Lubbock Schools Open With Over 31,000 Enrollment On First Day

School is underway in Lubbock as well as in many other school districts in the country. In the Hub City, approximately 31,000 students turned out on opening day.

To be exact, according to Gordon Downum, public relations representative, the first day's enrollment was 31,253, which is only 21 shy of last year's first day attendance of 31,274.

Expected peak enrollment for the public schools this year is 33,013. This figure is expected to be realized after the first six weeks period.

Projected peak enrollment for 1971-72 throughout the system includes kindergarten, 763; elementary grades, 16,847; junior high grades, 7,630; senior high, 6,453; and special education, 1,320.

Records of last year's top tally included 33,620 at the close of the first grading period.

Kindergarten, limited to five-year-olds (with birth dates between September 2, 1965 and July 1, 1966) who have either a language or economic disadvantage, is being conducted in 20 elementary schools this fall.

Those schools implementing such programs are Arnett, Bean, Guadalupe, Harwell, Jackson, McWhorter, Martin, North Avenue U, Parkway, Posey, Hodges, Iles, Sanders, Southeast, Tubbs, Thompson, Wheatley, Wolffarth and Wright Elementary.

Eligible children, however, may attend classes even if the schools in their attendance area does not have a kindergarten program scheduled. Parents should contact the school principal in their attendance area for more information.

A Head Start Program is also being implemented this year for five-year olds with similar educational disadvantages at Guadalupe, Harwell, Iles, McWhorter, Martin and Posey Elementary Schools.

Chew is expected to teach sociology at the black institution of higher learning. He shared with the West Texas Times, in an exclusive interview, one of his newly created projects, SHARE, which appeared in this media last week.

Floydada—Solomon P. Hamilton, Soil Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Floydada, recently completed a ten month training course offered by the Department of Agriculture and the SCS. The study course entitled "Elementary Principals of Management" is offered to those who are working toward a supervisory position in the SCS. The course deals with subjects such as Supervision, Working and Communicating with People, also Writing, and Policies of the SCS.

The West Texas rains came Monday morning, but it didn't stop the dedication of the new Federal Building-United States Courthouse. Approximately 200 Lubbockites were on hand to witness the unveiling of the dedicatory plaque by U. S. Representative George Mahon and Robert L. Kunzig of Washington, D.C., administrator of the General Service Administration.

The principal speaker, Rep. Mahon, made it clear that "it doesn't make much difference what is said in the principal address." He finished his point by saying, "What really counts is what has been done here and what may be done here."

The new Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse unites the Lubbock Federal community into one centralized location, thus facilitating the interaction of activities between the Government agencies and their service to the public.

The eight-story, light-brick structure parallels Broadway, with the principal entrance facing Texas Avenue. This entrance, which also serves the two-story Courthouse wing, opens onto a portico with white marble columns. Pairs of vertical dark gray windows, set in dark gray aluminum framed by

Lubbock OIC Director Terms Trip Successful

Eddie P. Richardson, newly appointed executive director of the Lubbock Opportunities Industrial Center (LOIC), returned from a trip to San Francisco, California, where he attended a public relations workshop last week.

The workshop, which was sponsored by the National OIC in Philadelphia, Pa., was termed as successful, according to Richardson, who has been a columnist for the "Times" for a year and a half. His column, "My Views," is seen each week.

"Communications is a most important factor of black people and other minority groups in this country," says Richardson. "This is what the workshop was about. The experts, who served as consultants, made this fact known to all participants in the four day long meeting in the Bay City," he continued.

The new program is operating at 2200 East Broadway.

architectural cast stone trim, extend from ground floor to the overhanging roof.

The new building houses approximately 500 Federal employees representing 43 agencies in modern, air-conditioned office space. It was designed by the Lubbock firm of Atcheson, Atkinson & Cartwright and constructed by the Lubbock firm of H.A. Padgett, Jr. Building Contractor.

The chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, George Mahon, places emphasis on the dedication when he said in part that its dedication should coincide with "rededication to the principles that made this country great."

City of Slaton Shooting for Large National Manufacturing Firm Plant

A lot of energy was put together in the Slaton, Texas community last week to make every effort possible to secure an unidentified manufacturing firm. The industrial development leaders of Slaton, which were aided by community volunteers, worked day and night in an effort to complete a labor survey requested by the large textile manufacturing company looking for a new plant site.

All of this came about, after it was recently announced that Slaton was one of the "finalists" in the company's search for a new plant site—and one of the factors was to be the labor survey. The company announced its plant would need between 400 and 500 women, and about 4,000 applicants were needed to assure the availability of the labor force.

