Ask Aunt Dee Dee

DEAR AUNT DEE DEE:

Somehow, just like that song goes: I must be "looking for love in all the wrong places." I have tried church, singles bars, health clubs, and even the personal ads in my local newspaper.

All to no avail, since I keep coming up on the losing end. Aunt Dee Dee, would you be so kind as to suggest some other "hunting grounds?"

PERPLEXED SINGLE:

Certainly. However, Aunt Dee Dee wonders how you managed to strike out on personal ads. Perhaps you were just answering them, rather than placing one yourself, and then reaping the dozens of replies that her other readers report.

Just for you, here are some other hunting grounds:

1. THE SUPERMARKET ON SATURDAY, OR LATE AT NIGHT. Be sure, though, to check out his grocery cart. Too many feminine type products is a sure sign that he has interests elsewhere.

2. THE LIBRARY. Not the public one -- too many homeless winos hang out there -- but any law, medical or university library. The male researchers love it when you ask them questions.

3. IN LINE AT THE

CASH MACHINES AT THE BANK. Aunt Dee Dee must advise you to watch your purse, and your cash, though.

4. ART GALLERIES. Be sure to get your name on the mailing list, so you will receive invitations to the opening receptions.

5. A MERCEDES-BENZ

SHOWROOM! You can always say that you were "just looking."

6. FLYING LESSONS. Of course, if you have a fear of flying, this would not be a good happy hunting ground (?) for you.

7. WALKING YOUR DOG. A cat just won't do -- too independent -- and besides you'll spend precious time standing under trees waiting for Tabby to come down.

8. BOOKSTORES. Especially the photo department during lunch time.

9. BROOKS BROTHERS. Or any other establishment-type men's store will do. You can always say that you're looking for something for your brother.

10. THE PARK ON WEEKENDS, AND ESPECIALLY THE ZOO. Divorced men will be there in droves, with their kids.

And now a word to the fellows. Since Aunt Dee Dee has instructed her female readers where to find you, would you guys please be there, sending out the proper signals.

Graduation ...a time of completion ...a time of commencement

Graduation...It's a time to feel justifiable pride in your accomplishments as you reflect on the friends and memories of your school years. In the twinkling of an eye, the crossing over of a tassel, the grasp of your diploma, it's also a time of commencement. A time you meet the future now rolling over the horizon toward you.

At American State Bank, we share this mutual feeling of pride of accomplishment and challenge of the future with all the graduates, but especially for these five who, by participating in the Vocational Office Education program at their school, have been able to be an integral part of the American State Bank family.

More Than Tunnel Vision Required

Last month, in a column in the Chicago Tribune, columnist Clarence Page told of a recent conversation he had with Robert L. Woodson, Black civil rights organizer turned born-again Republican.

Woodson's conversion is so complete that the language he uses to push the Reagan line is slicker and more deceptive than that used by the old master himself. Woodson, who is a big rig in the Washington-based council for a Black Economic Agenda and spends a lot of his time speaking before such right-wing control groups as the Heritage Foundation, likes to demean the historic struggle for civil rights in this country by referring to it as the "alm's race."

Here are some of the other fancy statements he employs to throw the thinking off track: "Do you want the redistribution of income or the creation of wealth? We have to be concerned with the health of the golden goose as we are with the distribution of the golden eggs... If the only tool you have is a hammer, then all problems begin to look like nails."

Very few Black leaders are against the acceleration of entrepreneurial effort as one of the methods to advance the economic status of Black Americans. But the Woodson group sounds and acts like this self-help method has not been tried before, when in fact it has been at the center of Black philosophy since slavery. What do they think Booker T. Washington was talking about when he admonished Blacks to "let down" their backs where they were, or Dr. W. E. B. DuBois was advocating when he attempted to infuse the "talented tenth" of the race with burning ambition? Haven't they heard about the International Trade Bureau of Operation P. U. S. H.?

This is not to say that the Woodson group doesn't have some good ideas. Undoubtedly, planned self-help programs direct Black energies into positive channels and make us feel good about ourselves. Likewise, hard-headed Black business initiatives create more successful Black corporations and improve the Black employment picture. But these approaches, by themselves, will not cure our horrible unemployment problem nor allow the growth of the Black underclass.

