End Of Spanish Civil Conflict Near; France, Britain Reportedly Studying Recognition Of Franco Regime

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 7 (AP)—An end to the civil war which has paralyzed Spain and endangered the peace of Europe for 30 months appeared imminent today.

Dr. Juan Negrin, premier of Government Spain, and his last disheartened supporters were reported in diplomatic circles to be swinging around to the view that they must yield.

President Manuel Azana abandoned all appearances of clinging to his post of chief executive of the republic. After coming to France Sunday and staying a day near the frontier he went to a French retreat at Colonges, close to Geneva.

Fighting in northern Spain appeared to be over.

Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco checked the pace of his armies marching through the northeastern province of Catalonia toward the French frontier while columns of defeated government troops and refugees withdrew into France.

Negrin, diplomatic sources said, was bending all his efforts toward orderly evacuation of his northern troops and the escape of refugees who had not yet crossed the border.

MORE RESISTANCE

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Spanish government embassy announced today the government of Premier Juan Negrin would proceed to Valencia "before the end of this week" and "continue resistance to the end."

The announcement made no mention of negotiations at the French-Spanish border for peace in the two and one-half-year-old Spanish civil war but indicated at least a temporary refusal of the

Prison System Study Asked By O'Daniel

Message Calls For Putting System On Business Basis

AUSTIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today recommended the legislature appoint a committee to study operation of the state prison system "from a business standpoint" and make recommendations on how convict labor may best be employed and the business management of the system improved.

In a message to the lawmakers Gov. O'Daniel suggested the committee be composed of chairmen of house and senate committees on penitentiaries, two business men appointed by the lieutenant-governor, two appointees of the speaker of the house and two named by the governor.

The chief executive noted management of the prison system has long been a subject of debate and investigation. He said it appeared to him there was two distinct phases of the problem needing study—the humanitarian and business sides.

"I feel that a committee that might be exceedingly well equipped to deal with one phase of this question, might not be able to be of much assistance in dealing with the other angle of the problem," O'Daniel said.

"It will be only a short time before the legislature will be called upon to pass on the question of appropriations for the maintenance of the prison system. It, therefore, seems desirable for the governor and for the legislature to have all the information possible on the business management of the prison before they are called upon to pass on the question of appropriations x x x it seems further desirable that we secure the judgment of competent business men on this problem.

"I, therefore, most respectfully recommend to the legislature that you consider the advisability of appointing a committee to make a study of the operation of the prison system from a business standpoint and that this committee be instructed to report back to the legislature within sixty days, submitting its definite recommendations as to how convict labor may best be employed, how the business management of the prison system may be improved, to the end that the expense to the taxpayers of this state of maintaining the prison system may be reduced, x x x."

At Moore, a group of women were preparing a sumptuous country dinner for the occasion which was to draw their husbands and the townsmen together in an evening of entertainment and fun.

Charles Frost, chairman of the chamber of commerce goodwill committee, said that nearly 80 men had made reservations and that most of them would be able to make the trip.

Program for the event is devoid of speeches for as Frost said previously "there is nothing to be sold but fellowship at the meeting."

Moore String Band and the West Texans trio will furnish music for the dinner and Rev. J. H. Haley, Colorado, a crack amateur magician, will draw on his repertoire of tricks to furnish the remainder of entertainment.

The dinner Tuesday evening is one of a series of good will ventures contemplated by the chamber this year.

Joe Kunschik Approved By The Senate

O'Daniel Appointee To Labor Commission Accepted

AUSTIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Joe Kunschik of Austin, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's appointee as state labor commissioner.

The certification was announced after a one-hour executive session of the upper legislative chamber. A two-thirds affirmative vote is necessary for confirmation.

Nomination of Kunschik was the subject of scores of protests and commendations by various labor groups which appeared before the committee on governor's nominations last week.

The senate also confirmed Gov. O'Daniel's nomination to Raymond L. Dillard of Mexico to the state parks board, succeeding Thomas L. Beauchamp of Tyler whom O'Daniel named secretary of state.

Also confirmed were four recess appointments of former Governor James V. Allred, William H. Richardson, Jr., of Austin and Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, as members of the public safety commission, and Herbert Volker of Wichita Falls and Thomas D. Broad of Dallas as members of the board of architectural examiners.

No action was announced on Truett Smith of Tahoka, the governor's choice for state life insurance commissioner whose confirmation was recommended by the committee on governor's nominations.

FOUR ESCAPE JAIL AT TEXARKANA

TEXARKANA, Ark., Feb. 7 (AP)—Four prisoners escaped the Miller county jail early today by sawing cell bars and sliding down blankets from the second and third floors.

The flight was discovered by a patrolman who noticed the blankets. At large were Clint Houston Logan, 25, awaiting circuit court action on a murder charge; Sidney Taylor, 23, and Homer Durham, 25, held on grand larceny charges; and Clyde Allen, charged with forgery.

Authorities at Shreveport, La., Louisville, Hope and Ashdown, Ark., and Longview, Texas, were asked to watch for the fugitives.

GOVERNOR PLANS MORE MESSAGES TO LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel disclosed today he was preparing "three or four" more messages to the legislature.

He made the announcement incidentally with releasing a message recommending a legislative investigation into business operations of the state penitentiary looking toward efficiency and economies.

The additional messages, dates of delivery of which are uncertain will, in the main:

Convey the governor's ideas on some consolidations which he thinks will be beneficial to agriculture.

Recommend elimination of many special funds in which the state keeps its money.

Advocate abolition of the death penalty.

Scouts To Go 'Sleuthing' In A Stunt For Anniversary Week

Approximately 100 amateur detectives—all of them Boy Scouts—will comb the downtown section Wednesday at 1:30 in a large scale "man hunt."

It's all in fun and a part of the Scout Anniversary Week observance here. The youthful sleuths will be furnished a description of three men by Wainwright Morris, district scout commissioner, and their jobs will be to find these men. Last year troop No. 3 won the hunt hands down.

A few minutes earlier at the Lions club troop No. 7 is due to present a program before its sponsor, John R. Hutto, scoutmaster of the troop, is to be in charge of the program.

Thursday troop No. 3 will appear before its sponsor, the Kiwanis club, and Friday the American Business club will hear a scout program.

Following the man hunt Wednesday scouts will participate in a theatre party, a feature which proved popular last year. Friday at 5:30 p. m. the scouts are to gather at their camp sites on the city park Buffalo Trail for an overnight hike under the supervision of Jack Penrose, field scout executive.

Sunday at 2 p. m. boys who have completed phases of their advancement will go before a board of review preparatory to the Court of Honor to be held before the Rotary club on Tuesday.

The annual scout church service is scheduled to be held Sunday evening at the First Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. J. O. Haynes delivering the message.

While boys in six Big Spring troops are launching their Scout Week celebration here Wednesday, a score of business and professional men will begin a drive to raise the Big Spring $2,000 quota toward support of the Boy Scout program.

C. S. Blomshield, district chairman, and T. W. Ashley, finance chairman, called a meeting of men for 10 a. m. Wednesday to begin the campaign for membership in the Buffalo Trail council.

Blomshield was hopeful that response would be such as to complete the drive in a brief space of time.

Listed as workers were Ted Groehl, G. H. Hayward, Ben Cole, Charles Frost, Carl Strom, Dr. Frank Boyle, Roy Cornelison, R. L. Cook, Pat Kinney, J. B. Collins, C. L. Rowe, Cliff Wiley, G. C. Dunham, Bob Schermerhorn, Hayes Stripling, Joe Pond, Dr. P. W. Malone, and Obie Bristow.

MUSIC GROUP BACK FROM HOUSTON

Dan Conley, director of the high school band, had returned Tuesday from Houston where he took three band and voice students to the annual meeting of the Texas Music Educators.

Sum Favored For Hospital

Committee Votes $199,000 Emergency Appropriation

A favorable report on a $199,000 emergency appropriation for the new Big Spring state hospital was voted today in Austin by the house appropriations committee, press dispatches announced.

