

East Lubbock Citizens Rehash Problems

At a "Town Hall" meeting Monday evening at Mae Simmons Community Center, East Lubbock residents rehashed problems which have been heard many times by elected officials and businessmen and women of the community. One of the participants on the panel, Lenin Juarez, a local attorney, said: "Black people are going to have to do what Chicanos have done. We've organized our effort and brought pressure."

Other participants on the panel were: Mayor Roy Bass; State Representative R.B. McAlister; Businessman Joe Phillips; ex-Governor and Businessman Preston Smith; Insurance Rep. Tony Baker; Harold Coston, Executive Director of Hospital District; Gray Lewis, Economic Development manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development; and Rev. A.L. Davis, chair of the board of Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC).

Dr. Emory Davis, associate professor at Texas Tech University in sociology, served as moderator. Prior to moderating the panel, he read a statement from Dr. Floyd Perry, Jr., who was unable to moderate the panel because of illness.

Juarez, who spoke quite frankly, told the group: "Look around you as I ask the following questions". He asked: "Will the representative of KLBK-TV stand up? Will the representative of KCBD-TV please stand up? Will the representative of KLFB and KSEL, please stand up?" He went on to add, "There are no broadcast media people here, so you can see what they think about you."

Mayor Bass, who was asked more questions than the other participants, was asked to make public his answers to the questions by members of the audience. Professor Davis said: "Since we'll be here until 1:00 a.m. in the morning answering those questions, why not write your answers to the West Texas

Family of Young Accident Victim in Need of Help

Several weeks ago, a young student at Estacado High School was hurt in an accident and has been in serious condition since the incident. The youth is Simon Gonzales, Jr., 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Gonzales, Sr. of 3228 East 7th Street.

This case was brought to the attention of the West Texas Times by Bill Parker, an administrator at the Central Office of the Lubbock Public Schools. He tells the Times: "This case came to our attention when one of our visiting teachers, Mrs. Edna Walker, found the family in a needing condition."

There are six other children in the Gonzales family. After checking with the principal of Estacado High School, Principal Reed informed the Times: "Simon is a very nice young fellow." Checking further about the family, Mrs. Okie Rice was most cooperative in assisting us with information needed.

The West Texas Times would encourage the community to help this family. Simon has been in the intensive care unit at a local hospital. Anything that a family, church or organization would like to share would be most appreciative. The children in the family range in age from 7 through 17.

We are sure that the family would appreciate anything, including food, clothing or other materials. As one person told this reporter: "We never will know when we are down in life; it pays to help others."

Washington—They came from as nearby as Maryland and Virginia and as far away as California. They were Congressmen, Senators, and their aides. They were government and corporate officials, but they were also nationally recognized community leaders.

They represented Gulf Oil, General Motors, Metropolitan Life Insurance, Uniroyal, the AFL-CIO, Sperry and Hutchinson, Sun Oil, and Goodrich. They were white and Black, young and old, Democrats and Republicans alike who gathered here last week on Capitol Hill.

But one common bond united all these diverse segments of the population. They were here for one purpose—to demonstrate their support for the Opportunities Industrialization Centers, a tried and true self-help manpower training program, which announced the opening of a national government and legislative relations officer here.

"I Like The Challenge of Winning," Says Driver Johnny Dailey

If you look in West Texas, especially in the black community, one can find brothers and sisters doing all kinds of things. West Texas has a lot of black brothers and sisters who can do a lot of things. One of those brothers is Johnny Dailey who has set all kinds of records in the Super Stock H (SSH) and Super Stock G (SSG) at the Lubbock Dragway and other dragways in West Texas.

"I like the challenge of winning; the challenge of making my motor out perform the other guy," says the 29 year old native of Arkadelphia, Arkansas. "I don't believe in giving up, I believe in giving all that you have," admits Dailey.