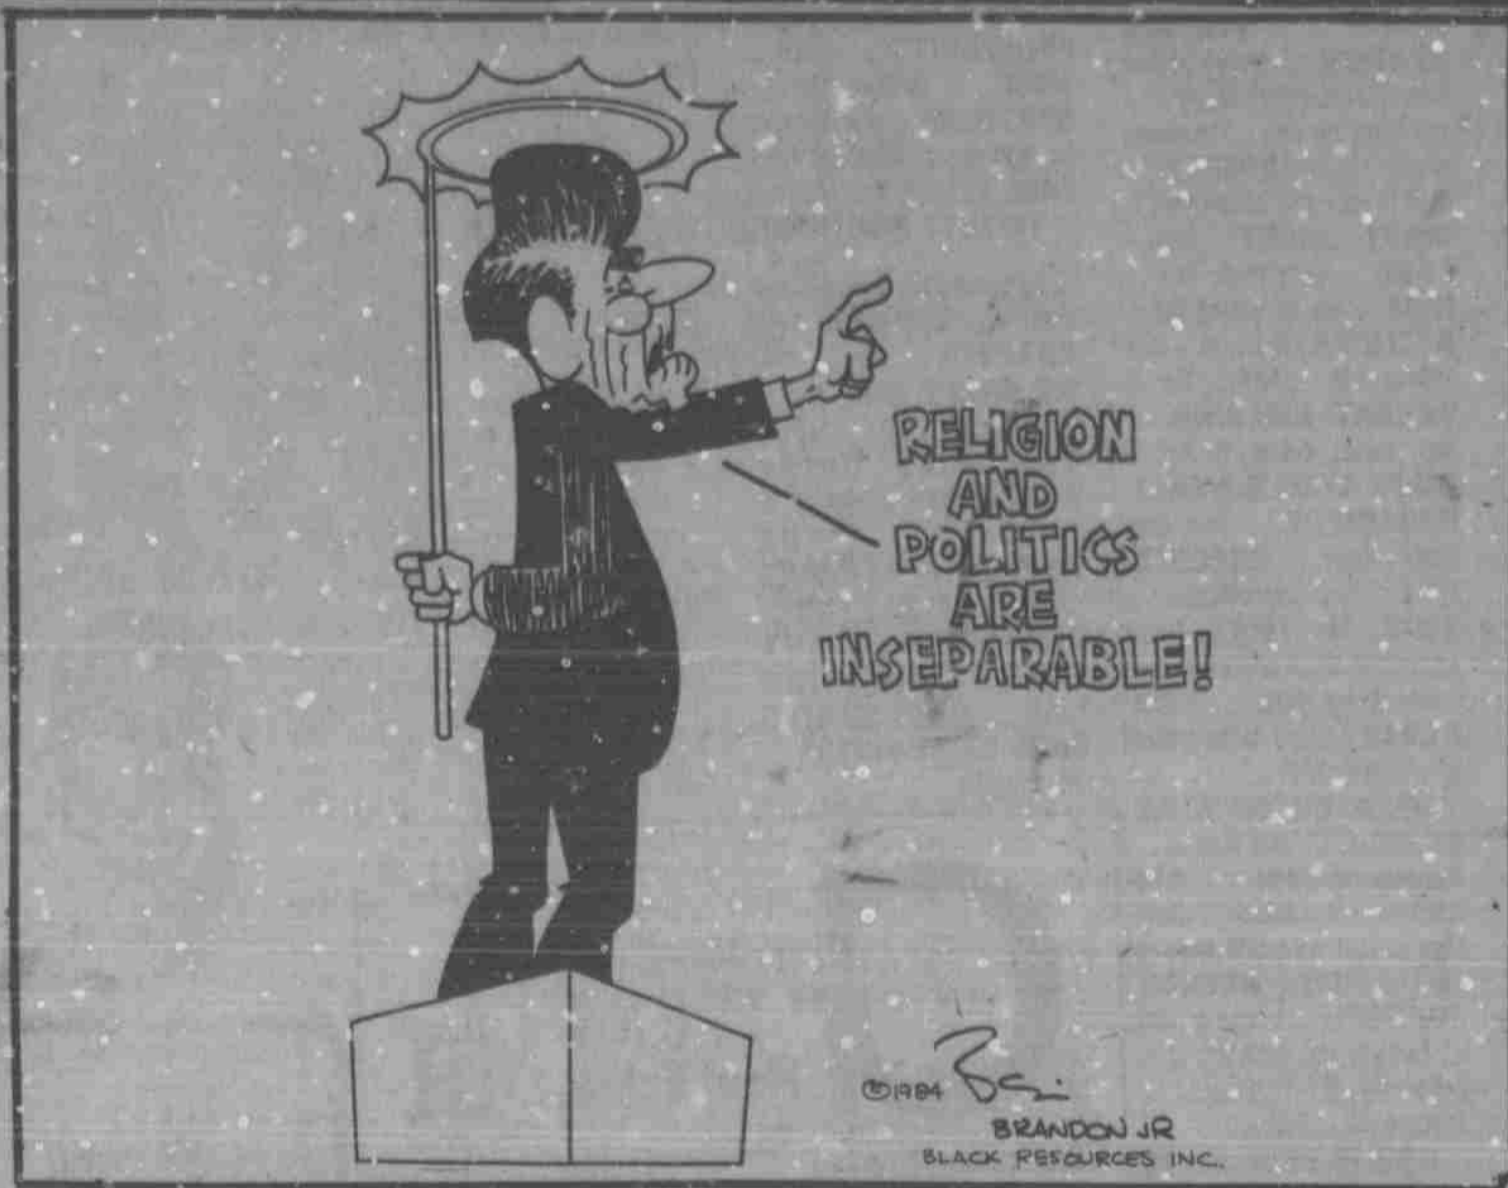

We cannot follow the Woodson group into the trap of waiting for prosperity to trickle down from the coffers of the rich, be they Black or White. This formula for "eternal prosperity" did not work more than 50 years ago, when the industrial revolution was at its apex. Unquestionably then, there is no reason to believe it will work now when the economic base of the country is being eroded by the substitution of capital-intensive, high technology industries for labor-intensive industries such as coal, steel and textiles, threatening to turn us into a nation of high-paid bureaucrats and low-paid floor sweepers.

The complex problems of our time cannot be solved by blind adherence to simple solutions. Nothing less is required than the full mobilization of the political, economic, religious and cultural resources of this nation in a concentrated program to secure full and equitable employment for all our citizens. Above all it will require the application of a new morality—the morality of caring and sharing.

With respect to the immediate role of Black America, I stand by what I wrote in this column shortly after last year's national election:

"First, we must build unity among ourselves by developing bold agendas and setting creative priorities. During this period, which is not unlike those dark days immediately following Reconstruction, we cannot afford the luxury of fractured and fragmented approaches to our problems."

Today I add: The vision of no single group is broad enough to explore the terrain for us all.

NNPA FEATURE Business in the Black

By Charles E. Belle

Crime and Punishment Grows or Dostoevsky Never Had it so Good

Ronald Reagan was right. He has indeed turned the job market around. In fact, he turned it upside down. Today, there are numerous job openings with salaries ranging from $22,000 - $34,000, with travel and free foreign language lessons tossed in. Furthermore, this organization states it is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The "catch," well it's the CIA, Central Intelligence Agency, as advertised in the May 7, 1985, Wall Street Journal, under the bold title, "Overseas Careers." It seems the President does not have enough fair good men and women to work out his foreign policy program. We wonder why he is so concerned about the country's foreign staffing when the domestic situation is at a standstill.

It is official, there are 28.6 million Black Americans in the United States, according to the Commerce Department's Census Bureau. Black American population increased 175% faster than the total U. S. population since 1980 which now stands at 236,681,000. The other area Black Americans lead in is the unemployment line. Since Reagan came into office, we have maintained our better than two to one adult unemployment lead. In the two fastest growing age groups which are getting most of the media and money attention, Black Americans have a lower percent of its population. The upper "Yuppie" group, young urban professional persons, of 35 to 44 years of age makes up 13.2% of the white population, while Black Americans are 85% of that, at the Black American population of 11.3%. The second fastest growing group, senior citizens at 65 years and over are almost twice as many as the white percentage group as Black Americans reflecting past discrimination effects.