The committee accepted recommendations of a sub group which had been studying the money bill for more than a week.

The bill would provide for equipping the hospital and starting its operation on May 1. Prospects appeared good, Austin sources said, of the measure passing the legislature.

The $199,000 figure represented a reduction from the $275,033 originally asked by the state board of control on the basis of a report on the institution's needs by the superintendent, Dr. Geo. T. McMahon. Trimmed from this original request were such items as laundry equipment, a mattress factory and other large projects which it was understood, legislators felt could be included in the regular appropriation request which will cover the hospital's operations for the two-year period beginning September 1.

The emergency appropriation provides for furnishings, salaries, etc., to operate the hospital from May 1 to Sept. 1.

A group of Big Spring citizens, including J. H. Greene, Thos. J. Coffey and Bruce Frazier, was in Austin over the weekend conferring with legislators on the emergency fund.

Juveniles Held In School Burglaries

School officials and officers were satisfied Tuesday that wave of schoolroom burglaries and petty thefts had been solved with arrest of two juveniles.

Police turned them over to county authorities and County Judge Charles Sullivan was due to conduct a hearing during the day.

L. A. Coffey, city officer who took the boys into custody, said they admitted entering and ransacking five school buildings within the past week and to several minor depredations such as rifling desks and taking milk bottles.

Apparently after money or articles that could be readily turned into money, the pair made off with very little in the school raids. Coffey caught the boys and a companion on a report from high school officials that they were playing truant. He picked up a fourth who escaped when the officer became tangled in a fence. Two of the lads, however, were subsequently released.

KNOTT MAN IS ILL

J. W. Shortes, Knett, is reported seriously ill at the home of his son, Elmer Shortes, in Odessa. He had come to visit with two sons, Elmer and John Shortes, about a month ago and suffered a heart attack last week. Other children, Mrs. G. E. Wagner, Brownville, Mrs. J. C. Allred, Knett, Otis Shortes, Harlingen, and Floyd Shortes, Knett, were at the bedside.

Emergency In WPA Cited By Roosevelt

Requests Same Sum Congress Cut From First Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt told congress today an "emergency exists" in relief and asked immediate consideration of an additional appropriation of $150,000,000 for WPA for the next five months.

This figure represents the cut congress made in his request for $875,000,000 to carry WPA from February through June. The White House announced earlier today the president had signed the $725,000,000 bill last Saturday.

In making immediate consideration on what he termed the "simple and alarming facts" in the relief outlook, Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to congress that with only $725,000,000 available, WPA either must reduce its rolls abruptly on April 1 by 1,000,000 persons or begin on that date a week-by-week reduction which by June 30 would drop employment from a present 3,000,000 to "a figure well below 1,500,000 persons."

"In other words," the president said, "the program of present employment would be slashed considerably more than one-half within a period of three months."

"If, however, proper reserves were maintained at the end of the fiscal year, employment at the end of June would drop still further to a figure of only slightly more than 1,000,000 persons."

"Therefore, on a program of gradual reduction from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 persons would be thrown out of Works Progress Administration employment—or, with the addition of those dependent on them, from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 Americans would no longer receive federal government aid."

Discussing the prohibition written into the relief bill against reducing WPA rolls by more than five percent during February and March, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The need of these people is so apparent and so deserving that the rolls, in human decency ought not to be reduced during February and March by even 5 per cent. After conferences with the WPA it has been determined for the above reason to hold the rolls at the present figure of 3,000,000 persons during these two months."

The chief executive said he would have withheld approval of the $725,000,000 bill on grounds of inadequacy to meet human need had congress not included

Quinn Freed Of Charges

Santone Mayor Exonerated, To Seek Office Again

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Exonerated of charges of misuse of public funds, Mayor G. K. Quinn, one of the heads of the Bexar county's politics, today was ready for another filing at the mayoralty of San Antonio.

Quinn's victory in court yesterday when Judge R. D. Wright of Laredo dismissed five indictments against the mayor and two city employees, R. Neill Campbell and L. P. Bishop, not only gave Quinn the exoneration ruling that he had expected but it may have paved the way for action today that may bring cleared names to several other Bexar county political figures who have been indicted.

Judge Wright yesterday ruled that because Mayor Quinn held his political office that office did not make the mayor custodian of the city's finances and therefore there has been no criminal action or misapplication of San Antonio's money in the alleged payment of $3,487 to 400 political workers in the democratic party last year.

The verdict was roundly cheered by spectators, who raised such a din of noise in the courtroom that the judge retired to his chambers for a few minutes before completing his decision.

A few minutes after Mayor Quinn and Bishop and Campbell had been cleared, District Attorney John Shook announced he would ask today for dismissal of old indictments charging public fund irregularities pending against George W. Huntress, Jr., former Bexar county clerk; W. R. Beaumier, former chief clerk under Huntress; Dillard Coy, deputy county clerk under Huntress; Jack R. Burke, former county clerk, and Joe S. Sleski, former county treasurer.

Mayor Quinn walked out of court yesterday with the announcement he would again seek the mayoralty.

PANHANDLE OIL PRICE BOOSTED

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Feb. 7 (AP)—The Phillips Petroleum company's posted price for sweet and sour crude in the Texas Panhandle area took a jump of eight cents for all gravities at 7 a. m. today.

The change adds eight cents per barrel to prices set last October 13 in Carson, Moore, Hutchinson and Gray counties, when all prices were reduced in the general cuts announced throughout the mid-continent area.

The prices are 36 cents per barrel for 40 gravity sweet crude, with a two-cent differential downward for each degree. All crude below 29 is 73 cents per barrel.

On sour crude, 40 gravity is 31 cents, with a downward differential of two cents. All below 29 gravity is 67 cents.

Defense Bill Approved By Committee

Measure Authorizes Expanding Air Force To 5,500 Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Chairman May D-Ky) said today the house military committee had unanimously approved legislation to authorize the major part of President Roosevelt's $562,000,000 special defense program, including expansion of the army air corps to 5,500 planes.

Action on the bill came, he said, after republican members of the committee sought unsuccessfully to limit the war department to production of no more than 1,000 airplanes in any fiscal year.

Representative Andrews (R-NY), senior minority member, of the group, said limitation proposal was defeated, 15 to 10, on a "straight party vote."

May declined to say how the committee divided on his original proposal to give the air corps a total of 4,000 planes.

"The bridge is off," he asserted. "They can buy these planes as fast as they can be built."

House leaders hoped to start debate Thursday.

In addition to the augmented army plane program, President Roosevelt recommended to congress yesterday that it spend an extra $4,723,000 for aviation research facilities.

The money would supplement the regular appropriation for the national advisory committee of aeronautics.

In the senate, the hot controversy over the sale of fighting planes to France brought a statement from Senator Nye (R-ND) that members of the military committee may be "forced" to give their version of what took place at a secret conference last week with President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt has called "a deliberate lie" any statement that he told the committee America's frontier was on the Rhine. He also outlined the administration's foreign policy, saying it involved no "entangling alliances."

Several committee members, contending that Mr. Roosevelt had given his version of the meeting, have suggested that he release them from their pledge of secrecy.

Nye said today he saw little chance that Mr. Roosevelt would do that. But, he added, demands for information by other senators might make it incumbent on those who attended the conference to report on it.

POPE ILL, FORCED TO SUSPEND WORK

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 7 (AP)—Pope Pius XI suffered an attack of cardiac asthma which forced him today to suspend his activities, a Vatican news service said.

Vatican circles said the Pope's asthma was aggravated by a mild attack of influenza. The illness apparently was considered less serious than that of November 25 when the pontiff suffered a heart attack.

His staff did not summon cardinals who usually call when the Pope's illness is critical.

HODNETT IS NAMED VEALMOOR TRUSTEE

Archibald B. Hodnett was named in an unofficial trustee election Monday at Vealmoor for a place on the board. His appointment was forthcoming from Anna Martin, county superintendent.

