A million dollars helps restore first Black medical school

The Philip Morris Companies, Inc., recently gave a million dollar gift to the United Negro College Fund (UNCF) to ensure the restoration of the Leonard Building at Shaw University, reports The Columbia Times Newspaper. The Leonard Medical School at Shaw was the first four-year medical school created for African Americans in the United States. Henry Tupper, Shaw's founder-president, has insisted on a four-year training program and urged the instructors at university to use a curriculum "as close as possible to the curriculum of Harvard" and other first-class medical schools. The gift from Philip Morris will mean not only restoration for the Leonard Building as a landmark, but will also renew it as a modern facility dedicated to science and technology.

Senator Carol Braun co-sponsors Black patriots bill

A bill co-sponsored by U.S. Senator Carol Moseley-Braun (D-IL), authorizing the U.S. Treasury to mint a commemorative coin honoring Black Revolutionary War patriots, recently passed in the Senate by unanimous consent, reports the Chicago Crusader. "The Nation owes a tremendous debt of gratitude to these soldiers for their courage to stand with little or no hope of realizing the fruit of their accomplishments. This will symbolize the struggle of all individuals who have not previously been recognized," said Senator Moseley-Braun. A maximum of 500,000 commemorative coins will be minted. The proceeds will be used to finance a monument honoring Black Revolutionary War patriots on the National Mall in Washington, D.C.

Chicago's James Jordan Boys and Girls Club opens

Chicagoans recently received a monumental gift from basketball great Michael Jordan in the form of the James Jordan Boys and Girls Club and Family Life Center reports the Chicago Defender. "Hopefully kids can learn something in life. It is a great opportunity. My father would be proud of what's happening here. Kids can achieve a lot in what's been built here," said Jordan, the world's most widely recognized basketball star. "What's exciting about the facility is that it's more than a recreational site. Young people can come in and prepare for their future role in life. The emphasis is on the family," said Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar. Chicago's Mayor Daley said "[through] the West Side facility, we can do our part and take our children by the hand and walk them through the neighborhood. We can hold on to our children. This is for our city and for our nation." The building will create learning and recreational opportunities for 4,000 West Side families.

STOPPING THE VIOLENCE?

By Bernice Powell Jackson

Once again I was confronted by the pictures of the pain. Once again there was the plaintive cry of a mother who had lost a son to the violence, the television cameras showing the family's tears and the photographs of a young man who should have had his whole life ahead of him.

Once again, the mother's plea that no other mother have to suffer the loss of a child to the violence. The loss of a young man who might have discovered the cure for cancer or been the one who makes peace in the world a reality.

Once again there was the television story of the silent march in Washington, D.C. being held to protest gun violence. Tens of thousands of shoes of those killed by guns lined up near the Capitol, making us realize how many Americans are dying every year to the violence.

Ten children are murdered every day in this country. Many others are injured by guns. Violence is such a part of the lives of so many children in our nation that nearly half say they know of weapons in their schools and nearly three fourths are aware of physical attacks on students. Most of them know where to get a gun. Children are fearful for their lives and planning their funerals instead of their graduations or proms.

The violence is all around us and threatens to engulf us like a whirlwind. But we can do something about it.

On October 10 thousands of students across the nation will be asked to respond to the "Day of National Concern about Young People and Gun Violence" which is being sponsored by the United States Senate. Anyone concerned about gun violence can help make this day a success.

On October 10 students across the country will be asked to sign a pledge that they will never carry a gun to school, will never resolve a dispute with a gun and will use their influence with their friends to keep them from resolving disputes with guns. Schools, community groups, churches and mosques are being encouraged to hold special programs about guns and violence. The goal of the pledge is "to try to turn around the culture in which young people exist, by having them take action that, with their collective voice, demonstrates to the country that a crisis situation exists and that we must end the violence," said Senator Bill Bradley, sponsor of the Senate bill.

We can stop the violence. Our young people can stop the cycle. But only if we help them, only if we encourage them, only if we give them alternatives and help them see the vision. The vision of a world where children live to be old, where our streets and schools are safe. A vision of justice and peace.

VICE PRESIDENT SWEARS IN FRANKLIN RAINES AS BUDGET DIRECTOR

Vice President Gore today administered the oath of office to Franklin D. Raines, the Director of the White House Office of Management and Budget (OMB), in a private ceremony held in the Old Executive Office Building's Indian Treaty Room.

Confirmed by the Senate on September 6, he succeeds Alice M. Rivlin, who left OMB in June to become Vice Chair of the Federal Reserve Board.

"I am delighted to have the opportunity to help President Clinton and Vice President Gore as they continue the important work of balancing the budget while protecting the priorities that matter most to hard-working Americans," Raines said.

