Lubbock Community Choir Faces Crisis Period!!

Because of a deep concern for the Lubbock Community Radio Choir ministry, it needs the community's help. The members and officers of the choir are asking the community to help them by giving a special offering to this choir during the month of July.

The crisis, according to Samuel Curtis, director, is that FCC has granted Southwestern Bell permission to increase their rates. The increase imposed upon us is to the tune of 84%, which means the cost of telephone service for the Lubbock Community Broadcast Choir has jumped from $49.00 per month to $400.00 per month and better.

"In addition to this increase," according to Rev. S. C. Nash, trustee and pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, "Southwestern Bell has made it retro-active through March of 1985. That means we (Lubbock Community Radio Choir) owe $1,129.26 for the increase from March until now. This amount, we must pay by the end of July."

In addition to paying this back rate and a regular monthly rate of $400.00 to Southwestern Bell, the choir still must pay $100.00 per Sunday to the radio station, KJAK, for air-time.

The alternative, according to Rev. Nash, to paying $400.00 per month for telephone service is to make a one time purchase of a "Microwave Transmitter" at the cost of $1,500.00.

All of this means that by the last of July, 1985, the Lubbock Radio Choir must raise $3,500.00 to keep this ministry alive. We can measure the good, the blessings brought to others, through this broadcast ministry.

"The sick and shut-ins; those who are behind prison bars; those who work on Monday, and many who are lost benefit from the broadcast," continued Rev. Nash.

The offering is needed as soon as possible, so please make checks payable to: The Lubbock Community Radio Choir, P. O. Box 957, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Sister Roberta Thompson, promoter; Samuel Curtis, director; Marilyn Cole, secretary; and Rev. S. C. Nash, host pastor and trustee.

Killer Still At Large!

Mrs. Luella Scott

There has to be someone in the community who knows something about the killing of longtime resident Mrs. Luella Scott. In a few weeks, it will be two years since this brutal act happened in our community.

If you know anything which will help this case, let the Lubbock Police Department know about it. Just a small clue maybe the necessary information to put this puzzle together. No about about, sooner or later, this person or persons will be caught. Will you help??

Montford Named To Texas Sunset Commission

Assistant Governor Bill Hobby recently announced the appointment of State Senator John T. Montford to positions on the Texas Sunset Commission and the Texas Legislative Council. These appointments are in addition to Senator Montford's regular committee assignments as Chairman of the Subcommittee on Water, member of the Standing Committee on Economic Development, Jurisprudence and Natural Resources. The Sunset Commission reviews state agencies for efficiency in use of funds and carrying out the mandates of the Legislature. The Texas Legislative Council is the major research and legal staff agency of the Legislature. During the next two years several major state agencies will be reviewed by the Sunset Commission including the Department of Corrections, the Board of Pardons and Paroles, the Adult Probation Commission, the Juvenile Probation Commission, the Department of Human Services and the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. "I am pleased the Governor Hobby appointed me to the Sunset Commission when we will review such major state agencies like the prison system and our criminal justice agencies. This gives me a unique opportunity to have direct input into the way our criminal justice agencies are operated," Senator Montford said. "Also, it is important that we will review the two major social service agencies, the Department of Human Resources and the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation."

back to the states in the area of social services, we need to take a close look at the way Texas handles this problem," Montford said. The Sunset Commission will meet during the interim between regular sessions of the Legislature to study in detail these state agencies and then make recommendations and draft legislation for the next regular session of the Texas Legislature. If they are not continued or changed by the Legislature, those state agencies who are up for sunset review will go out of existence on September 1, 1987.

BRAINWASHING

Brainwashing! Can you be brainwashed? The following letter is very interesting.

Dear Dr. Faulkner:

Last night a neighbor told me that one of the cults had "kidnapped" her son and brainwashed him right on the street. Now he won't come home and won't communicate with her. I don't believe it. I don't think that anybody can be made to do anything against their will. Do you? She also said that churches brainwash people just like the cults do. I don't believe that either. Please answer. Clara A. Detroit

Dear Clara:

Your letter requires several columns in order for me to provide an understandable answer. So, let's get started. The major cults have mastered the art of brainwashing and, frankly, are capable of enticing even the most intelligent person to join.

The interesting thing is that they do recruit their members from the street. When you consider that people are regularly motivated, enticed, tricked, conned, or manipulated into spending thousands of dollars to purchase an item that they do not need or want, you can see how easy it is to manipulate people into joining an organization.

Brainwashing is a sophisticated science and many techniques are used on radio, television, and in newspapers. People tend to think everyone else can be brainwashed, but not themselves. The cults have the basic objective of bypassing the individual's reasoning ability and making her/him accept their philosophy without examining it. To do this, they prey upon the average person's need for direction and search for advice.