The continued high unemployment of Black Americans at twice the rate of white America under the current administration will not alleviate the senior situation. Since the policy of this administration is clearly to create a few large dominant corporations, "only the strong survives," seeking employment will be difficult for all regardless of race, color, creed, or sex without knowledge. "Knowledge is the core of our nation's security," says the ad in the Wall Street Journal classified. And knowledge can be obtained by paying large sums of "unassisted" tuition fees at colleges and universities, or "free" by joining the Armed Services to fight a foreign war or signing on with the CIA to prepare for fighting a foreign war.

There apparently is plenty of money in this administration's budget for fighting foreign war, but not for fighting domestic poor. The same Wall Street Journal quotes a college placement director as saying, "the social science major who wants to work as a counselor at a community service agency, drug rehabilitation center (where's Nancy?) or government agency is tough to place."

That's our job market lesson from the White House today kids. You can either join in this crime against humanity or you are going to be punished until the President leaves office.

shows that low income children are at the greatest risk of being stunted in growth. Malnourished children can't learn as well as children with proper nutrition. While the President is talking about the poor learning of American students, he is cutting nutrition programs, which contribute to learning ability.

A witness before the House Education and Labor Committee stated that while the President is hammering away at national defense, he forgets that a healthy, well-trained population is a component of national defense. She says that nutrition programs should be a part of the Defense Department.

A report of the Harvard University School of Public Health states how food is used by the body. Food provides energy to fuel all activities; it provides raw materials for growth and development; it provides substances that prevent diseases; and when food is inadequate in either quantity or quality, any of these functions is compromised.

Malnutrition impacts greatly on pregnant women, infants and children on the one hand and the elderly on the other hand. The study shows that proper food is a critical factor to the pregnant woman in the healthy birth of a child. The President and the "right-to-life" people utter great support for the fetus, but they ignore the fact that the fetus requires a rich diet of protein, vitamins and minerals as its tissues and organs are being developed.

Rep. George Miller says that by cutting the nutrition programs, this Administration is raising up a more unhealthy and less educated citizenry.

BLACK POETRY

Not, Dear God, How Many Killed

Our Father, God, we've made your wonderful, beautiful world
An ugly battlefield on which we selfish sinners
Denounce each other's wrongs;
Mistake our waged destruction's accomplished aims
For victories; our militarily-guarded aftermaths, for peace.
Forgive, we pray, and help us find the way
To that clear day when little wars
And big wars, everywhere, at home,
And everywhere, abroad, shall be sagacious conferences;
Our weapons, TRUTH
Our stimulus, LOVE
Our winning counts: How many saved, converted, freed
And not, dear God, how many killed.
Not, no not, How many killed
Not How many Killed.

Administration Nutrition Cuts Produce An Unhealthy Uneducated Society

While campaigning, President Reagan never mentioned the need of cutting funds for federal programs. Now since the election, he has recommended, in his budget, cutting $40 billion from domestic programs. One billion dollars of these funds have been cut from nutrition programs. Practically all nutrition programs are targeted for cuts. School lunch, school breakfast programs, child care food programs and the special supplemental food program for women, infants and children (WIC) bear the brunt of the cuts. This has resulted in a $5.2 billion cut between 1982 and 1985 in the nutrition programs.

Michael Lemov, executive director of the Food Research and Action Center, says: "The Administration's budget is a thoughtless attack on one of our most vulnerable population groups—children. Many are poor and undernourished. The budget takes food away from little kids and gives it to the military."

The President's budget puts a freeze on food price inflation adjustment for school nutrition programs. It eliminates all federal subsidies for meals for moderate-income children in the programs. These cuts will cause 2,000 schools to drop out of the school lunch program and 500,000 children and 650 schools to drop out of the breakfast programs.

The school lunch programs are financed by the federal government 50-55 percent, state and local 20 percent; and student payments 20-25 percent. The survival of the program depends on the inclusion even of children, whose families are able to pay. The Administration is targeting for elimination from the school lunch the children who can pay for their lunch. This will cause abandonment of the program by these children. Schools will then find it economically unfeasible to operate the lunch program.

The President's budget eliminates subsidies for moderate-income families who need child care centers and family day care homes. Especially, it is this need great since we have more working mothers today than at any time—many of them are heads of households. The family day care homes are operated by women who provide care for children in their homes. There are 1.5 million such homes caring for over 5 million children. Yet the Administration will cut nutrition for 315,000 children in family day care and 750,000 children in child care centers by 33 percent.

Mr. Reagan also has targeted the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program for cuts. Congress appropriated $1.5 billion for a WIC caseload of 3,080,000 people for 1985. The Administration is requesting $20 million less than the 1985 congressional appropriation for the program. In addition, the Administration has withheld $76 million of the 1985 WIC appropriation. This will make the total cut for WIC for 1986, $96 million, these cuts reduced the 1985 caseload by 237,000 and a further reduction of 175,000 in 1986. Many studies have proved that the WIC program is cost beneficial. Rep. George Miller—chairman of the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families—states that for every mother on the WIC program three dollars are saved for every one dollar that is spent, because poor expecting women are given prenatal care and proper nutrition. Babies born to these women are less likely to be low-weight birth babies. For two decades, the WIC program has caused infant mortality to decline at a rapid pace, but during the Reagan years there has been a decrease in the decline. Dr. Samuel Shapiro of Johns Hopkins University points out that infant mortality rate was reduced by 9 percent in the 1983-84 period as compared with a reduction of 4.3 percent in 1981-1982. The gap is widening between Whites and Blacks. Infant mortality among Whites is around 11 per thousand while for Blacks it is around 21 per thousand. All people in high poverty areas suffer from malnutrition. Many of these people are either unemployed or underemployed, which often requires them to have to make decisions between proper nutrition and energy costs.

CHILD WATCH

Marian Wright Edelman

Good Work, City Lights!

