

'Progressive' POWs Face Revenge Vows

By FORREST EDWARDS
PANMUNJOM (AP)—A bitter band of die-hard Americans came back from their Red prison camps today—vowing vengeance on weaker comrades who turned to communism under pressure.

They spat out "progressive" as a dirty word, and wore with honor the badge of "reactionary" fastened on them by Red Chinese who clubbed and tortured them but did not break their spirits.

One tough American had to be held back by force when he spotted a "progressive" at the Freedom Village reception center.

"I'll get that s.o.b. when I get home," he said.

One hundred Americans came back from the North, along with 24 British, 25 Turks and 250 South Koreans in the seventh day of the Korean War prisoner exchange.

Meanwhile, 328 Americans repatriated earlier sailed from Inchon aboard the troopship Gen. Nelson M. Walker for the voyage of 14 to 15 days to San Francisco's Golden Gate.

All were classified as healthy. The ship originally was to sail several hours later, but its orders apparently were changed.

A plane bearing 17 seriously ill Americans, all litter patients, landed at Honolulu for a night of rest before continuing homeward. It is expected to arrive at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco about 6 a.m. Wednesday.

The first week of exchange has brought 648 Americans of the 3,313 the Reds say they hold. A total of 2,372 Allied captives have been returned. The Reds listed 12,763.

The U. N. Command has returned 19,406 of its 74,000 Red prisoners.

Another 100 Americans, 250 ROKs, 25 British and 25 Turks are scheduled to return Wednesday.

The latest group of Americans released won the "reactionary" honors the hard way.

There were bitter men among the first groups last week, but few matched the anger of the last group.

They spoke with passion of those who have suffered.

"If any progressives get on the boat with me," said one, "They'll be shark bait. They are hated worse than the Chinks."

"If I met one in a bar, I'd hit him in the mouth," said another. "One of us wouldn't walk out—and it wouldn't be me."

American officers and newsmen were startled at the violence of the reactions and immediate steps were taken to keep some of the groups separate to prevent possible bloody clashes.

After months and years behind the Red curtain, many still had courage to defy the Communists.

For mocking at Red propaganda lectures, disputing Communist lies and standing up for their legal rights, these men said they received special attention of their guards.

The "ice bath"—standing barefoot for hours on the frozen Yalu

River... choking confinement in crude, one-man dungeons... beatings and clubbings... hanging by the arms with ropes... starvation... and deliberate withholding of medical care from the "reactionaries."

But bitter as the men were against the Chinese Communists, they hated the "progressives" more.

"There were stool pigeons in my own squad," said Cpl. Robert A. Ginn of Columbia, S. C., with hate in his voice.

"Two men squealed on one of our friends, and the Chinks sentenced him to a year in jail two weeks ago."

With Ginn were two Americans with the same last name but not related—Sgt. Harold M. Keck of Bethlehem, Pa., and Cpl. Clyde A. Keck of Sparta, Mich.

It was one of these three who broke toward the "progressive" who was restrained by an Army officer. The officer would not say which he grabbed, however.

Radio Stations Get Clearance From The FCC

Radio Station KTXC of Big Spring and a proposed radio station at Fort Stockton, KPST, were reinstated to good standing by an order handed down by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington Monday.

The action followed an investigation of more than two years into reports that full accounting of ownership in the stations was not rendered in FCC reports. Both stations are owned by the Big State Broadcasting Company. Major stockholders are V. T. Anderson of Big Spring and E. W. Anderson of Dallas, and Clyde E. Thomas Sr., and George T. Thomas of Big Spring also hold shares.

A hearing on the matter was ordered in March, 1951, after the FCC had reports on the ownership records from Leonard Lyon, original grantee of the KTXC license whose interests later were taken over by Big State.

At this time license for KTXC was held up for study, and a construction permit on the Fort Stockton station, which was in process of erection, was revoked.

Commissioner Walker of the FCC conducted a hearing here in November, 1951, later recommended that the licenses be put back in effect. He reported that he found "ignorance and negligence" in handling of station records, but found no intent to misrepresent, and held that Big Spring and Fort Stockton should have the radio service.

The FCC's action Monday was, in effect, upholding Commissioner Walker's recommendations.

A building had been built and a tower partly erected, at Fort Stockton, when the revocation there was issued. Equipment also was on hand. One representative of Big State said today he presented the Fort Stockton station would be completed, or arrangements made to transfer it to interests who will complete it.

Ike Calls For Reduction In Government's Outgo

Seeks To Avoid Having To Call Special Session

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, trying to avoid calling a special session of Congress, called today for a reduction of federal spending "with renewed vigor."

In a letter to the heads of the federal departments and agencies, the President said:

"Ever since the date of inauguration, every member of this administration has been dedicated to the purposes of efficiency and economy in government.

"Now that Congress is adjourned, it is time to attack the problem with renewed vigor."

The letter was made public at the President's vacation headquarters here as Eisenhower was getting a briefing on the world military situation from Adm. Arthur Radford, the incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Eisenhower, in calling for a new drive to reduce federal spending, was declared trying to avoid calling a special session of Congress.

Press Secretary James Hagerty noted that the Senate had refused to go along with the President's request for an increase in the $73 billion ceiling on the national debt. The administration wanted it increased to $90 billion.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has said failure of Congress to authorize the increase probably would make it necessary to call Congress back before January. He and other administration fiscal officials have promised to try to cut spending to avert a session.

Eisenhower wrote the heads of departments and agencies "it is absolutely essential that you begin immediately to take every possible step progressively to reduce the expenditures of your department."

The President said the department heads also are expected to make "substantial reductions" in their requests for new appropriations, as well as in the level of their spending for next year.

"It is imperative," the President wrote, "that you emphasize a critical review and maximum feasible reduction of expenditures in areas which have attracted the attention and concern of the Congress and of the public as possible sources of waste, inefficiency, duplication and excessive or non-essential costs."

"Every level of the staff of your department should be made aware of the necessity for doing this and of the importance of their cooperation as a vital part of its accomplishments."

Budget Director Joseph Dodge has instructed all department and agency heads to submit their spending estimates for next year by Oct. 1.

Hagerty said the President has indicated no specific amount by which he would like to see spending reduced.

Radford, who takes over his new duties Saturday, flew from Washington to the President's vacation headquarters here late yesterday. He and Eisenhower arranged a conference today at the Chief Executive's summer White House office at Lowry Air Force Base.

The admiral is succeeding Gen. Omar N. Bradley as head of the military high command. Bradley retires at the end of the week.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the emergency promptly called for emergency visit. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs briefs the President routinely at least once a week, Hagerty said. The practice will

Big Spring Woman's Brother Is Freed

"My brother is free. I just heard his name on the radio," Mrs. Bobby J. Van Kirk, 607 Gollad gasped happily.

"It just proves that God really does answer prayers if we don't get too impatient and give Him time," she declared.

Mrs. Van Kirk had just heard a news cast which mentioned that her brother, Sgt. Lee Edward Merworth, a native of Big Spring, was one of two Texas prisoners of war released by the Communists in Korea today.

At the time Mrs. Van Kirk talked to a Herald reporter the brief announcement forwarded to newspapers and radio stations by the Associated Press was the only word relatives had received about Sgt. Merworth's release.

Sgt. Merworth is the son of H. H. Merworth of Midland. He was born in Big Spring and attended school here in his early youth before the family moved to Midland.

He had been listed as a prisoner of war since Sept. 10, 1950. Other brothers and sisters who joyfully received the news that their brother had been freed are R. L. Alline, Gwen and Lula Merworth and Mrs. G. L. Burnett, all of Midland.

The other Texas freed Tuesday (Korean time) is Cpl. Louis M. Gilmore of Lubbock.

At the same time it was announced that three other Texans, freed earlier, were being returned to the United States by air. They are Pvt. Freddie Dobbins, Anson; Pfc. Floyd M. Pendarvis, Gilmer; and Pfc. Eduardo O. De Anda, El Paso.

The three are among 17 disabled returnees who are being returned by air because of serious illness. They are due to arrive at Travis AFB near San Francisco at 7 a. m. (CST) Wednesday.

Another 328 former war prisoners sailed for the United States Tuesday from Inchon aboard the troopship General Nelson M. Walker. Those men; some Texans among them, were expected to dock at San Francisco in about two weeks.

End To Excise Tax On Phone Calls Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plea for removal of excise taxes on telephone and telegraph communication is before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Spokesmen for the Bell Telephone System, Western Union and the CIO Communications Workers of America made their arguments yesterday before the committee, which is studying proposals for general tax revision.

Changes In Farm Program Urged

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Top U. N. diplomats began arriving here today for a week of behind-the-scenes talks on the impending Korean political conference.

Before the 60-nation General Assembly convenes next Monday, the delegates hope to agree on the countries that will take part in the conference and its time and place. The conference must begin by Oct. 27, under the terms of the Korean armistice.

Some preliminary talks have been in progress since the truce signing, but the signal for full-scale consultations was the return of Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., from Korea.

Lodge conferred with President Eisenhower at the summer White House in Denver yesterday, then rushed back to New York to begin discussions immediately.

Arriving in New York today were Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky, returning from Moscow; British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd, and Maurice Schumann, French secretary of state for foreign affairs.

The United States so far has not disclosed its views on the conference even to its closest allies. Though this has made it impossible for the allies to shape up any firm proposals, they felt it was worthwhile to learn in preliminary talks as much as possible about the views of others.

Responsible diplomatic sources said they found these prevailing views:

1. The conference should be small, preferably about 11 countries.

2. The participating countries should decide whether the conference should limit its discussions to the Korean problem or should include other subjects.

3. The conference should be a roundtable parley rather than an across-the-table negotiation limited to the belligerent parties. A roundtable would permit such non-belligerents as Russia and India to take part.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles has indicated the United States would try to limit the conference to the Korean problem. There has been no definite word, however, whether this move would be made in the General Assembly or in the conference itself.

There also have been some indications from Washington that the United States may try to keep Russia and India out of the conference. Lodge is sure to find strong sentiment against such a plan during the forthcoming talks.

Vandals Active Again In City

Two reports of vandalism were logged by police last night. Preston Mason, 1408 E. 15th, said someone broke a window and slashed seat covers on his car during the night. He reported that was the second time vandals had damaged his auto.

Madge Davis, 711 Wyoming, reported some kids were throwing rocks at her house about 9:30 p.m. Officers talked to the youngsters who promised to throw no more rocks.

U.N. Diplomats Begin Arriving For Talks On Korean Meet Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chmn. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today the Senate investigations subcommittee will start hearings Monday to determine whether any Communists have access to secret documents published at the government printing plant.

Four unidentified witnesses were questioned in secret today. McCarthy said the witnesses heard today were called at the request of the attorney "of the individual who has been charged with Communist activities."

McCarthy has declined to identify the individual, but other sources have reported that he is an employee of the government printing office.

"The evidence so far," McCarthy said, "involves only one employee present in the government."

After two hours of testimony from four unnamed witnesses yesterday, McCarthy said that, if the evidence taken by his Senate investigations subcommittee proves

"A member of the Communist party has access to secret material of the military, Atomic Energy Commission and Central Intelligence Agency."

He avoided any implication that the employee in question works in any one of the three agencies.

Authoritative sources later reported that the alleged Communist works for the Government Printing Office. But this report could not be confirmed. An employee in the government printing office conceivably could obtain access to material from such scattered agencies as the Pentagon, AEC and CIA, although it was not clear how or why secret material would be so widely disseminated as to require printing.

The McCarthy committee is working without its three Democratic members, who walked off several weeks ago in protest against a decision by the four Republican members to give McCarthy sole power to hire and fire committee personnel.

Crater Only Clue To Strange Blast

TEXARKANA (AP)—A crater 4 feet wide and 20 inches deep was the only clue officers had today to a strange explosion which lit the skies near the Big Red River Arsenal late Sunday.

Sheriff Bill Watlington said the crater was a mile north of the arsenal's main gate. He said he believed the hole was made by a bomb, grenade or mine.

Trees and shrubs nearby were stripped of foliage.

Informing By Fellow POWs Is Described

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP)—American soldiers told today shocking stories of "squealing" by fellow prisoners, some of whom chose to stay behind rather than return to the United States.

Others described tortures suffered because they defied their communist captors—tortures that included hanging by the arms, beatings, imprisonment in crude dungeons, starvation rations and "ice baths."

