"People Sharing Knowledge" read posters announcing "Project Up", a new non-profit program designed to help children of the Arnett-Benson and East Lubbock neighborhoods. It is sponsored through the Community Action Board in Lubbock County and is primarily funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

This project seeks to aid these children by providing them with free tutoring and by introducing them to the opportunities of the community. Every week, Monday through Thursday—between the hours of four and six—volunteer tutors, working without pay, come to the Rodgers Community Center and the Mae Simmons Multi-Service Center to share their education experiences.

On Fridays, the Project sponsors recreational events at each center. In addition to these activities, the tutors introduce the children to civic and cultural events in Lubbock. For example, Project Up workers have taken a group to Texas Tech Museum, a swim meet at the university, a Tech play, Continued On Page Three

DOING THEIR CORNBREAD THING—If you ask these young people, they'll quickly tell you that there is nothing to it when it comes to making cornbread. They are, from left to right, Lee Neal, Kenneth Johnson, Terry Moore, Richard Johnson, Gary Williams and Shirley McGraw. These brothers and sisters are participating in the new program—Project Up!

CAB Funding Ok Announced by State Last Week

Governor Preston Smith last Friday announced his approval of a community action grant of $33,958 in federal funds to Community Action Board in Lubbock County, Inc. in Lubbock for operation of the agency's programs.

The grant is funded under Title II of the Economic Opportunity Act, and is effective March 1 through June 30, 1972, the first four months of the agency's program year. Program accounts and the amount of federal funds allotted each are: Administration, $10,054; General Community Programming, $15,420; and Family Planning, $8,484.

Four to six new neighborhood councils will be formed through General Community Programming, and these councils will participate in the formulation of neighborhood goals for self-improvement. Creation of economic development enterprises will be encouraged in each council, and technical assistance given to that end. In the neighborhood centers services such as tax help, consumer and health education and sewing and nutrition classes will be provided. Also, a county-wide housing program for the repair of dilapidated houses will be conducted, and a youth development project will be established.

Also through General Community Programming an emergency food and medical services project will be conducted which will involve a special summer lunch program for 200 enrollees, assisting 30 families with gardening and canning and continuing operation of the Food Pantry for hungry, malnourished and temporarily destitute families, serving 10-30 families per week.

TSU is First Black School in Sigma Delta Chi Fraternity

Texas Southern University was the scene of installation ceremonies for the first chapter of Sigma Delta Chi ever established on a predominantly black college campus.

The national professional journalism fraternity inducted fifteen TSU students into the organization, and presented the campus chapter its charter at a luncheon meeting in the Clayton Room of the Student Union Building, March 18, at 12 Noon.

The Associate Editor of the Arkansas Democrat Robert McCord, presided over the induction and presented the charter.

The publisher of The Informer, Texas' oldest continuously published black newspaper, Mrs. Carter W. Wesley, was also honored by the students during the luncheon.

The fifteen charter members are: Carolyn Kaye Rollison, of 2111 E. 29th, here in Lubbock; Herbert Lee Hawkins, Bay City, Texas; Deborah Rene Mann, St. Louis, Mo.; Beverly Maria Strauss, Melody D. Prince Hall Masons Meeting Staged Here

The Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge, F. & A. M. of Texas held its annual Regional meeting in the Convention Center of the Red Raider Inn last Saturday and reported a most successful meeting, according to J. B. Burrell, local Worshipful Master.

"The Grand Lodge is of the Prince Hall group who received its Warrant from the Mother Lodge in England and is the only Regular Grand Lodge among Black people in America," reports Grand Master I. H. Clayborn of Dallas, Texas.

During the session last week-end, Grand Master Clayborn held workshops and the Grand Secretary, Volney B. Phillips, worked with the secretaries of the local lodges in this region.

The meeting was hosted by the local lodge here in Lubbock; Pride of Lubbock Lodge No. 328. Also during the session, the Heroines of Jericho and the Order of Eastern Star held their workshops, under the leadership of the Most Ancient Grand Matron, Mrs. H. D. Harrison; and the Worthy Grand Matron of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Eddie M. Johnson.