Dailey and his two brothers, Billy and Jimmy, took their prize possession to Amarillo, last Sunday to appear in the final big race of the year in Amarillo. This Sunday, Johnny will drive "Superstitious" for the last time at the Lubbock Dragway. "We will retire "Superstitious" after this race, but we will be back next year with a "Superstitious II", said Dailey.

A member of the International Hot Rod Association (IHRA), Dailey holds outstanding records in Super Stock H and Super Stock G divisions. In SSH as a class record holder, he has been clocked for 112.36 miles per hour; and 119.85 miles per hour in SSG. Although Dailey has been racing for only three years, he has made a name for himself in West Texas.

"We have won good money in three major races," said Dailey. Those races were held at the Lubbock Dragway, Odessa and Roswell, New Mexico.

"I didn't finish high school, but I've used my talent in other areas," says the young brother. "I'm so happy of the fourteen hours credit I have received from the University of Texas at Austin for several courses I've completed in alternators," he said. "These courses, too, were a real challenge to me off the track," he continued.

Dailey came to Lubbock in 1962 and began working with a local car distributor. Over the past, he has accumulated nearly fifteen years of mechanic experience. "He's the mechanic of the Dailey Brothers," says Billy Dailey. At present time, Johnny is employed for the R.H. Fulton Company.

Welfare Spending Ruled Out as Inflation Cause at "Conference on Poor" Recently

Washington — (NBNS) — Participants in an anti inflation conference focusing on the poor have conceded that Federal spending has not been a major cause of inflation over the past 18 months.

"Rather," the conferees said,

"the inadequacy of Federal health, education and welfare expenditures has resulted in a deterioration of services to the poor and low income groups, which is unjustified at any time and particularly undesirable during a period of rapid inflation."

HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger continued to maintain in a closing news conference, however, that Federal spending nevertheless should be cut because many people think it is the cause of inflation and therefore would have greater confidence in the economic future if spending cuts were made.

He suggested a joint Federal-state effort to achieve greater efficiency in the administration of welfare programs to "free some dollars for increased caseload and improved benefits."

Economists have pointed out the current inflation is not the result of too much demand for goods, which would be aggravated by greater Federal spending since inventories of unsold goods have been rising in most industries and companies are cutting back on production. Prices

Boston Given New Deadline

Boston — (NBNS) — The city's school committee has been ordered to file a long range plan by Dec. 16 for desegregating all Boston schools. The plan, to be put into effect next fall, would replace the current busing order, which has been accompanied by violence and a steady drumbeat of protest.

The Boston School Committee was ordered to come up with a plan by U.S. District Judge W.

The Latest Quick Fix For Crime

The search for a "quick fix" for the nation's crime problem has seized the Ford Administration as it did the Nixon and Johnson Administrations.

To the Johnson Administration's credit it sought to deal with the poverty and injustice that breeds crime, as well as to try to suppress existing crime by providing local law enforcement agencies with large sums of federal money to buy riot equipment and other police hardware.

The Nixon Administration, continuing the emphasis on police hardware, promised to end crime by taking a hard law-and-order line characterized by the substitution of John Mitchell for Ramsay Clark as Attorney General.

Now William B. Saxbe, the man who became Attorney General when Elliot Richardson refused to cooperate in the cover-up of Nixon-Mitchell law-breaking in the Watergate case, has obtained President Ford's endorsement of a new "quick fix"—a campaign against "career criminals."

The Saxbe theory is that crime is caused, not by poverty, injustice and frustration, but by a group of people who choose to become criminals the way other people choose to be doctors or lawyers or businessmen. The solution to crime, according to this theory, is to single out these "career criminals", put them in jail and keep them there on the grounds that "habitual wrongdoers cannot be rehabilitated."

The consequences of this misbegotten theory could be very serious for minority Americans. A legitimate attempt to identify "career criminals"—as opposed to people who are frequently in trouble with the law because of lack of opportunity for earning a living or because of continuing police harassment—would be exceedingly difficult. But the fact that official U.S. crime figures virtually ignore "white-collar" crime, while elaborating on "street" crime, makes it inevitable that the targets of the "career criminal" campaign will be poor blacks and others who are economically and socially distressed.