Their stories, told at this processing center for returned Americans, added to the mounting evidence of the horrors and intrigue that flamed in North Korean prison camps.

Cpl. Robert Ginn of Columbia, S. C. told of the actions of two informers which resulted in a fellow prisoner being sentenced just two weeks ago to a year in jail.

Ginn said the Chinese announced over the prison loudspeaker that the captive would not return in the exchange and warned other men would get the same treatment "if they failed to straighten out."

Ginn said the Reds broadcast the captive had been convicted of "instigating against Chinese and complaining about the food."

"It is my belief two men in my own squad went to the Chinese and squealed on this man," Ginn said.

Three Americans held in the some North Korean compound estimated 10 per cent of the 316 Americans in their company had "gone along" with the Reds.

Freed POW Reds Worry U.S. Chiefs

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports from Freedom Village that some freed American prisoners of war may be coming back home as indoctrinated Communists furrowed some official brows in Washington today.

However, those chiefly concerned with the nation's internal security appeared to be taking a "wait and see" attitude.

Top officials in the Justice Department reported they have had no direct official report on any American-turned-Red on the repatriation list. But they said press reports of such cases were being followed closely.

"It is difficult to say at this point what the situation might be," one such source said. "If any evidence of treason, such as acts of atrocity against other Americans, should turn up, we would certainly look at it very carefully."

"On the other hand, we should all recognize that men long confined, especially under conditions such as those in Korea, are frequently under severe emotional strain at release. It will take time to get a clear picture."

Experts Think Malenkov Is Soviet 'Cock Of Rock'

By JOHN A. SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Georgi Malenkov has successfully weathered a grim power struggle inside the Kremlin and now stands virtually unchallenged as Russia's ruler.

This, at least, is the carefully considered view of top American foreign affairs experts who have been watching developments within the Soviet Union since Premier Stalin's death.

Active support by powerful Red army leaders, they said, probably was a deciding factor in maintaining Malenkov's power despite widespread uncertainty after the sudden purge of Deputy Premier Lavrenty Beria.

It would be no surprise to these American experts if in the coming weeks Malenkov's most prominently mentioned rival, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and his defense minister, Marshal Nicolai Bulganin, publicly avow their loyalty to Malenkov.

A closing of ranks within the Soviet high command, in their view, does not rule out potential unrest within Russia and the satellite world later. But it does plainly indicate to them that the sleepy-eyed Malenkov now is definitely top man.

The conclusion stems partly from the tone and content of Malenkov's speech last Saturday to the Soviet parliament. He scolded and criticized Communist party chiefs generally and talked like a man completely confident of his position.

The United States and Britain, it was learned, have added information which supports this view. No authoritative American official would say whether they took at face value Malenkov's broad hint Saturday that Russia has mastered production of the hydrogen bomb.

Tending to support his claim, however, is an unexplained $2 per cent increase in the Russian budget by about 25 per cent.

Specially trained officials deduced that Malenkov has allocated some 30 billion rubles in the 1953 calendar year for atomic and hydrogen bomb developments. There is no official exchange rate for the ruble, but it generally is figured at about 4 to $1.

Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday, after arriving from Korea and conferences with South Korean President Syngman Rhee, that Malenkov's hydrogen bomb boast has not altered the cold war picture in any way.

George Kennan, former American ambassador to Moscow, meanwhile predicted in a speech that "revolution eventually would break out" in the Soviet orbit.

He told a university seminar here Russia's structure is "faced today with severe strains and crises" and said: "It will eventually earn its retribution if so richly deserves."

Kennan cautioned against any American government interference in Soviet affairs at this time, lest it unify the Communist world and prevent the revolt he foresees.

Kennan, author of the Truman administration's "policy of containment" toward Russia, thus took issue with the Eisenhower administration's policy of aid to Russia's satellites by every peaceful means to help them throw off the Communist yoke.

DATE DATA

By Beverly Brandow

Changing Emotions

Dear Beverly
I went with a girl for three months, then went on a two week vacation, and when I returned everything had changed.
This was a month ago and I can't seem to get her off my mind. I am not dating anyone else and worry that maybe she is. She really is a nice girl and I would like to date her again. Please tell me how.

Lonesome
Many things could have happened to shatter your friendship. Without my trusty crystal ball I'll just have to guess. Maybe she was lonely while you were away and perhaps some highly eligible boy asked her for a date and she became infatuated. If this is the case, don't pester her for a nice long while. Don't call her for two—maybe three weeks. When she is not too sure your interest is the same, she may begin to want it again.

Did you do something to offend her before you left? Think back and think hard. Maybe you promised to send her post cards during your trip, and didn't. Girls can get mighty hurt over things like that. Or did you brag about all the nice girls you met on vacation?

Or worse yet, did you forget to bring her something? Look at it from her standpoint. All her girl friends are getting little gifts from their boy friends who are returning from vacation. She wonders and wonders what you'll have for her—and to add behold, you don't have anything. Then she concludes you really don't like her much.

If you want to get back, wait a couple of weeks before telephoning her. Meanwhile, brush up on date etiquette with library books until you're really smooth. Save your money for a big occasion. When you do call ask her to go somewhere really nice. This will greatly increase your chances of getting a yes answer. Treat her as a perfect gentleman and don't kiss her goodnight.

Call again a week later. (Not too soon) Your answer will probably be yes, and if you watch your p's and q's you'll be in solid again.

(WANT TO ENTER A CONTEST?) Just write a letter of 250 words or less on why you approve or disapprove of shorts, bluejeans, smoking, or girls wearing their hair rolled up around town. You may enter as many times as you like, but only one subject per letter please. The two best entries will be printed in this column and the writer of each will receive a prize. Send your entries to Beverly Brandow in care of The Herald.)

Relating Mission Work

Work Of Missionaries To Indians Is Told

Six members of the First Baptist WMS became missionaries to the Indians for a few minutes Monday morning as part of a Royal Service program.

The setting was an informal tea in the home of Mrs. B. Frank Belvin, wife of the Field Secretary of Indian Work for the Southern Baptist Convention. The "missionaries" exchanged ideas about their experiences as they sipped tea.

Mrs. Darrell Mock took the part of Mrs. Belvin. Others on the program were Mrs. Tommy Hollingshead, Mrs. Gaylon Cothorn, Mrs. Sidney Clark, Mrs. Arlene Bradford and Mrs. Zack Gray.

Mrs. Hollingshead, representing a missionary among the Indians of Mississippi, said that a great need for trained Indian leaders there is beginning to be met. There are now two college graduates among the Choctaws, eight in high school and junior college and one in business college.

Individual conversions were recounted by Mrs. Gray, representing a missionary in Florida, and by Mrs. Cothorn who played the parts of missionaries to New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

Mrs. Clark, as a missionary in North Carolina, paid tribute to the courage and determination of the Cherokees.

Playing the part of an Alabama missionary Mrs. Bradford described the results of services held at a camp ground developed by the WMU of Alabama for Indian mission activities.

A slide of an Indian shown behind the participants helped create atmosphere for the program. Mrs. Cothorn read "The Rope of Love," the Indian version of the 23rd Psalm, which begins, "The Great Father above is a Shepherd Chief. I am His and with Him I want not. He throws out to me a rope, and the name of the rope is Love."

A map showed the states in which Southern Baptist missionaries work among the Indians and the three coastal states of Oregon, California and Washington, where there are large Indian populations but no Southern Baptist missions.

Mrs. Cothorn and Mrs. B. T. Faulkner offered a prayer. Following the main part of the program Mrs. Mock and Mrs. P. D. O'Brien described their visits to missions while they were at Glorieta, N. M.

Visitors at the meeting were Annie Antley of Forest, Miss. and her niece, Sharon Ann Gary, of Fort Worth.

School Budget Hearing Is Set Here Tonight

Public hearing on the 1953-54 budget of the Big Spring Independent School District is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the administrative-tax office.

Although the hearing is far down on the agenda, it likely will be pushed forward to accommodate citizens who might appear.

This will be part of the board meeting which includes action on teachers and other details surrounding the opening of school.

The proposed budget, which has been given preliminary approval of the board pending the public hearing, calls for an outlay of $1,001,131, an increase of $10,000 over the current budget. The increase and more is reflected in anticipated gains in teacher pay requirements. This factor will be up by $16,000.

Estimated revenues are $658,661, which means that an anticipated cash balance at the end of this fiscal year would shrink to around $30,000 by Aug. 31, 1954. Sources, in round figures, are: federal $14,500, state $556,000, local $387,500, $387,500.

Anticipated budget requirements of the various divisions with percentage of the total budget shown in parenthesis, are: Administration $42,800 (4.27), instructional service $703,426 (70.3), operation of plant $74,500 (7.4), maintenance of plant $26,500 (2.6), auxiliary services $20,946 (2.0), fixed charges $24,500 (2.4), capital outlay $19,583 (1.95), debt service $85,891 (8.5).

Total salary requirements of the budget are $743,145, of which $640,599 is earmarked for teachers.

Overwhelming Winner

Liberals Win Fifth Canadian Election

By BEN BASSETT

TORONTO (AP)—Canadians still swear by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and will have none—or very little—of his detractors. They made that clear in the national elections with a big tide of votes rolling the Liberal party to an unprecedented fifth term.

The vote yesterday returned the Liberals to power with a House of Commons majority just short of the record margin they ran up in the landslide St. Laurent engineered in 1949.

There were 265 Commons seats at stake. The Liberals needed 133 to maintain a majority able to back a government. They won 171.

The Progressive Conservative (Tory) party won 50. The socialist CCF (Commonwealth Cooperative Federation) was in third place with 23 and the Social Crediters next with 15. The remaining 6 were scattered.

In 1949 the Liberals won 193 seats for the greatest majority in history. The Conservatives won 41, the CCF 13 and the Social Crediters 10.

St. Laurent hailed the result as showing Canada has the kind of government it wants. He called the returns "a heartening expression of confidence."

The 71-year-old "Uncle Louis" conducted his own kind of campaign. "I'm running on performance, not promises," he said.

That was good enough to make history again. Never before had a party won five consecutive times in Canadian elections.

The Liberals have been in power since 1935, first under W. L. Mackenzie King and since 1948 under St. Laurent. With the four to five years added by yesterday's election, they will run their tenure to 22 years.

The Conservatives now have failed to win a Canadian election since 1930. They tried yesterday under the same leader who lost in 1949—George Drew, former premier of Ontario. His hopes of being prime minister were as good as lost in mid-campaign. Some Conservative candidates, as if to pull away from Drew lips, never mentioned him in their speeches.

Drew and the national conservative leadership failed to find an issue to fire the imagination. They promised lower taxes and a more efficient government.

The national popular vote was not a factor in counting the results, which were on a district basis, but the Liberals' total was almost exactly 50 per cent and virtually equal to 1949's ratio. They had the heaviest popular vote in 8 of 10 provinces—with Saskatchewan going to the CCF and Alberta to the Social Crediters. St. Laurent personally ran only in his own district of Quebec. He won a majority of more than 20,000, the biggest of any candidate. All his Cabinet ministers were re-elected, including Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson and Trade Minister Clarence D. Howe. Drew likewise retained his own Commons seat, winning in his district.

The Communists supplied 100 of the 900 candidates running for the 265 seats. They lost everywhere.

Skidding Farm Prices Spotlight Crisis In National Agriculture

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Skidding farm prices set against the background of a record high cost of living brings the whole farm problem to the fore again this week.

Wheat, cotton and corn, the big three crops from which comes the nation's bread, clothing, meat, milk and eggs, are at a level of surplus which under the law can call for federal crop production controls.

Farmers income this year, the government says, is 11 per cent behind last year.

At the grocery, the government reports that food prices generally are only about two per cent lower than last year. A rise in food prices this summer helped push the government's measure of the cost of living to an all-time high.

The farmer might be getting even less if federal price supports hadn't come to his aid. In the fiscal year ended June 30, the U. S. Treasury put out 2 1/2 billion dollars in support money, to which all taxpayers contributed.

The government holds large stocks of grain. It expects large amounts of this year's cotton crop to move under the protection of government loans.

Butter has been a well publicized government problem. Under price supports it has bought up large tonnages of surplus butter. The price of butter has stayed so high at the stores, however, that margarine men have had little trouble in increasing the sales of their product.

