

Atlanta NAACP Officers Ousted

New York—(NBNS)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said last week that it has removed from office Lonnie King Jr., president of the Atlanta chapter, and other officers of that branch because of their refusal to rescind their support of a controversial school desegregation plan which opted for more administrative positions for blacks in the school system rather than maximum busing of school children.

The action was taken at a meeting of national officers of the civil rights organization in Atlanta last Wednesday and letters were sent to local officials informing them of the decision.

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, said that Gloster Current, director of branches for the organization, was named administrator of the Atlanta office.

King had been provisionally removed and Current named at the group's convention in Indianapolis, Ind. last July 2. The Atlanta meeting was to confirm the decision to remove the local officials, and to bar King from holding office for two years.

The Atlanta officials were directed to turn over all bank accounts, correspondence, and other property to Current. In the letter notifying them of the decision, Wilkins said he regretted the necessity for the action and expressed appreciation for past services.

THE UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND (UNCF) recently held in Houston a three-day celebrity golf tournament. Gulf Oil sponsored a banquet to help raise funds for the 44 black colleges and universities that comprise the UNCF. This was the first fund raising effort of this type to take place for UNCF.

Along with the college presidents, celebrities such as Sammy Davis, Jr., and James Drury of The Virginian were on hand for the golf tournament. Mr. Ralph L. Lewis, Vice President for Gulf Oil-U.S., who was the keynote speaker for the banquet, stressed the importance of such fund raising efforts because "a mind is a terrible thing to waste."

Slayer Gets 999 Years

Houston—(NBNS)—A man who had his murder conviction and 60-year sentence overturned by an appeals court last May has been convicted again and given 999 years in prison.

Although the prosecutor asked for a sentence of "only 100 to 200 years, the jury wanted to convey a message." Jerry Leonard Fairris, 38, was found guilty of shooting a Houston Motel operator, Willie Nash Bell in May of 1969.

The jury deliberated only 20 minutes before determining the sentence.

Food Costs $208 More Than Last Year

Washington—(NBNS)—In case nobody had to tell you, the cost of food for the average family of four went up $208 over the cost last year.

The Agriculture Department revealed that the annual rate cost of a typical family food basket rose to a record $1,529 in July. On a weekly basis, it means the basket cost in July came to $29.21 a week, up 23 cents from June and $4 from July, 1972.

Prices are expected to soar even more when the retail freeze on beef is lifted this month.

Heart Transplant Celebrates Anniversary

Indianapolis—(NBNS)—The world's longest living survivor of heart transplant, Louis B. Russell Jr. had a big fifth birthday party last Sunday.

The 48-year-old Indianapolis teacher said that the day he received his new heart at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond started "the best years of my life."

Mayor Charged With Assault

Seat Pleasant, Md.—(NBNS)—Mayor Henry T. Arrington has been charged with assault in the continuing battle between him and the city council in this predominately black town in suburban Washington, D.C.

Black Named School Deputy In Richmond

Richmond—(NBNS)—Dr. Richard C. Hunter has been named the second ranking administrator in the Richmond school system, effective later this month.

The 34-year-old educator becomes associate superintendent for educational services. He formerly served as deputy superintendent of public schools in Seattle, Washington.

Blacks Rapidly Losing Faith In Government

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(NBNS)—Keep the faith should be the slogan that the government try to instill in Black Americans. For, according to a recent survey released last week by the University of Michigan, blacks have lost their trust in the government about four times faster than whites since 1968.

"The evidence on race is clear", the study notes. "While both black and white attitudes have become increasingly cynical, blacks have especially estranged (themselves) from the Federal Government, national leaders, the election system and the political parties."

It also reveals that black faith in government reached an all-time high in 1964 with the election of the late Lyndon B. Johnson to his first full term as president, which also was noted as the peak of the civil rights movement.

However, four years later, the study noted, black confidence in government reached a record low with the election and later the re-election of President Nixon.

