

Fears Mount That Not All POWs Freed

By SAM SUMMERLIN
SEOUL (AP)—Americans freed on the final day of Operation Big Switch boarded a troopship for home today while fears mounted that the Communists had not sent back all Americans who wanted to return.

The U. N. Command prepared to hand the Communists a list of "missing" persons—men like Capt. Harold Fischer of Sween City, Iowa, Fischer, a Sabre jet pilot, shot down 10 MIGs before failing to return from a mission over North Korea April 7, 1953.

Two days later Pelping radio said Fischer had been captured. Yet the big Korean War prisoner exchange ended Sunday and Fischer was not among the last 111 Americans freed.

For three years, Allied intelligence officers have compiled a list of men believed to have been captured.

Operation Big Switch returned 3,597 Americans. Operation Little Switch in April returned 149. Some Americans died in camp.

The list, minus the names of all those men, will be handed the Communists shortly with the demand that they produce or account for the missing men.

The last group of returned Americans added a bitter finale to a month of stories of brutality in Red stockades.

These were fliers who, under relentless physical and mental tortures, signed false "confessions" that they waged germ warfare.

They said they did so under a strain that buckled human endurance. Some held out for months, but the Reds continued their tortures even after the armistice.

A Kansas pilot captured 13 months ago said the Reds were still after confessions as late as early Sunday—just a few hours before they handed back the last of the prisoners they said wanted to return.

The pilot, Lt. Richard G. Voss of Osborne, Kan., said he finally "confessed" when the Reds let maggots crawl over his open wounds and into his ear.

Another airman, Marine Col. Frank Schwabe, put it simply—you either "confessed" or died.

Schwabe and other American POWs boarded the transport Gen. P. L. Howze at Incheon on Korea's west coast for the two-week trip across the Pacific. About 300 freed Americans will be aboard the ship when it leaves early Tuesday for San Francisco.

With the last of the returning Allied POWs en route home, the U. N. Command said Monday that it will begin moving Communist prisoners who refused repatriation into the demilitarized zone.

About 2,000 Chinese will be shipped from Cheju Island to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission. The Allies say they hold 7,800 North Korean and 14,500 Chinese POWs who do not want to return to their Communist homelands.

The Communists say they hold about 300 Koreans and 20-North Korean captives who refused repatriation. They have not announced when they would begin moving them to the buffer zone.

The U. N. Command disclosed a closely guarded secret Sunday when they turned back Chinese Maj. Gen. Wu Che-teh. The capture of Wu, the highest ranking Red held by the U. N. Command, had never been announced.

Discovery Is Assured For North Howard

Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil, et al No. 1-A Tom Spencer gave assurance during the weekend of being a discovery in the Siluro-Devonian.

According to unofficial reports operator forced in mud acid at heavy pressures in a six-hour effort. When pressure was relaxed, the well kicked off and flowed, varying from 22 to 17 1/2 barrels per hour. The latter figure was estimated as a minimum steady flow, which would make the well good for at least 400 barrels of oil per day.

Flow was over at least 12 hours before operator shut in to erect tank batteries and prepare for potential test. Gravity of the oil is 43.5.

Ground has been cleared for erection of the tank batteries.

Previously the test made 51 barrels of oil in 6 1/2 hours on a drill-stem test. At the end of the test it was flowing at 8 1/2 barrels per day. Flow was through perforations in casing from 9,855-80. It was in the same section that was washed with the mud acid, probably 500 gallons, to clean out drilling mud.

Location is 494.6 from the north and 1,980 from the west lines of section 14-32-2n, T&P, half a mile northwest of Luther.

Truman Says Ikemen Helping Big Business

DETROIT (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman told a Labor Day audience "There are plenty of signs of a return to the old philosophy that the object of government is to help big business."

Truman, who frequently has taken the position since he left the White House that he wanted to "be charitable toward the new administration while it is getting its feet on the ground," said he didn't think the people voted last fall "for a change in the social and economic principles that have made us so strong and prosperous."

"But that is the kind of change we are getting," he said in an address at a rally of Michigan CIO and AFL groups in Cadillac Square.

He singled out the administration's policies on interest rates, labor, public housing, power and the government's efforts to balance the budget by cutting national defense appropriations.

Military Transport Crashes; Only 1 Hurt

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A military air transport plane returning 53 men to MacDill Air Force Base from training in England crash landed and burned early today at Bermuda, the base was informed.

The only casualty was a sprained ankle, according to reports by radio. All the other passengers and crew members escaped the big plane without injury.

The men were mainly ground crewmen from among members of the 306th Bombardment Wing who have been in training at Fairford, England, for three months.