The FBI crime statistics ignore the fact that much of the crime in America is committed by business and professional people. Of the $178 million lost by banks and other financial institutions last year, $151 million was stolen through embezzlement and fraud and only $27 million was lost through robberies, extortion threats and other thefts. And much more is taken from the American people each year through undidited consumer fraud, price gouging and other legal and illegal business practices.

It is a safe bet that these are not the "career criminals" against whom the Ford Administration will direct its new anti-crime drive. The target will assuredly be the poor, the disadvantaged, the minority victims of the inequities of our racist economic and social structure.

The campaign against "career criminals" represents another example of the age-old habit of blaming the victims for the problem. Once again the victims of our social lawlessness are to be singled out for punishment, while the system of injustice goes on creating more alienated, frustrated "outsiders" who can be labeled "career criminals".

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

The meeting at Ella Iles Elementary School last Wednesday evening has got to be one of the most positive meetings to have come to an East Lubbock school in a long time. It was the first time since I've been in the Hub City that parents addressed themselves to an administrator of an elementary school and not really "bit their tongues" when explaining how they felt about the situation. Of course, there were some shotgun questions, but they too were healthy.

There were only four men (including myself) present at this important meeting. Surely, there are more fathers and concerned black men in East Lubbock who are really concerned about the type of education little black boys and girls are receiving. Those fathers and concerned black men didn't make the meeting. They should have been there. On the other hand, the women were there manning their positions as they have in the past.

I hope, for the sake of the children and Ella Iles Elementary School, those teachers and principal present at the meeting at Ella Iles last Wednesday evening really understand what those parents were talking about. Although their comments may have appeared to be from an emotional state, they made a lot of sense. I hope, also, those parent who were present will understand how important it is for them to visit the school and see what is going on in and out of the classroom. It is also very important that parents learn something about the teachers who are instructing their children. We can't blame the whole thing on the school, it is our responsibility to do our part as well.

As I wrote last week, if the situation doesn't change in the future at Ella Iles, it should be taken to the School Board of Trustees. I am sure, by now that Supt. Ed Irons, has received the report on what is going on at Ella Iles. Perhaps with his position, a careful look will be taken from the Central Office. Not only should this careful look be given at Ella Iles, but at every elementary, junior high and high schools in east Lubbock where there are problems.

As one in attendance last Wednesday evening, I made two suggestions that I felt would help the situations at Ella Iles. Of course, I don't know all the answers, but I'm willing to contribute my two cents. Here are my suggestions: First, appoint a committee of hard working mothers and fathers to sit down with the principal and see that the problems are at Ella Iles. This will prevent any more alleged problems which never comes out at a meeting because of no means of documenting the problem. This committee would be in a position to bring back pertinent information to the Parent Teacher Association (PTA) as it really is.

Second, the principal needs to utilize the services of the only black male teacher at the school. This person should become a coordinator who will work out of the principals office and relate to the teachers, students and parents. This type of position would be able to filter out some of the problems which are happening at Ella Iles. Without any doubt, regardless of what may be said, this type of position could very well add a new dimension to the situation at Ella Iles.

After hearing the principal of Ella Iles admit a few things last week, I don't believe he will be guilty of handling all the problems by himself as he has attempted in the past. One in which he stated to more than sixty persons last week was: "I will not be guilty of going into a classroom to discipline a class without the teacher being present," he said. "I have very well learned from this mistake," he continued. This is good, especially when a person admits his shortcomings. All of us have made mistakes, and as long as we are human we will continue to do so.

I would hope that all those persons who attended the meeting last week got something out of the meeting. It is healthy to be able to discuss problems and come up with solutions with input from all persons or parents concerned. That's why we have PTAs.