Now some are suggesting that the government get rid of its butter by taking a price cut, offering it at wholesale for considerably less than it presumably will go on paying dairy farmers for fresh production.

Price breaks in the commodity markets used to be blamed on the Korean War. Peace rumors were said to frighten traders.

But with a Korean truce now an actuality, this week's sharp drop in wheat prices is being laid to fear that the farmers won't elect to come under government production regulations. If they vote against this, the price at which next year's crop will be supported by the government is automatically lowered.

Traders figure that the only way wheat prices could go in that case would be down.

Pedestrian Fined For Run Into Auto

DETROIT (AP)—Edward McGlinchey, 56, was fined $10 for running headlong into the side of a car.

McGlinchey admitted the accident was his fault but blamed "the lunch hour race" for his trouble.

"Seeing I'm the oldest guy in the department I can never get a seat. This time I was leading the pack when I ran into the car. I missed lunch altogether."

Weeks Says Excise Taxes Out Of Date

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks says the whole system of federal excise taxation is "antiquated and cockeyed and in particular soaks small businesses."

Weeks, speaking last night to the National Retail Jewelers Association, said the system requires a thorough overhauling and that the administration is hard at work on the project.

Man Dies Trying To Save Spaniel

producers, the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia, is placed in excess of one billion bushels now. This is more than double the stocks held a year ago.

Exports of American farm products have been declining while bumper crops have been piling up. Part of the reason for the export drop can be found in the large stocks available from other nations. Countries that are trying to save U. S. dollars look to other sources for grain and cotton when they can.

Home consumption of farm products has been rising. The population of this country is increasing at a rate of 2,620,000 a year. Total personal income (with the farmer the chief exception) has been going up. With more money to spend, Americans have been eating better, dressing better. But farm production has increased even faster.

Until the government or the farmers can find a way to lick the twin problems of declining exports and increasing farm production in excess of domestic needs, the farm problem is going to be one of this country's biggest headaches.

Sharp deflation of farm prices, against continued inflation of products of the mill, factory and mine, could upset the entire economy.

Officers Are Quizzing 5

HOUSTON (AP)—Officers grilled three men and two women today in the slugging of a state highway patrolman and an attempted lumber yard burglary.

Officers found more than $2,100 yesterday on a man and woman seized as they alighted from a taxi at the railroad station. The man, 33, of Chicago and woman were with their two children.

Highway Patrolman John Connors said he became suspicious early yesterday when he saw an auto parked near a LaMarque lumber yard at 2 a. m.

He ordered two men and a woman to stand in front of his patrol car's headlights, but the men overpowered him when the woman distracted his attention by faking illness. One of the men took his gun. The other knocked Connors unconscious.

The three escaped in their own auto, bearing Illinois license plates, after firing three or four shots into the radiator of the patrol car.

Three persons were arrested in the brush along Galveston Bay in the Morgan's Point area several hours later after the auto was found abandoned.

Wouldn't You Know He'd Leave It Behind

PRESCOT, Ariz. (AP)—As he unpacked his bags at the YMCA summer camp, 11-year-old Ronnie Carpenter beamed happily.

He had earned the trip by selling 2,928 bars of soap. "I brought everything along. Ronnie told his buddies. Then his face dropped. No soap."

Yanks Maul Oilers, 22-3, In Opener

Lefever Hurls Five Hitter

D. R. Gartman's Yankees seek to clinch their second straight City Little League championship tonight in a game with Red Harrison's Oilers at the Little League park. The starting time is down for 8:15 p.m. The Yanks mauled the Oilers, 22-3, in the opening engagement of the playoffs Monday evening. Jay Lefever hurled steady ball and benefitted from a 16-hit offensive on the part of his mates. He gave up only five hits, struck out seven and walked eight. The game was close until the fourth, when the Yanks sent ten men to the plate and scored four runs.

Williams Gets A Home Run

Pinch hitter Ted Williams crosses home plate after hitting his first home run since returning from service. The homer hit off Mike Garcia Cleveland's pitcher, in the 7th inning of their game at Fenway Park in Boston, landed in the right centerfield bleachers. Billy Goodman offers his congratulations. The Indians won the game, 9-3. (AP Wirephoto).

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

This quote from Pat Murphy, business manager of the local school system:

"We've got a site picked out for a new football stadium, but we've got to show a need for it. You must show the bond companies you're making money (at football) and have outgrown the other one." The capacities of the present stadium have rarely been taxed in recent years, though it seats no more than 4,000 people. If this fall's high school team is supported the way it should be, and that will occur when the supply of seats falls to meet the demand, then we can begin thinking in terms of the new football bowl.

One of the better investments you can make today is the membership available to you in the Big Spring Quarterback Club. The minimum fee is $1. There is no limit put on what anyone can give. What's in it for you, you ask? There'll be no cash dividends, true, but you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that the group with which you're linking hands is working untrigingly to restore Big Spring's place in the athletic sun.

The Big Spring Quarterback Club's efforts last year were lauded by school officials, coaches and players alike. The players came to realize that the organization was composed of individuals who liked athletics and sought ways and means of showing the boys they appreciated what they were doing for the school and the community alike.

All too often in the past, athletes have complained the community had shown indifference to their work and, all too often, those complaints have been justified.

The Quarterback Club fills a long-felt need within the community. When it first came into being, its leaders wisely stated that it would never be guilty of "head-hunting," that its existence would be justified only so long as its work was constructive. It has lived up to all its pledges. It's going to need members and a certain amount of capital to realize its objectives this school year. Friends of football and all athletics, for that matter, can see that it has an adequate amount of both.

When it comes to putting out football guides, the University of Oklahoma's Harold Keith takes his place at the head of the parade.

His 1953 booklet, which can be obtained by the public for $1 a copy, has just reached this desk. Boasting 100 pages, the informative covers included, it is complete in every detail.

Whether you're an OU football fan or not, it should prove a valuable addition to your sports library.

Manny Tames, destined to join the Big Spring Broncos at one time, is banging WT-NM pitching around for a .325 average. He's still with Pampa.

Bobby Lemmel, the Longhorn League's 'rookie of the year' in 1952, is hitting .306 for Albuquerque.

Milwaukee's fairy tale in baseball is being written, in part, by a man by the name of Grimm. That would be Charley Grimm, who used to mastermind the Dallas outfit in the Texas League.

The current edition of Look Magazine goes into detail about Grimm's and Milwaukee's fabulous success in the National League. It's out tomorrow.

Mickey Vernon Staging Top Comeback In Major Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—When the ballota are counted for baseball's comeback-of-the-year award this fall, Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators is certain to be well up in the voting.

Vernon batted only .351 in 1952 and, at 35, it was believed he had seen his best years, one of them 1946 when he led the American League in batting with .353.

But the veteran first sacker has been one of the real surprises this season. He currently holds a 15-point edge in the junior circuit hitting race with a .335 mark. Runner-up Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians has .320.

Last year, Vernon finished with 143 hits, 33 doubles, 10 homers and 80 runs batted in. So far in 1953, he has compiled 146 hits, 34 doubles, 10 home runs and 77 RBIs.

In the National League, Monte Irvin of the New York Giants leads with a .330 average. The 34-year-old outfielder, who sprained an ankle last Sunday, picked up four points last week while Red Schoendienst, his closest competitor, dropped 12 points to .333.

Minnie Minesso of the Chicago White Sox and George Kell of the Boston Red Sox both went into a tailspin last week and are tied for third with .318 apiece. Kell six dropped nine points and Minesso in to third place in the National with a .332 slate. He gained two points on nine hits in 25 at bats.

Gus Zernial of the Philadelphia Athletics blasted out four home runs to wrest the American League bomber lead from Cleveland's Al Rosen. He has 29 to Al's 27. Rosen continues to set the pace in RBIs with 82.

Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews tops the National League in home runs with 36 and Roy Campanella of Brooklyn has driven in the most runs, 104.

French Woman Says Americans Needn't Worry About Legs

NEW YORK (AP)—American women have the most beautiful legs in the world and they shouldn't worry if French designer Christian Dior wants to lift the hemline up and up.

Mrs. Henri Bonnet, wife of the French ambassador, made this claim today upon her arrival from France.

The chic wife of the French diplomat calmly hauled up her skirt hem to show that already she is falling in line.

"See, the hem was here and here and here and here and here, she said. The difference was about two inches.

"American women shouldn't worry about it," she said. "They have the most beautiful legs in the world."

Reds Seek Scrap Iron

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Communist countries want to buy 50,000 tons of scrap iron which the Ceylon government is offering purchased abroad. Inquiries have been made through export agencies.

EZZARD CHARLES MEETS CUBAN IN TEN-ROUNDER IN FLORIDA

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former World heavyweight boxing champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati will be a prohibitive favorite when one battles with Nino Valdes, Cuban heavyweight, in 10 rounds at the City Auditorium arena tonight.

Charles is expected to scale 190 pounds to Valdes' 210 and hopes to prove he is a worthy opponent for the winner of the Rocky Marciano-Roland La Starza match.

Porterfield Hurls Another Shutout

By BEN PHLEGAR AP Sports Writer Bob Porterfield's "bad dream" team is growing. He's added another shutout and may soon have a full lineup.

Porterfield, whose family named him Erwin Coolidge and then re-named him Bob after the 1948 election, is a stylish Washington right-hander who is specializing this season in pitching shutouts.

Out of 17 complete games he has blanked the opposition eight times. That's more than any other pitcher has accomplished in either circuit since Bob Lemon's 10 in 1948.

He hurled No. 8 last night, a sparkling one-hitter against the Boston Red Sox which won 2-0. In the only other victory, the Milwaukee Braves whittled half a game off the Brooklyn Dodgers' National League lead by whipping St. Louis 8-2. The Dodgers still lead by 6 1/2 games.

The lone Boston safety was a third-inning single by right fielder Jim Piersall.

That blow put Piersall in Porterfield's "bad dream" lineup, which also includes shortstop Eddie Joost of Philadelphia and second baseman Bobby Avila and left fielder Dale Mitchell of Cleveland. These are the four men who have spoiled no-hitters for the shutout ace who has worn a jiny tag ever since he hit the majors in 1948.

Mitchell ruined a hitless game during Porterfield's freshman year. Avila broke up one in 1951. Joost cracked the spell at Philadelphia exactly three months ago. Piersall put the blight on Porterfield's 29th birthday celebration.

"It was the only ball I threw that didn't go where I wanted it to go," the pitcher said after the game.

The victory was the 14th of the year for Porterfield, more than he's ever won before in the big time. He's lost nine.

Piersall got his hit to start the third inning. He walked in the ninth. He was the only Boston baserunner.

Two other pitchers with one-hitters to their credit this season—Warren Spahn and Harvey Haddix—were involved in the St. Louis-Milwaukee contest. Spahn was in form but Haddix wasn't. He gave up 16 hits before bowing out in the fifth inning.

Milwaukee scored once in the first inning, then added five in the second on five hits and two costly errors. The Cards made three mistakes in all and every one of them led directly to a run.

The victory was No. 15 for Spahn who's lost five.

GRID BOARD WORK STARTS

Workmen started dismantling the old scoreboard at Steer Stadium this morning.

The board is to be eliminated in favor of a new electric scoreboard, which is being furnished the school by the local Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

The new board, modern in every detail, cost in the neighborhood of $1,500.

Eleven Teams In Pro-Am

ODESSA (AP)—Eleven teams have entered the $7,500 Odessa Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament scheduled the last week of August.

Lahron Harris, Oklahoma A&M golf coach, and Joe Walser, Oklahoma amateur champion, are among the top entries. Other outstanding 1952 winners are Gene Mitchell and Dick Jennings of Lubbock, Abe Beckman and Wendy Green of Midland, Woodrow Tucker and John Garrison of Alice, Chuck Klein of San Antonio and Billy Erfarth of Lubbock and J. T. Hammett of Snyder and Jack Williams of Plainview.

A field of 100 teams is anticipated.

Wichita Falls Regains Lead

By The Associated Press Two strong pitching efforts gave the Big State League lead back to Wichita Falls Monday night. The more important of the two, at least to Wichita Falls, was Noel Oquendo's 6-hit, 4-2 victory over Longview.

Temple's Chris Nicolosi dropped the Tyler East Texans out of the first-place tie when he shut them out 4-0 on four hits.

