House Committee Starts Work On Roosevelt Tax Suggestions

Controversy Is Foreseen

Levy On Corporate Surpluses Draws Censure And Applause

WASHINGTON, March 4. (UP)—The house ways and means subcommittee today canvassed with treasury experts the possibilities of meeting President Roosevelt's tax suggestions with a levy averaging 33-1/2 per cent on undistributed corporate surpluses.

As the subcommittee began its work, sharp controversy was developing in congress over the chief executive's proposal that $25,000,000 be added to corporate industry's annual tax bill. Republicans were critical and some democrats were apprehensive although others applauded the plan.

An Answer

Chairman Harrison, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee, which will take charge of the tax bill when it emerges from the house termed the message a "complete answer to those who have been shouting about unbalanced budgets." He hoped they would "cheerfully pay their share."

Roosevelt suggested that the present corporation income tax be replaced by a graduated tax on future undistributed profits, which some close to the administration thought might run from 25 to 40 per cent, with an average of 33-1/2 per cent.

This would have the effect of driving such profits out of corporation treasuries and into the hands of stockholders, which might produce a more rapid turnover of capital and, most important, would make these funds subject to taxation.

The stockholder would be required to pay both the normal income tax rate of 4 per cent and the surtax, a rate increasing with the size of his income, on money thus received as dividends. At present he pays only surtax on income from dividends.

Gain of $250,000,000

By repealing the present tax on corporation income and certain other corporation levies, the treasury would lose $1,000,000,000 a year, while the new program would produce about $1,250,000,000, the president estimated.

To supplement this, Roosevelt suggested a special tax to scoop up a sizeable portion of the AAA's refund to processors after AAA's invalidation by the supreme court and new excises on the processing of farm commodities.

These Two Taxes Would Be Designed To Produce A Maximum Of $500,000,000 Over A Period Of Two Or Three Years And Then Expire. They Would Reimburse The Treasury For Anticipated But Uncollected Processing Taxes.

In his message, Roosevelt asserted that the practice of some corporations of piling up reserves instead of declaring dividends upon their profits, worked an injustice to the small stockholder and constituted a method of evading the surtax that has reached "disturbing proportions."

Call Hearing On Proration

Changes In Allowables To Be Considered At March 18 Meeting

AUSTIN, Mar. 4. (UP)—The Texas railroad commission today called a statewide oil and gas proration hearing for March 18 to consider revisions in allowable schedules and other conservation matters.

Texas crude production was raised to the year's high in an order effective March 1st, permitting a daily output of 1,310,480 barrels, an increase of 43,488 barrels over the basic statewide order effective on February 1.

Increased Market Demand For Texas Crude Was Largely Responsible For The Boost In Allowables.

FD BEGINS HIS FOURTH YEAR; POLICIES FACE VOTE VERDICT AND FURTHER TEST IN COURT

WASHINGTON, March 4. (UP)—President Roosevelt today entered the home stretch of his administration faced with the task of soon going before the nation to uphold in a campaign for reelection the new deal policies that have made the country as government-controlled as during the days of the civil war.

The chief executive, facing the last nine months of his present term, has rounded out his program of social and economic legislation, some of which has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. Now he is prepared to fight to the last ditch for his return to the White House for another four years.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, faces the future with confidence, and close friends insist that he feels the voters will rally again behind his standard that first was waved for the "forgotten man" and then as his program took shape, the new deal.

Crisis Faced 3 Years Ago
A glimpse into the recent past brings a picture of the president taking office on a bleak March day of 1933 with the economic structure collapsing and business calling loudly for succor.

His first act on entering the White House—on that memorable day was to summon his cabinet and shortly thereafter declare the national bank holiday until legislation could be enacted by a special session of congress to meet the emergency.

Then came the embargo on gold and an executive order revamping the country's monetary policy. With those pressing problems out of the way, the president took a short breathing spell and then moved toward the development of his long-range economic and social program for recovery.

College Plan Is Presented Before Club

Thomas Argues For Creation Of District, In Talk To Lions

Pertinent pleas for the creation of a junior college district in Howard county were heard by the Lions club Wednesday.

Clyde Thomas, member of the club and of the chamber of commerce education committee, presented a series of arguments in favor of the establishment of a junior college here.

No Great Tax Burden

Pointing to a definite need of such an institution, Thomas showed how it would create no great tax burden. Moreover, he said, it would make possible college training to scores of young men and women who would otherwise be deprived of the opportunity.

