A Letter To Parents Of Estacado High School Students - From Mr. David Vasquez, Principal

October 29, 2009

Dear Estacado Parents:

All of you should have received a letter from 1.1.S.D. Superintendent Mr. Wayne Havens this past veekend informing you that Estacado High School did not meet Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) for the No Child Left Behind Law. This is an informative letter and not a notice that Estacado will be closing as a school. I have received many phone calls asking if Estacado will be closed after this year. an assure you with absolute confidence that there are no plans to close Estacado High School.

Every year the federal government raises the bar for all schools to perform at a higher level and in many cases they are uncealistic in their requirements. Estacado High School is not against accountability as long as it is fair and attainable. This year all the high schools in Lubbock, Amarillo, Midland, and Odessa did not meet AYP. In my opinion this is more a problem with the accountability system han the schools.

In the letter from Mr. Havens Estacado students are allowed to transfer to another LISD school after conference with me in person. I just want to inform you that in the letter from Mr. Havens he also pointed out that all the other high schools in LISD also did not meet AYP. Currently Estacado High School has an enrollment of 844 students and that gives our teachers an opportunity to work more one on one with out students. This number also places us at the top of the AAA ladder, and this makes us very competitive in all UIL events. Losing students will only weaken our competitive edge.

Our parents and community are the best ambassadors of our school and I ask you to be our advocates and help stop the rumor. With your support and encouragement we can make Estocado High School the best school in LISD.

If you have any questions please feel free to call me at 766-1339 or come by for a visit,

Sincerely, Signed by David J. Vasquez

LISD Campuses Awarded 101 Gold Performance Awards by TEA

Thirty-nine Lubbock ISD campuses, representing 74 percent of LISD schools evaluated, awarded Gold Performance Acknowledgements (GPA) by the Texas Education Agency. The 101 GPAs received this year almost doubles the 60 awards earned in 2007.

The GPA indicators, determined by the Texas Education Code or by the commissioner of education, it clude high performance in one or more of fourteen areas. Among the indicators are: comparable improvement in Reading/English Language Arts Mathematics, commended performance in Reading/ELA, Mathematics, Writing, Science or Social Studies, and attendance rates. When compared with the state average, LISD vois higher in the percentage of commended performance scores in writing, science, and social studies. Campuses receive a GPA for commended performance when 25% or more of examinees score at or above the Assessment Knowledge and Skills (TAKS) commended standard. LISD was at or above the state average in "comparable improvement" for reading/ELA and Comparable improvement calculates how student performnce on the TAKS test has grown (or changed) from one Continue on Page 8

"Is Lubbock Racist?

Carey Gillam wrote: "Two weeks before an election that could install the first black U.S. president, scattered ugly incidents have reflected a deep residue of racism among some segments of white America.

A cardboard likeness of Barack Obama was found strong from fishing wire at a university, the Democratic president nominee's face was depicted on mock food stamps, the body of a black bear was left at another university with Obama posters attached to it.

Though the incidents are sporadic and apparently isolated, they stirred up memories of the violent racial past of a country were segregated and lynching's ended within the past 50 years.

And some feared that Obama could be a target for people who reject him on racial grounds alone. The Illinois senator has a big following in many sections of Americans, from liberal to conservatives, black and white, poor and wealthy."

For some of those people that symbolizes the end of the world as they know it."

In the Saturday, November 01, 2008 Lubbock Avalanche-Journal we were afford the opportunity though YOUR VIEWS (EXPANDED FOR ELECTION LETTERS) to see racial snake likeness in some of the people who live among us.

There were no less than 14 articles that spewed the venom of racial hatred toward Barack Obama, while challenging the intellect of those who look like them for considering the support of an African American for president of the United States.

It is sad that we live in a city with people who have so much hatred for African Americans. People with such meanest in their hearts for African Americans should realize by now African Americans are not going anywhere! African Americans are part of the landscape and the actions and treatment of people toward them will be rewarded in kind!

These evil people need to understand that the other grandsons of Biblical HAM are holdon the throne and African Racist white Americans can take these words to the heavenly bank! Your sins will find you OUT!

On another note! Let me encourage African American males of Lubbock to step up to the plate and be responsible. Quit letting the Criminal Justice System financially prostitute you. The criminal justice system is designed to keep you in slavery. Remember, slavery comes in many different forms. Obey the law and go to school and obtain an education.

Explorin Committee Se For Community College

Amando Gonzales announced that a 13 member committee has been formed holding college classes in East Lubbock.

Many East Lubbock youth would be able to pursue vocational study and higher education if there were a closer venue for classes.

Earlier this year, Gonzales conducted a town hall meeting at Estacado High School where nearly 100 people were in attendance.

The committee will meet next week.