Texasrangers kept pace with the front-runners, winning 7-3 from Paris and Austin slipped by Bryan 2-1. The Bears are a game and a half out.

White Caps Lead By Five Games

By The Associated Press The Gulf Coast leaders, the Galveston White Caps, captured their fifth straight game Monday night, looking the part of champions as they drubbed Port Arthur 11-0.

The White Caps hold to a five-game lead.

The second-place Texas City Texans also came out on top, 3-1 over Lake Charles as Bill Bagwell copped his 22nd victory.

Another of the league's top hurlers, Harlingen's left-handed Jim Price took Laredo 4-1 for the Capitals.

Corpus Christi edged past Brownsville 7-4 with Ronnie Gilrod's 2-run ninth inning homer upsetting a Brownsville lead.

Earthquakes Recorded

NEW YORK (AP)—Two "fairly sharp" earthquakes in an undetermined direction 4,800 miles away were recorded last night by the Fordham University seismograph.

NEWPORT STAR FAVORED IN 28TH HAMBLETONIAN

By JOHN CHANDLER GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—Lady Luck usually rides with the winner of the Hambletonian Stakes and little Del Cameron of Pinehurst, N. C., hopes she's beside him in the sulky in the famous hayseed derby at Good Time Park.

Cameron, 33, will be driving the favorite, Newport Star, in this 28th Hambletonian, with the richest purse and largest field since the trotting classic for 3-year-olds was inaugurated in 1926. The purse will total $117,117.98 with the winner netting $63,128.59.

"I think we have a chance," said Cameron, who was really 80-gainfully all out with the predictions. Del is one of the most pessimistic gags around a harness racing track.

Cameron trains and drives for the Newport Stock Farm of Octave Blake, president of the grand circuit, and has entered three colts.

Gate In Texas League Is Down

DALLAS (AP)—Only Shreveport and Beaumont showed a gain while other Texas League clubs suffered attendance drops for the first three quarters of the 1953 season compared to the same period last year.

League Secretary Milton Price reported yesterday that 400 games at the three-quarters mark this year had drawn 852,645, a drop of 123,552 from the 976,197 for 410 games during the same period in 1952.

Average attendance per game this year was 2,132 persons, 249 less per game.

Shreveport's attendance this year was up 12,472 and Beaumont was up 574. Fort Worth dropped 4,647, Dallas 41,373, Tulsa 21,413, Houston 12,919, Oklahoma City 11,856, and San Antonio 4,390.

Pitchers Shine In Sooner State

By The Associated Press Sparkling pitching performances highlighted every Sooner State League game played Monday night.

The top hurling job of the evening was turned in by Spec Schaefer, an Ardmore right-hander, who allowed Gainesville only one hit as the Indians won, 7-0, and stretched their league lead to six games.

Neil Thode of Ada held the Shawnee Hawks to four hits in registering his fifth triumph of the season, 2-1.

Bob Shipman threw a 3-hit shut-out at Lawton to lead the McAlester Rockets to a 3-0 victory.

Pauls Valley and Sherman-Denton went 10 innings to decide a low scoring thriller that the Holders pulled out, 2-2.

Phil Masi Gets The Job Done For Dallas

By BARD LINDEMAN AP Sports Writer Dallas' dependable Phil Masi, cracked a 2-out, 2-run homer to give the Eagles a 5-4 victory over Houston Monday night. The win gave the Eagles a half game to add to their Texas League lead, making it two full games.

The second-place Shreveport Sports won and lost with Oklahoma City, beating the Indians 2-0 on Doyle Lade's first-game 2-hit shut-out, losing the nightcap 6-3.

Fort Worth shipped San Antonio 11-5 to keep its third-place position solid. The Cats are five games out. Beaumont defeated Tulsa 3-2.

The Buffs, going after their fifth straight victory, led Dallas 4-3 in the eighth inning with Floyd Woodridge pretty well in charge. Then Masi, a veteran of 13 major league seasons and always a dangerous long-ball hitter with men in scoring position, broke up the game with his seventh homer of the year.

Red Murf came on to protect the slim lead. He was the third Dallas hurler, following Hoot Gibson and starter Wayne "Waverling" McLeland. Gibson was the winner.

Buzz Clarkson hit an earlier homer for Dallas and Eddie Phillips hit one for Houston.

Odessa Beaten In Twin Bill

By The Associated Press San Angelo swept a doubleheader from last-place Odessa Monday night 6-5 and 11-1 and moved 3 1/2 games in front of the Longhorn League.

The second-place Carlisbad Potashers blasted Artesia pitching for 20 hits and ran up an 18-10 victory. Roswell skipped past Midland 4-3, squeezing home the winning run in the ninth inning.

Albuquerque Shows Way In Circuit

By The Associated Press Albuquerque showed the way in the West Texas - New Mexico League Monday night with a 12-3 win over Amarillo. The Ducks holds a 3 1/2 game lead over Lubbock.

The Lubbock club battled its way back into uncontested second place by crushing the challenging Plainview Ponies 21-5. The Ponies dropped one full game back to third place.

Clovis scored a 16-6 win over Borger with Virgil Richardson smacking three home runs for the Pioneers.

A 5-run Pampa sixth inning took the Oilers to a 10-3 triumph over last-place Abilene.

Cook's Seeking First Victory

Cook's Appliance Store softball team of Big Spring makes one last, desperate bid tonight to remain in contention for the Colorado City Jaycee League crown.

The Big Springers go to Colorado City for an 8 o'clock game with the red-hot Col-Tex Oilers of Colorado City.

Another defeat will eliminate them from the playoffs. Col-Tex, which finished fourth in regular season standings, has won two straight games from the Cook's team, one by a 3-2 count and the other by a score of 6-1.

Indications are Cotton Mize will again hurl for the Big Spring club while Gene Harham will be on the slab for the Oilers.

The Col-Tex team looked great in eliminating Sun Oil in the first round of play but, since that time, its hitting attack has been in the deep freeze. Sun Oil finished second in regular play.

Col-Tex waxed warm in defeating the regular season pace-setter, Coahoma, and since that time has performed even better.

Should Cook's win tonight, the teams will clash again on Thursday evening.

Maureen Connally Launches Defense Of Essex Crown

MANCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—Wimbledon 2nd National Champion Maureen (Little Mo) Connally opens defense of her Essex County Club Invitation Tournament title today against the world's ranking women tennis stars.

The 17-year-old San Diego, Calif., girl—rested after a week's layoff from the tournament ground—seeded No. 1 in the domestic list. She sat out last week's Eastern Grass Courts Championships for her first breather since beginning a world tour in Australia last winter. Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., second-ranked nationally, is seeded second followed by two former winners of this test—Shirley Fry of Akron, O. (1951) and Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Calif. (1942).

Hoad May Be World's Best

By GAYLE TALBOT NEW YORK (AP)—Eastern tennis fans are getting an eyeeful these days of a big, blond young man from Australia who, within another year or two, will in all probability be accepted by the experts as the greatest player the game has ever seen.

The name is Lewis Hoad and he's 18. He just won the South Orange, N. J., event from a field which included the world's leading amateurs without being really extended, and he should win again this week at Newport if he sustains anything like his current form.

Up to the past week the critics, including the Australian, couldn't quite make up their minds between Hoad and his inseparable companion, Ken Rosewall. If anything, they tended to like the little fellow, feeling that his game was better rounded and that he was a trifle smarter than Hoad between the ears.

That was before they saw Hoad, who is built like a college full-back, keep his tremendous service under control through an entire tournament. After they had seen him batter Gardner Mulloy and then Rosewall into helpless submission with the weapon they came away wondering how he could ever again lose a match.

"It's not just that first service, which is about the hardest I ever faced," said Mulloy. "If anything, that second twist service is worse. There's nothing you can do with either of them. I think this was the first time in my life I ever lost my own service just twice and lost a match."

Tex Hartwig, the newest Aussie sensation, suffered the same fate in the final. He had broken some good services when he needed to during the week, including those of Vic Seixas, the Wimbledon champion, and Ham Richardson, but against Hoad's bullets and high-kicking stuff he didn't have a hope.

Animals Think Hot Days Almost Gone

AUSTIN (AP)—Take it from the ducks and deer: Hot weather is about over.

That from the animal kingdom was relayed today by game warden Tom Waddell of Eagle Lake to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Advance signs of an early fall, said Waddell, are that the ducks and deer have begun rubbing velvet off their antlers 15 to 18 days earlier than usual.

Blue wing teal ducks began migrating eight days earlier than the average.

"Hot weather is about over, no more than a week or two left. These ducks and deer know their stuff," Waddell promised.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Asks For Public Relief In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., trying to obtain some money from her wealthy globe-trotting husband, applied yesterday for public relief.

The blonde beauty insisted she was destitute except for two pawn tickets on jewelry and a milk coat, and had no place for her or her daughter, 11, to lay their heads.

Welfare authorities told her to sell the tickets and come back when she is as broke as the other people in line.

Vanderbilt got a Reno divorce from Patricia, 33, his fifth wife last June, but Mrs. Vanderbilt's lawyer maintained it was nothing but a "malicious" divorce which New York does not recognize.

The couple have been scrapping in the courts for some time with Mrs. Vanderbilt holding a non-support warrant against him based on the contention she is about to become a public charge. She also has an appeal pending to restate a separation suit which was thrown out on the grounds that technically she is not a New York resident.

She spent last night with friends in a Manhattan hotel, her lawyer Andrew Weinberger reported, but "it's only temporary."

Developer Of Birth Control Pill Kills Himself By Hanging

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Sieve, 50, who recently developed a birth control pill, died by hanging himself, a medical examiner ruled last night.

Mrs. Sieve said she found her husband's body hanging from a rope in their home. Police said the doctor left a note but they refused to divulge its contents.

A report last October that he had developed a birth control pill brought criticism from many Roman Catholics.

Methodist Bishop Bromley Ozanam said use of the pills would not be against moral law.

At the time of his report, Sieve warned that further studies were needed before the pills could be used generally.

AFL Leaders Like Ike Labor Program

By NORMAN WALKER
 CHICAGO (AP)—The labor law changes which the Eisenhower administration tested out on Congress but never got around to recommending formally look pretty good to the AFL.

George Meany, president of the 10 million member senior labor federation, told newsmen yesterday that the reported Eisenhower plan for changing the Taft-Hartley Act seemed to promise "a definite improvement."

A proposed message to Congress was circulated among key congressional leaders just before Congress adjourned, but Eisenhower never sent it formally as his views to Capitol Hill.

The message was considered most favorable to labor. It stirred protests among business organizations, which generally have been campaigning to leave the present labor relations act alone or to stiffen its provisions.

"If the reports about the draft of the message are true," Meany told newsmen, "I feel that enactment would be a definite improvement in the law. Of course, they don't meet all the AFL demands for changing the law."

Meany and other top AFL leaders are here for an AFL Executive Council session, a quarterly meeting largely devoted to lining up recommendations for the AFL convention in St. Louis, starting Sept. 21.

Some of the AFL men said privately they believe the Eisenhower administration let the details of the proposed labor legislation slip out on purpose, and then just as purposefully arranged to have the message not delivered formally to Congress.

Local Students To Get Degrees At Texas Tech

Five Big Spring people are among those who will receive degrees from Texas Tech on Aug. 26.

Two of them get bachelor degrees, three masters. Two Stanton students are among those to earn degrees, one is from Ackerly and one from Colorado City.

The Big Spring candidates include Huey Dyson Rogers, BS degree in accounting; Melvin Barrett McFalls, Lev Dolby Spradling, and Louis Ralph Maneely, MA degrees in education.

Harold Lee Holder, with a major in government, and Eva Sue Peters, with a major on zoology, are Stanton candidates for BA degrees. Neva King Springfield, Ackerly, is to get a BS degree with a major in elementary education. Doris Sue Cooper, Colorado City, with a major in home economics, is to get a BS degree.

Meany, when asked about this, said he didn't know, but he said he felt sure that reports that Vice President Nixon was the one responsible for blocking formal sending of the message to Congress were untrue. He added that he didn't know who did block it.

Friends of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), principal author of the present law, were most agitated by the draft message, which was later described by the White House as just a "preliminary draft." Taft died on the very day that the message reached the selected congressional leaders.