The coordinator of the meeting was L. W. Mathis of El Paso, Texas. The total members is in excess of 80,000 members and the lodge is still growing and helping, both the young and the old, according to Burrell.

Attendance of about 200 persons for the Western Regional parley were from a region extending from Wichita Falls to Tuscon, Arizona. Among the group attending from Amarillo, Texas were Mrs. Jean Hisbon, Mrs. Alva T. Franklin, Mrs. Nada

Anderson, Mrs. Juanita Knapp, Mrs. Bessie Grayson, Mrs. Deborah Lamar, Mrs. Ella Webster, Mrs. Bertha Huff, J. N. Allen, John Sanders, Herman Thornton, James Sanders, Herman Thornton, James Rowe, Cecil Nickerson, M. Kelley and others.

After the meeting, some of the persons visited old friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Franklin is a former resident of Lubbock. All reported a very successful meeting and royal entertainment at the Red Raider Inn.

Omega Psi Chi Now Newest Fraternity

A new fraternity, Omega Psi Chi, has been organized at Texas A&I, according to Curtis Ivery, Amarillo senior who is president of the new organization.

Although the fraternity was organized by the Blacks at A&I, membership is open to all male students with an overall 2.0 average.

Officers in addition to Ivery are: 1st vice president, Brooks Holcolombe, Victoria junior; 2nd vice president, Leopold Tousant, Galveston junior; treasurer, Reginald Thompson, San Antonio junior; secretary, Harvey Gooden, Amarillo sophomore, and sgt. at arms Felix Cook, a Houston junior.

Ivery hopes that in the future Omega Psi Chi will be able to affiliate with Omega Phi Psi, a national fraternity which originated at Howard University in Washington, D. C.

PRESENTS AWARDS TO LOCAL CITIZENS—In a press conference last Friday afternoon at Holiday Inn East, representatives of the National Minority Business Foundation revealed plans to give awards to Lubbock citizens who had contributed with an open heart to minorities in Lubbock. From left to right are: Mrs. Thelma Bass, Guy Bass (both of Fort Worth), Elder W. D. Haynes, Otis J. Martin and Mrs. Adelle Martin, also of Ft. Worth. Those persons honored at a Friday evening banquet included Reverend A. L. Davis, Emilo Garza and Mr. Roy B. Davis.

Voters Should Be Motivated This Year

With a record in voter registration in Lubbock County, as well as other counties in West Texas, voters should be motivated to participate in this year's elections.

In Lubbock County alone, there were 74,444 persons who had so far registered to vote this year. Of course, this is a new record and exceeds the old record in Lubbock County by 9,385. The old record was 65,059 in 1968, the last presidential year.

Qualified voters will have an opportunity to participate in the upcoming school board election which is on tap for Saturday, April 1st. This election, as suggested by many experts, may bring a record crowd to the polls to elect the board of trustees of their choice.

With eighteen persons vying for the four positions open in the upcoming city election Saturday, April 8, another record turnout of voters is expected, as is the case with the May 6th primary.

There will be two interesting items on the local city election slate. Liquor by the drink and the garbage financing referendum should create excitement for local voters April 8th.

Now that we know how many of us are registered to vote in the upcoming elections, we should all encourage each other, our relatives and friends to make sure that we participate in the various elections. Regardless of what group we belong to, or what area of the city we live in, let's all "turn ourselves on" when it comes to casting our vote.

We have said, from time to time, that your vote does count and it is something precious. Do not be guilty of saying it won't matter if you vote or do not vote. Rather, go to the polls and take some of your friends and relatives with you. Don't let people program you so you won't participate in the elections.

We should all be motivated to participate in the various elections in our community. True, there are some politicians who don't believe you will go to the polls and vote. This has been a favorite topic of discussion among some politicians for years. It seems that the idea has been accepted that people of poorer neighborhoods just will not vote when they have the opportunity. It is high time that the citizens decide to show politicians they can't predict what you will or will not do.

The West Texas Times believes in the people of our community. We believe that we will turn out in great numbers and be motivated about participating in all upcoming elections.

