State Black Political Assembly Meeting In Wichita Falls

The Texas Black Political Assembly has recently announced in its continued progress that Saturday, September 7, the newly initiated chapter of Wichita Falls, Texas, will host the state delegation.

Rev. Leo Barbee of the Shiloh Baptist Church, 2506 Shepard Access Road, Wichita Falls, will convene the first political organizational workshop at the Shiloh Baptist Church.

The Assembly leadership has encouraged all county chapters to attend and to welcome another force for independent political power for the black community.

"Those who love freedom should attend this important meeting," says Omuwali Lutuli, one of the cochairpersons.

Scout Rally at Bethel Tonight

A Cub and Boy Scout rally will take place tonight, Thursday, at 7 p.m. in fellowship Hall of Bethel A.M.E. Church. Every boy in the community who would like to be either a Cub Scout or Boy Scout is asked to attend this important meeting.

Mr. Jeff Joiner, a hard working Cub and Scout master, tells the West Texas Times that there will be officials from the South Plains office present to explain the purpose of scouting.

"I hope many parents will come out and help with the boys," says the veteran scout worker. "We need young men and women of the community helping with these fine young fellows," says Joiner.

TSTI Rep to Be in Lubbock this Week

TSTI representative, Victor Smith, will be in Lubbock Friday and Saturday, September 6 and 7, to make arrangements for courses in Special Skills. He will be stationed at Draughon's Business College with Ted Day, Friday evening beginning at 6 p.m., and all day Saturday.

Persons interested in seeking information about office skills may contact Smith and Day during those times.

Adult Flag Football League to Be Organized Here

The City Parks and Recreation Dept. will sponsor a fall Adult Flag Football League. All those interested in participating should attend the organizational meeting to be held Monday night, September 9th at 7:00 p.m. at the Park and Recreation Office at 407 East Broadway.

Dr. Floyd Perry Jr., associate vice president for Academic Affairs at Texas Tech University for the last year, has been given the additional appointment of Dean of Admissions.

Dr. Perry's appointment was announced by Dr. Grover E. Murray, president of Texas Tech. The office of the Dean of Admissions has been vacant since the resignation of Dr. Floyd Boze more than a year ago.

After making a search and conducting interviews of applicants for the deanship, a Texas Tech search committee recommended Dr. Perry's appointment.

"It was the committee's decision that this was the best method for filling the vacancy," said Dr. William R. Johnson, interim vice president for Academic Affairs. "Dr. Perry in effect has been supervising the Office of Admissions for most of the year.

"The combination of the assignments," Dr. Johnson said, "is in keeping with the university's policy to place more emphasis on making potential students of the state aware of the unusual educational opportunities at Texas Tech. Dr. Perry will be concerned with expanding this aspect of the university's activities in extending the invitation to students who not only would ordinarily attend an institution of higher education but also to those students, particularly of minority groups, who may not have had equal opportunity to pursue a college or university education."

Perry's new appointment also will continue and increase the close coordination between the offices of Academic Affairs and Admissions to the added efficiency of both operations, Dr. Johnson said.

Another emphasis of Perry's will be to improve counseling from the offices of Admissions and the Registrar. Johnson said Perry has been working with academic deans and the three offices on methods to improve student counseling and the new appointment will place Dr. Perry in a better position to strengthen university activities in that area.

Until joining the Texas Tech University staff, Dr. Perry had served as director of instruction at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo., from 1971, and for a year before that he was assistant professor of education and program associate at the Center for Urban Studies at Wichita (Kansas) State University.

Perry's experience also includes a two-year appointment as instructor and academic adviser at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

The educator-administrator's academic degrees were earned at Wichita State University and the University of Missouri.

Quality is More Important than Quantity

We can appreciate the attitude of Billy C. Maiden, newly hired band director of the Dunbar High School Panthers marching band. As Brother Maiden said in a recent interview: "I plan to take up where Roy Roberts left off." Evidently he has heard about the great job of Brother Roberts and wants to contribute something to the "Maroon and White".

We can not overlook the works of past band directors of Dunbar, because those after Roy Roberts did their very best to help the efforts of Dunbar.

It is good to hear from the young man from Greenville, Mississippi as he plans to contribute something to the Panther Marching Band. As always when there is someone new taking control of the helm, there are problems which must be dealt with. In the case of Dunbar, we hope that Brother Maiden won't become disenchanted over the number of young people participating in this extra-curricular activity.

It appears as though there hasn't been a concerned effort for young people at Dunbar to become bandmen. Since the ninth grade students had to attend O.L. Slaton Junior High School, there has apparently been on positive communications to keep those persons in the band when they become tenth graders at Dunbar. This will be a hard task for the new band director to overcome.

If Brother Maiden is to take up where Brother Roberts left off, he'll have to work closely with the parents of the students of this high school. For many of the students attending Dunbar, at this time, their parents were students of the same institution. If Brother Maiden would use a great deal of honey, rather than vinegar, he can overcome many of the problems which hurt his predecessors.

