller. Unlike today, where each league is divided into divisions, there were fewer teams and everyone played each other the same number of times. The results were far greater opportunities to get to know players on opposing teams. As hard as we'd play against each other during the game, there was no barrier to solid friendships. If the Braves were headed into Chicago, I could look forward to seeing friends like Ernie Banks or Billy Williams.

One of the sad results of our current era of jet travel, multimillion-dollar salaries and free agency will be fewer friendships. Let's face it, the chances of two good players teaming together for five, 10 or 15 years are very slim. It used to be that a team would never trade a star, except perhaps at the very end of his career. Eddie Mathews and I played together for 13 years. We broke the record set by Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig for most home runs hit by teammates.

What are the chances that an Aaron-Mathews or Gehrig-Ruth combo would last today, season after season? Very slim. If the team resisted the temptation to trade, the chances are excellent that the players themselves would go for free agency and sign a contract with the highest bidder.

No matter how much you guard against it, the "here today, gone tomorrow" aspect of today's baseball has to put a damper on friendships. And when teams are flying across the country to get from a night game in Houston to a day game in Chicago, there isn't much energy left over for chatter and horseplay.

With the multimillion-dollar salaries being paid today, a player is more likely to become buddies with his agent or his investment counselor than the guy playing second base. M

FROM THE DESK OF PARSON D. A. SMITH

The once laid-back Berkeley, California, is taking a tougher stance on social issues. Anne Henderson of the League of Women Voters says, "It's an attitude, a more moderate approach to things... Less ideological and more practical."

Berkeley, one of America's recession-sapped cities, is suffering from rising crime, drug abuse and poverty and it can no longer afford to be as tolerant as it was. A city that traditionally embraced diverse opinions and cultures and whose image was once shaped by liberalism has changed. Berkeley was once home to counterculture, demonstrations, anti-Vietnam War protest and the free speech movement in the 1960s. But its citizens have shifted away from their radical bent attitude and opt to choose another of more moderate and conservative view.

Victor Frankl, the eminent psychologist, was arrested by the Gestapo during World War II. The German officers took everything. They took his clothes, his watch, his wedding ring. They shaved his body. The whole object was to dehumanize the man. They put him, naked, under glaring lights. Frankl said of his ordeal, that there was one thing he realized, "they couldn't take away from him—the power to choose his own attitude."

Like the citizens of Berkeley, California and Victor Frankl, it is vital for us to realize the power to choose our own attitude. God has given us the power to choose our own attitudes toward life, toward ourselves, toward family members, toward our global community, and toward God. Not only has the Divine Power given us the power to choose our attitude, He has given us an example of what our attitude should be. Our unfavorableness of self are often excuses, when in actuality we need an attitude adjustment. We blame our work, our health, our ancestry, our culture of poverty, our associates. But the fact is that we are responsible for we always have the power to choose our attitude.

The choice we make is far-reaching. It determines the very quality of life itself. Ultimately, it will determine life eternal. God's attitude toward us should be the basis of our attitude toward others. We are to view life as He viewed it, see sin as He sees it. Yesterday is gone, but today can be a turning point in your life. You can decide to continue letting the world around you govern your attitude, or you can decide to let God guide you in choosing attitudes of love, faith, and forgiveness. The choice that you make may very well be with you through eternity.

We Thank God for Jesus

"Personal Thanks for Forgiving"

Mark 12:30—Jesus said, thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: This is the first commandment.

Lord, many Christians get upset, and I'm accused of loving you. I haven't always done so, and you know that's the truth.

Matthew 5:11—Jesus said, blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you. And shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my name's sake.

Lord, even though I was raised in a Christian home, I went out into the world's hog pen, when I got grown.

Romans 1:21-22—Because that, when they knew God, they glorified Him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened, professing themselves to be wise, they became fools.

Lord, I went around telling the world, "I'm Black and Proud." I wanted to over-run the white man, and said it out loud.