I hope black teachers in the Lubbock Public School system will quit saying: "I can't get involved in politics, because I'll lose my job." If there is any such thing as getting fired, why haven't those fifty teachers who met last week to endorse three candidates for state offices in Texas been fired.

Yes, black teachers, there's an organization called the Lubbock Educators Political Action Committee (LEPAC). This organization is apparently in the business of endorsing candidates for political office.

Wouldn't it be beautiful if the black teachers in Lubbock got involved in the political perspective. I'm sure we'd have more than 69 blacks voting in Voting Box 20 (Ella Iles Elementary School). Think about this black educators, you have a lot going for you if you only use it.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

SECRET SERVICE vs. the KENNEDYS
by Jack Anderson
(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The recent kidnap scare against the children of the late Senator Robert Kennedy nearly precipitated a rebellion within the ranks of the Secret Service. Some 60 agents were flown in from all over the country to cover the Kennedys—a move they regarded as illegal.

Indeed, Secret Service Director Stuart Knight himself recommended against extending protection, but he was overruled by his boss, Treasury Secretary William Simon.

Then the agents learned they were not responding to a "threat" at all. They had been ordered on emergency duty as a result of a third hand tip from a police informant in the Boston area. The agents were furious.

Covering the Kennedys is a chore the Secret Service largely regards as abhorrent anyway. Much of the ill feeling results from the agency's experience with Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

The law requires the Secret Service to protect the late President Kennedy's children until they turn 16. Thus they are still looking after young John. But Mrs. Onassis is extremely particular about the way the agency does its job. One insider describes her as "picky." She doesn't want John to feel oppressed by his protectors, so she demands the agents stay out of sight as much as possible.

Nor does young John himself like the protective details following him around. A few months ago, he slipped out of Jackie's New York apartment, hopped on his bike, and sped into Central Park to play tennis. A drug addict assaulted him and made off with the expensive bike.

Through some extraordinary detective work, the police tracked down the assailant. But Mrs. Onassis refused to prosecute.

Secret Service insiders were flabbergasted. Now they are thinking of laying down the law to Jackie: Either she lets them do their job the way they want, or her protective detail will be lifted.

Economic Battle Plan: White House sources say President Ford has all but made up his mind on change in economic policy.

The President received a lot of free and conflicting advice at the recent economic summit conference. But in private meetings with his closest advisors, he had little trouble mapping out a battle plan.

First, the President plans to ask for a tax cut to ease the impact of inflation on the poor. He also is seriously considering giving industry some incentives to expand production.

Next, he plans a whopping 10-cent per gallon increase in the gasoline tax. Ford plans to use the money for a public jobs program. This will ease the unemployment caused by his continuing tight money policy.

The President also hopes that the increase in gasoline prices will help drive down consumption. This would give him a stronger bargaining position with the oil-rich Arab nations of the Middle East.

The Arabs were unimpressed, our sources say, by Ford's recent sword rattling. The President obliquely threatened economic sanctions against the oil producing nations if prices continued to rise.

The Aabs know that they literally have us over the barrel. And they feel confident that the United States will not dare to take action against them.

It all boils down to higher gas prices for consumers, along with higher food prices. Only industry, and the very poor, can hope for some relief from inflation.

Cuban Thaw: Upon their return from a recent trip to Havana, Senators Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., predicted that relations between Cuba and the United States would soon improve. Already, say our sources, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is quietly guiding the United States toward a detente with Fidel Castro.

The probability that normal relations will be restored with Havana has outraged the million Cubans who fled to this country to escape Castro. Many of them lost their fortunes; others have friends and relatives in Castro's prisons.

For years, the Central Intelligence Agency has trained exiled Cubans to do battle with Castro. Many more risked their lives on commando raids. Now the government that encouraged them to fight is preparing to befriend the Communist leader.