Based upon the assumption that most people are insecure and in search of someone to help them find happiness, cults set up their recruiting operations on busy, downtown streets or in any heavily-traveled areas. As the potential recruit walks by, a well-trained cult member will speak to her/him. The recruiter from the cult greets the prospective member with a friendly statement or a harmless question. He might ask, "Isn't it a beautiful day?" Or he might compliment the individual by saying, "That's an attractive outfit that you are wearing." He might make a remark which indicates an assumption about the individual, "You seem somewhat depressed today."

The idea is to get you to respond and, then, engage you in conversation. This leads into the "salespitch." Remember, the cults use the same sophisticated selling procedures that are used by the finest salespeople in any field of endeavor. The difference is that they also implant powerful suggestions into the subconscious. The entire program of the cult is not sold to you during this brief meeting. But will be sold to you at the meeting that you are being asked to attend.

For now, however, you will probably be told about the wonderful benefits that the recruiter has experienced in the organization, "my life has changed immensely," or "two years ago, I was depressed just as you are until I became a member of this wonderful organization."

Next, you are asked about your personal life or your philosophy about life, "do you have any children?" Or, "do you attend church often?" This is a nice patriotic question that any "good" American would easily answer. The recruiter keys in on your interests or needs. If you have no real psychological needs, he will create one for you. But he never provokes an argument. The recruiter is always friendly and agreeable.

You are then invited to dinner or to a lecture. It all seems so harmless. But, make no mistakes about it, when you arrive at the meeting you will be isolated from your friends. Then, the real indoctrination takes place.

Oh, Your Aching Back - And How The Right Mattress Can Help You

"Oh, my aching back!" Sooner or later, everybody says something like those words. Studies show virtually everyone suffers some sort of back pain during the course of his or her lifetime. Ironically, say doctors, the beds that many in pain hobble to and collapse into for relief can often make things worse.

About 90 percent of all back problems are related to muscles and ligaments, says Dr. Joseph Fetto, an orthopedic surgeon at NYU Medical Center in New York.

"Our posture, except for when we are lying down, is maintained primarily by muscles and ligaments. It's only when we are lying down that the body has a chance to relax these muscles," explains Dr. Fetto. That's why a firm mattress is important. While sleeping, you want to provide the maximum amount of rest to those muscles and avoid any stress and strain.

If a mattress is too soft, your back muscles will be working hard all night trying to maintain the normal posture of the back. If you suspect your mattress may be letting you down, these simple tips can tell you Backaches? Your mattress may be letting you down. If it sags, it's too tired to offer firm support.

1. Look for an indentation or a sag in the middle.
2. Do you feel like you are falling into the mattress? The structure of the bed has probably failed.

If you've decided you need a new mattress, shop around. According to the experts at Arco Chemical, which supplies chemicals used to make polyurethane foam for the bedding industry, there are three basic types of bedding available today: innerspring, polyurethane foam and waterbeds.

Polyurethane foam mattresses offer very even support because of the open-cell nature of the foam. Even many innerspring producers are now using a topping layer of foam on their mattresses to give the surfaces a softer and smoother feel. Some people are placing foam mattresses atop regular boxsprings or platform foundations - the best supports for minimizing back pain - or are making foam mattresses with top and bottom layers of soft foam around a firm core. Anyone buying a foam mattress, advise experts, should insist on a polyurethane polymer density of 1.8 lbs. per cu. ft. or higher for durable support and comfort. When shopping, lie on the mattress, roll around on it to be sure it's right for you. The position in which you sleep can also contribute to back pain. Lying on your back is least stressful; lying on your stomach puts the most strain on your back.

Dilemma of Reaganomic Demagoguery: To Tax or Not to Tax Is Not the Question

The foul odor originating from the Nation's Capital comes from the White House. With the defense budget flushed from its bowels both Congress and the administration having strained to spray it all over the general public, President Reagan's tax proposal particularly flushes it on the Senator Hart supporters "Yuppies" gourmet table who will shortly be asking "what's this s---?" Well it's the check and it still stinks. Some readers of my past columns will remember my earlier columns that the middle-class of America would also be made to pay for continued increases in defense business and cuts in necessary public service programs.

Principal income brackets which will receive an increase in taxes under the President's tax proposal increase is in the dual income $50,000 to $200,000 category. Primary tax relief is in the upper income rich brackets which include Mr. Reagan, Mr. Bush and other multimillionaires who make more than $200,000 a year from a single salary. Since the President of the United States base salary is $200,000, it's clear the President put his faith in God up front. "The Lord helps those that help themselves." - first. Upper-income taxpayers would get a big marginal rate cut. The President's tax bracket would drop the most drastically from 50% down to 35% by a scandalous practical third. The tax burden for those earning over $200,000 a year would actually decrease according to the U. S. Treasury Department data. While those families with incomes falling between $30,000 and $300,000 will be footing a larger part of the actual tax payments under the President's tax plan.