Proverbs 11:2—When pride cometh, then cometh shame: But with the lowly is wisdom.

Philippians 4:13—I can all things through Christ which strengthen me.

Lord, in the 60's Satan had this "Freedom Movement" on my mind. Even when warnings of death came, I paid them no mind.

"In 1961, a man pulled a shotgun on me, and people said, 'Boy, U're lucky.' In 1963, Plains Co-Op Oil Mill blew up, and I was inside, and when I came out you could smell my flesh burning, and they said, 'Boy, U're lucky.' In 1966, I had a blow-out at 110 mph, and I heard the words, 'Boy, U're lucky.' In 1972 a man pulled a shotgun on me, about his wife, and my friends said, 'Boy, U're lucky.' In 1971, the front tire fell off, when I stopped after doing 80 mph, and the words came, 'Boy, U're lucky.' In 1980, a man pulled a shotgun on me in a gambling game, I cussed him and my friends said, 'Boy, U're lucky.' Now, I look back and thank God for saving me from death. The devil was out to get me. He knew God had a plan for me to help build the Kingdom of Heaven. So devil, and your people didn't get me then, so with the word of God, "Hell I'll put you in." Thanks be to Grace, HA'LE'LU'IAH!"

John 8:31-32—Jesus said, if you continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

Lord, I know it was your Grace that many times saved me. "I now know the truth, and it has set me free."

Psalms 18:1-2—I will love thee, O Lord, my strength. The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength in whom I will trust: My buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower.

"Lord, use me, a nobody, to tell somebody about your body, dying for everybody."

God is not through with us yet. Let's pray for one another always. AAAMANN.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

The members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast would like to take this opportunity, and thank all of you who helped us with our special revival last week at the Lyons Chapel Baptist Church. We appreciate the cooperation of Pastor Wendell Davis and the membership.

We had a glorious time in the Lord, and we hope to continue this effort in the future. But today, we just thank God for all He has done for us.

As we look back over what happened last week, we are still filled with the spirit of the Lord, as he was in first place last week. May God continue to bless our effort.

Sister Bobbie Patters, thanks a million, you made our day by your presence.

We will continue to pray for all until your answer to prayer comes. Keep smiling, now we have the devil very nervous.

Write us: Outreach Prayer Breakfast, P.O. Box 1223, Lubbock, TX 79404.

"Let's Pray!"

"Father, we thank you for being so kind to us over the past year. But we know this, without you, Father, the success of our effort last week would not have happened. We just thank you, Father. You have been so good for us. We say thank you!"

"The spirit was in our effort. We had a wonderful time, because of you, Lord. We had a good time, but realize that our effort is in the hedges and highways, and we can't turn around now. Thank you, Lord, for being with us. You have said that you will always be with us, and we are most grateful."

"Thank, Father, for what has happened. We are your children, and we will not waver in what we believe is right."

"Continue to be with us, Father, is our prayer. AMEN."

Sister Dorothy Hood, president, Sister Ardelia Hardrick, vice president.

CREATIVITY

At AT&T, creativity has never lost its magic. That's why we keep doing what AT&T has always done. Creating new ways to help you and your family communicate better and faster. And helping to make a world you'll want to reach out and touch.

Vision Inventing exciting new technologies is only part of the story at AT&T. We're also on the lookout for programs like Chicago State University's Father and Son program which develops self-esteem and strengthens bonds by enhancing one-to-one communication.

Imagination Maybe you can't imagine a way to carry your entire health history with you, almost anywhere.

But AT&T scientists did, using computer technology to store it all on a pocket-size wonder we call the AT&T Smart Card.

Resourcefulness We're always refining technologies like networked computing to create programs like the AT&T Learning Network which gives students access to each other around the world. It's also easy to see the value of developing projects like our AT&T Teachers and Technology Institute, an educational resource that helps enhance the skills of some of the nation's most creative and innovative math and science teachers.

At AT&T, we're not just inventing new technologies. We're helping invent new ways to live and learn.