"This is one proposition," said the speaker, "that the people in the rural section are running away with. Their interest in the matter"

Bids On Work Near Dawson Line To Be Taken On March 17-18

Closing of the last gap in highway 9 in Howard county north of Big Spring is provided for in a list of highway projects which have been set by the state highway department for bidding on March 17 and 18.

The local project will call for double asphalt surfacing over a caliche base course in Martin and Howard counties on 6.3 miles of highway 9 from the Dawson county line southeast toward Big Spring.

This contract will provide for improvement of all of highway 9 across Howard county with the exception of the five-mile stretch immediately south of the city.

Projects Over State

The project was included in a list of bids estimated to cost $2,555,000. Grade crossing eliminations make up the bigger part of the lettings for the state.

Ten railroad overpasses and underpasses were listed in the 35 projects on which bids were ordered. Included was an underpass and approaches on highway 8 at the Texas & Pacific tracks in Marshall. Harrison county will have another important job bid March 17. It is for 12 miles of concrete paving on highway 15 from Marshall to Hallsville.

Feeder roads will be built in several counties. Nearly five miles of grading, drainage structures and crushed rock base will be placed on a lateral road east from the Kaufman county line. Oil and asphalt surface treatment will be used on a six-mile lateral road from Mount Enterprise to Shiloh in Rusk county. A similar asphalted gravel road will be built on a 6.5 mile route west of Wichita Falls to a connection with highway 5.

A 10-mile feeder road will be built in El Paso county from Yaleta to a connection with highway 130. Bids will be taken March 18 on grading, drainage structures and "select material" surfacing.

Appeal For Peace Called Threat By Papers In Italy

ROME, Mar. 4. (UP)—Fascist newspapers today characterized the league of nations peace appeal as more like a threat than a sincere effort to halt the East African war.

They branded the plea an effort to exert pressure on Italy at a moment of victory over the Ethiopians.

Well-informed sources predicted Italy would not reply with a direct "yes" or "no" to the peace plan, but would seek a definite statement on the guarantees she would receive before halting hostilities.

Material Is Gathered For Guide Book

Compilation Being Made In This WPA District As Writers' Project

Compilation of varied material concerning the 13 counties in District 13 of the Works Progress Administration has been started as a "writers' project." This material is being gathered for a national guide book, Mrs. H. S. Faw, who has been appointed supervisor, said today.

The district project, one of the federal writers' projects which is sponsored by the professional and service division of the WPA, will be undertaken with a staff of nine paid workers.

Work Already Started In Howard, Martin, Midland, and Glasscock Counties, and Will Begin In Ector, Yoakum, Burden, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn and Garza Counties Within The Next Ten Days, Mrs. Faw Said. To Be Collected Are Interesting Facts About The Counties Which Might Otherwise Be Passed Over Through Passing Of Time, She Stated.

The information is intended to be of service to all private tour agencies, public carriers, local and national associations having to do with the conservation of historic monuments and natural beauties, chamber of commerce and civic bodies, recreational clubs and societies and all enterprises, public and private, which minister to the varied interests of the general public, Mrs. Faw declared.

According to the federal writers' manual, the American Guide, for which the material is being gathered, will be published in five-reel volumes and is designed to meet the need of a comprehensive guide to the United States, arranged by states, cities and counties.

The material will include: Information that is not now readily available or is scattered in various sources; an understanding of the native and folk backgrounds of rural localities; and a convenient and compact series of reference books.

As by-products of the guide, maps will be deposited in the states and local districts for state and local guides. To make the American Guide the standard authoritative work of its kind, it will be necessary to have the cooperation of local citizens, Mrs. Faw stated. A committee composed of Big Spring citizens has been named to act in an advisory and consultative capacity to the workers who are provided employment with the WPA through the project.

Farm Plan Is Kept Secret

Will Be Outlined At Meeting Of Farmers At Memphis

WASHINGTON, March 4. (UP)—A tentative plan drafted to replace the administration's $500,000,000 soil conservation farm relief program into effect was surrounded today by utmost secrecy.

Department of agriculture officials said it would be presented at a meeting of agricultural leaders at Memphis, Tenn., late this week.

The Memphis meeting, the first of a series of four sectional gatherings, will draw up a program for the cotton belt. Representatives of all southern states will attend.