Poor people are expected to scatter to the winds, shell-shocked from still more social service cuts. Continuity between the poor and middle-poor income Democratic party members is expected to crack. Divide and conquer is still the rule for the ruling party. Pitting Black Americans and other people against the formerly Democratic voting "Yuppie" is an additional bonus for the conservative slickers.

Since Black Americans are still licking their wound from the damage done to them during Reagan's first term, they are unlikely to rally around a "Yuppie" hero to help lower yuppie income taxes. The "Yuppie", young, upward professional persons, spending on frivolous flings, frighten Black Americans who know the meaning of true suffering in America.

In the past five years, Black American children have been the lone recipient of Ronald Reagan's racist government policies. Reagan's elected years have resulted in twice as many Black American children as whites to be born prematurely to suffer low birth weight; to have Black American children as whites to be born prematurely to suffer low birth weight; to have their mothers receive late or no prenatal care; to see a parent die; to live in substandard housing; to be unemployed as teenagers; to have no parents employed and to live in a mental or penal institution.

The price has been high and paid by Black and poor America for a would "B" John Wayne-type actor in the White House. He never fooled nor entertained the Black American voting public. Perhaps the white middle Americans who deserted the democratic theatre for the Hamlet like actor will feel the show was worth it, since the conservatives are damn sure going to collect from them as they try to get away from the smelling table.

Mr. Reagan, Square With the World—We Are Not At Peace!

President Reagan constantly emphasizes that we are at peace, not war, and that he is for a nuclear freeze. The Center for Defense Information (CDI) disagrees with Mr. Reagan's rhetoric. Congress gave its loudest applause during the President's '84 State of the Union message when he said, "Nuclear war cannot be won, and must never be fought." Yet, both the United States and the Soviet Union are engaged in a huge arms race which increases the danger of a nuclear holocaust.

Since Ronald Reagan came on the political scene, he has opposed every nuclear arms control agreement. He opposed the above-ground nuclear testing treaty negotiated by President Kennedy, the Non-Proliferation Treaty negotiated by President Johnson, the SALT I Agreement and the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty by President Nixon, the SALT II understanding reached by President Ford and Brezhnev and he opposed U.S. Senate ratification of the SALT II Treaty signed by President Carter. Reagan is the only president since President Truman who has accomplished nothing in reduction of the threat of a nuclear war.

The Center for Defense Information (CDI) admits that the Russians have always been difficult negotiators. Yet, previous presidents have been able to negotiate agreements with them. CDI says "Ronald Reagan, who opposed every nuclear arms control agreement before he entered the White House, is clearly not trying very hard for other agreements now that he is president. It is also clear that President Reagan will not negotiate seriously with a nation he has referred to in speeches as "an evil empire, and the focus of evil in the world."

CDI emphasizes that the United States is playing war games. In nearly every corner of the world, the United States is practicing fighting conventional and nuclear wars against the Soviet Union. These include mock land, sea, and air battles fought on or near every continent. In the past few years, the U.S. has expanded both size and scope of its war games in the Third World. The frequent war games are intended to pressure unfriendly governments as well as bolster our ability to fight in the Third World.

Annually, the U.S. conducts numerous military exercises, which provides training for over 500,000 U.S. troops.

We have war games in Western Europe and South Korea. The U.S. has 360,000 troops in Europe and 40,000 in South Korea. These will automatically draw the United States into any major conflict of these countries. The war game scenario used in these two regions position an attack by the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies or North Korea. This attributes reckless aggressive actions to countries which have traditionally, particularly the Soviet Union, displayed much more cautious behavior. The Vietnam War proved that military intervention in the Third World is a costly and ineffective means of solving the conflict.

These war games that deploy thousands of U.S. military troops in foreign countries have political implications. President Reagan argues that these games are bound to have a positive political effect. He assumes that any future war in the world will result from Soviet aggression. The president feels that these war games will deter Soviet aggression and reassure friendly governments. Because of U.S. intervention in the Middle East and Central America as well as Soviet military intervention in countries, world opinion does not view these war games as benevolent. War games in the Third World will quite likely cause a political backlash. Egypt, Oman and Somalia restricted media coverage when war games were conducted in those countries for fear of being charged with cooperating with the U.S. military. These charges could severely undermine support for the government both at home and in other Arab countries. U.S. war games in Central America tend to isolate the U.S. from other friendly governments.