The boy sits in front of the computer screen, his hands nervously gripping his knees. A quiz question appears on the screen. He pauses, frowns, then taps out his answer.

"Good work, Howard!" says the computer screen. The boy grins, delighted.

Effort, accomplishment and reward: a simple sequence which most children, as they're learning and growing, take for granted. But at a very unusual school in Washington, DC called City Lights, many black teenagers like Howard are experiencing this process for the first time. For them, it is a daily miracle.

The thirty black city youths who attend City Lights are not used to hearing the word "good" applied to anything about them. They do not come from what many may consider "good" families theirs are marred by poverty, alcoholism, mental illness and violence. The teenagers themselves have not been "good," by anybody's definition - many have been to jail, used drugs, dropped out of school.

For the most part, our government and too many citizens write off youths like this. They are allowed to slip through the cracks in our educational and social service systems and to drift slowly into permanent poverty, mental illness or institutionalization.

But the people who run the City Lights refuse to write these youngsters off. Two years ago, after scraping together funding from private sources, they set up a day school for these emotionally and economically disadvantaged black youth. They began with only two students. Today they have thirty students, a well-equipped facility housed in a converted warehouse, and some private but increasing amounts of public funds.

Students approach the school warily, arms folded, guards up against a grown-up world that has repeatedly wounded them and betrayed their trust. These young men and women do not believe that they can succeed anywhere - least of all within the walls of a school.

But they do succeed, in little ways each day, at City Lights. If students do well in class one day, they can make the "A-Team," a daily list of student point scores that is posted on the classroom wall. At their weekly riding lessons, they can learn how to reseat a horse. If they earn it they can gain access to one of the school's computers.

The successes are small and the progress is slow but they are occurring and accumulating. In addition to constant attention and support from their teachers the students receive many different forms of therapy, to help them cope with the pain, anger and frustration that have built up inside them. They also get help with the skills they need to survive in the less supportive world beyond the school's doors - such as lessons in how to interview for a job. And they are provided work experience, since the whole point of City Lights is to help troubled young people become self-sufficient members of the community.

After only two years, City Lights makes no grandiose claims of changing the world. But the school has made a real difference in the lives of these youngsters. Five students have graduated. The student body's reading and math levels have gone up an average of 1.5 grade levels each school year.

Most remarkable of all, among the group of chronic truants and lawbreakers, almost all have chosen to stick with City Lights.

That may just be because this place makes them feel good. There should be more like it.

Church Motto:
"The Church where everybody is somebody."

Thank God, we're here again! Holy greetings, everyone, this beautiful day which the Lord has made for us to see and enjoy as his children.

Everyone was at their post of duty last Sunday morning. Attendance was good in Sunday School. Our great lesson subject was: "Two Ways of Life." The scripture was Proverbs 1:7-19:35-8, 14:1-12. The Key Verse: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; fools despise wisdom and instruction." Proverbs 1:7.

The worship hour service devotions was conducted by Deacon Burleson and Sister Gilbert, who also read Proverbs 6:1-15, assisted by Sister Ina Smith. Pastor Arthur Kelly highly prayed at the altar call to our Master. The choir sang great praises.

The message of the hour was delivered by Rev. Kelly. His scripture came from the Book of Psalms 34:9. His subject was "God is Watching Over His People." God really was in his holy place in the midst while Rev. Kelly preached from his soul.

Pleasant Home Baptist Church, East 14th & North Avenue F is holding a revival, featuring Evangelist L. E. Moore of Dallas, Texas, May 28-June 2, 1985. Services will begin nightly at 8 p. m. and closing services will begin Sunday at 3 p. m.

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Members and friends of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bogus last Saturday morning. This was a blessed meeting. Sister Christine Burleson, vice president, presided over the meeting.

Opening devotion and business was discussed.

The morning scripture lesson was taught by Mrs. Dorothy Hood. Her scripture was 1 Timothy 4:14. Use your gift. God didn't create us to be victimized, but victorious. What's your talent? What's your gift? Use them to the glory and honour of our Lord.

(14) Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the (presbytery) The Elders of the Church. Put these abilities to work. You and I have talents and gifts. We haven't used in years. I'm getting them out working on them; shining them up, and every day starting out with asking God what do I have in store for this day. God did not make us in his image and likeness to create a ugly image and likeness in this world. If you're fat, skinny, ugly, handicapped, old, poverty stricken, Black, White, Brown, or pokadot, you have if you think, you are no more than a small pebble on the beach. Remember pebbles make up the beaches of this world.

1. Everybody's doing it is the national anthem of hell.

2. The greatest undeveloped territory is under your hat.

3. Why do so many folks stay home to sleep on Sunday morning, while others come to church to do it??

4. Three may keep a secret if two of them are

5. Religious con artist is degrading. Think about these!

Breakfast was served with homemade biscuits, by the greatest cook in Texas, Sister Co-1 on Page 14

Part II

Brothers & Sisters, God sent his son Jesus to die for our sins that we all might have a right to the tree of life, and that to them who know him, as the Saviour of all men's souls, Jesus is the only one we're to lift up unto the unsaved. We see him in the Book of John, Chapter 11: Jesus is the resurrection and the life. (Verse 25-43-44) The calling of Lazarus.

In Chapter 12, Jesus is "The King". He rides into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday. (Verse 12-15).

In Chapter 13, Jesus "assumes the place of a servant." (Verse 4-5). Washes the disciples' feet.

In Chapter 14, Jesus is "The Counselor" (Verse 1). He comforts the sorrowing disciples.

In Chapter 15, Jesus is "The True Vine." (Verse 1) The source of all spiritual fruit.

In Chapter 16, Jesus is "The Giver of the Spirit." (Verse 7-15) He promised to send "The Comforter."

In Chapter 17, Jesus is "The Great Intercessor." He prays for the church.

In Chapter 18, Jesus appears as "The Model Sufferer." (Verse 11) He submissively drinks "The Cup of Woe."

In Chapter 19, Jesus is "The Uplifted Saviour." (Verse 18; 3:14) He becomes "Obedient Unto Death, Even the Death on the Cross."