Without any doubt, it will take discipline to maintain the upcoming marching band at Dunbar. We hope that parents of students in this band will work with this new band director. He'll need the help of the entire community if Dunbar is to move as it has in the past. We must admit, also, that Brother Maiden has the qualifications, but he'll need your help, Mom and Dad, to make his program work.

We at the West Texas Times hope that Dunbar as well as any other of the five high schools in Lubbock will look at the quality of the band, rather than the quantity. We are concerned about Dunbar High School for many reasons. If we work together, however, we can work it out. Let's keep good quality.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

In the past, this writer has written about the lack of development in the East Lubbock community. One segment of this area, which is referred to as Census Tract 12.01 and 12.02. This area is described as the following: Avenue A as the west boundary; the city limits as the east boundary; East 19th Street as the north boundary and the railroad tracks on the south.

This writer is concerned about the entire East Lubbock community, but this area is most dear to me because of its history. This area happens to be the oldest, and at one time, the most staple area for black citizens. Today, however, since the Urban Renewal Coronado Project, this area is dying slowly. It appears from my point of view that nobody cares about its outcome. I hope some of those in the "powers that be" community would utilize their influences to see that something is done about this part of Lubbock.

One of the many reasons why I'm personally concerned about this part of Lubbock is because of the schools in which our young people attend. Two of those schools happen to be elementary schools, namely Ella Iles and Wheatley.

As late as last Friday afternoon, this writer learned that both schools were down in the expected attendance for the 1974-75 school year. At Iles, for example, there are only ten full time teachers. This school, with only 222 pupils, has lost five teachers over the past two school years. On the other hand, across the viaduct, Wheatley is at least 38 pupils short of last year's attendance. At this elementary school, however, there are 403 pupils and eighteen teachers and five other professionals.

The point worth looking at, is that a community is usually determined by the enrollment of its elementary schools. At this time, it appears as though East Lubbock is having problems in building up this particular census tract. At the present time, also, there are 606 vacant lots which need to be developed if this area is going to move as other parts of the city of Lubbock.

I think this is worth a look of all concerned citizens of Lubbock. Our mayor has recently returned from a mayor's conference in San Diego, California, in which these types of revitalization programs were discussed. Something will have to be done if this area is to continue to exist.

The cheering section of the newly formed East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA) can help in this aspect. Surely, there are other organizations who are also concerned about the revitalization of east Lubbock. If we all sit back and continue to wait, this portion of East Lubbock will begin to act like a cancer and spread through the entire east Lubbock community.

At the rate east Lubbock is going, not only will Iles and Wheatley Elementary Schools have problems, but other schools, including E.C. Struggs Junior High School and Dunbar High School. We should take a careful look at this part of our community and offer something for the success of this part of Lubbock. Let us keep in mind that what affects east Lubbock, also affects the entire city of Lubbock.

The only economic development I've seen on the 606 vacant lots in east Lubbock is a contract to keep the weeds cut by a citizen from outside the east Lubbock community. Of course, the works of keeping the weeds cut is a blessing.

Maybe one day other economic development projects will be seen in our community. It's something for all of us to think about. Keep in mind that the dirt in east Lubbock is just as good as the dirt made by God in west Lubbock.

I really enjoyed my short visit with Congressman George Mahon, who was back in the 19th Congressional District last week. This meeting, with a friend of mine, was quite informative as this writer tried to discuss some of the shortcomings of the East Lubbock community.

A friend of mine, Percy Vaughn, who is a doctoral student in the College of Business Administration in Marketing, was also present. Brother Vaughn pointed out some relevant information to Congressman Mahon in regard to business opportunities for the "have not" communities.

As always, the Congressman was quite attentive on what was being said and pledged his support toward looking into some of the problems discussed. The Congressman realized some of the obstacles we are trying to overcome in the East Lubbock community. He, too, is familiar with the shortcomings of the eastern part of Lubbock.

I've learned that regardless of a community's situation, with hard work and the proper homework, something will happen. With men like Congressman George Mahon in Washington, D.C., communities like east Lubbock have a fighting chance.

While getting my monthly trim at the Estacado Matador Barber Shop last Saturday afternoon, I learned that one of those brothers waiting for a chance to get his hair groomed was a student of the local Department of Public Safety's Academy. He expressed great concern about being stationed in the Lubbock community after graduation from the academy.

I hope this young man will be given the opportunity to utilize his talent in the Lubbock community. Surely DPS would agree. This would help their image.

As always, I enjoyed my conversation with H.C. Kinner who is always willing to express his opinion about any subject. As usual, we got rapped up over the shortcomings of East Lubbock.