Tito's Plan For Trieste Under Study

OKRAGLJICA, Yugoslavia (AP)—The world studied a new proposal from Yugoslavia's President Tito today for the disposal of Trieste. He wants the big Adriatic port placed under international control—with Yugoslavia to get the rest of the disputed territory.

Tito made his proposals yesterday in a speech to a cheering crowd of more than 250,000 Yugoslavs packing this hamlet five miles from the Italian border.

Tito said the controversy with Italy over Trieste had reached a stalemate, but that he was still willing to settle the issue through direct negotiations with his neighbor.

Previously the Yugoslav leader had advocated Italy and Yugoslavia administer the Trieste territory jointly, with details to be worked out between the two governments.

Tito accused the Italians of having "imperialist designs" on Yugoslavia but scoffed at recent Italian charges that Yugoslavia plans to annex the southern zone of the territory, which Yugoslav troops have occupied since World War II. "Why should we?" he queried. "We are already there." And in firm but moderate terms, he added that Yugoslavia would not surrender "a single inch" of her zone.

Dulles And Ike To Confer Today

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, declaring he knows of no rift between himself and President Eisenhower, confers with the Chief Executive today regarding a variety of foreign policy problems.

Dulles arrived at the President's vacation headquarters from Washington last night for the Labor Day conference and was asked by newsmen who met him at the airport: "Mr. Secretary, is there any friction between you and the President?"

"Not that I know of," the Cabinet officer replied.

The question was prompted by a published report that Eisenhower summoned Dulles to Denver because he was "gravely concerned" and "displeased" by certain Dulles statements last week on foreign issues.

On Saturday the summer White House called the report "completely untrue." Assistant Presidential Press Secretary Murray Snyder added, however, that he personally did not know what Eisenhower's reactions were to remarks Dulles had made on the issues. They dealt with West Germany, India, Trieste and Japan—and touched off angry criticism abroad.

In West Germany, for example, the Socialist party denounced Dulles' endorsement of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's bid for reelection.

By the time Dulles stepped from his plane here last night Adenauer had swept to a landslide victory in yesterday's voting.

"I'm not surprised," Dulles commented with a smile.

Dulles did not see Eisenhower last night, but the two men were scheduled to get together today at

U.S.-Backed Adenauer Wins German Voting

U.S. Officials Joyful About Adenauer's Win

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials joyfully hailed Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's German election victory as a massive diplomatic defeat for Russia and a powerful gain for Western unity.

President Eisenhower, vacationing in Denver, was expected to send a message of congratulations to the West German leader, reflecting the keen satisfaction felt by his entire administration.

Secretary of State Dulles, who warned Thursday an Adenauer defeat would be a disaster, said "I'm not surprised" when informed Adenauer's pro-Western forces had won a sweeping victory.

Dulles made this comment at the airport in Denver after arriving by plane for a round of secret foreign policy talks with the President.

If Dulles was not surprised, most of his aides were.

Adenauer's smashing triumph far exceeded the most optimistic prediction of key officials who nervously awaited returns last night, wondering whether Dulles' last-minute endorsement of Adenauer might be wrong. Adenauer's opponents had denounced Dulles' action as meddling in West Germany's internal affairs.

As the vote for Adenauer's coalition swelled to landslide proportions, however, officials here grew progressively more certain Dulles' unscheduled support did not cost Adenauer votes and, if anything, helped.

A crushing defeat dealt the Communists and the right-wing German political parties especially pleased diplomatic experts on Germany.

"That's wonderful!" said one official when he learned the chief of the German Communists, Max Reimann, had been toppled.

Dulles' chief aides said the Adenauer election victory was doing far more than averting the disaster Dulles cautioned against. Even more important, they said, the overwhelming scope of the victory will serve as a powerful, almost unexpected stimulant to pep up the faltering drive toward Western European unity.

The most far-reaching repercussions should be in France, they said.

The re-election of Adenauer's moderate government, plus the resounding defeat suffered by the neo-Nazi parties, should ease the French fear of a revival of Hitler-type militarism, they reasoned.

This should reawaken the interest of France and other countries in approving the proposed European army, which would link France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg into a single uniform force.

Adenauer's big margin, they said, was in effect a vote of confidence in the European army too, since West Germany under Adenauer's leadership was the only nation to complete ratification of membership.

What Moscow's reaction will be to the humiliating defeat suffered by the Communists in West Germany is impossible to say. The Russians probably were banking more on a victory by the Socialists, who were opposed to German rearmament, rather than on gains by the dwindling Communist party in the Western zone.

Now that both the Socialists and Communists have lost substantial support along with the Red-tinted Allied People's party, at the very least Moscow will review its German policy to devise new tactics to block Germany's return as a military power.

Majority Up Over That From Prior Election

By DON DOANE
BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany launched America's ally, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and his pro-Western government parties on a new four-year term of office today in a landslide election triumph.