Other meetings are to be held at Chicago, New York and Salt Lake City. Each will take up administrative problems affecting crops in its section.

Special Importance Is Attached To The Memphis Meeting Because Of The need For Speedy promulgation of a definite program to prevent a large increase in cotton production this year.

Planting already has begun in many sections of the cotton belt. Officials say that if the soil conservation program is to have any effect on the size of the 1936 cotton crop it must be put into effect immediately.

The official delegation to Memphis from Washington is headed by Secretary Wallace and Howard R. Tolley, former assistant AAA administrator who was called in to help set the soil conservation program in operation.

Tolley will be accompanied by several minor officials of AAA and high officials of the AAA cotton section. Also included will be Alfred D. Stedman, AAA director of public information, and Sam E. Gleason, chief of the AAA press section.

Club Official Honored At Banquet Here

150 From Four Cities Hear Address By Kiwanis International Man

Kiwanians of four cities, their ladies and other guests—some 150 in all—turned out Tuesday evening to honor the secretary of Kiwanis International, Fred C. W. Parker, and Mrs. Parker, at a banquet session held at Hotel Settles. Representatives of clubs at Abilene, San Angelo and Lubbock joined the Big Spring members in the affair.

The program was highlighted with an address by Parker, who made an inspirational talk on the aims and objectives of the Kiwanis organization. Kiwanis he defined as fellowship for leadership, inspired by high idealism; then he went on to point out the advantages of fellowship and leadership which his club offers.

Musical Numbers

The program was directed by Garland Woodward, president of the Big Spring club who served as toastmaster. Musical numbers, each receiving warm applause, were presented by each of the three visiting clubs. Miss Willette Waters represented Lubbock with a series of accordion selections; vocal solos were given by Mrs. Lyndon Webb, accompanied by Mrs. Aubrey McMillan, for the San Angelo unit; and the "curbstone quartet" composed of Wiley Coffey, A. D. Whisnant, Leslie Grimes and Benton Collins, presented Abilene's feature of the program.

Following invocation by Dr. F. McConnell, the program opened with a sing-song which featured Texas songs in observance of the state's Centennial. Parker was introduced by George Wilson, president of the San Angelo Kiwanians.

The international secretary, who has been a leader in the Kiwanis movement since 1921, outlined the Kiwanis interpretation of fellowship, leadership and high idealism. The club, he said, should be made up of friends, who together can do a community job that a group of

Bad Elimination Makes It Easier To Catch A Cold

With the right sort of food and proper exercise, constipation might be rare, but in actual living conditions, how few manage to escape it! Mr. Clyde Martin, of Ona, W. Va., recently very aptly wrote that "constipation is the root of a lot of sickness, but if Black-Draught is taken right it will keep down constipation."

"If I let myself get constipated," he explains, "and my system filled with impure matter, I feel bloated, take cold easily, and feel out of sorts in a lot of ways. I will take about two good doses of Black-Draught. It seems to cleanse my whole system and I feel like doing my work."

Mary Willis Circle Puts On Program

Association Business Is Transacted By Baptist Women

Members of the Mary Willis circle had charge of the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the First Baptist church when the associational workers conference was combined with the program of the W. M. S. week of prayer.

A business session preceded the program. Mrs. V. Phillips, president of the association, and Mrs. Moss, Odessa, secretary, were in charge.

Plans were made for sending Miss Marguerite Cooper, who won in the district and association stewardship contest, to the state competitive meet to be held in Dallas.

Plans were also made for the women's part of the district meeting that will be held at the First Baptist church March 17-18.

It was announced that Mrs. Scott Cotten had been appointed missionary to the Mexicans by the state board.

The program began with a devotional conducted by Mrs. Theo Andrews. After the scripture reading she called upon a trio composed of Mrs. R. E. Blount, Willard Read and Miss Ruby Bell, to sing a hymn, "I'm Satisfied With Jesus; Is He Satisfied With Me?"

Between stanzas of the song Mrs. E. T. Smith gave short readings.

Mrs. C. D. Herring talked on "Work Among the Italians"; Mrs. B. Reagan on "The Board's Great Mission Fields"; Mrs. J. A. Coffey on "The program with a biographical sketch of a negro doctor."

The program will be held Friday evening at the municipal auditorium.