The West Texas Times learned that 3,000 job applications were received last week and more were expected to come in. Bill Adams, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, felt as though the only real problem was time itself.

The large company had chosen to remain anonymous throughout the site negotiations.

It was made known however, that 400 to 500 women would be hired. The plant would require about 100,000 square feet of floor space, and local officials estimated a payroll of about $2 million a year.

The survey includes women within a 25 to 30 mile radius of Slaton. The chamber in Slaton

On hand at the 10 a.m. ceremonies, which had been scheduled outside, were Mayor James Granberry, who welcomed the group and a host of other officials including state Senator H. J. "Doc" Blanchard, Reps. R. B. McAlister and Delwin Jones; County Judge Rod Shaw and County Commissioners; Dr. Grover E. Murray, President of Texas Tech University and city councilmen and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

U. S. District Judges Joe Estes and W. M. Taylor of the Northern District of Texas joined Judge H. O. Woodard of Lubbock in the ceremonies as well as U.S. Attorney Eldon Mahon.

worked through several organizations in Lubbock for help in the survey and advertisements were placed with area newspapers and radio stations.

The Women's Division of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce has been a vital part of the survey, following up on names submitted and getting additional information for the job application forms.

Congressman George Mahon Honored on South Plains

U. S. Representative George Mahon, 19th Congressional District, and chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, will be honored in West Texas, several times while Congress is in recess. One event took place yesterday in Odessa. The theme for the man from Lubbock is "George Mahon Days."

The veteran congressman will be honored in Brownfield Saturday and in Midland Tuesday, August 31st.

The congressman will be guest of honor Saturday in Brownfield at a barbecue in Colean Park. The event will coincide with the annual Terry County Old Settlers Reunion.

Midland activities, the following week, will include a family-style, community-wide barbecue in Wadley-Barron Park.

Midland County has been a part of Mahon's 19th Legislative District since 1964. Portions of Ector County were included in the 19th District in recent redistricting.

Blacks Still Being Left Out!

The newly erected Federal Building is a beautiful complex which adds a great deal to downtown Lubbock. The new building, which was dedicated Monday, certainly enhances our federal community here in Lubbock. On the dedication program were many outstanding people, from the local business community, government, including city, state, county and federal branches, and distinguished guests from as far away as Washington, D. C. Everything about the dedication ceremonies was great, with one exception, there was no Negro included either on the program itself, or on the list of distinguished guests that shared the platform.

It's particularly bad when the black man is left out of a dedication ceremony such as this, especially when the building was built with the help of all of the taxpayers in the United States of America. Lubbock, as well as this country, cannot continue to leave out certain segments of our population when the tax dollar is being used to implement a program or facility.

In a city of 140,000 plus inhabitants, we're sure there are blacks who are capable of appearing on such a program, or at least being a part of the distinguished guest list, which were on hand for the memorable occasion. There is no excuse which can be accepted for not seeking out a black to serve in the dedication ceremony in some capacity.

Lubbock, Texas, itself, has over 14,000 black people who certainly were entitled some form of representation in the program. The black community needs more images for our young people to see. True, this solo affair would not have answered all of the problems now facing this community, but it would, without any doubt, served as a path toward gaining some of the images we're looking for in our community.

Those who are in positions of responsibility in our city should take heed to the need and importance of total representation when they are using public funds to build and support facilities such as the Federal Building here in Lubbock.

This newspaper would like to hope that a polite 'pull of the coattail' will help certain people realize that black people are a little tired of being continuously left out.

As black people, we're sure we speak in accordance with our other brothers and sisters when we say, Black people are tired of being left out. But more than that, we are especially tired of being left out of public funded projects. It's time for the total populus to know how we feel about such matters. Right On!!

It's Worth Mentioning

There's a brother in our community who realizes the need for black men to start setting images in their own family. This brother, who is a swell person, sees the need for showing his two sons what it is to work and make a buck. He places emphasis on the idea of holding on to what you get.

Raymond Peppers, Jr., newly appointed activities and audio visual director of Estacado High School, is the father we're talking about. He has been working with his sons on the idea of "working and saving your coins."

His sons, Anthony and Ricky, are fortunate to have a father who really cares about the image the two boys project. He is, at the present time, showing his sons, ages 11 and 13, how to cut yards, clean flower beds and perform other yard maintenance activities. As the young father explains to his sons frequently, "you need to do a job right, because the world is watching what you are doing. If you do a good job, you'll go places."