Defying Soviet threats, more than 27 million German voters also threw all the Communists out of their Parliament's lower house, crushed a feared Nazi comeback and turned thumbs down on Socialist pleas for German neutrality in the East-West struggle.

In Europe's most important election since World War II, the West Germans gave an overwhelming endorsement in yesterday's voting to Adenauer's American-backed program for rearming West Germany in alliance with the Western Powers against the Soviet menace.

The grim-visaged old German statesman's Christian Democrat party won 244 of the 467 seats in the Bundestag (lower house). That was a majority of one for the party, the first single German faction to win a clear parliamentary majority since before World War I. With the 48 seats captured by his allies, the Free Democrats, Adenauer held a commanding margin of 292 seats.

Trailing far behind were the opposition Socialists with 150 seats. Adenauer also could count nominally on the support of the 15 seats won by the German party, the third member of his government coalition since 1949. Doubts were expressed, however, that he would include this faction in his new government.

The election outcome was a catastrophe for the Kremlin and a triumph for the United States, U.S. Secretary of State Dulles said. Adenauer's open endorsement, Soviet Premier Khrushchev had tried to scare the Germans away from the iron-willed, 77-year-old Chancellor with threats of riots and warnings that Soviet-occupied East Germany could never become reattached to a West Germany rearmament on America's side.

Complete official returns from the 242 West German voting districts showed 28,468,054 of the 35,629,978 eligible voters cast ballots. That was 86.2 per cent participation, as compared with 78.5 per cent in 1949.

Of the 27,541,949 were valid.

The Christian Democrats' 368 seats compared with 141 in the 1949 elections. They won 12,440,799 votes to 7,359,084 in 1949. This was 45.2 per cent of the total. In 1949 they had 31 per cent.

The Socialists won 150 seats with 7,939,774 votes, or 28.8 per cent, compared with 135 seats, 6,994,975 votes and 29.2 per cent in 1949.

The Communists tallied 607,413 votes compared with 1,361,708 in 1949. With only 2.2 per cent of the total, they won no seats.

Officials had said there would be only 484 seats in the new Parliament, but three extra seats were added under the complex new election law because of overwhelming victories by Christian Democrat District candidates in Schleswig-Holstein and German party candidates in Hamburg.

The Christian Democrats got their one-seat majority in a late morning announcement changing a

POWs Tell How They 'Confessed'

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
INCHON, Korea (AP)—A greying Marine colonel and a young Air Force lieutenant said today there was only one way out of "confession" germ warfare charges—death.

"I could either die from their mental treatment or serve my country better by giving the Communists the fantastic information they wanted," said Col. Frank H. Schwabe, who was freed only yesterday from a Red war prisoner camp in North Korea.

The Chinese gave me a choice of life or death. They put words in my mouth and said them," said Lt. Floyd B. O'Neal of Fairfax, S. C.

Both had declined to talk with newsmen yesterday when they were freed in the last hours of the Korean War prisoner exchange.

Other fliers returned on the final day of exchange said the Reds got the "confessions" they wanted with torture ranging from mental cruelty to letting maggots crawl inside a wounded man's ear.

Schwabe and O'Neal met newsmen after a day's rest and described how the Reds relentlessly ground away at their resistance with threats, physical torture and unceasing questioning.

Asked if the charges were true, the 45-year-old Schwabe answered: "It is fantastic that anybody could believe that sort of thing could be used. It is utterly fantastic."

"They have enough fleas, flies and mosquitoes in North Korea without our adding to it."

Schwabe was captured in July 1952 when he and his co-pilot, Maj. Roy H. Bley of Cabool, Mo., were shot down over North Korea.

TEXAS TOLL TRAILS FORECAST

431 Persons Die In Labor Day Weekend Accidents Over U.S.

By The Associated Press
At least 431 persons were dead in accidents as the 78-hour Labor Day week moved through its final day today.

Less than 24 hours before summer's first national holiday came to an end, this was the toll of accidental deaths.

Traffic mishaps had claimed 324 lives. Forty persons had drowned and 67 died of miscellaneous accidental causes.

The National Safety Council had estimated before the holiday began that 440 persons would die in traffic mishaps during the 78 hours between 6 p. m. Friday (local time) and midnight tonight. The council forecast was slightly more than five deaths an hour.

The average was maintained the first day of the period, then it dropped off a little. Sunday, with rain in the Midwest and in some other sections of the country, the pace quickened. Then later it fell behind the council estimate again.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said he expected the pre-holiday estimate would be reached then probably exceeded after travelers start home. Inclement weather will play an important part, as always, Dearborn said.

Last year's Labor Day holiday period claimed 558 lives, including 432 in traffic mishaps. The record for this holiday was set in 1951, when 658 persons died in accidents of all kinds. In that year 461 persons were victims of traffic accidents, also a record for the holiday.