The AFL council issued a critical statement yesterday about the record of Congress at the last session, winding up by urging voters to prod Congress members to do better next year.

The council may come up today with a decision on its East-Gulf Coast waterfront affiliate, the Internal Longshoremen's Association, but action may be deferred until tomorrow. The council has threatened to oust the union, under fire for harboring criminal elements, from AFL membership.

In another spat within the AFL family, the council scheduled for review today a "factional dispute" involving the Wayne County (Detroit) Federation of Labor. Meany said the fact so many Detroit area AFL unions have withdrawn support of the Wayne County group was troubling the AFL.

Other candidates in this area include: Charles Leonard Ainsworth, Water Valley, BA, Spanish; Grace Ann Bryan, San Angelo, BA, journalism; John Edward Davis, Sweetwater, BS, petroleum geology; Clarice Sherrill Douthitt, Odessa, BS, elementary education; Joan Macauley, Odessa, BS elementary education; Robert J. Womack, Odessa, BS, petroleum engineering (production); Mary Helen Kilgore, Roscoe, home economics. William Silas Devenport, Snyder, ME; Joseph Morton Glass, Snyder, ME; William Youree Gravitt, O'Donnell, ME; Laura C. Holladay, Snyder, ME; Otis Claude McKelvey, Odessa, ME; Elsie Engleman Magee, Midland, ME; Orville Herman Pratt, Odessa, ME; Ruby Cotton Standefer, Lamesa, ME; Cora Kerby Swope, Lamesa, ME.

El Paso Phelps Dodge Refinery Shut Down

EL PASO (AP)—An estimated 700 strikers of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (IUMS) have forced a shutdown in operations of the Phelps Dodge refinery in El Paso.

It is the largest copper refinery in the country.

The workers struck yesterday on failing to reach a contract.

The union asserted the company was unwilling to put into effect the kind of settlement reached with Arizona members of the union. Union and company leaders would not comment on just what the issues at stake were.

Reds Pay Good Price

AUCKLAND (AP)—New Zealand charged Russia $98 to $112 more per ton for a 1,000-ton purchase of butter than Britain has to pay, a government spokesman said today.

The Soviets want more. Negotiations are on for a Soviet purchase of another 2,000 tons of butter and possibly some meat.

C-City School Board Elects Jones, Gann

Douglas Scores Martin Claims For Republicans On Telecast

By JOE HALL
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) today labeled as "the most far-fetched thing I've ever heard" Republican claims of credit for prosperity at home and the truce in Korea.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) made the claims in a nationwide telecast last night lauding the record of the new administration and the first session of the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress.

Martin said the Korean War was "the No. 1" problem facing the GOP regime when it took over from the Democrats in January. He declared that it was met by "a refreshing toughness" in foreign affairs which "touched off an amazing chain of events."

He said, was the privilege granted the North Koreans to build airfields down almost to the 38th parallel.

As for the 7th Fleet order, Douglas said it was no change in policy—that Truman had been permitting the Chinese Nationalists to make hit-and-run raids on the coast without formal sanction.

The senator emphasized that, despite Eisenhower's order, "there has been no invasion of the mainland" by Chiang Kai-shek's forces. Martin also bore down heavily on the prosperity theme. He said "record after record has been broken" by the American economy in the six months since January.

Douglas' comment was: "Eisenhower inherited prosperity from Truman."

"If Mr. Martin is not careful," the senator added "he will have to assume responsibility for a recession, when and if one breaks out."

The filmed telecast, shown last night on the ABC-TV network, is scheduled tonight on Du Mont at 9 p.m. EST, and will be available for further showings later on.

Increases in the cost of money, is having some effect.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston now holds 25 per cent of all the farm mortgage debt in Texas, according to Evans, who also points out that the bank is now closing about 35 per cent of the total number of loans being made in Texas.

The Big Spring National Farm Loan Association, Fitzhugh says, is one of the 141 associations located throughout the state that are the sole owners of the Federal Land Bank. These associations, in turn, are owned by farmers and ranchers.

Directors of the local association are D. F. Bogony, Ed Carpenter, A. J. Stallings, C. H. DeVaney and B. A. Harris.

Farmers Putting Their Debts On Long-Term Basis

H. M. (Max) Fitzhugh, secretary-treasurer of the Big Spring National Farm loan association, has recently received an interesting communication from Sterling C. Evans, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, concerning the great increase in demands for long-term farm mortgage loans in Texas.

In this communication Evans said that a greater volume of loans has been closed during the first six and one-half months this year than were closed in any single one of 29 of the 36 years in the history of the bank. Evans says he believes one of the controlling reasons for this increase is the desire of farmers and ranchers to consolidate their short-term debts on a long-term basis. He says he also feels that the fact that loans are still being closed at four per cent interest regardless of rather sharp

C-City To Enforce Garbage Ordinance

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council met Monday night and set the date for the garbage can ordinance. The council instructed City Manager Ray Dozier to discontinue garbage pickups from 50 gallon drums on Sept. 1.

Dozier said that the majority of local citizens still used barrels instead of regulation covered containers for garbage and asked the council, "What will we do about the barrels?"

"The barrels are their business to take care of and keep emptied," said Walter Grubbs, mayor pro tem.

Grubbs said that the ordinance setting up rules and regulations for the handling of garbage had been on the books since 1950, but had never been strictly enforced.

In other business, Dozier reported that more than 20 blocks had been paved in a recent paving program.

Five Burned To Death In Crash Blaze

TEXARKANA (AP)—Five persons burned to death in the flaming, twisted wreckage of their car and a truck after the vehicles collided and exploded late last night 27 miles west of here.

All were burned beyond recognition.

Identification had not been established early today.

The driver of the truck escaped with minor injuries.

The crash on Highway 67 was near Carbondale in Bowie County.

The large trailer truck, loaded with canned goods, was traveling east. Officers said that the gasoline tanks of both vehicles apparently were exploded by the impact.

The gasoline fire flames roared for more than an hour.

The bodies were recovered nearly two hours later, after midnight.

The car, a 1951 Ford sedan, was hard to trace because it had dealer's paper license plates which were destroyed.

Billy Burton, 23, of Denton, the truck driver, had minor bruises and cuts. His condition was reported good. Burton works for the Whitson Food Co. of Denton.

K. O. Pettersson of Sweden has given about 75 quarts of blood in 140 donations to medical organizations.

Not Quite Dry Yet

The megaphone Doss Brookshire, Big Spring High School cheerleader, is gingerly patting had just gotten a coat of gold paint shortly before this picture was taken. To be added were gold tinsel, "Steers" and names of the cheerleaders in black. Looking on are Barbara Bowen, Reba Riddle, Nan Farquhar, and Anna Mae Thorp, also cheerleaders.

Cheerleaders Already Busy With Practice

Cheerleaders at Big Spring High School have been busily working during the summer getting ready for football season. Daily drill sessions were resumed last week after a brief vacation spell.

The cheerleaders have now learned 30 different yells to inspire Steer athletic teams. Only two out of the five had had previous experience leading yells in high school. Anna Mae Thorp, a senior, has been a cheerleader for two years. Barbara Bowen, a junior, was a sophomore cheer leader last year. Other cheerleaders are Doss Brookshire, a senior; Reba Riddle, a sophomore; and Nan Farquhar, a junior.

The five were selected in an election in which the entire student body voted. All candidates demonstrated their cheerleading abilities in an assembly prior to the voting. They will be costumed in black and gold, the high school colors, by August 25. That's when the costumes are due to arrive. The girls will have black wool skirts with gold stain underlining and wear a black wool weskit with gold satin sleeves.

They all said they knew that they were getting into a lot of work when they went out for the jobs. They modestly admitted that their ability to yell loudly came naturally.

The first football game is Sept. 18 against San Angelo and the game will be played there. The cheerleaders travel in a chartered bus along with other high school students when one is used. When no bus has been chartered, one of the mothers drives them to the games. The cheerleaders are chaperoned by their sponsor, Miss Irma Jean Slaughter, a high school teacher.

As well as leading cheers at football games, the five lead cheers at pep rallies, both downtown and at the school. Their work won't end with football season, either. They lead cheers at basketball games, too.

The five agree they get a lot of fun out of cheerleading even if it is hard work.

New Beverage Wins A Second Award

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — For the second straight year, Country Club Malt Liqueur has won top honors at the world-wide competition of beers and malt beverages, conducted by the famed Institut International D'Alimentation in Paris, France.

Robert P. Jorjanyav, president of the brewery, was notified today that Country Club Malt Liqueur had received the coveted Croix D'Honneur. Actually, the brewery won a double award, inasmuch as the Croix D'Honneur also was bestowed on Country Club Beer, which is marketed regionally in the Midwest.

In notifying Jorjanyav of this year's awards, Gustave Dhont, International president of the Institut, declared: "It is with the greatest satisfaction that I confirm your tremendous success in the Paris Competition."

Country Club Malt Liqueur is a new beverage, which looks like beer, but has a distinctive flavor of its own. First introduced scarcely two years ago, it has had tremendous sales success and now is marketed in more than 25 states.

Europeans Appreciate Aid, But Some Skeptical, Tourist Finds

Editor's Note: During a two-month tour of Europe, Conway Craig, publisher of The Corpus Christi Caller-Times, interviewed a great many persons, presenting the same list of questions to each in order to get comparative replies. Results of his poll have been the subject of previous articles in The Herald. Upon his return, Craig summarized and compared the replies from the various countries and they will be presented in a series of three articles, of which this is the first.

By CONWAY CRAIG

A European vacation will not give the American tourist all the answers he is seeking on issues of world-wide interest. And the answers he receives from "average" citizens of Old World countries may not agree substantially with ideas of career politicians.

However, the concise answers of the man on the street will give Americans a clearer picture of Europe's approach to current problems, which are prone to become "mothered in political red tape."

For example, the people of the United States often wonder whether Europeans appreciate or resent financial aid from the United States.

Hilde Koslowski, a 35-year-old employed German woman, came up with an answer that may be surprising, although it substantiates popular belief that there may be some resentment beneath Europe's appreciation of American aid.

Her answer — "Europeans appreciate financial aid but, at the same time, do not appreciate the efforts by the American people which make possible this aid. 'Financial aid' very often is accepted with the arrogant gesture of a beggar who still believes himself to be a king."

Another German, Hellmuth Herrmann, 32, voiced the European's fear of American power as he stated: "Clear thinking Europeans will not resent it if it does not involve complete U. S. domination. What firm would resent financial help? It should be kept in mind that these reports are not meant to be authentic polls as to the stands of Germany, France, Italy and Spain on questions asked. The answers represent merely the ideas of a few individuals who were willing to be quizzed by an American tourist."

Other opinions on the question of American financial aid are as follows:

FRENCH
Alec d'Obolonsky, 37, male, single, physician: "It is a sad fact that they appreciate it and resent it at the same time. And besides, whoever heard of somebody not jealous of a 'rich cousin'?"

GERMAN
Herrmann— "Never. But make it sufficiently clear that they are guests so that all Eastern Propaganda will be nipped in the bud. The U. S. policy should be entirely adapted to this attitude."

SPANISH
San Juan— "In my opinion, yes, because each country should have absolute independence."

Carlos Matilla Hernandez, 37, male, married, industrial engineer: "It is a pity that many European countries have to depend on the U. S., but in general I think they appreciate this estimable aid."

Fernando Munoz Altea, 28, male, single, fine arts student: "Such aid would always be good for the Spanish people. For the other European countries, I think that they have not known how to appreciate or be thankful for it."

ITALIAN
Lando Nugoli, male, Journalist: "They appreciate U. S. financial aid, but they think that it was U. S. interest and convenience to send aid to Europe."

Bruno Pieroni, male, journalist: "Appreciate. But it seems like local governments fail to underline the importance of these aids."

Riccardo Ehrman, male, journalist: "They appreciate it. At least people who are able to understand how useful it is."

Another question of paramount interest to the world is: "Should America pull troops and all government agencies out of Europe?"

Opinions by the same group of people, who answered 10 questions in all, are:

GERMAN
Herrmann— "Never. But make it sufficiently clear that they are guests so that all Eastern Propaganda will be nipped in the bud. The U. S. policy should be entirely adapted to this attitude."