Howard Prexy Calls for Reopening of Jackson State Shooting Probe

Washington—(NBNS)—The president of Howard University last week called for the reopening of the Jackson State shootings, which occurred 11 days after the May 4, 1970 incident at Kent State University in Ohio. The latter case was reopened last week.

In a three-sentence telegram to Attorney General Elliot Richardson, Dr. James E. Cheek said the reasons for reopening the probe of the shooting incident at the Mississippi school were "equally, if not more, compelling" than those which caused the Kent State inquiry to be reopened.

At the predominantly white Ohio school, Cheek said the students "severely provoked" National Guardsmen who fired into the crowd killing four students and leaving nine wounded. However, at the predominantly black Mississippi school, the Howard University president noted, the question of provocation was "ambivalent and ambiguous" and argued that the police "arrived" on the Jackson State campus "in a position to shoot black students."

Cheek, who served on President Nixon's now-defunct Commission on Campus Unrest, told Richardson he would outline his reasons for reopening the Jackson State investigation in a hand-delivered letter this week.

Asked if he thought there would be more Northern court battles over busing and forced desegregation, Richardson said: "Yes, although that trend will run into a counter-trend over the increasing proportion of black population in the central cities and the related concern that ill-conceived approaches to desegregation actually exacerbate white flight."

Richardson said his comments were based on a recent Supreme Court decision that ordered the city of Denver to achieve racial balance in its school system.

Bias Cases for Schools Seen in Northern U.S.

"The big problems in the future are those in Northern cities, Richardson said, "the law there is still evolving."

In comments in U.S. News and World Report, Richardson said that while problem areas still exist in the South, it was unlikely that Southern school systems would attempt to re-segregate.

Minimum Wage

In the now-recessed Congress there were differences of opinion as to what the new minimum wage should be. President Nixon differed with the Hill majority on the question.

Before recess Congress passed a bill which established a new minimum wage of $2.00 (from $1.80) two months after the bill becomes law. The minimum would rise to $2.20 in July of next year.

The President was expected by some to veto the measure (might have acted by the time you read this editorial) though he favored an increase. The bill passed provides for a better than twenty percent percentage increase (40 cents added to $1.80) but more important, it adds another 7,000,000 workers to the law's coverage, including domestic servants and state and local government employees.

The percentage increase is certainly not unreasonable in view of inflation and rising living costs in recent months and years—and the fact that the minimum wage has been $1.80 for many years.

And additional employees should be included under the law. In some cases it's possible inclusion would produce unemployment, however, and on this point Congress and the President were in disagreement.

The need of the time is for a new law, and the overriding obligation of both the President and members of Congress is to see that one is on the books before the end of the year.

DEAR EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Public and congressional apathy put Richard Nixon in office and apathy and shock may just keep him there. Millions of American ignored the warning signals last November giving Mr. Nixon, ironically, a mandate to uphold the law. Congress, with mixed loyalties, allowed its real power to be deliberately and methodically sapped.

Impeachment is messy, but necessary. The Nixon Administration, during its finest hours, deceived, lied, impounded, wiretapped, burgled and ITT'd with time left to make noises about impeaching Justice Douglas. Individually, the illegalities cry for impeachment, collectively, they are deafening.

Seemingly, Mr. Nixon has only to explain a few inconsistencies remaining from a series of damnable, palpable lies. What a farce. This nation needs a thorough self examination. It therefore must understand its president. This requires his tapes and his participation in a complete cross examination.

If the House of Representatives bases its impeachment decision on the results of national polls of tired citizens, rather than its duty to uphold the law, the presidency will be beyond impeachment in the future because an unforced law ceases to exist. Our judicial system is in danger. Mr. Nixon must be challenged in court. Let's not look back for a second time at what we should have done. We face impeachment or anarchy.

T.J.,

Each time I read the paper I become more concerned about the way people treat each other. Your last edition, with the editorial about the treatment at the market, the problems of theft in the Crenshaw, Evans, Pitts and Ludd homes and the abuse suffered by Mr. and Mrs. Terry, is an outstanding example of reporting poor treatment that should cause all of us to be concerned.