Good Gardening

16. Sweet Peppers
Sweet peppers are high in favor of home gardeners everywhere, because six or eight good plants will feed the ordinary family—but they're delicate and must be handled very carefully. In both north and south the seed must be started indoors and the plants transplanted after all danger of frost is past. Two transplantings are better in the north, so that the plants are quite large when it comes time to set them out in the garden. Once in the garden plants should be propped up, by the use of stakes as tomatos are handled. The planting season runs from early March in the south to early June in the far north.

East Fourth W.M.S. Plans Daily Week Of Prayer Sessions

Members of the East Fourth Street Baptist W. M. S. are observing Week of Prayer this week at the church with daily services. The only exception was Tuesday when the program was rendered at the associational Workers Conference held at the First Baptist church.

On Monday Mrs. W. O. McClendon was leader and Mrs. R. A. Humble in charge of the devotional. The general topic of the services is home missions, centered around the scripture, "If I Be Lifted Up Will Draw All Men Unto Me." Mrs. Humble used this in her devotional.

The Monday program was devoted to Cuba. Talks were made as follows:

Mrs. J. R. Phillips spoke on "Blessings in Cuba"; Mrs. F. L. Turpin on "Jews in Cuba"; Mrs. S. M. Moreland on "History of Missionary Work in the Island." Miss Marguerite Cooper gave a reading.

Others attending were: Mrs. W. D. Thompson, H. H. Smith, A. W. Page, W. S. Garnett, Joe Wright, A. W. Fechner, F. S. McCullough.

Thursday afternoon the members of the Junior circle will be in charge. The hour is 3:30. At the same hour the W. M. S. will meet Friday for a prayer and song service.

years and to expand the program to fill the evening. Tickets are being sold by all members of the auxiliary and will be also sold at the door. One thousand people are expected to see the performance, according to ticket sales. Many out of town people have announced intention of being present.

The program has been planned to appeal to men as well as to women and men are buying tickets with as much enthusiasm as the women have shown for other shows.

State Board Of Cosmetologists Conclude Examinations Here

The State Board of Cosmetology concluded three days of examinations Wednesday at the Settles hotel for future beauty operators and others who wanted to renew their licenses.

Giving the examinations were two state board members: Mrs. P. A. Houston and Mrs. E. L. Neal, both of Austin. Mrs. Polly Hill, Austin, chief inspector, was present. Mrs. S. M. McAdams of Amarillo, state inspector for that region came down for the meeting.

Since the state of Texas has passed a law requiring all beauty operators to be licensed and to meet certain specified health requirements, examinations have been held at monthly intervals throughout the state. Fifty-six students came to Big Spring from all over Texas to take this examination.

An operator must have attended a beauty culturist school for six months or have studied 1,000 hours before she is eligible to take the examination, said Mrs. Hill. The law also states that any one not having applied for a 1935-36 license will be compelled to take the state board examination for renewal if they desire to do beauty work.

Mrs. Hill said that the attitude of the profession had been co-operative in most cases and that the few who opposed the move were rapidly falling in line when they saw that the leaders of the profession and the informed public were behind it.

The next state board examinations will be conducted at San Antonio at the Plaza hotel, March 31 and April 1st.

Eastern Star Members, Visitors Say Farewell To Mrs. John Ward Who Is Leaving For California

Four Years Old

Peggy Jane Stringfellow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stringfellow, who recently celebrated her fourth birthday.

About 90 Eastern Star members and visitors assembled at the Masonic Hall to witness the initiation of Glass Glenn into the order. The Big Spring officers opened the meeting.

Eighteen members of the Colorado chapter conferred the degree. Attired in white taffeta evening dresses, each wearing a lovely corsage, they gave an intricate drill. They formed the cross and spelled the letters O. E. S.

All were invited into the dining room for refreshments where the long table was appointed in white and green. Large crystal bowls holding plumosa fern and white snapdragons formed the centerpiece.

At each place were small green hats filled with green and white mints, Saint Patrick's napkins were wrapped around the water glasses and added to the colorful appearance of the table.

The refreshment plus carried out the green and white motif. Angel food cake, topped with green whipped cream, and coffee were served. Favors were green shamrocks and tiny white pipes.

At the close of the meeting the members bade farewell to Mrs. John Ward who will leave Wednesday night for her home in Berkeley, Calif.

Approximately 25 members from the Colorado chapter were present.