It is hard to believe that another year has almost passed and we are approaching 2009! 1 are grateful for all the Lord has brought me through this past year and look forward with great anticipation for what He has in store for me in the new year. Have we really taken time to express our thanks to God for His blessings of the past year?

God has personally brought us through so much over the passed years and we are sograteful. However, until our relationships are restored with those we love and those who misunderstand us, we cannot stop praying and believing for restoration.

In the hustie and bustle of When you learn how to every day life, it is easy to forget to properly thank God for all that He does for us. The seemingly endless list of chores to do, places to go, carpools to drive and children to tend to take up all our time and energy. We fall into bed exhausted, perhaps mumbling a quick prayer

When Turned Down For A Business Loan. Turn To A Business Grant

Columbus, OH - If you've applied for a business loan in the last six months, its a strong possibility that you were denied even if you have good credit. This is because the current economic times have forced banks to be super cautious towards all loan applicants, even if you appear to be responsible.

This is even worse news for minorities who have always found it difficult to obtain business and personal loans from financial institutions. In this regard, many have turned to business grants as a solution. In 2008 alone, $360 billion dollars in grant money was awarded and more than 25% of that was given to individuals who wanted to start or expand a business.

Though many grant programs have been eliminated or reduced by corporations and government agencies, there are still plenty of opportunities available

Jennifer Hudson Suspect Had June Drug Arrest

SPRINGFIELD, III. (AP) - The convicted telon suspected in the slayings of Oscar-winner Jennifer Fludson's mother. brother and nephew was arrested after police allegedly found crack cocame in his car in June, but authorities declined to return him to prison on a parole violation, according to documents obtained by The Associated

A judge dismissed the charge for lack of probable cause in July, but under the strict rules of the state's parole program, William Balfour could have gone back to prison just for the

No one has been charged in the shooting deaths of Hudson's mother, Damell Donerson, her brother, Jason Hudson, and 7year-old nephew Julian King, but Balfour has been named as a suspect. Chicago Police Superintendent Jody Weis said Tuesday he is confident the case will be solved. Balfour - Julian's stepfather and the estranged husband of Hudson's sister - served seven years for attempted murder and vehicular hijacking. Court records show that in 1998 Balfour stole a Chevrolet Suburban and, with the vehicle's owner clinging to the top, intentionally rammed it into a light pole, fence and iron gate.

According to a Chicago police report, officers pulled Balfour over June 19 after hearing gunshots and seeing his car moving at a high rate of speed. Inside the vehicle, police said, they found a rock of cocaine with a street value of about $100 on the driver's seat.

Balfour's . "carole history report indicates a parole supervisor declined to issue a warrant to revoke Balfour's parole after his arrest for possession of

"Per supervisor ... no warrant," the report reads. "Agent to monitor offender, impose sanc-

Corrections Department pokesman Derek Schnapp Lid officials determined "the evidence that was presented during that time wouldn't have necessarily warranted a violation."

Court records do not indicate the reason a judge found no probable cause for the drug arrest.

A felony arrest usually is Laough for Corrections to revoke parole, said Thomas Peters, a Chicago criminal defense attorney who represents parolees.

"Even though the criminal case is dismissed does not mean that you necessarily get a pass on a parole violation because the standard of proof is much less," Peters said.

Peters added, however, that officials also would have considered Balfour's fairly clean record as a parolee and that he apparently still had a job. In addition, he said, jail and prison overcrowding often play a role in determining whether parole is revoked.

Donerson, 57, and Jason Hudson, 29, were found in their home Friday afternoon. The body of Julian, who lived with the other victims, was found in the back of an SUV on Chicago's West Side on Monday. Authorities declared his death a homicide Tuesday but would not say how long he had been dead.

In a message posted on her MySpace.com page Monday, Julian's mother thanked people for their prayers and said her son's "lil soul is at ease."

"I take comfort in knowing that Julian is with my mother and my brother and most of all the Lord and now he's my angel he's protecting," Julia Hudson

Jennifer Hudson, who won a best-supporting-actress Oscar last year for "Dreamgirls," has thanked fans for their support on her MySpace page but has been in seclusion in Chicago.

Around the time the first bodies were found, Balfour's parole agent had reached him by phone after Balfour missed a meeting with him that day. Balfour told the agent he was "baby-sitting on the West Side of Chicago," according to internal parole records.

The agent said he thought he heard a child in the background during the call. Balfour was taken into custody later Friday.

The Illinois Department of Corrections issued a warrant for Balfour on Saturday for violating terms of his parole by possessing a weapon and failing to attend anger management counseling and a substance abuse program, according to his parole history report.