Hoover Observes Birthday

Former President Herbert Hoover quietly observes his 79th birthday in his suite in a San Francisco hotel Monday. Mr. Hoover said he planned no special celebration, just a quiet dinner with friends. Mrs. O'Dwyer Said To Have Obtained Mexican Divorce

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Sloan Simpson O'Dwyer was reported today to have obtained a Mexican civil divorce from the former mayor of New York City, who became U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

The newspaper Excelsior said court records at Cuernavaca, resort town 45 miles south of the Mexican capital, showed the 35-year-old former model filed suit there Feb. 18 and was granted a divorce from 62-year-old William O'Dwyer June 3. Excelsior said she charged mental cruelty.

O'Dwyer, who quit his ambassadorial post after President Eisenhower's election and opened a law office here, would neither confirm nor deny the report.

"Our marital affairs are in the hands of the Catholic Church," he said early today in a voice choked with emotion.

Mrs. O'Dwyer is now in Spain and could not be reached immediately for comment.

According to the report from Cuernavaca, she said in her divorce testimony: "From the beginning we knew that our marriage was impossible. The irascible character of my husband, which in time led to almost continual threats and insults, is the cause of all our trouble."

O'Dwyer reportedly was notified of the proceedings and replied he was "not in accord with the proceedings of my wife," but was not on record as having fought the suit.

The O'Dwyer's announced last January that the Catholic Church had granted them permission for a temporary separation. Later the Archbishop of Mexico, Msgr. Luis Maria Martinez, said an annulment was being sought.

The couple married in 1949, while he still was mayor of New York.

Former Russian Schoolteacher To Celebrate Leap To Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—Five years ago tomorrow a Russian schoolteacher crawled out on a ledge of the Soviet consulate in New York and leaped to freedom.

Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, whose plunge made headlines around the world, will mark the event with a dual celebration.

First, she will go to a church near her home in Jackson Heights to offer thanks on the fifth anniversary of her escape.

Then she'll return to her second-floor apartment to drink a toast marking the successful conclusion of her own personal "five-year plan" to achieve Americanization. "There will be no vodka," said the 57-year-old former teacher. "Maybe just some pretzels and beer."

Mrs. Kasenkina, who leaped from a three-story window to avoid being returned to Russia, said she will tolerate no reminders of her Soviet past.

"It's a special day," she said. "I feel like an American and want to act like one."

"When I first moved to this neighborhood, I was nervous and afraid. I never left the house alone. I spoke through interpreters. Life was empty. I had broken with my past and there was nothing to fill the void.

"Today I have been without interpreters for two years now. I drive my car to the supermarket every day and chat with the other women. I do not jump every time the telephone rings."

The venetian blinds in Mrs. Kasenkina's 4 1/2 room apartment are open wide in the daytime. A special police siren once kept at her bedside is now gathering dust in a hall closet.

Mrs. Kasenkina speaks English slowly. Her conversation is in a halting Russian accent, but she has no trouble making herself understood.

Her weekly schedule is full. A few days a week an English teacher drops in to polish up her vocabulary. In spare time she paints. The living room walls are covered with landscapes and religious paintings, all her own work.

She lives on royalties from a book, occasional painting sales and private funds.

She says she is already experiencing "so much happiness it is too much for me to believe."

But she will pray for a few other things when she goes to church. She will pray that the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service will hurry her citizenship examination. She took out first papers nearly two years ago.

"I wish she would ask for the continued good health of her sister Eugenia, a nurse in England. Eugenia is the only member of her family still alive, and has promised to join Mrs. Kasenkina in America.

But her most fervent prayers will be on behalf of America and its people, who "saved my life when they gave me sanctuary. I will never forget."

Pravda Says Lovers Of Peace Glad To Hear H-Bomb News

LONDON (AP)—Pravda said today "all peace-loving peoples" were pleased to hear Premier Georgi Malenkov's claim by implication that Russia has the hydrogen bomb.

The first reaction in Western Europe was skeptical, but with strong overtones of caution. "If Russia's hydrogen bomb is more propaganda than reality at this moment, it will be reality soon enough," said Lord Beaverbrook's conservative London Sunday Express.

Malenkov in his speech to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) Saturday did not say specifically Russia has actually produced any of the dread bombs. Neither did the editorial in Pravda, Moscow's Communist Party organ.

As broadcast by the Moscow Radio, the editorial declared:

"The aggressive circles whose tactics of atomic blackmail have failed are now cherishing illusions that the U.S.A. is allegedly the monopolist of the hydrogen bomb."

Leading Western scientists conceded that the Russians probably knew, in general, how to make the H-bomb, but several experts expressed doubt that the Soviets had enough highly skilled personnel.

Mrs. Kasenkina Must Wait 3 Years To Become Citizen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina is going to have to wait nearly three more years for the American citizenship she so anxiously seeks.

Immigration service officials said today that under existing law, there is no possibility of her being naturalized until after May 14, 1956.

It was on May 14, 1951, that she obtained her certificate for permanent residence in this country, and the law says an alien must have five years such residence before becoming an American citizen.

Esquimo Has Bond Money Ready Pronto

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Ella Hopewell, 19, slapped down the $300 bail almost before the judge had said it.

It was 105 degrees in the county jail, where she would have gone on a morals charge.

And Miss Hopewell is an Eskimo.

Material Delays Slow Building

Work is progressing rapidly on most phases of construction at the new Permain Building, but difficulty in securing materials is holding up part of the project. Henry Wyninger, construction superintendent, reported today.

A shipment of door frames was damaged en route to Big Spring and also is delaying some of the work, Wyninger said.

Exterior masonry is nearing completion and workers already are installing partitions. Plasterers are busy on the second and third floors where partitions are in place and plaster work will start soon on other floors.

All windows have been installed and mechanical work is being pushed on all floors.

There also was a 45-day delay in delivery of elevators for the six-story office building, Wyninger reported. The superintendent estimated all exterior brickwork will be completed in the next two or three weeks.

Date on which the new office building will be completed still is indefinite, according to Wyninger. Speed with which the structure is finished will depend on availability of such items as doors, floor covering materials and similar supplies.

Oyster Love Life Is Given Boost

ILWACO, Wash. (AP)—The love life of the oyster is getting a boost here—in meat grinders.

Oysters in Willapa Bay aren't reproducing fast enough to suit local growers so they're grinding them up by the thousands of bushels.

The grinding mixes sperm and ova and, when the "hash" is strawn on the bay, oyster larvae form in large numbers from the fertilized ova. Full-fledged oysters grow from the larvae.

Under normal conditions, growers have to depend upon currents in the bay to bring sperm and ova together.

Surgical instruments recovered from Pompeii include spatulas, lancets, tongs, scissors, midwifery instruments and others of outstanding technical excellence.

Airman Finally Becomes Citizen After 22 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Brady, a U. S. fighting man like his father and grandfather before him, today gets the American citizenship all three of them thought he was born with.

The strange story of Airman I. C. Brady and his soldier forebears has its happy ending in U. S. district court here, with Judge Walter M. Baffman administering the oath of allegiance.

But the story begins back in the Spanish-American War, runs through World War II and the Bataan death march and comes up to date with the Korean War just quelled by a truce.

As unfolded by the Military Air Transport Service (MATS) public information division:

Until 1950, the Bradys—the 22-year-old airman, his parents, sister and two brothers—found no reason to doubt they were Americans, although they lived in the Philippines.

Hadn't Grandpa Brady taken out citizenship papers and then, back in the Philippines, fought as a U. S. infantryman in the Spanish-American War?

But in 1950 they learned neither they nor Grandpa had acquired American citizenship by virtue of Grandpa's papers and war service. So the Brady family left the Philippines and came to the United States, settling in San Antonio, Tex.

In January 1951, soon after the outbreak of the Korean War, young Brady joined the Air Force. He now is stationed MATS headquarters here.

But there is more to it than that. Half his life ago, in 1941, young Brady was thrown into a Japanese concentration camp in the Philippines, along with his mother, sister and two brothers.

The father, a U. S. infantryman, captured finally, he made and survived the long, killing march across Bataan and then lived through four years in a prisoner of war camp at Osaka, Japan.

The family was reunited in Manila when the Philippines were liberated.

Riding THE GRUB LINE
With Franklin Reynolds

Tomorrow (Wednesday) at 9 a. m. a caravan making an agricultural tour of Martin County will depart from the Courthouse Square in Stanton, and will return to the point of departure about 3 p. m.

Sack dinners will be served at noon at the Courtney School at 75 cents each by the ladies of the Martin County Home Demonstration Club. The tour is being sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce and none of the farms or ranches visited on previous tours have been included on this year's itinerary.

Everybody from this West Texas area is invited to make the trip. Martin Vavra and Ray Hastings, joint chairmen of the project, promise to show visitors some of the best irrigated cotton and some of the barest range and some of the best grass, in all West Texas.

Saddle up and let's go.

The Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo certainly got members of the Reynolds tribe together in one arena.

Mrs. Erlene Reynolds kept the records on the bull; Fess Reynolds fought the bull; Foy Reynolds roped the bull and Franklin Reynolds shot the bull.

A new corporate charter for the Howard County-South Plains Herd Association has been approved in Austin by Secretary of State Howard Carney. It is to have a corporate life of 25 years and has been designated as a non-profit livestock association without any capital stock. Listed as incorporators were Loy Acuff, Alton Youngblood and Charles W. Creighton.

Charlie Creighton reports the sale of two 10-month-old Major mischief registered Hereford bulls to Bill Cushing of Clarendon.

When Cushing took delivery of the bulls recently he reported that during the previous 10 days his place had received five inches of rain.

Chances are the appearance of green grass will pretty near scare those bulls to death, and since they've never seen rain when the next moisture falls they may be like the mountain man who met a modern bath tub for the first time. He couldn't decide which would be the greater risk, putting his feet or the other end toward the hot water faucet.

When Bill Agee of Amarillo broke the world's bulldogging record with a time of 2.7 seconds at the rodeo here Friday night, many people asked what the previous world's record had been, who made it and where and when.

The previous world's record was 2.8 seconds and it was made by George Mills at Selma, Alabama, about two years ago in a show at which Earl Sellers, formerly of Del Rio but now of Alabama, was arena director, and in which stock from Everett Colborn's Lightning Ranch at Dublin was used.

Such records should be taken, however, at whatever they appear to be worth since different shows

Iranian Reds Seek Ouster Of The Shah

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's Communists were expected today to push harder than ever for the ouster of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi as the payoff for their strong support in plebiscite votes approving government plans to dissolve Parliament.

The nation's provincial areas gave Premier Mohammed Mossadegh a whopping 1,441,156 to 694 vote yesterday approving his demand for the ending of the Majlis (lower house of Parliament). Last week, Tehran and its suburbs okayed the proposal 166,607 to 116.

The Communists voted in full strength. Estimates credited them with at least 70,000 of the Premier's votes in Tehran.

But the Communist campaign against the Shah and his court appeared certain to weaken the Reds' ties with Mossadegh. The Premier has shown no desire to go that far against the ruler, insisting only that he "must resign" and that the government must be supreme.

The Reds have demanded a new constituent assembly to revamp Iran's constitution. In addition to ousting the Shah, they want to break up his court, which they claim is "the principal entrenchment for imperialism."

The plebiscite vote though hugely in Mossadegh's favor, was held under the shadow of a boycott ordered by opposition leader Ayatollah Kashani. The powerful religious leader charged the vote was a device to permit Mossadegh to rule as a dictator, without Parliament.

Mossadegh is expected to ask the Shah for an imperial decree dissolving what's left of Parliament within five days. Reportedly he has said he plans to hold elections for new legislators within 15 days after the rump Majlis is officially dead.

Last Time It Was Redskins; Now Cars

DENVER (AP)—The last time Thomas W. Woodward visited Denver, he was frightened by an Indian. Returning yesterday, his concern was over traffic.

"The town's grown a little bit," he said. "Never had this problem with automobiles last time."

The "last time" was in 1885, "when I was a little shaver going on 4."

Woodward, a retired farmer and resident of Hurley, S. D., will be 91 tomorrow. He came here on a trip with his son, Harry R. Woodward, school superintendent at Hot Springs, S. D.

Man Injured Near Albuquerque Monday

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—An injured mountain climber was carried from a Sandia mountain ledge east of Albuquerque last night after being trapped with a broken arm and other injuries for more than 20 hours.

Hugh de Witt, the injured man, was reported by doctors to be "in good shape."