CDI concludes that U.S. war games demonstrate both the global scale and military character of U.S. commitments, revealing an overreliance on military measures instead of a more constructive foreign policy. War games in the Middle East and Central America are provocative and undermine resolution of the problems in political and economic ways. These war games do not focus on defense of the U.S., but on fighting wars far from home—particularly in the Third World. CDI says "U.S. war games are designed to improve our ability to fight and win a nuclear war. The danger is that we might gain false confidence in our ability to prevail in a nuclear war and thus reduce essential efforts to avert that calamity."

There are 41 wars going on in the world today—and we are supplying military weapons to all of them (the U.S. is the major supplier to 20 of these). So we are not at peace—but are engaging in war if only by being an accessory to the fact.

CHILD WATCH

By Marian Wright Edelman

Children Showing the Way

The situation was enough to fluster any grown-up: A Capitol Hill committee room filled with reporters, rows of television cameras and bright lights.

But fourteen-year-old Clair Malouff was not intimidated. Facing a panel of United States Senators, she said clearly, "We want you to represent us on the situation in Africa. We want you to come through with our aid. It's your job, we hired you, and I don't feel we're asking too much."

Malouff and several other courageous youngsters came to Washington recently, under the auspices of Save the Children, an international charitable organization, to testify before the Senate Children's Caucus about their efforts to help feed starving children in Africa. They told about their fundraising activities in their schools and churches, showed photographs of children they have helped, and shared some youthful wisdom about the problems of poverty—and their solution.

These were not the children of the wealthy. Among them were blacks, Native Americans, and other children of low-income families. To find money to send food to Africa, "these children have reached very deep into very shallow pockets," noted David L. Guyer, President of Save the Children. In total, American schoolchildren have given over $300,000 in carefully saved nickels and dimes to the organization's African Emergency Fund. "I may be poor but I got something to give them, even if I just got 40¢," said 13-year-old Luz Ramos from New York City.

These children came to Washington to urge their President to match their own commitment. Youngsters planned to meet with Vice-President Bush to ask about his recent trip to Africa. "We raised $1,300 in a Walk-a-Thon," said 16-year-old Luke Vadas of Homestead High School of Miami. "And we want to know what he has done for the kids that need everyone's help."

The children told the lawmakers that shipments of food alone will not solve Africa's problem. They need "long-term plans," said 14-year-old Lance Arthur Polingyou of Kykotsmvi, Arizona. "Money should be set aside for research into farming techniques and development from the countries. Our governments could get together so we could help one another."

Unfortunately, a set of grown-up-devised aid restrictions are now complicating efforts to get more U.S. food aid to starving Africans. As Sen. Christopher Dodd (D-CT), the Children's Caucus Co-Chairman has observed, "I know that untangling such restrictions may not be easy. But neither was it easy for children living in the poorest families and poorest communities in this country to raise enough money to feed thousands of villagers in Ethiopia."

As advocates for their fellow children in Africa, these youngsters showed dedication, intelligence and courage. We must show the same qualities in fighting for their interests here at home. They have given us an excellent example.

SMALL BUSINESS ANGLE

by John Sloan

SMALL BUSINESS EXPECTS STRONG SECOND QUARTER

The nation's economy will grow at a rate of 4 to 5 percent in the second quarter, according to a survey conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business.

The NFIB survey of more than 2,000 small- and independent-business owners predicts a strong growth in employment, no significant rise in inflation and perhaps some price reductions in the next three to six months.

Small-business owners are still bullish on the American economy. The NFIB Small-Business Optimism Index remained unchanged from the first quarter, the sixth highest level recorded since 1978.

The only dark spot is the impact of the strong dollar on American exports. The strength of the dollar also affects the ability of U.S. manufacturers to compete with foreign goods in the domestic market.

These two elements of the economic picture combined to produce a lower than anticipated growth in gross national product in the first quarter and are expected to retard growth in the second three months of the year. Despite this continuing problem, small business is expected to lead the nation to a spring quarter of 4 to 5 percent growth in GNP, a rate which is brisk by historic standards.

Just as small business is compensating for the trade woes of the larger firms by producing exceptional growth in the "domestic national product," small firms are offsetting employment shrinkage by larger firms. Small business posted another net gain in the workforce in the first quarter of 1985, and it appears small companies will repeat that performance in the second quarter. Small-firm employment should increase at a 3 percent annual rate, enough to nudge the unemployment rate down one- or two-tenths of a percentage point in July.

Entrepreneurial business continues to be the main source of new jobs in America. MIT Professor David Birch has found that over half of the net new jobs created between 1969 and 1976 were in independent businesses, most of which were companies with fewer than 100 employees and businesses less than five years old.