Criminal charges can send parolees back to prison and keep them there even if the counts are ultimately dropped. A board that reviews such cases after parolees are sent back to prison relies on a preponderance of the evidence, a lower standard than in court. The board considers the violence of the original crime, the parole agent's recommendation, the arrest report, the parolee's adjustment and his attitude during a follow-up interview in prison, among other

In Balfour's case, a violation could have sent him back behind bars for a period as long as the remainder of his parole - until May 2009 - minus a day off for each day of good behavior. That would have meant a release date in mid-December at the Parole records also show that a woman at Balfour's home refused to open the door during an agent's visit on Aug. 27. The woman told the agent during the 8:30 a.m. visit that Balfour was at work but Balfour's boss told the agent he wasn't due until

"Agent heard other people inside the host site and suspected maybe suspicious activities going on," the report said. "Agent will be following up for a possible warrant on parolee."

Parolees must agree to allow. agents to visit their homes and consent to searches.

"The Black Press: Toward Excellence"

by Eddie P. Richardson

The Black Press Was born our out of and from protest -- protest against slavery, discrimination, segregation, lynching, disenfranchisement, rape, character assassinations, and an imending variety of cruelties perpetrated against us by our oppressor, and such heinous acts have always. been applauded and ograstated rate of magazines these days it by the white media ever since

The Rev Samuel Cornish and John Russwuem published on March 16, 1827. The Freedoms Journal., the first Black newspaper in America. Black print media has historically survived political oppression, social and economic repressions against our printed word in any form. Yet, the Black Press still survives and is on the threshold of excellence. Take a look at the variety of new Black publications, journals, magazines and newspapers that adorns the newsstands across the nation. they are alive vibrant with information and entailment specifically tailored for black folks. Especially, the magazines are emerging stronger despite a few stillborn run-of-the-millvaevery year.

Today's Black publications have more variety than that of lived predecossers, because we, Blacks as assanition, have become a better educated,sclf-reliant people proud of our African heritage and our unique contributations to the American civiliza-Inspite of the high morality is clear that the Black press is getting better organized since it's entering new phase-the highly competive and sophisticated because magazines are not just concerned with factual reporting alone. They go beyond that that by capturing and defining concepts and trends in our society.In fact,Black magazines are holding up the mirror to our society and the environment in which we live .The image that are reflected in this mirror are our own. Most of the time these images are flattering to our ego don't bacome complacent. At other times these reflections are disturbing; but don't be dissapointed and break the mirror. Keep on looking into it,and it will open up wonderful vistas for our future. Treasure the riety of magazines are born magazines as true records of our past and present history in the making of aviliant indestructible race. Although the general Black publications with sound philosophical moorings are harbingers of Black resurgence/renaissance, some of the new breed of specialized publications entering the newsstands are spurious, destructive violent, vulgar and dispectiable.

I, Eddie P Richardson and the Southwest Digest totally renounce these destructive offensive materials both print and electronic(blogs-my space etc)in our dominion such trash either in print or electronic form are fragmenting the unity of Blacks and others by dividing our audiences and confining them to fantasy cubicals. These types of activities serve the function peep movies in red light districts, the publishers and promoters and producers of these activities are no more than money hungry money grabbing vultures. On the other hand ,these faddist/cultist are clearly underraining the family creating a wedge between man and woman children and parents, body and soul. We recommend you shun mushroom crop of activities.But otherwise,the Black Press and the Black Magazine in particular are heading toward excellence in quality and contents.

By now the votes are counted and America knows who the next President of the United States is supposed to be. We all realized weeks before the election what they told us what the polls were saying about who was projected to win the election. We all know that polls are not always accurate and could have a result like the one where the newspaper headlines gave the election to Thomas E. Dewey in 1948 as the winner when actually it was Harry S.

Truman in a close race. A prediction as to who the winner would be even if polls are accurate, would have been very difficult because of the numerous reports of vote tampering; outright theft which was reported in several states during early voting. Voters cried out for police and other government officials as they claimed that back. they cast a vote for one car didate and it registered the vote for their opponent. We thought we heard about voter fraud during the last two presidential elections, the reports this time will probably take up more news than the aftermath of Katrina and the other devastating storms. Expect the Obama tornado and/or the Palin northerner. We may expect the aftershock to be like the one behind an earthquake measuring 10 on the Richter Scale.

Anyway this election ended, there are a lot of bitter citizens and ones who somehow have the notion that one man or woman decides the only direction of this country, when there are 535 members of Congress which we also elect to decide the fate of this country. There are 100 voting Senators and 435 voting Representatives. They are the ones who really make the choices and appropriate the money for what the Federal Government decides to do. About the only thing that the President can do without Congress is command military troops to go someplace, but he still needs Congress to get them

Our government also has a Check and Balance System which involves the three branches of the government; Legislative Branch which is Congress: Executive Branch which is the President and the Justice Department which is the Supreme Court. Each branch needs the help of the other to get anything done in the government. Knowing this, as good citizens, we need to get 'in cinque' pray and help to keep an orderly neighborhood and accept whatever decisions have been made about the election.