In Chapter 20, Jesus is "The Victor Over Death." Four times he met and vanquished "The King of Terrors." (1) Matthew 9:24-25; (2) Luke 7:11-15; (3) John 11:43-44; (4) "Grim Destroyer" Chapter 20:11-17; Revelation 1:18.

In Chapter 21, Jesus is "The Restorer of the Penitent." (Verse 15-17) Jesus welcomes Peter unto the fold to feed the sheep and lambs.

That's what we've all been commanded to do, feed "The Flock of God." Ask yourself: Am I like that "Christian-Jonah???" I'm I doing God's will??? Jesus said, in Matthew 4:19: Follow me. Jesus also said, in John 20:23 - Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

How far is our foreign mission??? The children are dying, and the mother's are crying.

Revelation 3:15, 16, 22 - Jesus said: I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot; I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue (spit) thee out of my mouth. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches. Remember II Chronicles 7:14 - God said if my people and varied schedules, usually every member of the family at some time or another has to prepare personal meals for other members of the family. The Kitchen Beat is designed to meet some needs of the various cooks in the modern Black family.

Are high food prices making you frown? Then, turn that frown upside down. "Cheep" Chicken Loaf will put a smile on your face and change in your pocket. It's a nutritious and delicious budget entree.

Leftover or canned chicken combine with the "incredible edible egg" to make this dish a real bargain. Eggs are versatile, too. In this recipe, they act both as a binder holding the loaf together, and to provide high-quality protein. For easy preparation, hard-cook the eggs a few days in advance and store them in the refrigerator.

If you're feeding a hungry family on a tight budget, remember "Cheep" Chicken Loaf. This "centric" taste tempter is bound to be a favorite.

We bring these recipes to you through the courtesy of the American Egg Board.

hard-cooked eggs* 1, sliced cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey cup chopped green pepper cup chopped onion parsley sprigs (optional)
 gravy, mushroom sauce, or cheese sauce (optional)

Beat together 2 eggs, broth, poultry seasoning and salt. Stir in crumbs. Reserve 3 center egg slices for garnish. Chop remaining eggs. Add chopped eggs and remaining ingredients except parsley and gravy to crumb mixture and toss lightly to mix. Place in greased 9 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven 50 to 55 minutes or until lightly browned. Loosen at edges with spatula. Invert onto serving plate. Garnish with reserved egg slices and parsley, if desired. Slice and serve. Top slices with leftover gravy, mushroom sauce or cheese sauce, if desired.

Microwave: *To hard-cook eggs, separate 6 raw eggs into two lightly buttered liquid measures or small microwaveable bowls. Mix yolks slightly with a fork. Cover each container with plastic wrap. Cook on Reduced power (30% to 50%) 2 to 3 minutes for yolks, 5 to 6 minutes for whites, stirring once or twice. Remove when slightly underdone. Let stand, covered, to finish cooking, about 2 minutes. Cool long enough to handle comfortably, then chop (Microwave hard-cooked eggs will not provide slices for garnish.) Mix loaf as directed and place in greased microwaveable loaf dish. Cook, uncovered, on Full power 11 to 13 minutes or until center reaches 145°F. Cover with foil and let stand 10 minutes.

Hard-Cooked Eggs

Put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately, run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS
Students and their parents should know there are many possible sources of educational aid around these days.

"The private sector, often a hidden source, consists of thousands of corporations, unions, trust funds, associations and even private philanthropists offering educational assistance to the interested student," points out Alexander Sidar, Director of Screening for the Coors Veterans' Memorial Scholarship Fund and higher educational consultant.

Students shouldn't neglect the private sector when searching for scholarship funds.

One of the newest sources of corporate funding for education is Adolph Coors Company, targeting a special group for its financial assistance. Coors has established a $500,000 scholarship fund for the children and dependents of American veterans and of servicemen and women killed in the line of duty, including in action or taken prisoner of war.

Eligible scholarship applicants include dependents of veterans under the age of 22 who have completed their freshman year of college or equivalent with a grade point average of at least 2.75 on a 4.0 scale.

THE PRESERVATION OF THE SCRIPTURES

Memory Verse: Isa. 40:8

In our last lesson we found that the Bible is the verbally inspired Word of God, without any error, and infallible.

In this lesson we are studying the providential preservation of this Word of God, so that we can say that the King James Version is God's Holy Word!! Read: Matt. 5:17,18.

I. THE DIVINE PRESERVATION OF THE SCRIPTURES IS NOT A NEW DOCTRINE.

A. Historic Confessions Of Faith Confirm It.

1. The Westminster Confession of Faith was adopted by the Presbyterians in 1646. It said: "The Old Testament in Hebrew, and the New Testament in Greek, being immediately inspired by God, and, by His singular care and providence, kept pure in all ages, and, therefore authentic; so as, in all controversies of religion, the Church is finally to appeal unto them." — "Counterfeit or Genuine" by David Otis Fuller, p. 214.
2. The Swiss Declaration of 1675 said: "God saw it that His word, which is with power unto salvation to everyone who believes, was entrusted to writing not only through Moses, the prophets and apostles but also He has stood guard and watched over it with fatherly concern to the present time that it not be destroyed by the cunning of Satan or by any other human deceit." — "Counterfeit or Genuine", p. 181
3. The Second London Confession of Faith was issued by the Baptists in 1677 and it said: "The Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek... being immediately inspired by God, and by His singular care and Providence kept pure in all Ages..." — "Baptist Confessions of Faith", by Lumpkin.

B. Historic Bible Teachers Declare It.

1. John Calvin (1509-1564) said: "But since we are not favored with daily oracles from heaven, and since it is only in the Scriptures that the Lord hath been pleased to preserve his truth in perpetual remembrance; it obtains the same complete credit and authority with believers, when they are satisfied of its Divine origin, as if they heard the very words pronounced by God himself." — "Counterfeit or Genuine", by David Otis Fuller, p. 178.
2. John Owen (Puritan) said: "The providence of God hath manifested itself as no less concerned in the preservation of the writings, than of the doctrine contained in them..." — "The Divine Original", Trinitarian Bible Society, cover.
3. John Burgon (1813-1888) said: "There exists no reason for supposing that the Divine Agent, who in the first instance thus gave to mankind the Scriptures of truth, straightway abdicated His office; took no further care of His work; abandoned those precious writings to their fate." — "Counterfeit or Genuine" by David Otis Fuller, p. 178.