Although he is teaching his young sons the discipline of yard work, the principals he is using are what's important. These same principals can be applied to any profession one day.

We're glad to have young fathers like Brother Peppers who believe in the father image.

Wouldn't it be nice if this type of attitude existed in the total black community? Thanks, Mr. Peppers, let's hope your "thing" will catch on in other families.

We Live By Symbols

by Jodie C. Sanford

Some time ago, Eddie Richardson made a few remarks about symbols. That same time, another writer in the Times discussed the birthday of Dr. as a national holiday. Both items are important and should be placed on the black agenda. To say the least, I am confused in an attempt to understand why 20,000,000 people must go and ask the president, "Can we have a holiday?" Must we get approval for such things if we really feel strong about them? If we want a holiday and I do, let's have one.

Let me give just one example of how this can be done. This writer attended Dr. King's funeral. From about 7:00 a.m. to about the same time in the p.m. everything in Atlanta was closed. That night, I made a remark to a white friend that, "It was nice for the city to honor Dr. King's funeral." This person said, "do you think the city honored the funeral?" I replied yes, and my friend shot back, "No, that is not correct." He said everybody in this city knew that no black man would report for work so they just closed.

I am inclined to think that black people let too many things get in our way to take care of business. June 19th is a very important day for black people, but we are so brain-washed about such things that this day is just about washed out of our mind. Next week plans are underway to discuss the fact about June the 19th.

The Now Revolution

We are in a period of transition. There must be many changes, and we must learn to do many more things differently.

The time for a lot of wasted rherotic and garbage phrases is over. We must correct ourselves from past mistakes and revolutionize our minds, not with guns and bullets but with ideas and ballots. Our actions, words and deeds must be direct and to the point, whereby all levels of brothers and sisters on any educational scale can understand what the now revolution means.

Our basic message must however, be leveled basically around the grass roots, with the idea of self-help or "we help our selves." Every, below system level, disadvantaged human being should be able to say with clarity and authority, "We know where we're going."

The now revolution is here whether we accept it or not. We have to be able to cope with transition and accept change, while at the same time having enough sense to realize we cannot live on and cling to past shattered dreams, ideals, standards and beliefs. A new day is here.

The now revolution, the one I support, is structured around change, as any other revolution in history. But I am not for bullets or bloodshed. Instead the now revolution will push for change

To establish a King holiday is a symbolic act. Symbolism in Religion and Literature, edited by Rollo May, included among other things a topic by Brother Nathan Scott, Jr., "The Broken Center," which is recommended reading for those interested in symbolism.

One can gain insight into the process of people and nation building by taking a serious observation of the role of symbols in a people's culture. The clenched fist and other symbols should not be taken lightly when we look at the total situation of the black man. Churchill had his V sign, and as a World War II veteran I can well remember the effect of the flag and my response. Any people trying to get and keep their thing together need the following items: symbols, slogan, effective means of communication, myths, yes, myths, but I have not finished yet, the last is propoganda. Take a hard look at history before you wipe the idea out.

Not only do we live by symbols, but once those symbols lose meaning, we are in for big trouble. As Dr. May points out, ". . . An individual's self image is built up of symbols. Symbolizing is basic to such questions as personal identity. . . . Contemporary man suffers from the deterioration and breakdown of the central symbols in modern Western culture."

Now the cat in the street would put it this way, "Man, without symbols you will flip your wig. The I can relate to the Thou only through symbols. The I and Thou is in fact a symbolic relationship. I drove up to a traffic signal, there were no words, just a red light. I stopped!"

The Science of Hair Styles—In a recent conversation with a young business college student, Nathaniel Norman, it was pointed out that there is, or should be, a science in hair styling. The hair style should be in keeping with the individual's personality. One should consider size, height and facial features. The Stylist (one who masters) must also consider hair texture and its growth pattern.

To encourage good grooming in the black community of Tyler, two projects are underway. At the Afro dance at the May Fair Building August 28th, door prizes will be awarded to those with the best Afro hair style.

Secondly, Mr. Norman is involved in a research project to identify by names the various Afro hair styles. He would appreciate any information the public might wish to share on this subject. You may write him at 1505 West 29th Street, Tyler, Texas.

In addition to these projects, Mr. Norman operates the "Magnificent Afro Salon" and will enter his junior year this fall at Texas College, Tyler.

through economics, politics, updated living standards, job and social status for the disadvantaged human being.