Raines is returning to OMB after a 17-year absence. During the Carter Administration, he served as Associate Director for Economics and Government, where he was responsible for leading the section of OMB that dealt with issues related to the Departments of the Treasury, Commerce, Justice, Transportation, and Housing and Urban Development. He also has served as Assistant Director of the White House

Domestic Policy Staff.

Prior to becoming Director, Raines served as Vice Chairman of Fannie Mae, the nation's largest source of home mortgage financing, where he was responsible for Fannie Mae's legal, credit policy, finance, and corporate development function.

Before joining Fannie Mae, Raines was a general partner in municipal finance at the investment banking firm of Lazard Freres & Company in New York City. In that capacity, he served as financial advisor to such States as Iowa and Texas and such cities as Chicago, Washington, D.C., Seattle, Milwaukee, and Cleveland.

Raines also has served as a member of the congressionally-mandated Commission on Roles and Missions of the Armed Forces and as Economics and Trade Cluster Coordinator for the Clinton Presidential Transition. He was elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the National Academy of Social Insurance, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

Raines was born on January 14, 1949 in Seattle, Washington. A D.C. resident, he is married and has three children.

Raines earned his J.D. from Harvard Law School and his B.A. from Harvard College. He also attended Magdalen College, Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar.

GOLD MEDAL GYMNAST SETS EXAMPLE FOR YOUTH

Dawes and Rev. Patricia

(WASHINGTON, D.C.) American Olympic Gold Medal gymnast, Dominique Dawes, received accolades and honors from dozens of officials, business owners, organizations and individuals at a special ceremony recently hosted by the African American Business Council.

Locally known as "Awesome Dawesome" for her exceptional talent and fierce determination, the gracious Ms. Dawes took photos with dozens of adoring fans and accepted acknowledgements and citations from a host of community leaders.

Those recognizing Ms. Dawes for her extraordinary achievements included the NAACP; U.S. Congresswoman Connie Morella; the principal of Dominique's high school; her trainer and Rev. Patricia Jones, President of the Founding Church of Scientology.

Rev. Jones presented Dominique with a plaque containing a quote from Scientology founder L. Ron Hubbard and applauded her for the example she has been setting for young African Americans.

"For many years," Rev. Jones noted, "African American Scientologists throughout the country have been working in coordination with local churches, community organizations and government officials to teach children to read, keep them off of drugs and give them basic moral guidance."

"Dominique Dawes," Rev. Jones said, "is more than just a good example for these children. She is a beacon of hope, a true inspiration."

Ms. Dawes made Olympic history this year when she became the first African American female gymnast to win a bronze medal in an individual event.

BURWELL NAMED DIRECTOR OF ETHNIC MARKETING

GOLDEN, Colo.—Ivan Burwell has been promoted to director of Ethnic Marketing, a newly created position at Coors Brewing Company.

Burwell has been with Coors for nine years, first as assistant manager of Special Markets, then, in 1989, as national program manager of Community Relations.

In his new position, Burwell will manage advertising and marketing efforts targeting the African American consumer. He also will develop meaningful African American programs aimed at increasing Coors Brewing Company's share within this market.

Asked about the significance of his new role, Burwell responded, "Growth is important for all consumer good companies as we move toward the year 2000, and diverse markets represent an opportunity for all companies."

Prior to joining Coors, Burwell held management positions with Preferred Financial Planning, Rocky Mountain Cable Association, Contractors for American Television Communications Corporation and Burwell and Associates.

Burwell was recognized as one of "America's Best and Brightest Business and Professional Men" by Dollars and Sense Magazine. He received Black Radio Exclusive's Humanitarian Award and was profiled in Black Enterprise Magazine.

The Philadelphia native hold a bachelor's degree in sociology and a master's degree in public management from the University of Denver.

He is active in numerous civic and professional organizations including the NAACP and the National Association of Market Developers. He was a former president of the University of Denver's Alumni Board of Directors.

Coors, the nation's third largest brewery, was ranked No. 2 in Business Ethics Magazine's "The Best 100 Corporate Citizens" in the May/June issue. The company was recognized for its corporate-wide ethics program and philosophy that consistently demonstrates sensitivity for the careers of minorities, and for their commitment to social responsibility and philanthropic causes.

Ruby Jay's Corner

The New Hope Baptist Church, 2002 Birch Avenue, is the "Church Where The People Really Care," and Rev. Billy R. Moton is the proud pastor.

Services began last Sunday morning with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. and Brother Henry High presiding as Superintendent. Study period for all classes was held for 30 minutes, and reassembled at 10:15 a.m. in the Church auditorium. The classes marched in singing "Near The Cross." High points of the lesson were given by Class No. 4, and led by Sister Quigley. It was wonderfully done.