A Bible Thought For Today —

This obsolete custom ended with the camp meetings of earlier days. Outdoor living even for a week would help refresh the lungs and heal them through deep breathing. Many religious rites have had therapeutic value. "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days." — Leviticus 23:42.

Look Around You And See If You Really Have Reason To Complain

Anyone who has been around half a lifetime or more has seen many individuals, families, communities and even nations go into various stages of deterioration and decay.

Some families disintegrate, decline or degenerate, and this is always a sad sight to behold. Others, apparently beset with every discouragement and disaster fate can cook up against them, refuse to budge, but stand up and slug it out with trouble to the end. We believe the latter kind outnumber the former several times over, because we believe a majority of people refuse to take the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune lying down. If it were not so, this would be a pretty sorry kind of world we inhabit.

Almost every individual or family has been touched by tragedy of one kind or another. Somewhere, from some inner resource, or more often a trust in God, they find the strength not only to survive, but to present a brave and gay face to the world.

Not everyone who deserves a medal of some sort wears a uniform. There are unsung and unrecognized heroes and heroines in every day life who are called on to perform prosaic deeds requiring as much courage as charging a machine gun nest. And we are not speaking of physical bravery, but that which is far greater — moral courage.

A fellow said to us he had been feeling blue and down in the mouth until he visited a local hospital and saw what other people had to contend with. Well, a hospital is probably the best place on earth to instill humility in visitors, unless they are dumb like the ox. Such courage, such patience, such suffering endured! A few hours in and around a hospital just observing the misery and unrelieved horror of human tragedy is the best way we know of to get rid of that feeling of self-pity that assails us all at times.

No matter how tough you have it, brother, there are countless others who have had it even tougher. If you have nothing but your bare hands and a reasonable share of good health, you're doing all right.

Being Sorry Doesn't Erase Them And 'Typos' Continue A Plague

Typographical errors are the bane of existence for the printing industry, especially the newspaper wing. We ran across a near-classic in Paul Crum's "Big D" column on the front page of the Dallas News the other morning. Paul was discussing the menu at an East Texas hotel, where for a fixed fee you could "eat as much as you want of hit biscuits, fried chicken or whatever." Of course, he might have been referring to beaten biscuits, a culinary standby, the probability is he stubbed his toe on a typographical gremlin . . .

To our thinking the prize type of all time was that reputed to have been committed by a Southern newspaper in the days just after the war of the 1850s. The editor was trying to refer to a local ex-colonel of great dignity and expert julep judgment as a "battle-scarred veteran." It came out "bottle-scarred." Apologizing profusely for this unfortunate mishap in the next edition, the editor tried again. This time the colonel emerged as a "battle-scarred" veteran . . .

Somebody has figured out that in a single line of type no fewer than 35,000,000 combinations of letters is possible. That sounds a little exaggerated to us, but you simply can't exaggerate the possibility of a typographical gremlin getting into the paper, no matter how much pains may be taken to keep it out. There are many chances of getting things wrong. First, it could be written wrong in the first place. Second, it could be messed up in the tape-punching or the type-setting. Third, it could be put back in the form in the wrong place. Occasionally, in our experience, a line of type may be set and reset four or five times in an attempt to get rid of a gremlin—and then come out in the paper wrong . . .

Being sorry about it doesn't eliminate errors, but as we said in the beginning what the trade calls "typos" are the bane of existence for everybody in the printing industry. And sometimes they defy all attempts at correction. Considering the intricate and accident-prone processes involved, the wonder is there isn't more.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs Bradley Always Felt Military Had No Right To Form Policies

WASHINGTON — Change is the prevailing order in this restless capital and faces and names shift with the certainty if not the rapidity of a newsreel. The result is a certain indifference as the departing figure is rather hastily pushed out to the sound of welcoming cheers for the newcomer.

General Omar N. Bradley has been in Washington for eight years, two years as Veterans' Administrator, two as Chief of Staff of the Army and four as the first Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. That is a long time by the standards of this town. Although as a Five Star General of the Army Bradley, under law, never "retires" in the literal meaning of the word, he is now stepping out into private life.

His years in Washington have been crowded with shattering events that meant a constant pressure of unrelenting responsibility. As Army Chief of Staff and later as chairman of the JCS he was part of an extraordinary evolution.

The "bring the boys home" demand beginning immediately after V-J Day in 1945 was compounded by the economy drive of the Truman Administration. Under Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson a low point was reached when the total number in the armed services was 1,462,496 with only 590,000 in the Army. That low point was on June 30, 1950, just five days after the North Koreans attacked South Korea.

dispute into politics, Bradley was drawn into it. Appearing before the Senate committee investigating MacArthur's dismissal, he testified that for an all-out effort Korea was the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time. That was his military judgment in relation to the potentiality of Soviet Russia and the need to safeguard the storehouse of industrial capacity and know-how in western Europe.

For this he was pilloried as he knew he would be. He was accused of trying to defend the Truman Administration as later he was charged with inconsistency for not having challenged the Louis Johnson economy budget of $13 billions for defense.

Bradley's deep and continuing conviction, and in the view of this observer he has done his level best to live up to it, is that military men under the Constitution of the United States have no right to try to make either military or foreign policy. They are subordinate to civilian authority no matter how high their rank in carrying out the orders of the Commander-in-Chief, who is the President. Most of the criticism directed at him has come because he tried to live up to his belief in the nature of authority under our system.

Bradley was a soldier even though he wore five stars on his shoulder and in the showdown he took his orders. In the longer light of history, when some of the bitterness has presumably worn away, that may be seen as part of the great service he has rendered his country. It may in fact, despite his towering reputation as a field commander in the war in Europe, appear as his greatest contribution. For it leaves behind a precedent, an example, that cannot be ignored. This is part of the character of the man which is at the base of the enduring monument that is his career.

Not for nothing was he the symbol of the GI, the doughfoot's general, the prototype of Bill Mauldin's famous cartoon figure Willie. That was a recognition of the qualities of patience, modesty, loyalty that no amount of fame and glory could obscure. They are rare qualities in this town. And it may be that the very fact of his patience and his modesty helped to irritate the blusters and the egotists demanding all the final answers spilled out in certain terms with victory wrapped up in a balanced budget.

Bradley never professed to know all the answers. His military judgments were made with the recognition that in a world of chaos, revolution, upheaval one decision could not be assumed to be somewhat better than another. He listened to those who knew all the answers but he begged leave to differ.

Bradley's goal has been to maintain a defense force sufficient to keep the peace in the world. He has seen the current military budget cut under $35 billions by a new civilian team that did not ask his military opinion. As he steps out, he is fearful that in the name of peace and economy America's armed strength will again be disastrously cut.

The bitterest controversy of Bradley's tour of duty in Washington began to develop when American forces were driven back from the Manchurian border with the entry into the war of many Chinese divisions. Then the deep split in the armed services concealed from the public in World War II broke into the open. This was a rivalry between Europe and Asia for supplies, men, ships, publicity with the rival factions centering around General Eisenhower in Europe and General MacArthur in Asia.

As the tragedy of Korea brought this

Malenkov Accomplished Many Things In His 2-Hour Speech To Supreme Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's Premier Malenkov got a lot of mileage out of his two-hour speech to the Supreme Soviet.

He pushed any hope for a German settlement further into the dim future and used the German issue to try to drive a wedge between France and its Western allies.

This was in addition, among other things, to promising the Russian people a better living standard and suggesting that Russia may have the hydrogen bomb, was a kind of climax to a series of events which got world attention for months.

Eisenhower in his April 16 speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors challenged Russia to prove any peaceful intentions it might have by deeds. As an example, he suggested Russian agreement to a free, united Germany.

British Prime Minister Churchill quickly applauded this speech as "massive and magnificent." Almost a month later, May 11, Churchill made a sensational speech of his own in the House of Commons.

He proposed a conference on the highest level among the big powers, meaning himself, Eisenhower, Malenkov and whoever would be head of the French government at the time.

Eisenhower seemed to think this was rushing things. Before any meeting with the Russians he suggested a meeting of himself, Churchill and the head of the French government. They then could agree on what they would discuss with the Russians.

This meeting, planned for Bermuda this summer, was postponed indefinitely when Churchill had to rest from fatigue. Then the United States, Britain and France decided their foreign ministers should meet.

So Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of France and Britain met here in July. At the end of their session they invited Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov to meet with them somewhere later.

In his invitation to the Russians, this country made plain what it wanted to discuss: unification of Germany and free elections in which the united German people could choose a government for the whole country.

There could be no real peace until there was controlled world disarmament, this country said, but before that could happen there should be a settlement on Germany.

On Aug. 4 the United States received a Russian note which seemed to say they'd be willing to talk about Germany but suggested the big thing to discuss was "measures to reduce international tensions."

Reducing international tensions might mean many things that the State Department experts in this kind of talk still had their microscopes on the Russian note when Malenkov made his speech last Saturday.

Men Should Get Equal Fashion World Rights

NEW YORK (AP)—Men need a Christian Dior, a bold fellow to restore the male feeling of being quite a guy.

Gents are in a male quandary. We either have to expose more of our charms or retreat to the soft anonymity of the sleeping bag.

As I read the front line reports from the great style war in Paris, women don't know whether to throw away their corsets or keep them, elevate their skirts to their knees or go ahead and protect their thick upper ankles, expose their bosoms more or try to throw another layer on those they have rented or bought.

It seems to me that in this moment of feminine doubt men should move in and take over their old peacock strut. Let man again be king of fashions, as he once was. I do not advocate long stockings, tight pants, and lace at the throat, although George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were robust and masculine in such attire. As a matter of recent history, some people feel that a gent doesn't represent his sex fully unless he has worn khaki. That's unfair, because a lot couldn't.

It might just as well be the other way around. Why shouldn't a woman feel uneasy if she has never worn the uniform of her country? That is the pattern of some nations. Certainly no woman who believes in equal rights can deny today how much happier her life will be if she has only won the approval of a lady top sergeant for the way she can strip down a machine gun or make a bed.

The problem for men is to win equal rights in the world of fashions. Why shouldn't women worry about how far we bare our chests? Wouldn't they fret about this problem if men were courageous enough to make it a problem? Same thing at the other end. Short or long pants. A man ordinarily has his pants just long enough so that he trips on them if his rubber heels wear down.

If you see a guy with his cuffs above his ankles, you are sure that either he went to Princeton or he got caught out in the rain with a cheap suit.

Maybe it's time for us to dazzle our girls. Show that thin gray hair on the lean but vibrant chest, expose the male fatted calf.

Think how you could confuse your wife by wearing the cousin of the hat she confused you with!

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

The man nominated for governor by state convention on this day in 1878 could make the statement that he did not seek that high office and prove it.

For Oran Mila Roberts, governor of Texas from 1879 to 1883, was not even present at that convention. Other office-seekers were, and the convention was hopelessly divided. After five days of balloting, harassed delegates appointed a committee of 32 men to meet and cast votes until one candidate received a majority. On the fourth ballot Roberts received 18 votes and thus won the nomination as a compromise candidate.

Roberts was living on a small farm near Tyler when he learned of his nomination. He rode into town, the story goes, "on his fan-tail spotted pony, wearing that historic Prince Albert coat and smoking that familiar corn-cob pipe" and borrowed four bits from a bartender so that he could send a wire accepting the nomination.

Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court both before and after the Civil War, Roberts won great praise for the keen analysis and high intelligence of his decisions. He organized a law school in Gilmer in 1868 and after leaving the governor's office became professor of law at the University of Texas, where he became known as the "Old Alcalde." First president of the Texas Historical Association, his legal and historical writings have contributed valuable source materials to students.

Carpenter Goes After Idaho Senate Pigeons

BOISE (AP)—Carpenter Lawrence Hewitt went pigeon shooting in the Idaho Senate chamber yesterday with an air rifle.

Two of the birds flew in through an open window five days ago. Efforts to shoot them out were unsuccessful.

Hewitt hit one on the first try, stunning it so it could be put outside. Its companion finally escaped through an open window unscathed.

Telephone Employees Ask Cooler Offices

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Some 1,200 employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Austin, Waco and San Antonio, Tex., walked off their jobs yesterday protesting lack of air conditioning in their exchanges. Temperatures soared over 100 degrees, the workers said.

Austin's Bell employees voted to go back to work today pending negotiations for installation of air-conditioning facilities.