We know that there are approximately 80,000 poor people in the Lubbock County community. These people include Black, brown and white who are below the poverty line. In other words, there are approximately 16,000 poor families in Lubbock County and of that number, a healthy guess would say that the poor community of Lubbock County could easily elect whom-ever they choose for school board trustee, mayor, councilmen and county commissioner.

Young people, who became voters for the first time ever, in most cases will vote with the poor. This, too, should help create some type of motivation in all elections in Lubbock County this year. Young people, too, are a minority.

Politicians—school board, mayor, city councilmen and county commissioners—should realize that there is more awareness in Lubbock County than ever before. Those 74,444 registered voters point this fact out. That is to say that a record number have been motivated to the point of registering. By the same token, we expect that motivation and awareness to carry over to the upcoming elections.

Think!

by Dr. R. W. Jones

A Pathetic State

In 1965, the Grand Dragon of the Klu Klux Klan Made the following statement, "We are making too much ado over the nigra and civil rights, because by 1970 they will want everything back as they were in 1963, having their own schools, their own communities, and not caring about integration." I have written that statement once before and it seems as though he knew the wants of the Negro better than we do.

After hearing and reading about the results of the Black convention held in Gary, Indiana, the weekend of March 10th, 1972, I lost control of my thinking process and gave in to the destroyer of sanity-hate. The emotional hate that was driving me was the same as that possessed by any psychopathic murderer and prevented me from thinking and acting rationally. All I could see was three thousand Blacks acting the same as the KKK and giving people like George Wallace ammunition to spread his racism and hate. At the moment I was hitting the keys of my typewriter I was no better than Wallace. I failed to practice what I preach. I didn't think, or stop to examine carefully the entire reports about the convention before going off half cocked.

All I could see was John Kennedy lying in the lap of his wife as a speeding limousine carried him to Parkland Hospital, Dallas, Texas—the place of his death; I could see Martin L. King lying in the arms of Ralph Abernathy as he lay dying on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel at Memphis, Tenn. I could hear the excited voice of the television announcer and the screams of the crowd as the cameras focused on Bobby Kennedy as he lay bleeding on the kitchen floor of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, and also heard the judge in Mississippi say, "not guilty," as he read the verdict of the known murderer of Medgar Evers. My brain kept screaming in my head, "all those men and others died for equality. Now it appears as though two power struck individuals—Jesse Jackson and Roy Ennis—using dirty political tactics, playing on the emotions of a group of uncontrollable Blacks passed a preamble that could eliminate everything these martyrs died for."

Jesse Jackson, only a few months ago having been fired by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference because of actions that were suspect and contrary to Martin Luther King's policy, has an axe to grind and Ennis has preached separatism from the time he took over CORE. It is evident that they are not interested in equality but a Black nation.

How can we, in all fairness, call George Wallace a demagogue when we have Blacks who preach the same sermon, nationwide as well as locally? A Black racist has no more virtues than a white racist.

Who was represented at the Black convention and how were the delegates elected? Did all delegates have access to the preamble before voting? These are questions that should have been answered before the report was released as a document that was assumed to be accepted by the entire (Afro-Black-Negro-colored) American citizen. The results and mechanics of the Black convention were no less than antics of a circus clown and placed the rest of Black Americans in a very precarious and pathetic state. The Wallaces will use these results and beat us to death the rest of the year by saying even the Blacks are with them.

I take a vow that I will never let myself be a victim of careless emotions. I will always keep the lantern globe of my mind polished in order for clear thoughts to come into my system—not clouded, obstructed, or opaque. I will think at all times. My way of prayer will be clear thinking in order to be realistic and have constructive results.

I pray to God for forgiveness for letting that murderous emotional hate take possession of my entire body for those brief moments.

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

Joan Y. Ervin, a candidate for Place One on the Lubbock Independent School District, did a splendid job last Tuesday evening at a reception held in her honor at Mae Simmons Community Center.

Sister Ervin, your speech was beautiful and I must applaud you for the comments you made about the responsibility of the parent. You came home when you said, "We (parents) should train a child in the way he should go and when he's old he will not depart."