Professor Peter Drucker has produced studies which show that between 1981 and 1983—in the worst days of the recession—the Fortune 500 companies lost a total of three million

Ask Aunt Dee Dee

DEAR AUNT DEE DEE:
Keith and I are madly in love, but neither of us is quite ready for marriage. I just turned 18 and he's 22. But since we both work, we have decided to live together. I feel quite strongly about this. Since my religion looks down on divorce, I want it to be for keeps.

When I do get married... My parents are outraged and say that if we really loved each other, we would get married before we live together.

they think their son is getting involved with - if you get Aunt Dee Dee's drift.

DEAR AUNT DEE DEE:

When I agreed to marry Clarence a couple weeks ago, I had no idea what heartache that decision would bring me. We have been dating for a couple of years, but never during that time did he ever indicate that he expected me to move into a new place with him after we got married.

His reasoning is that we should begin our life together in a home without past memories, his or mine. The thought of moving is more than I can bear.

PERPLEXED SINGLE: Aunt Dee Dee wonders just what the two of you talked about when you were dating. Clarence's reasoning, though quite logical, does not take into consideration your feelings. And somehow, Aunt Dee Dee fails to understand how moving into a new house would leave your college age children without a home - unless, of course, Clarence has in mind a studio apartment.

Aunt Dee Dee gets the impression that your present home is more important to you than

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

The members and friends of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast met last Saturday in the lovely home of Delbert and Dorothy Hood at 8:15 a. m. The meeting was blessed to all in attendance. President Juanita Sewell.

Opening devotion and business was conducted. The scripture for the morning was Mark 11:22-26.

The morning scripture lesson was taught by Sister Raymond Poppers. Her subject was "Release of God's Spirit Through Prayer." The scriptures were Acts 6:4; John 15:7; Matthew 6:27; 18-19; Proverbs 4:28; 1 John 3:22; Isaiah 33:3; 1 John 1:9.

Acts 6:4 - "But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word."

This teacher said: "Our prayer time corresponds to how we love the Lord. Continue in an attitude of prayer abides in him and he in you, then ask for what you want. One of the rules with the Romans was: you couldn't kick him or bar of your will. Once he was placed on will. He stayed for life. It was different with your blood child."

You see, we are adopted children of God, and we are on that will forever. Isn't that wonderful. Jesus Christ will be the soul executor of that will to see that all his children receive their share. 1 John 3:22.

Whatever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments.

Read all the scriptures. We truly want to know the five secrets to answered prayer.

This dedicated Christian woman is truly a Bible teacher. She was a blessing on Saturday. She's also a blessing to this community with her Bible ministry. We love her. God's people are preparing themselves to rise up to meet the challenge. July 15-28, this lady will be in Israel.

More information will be in next week's report. Be at the meeting or send your prayer request Saturday or call them in. We are concerned about you. Let us help! Through this faith filled Christian woman.

Thoughts: I. We never solve our problems by lowering our standards.

"We Thank God For Jesus"
Lord, if I Can't Give It Up, I'm Hell Bound

by Billy "B.J." Morrison, III

Mark 5:5 - Always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying and cutting himself with stones. (Trying to kill himself, slow - death)

Lord, I at one time was like that man, Damaging myself; drinking, smoking, cursing, doing everything in the land.

Lord, I had demons in me; how many I don't know. But they tormented me everywhere I go.

Lord, I've seen them kill people; it's a disease in me.

But I'll kill them first; then I'll be free.

Romans 6:23 - For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Lord, I'm tired; and I've tried smoking them out with cigarettes.

But they only ask for more, and now I can't quit. (Sin hazardous to your health; so take it to the Lord in prayer.)

Lord, I've tried to kill them with alcohol, but it's not to be. I only wake up with headaches and in misery! (Sin hazardous to your health; so take it to the Lord in prayer!)

II Corinthians 6:16 - What agreement hath the temple of God with idols? For ye are the temple of the Living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Lord, I've tried cursing them out and it did them no harm.

I only filther my mouth with my tongue. (Sin hazardous to your health; so take it to the Lord in prayer!)

Hoses 6:1; 10-13 - Come, and let us return unto the Lord; for he hath torn, and he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up.

Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; brake up your fallow ground (Repent); for it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

Matthew 11:28 - Jesus said: Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Lord, I tried everything! But going down on my knees, A voice inside me said - "Try Jesus, and you'll be well pleased."

Lord, I called on you, Thanks for hearing my prayers. Satan checked out and Christ Jesus now dwells there.

Revelation 3:20 - Jesus said: Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door (heart), I will come into him; and will sup with him, and he with me.

John 8:32 - Jesus said: Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make ye free.

"Lord, I can now truly say Free At Last; Free At Last; Thank God Almighty; I'm Free At Last!"