Secretarys Report — Youth Department: Junior won the Attendance Banner and the Intermediate Class received the Offering Banner.

The morning devotional at 10:45 a.m. was led by Brother and Sister John Howard.

The Senior Choir marched in the processional singing "We Get To Praise Him."

Services were well last Sunday morning. Altar prayer was offered by Ref. Jeff Brown. A song, "It's Mighty Nice To Be On The Lord's Side," was sung. Responsive reading was done with the congregation standing and led by Sister Clarissa Jay.

The congregation sang "Standing In The Need Of Prayer." Pastor Moton gave his pastoral observation. He brought greetings from the November Board which was held in Abilene, Texas last Friday and Saturday. This was followed by the singing of "Nothing But The Blood of Jesus."

Pastor Moton's sermon was taken from II Kings 4:29-31. His subject was "The Right Stuff In Wrong Hand." He told us why. Thank God for a wonderful Christian man.

Rev. and Mrs. Tharrington were guest of their son who is a member of New Hope. Also, the Barbara Jordan Senior Citizen group was present last Sunday at St. John Baptist Church.

Every week, there are new names added to the sick list. Brother Ulysses Beaty had a relative hurt in a car wreck.

Sister Bernice Kelly is a patient at Methodist Hospital at this report.

Among those who were funeralized last week include Brother George "Whirl" Scott, husband of Sister Igie Scott, at Curry Funeral Chapel. The Ervin and Taylor families had family members funeralized also last week.

Sister Doris Dickens' husband, George, was funeralized at New Hope Baptist Church yesterday, Wednesday. Our prayers and sympathy go out to all of those bereaved families.

Mary Ann Jones, her daughter and granddaughter, who reside in Dallas, Texas, visited their mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Mrs. G.H. Davis, last weekend. Sister Davis is a patient at the Lubbock Health Care Nursing Home. Please remember Sister Davis in your prayers.

Sister Igie Scott is leaving Lubbock to make her home in California with her sisters! It was a sad good-bye.

God bless us all!

Affirmative Action Opened The Door, Talent Made Them "Boss"

By Jennifer Agwunobi

Growing up in New Orleans in a home with five girls and no boys, the Dickerson sisters learned that there is nothing a girl can't do. "We played with dolls and trucks," said Terri Dickerson, 39, executive director of American Women in Radio and Television in McLean, VA. "When you live in a house with all girls, you don't have those traditional roles. We had to do everything including mowing the lawn," she said.

Today, the Dickerson girls are all grown up and each successfully head mainstream companies and programs in the Washington, D.C.-metropolitan area. They credit their successes to affirmative action which removed racial barriers, and their parents who taught them to never let anyone tell them they are not worthy to receive the best.

Terri recalled the first grade when she and two of her sisters, Lisa and Patrice, attended Catholic school during the school's first year of integration. "No one wanted us there," remembered, Terri, "not even the nuns or priest." Being so young, Terri said she could not understand why she and her sisters had to go to a school where they were not wanted. "Because strong students shouldn't be denied an opportunity to a good education," Terri said her father—who was once the Director of the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) — explained to them.

Despite the blatant hostility, the Dickerson girls were at the top of their class. From her Catholic school experience, Terri learned that "once you get your foot in the door, talent and intelligence are gender- and color-blind."

The Dickersons had parents who led by example," recalled Verna, 32. "Success was always embraced in our home; failure was never an option, said Verna, the youngest sister and senior producer of Special Projects for Black Entertainment Television based in Washington, D.C.

Their father, the late Walter M. Dickerson, was Director of the EEOC for 12 years and later worked as National Field Director to open EEOC offices in six other states. Their mother, Verna, was a school teacher who later worked for the Montgomery County Government. They said their mother was a role model to them because she attended college and received a graduate degree during a time when affirmative action didn't exist.

All of the Dickerson women are successful because of their parents' example, their individual talents, and hard work, yet they acknowledge the role affirmative action played in their careers. "Affirmative action gave me the opportunity to show that I had the talent and ability to do the job," said Terri, whose organization advocates for women in the media.

Lauri, 33, owner of a child care business, said affirmative action is still needed because "raising two African-American daughters, I want as many opportunities available to them as is available to anyone else. I want my children to see many Black role models. I want them to see African American doctors when I take them to the hospital," she said.

Of the other Dickerson children, Lisa, 40, is the President of Airports Management, Inc., and Patrice, 38, is the Chief of Staff at D.C. General Hospital.

Verna said she still can't see where affirmative action is holding back non-whites from employment. "Affirmative action can play a positive role in American society," said Verna.

All five Dickerson women said they are "only too familiar with the look of surprise when people mistake our white colleagues for the 'boss' in situations. They don't see Black women as decision-makers and team leaders...White colleagues who work with us come to learn that we are in our positions because we are prepared and capable....Affirmative action is still necessary and must continue," they said.