Last week Mrs. Mary Chalk was named at Chalk to succeed her late husband, Otis Chalk, as a member of that board.

Wednesday Miss Martin will conduct an unofficial election at Richmond for a successor to Dave Jones, resigned.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

Directors of the Big Spring WT-NM baseball club, from President R. L. Cook on down, are becoming worried over the attitude the once rabid fans of this community are taking toward the 1939 baseball picture here. The condition of the patient, your chronicler might say, is very grave at the present.

Either the backers haven't come out of hibernation yet or they simply do not care whether the professional game operates here the coming season. It is imperative that a stand be taken one way or the other. A league meeting is to be held within the immediate future and the leaders must submit their decision for the 1939 season to league officials at that time.

Cook has been furthering his plans toward the '39 season since last August but has received little cooperation. He has devoted much time and money toward something that really concerns him no more than it does any rooter who backed the team. He is a business man and must look after his interests yet he has unselfishly devoted effort toward this civic project. The manner with which his efforts have been greeted are indeed disheartening.

So heed the plea and the warning. If the fans earnestly want the game to continue here, then make it a point to publicize the proposed drive and encourage the directors as much as possible.

Harold Steck, the dynamic salesman who probably helped Cook more than any one last year, has returned to Big Spring to take up residence and his presence is expected to prove profitable.

All machinery has been set up for the "big push." All needed now are the pushers.

Top talk makers in the Major City basketball league, with the schedule nearing the home stretch, are bunched so closely that the winner probably will not be decided until the last week of the race.

Jake Morgan, Vaughn's great forward and a leading candidate for all-star honors, missed a great chance to pull away from the field in last night's game with the Coahoma Oilers when he could score but four points. Jake fouled out, however, early in the third period, a rare occurrence in the career of the ex-Coahoma star. Morgan is still leading the field with 72 points.

Trailing him are R. S. Thomas, Garner, Jack Oliver, First National Bank, and Dave Hopper. First National Bank, in that order, Thomas added seven points in last night's game to bring his total to 71, one more than has Oliver, who added nine last evening, and two more than Hopper who came into the chase in a large way Monday by counting 20 points against R-Bar. He has played in but six games.

Others near the top and their point totals are R. V. Thomas, Garner, 57; Dub Kelly, Coahoma, 56; Durwood McCright, Vaughn's, 51; E. Procter, Planters, 46; Mack Beard, Coahoma, 39; and J. W. Howard, R-Bar, 37.

Husker Trackster Travels 60 Miles For Competition

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 6 (AP)—Bob Morris, two-time University of Nebraska track team letter winner, is going to travel 60 miles on Saturday after his third varsity award.

Studying at the university proper in Lincoln in 1937 and 1938, Bob scored enough points each year to get his letter. This year he's a student at the university's college of medicine here—60 miles from Lincoln.

But 60 miles isn't going to stop a miler, half miler and relay runner like Bob from competition. He is lack of a nearby track. He's doing his training on the shoulders of an outlying concrete boulevard.

"Someone? Well, Morris says he sometimes misses the comradeship of an squad, but he's rather enjoying running alone.

He expects to confine his running to the miles at Lincoln but hopes to arrange things to get into the Big Six indoor championships at Columbia, Mo., and the outdoor championships wherever that meet is held.

For the Lincoln meet he plans to leave Omaha at noon by automobile arriving at the university "with just about enough time to warm up before the running starts."

LEWISTON, Idaho, Feb. 7 (AP)—The University of Idaho's basketball team, obviously tired from their 7,000-mile good will tour of the western states, bowed to the Lewiston Normal Loggers 55 to 35 here last night.

OILERS EDGE OUT VAUGHN'S, 31-26

Bucket Hare Shines In Defeat;
Garner And Bankers Victorious

Applying a finish similar to the one employed in their victory over the First National Bank crew last week, Coahoma's Oilers defeated the Vaughn Street Shop quintet, 31-26, in the high school gym Monday evening to all but sew up second half honors in the Major City basketball league.

The Oilers literally played the highly favored Coahomans off their feet during the first three periods of play but, when Jake Morgan, star forward and the league's leading scorer, left the game on fouls their chances for victory diminished.

Bucket Hare enjoyed one of his better evenings, rolling in five field goals and a free throw to top anything in individual performance any Oiler could accomplish but, in the end, smooth team work, tricky passing and work under the basket told the tale.

The Coahomans trailed, 9-15, at the finish of the opening period, due mainly to Hare's accurate tossing from mid court and were still not in the running at half time, taking the short end of an 18-12 count, but Lottin Bragg and Marshall Wheeler collaborated in the third to push the Oilers into a 23-22 lead. From there on out Dub Kelly and Phil Smith contributed to keep the Coahomans out in front.

Morgan was having plenty of trouble getting his tosses to act right, sinking but two field goals. In the evening's first game Garner's Oilers had little trouble with the Planters' Oilers, scoring a 51-21 victory. Penny Procter continued his torrid scoring streak, tallying a total of 11 points, but Turner and V. Thomas more than matched that. Turner looped seven field goals and five free tosses while V. Thomas contributed six field goals and a single gratis pitch.

The follow-up battle saw R-Bar drop another engagement, this time to the First National Bank aggregation, 20-46. David Hopper played a leading role in the Banker victory, pushing in 20 points.

The Oilers were badly hurt in the running at any point. The Bankers usually depended upon Hopper or Ray Groseclose to fight the ball from the backboards and were in command of the situation most of the way.

SETTERS ARE AHEAD IN FIELD TRIAL WINS BUT A POINTER MAY TAKE THE '39 CROWN

By The AP Feature Service
GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Feb. 7.—The age-old argument over the merits of pointers and setters is just as hot now as it was in ancient days when man first tramped through the woods with a hunting dog at his side.

The approach of another National Field Trial dog championship serves to add fuel to the flames. The national championship will be run over the Ames plantation here starting February 28.

Merits of setters and pointers provide tinder for heated controversy. Each breed has its staunch supporters. Some say the pointer can be trained more rapidly. Others consider the setter a more stylish hunter, faster footed and possessed, perhaps, of greater stamina.

In the long series since the national championship was founded in 1896 by Hobart Ames, wealthy Bostonian, the shaggy-haired setters hold a slight advantage. 21 championships to 20, but the close cropped pointers have come with a rush in recent years.

Setters Won At First
During the classic first dozen years, the long-haired hunters

He ran the final heat with a badly injured leg but rolled up an astonishing number of bevy points. Mary Montrose, white-and-liver daughter of the 1914 champion, Comanche Frank, was the first three-time winner, in 1917-19-20. Other triple champions were the pointer Becky Broom Hill and Feagin's Mohawk Pal, a numbskull setter whose victories in 1926-28-30 did much to bolster the fading prestige of his breed.

The National's "first family," however, was that of the setter, Count Whitestone. La Bessie, was a fifth and last champion sired by the Count. Others preceding her were Pioneer, Prince Whitestone, Count Whitestone II and Commissioner.

Fishel's Frank sired what is claimed by many as the outstanding pointer strain, producing such runner as John Procter, Ferris Jake, Muscle Shoals Jake, Air Pilot and Air Pilot's Sam, winner of last year's championship.

A half-dozen dogs, all pointers, are in the front rank of favorites for the 1939 championship. These include Boss Blue Willing, Scalper, Village Ben, Timbuctoo, Lester's Enjoy Wahoo and Air Pilot's Sam.

swept home uninterrupted by major honors, but in 1909 Manitoba Rap, white, liver and ticked pointer, halted this streak with an "upset" victory. Comanche Frank, sired by the great stud Fishel's Frank, duplicated in 1914 and 1924 then pointers have won 19 of the 24 meets.

Count Gladstone IV, a setter, won the first running of the National. In 1896 a black, white and tan bundle of whippers and steel, Joe Cumming, became champion.