II Corinthians 5:17 - Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away (worldly things); behold, all things are become new.

who love you.

"Let's Pray"

Lord, today we thank you for the power that's in your word. Help us to speak it out with boldness against problems out there that are hindering your children. If so many ways, we bind the author of these problems, in the name of Jesus. We pray. AMEN.

We thank you for your donations and prayers. Let us hear from you this week. Send that prayer request in. They will be carried thousands of miles and prayed over by way of God's people so you may get relief now. Closing prayer was offered by Sister Raymond Poppers.

We believe that (a) there is a radical and essential difference between the righteous and the wicked; (b) that such only as through faith are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and sanctified by the Spirit of our God, are truly righteous in His esteem; (c) while all such as continue in impotence and unbelief are in His sight wicked, and under the curse; (d) and this distinction holds among men both in and after death; in the everlasting felicity of the saved and the everlasting conscious suffering of the lost.

THE RIGHTEOUS AND THE WICKED

Memory Verse: Gal. 3:10

The difference between the Righteous and the Wicked, is not because of their works, but because of God's mercy and grace. A good illustration of this may be found in the two thieves that were crucified with Christ. They were both thieves and deserved to die, yet one went to heaven and the other one went to hell. What was the difference between the two? Christ was the difference.

- I. THE RIGHTEOUS
- A. The Righteous Are Different In Nature.
1. The righteous have experienced a new birth. John 1:11-13; 3:3
 2. The righteous have received a new nature. II Cor. 5:17
 3. The righteous have a new love. I John 4:19; 4:7,8
 4. The righteous have a new occupation. Rom. 6:17,18; I John 5:1,2
- B. The Righteous Are Different In Standing.
1. Their sins are under the blood and are all forgiven.
 2. They have been redeemed. I Pet. 1:18,19
 3. They are justified. Rom. 5:1; 3:24
 4. They stand in the righteousness of Christ. Rom. 4:1-8. Once we are saved, our standing always remains the same in Christ. Our state may vary from day to day, but we should be striving to bring our state up as close to our standing as possible. Rewards will vary according to our faithfulness in obeying His Word in our works. I Cor. 3:9-15
- C. The Righteous Are Different In Destiny.
1. Christ is coming for His own. John 14:1-3
 2. The righteous shall be like Jesus. I John 3:1,2
 3. The righteous will be with the Lord forever. I Thess. 4:13-15

II. THE WICKED

Many people seem to think that only those who murder, steal and deny the existence of God, are wicked. In truth, all of the unsaved, even the good moral ones are wicked according to God and His Word.

- A. The Wicked Are Different In Nature.
1. The wicked have experienced only one birth. John 3:6
 2. The wicked are by nature the children of wrath. Eph. 2:3
 3. The wicked are the children of Satan. John 8:44
 4. The wicked have a sinful occupation. Rom. 3:9-18
- B. The Wicked Are Different In Standing.
1. The wicked stand condemned. Rom. 3:19,20
 2. They stand in a world of wickedness. I John 5:19
 3. They stand under the curse of the law. Gal. 3:10
 4. They have no righteous standing. Isa. 64:6; Gal. 3:22
- C. The Wicked Are Different In Their Destiny.
- Every lost sinner who refuses to repent of sin, and believe in Christ as Saviour, has a terrible destiny to face.
1. The wicked are under the sentence of death. Ezek. 18:4; James 1:15; Rom. 6:23; John 8:24
 2. Eternal hell is their destiny. Psa. 9:17; Rev. 20:15; Luke 16:22-26

In view of the above, how important it really is to believe in Christ as Lord and Saviour. The remedy for sin is to be found in Christ alone. Eph. 2:8,9; Titus 3:5; II Cor. 5:21; John 5:24

The KITCHEN BEAT

Simple Remedies for Breakfast-Skippers

In today's Black America's home, cooking is no longer the responsibility of one person. Because of busy and varied schedules, usually every member of the family at some time or another has to prepare personal meals or meals for other members of the family. The Kitchen Beat is designed to meet some needs of the various cooks in the modern Black family.

Doctors and nutritionists alike have written thousands of words on the subject of the importance of a good breakfast to health and well-being. Yet millions of Americans complain that there's never enough time to prepare a breakfast.

One needn't suffer through boring bowls of cold cereal to achieve a balanced diet, however. Try a delicious Orange Perk, a blender drink concocted from orange juice, milk, honey and wheat germ. You'll have a nutritious breakfast that's as quick and easy to prepare as it is tasty.

On a free evening, prepare a batch of batter for Make-Ahead Muffins; the batter will keep for two weeks when refrigerated. In the morning, bake only as many muffins as you need for breakfast. Make-Ahead Muffins have a distinctive nutty wheat germ flavor and are fresh and piping hot from the oven in a maximum of a quarter hour.