A consortium of legal women called Americans for a Fair Chance, is fighting to preserve affirmative action. The Consortium has launched a public awareness campaign on affirmative action and has produced a nationwide public service announcement that airs on Black-owned radio stations. Americans for a Fair Chance is comprised of prominent women from the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the National Asian Pacific American Legal Consortium, the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the National women's Law Center, and the Women's Legal Defense Fund.

"Affirmative action these days just makes competitive sense," said Terri, mother of a 12-year-old son. In applying that to journalism, she said, "you want to be first, fair and accurate. But there is no way you can be all of those things with a homogenous staff....Affirmative action causes the industry to cast a wider net to find a more diverse workforce," she said.

Lisa, Terri, Patrice, Lauri, and Verna still talk to each other almost every day. "My sisters are my best friend," said Terri, who is known as the family "spokesperson." "We are diverse ourselves and we learn from each other," she said. Judging from their successes, they also learned from their father who routinely said, "Don't eliminate yourself...there are enough people out there trying to do it for you." Boy did they listen.

ECONOMIC EMPOWERMENT Doing business with one another

By James Clingman

We have heard it said many times the Black businesses cannot survive on the sole support of other Black people; that there must be an additional influx of business from other groups as well, in order for an African-American business to make it. Maybe that's why some Black business owners try to distance themselves from Black consumers and attempt to hide the fact that they are Black. I have heard some business owners say that "whites will not patronize me if they perceive me as a Black-owned business."

Well, that's sad if it is true, since Black consumers contribute so disproportionately to the profits of white businesses and those of other ethnic groups. It is also sad that some African Americans believe that they cannot make it on Black business alone.

If we take out those businesses that always have and probably always will cater to and be supported by their own group, i.e., mortuaries, barber and beauty shops, dentists and doctors for the most part, we still have a host of businesses in our communities with which to work.

If you think back to the post Civil War period, Jim Crow, and even the 1950's, you will remember that Black businesses flourished, and they did it on the sole support of Black consumers. The vast majority of the top 100 Black businesses, such as, Johnson Publishing, Soft Sheen Products, were built strictly with Black consumer dollars and cents. Look at them now—they're multi-million dollar businesses.

Sure our businesses need and should have white consumer dollars, and anyone else's dollars, in return for quality products or services, but we must never overlook, negate or diminish the value of the Black consumer dollar. Believe me, others think quite highly of our spending power.

There are several reasons for the way we think about this subject and for our low propensity to do business with one another. However, the main issues revolve around how we treat one another; how we follow through (or do not follow through); how we take one another for granted and how we tend to mix business with personal relationships.

These problems run so deeply in many of us that we do not even want to be associated with another Black person or business. We refuse to shop at Black-owned stores or call on Black professional to do work for us. Likewise, Black business owners fall back on the lame excuse that Black people alone cannot support their business, and they try to ease closer to the white market. Simply stated, it's not that Black consumers cannot support Black businesses — it's that they don't, at least not to the degree they should.

If African Americans simply plowed 25 percent of their disposable income into Black-owned businesses, we would see an economic turnaround like none other in history. If Black business owners would focus on "taking care of business" instead of taking short-cuts with Black consumers, they would gain more of the benefits of our $400 billion market.

Doing business with one another is simple. Take a look at the Jewish community; look at the Koreans; watch Arabs, the Chinese, the Japanese and the Cubans. They care enough about one another to support their own businesses and to provide quality goods and services. Sure they have internal problems, but they fix them among themselves, and if they cannot fix them they never allow those problems to override the economic continuity within their communities.

All it takes is a little caring and a little bit of trust. Black people can work together. We can and should continue to build our businesses with the Black consumer in mind. If your product is good, others will buy it. If we deliver the goods, do what we say we are going to do, maintain our integrity, and hold ourselves accountable when we do not do those things, African-American businesses will grow, they will prosper and they will multiply.

JR. MEDLOW: THE LEGEND IN LUBBOCK

by Gwen Bagely

Medlow Williams, Jr. is perhaps today's most recognizable musician from the Southwest. He is established on the blues circuit and has worked with artists like James Brown, Diana Ross, the late Steven Ray Vaughn and many others.

This legendary performer has earned the respect of the music industry and anyone who enjoys good music. His musical talent has taken him throughout the U.S.A. and parts of Europe.

Medlow has come to be recognized not only as a prolific singer but also as an innovative songwriter and guitarist.

Raised on the west side of town during the sixties he and his sister Diane were the first African Americans to integrate into the West Lubbock public school system. "Being raised on the West side of town and forced into a situation where I measured my self worth daily", he says, "built an explosion in me that could only come out through music; it was my salvation."