II. DIVINE PRESERVATION IS TAUGHT BY THE SCRIPTURES.

A. The Bible Warns Of Attempts To Corrupt It.

1. Satan said: "Yea, hath God said?" Gen. 3:1
2. "...we are not as many, which corrupt the word of God..." II Cor. 2:17
3. The Old Testament warns about adding to or taking from the Word of God. Deut. 4:2
4. The N.T. contains a similar warning. (c)-5 Rev. 22:18-19

B. The Bible Inerts Preservation Of The Scriptures.

1. Peter says that we have a "more sure word of prophecy..." (a)-2 II Pet. 1:19-21. Part of the prophecies were over 1500 years old, but still "sure". Why? God preserved.
2. Every word of God is pure. (c)-2 Prov. 30:5-6. Parts of the Bible were over 500 years old when this was written.
3. Other Scriptures declare the same. (c)-11 Psa. 19:7-11; (c)-12 John 5:45-47
4. It is inferred in the Great Commission and in other places. Matt. 28:18-20. Notice that the message of the church shall remain the same to the end of the world.

C. The Bible Declares The Preservation Of The Scriptures.

1. God's Word is settled forever. (c)-1 Psa. 119:89
2. The Word of God shall stand forever. Isa. 40:8
3. Not one letter to pass away. Matt. 5:17-18. The Law was then 1500 years old.
4. The Scripture cannot be broken. John 10:35
5. The Word of God is incorruptible. I Pet. 1:23-25
6. The words will not pass away. Matt. 24:35. See also: Luke 4:4; 16:17; 21:33; and John 16:12-13.

III. WHICH BIBLE IN ENGLISH IS THE WORD OF GOD?

There are only two streams of Bibles that have come down to us today. One is the pure stream, the other is corrupt.

A. The KJV Is Of The Pure Stream And Is Based On The Right Texts.

1. We know that 85% to 95% of all Greek manuscripts are of the same type that the KJV was translated from.
2. This text type was the Bible of the Greek and Byzantine churches.
3. This was the text type of the Italic churches (not Roman); of the Gallic churches of Southern France; and of the Celtic churches of Great Britain.
4. This was the text of the Waldensian churches (Baptist), going back to the First Century. (See pages 194-215 of "Which Bible?" by David Otis Fuller, 5th edition).
5. It was the text of the Reformers. Luther, Calvin, etc.
6. It was the text of Tyndale and other English versions.
7. It was the Bible used by the revivalists, fundamentalists and church builders of the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th Centuries.

B. The Stream Of Corrupt Bibles.

1. Origen and a few others corrupted some manuscripts.
2. The two leading survivors of this corrupt stream.
 - a. Vatican (Codex B) became available in the 1860's to scholars. Catholics claim to have had it for over 500 years. It was supposedly made in the 4th Century.
 - b. Codex Sinaiticus (A) was found by Tischendorf in a waste basket that was about to be burned in the convent of St. Catherine near Mt. Sinai. (Both of these are a part of the 5% to 15% of manuscripts that do not agree with the 85% to 95%. They also do not agree among themselves).
3. The Latin Vulgate was based on these types.
4. The Jesuit Bible of 1582 and later Roman Catholic Bibles agree with these.
5. The New Word Translation produced by the Jehovah's Witnesses agree with these.
6. All of the modern versions are based on these, including the Westcott & Hort Revised Version of 1881; the American Standard of 1901; the Revised Version of 1952; the New English Version; The Living Bible; the Good News Bible; the New International Version; and the New American Standard Version.

ASTRO/NUMEROLOGY AND YOU

May 29-June 4, 1985

By LLOYD STRAYHORN

Astrology and Venus...The Love Planet

Part II of Four Parts

If one takes the time to look at their Venus position in their horoscope, perhaps better choices in love and partnerships can be made. To accurately determine your Venus position, consult an ephemeris (a book listing the placement of the planets for any particular year), or a professional full-time astrologer. In this segment, our focus is on Venus in the signs of Cancer thru Virgo.

Venus in CANCER:

Found here, the planet Venus has a natural home. Venus in Cancer gives a strong leaning towards maternal or paternal love and/or protection. When Venus is in this position it also gives a strong sympathetic and psychic nature. Gains are usually made thru property, the public or parents.

Venus in LEO:

Venus, when found in Leo, tends to attract those that add to their social upliftment and popularity. From the romantic side of life, those of rank and responsibility are generally drawn to those with Venus in this position. With this placement also comes a generous and carefree nature.

Venus in VIRGO:

This makes the native somewhat reserved and analytical in matters of love and romance. This position in Venus gives one a quiet, low-key way of romantically approaching members of the opposite sex. Being true and trustworthy with partners come easy when Venus enters Virgo.

ARIES—March 21-April 20

At the time of this reading you just may be undergoing a period of trials and tribulations. Ego or a confusing matter could be at the heart of the problem. By the 3rd day of the new month of June there should be a turnaround in your affairs. 941.

TAURUS—April 21-May 20

It's important you keep a low profile, especially late Thursday going into Friday. This includes Saturday as well. So just coast thru the weekend. This way you can start off the new month on a much better note. 190.

GEMINI—May 21-June 20

Midweek is favorable in the way of relationships and dealing with those younger than yourself. Late Saturday evening of the new month of June gives a strong warning against starting anything important, at least thru Monday evening. Take heed. 827.

CANCER—June 21-July 21

You may find members of the opposite sex getting on your nerves the first part of the week. Try to ignore their lack of consideration. Saturday of the first day of June promises to start off much better, especially during the evening. Next Tuesday will seem like "the pits". 592.

LEO—July 22-August 20

It would be to your advantage to be as receptive as you can to others. You will get their attention later, when it's your turn for help. The first day of June may not start in the way you wish, but by Monday this will not be the case. 117.