I wish that I had invited you to our opening of school. You would have been very happy to see the attitude of the students and their considerate treatment of each other. We are very lucky that they do not reflect all of the problems cast on them by the adult world.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

OIL DIPLOMACY

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The most critical problem awaiting Henry Kissinger when he moves over to the State Department is oil diplomacy. Middle East experts are prepared to warn that the United States can no longer continue its all-out support for Israel and expect the Arab nations to keep up the flow of oil across the Atlantic.

Already, the Arab nations are being stirred up to use oil as a political weapon and to retaliate against the United States by cutting down oil shipments. The campaign, according to our intelligence reports, is gaining favor throughout the Arab world.

The State Department experts will point out that the United States is dependent upon Arab oil for the next few years. They will urge Kissinger, therefore, to change U.S. Middle East policy and adopt a more pro-Arab attitude. The United States could bolster its position with the Arabs, they will suggest, by using its influence with Israel to settle the Middle East crisis on terms the Arabs can accept.

If the United States doesn't change its middle East policy, the experts will warn, the Arab nations almost certainly will start shutting off oil. This would leave the United States critically short and would force Washington to take desperate action.

The only alternative to diplomatic action, they will suggest, would be military action. Either the United States must become more pro-Arab, they will say, or must take over the Arab oil fields by military force.

Wanted—A Winner: Democratic leaders are frustrated over their inability to find a presidential prospect who can capitalize on the Watergate issue. President Nixon's popularity has plunged to 30 per cent, an all-time low. Yet in all the polls, two Republican senators, Charles Percy and Howard Baker, are running ahead of anyone the Democrats can put up.

Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss has been working behind the scenes to restore party unity. He is trying to revive the political coalition that the late Franklin Roosevelt put together of liberals, blue-collar workers and Southern populists.

But it took a charismatic personality like Roosevelt's to rally voters from a wide ideological spectrum behind the Democratic banner. Some party leaders believe their front runner, Sen. Ted Kennedy, has the magic spark, but the

Jack Shackles
Principal O.L. Slaton Jr. High

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

As I See It there are many negative elements which exist in Lubbock and the South Plains. There are problems which need to be addressed by the citizens of the black community. I received a letter from Jack M. Shackles, principal of O.L. Slaton Junior High School the other day. He expressed his concern that "poor treatment should cause all of us to be concerned." Thanks Jack for making me an honorary member of the "Friendliest student boy in Lubbock."

Last week, as the week before, an effort has been made by Eddie P. Richardson and I to see that as many black brothers and sisters as possible received the West Texas Times each week. Last week, the citizens of Abernathy, Hale Center, and Plainview, 16 citizens, voted their approval to support the West Texas Times by subscribing to the 12 year old newspaper.

Along the way, while talking to many people, we found that there are black people in West Texas who haven't lost their value system. It is so hard to keep the faith and not cop out in the wrong direction.

In Hale Center, as well as all the other places visited last Saturday, the people were most cordial to our effort. There was a family who is singing throughout West Texas from week to week. They call themselves the "Smith Family". They sing beautiful spiritual music and should be recording for some company. I hope they record so others can hear what was given them.

The leader of the group is Mrs. Mamye Ann Smith who is the mother of the other five singers. This Hale Center mother is not only working hard for these young people, but is a nursing student at High Plains Hospital. I paid close attention to her philosophy that as a parent you "can't make an adult out of children."

A very dedicated mother, she has instilled something within the minds of these young people (who range in age from 8 to 15) that they can make it in this world if you do things because you want to do them and not put a price on everything you do.

There are so many resources in West Texas as we've said from time to time in this column. If you haven't heard of the Smith Family, then why not write them at 509 East 2nd polls show young people and women, who are enthusiastic followers of the senator's two martyred brothers, prefer Charles Percy over Ted Kennedy.

Hawaii's Sen. Dan Inouye is causing some excitement among Democratic voters. But perhaps because of his Japanese ancestry, he is mentioned only as a vice presidential prospect. What the Democrats are looking for is another Franklin D. Roosevelt or John F. Kennedy. But there is no one like that in sight.