By The Associated Press
Texas traffic fatalities were fewer than the State Department of Public Safety prediction with 11 reported dead during the Labor Day weekend.

Four died in other mishaps to bring the total reported deaths to 15 by Monday.

The Department of Public Safety had predicted 30 persons would die in Texas traffic from midnight Friday until midnight Monday.

Two women and a baby were killed Saturday night when cars collided eight miles south of Elgin in Central Texas. The dead were Mrs. Sam Shafer of Bastrop, Mrs. Arthur Bush, Corpus Christi, and Mrs. Bush's 1-month-old son, Timothy.

Kelly Teeple, 18, died in Austin Sunday of injuries received when his motor scooter and a car collided Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Riley and his father, Albert Riley, of Corpus Christi, were killed when the 43-foot boat from which they were fishing exploded and sank in Coahuila Bay.

29 Injured Or Burned As Airliner Crashes

MCCORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP)—A Northwest Airlines Constellation, wallowing almost helplessly through foggy skies, crash-landed and burned here early yesterday. The 32 persons aboard escaped death, but 29 were injured or burned.

The 26 passengers included three infants.

The plane burst into flame as its pilot, Capt. Russell Bird of Seattle, attempted to land with only one wheel down and two engines dead. Only nine of those injured remained in hospitals today and physicians said none were in serious condition.

The No. 3 engine of the huge Lockheed aircraft failed as the plane roared into the sky from Seattle-Tacoma International Airport at 2:06 a.m. Because of fog conditions, Bird decided to take the craft, scheduled for a nonstop flight to Chicago, into Portland.

He was forced into the landing here when the No. 4 engine conked out. A second engine of the four-engine craft quit soon after.

On the landing approach, only one wheel would come down because of a failure of the hydraulic system. Bird brought the plane down anyway.

It rolled easily along on the one wheel until its speed slackened. Then the left wing tilted to the ground and gas in the wing tanks burst into fire, sending flames shooting 15 feet.

The huge aircraft swerved from the runway. Crew members worked frantically to loosen safety belts and help the passengers climb to safety through a sheet of flame.

Bird and Patricia Grivna of McKeesport, Pa., the stewardess, said all of the passengers were out of the plane and safe within one minute after the plane had stopped rolling.

The co-pilot, Dale Moore of Seattle, was credited with saving 8-month-old Kimberly Frank of Terre Haute, Ind., from death in the flames.

"I struggled with the safety belt for so long I thought I would never get out," Mr. Carl Frank, the child's mother, said. "Then when I jumped I dropped the baby. When I struck the ground I went down on one knee and she fell out. The co-pilot picked her up. There were flames on the ground all around us."

Among those aboard the craft were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour of the Armour packing family of Chicago. They both escaped injury.

The plane was the same one which brought Mrs. John Eisenhower, President Eisenhower's daughter-in-law, to Seattle less than two hours before to meet her husband, Maj. John Eisenhower, who had returned Saturday on rotation from Korea.

The plane, described by airlines officials as a total loss, was owned by Eastern Airlines and was being operated under a lease contract by Northwest.

New Speed, Altitude Records To Be Sought At Aircraft Show

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Two Sabre jets and a helicopter try for new world speed records at the National Aircraft Show today. The helicopter also will seek a new altitude mark.

Featured event is the race against time by Brig. Gen. J. Stanley Holtner, 42, commander of Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., in the annual Thompson Trophy event.

Holtner, flying a North American F86D Sabre jet, will try for a new world record for 100 kilometers. He will follow a closed course around eight pylons on a 62-mile route over parts of three Ohio counties. The last Thompson contest, held in 1951 at Detroit, was won by Col. Fred Ascani in an F86E at an average speed of 633.55 m.p.h.

However, Holtner is aiming at the world mark for 100 kilometers—675.47 m.p.h.—registered by Jacques

Coehran in a Canadian F86E at Edwards AFB last June 3.

The contest is sponsored by Thompson Products, Inc., Cleveland aircraft parts manufacturer. Another Air Force pilot, Capt. Harold E. (Tom) Collins of Fairborn, Ohio, will try to exceed Miss Coehran's speed for a new world record for the 15-25 kilometer run.

In this contest, sponsored by General Electric Co.'s Aircraft Turbine Division, the pilot's best 15 kilometers out of a 25-kilometer run is chosen.

Collins, flying an F86D, will make two passes at the straight-away course. The 28-year-old flier, formerly of Port Arthur, Tex., is stationed at nearby Wright-Patterson AFB.

The helicopter attempt will be made by Capt. Russell M. Dohy, Norton, Va., stationed at Eglin AFB, Fla.