Coahoma To Oppose Garner, Foran Meets Moore

First round play in the county intercollegiate league basketball game will get underway at the high school gym Wednesday evening, 7:30 o'clock, when the Coahoma Bulldogs meet Garner Hill Billies. ## Gene Sarazen Is Ready For Match Play

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—Now that his golf game is tuned for competitive play again, Gene Sarazen stepped today into the medal play-match play controversy. "I can beat 'em either way, hole-by-hole or add-em-up," remarked the cocky little scrapper who never has ducked a verbal argument any more than he has turned down a links challenge.

The man-to-man play in the annual Professional Golfers association championship is perfectly satisfactory to Gene.

"A master can win at either match or medal play," he declared. "The fellows in my class—Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones and myself—always could win just as many tournaments at match play as medal."

Sarazen has a word of disdain for the pros who frown on match play, claiming it is unfair because an inferior player often can spring an upset in an 18-hole round.

"Any man who thinks he can't win at match play is lacking in the stuff that makes a champion," he said.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Max Schmeling's visit is puzzling the big town. The German is doing absolutely nothing except go to the movies and play cards in his hotel suite. Football coaches: Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian will tell you how he does it in a big magazine come October.

The situation being what it is, Prof. Joe Stripp will delay adding a course in holding out to his Orlando baseball school until next year.

Truth will out: The official program of the Bettina-Fox "championship" fight the other night featured a picture of John Henry Lewis captioned "light-heavyweight champion of the world." Van Lear (Ky) high must have had an off night recently when it was dubbed at basketball, 106 to 2.

A Fort Worth store blocked sidewalk traffic by filling a show window with just 20 of Davey D'Brien's Bucky Harris is having tall troubles down at Orlando. He had the hotel in a dither trying to find a bed long enough to park Bob Garner, 6 foot, 7 inch right-hander.

Freddie Miller, the former featherweight champ, has boils on his neck from thinking about the time he refused to buy Henry Armstrong's contract from Wirt Ross for 500 bucks.

All George Page, Yale basketball guard, has to do to inherit a million yams is get his diploma in June. The golf pros can't win for losing. As fast as they pick it up on the links, Bill Melhorn and Jimmy Hines take it away from them at bridge.

Zeke Bonura is visiting pals in Texas and they say he looks as sleek and slim as a race horse. He went to a party which lasted till 4 a. m. and didn't so much as blow the foam off one.

The way Los Gehrig is adding those grey hairs, he'll succeed Tris Speaker as the "grey eagle" of the majors.

Playing in the Los Angeles country club's invitational tournament yesterday, Miss Shuster earned a 73 for what links followers said they believed is the best women's 18-hole competitive mark in Pacific coast golfing history.

The young shotmaker, a finalist last summer in the western junior championships in St. Louis, produced a 35 for the first time, equaling the men's par.

She finished three under women's par.

COLORADO WOLVES MEET BS CAGERS

Locals, Without House, Defeated By Moore Lobos, 27-21, Monday

Jack Christian brings his Colorado Wolves to town this evening in tangle with the Big Spring high school quintet in a return basketball game between the two teams. The fray will get underway in the new gym at 7:45 o'clock.

The Wolves wrangled a decision out of the locals in the previous meeting of the two teams, winning by two points. The locals are in no shape to even the count since Marvin House, regular forward, has a bad cold and probably will not be able to play.

Bo was not in the lineup when the Wolves took a 21-27 drubbing at the hands of the Moore Lobos Monday evening in the Moore gym. Miss Arsh Phillips' charges set the pace all the way, leading 14-13 at half time.

Bobby Savage outdistanced anything any Moore player could do, counting three field goals and as many gratis pitches but his mates' inability to sink free tosses hurt the locals chances in the ball game. The Big Springers' missed six of the offered throws.

McClough, J. Goodman and Hayworth succeeded in doing the major part of the damage for the Lobos with Hayworth's seven points taking individual scoring laurels.

The Bovine reserves also went down before Miss Phillips' second strings, losing 15-12.

The Steers, with three wins against two defeats, were firmly entrenched in fourth place.

The game was closely contested until the last four minutes of play when the Longhorns forged ahead five points, then six.

Dewell, S.M.U. forward, led the scoring with 11 points. Cooley, Longhorn forward, led his mates with 9.

Conn Is Only Irishman In Fight Photo

Apostoli, Friday Foe, May Be Able To Beat Him This Time Out

By DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sure, it is a sad day for Ireland. The only Irishman within shouting distance of a boxing title is bold Billy Conn, a brood of a lad from Pittsburgh, who is getting ready to fight Freddy Apostoli, the gentlemanly ex-bellhop, Friday night.

Time was when you could shake Irish fighters out of trees. John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Terrible Terry McGovern and the first Jack Dempsey, the nonpareil, set the style. Today Conn and the youthful Patrick Edward Comely are the only Irishmen among the better bruisers.

Conn would like to make the title and fight for the middleweight championship. Mike Jacobs plans a bout for him with Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., who is recognized hereabouts as the light heavyweight king. What's more Conn is big enough and good enough to move in select heavyweight circles.

His immediate foe, Apostoli, claims the middleweight title, but the title, recognized only in this state and California, won't be on the line for the 15-round duel this week. Conn, a hearty feeder, is way above the 160-pound limit.

He held a seven and a half pound bulge when he beat Freddy in 10 rounds here in December. His weight advantage doesn't mean he will win again however.

The San Franciscan is amazingly good the second time out against anyone. He beat Solly Krieger, recognized as champion by the National Boxing association, in 10 rounds, then stopped him in five.

Green Estate Case Is Argued Before Supreme Court
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Litigation to determine whether Massachusetts, Texas, New York or Florida should be permitted to collect an inheritance tax from the $36,137,336 estate left by Colonel Edward H. R. Green came before the supreme court today for argument.

Green, son of the famous Hettie Green, died in 1936, at Lake Placid, N. Y. He claimed Texas as his home, but a special messenger appointed by the supreme court has recommended that Massachusetts be declared his legal domicile.

Massachusetts is seeking $4,947,008, Texas, $4,685,057, New York, $5,910,301 and Florida, $4,663,857. The federal government already has taken $17,520,987.

After hearing arguments, the court is to adopt the recommendation by John S. Flannery, Washington attorney, reject it or modify it. A final decision normally will come in a few weeks.

Hemmed In By Modern Buildings,
Alamo Retains The Spirit Of Freedom To Awe All Visitors

By MARY WHALEY

A trip to the Alamo was a "must" last weekend on my first trip to San Antonio and it was one of the few anticipated things that didn't turn out to be disappointing.

Looking at the crumbling stone mission where Texas history was made, I felt a little awe-stricken. It seemed like such a small building to have withstood a siege that ended only with the death of the last defender. Situated as it is in the middle of the city, other buildings seem to dwarf its size.

Somewhat the noisy blast of horns and grinding gears of passing automobiles were out of place. Out civilization has crept up in the Alamo and has hemmed it in on all sides with neon lights, traffic, modern buildings, and products of a faster moving world.

In a way, it seemed hard to realize that a battle was once fought on the site where now one can just step around the corner and find the picture show, the drug store, and the dance hall.

But neither the modern world nor the casual tourists can quite dispel the feeling of reverence while standing there. Just as it did in the days when Texas was battling for independence, so the Alamo stands even now as a symbol of that dearest thing to man—freedom.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL
BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking down acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 quarts a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or painful passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep, and souring, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes work and poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

school appreciated the gift.

He will speak extemporaneously, however, at formal dedication ceremonies after a trustee meeting and luncheon in honor of him and Mrs. Perkins.

Dr. Unshapay Lee, new president, came from Nashville to receive the building, latest of several school projects for which Perkins has made donations.

CLEVELAND'S PLAN ... WORTH A TRIAL

Cleveland's police court has a new—and to our mind effective—method of dealing with reckless and intoxicated drivers. Such as offender, when hauled before "the law," is given three, instead of the usual two, alternatives. He may go to jail, he may pay a stiff fine, or he may forfeit his license and junk his car. Either is acceptable to the authorities.