There was no indication when the other employees would return.

'Hens In Cages' Egg Production Method Raises Dust In England

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Jimmy Greene, who is promoting the "hens-in-cages" method of superior egg production, and such fellows as Ed Fisher, who are putting it into operation, should be glad they're at work on it in Texas instead of in England.

The plan originated in the United States, but like most good American projects (not actually starting in the Lone Star State) it reached England before it got to Texas, and over there it has become a national issue and one that threatens the very foundations of the Empire.

In spite of the fact that under this plan a hen will produce 30 or 40 more eggs a year than under the old-fashioned hen house method; and in view of the additional fact that the English (we won't include the sturdy Scotch; the determined and self-reliant Irish; and the rugged Welsh) claim to be half-starved most of the time, they're raising the purple beard of the prophet about the poor hens in the "battery system" as they call it.

Over there is a right active Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and this Society condemns the "cages" or "battery" system because it is "unnatural" and therefore "conducive to unhappiness among hens." At the next session of Parliament they're going to insist on a law outlawing the program. Animal happiness is even more a preoccupation in England than in the United States and arguments about the "hen battery" system have been filling the news and editorial and "letters to the editor" columns of the English newspapers recently.

The foes of the system point out (whether true or not I don't know) that the plan over-stimulates the hen's egg production system and wears her out more quickly; that she is subjected to 24 hours of intense artificial daylight; that her legs atrophy and that she can hardly walk when released after months in the cage that is two feet square and without a solid floor. This group is waging a campaign to convince the farmers that the "deep litter" system where the hens can run around and scratch as God intended they should, and where they can nest in the comfort of deep straw in roomy nests, is a better plan.

On the other hand the English limitations of Jimmy Greene and Ed Fisher (and being English they will have to be, at their best, mighty poor imitations, indeed, of the real article) are banded together in a group called the "National Union of Farmers."

From this group is heard, in London, substantially the same arguments that we've heard right here in Big Spring, which are that the hens like living alone in the little wire cages in which they spend all their productive lives, which average 10 months; that they like being egg-laying machines; that laying eggs is her crowning glory, and that if she weren't happy the system wouldn't work at all, because only contented hens lay regularly; that she is healthier; eats better feed more regularly; doesn't get any contamination through eating; that she can easily be kept free of lice, and that her life is actually no more unnatural than that of human families shut up with their dogs and parrots in city flats.

Pointing out that there's no prospect of ascertaining the hen's views, the great London Daily Mail, in a front page editorial, has called for "a thorough and authoritative inquiry into the whole matter."

Now I'm not going to take sides in the controversy from either of the two angles being debated. But I am interested from another standpoint.

The hens have their champions who think in terms of egg production and who appear to be unable to conceive of hen happiness except in terms of egg production. They speak of the "natural" and "unnatural" but I'm afraid they've missed the point entirely.

As the great Benjamin Franklin was credited with saying: "Gentlemen, we've got to hang together or we'll hang separately."

Therefore I would like to raise the point of rooster happiness and insist that all roosters are endowed by their nature with the inalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of hens.

I think, therefore, that I can settle the controversy with the pronouncement that you can't have happy hens without you also have happy roosters.

Sahara Desert Is Now Viewed As Land Of Many Possibilities

It gives one a queer feeling of a world in constant state of flux to be told that the Sahara Desert is something more than a vast area of sand, traversed by camels ridden by sheiks. Yet, into our modern world, the Sahara moves upon us as a political and economic potential of a high order. It is no longer to be regarded as a desert, but a land of vast and unforeseeable possibilities.

The Romans knew something of that and therefore destroyed Carthage. The Mohammedans knew something of that when they conquered the north of Africa from Cairo to Casablanca. But neither Roman nor Arab ever realized how dependent the world would become upon minerals, how the center of political power would be associated with the possession of minerals, that uranium would become more important to the security of a state than gold.

It used to be that the nation that possessed gold was rich. Then coal and iron grew in importance. In this century, copper, lead, zinc, tin, uranium vie with coal and iron in economic and political significance. For instance, the United States obtains practically all of its uranium from Africa and Canada which have therefore taken on an altogether new meaning for this country, as our life as a free people depends upon our access to this mineral.

The Sahara is full of minerals and metals. It is a vast region of nearly 6,000,000 square miles or nearly twice the size of the United States. (There is some difference of opinion as to the actual size of the Sahara, depending upon how the territory is calculated.)

Most of the Sahara is controlled by France and may, in the not too distant historic future, become economically more important to France than France itself. In fact, if the French can hold onto the Sahara, particularly to the French protectorates, Tunisia and Morocco, France could be restored to a first-class power which she has not been since 1870. The restoration of France's position could change the balance of power in the world. It could make France the greatest of western European countries.

The substitution of motorized transportation for the camel and the fiery Arab horse can make all the difference in the development of the Sahara, for, while the camel, horse and nomadic flocks of sheep are picturesque, the tractor, jeep, airplane and automobile will change the face of this continent of sand. Nor will life be so dependent upon the oasis, surrounded by palm trees. Modern machinery can be brought in to find and dig wells, not only for water but for oil which is beginning to appear in quantities. Modern irrigation methods can transform wilderness into agricultural paradises.

I have recently been looking at some figures showing mineral wealth already produced in this region. It runs to copper, iron, manganese, lead, zinc, tin, sulphur, and coal. Manganese is particularly important because it is not readily available for American steel production and every new find proves valuable. Coal is abundant, rising in Algeria from 17,000 tons in 1930 to about 600,000 tons in 1952. In the Moroccan part of the Sahara valuable anthracite mines are being exploited.

Africa is still looked upon as a dark and unknown continent but it is nothing of the sort. World War II established its tremendous importance as a base for the defense of our country from any European aggressor. In the event of a war with Russia, the United States will more likely be based on Africa than on any country in Europe and the Sahara desert will be very important to us. Actually, considerable developments of this nature have already taken place.

That is one reason for the increased interest in that part of the world and the tremendous impetus that has been given to its exploration in recent years.

Another importance of the Sahara is that once modern methods of irrigation are applied, it will be possible to increase the population of the Sahara, transferring large numbers of Europeans, particularly farmers, from those countries that are vexed with surplus populations for which few solutions are at present available. For instance, migrations of Italians, Spaniards, and even Germans to the Saharan countries may be expected in increasing numbers during the next half century. The movement of Europeans to Africa could alter the social complexion of that continent.

Guppies Honor Trinidad Man

During the early part of the present century, it was rare to see any kind of "pet fish" in a home except goldfish. To this day, goldfish are popular, but in addition there are tropical fish in many homes.

A niece of mine, whose first name is Cosette, used to find intense delight in her tropical aquarium. She gave up the hobby before she went to another city to enter a university, but she certainly enjoyed watching the fish during a period of years. When I made visits to her home, she would show me her fish and would tell me things which they had done.

Among the fish in Cosette's collection were guppies. These little fish have come to the front in public favor. They can live in water with a range of from 65 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. It seems best to keep the temperature of their water between 70 and 85 degrees, but it is a comfort to their owners to know that a drop or rise of several degrees outside those limits is hardly likely to harm them.

Guppies were named in honor of Lechmere Guppy, the man who first gave the world a good account of them. Guppy collected many of the fish from the waters of the island of Trinidad. Since then, it has been found that they are native fish of the mainland of South America, as well as Trinidad. They are found in many parts of Venezuela and the Guianas. During the past quarter of a century, they have been "planted" in several warm countries to help in mosquito control. A full-grown female guppy may be two inches long, but the males are only about half that length.

Like mosquito fish and certain other kinds of fish, guppies are born alive. Three or four broods of young may appear within a few months, and the keeper of an aquarium will need several tanks unless he gives away his "extras."

A female guppy has sober coloring, commonly gray-green, but the males are so brightly colored that some persons call them rainbow fish. Yellow, orange, red, green, lavender and purple are colors on the males.

Leave PMA Committee

These men are three of the four members of the Texas Production and Marketing Administration Committee who announced their resignation in Dallas, Texas. They were appointed by a Democratic administration. They charged that their new chairman, Claude K. McCann of Victoria, Tex., an appointee of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, had failed to call a regular monthly meeting in July and that decisions on state agriculture policies were made "without consultation of the other legally appointed members." Left to right as they checked their telegram of resignation to Benson are Victor L. Cade, Lubbock, Tex.; Howard T. Kingsberry, Santa Anna, Tex.; and J. R. Adams, La Feria, Tex. The fourth committee member was Gary B. Sanford, Timpson, Tex., who was not present for this picture. (AP Photo).

Believes Reds Will Have A Revolution

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (U)—Former Ambassador George Kennan said today he is sure revolution eventually will "take place in the Soviet orbit."

Kennan, ambassador to Moscow last year and a recognized authority on Russia, gave his views at a seminar on Soviet imperialism.

He pictured Russia's danger to the outside world as probably on the wane. Kennan said Soviet ideas no longer have a powerful attraction in the Western world—where the danger, he said, is one of military power. In Asia, he suggested, there has been "a certain turn of the tide of battle" toward realism and common sense.

Plainly the edifice of Soviet power is faced today with severe strains and crisis," Kennan said. "If our own beliefs are sound, Soviet power will continue to suffer, as it is suffering today, by the effects of its own unsoundness—its incompatibility with the deepest human needs, and it will eventually earn the retribution it so justly deserves. x x x

"The weaknesses of the Soviet system will catch up with it eventually. We should remember that interference often has effects opposite from those intended. Interference in the affairs of a nation is like interference in a family quarrel when the intrusion of an outsider is the only thing that can unite the family."

Kennan differed here, as he has done before, from the announced policy of the Eisenhower administration, which is to assist Russia's satellites by peaceful means in breaking loose from Moscow's domination.

Mrs. Tucker To Open New Plant

Reversal of the traditional North-South expansion of industry will become a reality Thursday when Governor William Stratton accepts the dedication of the new multi-million dollar Mrs. Tucker's Foods plant at Jacksonville, Illinois, on behalf of the people of his state. Home offices of the company are at Sherman, Texas.

The new Mrs. Tucker's plant in Jacksonville is the most modern and has one of the largest capacities for refining and processing vegetable oils in the entire world. Construction has required three years, and includes huge storage tank facilities capable of handling more than 600 railroad tank cars at a time; a vegetable oil refinery; a hydrogen production plant; packaging lines for production of consumer and institutional shortenings, margarines, salad and cooking oils; a refrigeration plant; large warehouse and maintenance installations; and extensive office and management space, including a company cafeteria. The plant will require between 400 and 500 employees for operation, ultimately.

Founded in 1913, Mrs. Tucker's was a pioneer in the manufacture of vegetable oil food products and for many years, has been a leader in the Southwest vegetable oil field. In February, 1952, Mrs. Tucker's Foods became a part of Anderson, Clayton & Co., the largest cotton merchandiser operating around the world.

The selection of Jacksonville as the location for additional plant capacity was made because of its nearness to the center of the rich farming area of the Midwest, both for convenience in the purchase and transportation of raw materials and for expansion of the company's distribution. Products which will be made in the new plant include Mrs. Tucker's Shortening, Meadolske Margarine, and Mrs. Tucker's Salad Oil, for the retail market; and Velvet, Glean, Southern Queen, and Kerba Shortenings, and other cooking oils and fats for institutional users.

U. S. Buyers May Purchase More Wool In Australia

SYDNEY (U)—The wool-broking firm of Winchcombe Carson forecasts the United States may buy more wool in this new season. The Australian wool-selling season opens in Sydney Aug. 31. Japan replaced the United States last season as the second biggest buyer, after Britain, of Australian wool. The United States bought only 69,110,000 pounds of greasy wool compared with 129,690,000 the year before, and 10,425,000 pounds of other types, compared with 26,436,000. Ahead of the United States as buyers of Australian wool were the United Kingdom, Japan,

France and Italy. Commenting on the new season, Winchcombe Carson said: "At this period of 1952 the major South American producing countries held large quantities of unsold wool. The greater part of those supplies have since been sold. In that respect, therefore, the selling position of the sheep's stable is stronger than a year ago. In 1952-53 the United States mills, to a considerable degree, drew on stocks held in bond. Those holdings have not been fully replaced. It is quite possible that United States purchases of wool will be larger in 1953 than they were in 1952-53."