Dohy will fly a Piasecki YH21 "Work Horse" helicopter in a try

1. The world speed record over a straight course—129.352 m.p.h.—set in 1949 at Cleveland by Harold E. Thompson in a Sikorsky S52 helicopter.

2. The world altitude record of 21,220 feet set at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1949 by Capt. H. D. Jabbis in the same type of Sikorsky helicopter.

In another major contest—the Allison Trophy race—Capt. Forrest Wilson, 31, South Haven, Mich., yesterday dashed from Weir-Cook Airport, Indianapolis, 110-13 miles in 12 minutes 17.2 seconds.

Wilson, flying a Republic F84G Thunderjet, averaged a speed of 537.802 m.p.h. to outdistance three other F84 contestants.

Sunday's air show was marred by an aerial collision, believed the first of its kind, between two Marine Sikorsky H19 helicopters.

Each craft had only the pilot aboard. Maj. William T. Tebow Jr., Quantico, Va., suffered moderate injuries. The other pilot, Lt. P. M. Gish, Cherry Point, N. C., was unharmed.

Both helicopters were considered complete wrecks at a loss to the government of about $500,000.

Four Businesses Destroyed In Fire

TEXARKANA (AP)—A fire raged through two buildings in downtown Texarkana early today destroying four businesses and heavily damaging two stores.

The blaze gutted the old Victory Hotel being used as a warehouse and roared through the Cupboard Cafe, Rosy's Photo Shop, Fowler Drug Co. and Butram's Barber Shop. The heavily damaged stores were the Wellworth Variety Store and the Outlet Store.

Fire Chief S. F. Walsh and three other persons were hurt in a two-car collision as the fire chief raced to the fire. Injuries were minor.

Others hurt were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Claghorne, Dallas, and Mrs. Tommy Claghorne, Texarkana.

It was the seventh major fire in Texarkana since April 2 when the International Creosoting and Construction Co. burned.

Plane Has Slight Damage In Mishap

A T33 jet training plane sustained slight damage in a mishap at Webb Air Force Base last night.

The plane's left landing gear failed to lock into place properly as the craft approached a runway for a landing. However, First Lt. E. W. Ainsworth brought the plane in on its right landing wheel and left wing tip tank. Only apparent damage was a scratch on the tip tank.

The incident occurred at about 10:25 p. m. It was the first flying accident at Webb in several weeks.

previous statement that the Chancellor's party had won only 243 seats. The later announcement said a recalculation of the proportional representation figures had taken away a seat previously given to the Centrist party and given it instead to the Christian Democrats.

Despite Communist plots to wreck the voting with riots and sabotage, the election went off quietly and without a whisper of Red violence. Those Communist agents who got past the border quit cold.

Russia May Make New Atomic Control Proposals At U. N. Meet

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Many U. N. diplomats believe Russia will make a dramatic attempt at the forthcoming General Assembly to seize the initiative on the stalemated problem of disarmament and atomic control.

These diplomats expect the Soviets to come up with new proposals dealing with both conventional arms and with atomic weapons, including the hydrogen bomb.

There has been some speculation that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov himself might come here to present the proposals, but this has not been confirmed.

The disarmament and atomic control question already is on the Assembly's agenda. It is generally agreed it will become a major issue of the three-month session opening Sept. 15.

Two developments since the last regular Assembly will have an important bearing on the discussions: the Korean armistice and the Soviet announcement that Russia has produced an H-bomb.

Russia's last major proposal on disarmament and atomic control came in 1949—just after the first announcement that the Soviet Union had exploded an A-bomb.

The Western Powers took the lead at the 1951 Assembly session in Paris and came up with new plans. These led to some slight Soviet concessions, but the discussions soon bogged down again.

Some delegates now feel that the recent announcement of the H-bomb may have been timed to afford a dramatic opportunity for new proposals. Whether or not it was deliberately timed, it does provide a plausible reason for reopening atomic control discussions.

The Korean armistice has a bearing on the disarmament issue because virtually all delegates, particularly those from Western countries, have insisted that there could be no reduction of arms while the Korean conflict continued.

Both these developments are reflected in the brief annual report of the U. N. Disarmament Commission adopted Aug. 29, eight days after the Soviet Union exploded its first H-bomb.

"It is hoped," the commission said, "that recent international events will create a propitious atmosphere for the reconsideration of the disarmament question, whose capital importance in conjunction with other questions affecting the maintenance of peace is recognized by all."

This report was drafted by Greek delegate Alexis Kyrkou, but perhaps significantly its adoption was moved by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

The commission declared it expected to continue its work—although it met only once in 1953—and promised to present a report to the 1954 Assembly.

The U. N. has been considering disarmament and atomic control since it began operating in 1946. These two questions are now considered as a single problem by the Disarmament Commission.