As It See It, Brother H.C. Kinner agrees that we have a lot to do at home with our kids. Keeping on taling H.A., I'll see you soon.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

PARTITION'S PRICE IS HIGH

by Jack Anderson
(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The smoke is clearing on embattled Cyprus. The Turks are sure to get what they want. This will be permanent partition of the Mediterranean island. Already, the Greeks are being pushed out and the Turks are moving into the Turkish sector.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has supported this all along. He has argued in private that the Greeks and the Turks don't get along together in the same villages. It is better, he has contended, for them to be separated. The Turkish presence will also keep the strategic island free of Soviet influence.

But the price that will be paid for partition is high. There is strong emotional opposition in Greece to dividing Cyprus. The new democratic government in Greece, therefore, must take a strong stand against partition in order to survive. It has saved itself so far only by withdrawing from NATO and denouncing the United States.

American officials believe that the Greeks will cool down and retain their ties with NATO. But we have seen top secret documents which reveal the Greeks are making positive plans to close down its NATO bases. Millions of dollars in U.S. facilities will be lost. And strategically, it will be an irreparable blow to the NATO alliance.

There has been some talk that NATO might establish facilities on the Turkish part of Cyprus. But most diplomats familiar with the island laugh at the suggestion. Greek guerrillas would turn any NATO installation into a junkyard, said one diplomat, 15 minutes after the last nail is driven.

Meanwhile, anti-Americanism has reached such a pitch in Greece that it isn't safe for an American to walk the streets of Athens.

Project Independence: Former President Nixon responded to the Arab oil embargo last year by establishing "Project Independence." This was supposed to make the United States self-sufficient in energy by 1985. But so far "Project Independence" has amounted to no more than an empty slogan.

Nixon himself made a deal with Saudi Arabia, which would leave the United States more dependent than ever upon Middle East oil. Already, it is costing the United States a staggering $28 billion a year for foreign oil. This tremendous outlay could build the new nuclear plants, coal gasification facilities, shale experimental plants and oil refineries that are needed to make this country self-sufficient.

Under "Project Independence", the government had done absolutely nothing, meanwhile, to alleviate the natural gas shortage. As a result, a critical shortage of natural gas could shut down factories across the country this winter, particularly in the Southeast, Great Lakes region and Appalachia. First priority will go to private residences for home heating. This won't leave enough to operate factories.

Despite "Project Independence," many utilities have also canceled expansion plans. This could leave the nation short of electricity this winter. The shortage could develop into a major crisis during the winters to come. Clearly, the nation needs more than a slogan to combat the energy crisis. It needs an active, aggressive program to make the United States self-sufficient in energy. The nation that put men on the moon certainly can extract energy from coal and shale or the sun and sea—if the government will face up to it.

Ford on Inflation: President Ford has warned his economic advisers that, in his search for remedies for the nation's economic ills, he won't be bound by their conservative ideas.

He has called for government spending cuts and a balanced budget, as they have advised. He agrees with them that fiscal responsibility is necessary to put the country on a sound economic base.

But sources close to the President say he is looking for new solutions that will lift the economy out of its slump. He wants something more imaginative than his economic advisers have offered.

Just as conservative generals base their planning on past wars, Ford fears his conservative economists also are offering solutions for past inflation.

Yet today's inflation is different. It has been caused largely by fuel and food shortages. It has also been accompanied by an unprecedented recession.

The old method of fighting inflation is to cool off the economy by cutting back production. But this will increase unemployment and steepen the recessionary slide.

The President, in his private talks, has also stressed the human element. He has insisted that the poor shouldn't bear the burden of our economic cures.

Therefore, the President is tentatively planning to call upon more affluent Americans to give up their luxuries. This will provide more money, which can be used to employ the poor who are thrown out of work.

They might be employed, for example, in developing new sources of fuel and food. This would reduce the shortages, which are causing inflation.

Ford to Share Reins: President Ford has offered privately to share his leadership with Nelson Rockefeller after Rockefeller is confirmed as vice president.

Rockefeller's first assignment will be to give the political speeches that Ford had to disrupt after his sudden ascendency to the presidency. Ford will be too busy to campaign for Republican candidates this fall. He also doesn't want to alienate Democratic congressional leaders whose cooperation he needs.

The President has also asked Rockefeller to help find solutions for the economic problems which plague the nation. Ford has emphasized he wants dramatic solutions that will shake the nation out of its economic lethargy. The President has told Rockefeller that he would also like to see him as a diplomatic negotiator. Ford's idea is to double the impact of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger by sending both Rockefeller and Kissinger to different world trouble spots.

Ford will seek Rockefeller's advice on how the federal government can best help states and cities cope with poverty, crime, drugs, busing and other local problems.

The President also wants to use Rockefeller's excellent contacts to recruit the best qualified people into the federal service.

Of course, past presidents have also talked about utilizing their vice presidents who, invariably, have been left with little to do except make speeches.

But President Ford has insisted to aides that he really meant it when he spoke of Rockefeller as his "partner."