The house "nigger" is detrimental to himself and to humanity. As a whole he is in the way of progress and change. He still wants to hang on to the silly idea that "I'm the only 'Negro' here." He'll pay three times more than a house in worth just to be able to say, "I'm the only one in my neighborhood, out here." And he'll take pride in being "the only one on my job," or the only "one in my school."

So what? What does this prove? How much revenue does this generate in the ghetto?

Brothers and sisters, the transition is here. Let's not live in the past. The past is gone, done and will forever lie.

Let's resume the marches of the late '50's and early '60's but in a different manner. Instead of marching in the streets with signs, let's march to high school, college, training centers—such as OIC—and then on to economic and neighborhood stability. From there we can march on to ownership and managership. Then and only then will the whole world see where we're coming from, and we will know where we are going. We must be positive with our goals and objectives if we are going to ever move ahead.

A statement was made by a sharp young brother from Philadelphia last week in San Francisco at a meeting that rung a bell with me. He said, "Most minorities are mentally lazy because they have not been challenged to think."

I'll challenge every member of a minority now. "Think, look before you leap, and then check the results."

Aggravated Assault

Jose Cara, 1607 Vanda Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he had a problem last week-end. He was taken to Methodist Hospital after receiving a large cut on his left forehead and a cut on his left arm.

He did not, however, give the name of the person who did the cutting on him. At the time of this report, he did not know whether he would file charges.

Cutting

A Lubbock woman told police that she would not file charges against a 30-year old man who cut her.

The woman, Evelyn Joyce Mc Daniels, of Parkview Apartments, 2802 Juniper Avenue, Apt. 10, told police they had an argument. There was a struggle and the man did take a knife out of his pocket and cut her on the hand.

She was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

Vandalism

Mary P. Gillespie, 1716 East Dartmouth, Apt. B, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did take time to pour a soft drink on the top of her '70 model automobile.

After investigation, it was learned that this soft drink caused the paint to change colors and Mary was unable to wash it off.

Strong Arm Robbery

Four men told police they were at the Lucky Corner Club one day last week when trouble broke out. They also admitted they were drinking beer. While doing so, a man came in with a shotgun and they were all relieved of their billfolds.

One of the men was hit in the face with the butt of the shot-gun.

The men did not want to file charges or give further information because of the publicity involved.

Vandalism

Claude Sherrill, 1742 Cornell Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police that someone did throw projectiles at his house one day last week.

It was learned that the objects broke two asbestos shingles. They were valued at $5.00 each.

Attempted House Burglary

Mrs. Edwina Fury, manager of Chatman Nurses Home, 2310 Date Avenue, reported to problems at the complex last week. According to Mrs. Fury, perhaps a resident of the apartment left the front door open and an outsider came in and attempted to break into her apartment.

It was learned that the door to Mrs. Fury's apartment had been tampered with, but there was no entry into the apartment. According to Mrs. Fury, all of the apartments are real close together, but none of them were entered.

There was approximately $10 to $15 worth of damage done to her door. She collects rent and this could have been the primary reason why her apartment was chosen for attempted entry.

Afro-American History Notes—The history of the black man began long before the voyage of the Mayflower. It stretches back into the dim mists of time. Compared with the history of other cultures and people, our historical knowledge of Africa is rather sparse, according to the Association for the Study of Negro Life & History. Until the present century, Africa remained as dark a continent to most historians as it had been to the geographers in the early 19th century. Only now is the real story of the black man coming to light.

As the Study of Africa proceeds, archaeologists and anthropologists leaning more and more to the idea that the first human beings evolved on the African continent. The remains of, possibly, one of man's oldest ancestors, states these same sources, have been found in northern Tanganyika. There the archaeologist L.S.B. Leaky found remnants of human prototypes nearly two million years old.

There is in Africa evidence of a human society which existed almost 50,000 years ago. This society was remarkably similar to the stage of human development in Europe at the same time. As early as eight thousand years ago, the Ishongo people in the Congo were using an abacus or primitive multiplying device. In the Sahara desert are to be found rock printings of human beings by Negroid people who lived more than three thousand years ago.

Long called the "cradle of civilization" Egypt has been regarded as the source of the early beginning of western civilization. Historians are not certain of the physical appearance of the ordinary Egyptian in the days of the ancient Greeks, although Herodotus, the father of history, called them "black and curly-haired". Homer and other Greek observers described the Tgyptians as "men of burnt faces."