He attributes his success in the music industry to his respect for his audience. "The music business today has no respect. It has no moral concept of its affect on the world as a whole," he says.

Medlow credits his ability to remain in the music business for more than thirty years to his desire to communicate with each and every culture.

Diagnosed with cancer two years ago he cherishes each day as a gift from God. "It woke me up to the temporaryness of my existence and understanding that without the Lord Jesus intervening with his healing spirit, I would not be here today."

Medlow resides in Lubbock with his mother Mrs. Zeina Williams whom he credits for his strength. Although his illness has caused him to postpone his second European tour he still performs locally and throughout the state of Texas.

—Our Prayers are with him—

Medlow Williams Jr.

IN CINQUE

by Renetta W. Howard

Early academic curriculums in America almost always included a course in sewing and cooking or a combined class called Home Economics. All girls were required to take this class in general high schools. In technical high schools, it was optional. It was a sequence choice in vocational schools. Today, few schools offer Home Economics per se. Most offer a course called Home Management or Life Management Skills which are offered to boys as well as girls. Some schools offer a course exclusively for boys called Bachelor Arts.

The number of these courses being offered in schools now has dwindled to a precious few, with only one teacher making the offerings. This would appear to be a reflection on the importance of home and life management skills in our society today.

Students used to learn the mechanics of running a home and family in the home economics classes. They also learned proper etiquette in the dining room and in the areas of daily life. They finished these classes with more personal confidence and self-esteem.

Some students never learned to sew or cook, but learned what the end product should look like and how to make appropriate choices about both the sewing the cooking, making them more rounded individuals socially and academically. Most of the students who took one of these courses generally approached adulthood and its institutions with a more mature outlook. It is time for us to get "in cinque" and offer the majority of our students some similar course where they will establish more self-esteem to aid them in life's daily occurrences.

LEGALMATTERS CD AND TAPE CLUBS

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL DAN MORALES

WE ALL HAVE received offers in the mail to join CD and tape clubs. Many people find them to be bargains when they shop wisely and take advantage of sales and promotions. Others like the convenience of shopping at home and having new music delivered directly to them.

But some Texans report problems to us at the Office of the Attorney General.

The most common complaints against these clubs involve bills for items the consumer did not order. This often happens when a club uses what is called a "negative option" ordering system. Under this arrangement, the club sends out a catalog listing each month's featured CD or tape, together with a set of order cards. You will receive each month's feature in the mail, unless you send in a card saying you do not want it. Once you get the item, you can return it, but if you do not do this promptly, the company will assume you are keeping it and will send you a bill.

The cost of forgetting

Problems arise when consumers forget to mail in the cards, or send them in too late to stop delivery, and then get billed for unsolicited albums they did not want.

Often, this can take some time to sort out. In the meantime, your unpaid bill may be referred to a collection agency, potentially putting your credit rating at risk. Similar problems arise when people cancel their memberships but keep receiving CDs or tapes and billing statements.

Most clubs have a toll-free customer service number you can call for more information.

Before you join

If you are considering joining a CD or tape club, be sure to ask the following questions before you sign up:

-Do items purchased in two-for-one or half-price sales count toward your required purchases? You are usually required to buy a certain number of tapes or CDs in a set time period. Purchases made through special promotional or discount sales often do not count toward that requirement.

-What happens if you do not buy the required number of tapes in the specified period? In many cases, you will still be billed for the required minimum purchase amount, even if you do not actually order the minimum number of discs.

-How much is the shipping and handling charge for your introductory tapes or CDs? This will add to the cost of joining the club, and reduce the amount of money you save.

-Can you change your membership status so that you only receive the selections you specifically order? Some clubs offer this option, but it is usually not advertised and is generally available only after you have met your initial purchase obligations.

-What is the return policy? Can you return a CD or tape after you have played it, and do you have to pay return postage?

Contract Law

Joining CD and tape club is the same as entering into any other consumer contract. You should ask for written answers to any questions you may have, and carefully read the fine print before agreeing to join.

Remember to tally up the hidden costs to make sure you are really getting the bargain you expect. This will help you avoid costly misunderstandings later on, and let you make the most of your membership in the club.

"IF I"

Eddie P. Richardson

If I could wave a magic wand and make all parts of Lubbock equal to south and southwest Lubbock, I would.