We have had detailed discussions with Cuban underground leaders. Although they have a tendency to exaggerate, there is no question about their boiling anger. They are threatening to mount a terror campaign inside the United States against the politicians and businessmen who support Castro. These Cuban leaders have told us if they can't fight Castro in Cuba, they will fight him here.

Intelligence analysts are predicting, therefore, that at least a few extremists, in imitation of the Palestinian and Irish rebels, will carry out acts of terror in the United States.

Footnote: Castro's relations with the Soviet Union are not as rosy as the Communist press make them appear. According to reliable sources in the Cuban underground, two Russian sailors were jailed last year for stabbing to death a Cuban youth. The sailors had been selling the boy hard-to-get items for the Cuban blackmarket. They caught a glimpse of the youth's hefty bankroll, killed him for it, and tossed him into the sea. The Soviet sailors were thrown into El Morro prison and are now doing time at the Bacuranao work camp for criminals, near Havana.

Washington Whirl: Some people see Henry Kissinger as a steely Prussian, but in truth he's not above telling a joke on himself. Recently, he told friends that during the Kennedy Administration, he had dinner at the White House with JFK, Robert Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Kissinger was so nervous that when he cut his lamp chop it scooted all the way over to Rusk's plate. That, said Kissinger, was the last time he was invited to the White House for 12 years. At one time, according to our sources in the intelligence community, the CIA had a grisly system for determining the money due its Laotian mercenaries. The agency instructed the troops to verify their claims by chopping off the ears of every enemy killed. The practice was terminated when the CIA realized there was no way to be certain that every pair of ears turned in had once been attached to a Communist head.

Police Beat

Attempted Murder

A Lubbock man, Docanese Mahaman, 1605 Avenue D, No. 4, reported to Lubbock police one evening last week. He told police that he was at 1602 Avenue D, No. 2, when a man shot him in the lower leg.

Mahaman was taken to a local hospital where he was treated for the gunshot.

The police report did not reveal if he would file charges on the man who apparently shot him.

House Burglary

Bobby Davis, 2202 Redbud Avenue, Apartment D, reported to Lubbock police that someone unknown gained entry into his apartment by breaking a window pane and entering through a kitchen window.

After a careful investigation, it was learned that exit from the apartment was apparently made through the front door.

Taken from the apartment, according to the police report, were several items, including a wrist watch, a 16 gauge shotgun and 12 stereo tapes which were valued at approximately $100. Davis said the watch was valued at $10.

Aggravated Assault

Anlene Benden, 2910 East Colgate, reported to Lubbock police that she was sitting in a car in the 1700 block of Avenue D one night last week with her daughter and boyfriend and another friend when someone began to shoot at them.

She told police that she was hit once in the stomach, face, and shoulder. She was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

She said: "I had no problems with anyone."

Aggravated Assault on Female

Ida Bell Page, 2412 Weber Drive, Apt. D, reported to Lubbock police that she was walking from the Lucky Corner Cafe when she had a problem. She reported that a 25 year old man followed her in a car with an unknown woman and tried to get her in the car.

After refusing to get in the car, the man stopped the car, got out, and began to beat upon her. She said, according to the police report, "He threw me on the ground and kicked me in the back and side."

She was taken to Methodist Hospital for treatment by AID Ambulance.

Criminal Mischief

Oscar Mosley, 3601 Vanda Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that he was in his bed asleep when his little dog woke him up by barking at someone.

Upon awakening from a peaceful sleep, he looked out of his bedroom window and observed a woman. He reported that the woman took a rock and knocked out the glass windows in his trailer house door. There was approximately $35 worth of damage done to the trailer house.

If you'd ask Brother Mosley, he will probably tell you that a little dog can do a lot when you're sleeping.

He was supposed to return to the hospital this week.

Arthur Garrity, who also issued the busing order June 21.

The judge's action was essentially a speed up of the timetable for a final desegregation plan. The schools, had asked for a March 16 deadline, but Garrity declared that "we just cannot wait that long under existing circumstances."