Chapter 21 NEW CHAUFFEUR "I believe Dr. Nicholson's cured drug-takers in the most marvelous way," Sylvia Bassington-French went on.

"Yes," cried Henry Bassington-French suddenly. "And do you know what goes on there? Do you know the awful suffering and the torment? A man's used to a drug and they cut him off it—cut him off it—(ill he goes raving mad for the lack of it and beats his head against the wall. That's what he does, your 'forceful' doctor, tortures people—tortures them—sends them to Hell—drives them mad."

He was shaking violently. Suddenly he turned and left the room. Sylvia Bassington-French looked startled. "What is the matter with Henry?" she said wonderingly. "He seems very much upset."

Frankie and Roger dared not look at each other.

"He's not looked well all the evening," ventured Frankie.

"No, I noticed that. He's very moody lately. I wish he hadn't given up riding. Oh, by the way, Dr. Nicholson invited Tommy over to-morrow, but I don't like his going there very much—not with all those queer nerve cases and dope-takers."

"I don't suppose the Doctor would allow him to come into contact with them," said Roger. "He seems very fond of children."

"Yes, I think it's a disappointment he hasn't got any of his own. Probably he has too. She looks very sad—and terribly delicate."

"She's like a sad Madonna," said Frankie.

"Yes, that describes her very well."

"If Dr. Nicholson is so fond of children, I suppose he came to your children's party?" said Frankie carelessly.

"Unfortunately he was away for a day or two just then. I think he had to go to London for some conference."

"I see."

They went up to bed. Before she went to sleep Frankie wrote to Bobby.

Bobby had had an irksome time. His enforced inaction was exceedingly trying. He hated staying quietly in London and doing nothing.

He had been rung up on the telephone by George Arbuthnot, who in a few laconic words told him that all had gone well. A couple of days later he had a letter from Frankie delivered to him by her maid, the letter having gone under cover to her at Lord Marchington's town house. Since then he had heard nothing.

"Letter for you!" called out Badger.

Bobby came forward excitedly, but the letter was one addressed in his father's handwriting and postmarked Marchbott. At that moment, however, he caught sight of the neat, black-gowned figure of Frankie's maid approaching down the mews. Five minutes later he was tearing open Frankie's second letter.

Dear Bobby: I think it's about time you came down. I've given them instructions at home that you're to have the Bentley whenever you ask for it. Get a chauffeur's livery—dark green ours always are. Charge it to Father at Harrod's. It's best to be correct in details. Concentrate on making a good job of the moustache. It makes a frightful difference to anyone's face.

Come down here and ask for me. You might bring me an ostensible note from Father. Report that the car is now in working order again. The garage here only holds two cars and as it's got the family Daimler and Roger Bassington-French's two seater in it, it is fortunately full up, so you will go to Staverley and put up there.

Get what local information you can when there—particularly about a Dr. Nicholson who runs a place for dope patients. Several suspicious circumstances about him: he has a dark-blue Talbot saloon, he was away from home on the 18th when your beer was doctored, and he takes altogether too detailed an interest in the circumstances of my accident.

I think I've identified the corpse!! Au revoir, my fellow sleuth. Love from your successfully concussed FRANKIE. P. S. I shall post this myself. Bobby's spirits rose with a bound.

Discarding his overalls and breaking the news of his immediate departure to Badger, he was about to hurry off when he remembered that he had not yet opened his father's letter.

The Viceroy gave conscientious news of doings in Marchbott, described his own troubles with the organist and commented on the unchristian spirit of one of his churchwardens.

There was a postscript. By the way, someone called who asked for your address in London. I was out at the time, and he did not leave his name. Mrs. Roberts described him as a tall stooping gentleman with pince-nez. He seemed very sorry to miss you and very anxious to see you again.

A tall stooping man with pince-nez—Bobby tried to think of anyone he knew who was likely to fit that description, but could not. Suddenly a quick suspicion darted into his mind. Was this the forerunner of a new attempt upon his life?

They, whoever they were, had only just discovered that he had left the neighborhood. All unsuspecting, Mrs. Roberts had given his new address. So that already they—whoever they were—might be keeping a watch upon the place. If he went out he would be followed—and just as things were at the moment that would never do.

"Badger," said Bobby. "Yes, old lad."

"Come here."

The next five minutes were spent in genuine hard work. At the end of ten minutes Badger could repeat his instructions by heart.