VIRGO—August 21-September 21

For the most part, this is a week of smooth sailing going into the new month which starts Saturday. In fact, Saturday itself will be favorable for you if you make the effort. Monday, however, may find you feeling kind of blue. 309.

LIBRA—September 22-October 20

Cosmically speaking, you should be on a natural "row" at the time of this reading. And the nice part of it is that this cosmic goodness is due to last into next week as well. You have no one to blame but yourself if you don't get ahead now. 478.

SCORPIO—October 21-November 21

You have a case in point this week where the last of the month should end on a strong note. And the beginning of the new month (Saturday the 1st) starts off on a strong note. In short, an easy transition to make things happen for you if you really want it. Look for someone from the past. 218.

SAGITTARIUS—November 22-December 21

This Thursday gives you a chance to show off your stuff in front of others. For the most part, the weekend is indicated as mild. It's really Sunday and Monday that these particular days should be outstanding in any attempts made. 401.

CAPRICORN—December 22-January 20

Try and not expect too much out of members of the opposite sex. This way, you won't be disappointed. But the bright side of things starts on the very first day of the new month...and picks up even more come Tuesday. 676.

AQUARIUS—January 21-February 19

The last days of May will find all your plans and schemes going the way you want. However, this will not be the case for the first day or two starting June. On the 3rd of the month you'll see a much better change. 173.

PISCES—February 20-March 20

Nothing really out of the ordinary is noted for the closing days of May. The start of June should go pretty nicely, for the most part. Do not let emotional upsets get the best of you on Monday. 729.

Pointers For Parents

When your child has a cold or hay fever, look for antihistamine/nasal decongestant products that are alcohol-free. That's healthier for your child, doctors say.

Children are more likely to take medication if it tastes good and is easy to swallow. Many doctors and pharmacists may recommend a pleasant-tasting syrup called Drixoral, from Schering Corporation. It has a wild cherry taste and is alcohol-free. In a taste-test, many pharmacists said they would prefer to give their own children this syrup over a comparable leading product. They say you can't buy more effective relief of nasal congestion due to colds, hay fever or sinusitis without a prescription.

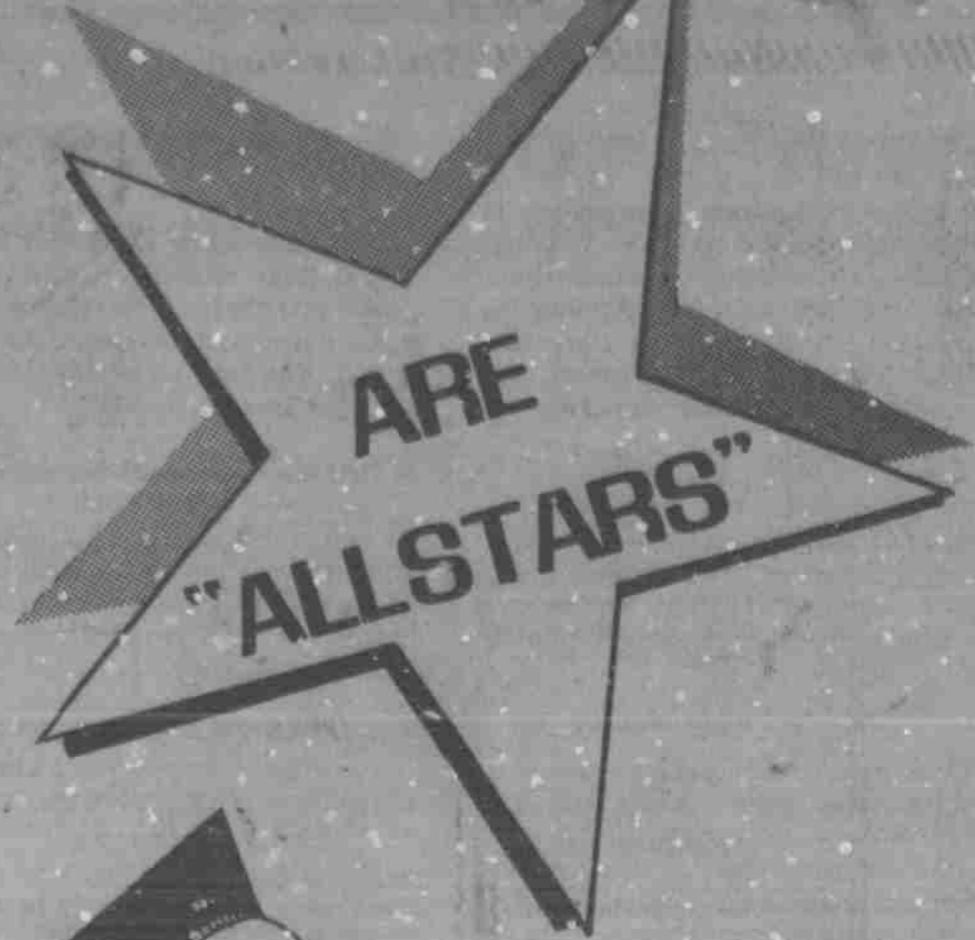

Read label directions carefully when giving medication to your children.

SUCCESSFUL CHILD CARE

Employer-Sponsored Child Care
By 1990 60% of American women will be employed outside the home. This will create increased demand for child care alternatives. One of the newest and most innovative solutions to the child care needs of working parents comes from business itself. Employer-sponsored child care has emerged as the fastest growing type of care today.

One employer, Kid-Care Learning Centers has helped pioneer employer-sponsored child care with its Kindercare program, launched in 1981. Today, it serves more than 100 companies with a flexible, benefits-based child care plan. Businesses can elect to operate on-site centers like the one at Campbell Soup in New Jersey, at Walt Disney World in Orlando—or companies can make an arrangement to pick up a part of the cost of their employee's child care at neighborhood Kindercare centers. Programs like these represent a partnership between business, parents and a care provider. The result can be quality child care at an affordable price. The advantages of employer-sponsored child care are many. At one major corporate headquarters, parents are able to drop in during employee breaks, feed their babies, tuck them in for a nap, lunch with them, read stories, etc. Employees see more satisfied workers, less absenteeism due to child care problems, and an increased atmosphere of cooperation between a concerned company and a happy employee.