Cleveland is finding, strangely enough, that many offenders are choosing the third way of letting their automobiles "take the rap" for them. Perhaps they figure they are getting off easy when they can junk a $25 or $30 car instead of going to jail or paying a heavy fine. In one sense, they are. But every such car junked is another potential death instrument removed from the highways.

The originator of Cleveland's system is Police Judge Joseph N. Ackerman. He realized long ago that a jail sentence is no deterrent to traffic violators. Severe fines, too, sometimes work a hardship on the offender's family, rather than the individual alone.

Says the judge: "When I fine some poor driver of an accident car on a traffic charge, I take that money from his wife and family. If I imprison him, he loses his job and his family again suffers. When I junk his car and revoke his driving rights, I deprive only the individual."

During nine months of the junking policy, no "repeaters" have appeared before the judge. More important, 500 dangerous, dilapidated cars have been taken off the streets.

The Cleveland system seems worthy of trial on a broader scale. Every town and city has a number of dangerous, unsafe automobiles on its streets. A few spectacular "clean-up" drives to remove these death traps are not enough. There must be some broad and definite policy for ridding ourselves of these traffic hazards.

The junking policy seems the most humane way of effecting this. The driver who is at fault in an accident should be punished. It is only right that the fine be stiff and the jail sentence severe. But add this third alternative. Let the offender renounce his license and junk his car, if he wishes. Chances are, this penalty may not be as severe as the others. But the highways will have been made safer.

AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY IN THE MAKING: MR. HOOVER'S SPEECH

No one in Europe and apparently very few in this country, can have read the full text of Mr. Hoover's Chicago speech. For while the impression has gone out that Mr. Hoover has a policy which would keep the United States out of a European war.

Mr. Hoover went much further than the president has ever gone in telling Hitler and Mussolini to count on American intervention if they attacked France and England.

Here is what he said:

"We must not close our eyes to one condition under which the American people, disregarding all other questions, might join in a European war. We are a humane people, and our humanity can be overstrained by brutality. That was one of the causes of our entry into the last war. For instance, if wholesale attack were made upon women and children by the deliberate destruction of cities from the air, then the indignation of the American people could not be restrained from action."

Mr. Hoover then went on to emphasize this warning as to how Americans would feel and act if the bombing planes were let loose on London and Paris:

"I do not believe officials of any nation have become so foolish or dare the depth of barbarism of such an undertaking. The indignation in the United States today at such killings in Spain and China, where it is excused as the accident of attempt to demolish munitions supply, should be warning of the temper which would be raised."

This is very plain-speaking indeed.

In view of the fact that there can be no war in Europe which would not begin with a tremendous aerial bombardment of the civilian populations of London and Paris, ex-President Hoover's remarks have just one possible meaning: That he hopes to preserve the peace by dissuading Hitler and Mussolini from starting a war, and that he hopes to dissuade them by warning them in advance that the United States will intervene.

In this not exactly what the president has been trying to do? Is there any difference between the president and the ex-president on this, the most fundamental of all questions, on how best to prevent war? Except that Mr. Hoover as a private citizen is absolutely outspoken in his threat of force whereas Mr. Roosevelt, as an official in his public statements, the two men see eye to eye on the main issue. They both see that the destruction of London and Paris and the massacre by aerial bombardment of about 35,000 civilians a day would arouse American opinion to uncontrollable indignation. They both see that the most likely way to preserve peace is to make this clear before Berlin and Rome irrevocably commit themselves to a position which means war.

Being agreed on these fundamental elements of the situation, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt differ sharply on the method of conducting our foreign policy. Mr. Hoover is opposed to the policy of attempting to discriminate between aggressors and victims of aggression—of helping China and France, for example, to get arms in this country, of preventing Japan from getting arms in this country. For my own part, I agree with Mr. Hoover that "measures of coercion which are threatened against Japan, that is to say, naval sanctions, boycotts, discriminating embargoes and the like—are ineffective, invite reprisals, are irritating, provocative, confusing, and dangerous."

But it is only fair, and it is very important, that Mr. Hoover should remember that it was he and not Mr. Roosevelt who inaugurated the policy of "new departure in foreign policy." The first of the great aggressions occurred in his administration, when Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931. And it was his secretary of state, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, acting with his full support and authority, who sent an American representative to the League of Nations at Geneva to arouse world opinion against Japan. It was in his administration that there was first promulgated the doctrine, known sometimes as the Stimson doctrine and sometimes as the Hoover doctrine, that the United States would not recognize titles obtained by conquest in violation of treaties. It was Mr. Hoover, acting through Mr. Secretary Stimson, who persuaded President-Elect Roosevelt to adopt this doctrine in 1933. It was Mr. Hoover who concentrated the American battle fleet at Hawaii to impress Japan. And it is Mr. Hoover's secretary of state, Mr. Stimson, who today heads the movement asking for an embargo against Japan.

So while Mr. Hoover has every right to change his mind, and, so it seems to me, right in changing his mind, it is recognized that he has changed his mind. For then only can we see the practical issue on which the American people have to make up their minds.

Mr. Hoover has not yet made up

MAN ABOUT Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Anton Bruhl is a superb color photographer, maybe the best on earth. That's my opinion. That's all drama criticism or any criticism ever is, one man's opinion.

I don't know any other color photographers, and I never knew Bruhl until his pictures began to stick in my mind and stay there and make me think about them until finally I got into a cab and went over to 480 Lexington avenue, where his studio is.

If you pick up Vogue or Harpers Bazaar or similar publications you will come across Bruhl's pictures, gorgeous whole pages in color that make your mouth water. It may be for liquor or cigarettes, cosmetics of silverware, perfumes or tropic fruits. It doesn't matter. Bruhl's camera is a sort of magic wand that he waves over the things he photographs. If he were to photograph a shell you could place it close to your ear and hear the roar of the sea.

Color photography is enormously expensive. It costs real money to have your portrait taken in color, and especially if Bruhl takes it. Just one shot costs between $600 and $1,000. Sometimes it takes the better part of a day to take one picture. Always it takes the better part of two days to make the color print. This is why you don't go to Bruhl just for a photograph to decorate the living room table.

Nearly all of his work is for magazine advertising.

Sometimes you see photographs of pretty girls, almost invariably blonde, skidding down a mountain-side in Switzerland. But those pictures weren't taken in Switzerland. They were taken in Lexington avenue in Manhattan. And sometimes you come across picturesque studies of the languorous tropics—surf-riders of Waikiki, hula girls weaving ulu-skirts, native fruits and flowers. All those were taken here.

Bruhl may go to Hawaii soon for a new series of pictures. He wants to go. But he doesn't know whether he can get away. You would think he was a native, if you saw his pictures, but he has been there only once, and that for one day 20 years ago on his way to America from Australia. He is Australian born. His father was a ship's doctor and never left Australia after lapsing there one day.

Among Bruhl's favorite models are Dana Jennie, Susan Shaw, Elise Knox and Puanani Mossman. All except Puanani are blondes. Jet black hair, he says, is difficult to photograph and even more difficult to reproduce. When he selects a girl she must have these qualities—youth, health, and "average beauty." This means a buoyancy of spirit that shows through the eyes and in the smile. Technical beauty ("the kind that stuns") isn't necessary at all. But all of his models are pretty. Dana Jennie, who is now in Paris to model new styles for Harpers Bazaar, is the sophisticated type. He mentioned this, but explained that ultra sophistication is never essential, because "sophisticated people aren't average people."

Puanani Mossman is his favorite model for pictures with a South Seas locale, "because she epitomizes the mood, knows what to do, is easy to work with, and photographs beautifully." That's quite a recommendation.

The Effects Of Liquor Cannot Be Repealed

"There is only one ultimate solution of the juvenile drinking problem and that is prohibition," declares Prof. Arthur J. Todd, chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology of Northwestern university and joint director of the Chicago recreational survey of 1937.

In an interview Professor Todd epitomized his conclusions on the liquor question as follows: "We will never be able to make a law-abiding business out of the saloon. Alcohol is in itself a rebellious and recalcitrant thing. The first disorder in the United States occurred with the whisky rebellion. Saloons never will be properly managed."