The Russians, in their latest plan, call for an immediate one-third reduction of all armaments and armed forces and for prohibition of all atomic weapons. They have agreed to establishment of a system of international control and inspection, to take effect simultaneously with the prohibition of atomic weapons, but have never spelled out just how this inspection would work.

The Western Powers, backed by an overwhelming majority of the 50 U. N. members, have advocated creation of an international authority to own and operate all atomic facilities from the mines to the plants actually producing atomic energy. They have insisted that this must be done by stages, the first step being a census of atomic weapons and a system of verification. As for disarmament, the West also has insisted that the first step must be a worldwide arms census, carefully verified.

Generally fair skies with mild temperatures were in the weather forecast for the remainder of the Labor Day holiday.

The only report of rain Sunday was .02 of an inch at Brownsville. Afternoon temperatures ranged from 83 in Galveston and Tyler to 97 in Presidio.

The Live Oak County Sheriffs Office at George West said the Nueces River went out of its banks Sunday, but the flooding was not serious. The Weather Bureau had warned livestock raisers to get their animals out of the lowlands of the Nueces after a heavy rain brought high water.

Most persons forced from their homes last week by floods at Falfurrias, Alice and Kingsville were back in their homes Sunday.

CHICAGO (AP)—Leonard D. Segal, Waco, Tex., was named a national vice president of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States here yesterday at the 58th annual convention.

Other survivors include one son, Billy Ray Thompson, who is in the Army and stationed at Fort McCollum, Ala.; one grandson, Joel Wood; three great-grandchildren; two brothers, one of whom lives in Fort Worth, and Lee Thompson of Trinidad, Colo.; and five sisters, Mrs. Ollie Harris, Mrs. May Dalton, and Mrs. Della Steagall, all of Elihu, Ky., and Mrs. Lawrence Greer of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Irene Wilson of Denton.

McCan said at that time that the committee would continue to examine the drought conditions in the 152 other counties. He said some of them might be suspended if rains improve pastures.

McCan said yesterday that "some feed shipments are still going through."

He said no additional counties had been added to the 12 on the suspension list. But he added that "we are getting cancellations of feed orders all along from some counties."

The Fort Worth Star Telegram said Saturday night it had learned that an attempt will be made at the Wednesday meeting to find out which counties can be dropped. The paper said the PMA then will determine which other counties can best use grain and protein emergency supplies from disqualified counties.

The Star Telegram also interviewed Howard Gordon, executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation. He said the government would not allocate any crop for drought relief.

Gordon also said emergency funds appropriated for drought relief "are rapidly being exhausted. We'll go as far as we can with the money we've got."

Some Counties May Be Taken Off Relief List

VICTORIA (AP)—The State Drought Disaster Relief Committee will meet in College Station Wednesday and will "look into" the possibility of removing more Texas counties from the list of those eligible for federal subsidized livestock feed.

Claude McCan, the committee chairman, said another group he heads, the State Production and Marketing Committee, would meet at College Station Thursday, "probably all day."

"I couldn't say what we are going to do," McCan said when asked if he thought other Texas counties would be taken off the drought relief rolls. "We're going to look into it, but what is done will be up to the entire committee."

Recently the group temporarily suspended taking government feed applications from 12 counties. Rain had changed the situation since those counties were put on the relief list.

McCan said at that time that the committee would continue to examine the drought conditions in the 152 other counties. He said some of them might be suspended if rains improve pastures.

Special Routines For End Of Summertime

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Joyce Holden and I were lunching at Allied Artists the other day and we both agreed how quickly the summer had gone.
 "I can't believe it is time to shop for fall clothes and that before we know it winter will be here," I remarked.
 "I love hot weather," Joyce exclaimed, "but the sun doesn't love me. It dries out my hair, my nails and my complexion."
 "The worst part about a dry skin," Joyce continued, "is that if you neglect it, you are inviting wrinkles."
 I wanted to know what Joyce did to keep her skin in such good condition.
 "I use oil whenever it feels dry. And I am amazed how much soaks in. I find by opening the pores you get more benefit so at the end of the summer I use hot oil. I fill a kitchen spoon with it, hold it over a candle and when it is warm I take a piece of cotton, soak it in the oil and go over and over my face and neck."
 "I also like to soak my finger tips in warm oil before I change my polish, and I also use it on my scalp before I have a shampoo," she added.
 "What kind of oil do you prefer?" I asked.
 "As long as it has a lanolin base you will get results," Joyce confided.
 "Do you have any other beauty routines for the end of summer?" I asked.
 "I don't think it's becoming to anyone when a tan starts to fade. You have lost that healthy glow and your skin just looks muddy, so I always start to bleach until I get my complexion back to normal."