Parents should check into the tax benefits given by the federal government for child care expenses.

FINANCIAL AID FUNDS

According to recent figures released by the College Board, financial aid for students in post secondary education is on the rebound. During the 1984-85 school year over $16 billion will be awarded to students from resources at the federal, state, and institutional levels. Although the administration is expected to seek cuts in loans and other financial aid programs to help lower the federal deficit, Congress recently allowed for an increase in student aid in the 1986 budget proposals. The good news then is that financial aid should continue to be available.

"We believe that for students to get their share of the financial aid pie they need to apply for the funds as early as possible," explained Mary Ann Johnson, Director of LEARN Educational Talent Search, an agency designed to promote continued education. "Most financial aid priority deadline dates are set between April 15 and June 15 which means that for students to have their files completed for the 1985-86 school year, they need to begin working on their forms in late January and early February. We encourage parents and students to complete their tax returns as early as possible since the tax returns are the primary documentation required for the completion of all financial aid forms," Ms. Johnson continued. Eligibility for student financial aid is influenced by many factors, such as family income, assets, size of the family, and the number of students enrolled in college. The Department of Education applies a uniform formula to each application to determine eligibility. In talking specifically about financial aid Ms. Johnson quoted, "We encourage most students and their parents to apply for financial aid because each family financial situation is

GREAT MOMENTS IN AMERICAN HISTORY
First Cuban-American General in National Guard

It was a great moment in American history when Colonel Ernesto A. Oliva was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General of the line in the District of Columbia National Guard.

Born in Havana, Cuba, Brigadier General Oliva is the first Cuban American to be promoted to General Officer rank in the National Guard.

Brigadier General Oliva began his military career in 1954, when he graduated from the Cuban Military Academy and was commissioned as a second lieutenant. CAR BUYER TIPS

RESALE

Seasoned car buyers count resale value among the main things they consider when shopping for a new car. An automobile, such as a Mercedes-Benz, which can reasonably be expected to have less-than-average depreciation, may very well be less expensive to own than a car with a lower initial price, but higher depreciation. The National Automobile Dealers Association publishes a used car price guide which your dealer should be willing to show you. This will give a good indication of what range of depreciation you can expect for various makes and models. There is one special point of caution if you're considering certain imported models, however.

In recent years a number of European-version cars have been imported for sale here in what is known as the "gray market." Though these look like the versions built by the factory expressly for U.S. sale, they differ mechanically and have had to undergo various modifications.

These modifications generally void warranty provisions and make the cars difficult to service. Further, as the NADA price guide points out in a warning note, "It is possible that many 'gray market' cars do not fully meet federal (safety and emission control) standards. This condition might result in a substantial lessening of the car's market value."

If you want to determine whether a car is a gray market unit, contact the authorized distributor for that make and give him the vehicle's identification number.

At one time boards could be worn in Romania only if the owner secured an official permit, and paid the appropriate fee.

May you always find success and happiness.

An Educator's Opinion
Helping Teenagers Help Each Other

Senior prom and graduation night. A time for friends and family and togetherness. A time for corsages and boutonnieres, for the tux and the gown and nostalgia and anticipation and celebration. Party time. And, too often, a time of tragedy.

The car and the bottle—a toxic mix. Teenage drunk driving has become a national epidemic, an epidemic that maims, scars, kills. The inebriated young driver makes the automobile a lethal weapon. In our nation's 15- to 13-year-old population, the leading cause of death is now alcohol-related motor vehicle accidents.

A survey of almost 47,000 teenagers conducted last year by the Institute for Highway Safety found that 25 percent of male teenagers over 15—and 14 percent of their female peers—regularly drink and drive. And more than 20 percent of these teens consider 70 miles per hour a safe cruising speed.

I find these statistics a source of anguish. I find myself haunted by a line from the British poet Siegfried Sassoon: You are too young to fall asleep forever. And I think, too, of the long struggle teachers wage to prepare students for fulfilling lives as perpetual learners. There is no learning after high-speed impact. I am saddened by the waste of talent, of potential, of humanity.

Then sadness and anguish give way to outrage. And I find myself questioning our society's glorification of the cocktail hour and our tolerant, or even amused, reaction to a friend who has "a few too many."

But I don't for a moment believe that my moral indignation will somehow halt this national disgrace, this drunk driving madness. The carnage will cease only when we develop a strategy of deterrence, and, fortunately, Congress has already begun to move new federal law—effective a year from October—requires all states to raise the legal drinking age to 21 or face a cut in federal highway subsidies. That's a beginning, but hardly an ultimate solution.

Richard Towers, director of alternative and supplementary programs for Maryland's

Montgomery County school district, insists that total community involvement offers the only real hope of curbing teen drinking and driving. Towers also reminds us that students themselves may be our most potent allies in the fight against drunk driving: Kids listen to kids.

One example: Two years ago a Montgomery County teenager drank too much, jumped in his car, and within moments caused an accident that left three people dead. As part of his sentence, the student was ordered to discuss his experience with other students. Today, at schoolwide assemblies throughout the state, this young man's teen audiences pay more-than-casual attention to his simple and straightforward warning: Don't drink and drive. Period.

A similar program is in place at Maryland's Glenelg High School, where NEA member Don White advises a group called Students Helping Other People (SHOP). SHOP works with teachers and parents to set up prom night telephone hotlines. SHOP activists leave flyers advertising this hotline on the windows of all student cars, and, on prom night, parent and teacher volunteers walk by the phone. If students have problems getting to or from the prom, or if they're traveling with someone who's drinking, they can call the hotline (no questions asked) and be assured of a safe ride.

Staff at Glenelg also pass out "contracts" to students attending proms. With these contracts, students make pledges to their dates: "This is a special evening for you and me. I will not ruin it by drinking and driving. I'm asking you to do the same thing."

I find that pledge inspiring. At its core is the kind of mutual respect and self-respect that may be precisely what our young people need to turn away from the self-destructiveness of drinking and driving. I'm confident that if we work to help young people develop that attitude of respectfulness and if we work with them to develop rules rooted in common sense, we can ensure that prom nights don't become nightmare mornings.