From the Red House: Hote Casella is half Cherokee and now an Indian singer of note in New York City. She was born in Texas and brought up in California. Miss Casella says music played an important part in the lives of the red people. "They had a song for almost anything—love, different ceremonies, work, play, songs to the wind, sun, rain and of course, many lullabies." She concludes that "Indians have only been presented as warriors and that is false. Naturally they fought to protect their country. I feel our culture is important and our young people and our nation should feel a great pride in it," stating that she sings the songs in the Indian languages but that she also tells the stories behind these songs.

Ford Foundation Grants amounting to almost four million dollars have recently been awarded. Advanced study awards were made to 157 blacks, 26 Mexican-Americans and Puerto Ricans and 8 Indians. The one year awards average five thousand dollars and cover full tuition and fees, books and supplies and a monthly living allowance. Doctoral fellowships were made to 71 blacks, 23 Mexican-Americans and Puerto Ricans and nine Indians. The fellowships averaged $5,000 per year for a period of up to five years. Interested?

And then—Dear Bob: The time has come to call a halt to the welfare racketeers before they louse up the program for those who have reasonable need. . .The way I figure it I only weigh 160 pounds and stand 5 feet 5 inches and black, thus if I can work 15-18 hours a day to feed my brood, the husky jokers I see riding around here with rouged-up, wiggid chicks who own the pay checks from the welfare office ought to be able to put in eight without breaking their backs.

"I want to make ti clear that not all welfare mothers are guilty. I know some fine young women who use their checks wisely and keep their noses clean, but I also know a number of the other kind and the increase in this kind is what disturbs me. And let nobody talk some about soul brother or sister, because the louse who digs in my pocket for tax money to buy beer and fun is no soul brother of mine, period.

"Why do I have to pay to support kids that some chick found out in the bushes while she was stewed with joy juice? The first time around mama can file an accident report but the second time around in this day of the pill and contraception, she's got to be pulling my leg if she tells me it was an accident. We must adopt some kind of work training program for those capable of working as well as limit the number if illegitimate children a mother can place on welfare rolls. Nixon's program is not ideal but it is a start in the right direction.

"We cannot afford and should not afford punks who run around scaring up babies for somebody else to support while they spend their time in the bed, in beer joints and on the street. They don't know it but their days are numbered and anyway that I can help it along you better believe that I'm going to." Signed Charles J.J., Jr.

Lubbockites Attend Services at Cooper

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Childress left last Saturday evening for Cooper, Texas to attend final rites for Mrs. Fannie Mae Mays, who was a cousin of Mrs. Ernestine Childress.

Services were conducted Sunday, August 22, at 1:00 p.m. at the New Zion Baptist Church with the Rev. B. R. Mitchell officiating.

Mrs. Mays was born and reared in Cooper, Texas and had been employed by the public school system for twenty-seven years when she retired in 1969.

She died suddenly last Thursday morning about 7:00 from an apparent heart attack.

Among her survivors are her husband, Leonard; four uncles, and many cousins, other relatives and friends.

Other Lubbock relatives, besides the Childresses, are Mr. Quentin Bates and Mrs. Doris Oats.

Ferguson Funeral Home had charge of arrangements and burial was in the local cemetery.

Baylor College of Medicine To Lower Tuition Fees

Houston—Baylor College of Medicine, the state's only private medical school, will reduce tuition charged medical students who are Texas residents from $700 to $100 per quarter, L. F. McCollum, board chairman announced recently.

The rate reduction will become effective upon execution of a contract between the college and The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, after the beginning of the state's fiscal year this September, probably in the second quarter of Baylor's 1971-72 academic year. It will not be retroactive.

The new tuition charge, approved at the board's annual meeting, is the same amount currently charged Texas residents by the state medical schools.

The tuition reduction for the 1971-72 academic year is made possible by a $2.5 million appropriation from the 62nd session of the Texas Legislature. Baylor is also expanding its student body and will increase the number of Texas residents attending the college. Of 144 freshmen admitted in July, 67 are Texans.

Our name is "Nazarene" because we are associated with the international Church of the Nazarene. But most of all we try to be "Christian" and follow the pattern of Christian living outlined in the Bible. We are pioneering a new congregation in the parkway section of Lubbock. It is hard and exciting work, but we have found that every sincere effort brings rich rewards. We are endeavoring to serve God by serving our community. We can use leaders and followers, and dedicated talents of all kinds. There is a spot for you and your abilities, and plenty of opportunities to develop new talents. We are inviting you and your family to be part of this abundant Christian living.