 "What do you do?"
 "I mix fresh lemon juice in my cleansing cream and every time I take off my make-up I'm bleaching at the same time."
 "Do you squeeze a lemon every time?"
 "I tried mixing lemon juice into a whole jar of cream but I found that I got quicker results when I used fresh juice."

 I wanted to know just how this was done.
 "I have an empty jar that I squeeze lemon juice into and then with a plastic spoon I mix enough cream so that it makes a paste. After a while you get to know exactly how much it takes. At first you may mix up more than you need for one cleansing but with practice," Joyce concluded, "you soon get the hang of it."

Advice From Joyce

Lovely Joyce Holden, currently being seen in "Murder Without Tears," gives some beauty hints on how to restore the damage done at the end of a summer in the sun.

Children Learn About Diet Through Rat Experiments

By DR. MARTHA M. ELIOT
 Chief, Children's Bureau
 Johnny kept touching the whole wheat cracker in his pocket all through the geography lesson. He knew he might spoil the experiment of the class. But he was determined that Pete, their pet rat, be sick no longer.
 At noon when the other children tore down to the lunch room, Johnny managed to linger behind and then, when no one was around, to slip the cracker to Pete.
 But Pete disappointed him. He took a single weak nibble and then slunk back into his corner.
 Pat, the white rat in the adjoining cage, was more sleek and lively than ever.
 Johnny was not the only one in the sixth grade class affected by the sick rat's plight. All the children noted with mingled delight and sadness the bouncing good health of Pat, to whom they had been giving good food, and the dull torpor of Pete, to whom they had been giving poor food.
 Both rats were star performers in an experiment conducted not only in Johnny's school but in others in Daviess County, Kentucky. These experiments were part of a statewide program to help improve the eating habits of children. After noting the effect of diet on the rats, many children have been drinking more milk and eating more green and yellow vegetables.

From bright colored charts and posters, the children learned about the seven basic foods and why they are essential.
 Tasting parties and "good health contests" featuring the importance of a good breakfast, a hot lunch, and milk every day, are other parts of this nutrition education program. One fourth grade class did such an excellent job of menu planning that the school lunch manager used its menu planning for the school lunches.
 Where school lunch programs were lacking or inadequate, community leaders, teachers, and parents worked together to make substantial improvements. Many lunch rooms were made more attractive with new curtains and fresh coats of paint on walls and furniture. Other rooms got better equipment.
 Several counties had home garden projects, enlisting the parents as well as the children. These projects led some families to raise

Proposal For 1954 Democratic Convention Faces Opposition

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rejection of a proposal for a 1954 mid-term Democratic convention was forecast today among party members preparing for a showdown on the issue at next week's rally in Chicago.

Dixie Democrats who have declared their loyalty to the national party and their willingness to pledge support of its 1954 nominees joined with others who are hankering at the loyalty oath requirement in opposing the off-year convention idea.

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), among others, said any such party gathering could only breed disunity in advance of next year's congressional elections. Hill, an active campaigner in 1952 for former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, has called on all party members to abide by the loyalty pledge.

On the opposite side of the party fence, Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi, who wants the loyalty oath abolished, has attacked the mid-term convention proposal.

Sen. Hoey (D-NC), who isn't going to attend the Chicago rally Sept. 14-15, said he had written National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell criticizing the proposal as being likely "to do more harm than good."

Most Southern Democrats apparently believe that any attempt to adopt a set of principles for the congressional campaign would raise the controversial civil rights and states rights issues, causing a party split.

The Dixie candidates who will be running for House and Senate seats next year seem to believe in many instances that the less said about the national party's stand on these questions, the better will be their chances of re-election.

There is some evidence that party leaders, recognizing this view, will attempt to soft-pedal intraparty controversies at the Chicago gathering and concentrate on issues on which all of the Democrats can agree.

In this connection, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), keynote at a $100-a-plate dinner Sept. 14, is expected to rip into the Eisenhower administration for bringing "big business" into government in Washington.

Douglas said in an interview he doesn't intend to attack either the administration's appointees or their motives but "what I do object to is the philosophy of big business in control of government."

Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee, and former President Truman also will speak briefly at the dinner. The following night Stevenson will report on his world trip.

Most Democrats would welcome the chance to hang a "big business" label on the Republicans in the 1954 campaign.

Most of them also could agree with a blast yesterday by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) against what he called the administration's "surrender of the public interest" in its power program.

"The administration's power policy... is another poorly disguised surrender of the public interest," Humphrey declared in a state-ment. "Private power corporations are in effect invited to take over the country's remaining water power sites and essential transmission construction while at the same time new obstacles are put in the way of rural electric cooperatives and other nonprofit agencies."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, leading a forum on agricultural policies, is expected to tee off on the Eisenhower administration's farm program. Here, again, most of the Democrats are willing to join in the criticisms.