New Trial For Carter

Trenton, N.M. — (NBNS) — Serving a life sentence at State Prison here, former middleweight boxing contender Rubin (Hurricane) Carter is filing for a new trial in a 1966 triple murder case.

Pointing to sworn affidavits from two witnesses repudiating their earlier testimony that convicted him, Carter exclaimed: "I am not guilty of shooting those people. It was fear and pressure from the state that made those witnesses lie."

Meredith March Ends

Vicksburg — (NBNS) — James Meredith, who integrated the University of Mississippi in the 1960s, has limped here ending a 50-mile march from Jackson to promote black voter registration.

"I feel all right," he said, referring to a similar 1966 march from Memphis to Jackson when he was shot. "The only thing is my feet. They're 99 percent covered with blisters."

He said the new walk was not directly related to his twice rebuffed bid to get on the Nov. 5 ballot as an independent congressional candidate. He led in the Democratic primary was withdrawn before the runoff, claiming that the party would not support his bid if he had won the nomination.

Black Troopers In Alabama

Montgomery — (NBNS) — A federal judge has ordered, after testimony from a former director of the state's troopers that Gov. George Wallace tried to delay the hiring of black patrolmen, that blacks must remain on the eligibility roster of state troopers.

The judge, in 1972, ordered the state to hire one black for each white employed until the force became 25 per cent black. But the former director was told by Wallace to "hold up" on the plan several times.

New Assembly Head

The National Black Political Assembly, in a change from its practice of electing nationally known figures to its top posts, has elected Ron A. Daniels, an Ohio college instructor, who will succeed Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan. Daniels is a teacher of African studies.

Faith is a great help to men and women as they go through life, but there's no synthetic substitute.

Improvements Set For City Streets

Improvements in Lubbock are among work included in the 1974 Urban System Program recently approved by the Texas Highway Commission.

The work consists of Project on Quirt Avenue from Regis St. South to Loop 289 - Provide Relocation Assistance and Const. Gr., Strs., and Surf. - 1.8 mile.

Project on Avenue H and Texas Avenue from 3rd Street to near 7th street - Gr., Strs., and Surf. - 0.3 mile.

District Engineer George C. Wall of Lubbock, said the work in this area is a part of a $61.4 million effort statewide to help improve traffic flow in urban areas throughout the state. The statewide program includes work on 156.9 miles of urban roads and streets.

Types of work included in the program are such things as widening, channelization, signals and other projects designed for safer, more convenient traffic flows in urban areas.

The program was prepared from recommendations from Highway Department District Engineers working in cooperation with local officials and governments to assess the needs in local communities.

Robert "Bob" Tieuel, Jr., minister-newsman and director of Public Relations for the Amarillo Wichita Falls district of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, has been appointed recruitment officer for Texas College, Tyler, Texas. His area includes West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, according to W.E. Williams, director of Public Relations at Texas College.

"Students at Texas College are from all religious faiths with a great majority of them on scholarships. We still have a number of various kinds of student aids for those wishing to continue their education in a black-oriented institution of higher learning", Tieuel stated.

Interested persons in West Texas should contact him at P.O. Box 1204, Midland, Texas, and in New Mexico at P.O. Box 1224, Hobbs, N.M.

Texas College is A-rated by the Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and is located in Tyler, Texas. The college is a member of the United Negro College Fund, composed of forty-one black-oriented institutions in the United States with an annual operating budget of some $150,000,000, it was reported.

Family Reunion Held Here

The McKinney families had a joyous get together last week in a reunion which is an annual affair that ended Tuesday when the last out of town family left.

Mrs. Mary McKinney, mother of the eleven children, was the happiest one of all. The site for the feast was in the home of the youngest daughter, Bernice, and her husband, Ulysess Kelly, who lost sight of the price of beef, chickens and red beans, and with the help of other family members prepared a delicious meal. The feast began in the backyard and because of changing weather had to move inside.