When he was word-perfect, Bobby got into a two-seater dating from 1902 and drove dashingly down the mews. He parked in St. James's Square and walked straight from there to his club.

There he did some telephoning and a couple of hours later certain parcels were delivered to him.

Finally, about half-past three a chauffeur in dark-green livery walked to St. James's Square and went to a large Bentley which had been parked there about half an hour previously. The parking attendant nodded to him—the gentleman who had left the car had remarked, stammering slightly as he did so, that his chauffeur would be fetching it shortly.

Bobby let in the clutch and drew neatly out. The abandoned Fiat still stood demurely awaiting its owner. Bobby, despite the intense discomfort of his upper lip, began to enjoy himself. He headed north, not south, and before long, the powerful engine was forging ahead on the Great North Road.

It was just after ten that the Bentley purred up the drive of Merroway Court, a stiff and correct chauffeur at the wheel.

"Hullo," said Frankie lightly. "There's the car."

She went out to the front door. Sylvia and Roger came with her.

"Is everything all right, Hawkins?"

The chauffeur touched his cap. "Yes, m'lady. She's been thoroughly overhauled."

"That's all right, then."

The chauffeur produced a note. "From his lordship, m'lady."

Frankie took it. "You'll put up at the—what is it—Anglers Arms in Staverley, Hawkins. I'll telephone in the morning if I want the car."

"Very good, your ladyship," Bobby backed, turned and sped down the drive.

"I'm so sorry we haven't room here," said Sylvia. "It's a lovely car."

"You get some pace out of that," said Roger.

"I do," admitted Frankie. She was satisfied that no faintest quiver of recognition had shown on Roger's face. She would have been surprised if it had. She would not have recognized Bobby herself had she met him casually.

The small moustache had a perfectly natural appearance, and that with the stiff demeanor so uncharacteristic of the natural Bobby, completed the disguise enhanced by the chauffeur's livery.

The voice, too, had been excellent, and quite unlike Bobby's own. Frankie began to think that Bobby was far more talented than she had given him credit for being.

Meanwhile Bobby had successfully taken up his quarters at the Anglers Arms. It was up to him to create the part of Edward Hawkins, chauffeur to Lady Frances Derwent. He mentioned Frankie's "accident."

"Young Reeves, he was there and saw it happen," declared Mr. Askew, landlord at the inn.

Bobby blessed the natural mendacity of the young.

Adobe Houses Stylish

OAKLAND, Cal. (UP)—Adobe architecture is staging a comeback in California. Two plants for manufacturing adobe brick have been established at Pittsburgh and Walnut creek to meet the new demand.

A federal soil conservation official says three-fourths of the topsoil and some sub-soil have been lost through erosion on more than 3,000,000 acres in California.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM THE FLAVOR LASTS

NATION WILL WAGE A NEW CAMPAIGN AGAINST EROSION UNDER PROVISIONS OF SOIL-CONSERVING FARM PROGRAM

In practically all sections of the United States, erosion is at work, taking its annual toll of three billion tons of top soil. These pictures show erosion at work and results of efforts to halt it. Above, left, what was left of a Wisconsin corn field after rains had washed soil and debris down from the hill; and right, strip crops planted in contour lines on a California hill to slow the progress of rain water and allow the soil time to absorb it.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4. (UP)—Against the great destroyer which takes 3,000,000,000 tons of soil annually from the face of the earth in America, Uncle Sam will send soon a new and vastly broadened offensive.

The successor to AAA, founded on the retirement of poor land from cultivation and its rehabilitation by conservation methods, points toward a campaign against soil erosion of a scope never before attempted.

Erosion, enemy of land millions of years before recorded history, is even believed by some experts to have denuded that area which theologians have marked out as the probable site of the Garden of Eden.

Millions of Acres Ruined Today, says the federal soil conservation service, it has substantially ruined 50,000,000 formerly cultivated acres in this country; has scarred another 50,000,000 almost as badly; has taken much of the life-giving top soil from 125,000,000 and has got a good foothold in another.

Thus 225,000,000 acres—much of it among the finest farm soil in the country—has been wounded in varying degrees.

Though it has widened rapidly since the soil conservation service got under way 28 months ago, government action thus far against this slow destruction of land has been wounded in varying degrees.

During his term, the president, an ardent preparedness advocate, built up the navy to an approach of the parity prescribed by the London and Washington treaties, increased the army, created the OGC and projected a dozen other programs designed to stimulate industry and bring back prosperity.