"No one will solve the problem, except another prohibition amendment. The Eighteenth amendment came as the culmination of years of education on the evils of temperance. It was well timed as a social reform enactment, but the educational campaign in connection with its passage stopped too abruptly to make it an effective measure."

"I look for a reinstatement of the prohibition act by a swing of public opinion, despite the obvious failure of the last enactment."

DENISON DAM IS MENTIONED IN FUND REQUEST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Denison dam project on the Red river was mentioned in a plea for more funds recently, it was revealed yesterday in the records of the house appropriations subcommittee.

"During the past year" he said "we handled a very substantial project, field investigation and report, for the war department, the Denison project on the Red river in Texas."

DANGEROUS SERVICE

by GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

Chapter 18
Rene

The Air Service bus jolted into the great city. Berlin! Wide streets, heavy stone houses, poorly dressed, unsmiling people, uniforms everywhere, no flowers.

Petronella sat beside a window. The dark Latin young man who had taken upon himself the job of escorting her, pointed out things of interest, as they went. If she had been feeling less anxious, she might have enjoyed his company. He was attentive, amusing, so good looking, she thought, glancing again at him, that he was almost beautiful. His straight, thick hair was brilliant. One lock fell across his forehead. It gave him a wild, artistic air. He was pale, with straight features, and soft dark eyes.

It was strange, thought Petronella, that nature should have given him such large, nice, ungustulating hands. At first, when she had allowed him to get into conversation with her, she had judged him to be a professional dancer, a dress designer, or even a young man connected with the ballet. But his hands seemed to rule out these professions. His name, she had learned, was Rene Howard. He was French, on his mother's side. He had inherited everything from her, she thought, except his fists. They were "Howard." He was so charming, that she had told him her errand, but she had not admitted that Peter had done anything to merit imprisonment. Now, he said suddenly:

"Miss Mallone, lunch with me at my hotel, the Frankfurt, to talk a little. I believe I can help you, if you will." Petronella's brows lifted a fraction. She met his eyes. But he was smiling with such amusement and laughed so infectiously at her expression, that she was compelled to laugh herself. "You need not be afraid. I have no evil designs. Please trust my good-will."

"All right, I'll believe you, but I don't quite see—"

"You have not asked me what I do for my living, Miss Petronella Mallone. Now, see, I throw myself on your kindness with confession. I do nothing! I am a slacker, a sponger, a hanger-on. Therefore I have plenty of time to interest myself in the affairs of other people. Some say harder things than that of me, but I would rather you did not believe them. I am the blue-eyed boy of a particularly wealthy aunt of mine. She is a lonely old woman. She travels continuously. She is ex-hilarating company. She is rather a gay old woman. I am to be her heir. So we travel together. Our relationship is continually misunderstood, but I do not care. I have tried steady jobs, and I do not like work. People can think what they please. We seldom meet the same people for more than a month. Except in Berlin. My aunt has an apartment in the Wilhelmstrasse. She knows many influential men in Germany. If anyone can help you to see your brother, she can. Since she is always threatening to write her autobiography, this gives her considerable influence." Some illusive change in Rene's smile, which he was speaking, prompted Petronella's intuition to leap in advance of any definite evidence.

"You're being very kind, but why should you trouble? And take the risk of interesting yourself in my affairs? No one told you to travel by this plane, and help me, did they?" He laughed a moment too late. "Whatever made you think a thing like that?" "I don't know. Only you came and sat beside me, when we took our places in the plane, I was anxious and flustered. I wasn't looking very attractive. That other woman, in black, was much more your type. She was also sitting alone."

"She was not so young. However miserable you may be feeling, you cannot help that. Are you going to come and meet my Aunt Fleur—the Baroness Fleur von Cratz? Her apartment is just next door to my hotel."

Baroness von Cratz

In her mind, Petronella imagined the disapproval of Peter, Martin Rowdon and James, if they could see her. But she believed Rene. She knew he meant an unsophisticated English girl like herself no harm. She could not interest him. She, herself, was unattracted by him. But she liked him.

"Yes, I'll come. I need any help I can get."

"We will call on her first thing. It might be that she would have room to put you up."

"I'd rather not do that. I must call at the Hotel Wilhelm. There may be messages for me from my brother's paper."

"We will call for me immediately afterwards."

The Baroness von Cratz was at home. She was seated at a littered desk in an immense room. The purple velvet, ivory laces, and heavy, old-fashioned jewelry she was wearing matched its overpowering, dusty splendor. The Baroness had white hair, dressed in a remarkable tower of roll curls on the top of her head. Her face was large, pale, and doughy, and her eyes mild, sentimental, and blue. It was at once incredible, and understandable, that she had once been beautiful. But Peter was vaguely disappointed in her. She had expected to meet an exceptional personality. Here, she could not help feeling, was a stupid old woman.

"Come mistake take you to the Mobit Krankenhaus, as soon as you have got rid of your luggage," said this Aunt Fleur.

"They will not let her see her brother. Her first move should be to see the British Consul General," Rene told her. He spoke sharply, as if dining facts into a thick head. "And you will invite General Furoit to have supper with us at the Adlon, tonight, Aunt Fleur!"

The Baroness looked at Rene. "Very well," she said. Almost as if, when he made her a suggestion, it was a command, thought Petrel, puzzled.

"Did you bring me the beautiful handbag you promised me, Rene?" she asked. "You did not forget?" "No, it is my suitcase. As you can see, by looking round this room," he said to Petrel, "my aunt is childish about beautiful things. Come along, Miss Petronella."

Fencing

Peter Mallone stood on the wrong side of iron bars, looking at the sky. The windows in this ward of the Fortress of Glatz were small, and set high in the walls. When he first entered, he had wondered what it was that made this the barest hospital ward he had ever seen. He had realized: "The walls are gray. There are no flowers." Peter was dressed in rough weave prison uniform. His right arm, which hurt him at the shoulder, with a dragging, wearying pain, was in a sling.

Outside, it was a gloriously hot early September day. But in here, despite the shafts of sunshine, it still felt cold. The walls must be very thick. It must be deadly cold in the winter. How long would they keep him here? When would he next be grilled with questions, by those angry, steel-eyed men, by the stuffed and officious Prussian officers, in the little office down the maze of stone corridors? Had they believed a word he said? Did they think him dangerous, or harmless? He could not tell. Speaking ex-crable German, he had done his best to sound a fool. He had described his pleasant railway journey from Munich; his finding the admission ticket on the carriage floor, his conclusion that someone was not able to use it, and that anybody else who could, would be welcome.

"We have tickets for everything in England. But anyone can go," he had explained. But some of their questions had been awkward. Why had thought it worth while going, since he spoke so little German? Why had he taken such interest in political affairs in Germany, which he played the enthusiastic amateur journalist as best he could, but he did not know if they believed him. It was lucky, though tantalizing, he supposed, that his arrest had preceded the chief speaker of the evening. Had that touch on his shoulder occurred half an hour later, he would certainly have been in for it. Not he believed, that he would have learned much more than he had overheard at the bar, before the meeting started. But he had not answered that fellow, who curdled his mind for a light. It was humbling, when two words of one's German gave away. Hell, he was sick of this already. And he might be kept locked up here for weeks. Down the aisle, between the narrow beds, a man on crutches swung himself painfully towards Peter. It was the fellow prisoner who spoke such good English, who had been unjustly discharged from his factory, because of his Jewish ancestry, who had gone out and got drunk, and assaulted a storm trooper. He was coming to talk to him again. He did not look very Jewish, Peter thought. He had fair hair. The man smiled. "You are getting restless?"

Wasn't he a little too friendly?

Suddenly on his guard, Peter listened. As though to confirm his sudden suspicion, his friend plunged back into the same welter of complaint against injustice, of half questions, with regard to the future of which he termed "his people."