If I could make all parts of Lubbock competitive self-sustaining market-places, I would, but I can't. Wish I could. If I could utilize land in the eastern one-third of the city, the under-utilized land, I would also develop the undeveloped areas of the eastern one-third of the city. I would also do the same for downtown Lubbock and the Overton area as well as north and northeast Lubbock, and see the differences in the appearance, development at different points of Lubbock and try to figure out why the differences. One area where land is running out and other areas with vast amounts of vacant land. It makes one wonder why the potential is not being fulfilled equitably across the city. The eastern shores of Lubbock has the prettiest natural terrain and natural beauty. What a shame to go to waste. But life is like that. These are the changes we must go through, and if you do not understand, my friends, I am sorry for you. It is really a shame when the total city cannot participate equitably on a tax-paying basis and not be able to compete at the marketplace with its goods and services. For Lubbock to totally be Lubbock for all or its citizens, it has to be Lubbock for all of its citizens across the board with access to all of its resources for all of its citizens. We cannot play racial games for Lubbock to truly move ahead. It will have to move into the future collectively working together for the good of all of us.

The city as a whole is a body and when one part of the body is not well, the total body is not well. The depressed areas need help from the non-depressed. Help, not leadership; help such as any necessary resource, guidance, advice, support, in general. Hands not handouts. That's the problem now. We need to stop addressing the symptoms and get to the causes and start rectifying them together. We can make it happen. Rich, poor, Black, Brown, White and others working together for the betterment of the total city, not part or parts, but the total city.

If I could wave a magic wand, I would wave it over Lubbock and create a perfect total city, but I can't so I'll have to do the best I can. With the help of God and concerned citizens of Lubbock it can be accomplished.

But most of all, if I could wave a magic wand I would wipe out all drugs, and want-to-be, think-I-am, would-like-to-be gang bangers.

I would put them on the superhighway and Internet and take them off the corner trying to claim turf that they never paid taxes on. Wouldn't it be grand to refocus their minds in the right direction and rechannel their actions in a positive direction.

Christmas With the Boy's Choir of Harlem

by Vaughn Halyard, Producer

The entire process began with a planning meeting to decide the repertoire. It was held at the Choir Academy and attempted to set the tone of the album. In short, we had to find a way to balance the commercial, artistic and classical needs. The push of the album had to be a good mix of the popular vs. classics with a splash of urban contemporary.

Tracking and scheduling is always a challenge when dealing with a scholastic organization. There is the constant struggle to maintain a recording schedule while balancing scholastic performance and touring commitments. There are also the boy's family lives that must be considered. It was decided that we would demotrack the music, for the boy's to record vocals when available, and fill in the orchestra later. The crux of the album for me was to capture a strong vocal image, period.

The bulk of the early tracking took place at the Carriage House in Stamford, Connecticut. These summer days were frequently in the 80's and sunny...a unique setting to try and sing "Let It Snow" and convey the Christmas spirit. But the professionalism and depth of the kids helped pull it off. We would bus them in when they had a break in their schedule, record as much as possible and then send them home. We would then get back to doing the arrangements and scores for the next piece to record, track it, get the bus, bring the kids, send them home and go back to pre-tracking and arranging the next song.

These kids are trained vocal assassins. The hardest part in the recording process was getting them to not be so precise when slang was used or a certain colloquialism was required. These kids are so conscious of perfection that sometimes, they need to be taught how to be "imperfect". Most producers would be lucky to have such problems.

We Thank God For Jesus "My Sister Preacher !!! Part 1"

Matthew 20:1, JESUS SAID, for the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder (THE OWNER), which went out early in the morning to hire laborers for HIS VINEYARD.

JOHN 3:16 that is the message we're supposed to be telling this dying world. WE'RE ALL PREACHERS AND TEACHERS; EVERY MAN, WOMAN, BOY AND GIRL.

Matthew 28:19, Jesus said, GO ye therefore, and TEACH all nations, baptizing them in the name of THE FATHER, AND OF THE SON (JESUS), AND THE HOLY GHOST.

Now some Brother Preachers think, Men are the only ones BEEN CALLED, BUT JESUS SAYS: GO WORK IN MY VINEYARDS; THE COMMISSION WAS TO ALL.

Matthew 20:4, Jesus said unto them (MAN AND WOMAN), go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I WILL GIVE YOU. And they went their way.

Many Preachers are BLIND; TO THE COMMAND OF THE APOSTLE PAUL, BUT A GREATER THAN PAUL; JESUS: GAVE A COMMAND TO US ALL.

Mark 3:35, JESUS SAID, FOR WHOSOEVER SHALL DO THE WILL OF GOD, THE SAME IS MY BROTHER, AND MY SISTER, AND MOTHER.

(In 1 Timothy 3:12, Paul said, but I suffer a woman not TO TEACH. NOT THAT GOD SAID ITS NOT TO BE SO, BUT I SAID.)

Jesus said, Pray to THE LORD OF THE HARVEST; TO SEND FORTH WORKERS, But the Brother Pastors are like the Scribes and Pharisees, MURMURING WITH HATE.