As I See It, you are an asset to the present school board and should continue to do a splendid job in the future. I can appreciate what you stand for and I'm sure there are many other thousand people in our community who feel the same.

Thanks Joan, a million for your remarks. Like you said, "It all begins at home."

I had an opportunity of chatting with Darrell Mitchell, an All-District 3-AAA basketball star from Odessa Ector, last Friday. The 6-6 star has his eyes on Texas Tech University and could really be an asset to the Red Raiders.

It's always wonderful to talk to young fellows with goals in life who are willing to work hard in order to put those goals together. This is what I got from Brother Mitchell.

By the way, Darrell tells this writer that he enjoys reading the West Texas Times each week.

Thought of the Week: "A laugh is just like music, it lingers in the heart, and where it melody is heard, the ills of life depart."

I had an opportunity, several weeks ago, to witness some young ladies (between the ages of 18 and 25) cash—and boast—about the welfare checks they had just received. To me it was a bad scene to see young, healthy, ladies rely on the welfare check each month to live off of when they could easily develop themselves in order to become somebody.

I've said in the past that welfare is one step short of starvation. I also realize that there are some people who are in dire need of assistance and either receive a small check or none at all, but to see young ladies like the ones I recently witnessed, makes one wonder what to do about the conditioning of our young people in this world. Of course, welfare is not geared to any particular race or color and is taken advantage of by all groups.

After investigating in the community, I found that some of the ladies support the habits of their boyfriends and many times forget their responsibility as mothers to the three or four children they have. Also, some purchase "Saturday go meeting clothes" (including wigs and the like) and let their financial obligations go untouched.

Many of our readers may say I have no business exposing such things in our community. Well, every man to his own thing. I firmly believe that these young ladies must be reached now so they can become a positive part of society. They all have talent and can contribute something to the world in which we live.

Yes, things I've seen from the welfare point of view would make many shed tears—especially when you view the children of many recipients suffering neglect and hunger.

It's time for local manpower programs to work, hand in hand, with the local city-county or state welfare agencies and come up with a program to "turn these young mothers on." We've got time in West Texas if we start now.

organized swimming classes, and educational movies.

Group trips to musical and dramatic programs are also planned for the near future. Furthermore, the project co-sponsors other young people's organizations, such as a Boy Scout troop and a Camp Fire troop in the Gteen-Fair Manor complex.

The main core of the program is the desire to aid the children in their school work and to encourage their interest in the learning experience. Project Up, thus, offers guidance through its staff in music, art, history, government, English, foreign languages, science, home economics, home repairs, auto mechanics, and physical education. The Project's 75 tutors are primarily college students who have completed at least part of their studies in the areas which they are tutoring projects.

The concept for the project was originated by Stan Harrell and Jan Grigg, who have been working in similar programs for the past few years.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

It's gotten to the point in sports that, instead of a calendar, you need a good watch. The calendar can only tell you what month it is; the watch can tell you when an event begins.

Take this crazy spring. Here it is March, when it's supposed to be cold, windy and miserable. So what do we have? Summer, that's what. Also, the calendar is supposed to tell you that it's baseball time.

Baseball time, ah. That means spring training in the balmy Florida breezes. Winter's far away and players everywhere are getting ready for the advent of a new season. Right? Wrong. That old winter sport, basketball, still is very much with us. So is hockey. And now what comes along but football.

Football? In March? Yet, football. Oh, well, get out the old Timex and throw away that calendar. Well, throw away the bottom part, the one that says it is still winter. But keep the upper half, the one with the pretty girl on it.

Did you ever see such a mixed up time of the year? Tech opened spring football drills Monday; the NHL hasn't even started the Stanley Cup playoffs yet; the NCAA basketball finals are due this weekend; baseball teams are getting ready to go North; golf and tennis is being played; and fishing is very much on the mind and in the activity of anglers.

There's no more clearcut season, no time when you can say "this is football season," "this is basketball season," "this is baseball season." It's all one big jumbled up mess. And the only loser is the guy who can't adapt to more than one sport. Great season, spring.