Peter answered. Peter found himself trembling as he turned those questions back again. He wasn't feeling too steady, to start with, thanks to this shoulder, and a sleepless night. The thought of what he might have let out, had not instinct warned him, made him feel sick, trapped, jumped.

He was still fencing when the door opened.

Petronella walked into the room. He gave a shout of joy. She rap to him with a cry.

Tomorrow: Freedom.

WHEN TUNA ARE MIGRATING from the Adriatic sea to the Atlantic ocean, the fishermen off Trapani, Sicily, hurriedly lay down huge nets and wait until the tuna come along. They then close the nets at both ends, trapping the giant fish in a 150-foot square "cell" which means certain death to any tumbling fisherman. He's crushed by the tails. Above, men lift out tuna.

TOY PLANES LOST their interest for David (left) and Sidney Stevenson when this huge bomber stopped at San Juan, Puerto Rico, preparatory to U. S. war games in the Caribbean. The youngsters are making friends with a mechanic.

IN THAT WOMAN'S TOWN, Las Vegas, Nev., where countless wives establish six weeks' legal residence and await divorces, Mrs. Frank Housky is a dealer at the Apache Casino. Gambling is legal in Nevada.

SCENERY around Las Vegas, the southern Nevada town seeking to wrest divorce laurels from Reno, has its fine points, avers Miss Pauline Honrath of Las Vegas, who's scenic in her own way. She's a "Miss" among the many "Mrs."

QUAKER group of three persons going to Germany to aid Jewish refugees includes Harvey C. Perry (above) of Westerly, R. I. This is second such Quaker delegation.

EARS OF THE COURT are undisturbed by street noises, as indicated by this sign at Darwin, Australia.

HIGH SCHOOL girl Lana Turner (above), almost 18, is being "built up" by movie studio as successor to "It" roles in which Clara Bow and the late Jean Harlow of former movie eras won fame. Author Anita Loos rates Lana's appeal highly.

SAYING 165 LIVES, Ducks Unlimited of which Louis Lear (left) is Washington head, translocated 165 starving wild ducks from Alberta, Canada, to a Seattle lake. Above is inspection.

HAPPY? Frank Leahy, 30, has reason to be. He's been named head football coach at Boston college. The Rockne-trained Leahy had been line coach at Fordham university.

REWARD FOR THEIR LABORS was this 1,600-pound giant being slit for skinning, eating. Tuna are also caught off both U. S. coasts, south of Nova Scotia and the Columbia river.

HOLLYWOOD—Deep in the heart of the jungle where the studio ink rinks the junior Tarzan and his screen mamma walked hand in hand down a carefully impromptu forest path to be surprised by a gang of stalwart blacks in the service of white explorers Henry Willson and Frieda Innescott.

And on the sidelines, his foot resting on a cage wherein reposed a sloth sleeping upside down, stood the junior Tarzan's papa—Reginald Sheffield.

"I shouldn't say it, being his father, but Johnny's a mighty fine little boy," said Arthur Sheffield, who has been in plenty of pictures but is not in "Tarzan in Exile."

When I met Johnny I had to agree. He is a nice, tough little hunk, having a picnic swinging in prop trees in a lot-cloth and body make-up. It is in character that he shouldn't brush his hair much, which from Johnny's point of view is all to the good.

Johnny was an incubator baby, but at seven years of age, he's brawnier than most. He came into his big role via one of those nationwide talent hunts which, true to form, ended where it began—in Hollywood. Or at least with a Hollywood personality, "discovered" in New York. Johnny was one of the kids who alternated with Peter Holden in "On Borrowed Time" and that was when Daddy Reginald read in the papers about Tarzan's need for an athletic offspring.

Sheffield took steps, via his agent, and it was in the bag. The Sheffield backyard in Hollywood is complete with all varieties of trapezes, ladders, and swinging equipment, to appease what the father calls the "monkey blood" in all three of his youngsters. Johnny was good enough at swimming, too, and was immediately approved by Tarzan Weissmuller.

The senior Sheffield is English but Johnny, his brother, Slater and mother are American. Sheffield himself has been in this country since childhood, coming over after playing the boy "David Copperfield" in England. He came to Hollywood in 1930 to play the romantic lead in George Arliss' "Old English," which shows how time marches if you didn't know. The erstwhile romantic lead is mostly and contentedly bald, plays characters like that of Kipling in "Gunga Din," wears a toupee when necessary, and beams at the flourishing career of son Johnny.

Tarzan Junior's screen mamma is Maureen O'Sullivan, whose wedding ring is taped over for her jungle role, with some inconsistency when you realize that the jungle blacks from Central Avenue are allowed to flash their gold teeth freely.

Maureen, looking radiant and lovely, is happy in the Tarzan things regardless of what you may have heard.

"I like them," she said, "and I don't know of a better way to be seen by millions of fans. I did object to spending so much time on them to the exclusion of other types of roles. But I certainly don't want to be killed off in this one. I've got to be shot—but I don't want to die."

"And this time I know there can't be any production delays, because—" she twinkled, "I've got them there."

Which she has, for a fact. Mr. and Mrs. John Farrow are happily anticipating their first child.

READING AND WRITING

"THE MAN WHO KILLED LINCOLN," by Philip van Doren Stern; (Random: $3).

There are so many stories of John Wilkes Booth, and they vary so, that it is a pleasure indeed to meet a man like Philip van Doren Stern who seems to know his way about so well he can supply anything missing. He has not only reconstructed the story of Booth and the assassination of Lincoln; he has glorified it.

His idea was not to write a history of the events or to produce a biography of Booth. It was simply to write the story of the assassination, beginning Tuesday, April 11, 1865, and continuing through the actual murder on the succeeding Friday, to the death of Booth at 2:30 of the morning of April 26. Some small things are told about the assassin and his family, but hardly more than the school texts provide. The author concentrates on the fireworks at the end of Booth's career.

He is up against a stone wall. There simply is not enough material available of the sort Mr. Stern needs. One could write a documented history of that ghastly month and spin it out to almost any length. But when you dramatize an event you need something more than the footnotes and indices of history. You need to know character, and to have a wealth of small incident which rings true.

Apparently Mr. Stern could not find this for he spends 134 pages of his 375 walking Booth about the dirty streets of Civil War Washington for four days before anything at all happens except some conversations and an encounter or two which Mr. Stern admits he imagined. This gives the whole undertaking an undesired air of speciousness. Mr. Stern really knows what he is supposed to know; it is only that it isn't dramatic material.

Finally, after a good deal of gentle yawning behind the hand, the reader arrives at the Ford theater, with the murderer. He then is taken in and out of the place, forced to meet a number of utterly useless strangers, and finally allowed to peek while the gun goes bang. Booth jumps, breaks his leg, eludes everyone, disappears.

Then, rather unexpectedly, the story picks up speed. The last half of the book is exceedingly pleasant.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7 (AP)—The government was reported today to be giving new consideration to payment for the United States and other foreign oil companies expropriated last March 18.

There have been indications the government was anxious to work out an arrangement with the companies, and it was understood Cardenas had in mind offering a plan of payment in oil for sale abroad.

Chamberlain Pleads For Settlement Of Palestine Dispute

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain urged Arab delegates to the Palestine conference today to settle their ancient feud with the Jews "by personal contact"—after the manner of the foreign policy he has pursued in seeking European appeasement with Premiers Hitler and Mussolini.

Opening the conferences at Saint James' palace Chamberlain said: "My policy is one of peace."

"You will be aware that my particular method of approach to peace is through understanding and the first essential step to understanding is personal contact."

Addressing the Arabs representing the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who quarreled among themselves and refused to sit in the same room with the Jewish representatives, the premier said Britain was "seeking a wise settlement of the present difficulties which will safeguard the rights and position of the Arabs (who oppose Jewish immigration) in Palestine."

In a second address, to assembled Jewish delegates, Chamberlain paid tribute to the "discipline and restraint which was shown generally by the Jewish community during the period of extreme difficulty and danger in Palestine." He also repeated the objects of the conference, as outlined to the Arabs.