If you're tempted to be a breakfast-skipper, why not try to create a breakfast habit instead—starting with these two quick, nutritious and great-tasting recipes?

We thank the makers of Kretschmer Wheat Germ for devising these recipes for our readers.

Orange Perk

- 1 medium ripe banana
- 1 cup cold milk
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup wheat germ
- 2 Tablespoons honey
- 1 ice cube

Combine banana, milk, orange juice, wheat germ, honey and ice cube in blender container. Cover and blend at high speed about 1 minute. Refrigerate before serving. (Makes 3 cups.)

Make-Ahead Muffins

- 2 1/4 cups all purpose flour
- 1 cup wheat germ
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 1/4 cup raisins

Combine flour, wheat germ, sugar, brown sugar, soda and salt in large bowl. Stir well to blend. Stir in buttermilk, eggs and oil. Mix until well-blended. (Store covered in refrigerator for up to two weeks.) Add 1/2 cup raisins to 2 cups batter just before baking if desired. Fill greased or paper-lined muffin-pan cups 2/3 full. Bake at 400° for 14-15 minutes until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm with butter or honey. (Makes 2 dozen muffins.)

BEANS AND RICE PERFECT PROTEIN

According to nutritionists, beans and rice together form a complete protein. Kidney beans, chick peas and rice make this delicious salad a healthy main dish. And with all the ingredients straight from the supermarket shelves, it is easy to make. Prepare the salad ahead, if you like, and marinate it for serving.

HERBED BEAN, CHICK PEA AND RICE SALAD

- 1 can (19 ounces) Progresso red kidney beans, drained
- 1 can (19 ounces) Progresso chick peas, drained
- 2 cups cooked rice, cooled
- 1/2 cup sliced jarred roasted peppers
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

In a large bowl place kidney beans, chick peas, roasted peppers and rice.

An Educator's Opinion

A Tribute to Special People

This morning, I will have the honor of addressing 4,000 of my colleagues in the education community. These 8,000 men and women do not ordinarily make headlines, but they do make things happen in education. They are people who have dedicated their energy, their talents, their lives to narrowing the gap between what American education is and what it is capable of becoming.

These special people are meeting in Washington today as delegates to NEA's annual Representative Assembly—the largest, most democratic deliberative body in the world and the policy-making authority within our Association.

The delegates to our NEA Representative Assembly hail from every state in the nation—from one-room schoolhouses and multi-campus universities, from farm and suburb and megacities. They've been elected by their peers to represent NEA's 1.7 million members, and their task is to chart NEA's course for the coming year, define Association priorities, elect our national officers, and determine the steps that must be taken to ensure that educational excellence becomes a reality for all America's children.

That this challenging task should fall to these delegates is entirely appropriate. These men and women are, I believe, America's real education leaders, the real experts on education reform. These are the people who know what works in classrooms—and what doesn't. These are the people who know what students need to realize their full potential, to flourish, and to excel. These are resilient people, the people who don't give up, the people who struggle day by day and hour by hour to reach the students society so casually forsakes.

My debt to these remarkable people can never be adequately expressed. Over the past two years, while serving as NEA president, my fondest memories are of their grace under pressure, their strength in the face of adversity. I've visited their schools and colleges in every corner of our nation. In communities as disparate as Manchester, Ohio, and Boise, Idaho, I've been moved by the love I've seen, by the dedication, by the vision of students proud to be learning and learning to be proud.

I've also seen these valued colleagues at work for excellence in their home communities. I have seen them reach out to students—and to parents. I've watched them speak at school board meetings and testify before state legislatures. Their commitment to better schools—their resolve to accelerate the movement toward excellence and equity—has never failed to move me. They have given me a gift I shall always cherish.

The only repayment I can make to so many who have given me so much is to remain faithful to the promise I made two years ago, moments after my election as NEA president. On that day, I made a promise to all NEA members—and to myself. I would, I vowed, do everything in my power to build respect throughout this nation for the hard-working men and women who staff our schools and nurture our children.

I made another promise, equally heartfelt, on that muggy July afternoon two years ago. I promised I would never let America forget that quality public education is every child's right. And that right, I added, is inviolable, non-negotiable.

I could not, on my own, have made much progress toward keeping these promises. But I haven't been on my own. Our 1.7 million NEA members and the 8,000 elected delegates who represent their interests have worked tirelessly and selflessly to transform those promises into prophecies. And that is why, today, dramatic and positive change reverberates through America's classrooms.

Under these circumstances, only two words seem appropriate: Thank you. Thank you to some very special people. Good people. My colleagues, my friends.