Texas stumbled and fell to Kansas State last Thursday, but the Longhorns did the conference proud. They battled the Wildcats on pretty even terms, even without John Wilson and Lynn Howden—and with Larry Robinson in bad shape.

UCLA, as expected, goes into the semi-finals and should win everything Saturday. With three sophomores in the starting lineup, headed by Bill Walton at center, the Uclans ought to be good for two more years. And they used to scream: "Break up the Yankees!" How about breaking up UCLA?

Then there's Tech baseball. Kal Segrist finally has his program rolling, apparently, after a long time a-building—and without scholarships or much of anything except determination, leadership and some fine talent.

Kal has built a good mound corps around homegrown Ruben Garcia of Brownfield and backed it with solid hitting from Doug Ault and others. Doug might be the best major league prospect since Charley Harrison.

The first big test comes when the Raiders travel to Cowtown to face TCU Friday and Saturday. A sweep of that series would really give the Raiders momentum going into their crucial (another overworked sports word) series with Texas here the following weekend. That series should bring out the biggest crowd since the Hubbers played at Rosenthal Field.

As for spring football, the Tech coaching staff is faced with a massive problem. They have to build a defensive backfield almost from scratch and it will be tough to equal the record of last year's nation-leading group.

In addition, the defense only has four starters back and if any coach in the nation did a better job with the material that he had than Richard Bell, no one has heard of him. Bell disguised weaknesses last year better than Sherlock Holmes—and a "weak" spot became Tech's strongest department.

A year's experience could make a big difference in how much work is needed in the defensive department. It should be slightly easier to build a strong defense, especially since the potential seems to be better than a year ago. And Tech still has Coach Bell.

As for the offense, it's hoped that there will be a new look—more imagination, more passing, more outside attack to open up the middle, more flexibility in general—and a whole lot less calling every play from the sidelines.

Proven depth is available in numbers in the backfield, with probably the most interest centered on the two-year old battle between Joe Barnes and Jimmy Carmichael. Neither has all the ability wrapped up in one, which is the dream situation. But both have a world of talent and should be sharper with a year's age.

As for the running backs, Tech has several better than average, none with breakaway speed, unless Lawrence Williams is shifted from quarterback. It should make for competition and a good spring.

Finally, just a word about Vida Blue. The 1971 first half star slipped badly in the last half and his salary demands are a little ridiculous. He deserves a healthy raise, but not one he has been demanding.

Sports can be strange. Blue might win 30 games this year; or he might be lucky to win 10. He knows it, Charles Finely knows it. So why try to make it all in one big jump? A raise to $50,000, another good year and Blue might well make $100,000 his third year in baseball. A lot of established stars aren't making that with more time under their belts.

He's a victim, I fear, of poor advice, something that is ruining more players today than owners. His proposed PR job might well be fleeting. Sports fans are funny. They forget in a hurry. But employers don't and two years from now Blue might be out of everything, with nothing to cushion his fall.

An acorn was frequently used as a design on Colonial furniture because it was considered a symbol of hospitality.

Meet The Candidates Program Set Tonight

A "Meet the Candidates Party" has been announced by the Lubbock Men's Civic Club and the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Both organizations have invited all local, county, school board and state candidates to participate in a speaking session tonight at 8:00 at Mae Simmons Community Center.

The general public is invited to attend. Each candidate will be given five minutes to speak on his or her position.

made it. When he came face to face with me, he stopped, and said to me, "Young man, do you know Christ?"

I began to answer by saying, "I am a preacher. I preached last Sunday at the Simpson Chapel Church for Rev. Baker and this Sunday night I will preach at Wesley for Rev. F. D. Young, and I am in your class of Old Testament Homiletic." He waited until I had finished. He then said, "That is not what I asked you. The question still is 'do you know Christ?'"

For Jesus has said not everyone that calls me Lord shall enter the Kingdom. Now is the time to search ourselves and find out for ourselves whether or not we really know Christ.

Easter Sunday is less than two weeks away. Sunday is Palm Sun-