TEACHERS STRIKE, STUDENTS CHEER

Teacher spokesmen here said colleagues in all Tamaulipas state were called out.

Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*Imperfect Stranger*A Texan, C. R. Smith, Given Credit For American Airlines Progress, In Article In Current Fortune

C. R. SMITH
C. R. Smith who works in his shirt sleeves and answers his phone without aid of secretary is the same Cyrus Rowlett Smith, Texas born president of American Airlines, who this year is showing the second profit for his company and threatening the unprecedented act of paying a dividend on airline stock.

The profit—much less the possible dividend—is enough to indicate that C. R., as he is known the length and breadth of American's system, has something on the ball. This, at least, is the opinion advanced by Fortune magazine in an exhaustive study of American Airlines and other large airline transports. An article on AA appears in the current issue of Fortune.

On the occasion of a profit of around $100,000 for the fiscal year ending in March, Fortune gave no little credit to C. R. Smith for the conversion of American Airlines from an uncoordinated system with huge dollar losses to an "Airline in the Black," the most outstanding of the three major transcontinentals.

Along Came C. R.
To anyone with an awareness of air transport in the early 1930's, American Airlines was the company that made no sense. Its routes were cockeyed, its planes motley, service spotty, losses shocking. Then along came C. R. Smith, a pleasantly profane Texan, who worked in shirt sleeves, knew operations and had ideas about selling—"says the magazine in summing up."

Figures show that it has become a custom of long standing for major airlines to lose large sums annually, but in 1936 American eased over in the black side of the ledger and this year may show a $100,000 profit in the face of million dollar losses by both TWA and United Airlines. TWA, however, secured a retroactive base increase to 30 cents which may also show $750,000 off its deficit.

More Subsidies?
In this connection, Fortune predicted further government aid in the form of more lucrative mail subsidies would protect the transports from further sharp losses, but indicated that C. R. was one of the few who opposed too much subsidization on the ground that it was time for the airlines to test their ability to stand on their hind legs and carry themselves.

To those who have been amazed and confused by the rapid turnover in the company's executive personnel, the article throws light on the parade of Graham H. Grosvenor, Frederic G. O'Brien, Lester D. Seymour and C. R. Smith to the presidency of the company. Changes were so rapid that this air-minded city had become reconciled to seeing a new president everytime a major celebration drew American Airlines officials this way.

But Smith's ascendancy to the presidency changed this. Coming up from the Southern Division as vice-president in charge of operations in 1932, C. R. cut himself "busted" later for his anti-Cord sympathies, then bounced back to head the company when E. L. Cord, who had gained control of the company, recognized that here was a man who knew what it was all about and what to do about it.

The many people here who knew C. R. Smith when he was an official in the old T. A. T. will enjoy thoroughly the Fortune survey of the air transports and of C. R. in particular.

FUNERAL HOME IS RESTRICTED FROM RESIDENTIAL AREA

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 7 (AP)—Operation of a funeral home on a quiet residential street, says the Mississippi supreme court, is an infringement on the constitutional rights of American citizens.

The court so ruled yesterday in upholding an injunction against an undertaker who conducted his business in a residence on the exclusive Yasoo river road at Greenwood Miss.

"A constant reminder of death," said the court, "is bound to have a depressing effect upon the persons who have sought a quiet street, and tends to impair the rights of this country to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

American Capital For Projects In China Discouraged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The administration will discourage any American investment, officials indicated today, in proposed Japanese corporations designed to develop industry, commerce and agriculture in China.

This attitude became known as the state department released correspondence dating back to 1923 which showed such a policy previously had been followed. Officials said the government's attitude remains exactly the same.

(Recently intimations came from Tokyo that the development companies being formed there for the business improvement of China would be open to American and other foreign capital.)

One of the state department's old communications declared: "In the opinion of the department it is as a matter of general policy not desirable that American credit be placed at the disposal of foreign interests for investments or enterprises in third countries in cases in which the use of such American credit would tend to prejudice or circumscribe the opportunities for American enterprise or to further the organization of competition therewith."

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Leading stocks did a reversal crawl in today's market, losses ranging from fractions to a point or so at the worst.

Mild buying at the close lifted quotations above their lows in some cases. Failure of the list to follow through on the run-up of the utilities yesterday, after the week-end announcement of a deal between the Commonwealth & Southern and the TVA, tended to chill sentiment, brokers said.

Utilities were subjected to profit taking at the start, but the majority kept reactions to small amounts. Steels dipped notwithstanding signs of expanding orders and mill operations.

IN PRIZE WINNING DRAMA

While the book is still a best-seller, a film version of the dramatic story of the medical profession, "The Citadel," comes to the hits theatre today and Wednesday. It features Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell in the principal roles of Dr. Manson and Christine. "The Citadel," taken from A. J. Cronin's popular novel, was directed by King Vidor and a company was sent to England to film some of the scenes in the actual locale of the story. To demonstrate that Hollywood has taken a prize novel and made it into a prize picture is the fact that "The Citadel," has been included on practically every listing of the "ten best" films of the past year. Many critics, among them John Rosenfield of the Dallas News, have picked "The Citadel" as 1938's best photoplay. It deals in absorbing fashion with the various problems confronting a young British doctor, and has its share of romance and dramatic action.

Departmental Supervision Of School Athletics Favored By Trustees

A plan to set up a departmental supervision of athletic activities by the next school year was approved by the local board of trustees Monday night. To go into effect next September, the plan would provide for separate coaches for tennis, track and basketball, each of these men to be members of the school faculty serving with additional pay.

This coaching staff would be in addition to the football staff, and the physical education director. To serve as assistant to Grid Coach Pat Murphy, the board Monday night named Elva Baker of Greenville. He replaces Carmen Brandon, resigned, and another instructor will be elected by March 1 to be in charge of the physical education department.

School officials said plans to broaden and improve physical education and athletic supervision follows up the anticipated construction of an athletic plant in which the major sports could be practiced on a wider scale than now is possible.

The board Monday night authorized appointment of a committee to serve with Supt. W. C. Blankenship in a study of proposed administrative changes. Under one proposal submitted, an assistant superintendent would be assigned supervision of curriculum throughout the system, so that elementary and high school work could be better correlated.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Lillian B. Wade, fifth grade teacher in the West Ward, who accepted a post in Corpus Christi, and appointed Mrs. Camie Gentry a supply teacher.

Continued Aid For Rebels?

Fascist States Reportedly Wanting
'Political' Victory

ROME, Feb. 7 (AP)—Virginia Gayda insisted today the Spanish insurgents would continue to get Italian and German support until they had won a "political" as well as a military victory, despite reliable reports of an official repudiation of his earlier statement that Italian troops would remain in Spain even after the end of the war.

The usual authoritative fascist editor who often reflects Premier Mussolini's views did not, however, repeat specifically his assertion troops would remain in Spain.

Reliable sources said the British government had been assured by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano the Sunday statement on troops did not represent fascist policy.

NO RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—United States recognition of the Franco regime in Spain is not now under consideration, a state department official said today.

FRIENDSHIP PLEDGE

PARIS, Feb. 7 (AP)—Insurgent Generalissimo Franco has given a promise of friendly relations between the "new Spain" and France, diplomatic informants said today.

Senator Leon Berard, semi-official French envoy to Burgos, received this assurance from the insurgent administration and was returning to Paris "highly satisfied" with his exploratory talks, it was ascertained here.

His trip to Burgos during the military decline of the Spanish government served as a prelude to possible recognition of General Franco as ruler of Spain by both Britain and France.

An open letter to my young friends

Hey, kids! Just ask your Mama to let me bake waffles for your breakfast tomorrow. I know you like them, and your Mama knows that waffles cooked to a golden crispness are easily digested. Also tell your Mama that she can use her electric waffle iron to make many kinds of waffles, for lunch and for the evening meal. I like to make waffles, and my wages for cooking a waffle are less than the cost of the butter spread over it!