There also is expected to be discussion of the Republican policy of increasing interest rates on government bonds, a move many Democrats have described as raising the cost of loans for farmers and small business men.

Little Rock's GOP Mayor Decides To Seek Re-Election

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Pratt Remmel, the first Republican mayor of Little Rock since Reconstruction days, said last night he had "consulted the Lord" and decided to seek re-election.

The 37-year-old insurance executive who broke a 60-year tradition by defeating a Democrat two years ago said in a statement:

"The Lord was consulted in my decision. Prayer will answer all problems... The people of Little Rock will have a chance to vote again for (their) present mayor."

Remmel will be opposed in the November general election by Democrat Aubrey Kerr, a veteran of the City Council.

Rita Is 100 Per Cent For Dick Haymes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Rita Haymes said last night that she loves crooner Dick Haymes and is going to marry him as soon as possible.

"I'm 100 per cent behind Dick in all his troubles," the actress told a reporter. "I loved him and I will marry him here as soon as possible."

Haymes, a native of Argentina, has been having immigration trouble since he flew to Hawaii last spring to visit Miss Hayworth. In addition, his wife, Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes has sued him for divorce in California.

However, it was reported that Haymes will seek a Nevada divorce from his wife when he has satisfied this state's six-week residence requirement on Sept. 20. A tentative date of Sept. 24 has been set for his marriage in Las Vegas to Miss Hayworth.

The U. S. immigration service is seeking to deport him, claiming that because he signed a waiver from military service during World War I as a citizen of a neutral country he is ineligible to become an American citizen. The immigration service contends that by leaving the continental United States (to visit Rita in Hawaii) he laid himself open to the deportation proceedings. Haymes is fighting their action.

Miss Tolstoy Says Russians Speak Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Miss Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the late Russian novelist Leo Tolstoy, says she has heard that there are people in the Soviet Union "who are not afraid, as before, to speak up."

Miss Tolstoy, on her return yesterday from Germany, said her information came from sources in Berlin.

She was in Germany to open the Tolstoy Foundation's new home for orphans. She is president of the foundation, which aids escapees and immigrants from Russia.

Man Kills Invalid Daughter As He Fears Own Operation

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Fearing that he was suffering from cancer and might have to undergo an operation prompted Herman H. Nagle to kill his 28-year-old invalid daughter so that she wouldn't be left alone, the 54-year-old plant guard declared in his city jail cell here today.

Nagle, who says he is a retired New York City policeman, shot his daughter Betty Virginia to death as she slept in her wheelchair Saturday at their home. Police have booked him for investigation of first degree murder. Betty Virginia was a life-long victim of cerebral palsy.

The father said in an interview he killed his daughter because he loved her. He said he was afraid he had cancer and she would have no one to care for her.

"I knew eventually I was going to die," he said, adding that the thought of putting his daughter out of misery had haunted him for years.

Nagle's wife died 14 years ago of heart attack. He said he had cared for his daughter constantly since, with the help of a housekeeper at times.

"No one knows better than I the torture she went through," he said. "She was completely helpless. I dressed her, fed her and looked after her every need. She was a sweet kid and brave. But my mind is clear. I feel what I did was the best way out."

"It's a hard thing to say, but for the first time in years I feel at ease. I killed her because I loved her."

Nagle came here five years ago from New York City with Betty Virginia and another daughter, Lillian, 29, now a first lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps at Tacoma, Wash. She flew here yesterday and saw her father at the jail.

Nagle said he has another daughter, Mrs. Mildred Girschick of Brooklyn, N. Y. He expects her to come here tomorrow with her husband, who Nagle said is an attorney.

Detectives described the slaying as a "mercy killing," which Harry F. Westfall, ex-officio coroner ruled was due to gun wounds at Nagle's hands.

M. D. Chess Player Takes Board Along

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Dr. D. N. McInturff was all ready to play in the state chess championships Sunday when he got an emergency call.

A patient was ready to have her baby.

The doctor grabbed his chess board — and his opponent — and headed for the hospital.

The match went on as scheduled while the doctor waited out his patient. In 2 1/2 hours the match was over but there was still no baby.

P. S.: McInturff won.

Charades Were Way To Frustrate Reds

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—Charades drove Chinese Communist guards crazy, a repatriate said today.

Lt. Paul t. O'Dowd Jr. of Berkeley, Calif., said the Red guards wanted to know what the prisoners were doing every moment.

"We drove them crazy one week with charades," he said. "They watched until they could not stand it any longer then hauled us up for questioning."

"We all gave them a different name of what we had been doing, each giving the phrase he had been acting out, and that really drove them nuts."

"The next day the order came down that any one playing any one of those games would be punished."