Fair Games: The nation's No. 1 sports fan, Richard Nixon, would like to give Russia more competition in athletics. He is chagrined over the way Russia throws its top athletes against America's amateurs and then makes political capital out of the results.

For example, Russia trains and subsidizes its Olympic athletes but still calls them amateurs. President Nixon feels that, rightfully, they should compete against America's professionals. Instead, Russia's best athletes meet only the amateurs who are really America's second string athletes.

For 10 days during August, Moscow was host to the World University Games. The United States sent some of its best college athletes. But they found themselves up against Russia's Olympic stars. As a result, Russia won over half of the gold medals. The United States managed to win gold medals only in swimming and basketball.

The President has told friends he would like to see some competition between the best athletes from both nations. This would be the only fair way, he said, to determine which country is really best at world sports.

For the Kremlin, athletics is an extension of politics and victories are used to proclaim Soviet superiority. The President would like to find a way to make the contests more fair.

Headlines and Footnotes: Every President since Franklin D. Roosevelt has tried to trim the federal bureaucracy. How is Richard Nixon making out? One incident tells the story. At budget time this year, the President announced he was phasing out federal grants and loans for building and modernizing hospitals. Nevertheless, the men and women who administer the program have just spent two days planning how to build and modernize more hospitals.

• The Securities and Exchange Commission appears to be cracking down—of all things—on evangelist preachers. The regulators have filed complaints against at least six evangelists in the past few months. Most of the cases involve church groups which sold securities or floated bonds in violation of federal law. One evangelist, however, has not been investigated. He is Billy Graham, preacher to millions and spiritual adviser to the President. Reason: The SEC's new general counsel, appointed by the White House, is Billy Graham's former attorney.

• Murray Chotiner has long been one of the nation's wildest politicians. A few days ago, his secretary was summoned to a meeting with the staff of the Senate Watergate Committee. They wanted to ask her for intimate details about her boss. But when the secretary arrived, Chotiner was with her and refused to leave. His secretary was also his client, he said, and she was entitled to be represented by her lawyer. The Watergate lawyers said they did not want to question her with Chotiner present. So the battle-scarred Murray Chotiner left—with his secretary.

Street, Hale Center, Texas. You'll be glad you did.

You know traveling from community to community, one is surprised by the many talents which is found in the black community. For one, we didn't know that there was a black dairy farmer in West Texas. There is one and he is Norris Smith who is the owner of Smith Dairies who supplies Bell Milk Company of Lubbock with some of their milk supplies.

In talking with this industrious brother, it was quite evident that he is a man of direction in the milk industry. He has over thirty years in the milk industry and owns acres of land where he raised cattle and hogs.

A dairy farmer who resides in Abernathy, Texas and a new subscriber to this newspaper, he is also one of the many black brothers and sisters whom we found doing things in West Texas. As Mr. Smith told me, "As black people, we've got to own something in this world, why not start with land and cattle."

I'm sure the Bell Milk Company is proud of the efforts Smith Dairies is making in West Texas. It would be of interest to our readers if Bell Milk would include a special advertisement to the West Texas Times of the accomplishments of Norris Smith. He is quite a man and black people of West Texas and the nation should know about him.

As I See It, the Mayor (Morris Turner) was out of the city on business doing the last city council meeting in August. He made it clear last month to representatives to a meeting at New Hope Baptist Church, that something would be done about the enlargement of the City Council. But it didn't happen.

Some people in East Lubbock are quite disappointed with the outcome of this effort on the part of the mayor of Lubbock. Many of them have suggested that his signals be together with the council when he is to be out of the city so that this matter can continue for the citizens of Lubbock.

Since the mayor was out of the city, it appears as though the council elected to send the manpower programs back to South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG). This appears to put Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) in a new twist.

Next time Mayor, get your signals together with the council. Maybe they won't move things in the wrong direction.

The burglar took the screen off a window which was unlocked. There was nothing taken from the house, but approximately $5.00 worth of damage was done to the window.