Other family members who reside in Lubbock are Frank, Clarence, Max and George McKinney and their families. Miss Maybelle McKinney of Pamona, California, and Lonnis of Los Angeles were unable to be present, but the count of nieces, nephews and grandchildren all added to the host.

Everyone had a wonderful, glorious time and are looking forward to the next one, if the meats stay reasonable.

Ruby Jay, one of Mrs. Kelley's special friends, was the recipient of part of the feast via a generous serving of the food delivered to her door. The family members here are faithful workers in various churches in the city.

Spur Residents Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Young of Spur, Texas, formerly of Lubbock, enjoyed a lovely visit with their daughter, son-in-law and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Dulan of Oakland, California. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Bull Davis, a friend of the Dulan family. They also visited Mrs. Marie Gamble Rainwater of

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

It was the perfect spot for an upset, an event that is more common this young football season than rare. Texas Tech had just flown high to defeat Texas. Baylor had upset Oklahoma State the week after the Cowboys had upset Arkansas, which had upset Southern Cal.

And when Charlie Weatherbie sliced around the right side for 40 yards and a touchdown on OSU's first possession, there were dark mutterings of oh, no, not this week.

Fortunately, lightning failed to strike, but not before West Texans lost inches off their fingernails from biting hard. It was that type of game right up to the final whistle.

Of course the actual difference in the game were two placements by Brian Hall and Sam Lisle being stopped by Curtis Jordan and Randy Olson at the goal line on a try for two points in the third quarter. Indeed, had Lisle gone in, it's doubtful that Tech would have won.

But there were other key things. Looming large was the freak pass play that bounced obliquely off to Pat Felux, who made a first down at the OSU 7. That led to a touchdown.

There were two missed field goal attempts by Abby Daigle, either of which would have turned the tide for the Cowboys.

Then there was great punting by David Kuykendall, especially a punt from the Tech 20 to the OSU 38—against the wind 42 yards—with 8:43 left in the game. A bad punt and zap! That could have been the ball game.

There also was the punt by Kuykendall into the wind with only 47 seconds left, with the Cowpokes rushing 10 men. They forced the kick, but Kuykendall got it to the OSU 33, a key 32 yarder.

At this point J.T. King remarked that he hoped OSU thought it had to pass. The Cowboys immediately obliged, throwing three times in vain. OSU would have been deadly with a passer. Instead, they had no completions in 10 attempts, with two intercepted.

After the game a writer asked Jim Carlen whether he had been worried when Daigle tried a 68-yard field goal. "Are you kidding?" Jim exclaimed. "Listen, I was on the field before the game and I was watching their punters and field goal kickers. They put the ball on our 46—that's 64 yards—and he kicked two out of three sky high through the uprights. Worried? You bet I was. For a little guy, I never saw anyone with a stronger leg."

Somebody else asked Carlen if he didn't think that Tech had been fortunate in getting the breaks.

"You're always glad to get breaks," he replied, "but I think a lot of that is due to the way a team plays. We had one turnover tonight, which is what we averaged per game last year."

"But after awhile, a good team believes that when good things happen, they're going to keep on happening."

No, it wasn't an impressive victory, but it was a victory—and it could just as easily have been a loss. The Raiders played well, all things considered. They weren't nearly as inspired as they were against Texas, but they were higher than when they played New Mexico.

But the second half was hairy, especially when you consider that Tech gained a net of only 39 yards rushing, minus three yards passing and only three first downs.

"I wasn't happy about our offense the second half," Carlen declared late Saturday night, "but you have to give Oklahoma State a lot of credit. They were a big, physical team. I'd say that their defensive line whipped our offensive line."

About the thwarted try for two extra points, Carlen said he wanted OSU to kick the ball.

"I think if he'd (Daigle) kicked, Blossom (Tom) would have blocked it. Bloxom blocks 'em," Carlen said with a grin.