Luke 15:10, Jesus said, I say unto you, there is JOY in the presence of the angels OF GOD OVER ONE SINNER THAT REPENTETH.

We don't know if GOD CALLED YOU; BUT YOU'RE A PREACHER! We don't know if GOD CALLED THE SISTER; BUT LOOK AT THE SOULS SHE'S REACHING.

Acts 2:38, REPENT, and be baptized every one of you in THE NAME OF JESUS CHRIST for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the HOLY GHOST.

Many Pastors are hung up on: OBEY ME I'M YOUR LEADER. THEY DRIVE THE FLOCK; DO THIS FOR MONEY; DO THAT FOR MONEY, HE'S A BLEEDER.

Ezekiel 34:2b,3, THUS SAITH THE LORD GOD UNTO THE SHEPHERDS; Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the flock? Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, Ye kill them that are fed: BUT YE FEED NOT THE FLOCK.

Its the same LOVING SPIRIT OF A MOTHEK OF THE HOUSEHOLD; AND NO FATHER, SHE DOES WHAT SHE SUPPOSE TO DO; BECAUSE IT RIGHT! SO WHY ARE YOU A BOTHER.

Luke 12:42,43, Jesus said, Who then is a FAITHFUL AND WISE STEWARD, whom his lord shall make RULER OVER HIS HOUSEHOLD, to give them their portion of meat in due SEASON? BLESSED is that SERVANT, whom his lord when he cometh shall FIND SO DOING.

***WILL THE BROTHER PREACHER ROB GOD???

(In the garden of Eve, Eve she was DECEIVED; THAT IS VERY TRUE! BUT LOOK AT THE BROTHER PREACHER TODAY. JIM JONES, DAVID CEREST, JIM BAKER AND OTHERS. BUT WE DON'T HEAR OF THE SISTERS DEFECTING???)

Matthew 7:21, Jesus said, Not every one that saith unto ME, LORD, LORD, shall enter into the KINGDOM OF HEAVEN; but he that doeth THE WILL OF MY FATHER WHICH IS IN HEAVEN.

GOD is not through with us yet. So lets PRAY FOR ONE ANOTHER ALWAYS.

"Inconsistent Worship"

"They feared the Lord, and served their own gods." 2 Kings 17:33.

What a strange paradox! How can a person do both? Israel worshipping the true God and along with Him the worshipping of various false Gods. We cannot imagine a person practicing at the same time Christianity, Judaism and Islam. You must make your choice as to what religion you will profess. You cannot profess several inconsistent religions together.

Those of us that are Christian know that Christianity is an exclusive religion. It not merely calls men and women to believe in itself, but to reject every other faith. It not merely claims to be right and true, it boldly says that every other faith is wrong and false. The God of the Bible does not merely commands us to worship Him, He commands us to worship no one else. Christianity is a faith which admits no rivals, no competitors. It demands to stand alone. And the true God is not the God of this land or that land. He is the God of all the earth. He tolerates no other on His throne.

After Israel had been taken into captivity the King of Assyria sent people from Babylon and surrounding countries to the country where Israel had lived, to dwell there. As the new people settled in, lions came into the territory and molested them. They, being heathen, thought the God of Israel was angry at them. They wondered how they could appease Him. Then the King of Assyria sent a priest from the children of Israel back to teach these people about the God of Israel. The result was that they built altars and worshipped the true God, but they still continue to worship their heathen idols also.

They worshipped the God of Israel through fear, but they really didn't know Him. What a poor vain quality of worship this must have seemed in the mind of God.

God wanted only true worship offered from a heart of love. This He had expected from His chosen people of Israel, for He has shown His power in miraculous deliverance on their behalf so many times. But Israel had forsaken their God. And how could this alien people in Samaria know of God's mighty power toward Israel. Therefore their worship was inadequate.

In many of today's churches there are still two kinds of worship. Some people worship God out of duty and fear. They attend church on Sunday. They fear that if they fail to do this God will be angry with them. They go through their long devotions, gospel singing, spiritual robotics, and give the church dues all out of duty. This does not satisfy the heart of God. "You worship me with your lips, but your heart is far from me," He says.

Then there is the other kind of worship. The individual, motivated by love for God, attends God's house with joy and anticipation. He or she does not go there to stir up hell; instruct the preacher on what to preach; point out the fornicators and adulterers, but to praise and worship God. "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord," sang the Psalmist David. This has always been the kind of worship God longs for.

Today God wants us to choose and make a whole-hearted commitment, worshipping Him in sincerity and truth.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Met with the brothers and sisters at the Parkway Nursing Center at 10:00 a.m. Our prayers are that a special blessing continue to be upon each person. Opening with singing of God's praises, very important in the meeting. Opening scripture Heb 13:1-7, prayer and words by Sister Crawford. Morning scripture lesson by Sister Christine Burleson, 1 Cor 12, spiritual gifts.