Assault With Intent

Barbara Scott, 2921 East Bates Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that a 36 year old man did shoot her with a pistol while both were arguing over a difficulty.

After an investigation, police observed that the antenna had been taken off Mr. Fair's car.

Lost Billfold

Dewey Brown, 2422 East 9th Street, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he was at a local barbecue cafe when his billfold fell from his pocket. He said

There was approximately $25 worth of damage done to the door.

Destruction of Private Property

Maurice H. Bryant, 1519 Avenue E, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that a man did break down his door and remove a fan. He told police that the fan, after checking, did belong to the man, but he "wasn't aware that it belonged to him."

FAMILY SINGING IS BEAUTIFUL—The Smith Family of Hale Center, Texas appeared last Sunday afternoon on program at Jerusalem Temple Church of God in Christ. This family, which consists of Cynthia Ann, Aquanetta, Miriam Denette, Elaine Yvette, Anthony Gerald and their mother, Mrs. Mamye Ann Smith, have been singing together for six years. "God gave us our talent", says Mrs. Smith. They are members of the Lone Star Baptist Church.

Final Rites Read for Longtime Resident

Final rites were read Wednesday afternoon, September 5, at 2:30 p.m. at Bethel A. M. E. Church for Mrs. Bessie Mae Jamerson, 82, with Rev. A. W. Wilson, pastor, officiating.

Burial was held in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park under direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

A hard worker at Bethel A.M.E. Church where she labored many years in the Sunday School Department and Missionary Society, she died last Thursday in a Denver, Colorado, hospital. She had lived in Lubbock for 31 years and had moved to Denver in March.

She is survived by a daughter,

Mrs. Willie Mae Chandler of Denver; six brothers, William and D.L. Lewis, both of Los Angeles, California, Washington and Monrow Lewis, both of Houston, Oliver Lewis of Dallas and Willie Edward Lewis of San Angelo; three sisters, Mrs. R.L. Your hamburgers will get smaller... and, your taxes will get larger...

If you don't write now.

Write to your Congressmen and Senators. Write to let them know that you are against the uncontrolled government spending that causes the runaway inflation, tax increases and things like the mini-hamburger you've been getting lately.

Write because Representatives and Senators alike acknowledge that their mail is always full of letters demanding more Federal spending for pet programs. They seldom hear from the people who have to pay the bill. That's you. The taxpayer.

Write to the Congressman or Senator who has the courage to vote against excessive and unnecessary government spending. Let him know that you support him. We know that it's difficult to find time to write a letter. But isn't it worth it with these issues at stake? Write it now.

A simple statement of your support of control of Federal spending is enough. Just make your support heard and felt. Make sure that the men who represent you know the real story: that a majority of citizens demand that Federal spending be brought under control.

If you need the names of your Congressmen, their addresses and more suggestions about how to make yourself heard on this issue, contact us:

Citizens for Control of Federal Spending

1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, Suite 700.

We'll also send you a booklet on exactly what else you can do about excessive government spending.

Avoid a tax increase. Do something about your shrinking dollar (and your shrinking hamburger). Write to your Congressmen. Now.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Texas Tech opens its grid season in only a little over a week and those buttons bursting after each practice session come from the many fans who have watched the Red Raiders work.

It's doubtful that any Tech team in recent history has gained as much support, at least vocally, this early in the season. Many believe that these Raiders will sweep aside all opposition in a relentless march to the Southwest Conference championship.

Don't holler 'oh ye of little faith' at me if I seem to raise an eyebrow at such enthusiasm. I'm not from Missouri, until it comes to Raider football, and then I am born in the heart of Mizzou.

Unfortunately, these tired old orbs have been glazed for too many years by Tech teams that should have won it all, only to trip over some also-ran like Baylor, TCU or Rice. The giants they have clobbered; the others they have played as though they wanted to be beaten.

Nor am I too certain that the Raiders can put it all in one basket enough to beat Texas in Austin. The Longhorns, after all, are not unbeatable, but in the conference opener, at home, against Tech, well, why not bet you can thread a needle with the Empire State Building?