During those three years congress at the insistence of Mr. Roosevelt voted billions of dollars for relief, the last appropriation being $4,800,000,000, from which evolved the Works Progress administration, the National Youth administration, rural resettlement and an extension of public works building.

Voters Backed New Deal In 1934
The first two of the three years witnessed a continuation of the popularity of the president, and the election of 1934 bore out the contention of political observers that "nothing could beat him."

The "honeymoon," however, ended in the late summer of 1935 when Mr. Roosevelt dispatched to Capitol Hill a special message urging a new tax program designed to extend the levies on the rich. Following legislation to abolish public utility holding companies, that appeared on the surface to break the back of his hold on the popular imagination of the people. A well-prepared program of opposition developed. The tide was turned against Mr. Roosevelt in many sections.

Administration supporters point to the steady rising business indices as an example of the soundness of the president's recovery policies. Critics retort the rise would have been much more rapid if business had not lost confidence in the new deal.

Most-Traveled President
In his three years Mr. Roosevelt found time to win the title of the most-traveled president. He showed his preference for the navy by going on cruises to the far-flung possessions of the United States on two occasions.

The first cruise, in 1934, took him to the possessions in the West Indies, Panama, and Honolulu. The second carried him to Panama.

In addition, he cruised frequently on the presidential yacht Sequoia, crossed the country three times and made frequent trips to the South, to Hyde Park, N. Y., and to other parts of the union.

The next few months probably will see him again on the road fighting for reelection. He loves campaigning. This is borne out by the remark he made after the close of the 1932 fight when all of his companions were worn out. He turned to Marvin McIntyre, now his secretary, and observed: "Don't you wish, Mac, that it was just beginning?"

W. T. Strange, Jr., chamber manager, substantiated the arguments made by Thomas and added that the college would bring a needed cultural influence to the county, that it would be a drawing card for a better class of people to locate here. He also foresaw designation of the school by the state as a regional junior college since the trend is to "bring the college to the boy."

Mrs. J. M. Morgan, chairman of the county highway beautification committee, asked support of the club in a program calculated to transform the appearances of the entrances into the city.

Announcement of the zone meeting here March 13 was made as was the appointment of Dr. P. W. Malone to the blind and sight conservation committee and Hayes Stripling to the program committee.

The president called the directors to meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Settles.

MINISTER SPEAKS TO SCHOOL STUDENTS
Forrest Waldrop, pastor of the Church of Christ, conducted the weekly high school assembly program Wednesday morning, choosing "Know your business" as his subject. Rev. Waldrop emphasized the necessity of preparing for some special work.

"Everybody likes to take a vacation and see the unusual spots of the world," Waldrop said, "but sometimes we forget the little things that really count. Most of the things that have led to the success of many important men came out of little seeds."

"When you do some nice things for a person, it is a point in your favor," Waldrop recounted an incident in the life of a widely known rancher and how he appreciated the services done him by an old negro servant.

"To be sure what the negro did was not the most important thing in world affairs, but they were services to his master and the old slave was remembered because he knew what to do to make every one about him happier."

The aim of the organization's classification system in membership, he asserted, is to make its membership representative and to secure a cross-section of community life. Kivavits seeks, he continued, men of capacity and responsibility and devotion who can serve through community leadership.

Parker listed as among the principal objectives of his organization the philanthropies, such as aid to under privileged children; its interest in public affairs by encouraging members to be more militant in public affairs; and its effort to lift the daily life of men on a high moral and spiritual plane, em-

Singing Cowboy Brings Music To Western Drama

DICK FORAN

Dick Foran, the singing cowboy, appears at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday in "Moonlight On The Prairie," with which a new type of western drama is introduced.

To a stirring story of hard riding, roping, two-gun fighters and romantic ladies, have been added the songs of the old West, two of them specially written for the production.

In Foran, a new western star is introduced. He is an expert rider, roper and marksman—and also is an able singer.

His leading woman is Sheila Mannors, also a daring rider who has done capable work in other pictures. Others in the cast include George E. Stone, Joe Sawyer, Gordon Elliott, Joseph King, Robert Barrat and Dickie Jones. The picture is replete with thrilling action and exciting sequences, and contains a romance, set in the picturesque background of the high Sierras and the western prairies.