And now, brothers, I want to write about the special abilities the Holy Spirit gives to each of you, for I don't want any misunderstanding about them. You will remember that before you became Christians you went around from one idol to another, not one of which could speak a single word. But now you are meeting people who claim to speak messages from the Spirit of God. How can you know whether they are really inspired by God or whether they are fakes? Here is the test: no one speaking by the power of the Spirit of God can curse Jesus, and no one can say, "Jesus is Lord," and really mean it, unless the Holy Spirit is helping him. Now God gives us many kinds of special abilities, but it is the same Holy Spirit who is the source of them all. There are different kinds of service to God. But it is the same Lord we are serving. There are many ways in which God works in our lives. But it is the same God who does this in and through all of us who are his. The Holy Spirit displays God's power through each of us as a means of helping the entire church.

This speaker said, God is calling for his people to teach, be living examples. In all these gifts our God wants to work miracles in the body, but he has to have clean vessels to work through. We are one body. Each of us needs the other. No one gift is more important than the other but all of them need to be working in the body to make it complete. The church that is. Believers are the Body of Christ.

Thanks Sister Burleson for a job well done. You blessed us all. We love you, and God does too.

Thought: We are made in the image of God. What does he look like? Through the eyes of the world, what are your lives projecting???

Be sure to read II Chronicles 7:14 and Mark 11:22-26. Keep smiling all, and loving your neighbors. Write us at P.O. Box 1223, Lubbock, Texas 79408. We love you.

Yes! In 1996, we still have people today who go to bed hungry. Here are some surprising facts:

In the world, 13 - 18 million people — mostly children — will die of hunger and hunger related causes this year!

That is the equivalent of 100 jumbo jets crashing everyday with no survivors.

In the United States, 39 million people experience chronic hunger.

In Texas, 1 in 10 senior citizens must choose between purchasing food, medication or housing.

In Lubbock, 1 in 4 children are affected by hunger.

THE MAN FOR LUBBOCK AND WEST TEXAS HIS RECORD SPEAKS FOR HIM!!

David Langston A church, civic and family leader

David and his wife, Ronda, are expecting a baby in March. Their family includes three other children: John David, 18; Mary Kathryn, 15; Evan Craig, 4. They are active members of St. John's United Methodist Church in Lubbock where both serve as Sunday school teachers.

- Formed and served as the chairman of the Committee of Churches whose mission is to revitalize the central business district of Lubbock.
- Heads non-profit corporation, called Broadway Festivals, Inc., which annually produces three highly successful downtown festivals: 4th on Broadway, Lights on Broadway and the Buddy Holly Music Festival.
- Worked with religious leaders to host the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, the Annual Community Thanksgiving Service, and helped to reorganize the Lubbock Ministerial Association.

Grand opening of the Lubbock Plaza Downtown Transfer Center:
David R. Langston is a Man for all seasons, for all people collectively working for the good of all District 28th Senatorial district citizens.

David R. Langston as Mayor of Lubbock at a Groundbreaking ceremony at the T. J. Patterson library. This shows his ability to work effectively with all citizens of all backgrounds, Ethnicity, cultural, and religious.

Elect David Langston

Who is the best man to replace John T. Montford as District 28 State Senator?

David Langston of course!! His record speaks for itself as Mayor of Lubbock.

Now he has a chance to expand his talents and records to the District level for Lubbock and West Texas.

David R. Langston at curfew volunteers ceremony recognizing them for their dedication and hard work with our youth. David is a compassionate, caring person, who works round the clock with all segments of the community. He will make a good West Texas Senator.

David Langston: An active, hard-working, trusted leader

David Langston was elected Mayor of Lubbock for 3 consecutive terms and, at 43 is one of the youngest mayors in the city's history. He promised to repeal a sales tax if a defense facility didn't locate in Lubbock and followed through on his commitment. His hands on style and consensus building has brought Lubbock a more efficient government and a united community.

- Championed neighborhood associations with residents working together.
- Started the "4th Corps," a privately funded summer youth employment camp.
- Created enterprise zones in depressed parts of the city.
- Passed a teenage curfew ordinance and got state legislation to keep kids out of the cycle of crime.

David R. Langston at the renaming Ceremonies of the street name change from Quirt Ave. which was offensive to some citizens because it was the the whip used to punish African-Americans when they were slaves. This shows Langston's sensitivity to all sections of the community.

Then city of Lubbock's Mayor David R. Langston, and his brother Ellis Langston, and another Lubbock United Neighborhood Association, L.U.N.A. David is a all around person always working hard for his constituents.