Mary Hatwood Futrell, President NEA

BLACK POETRY

The Legend of Alpha Pi Alpha

Buried beneath the slavery years
Was self-respect of bonder men;
And beaten in brutal, selfish whim,
Love perished, in a sinner's den.

War then bridged this dark abyss,
As justice struck with silver blade;
And cut gangrenous parts away,
Which slowly drew death's horrid shade.

Yet within the Negro heart,
Amidst the bonds, which all men tie,
Lies there latent a small, small dream,
Where ideas born, attempt to fly.

This infant dream, untried and new,
Slowly spread its tender roots;
And warmed by sunshine of true hearts,
Evolved fragile, yet nourished shoots.

Brotherhood fertilized this aged soil,
Tears of sorrow were as the rain,
Unity wrapped the plant at night,
And strength dynamic was its gain.

This flower bloomed and shed its seed,
Strong and hardy, the offspring grew,
And 'hen to God's every given acre,
More seed, the gentle spring winds blew.

Thus, Alpha emerged with a goodly name,
And by its bloom it gained renown;
Goodwill was its untried perfume,
And laughter spread instead of frown.

Men surround this fragrant plant,
And raise to God their voices loud;
To thank Him for this Alpha dream,
A dream to keep men free and proud.

And to our forthwith generation, it is we
Who pass this message old;
From valiant men who gave their lives,
And made the legend of Black and Gold.

This is the third year of the Budweiser Showdown. The two previous winners were the all-

The Showdown will be videotaped and will be aired nationally on a local syndication basis in late summer or early fall.

"The Church where everybody is somebody"

Thank God, we're here again! Holy greetings everyone this beautiful day which the Lord has made for us to see and enjoy as his children. This writer is still living for our Lord and Master forever will be a Christian led to be what God would have me be.

Everyone was at their post of duty. Attendance was good. The Sunday School lesson for last Sunday was "The Lord's Constant Love." The scripture was Hosea 1:2-5. The Key Verse was: "I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice in steadfast love, and in mercy." Hosea 2:19. It was beautiful lesson, and everyone present enjoyed it.

The morning devotion was led by Deacon and Sister Burleson. Sister Wynn read I John 1, which was the entire chapter. Altar call was highly prayed by Pastor Arthur Kelly. The choir sang great praises to the Master. God is still in his holy temple.

The morning message was delivered by Pastor Kelly. His text was taken from the Book of Psalms, entire 150 number. His subject was "Praising God." He truly preached to our Master from his heart and soul. It was very spiritual sermon.

Our visitors made our day. Sister Elora Huffman from the God Grave Baptist Church of Calvert, Texas was a visitor. Please visit anytime. You're always welcome to Pleasant Home Baptist Church.

Those who are ill in their residents include Sisters Della Smith, Elizabeth Iles, Emma Griffin and others too numerous to mention.

Let us continue to pray for their speedy recovery.

Business Angle

domestic jobs while entrepreneurial business added about a million.

There is good news on the inflation front too. In January's quarterly survey, NFIB had found signs of increasing pressure to raise prices. But the April survey found that many business owners, who had planned price hikes did not raise their prices after all. The number of firms planning increases in the second quarter is lower than in the first three months. The non-food inflation rate is expected to hold at a 4 percent annual rate in the second quarter.

Especially cheering from the consumer's point of view is the widespread intent of wholesalers to cut prices—largely in an attempt to reduce huge inventories. These price reductions should start showing up on retailers' shelves within the next three to six months.

The second quarter looks rosy, and we can thank small- and independent-business owners for that.

Zesty Barbecue Sauce Uses Safflower Oil

Spice up your next barbecue with a citrus-flavored Tex-Mex sauce. Seasoned with chili powder and orange peel, the flavor is fabulous on chicken, burgers or fish. To make it right, start with safflower oil. Safflower oil is a pure, light oil so its taste will not compromise the spicy sweetness of this sauce. It's also cholesterol-free and highest in any oil in beneficial polyunsaturates.

TEX-MEX CHICKEN BARBECUE

- 3 pounds chicken parts (skinned, if desired)
- 2 tablespoons safflower oil
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
- 1/4 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 350 F. Place chicken in a single layer on a foil-lined and oiled shallow baking pan. Bake for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan heat safflower oil until hot. Add onion; saute until transparent, about 5 minutes. Add tomato sauce, orange juice, chili powder, orange peel and salt. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, stirring occasionally, for 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Brush sauce on all sides of the chicken. Bake until cooked through, 50 to 55 minutes, basting with the sauce and turning occasionally. Or, place chicken baked for 30 minutes on a rack over slow turning coals. Baste on all sides with sauce. Grill until cooked through, 20 to 25 minutes, basting with sauce and turning occasionally.