I don't object to getting all excited about Texas, but let's be honest, for once. Let's concede that as a defeat and concentrate on beating and the jabbers out of everyone else. Let TCU sneak up on UT.

I learned little from the Southwest Conference press tour of our fair city. They had visited only Arkansas—and no one was really sure of what he had heard or seen.

Frank Broyles probably confused the writers and the players added to it. So, they left Lubbock impressed. Since then they have seen the other teams and it's doubtful that comparison has hurt Tech. You all must have noticed that Tech was picked No. 20 in the AP pre-season poll.

So, what else is news? Well, sir, I learned that Cliff Speegle and Hal Lahar played with and against each other in high school and college. Hal succeeded Cliff in the conference as director of officials.

Anyway, Hal told me that Cliff was a most unusual man. That wasn't news, until he told me, specifically, why. Seems Cliff was so good that he played offensive and defensive center—but, more important, he called offensive signals as the center! Never heard of it before.

Asked Gerald Myers at the Red Raider Club smoker what he thought of the US-USSR basketball game. Gerald looked as embarrassed as only Gerald can and admitted that he was too embarrassed to tell people that he hadn't even seen the game.

He disagreed with my estimation of the US coach. He said that he had been thoroughly indoctrinated in Hank Iba's brand of ball, that he believed in it and what we had seen really was Iba's game.

Okay, that's what makes horse races, but from what I saw, Iba would have been having a screaming meemie fit over the run and shoot.

So Billy Martin has been fired. Long live the Tigers! You wouldn't bet but what Billy was too honest for the game of baseball, would you. After all, baseball has come to be so respectful that it may not be long before players wear gray flannel Brooks Bros. suits onto the playing field.

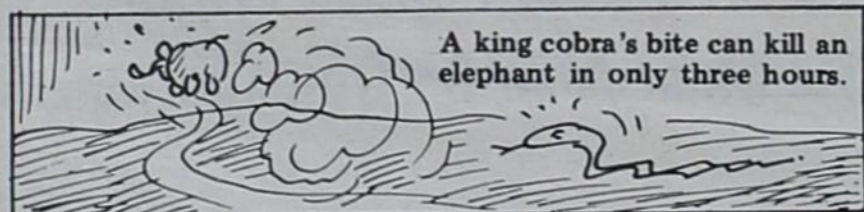

Spit ball? Oh, perish the unsaintly thought. Burleigh Grimes and a few other inherent artisans of the saliva pitch must be chortling until their bones rattle. First place to eight and a half games back wouldn't enter into it at all, would it?

Sorry about that! About the time I say it looks like the races are almost all over, the collar gets tight on two of the leaders, leaving only Baltimore playing loose as a goose.

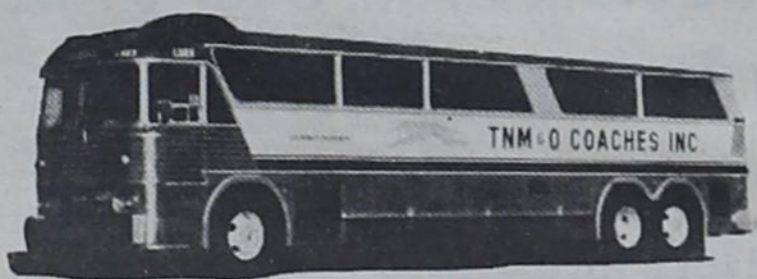

Oh, well, if baseball isn't your bag, Nebraska and UCLA open the football season Saturday. You may have trouble finding it in the local Tagblatt because of all the pro football, but it will be one the boob tube. Have faith, fans. One of these days you may even be able to read about professional baseball locally....but don't hold your breath!

Since all good things must come to an end, shed a tear for Billy Jean King, who may have been a victim of the heat and a cold, but whom we suspect was more a victim of the pressure brought to bear by Billy Riggs. He said that he'd psyche her and I think he has.

Any day now I expect to hear that Riggs has played a tag team wrestling duo, carrying a polar bear on his back and stroking a tennis ball with a baseball bat. Tennis, anyone?