"Coach, who said you weren't colorful?" Mike Cochrane of the AP asked. Mike long has good naturedly needled Jim about not making colorful remarks a la Darrell Royal (you remember him, surely!)

Anyway, like the Texas game, the OSU battle is being forgotten. This week Tech travels to Texas A&M and the Aggies are big, strong and experienced. The Raiders haven't lost to the Aggies since 1967.

"We're bruised right now," Carlen declared, "I wish we were playing Santa Clara, no, it was Santa Barbara, wasn't it. We've played three physical teams—Iowa State, Texas and Oklahoma State. And A&M will be just as physical as Oklahoma State, maybe more so."

Carlen, in looking ahead, made the statement that at least four of Tech's next opponents probably would be in the top 20 when Tech played them—A&M, SMU, Arizona, Arkansas.

SMU? "You bet," Carlen answered. "They're 3-1 and played Ohio State a whale of a game. And who have they got next? TCU and Rice? Yep, they'll be there. Arizona will be undefeated when we play them."

"Fellows, the conference is stronger. Everybody is stronger. I'm not surprised at the upsets. The competition is just that much stronger."

Okay, pack up your overnight bag and go to College Station this week. The Raiders need all the vocal support they can get. And don't be surprised if they play A&M the same way they did Texas. This team believes in itself.

"I really appreciate the help Mr. Fulton has given me over the past," says Johnny. "He's made a lot of things possible for me to continue in the racing business," he continued.

"Superstitious" received a trophy this spring from the Lubbock Timing Association (LTA) for the best looking in its field at the second annual car show at South Plains Mall. The Dailey brothers are members of this association.

"Over the past, we've learned a lot about this kind of business," says Johnny. "When we first got started, the guys looked at us as though we were not for real. Since that beginning, we've proven that we are for real," he continued. "They've found out we are for real and they respect us," he smiled.

If you talk to Johnny about some of the obstacles placed in his path over the past, he says: "Man, you'll learn a lot in this business. You've got to keep up with the rules and regulations; if you don't, somebody might put something on you. My brothers and I understand the National Rule Book for Super Stock all the way," he said.

"We can't thank the Gilbert Auto Suply Company enough for all their help," says Johnny with sincerity. "They've been a big help in getting the necessary parts we need."

Johnny admits that he'd love to turn professional in the dragway business. "The sky is the limit in this profession," he went on to say. "In order to turn pro, you need someone to back you with the money."

I guess turning professional is another challenge for Johnny Dailey and his brothers. The brothers together number 87 years in age. Johnny says, "With us working together as a team, we can't help but reach our goal...to be a professional team and travel throughout the country."

Johnny is married to the former Jewel Perkins of Brownfield, Texas. They are proud parents of three sons.

One thing is for certain about the Dailey Brothers. They will be looking forward to Sunday, October 13, at the Lubbock Dragway. Although "Superstitious" will be retired, Stevie Wonder can appreciate this name as it brought him a golden record. Why can't "Superstitious" bring the same gold to a determined and dedicated team as the Dailey Brothers.

If you get a chance Sunday, go out and see Johnny Dailey do his thing. Go out and see the young man from Arkansas who holds all kinds of track records in West Texas. Go out and see the young man who likes the challenge of winning.

Work, it seems, has a way of getting in the way of recreation.

High Blood Pressure is Major Health Threat to Millions of Black Americans

"High blood pressure and its complications—leading factors in heart attack and stroke—constitutes a major health threat to black Americans," Floyd Wilkerson, Vice President of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate, said today. He reported high blood pressure is 100 times more prevalent among blacks than sickle cell anemia.

Wilkerson, principal at Roger Q. Mills Elementary School in Dallas, said, "If you are a Black American, your chances of having high blood pressure are twice as great as a white American. If you have this silent and mysterious disease, the consequences will be more severe and will occur earlier in life if you're black."

The American Heart Association's Vice President added that it is not his intent to minimize the threat of sickle cell anemia, but to place it in proper perspective. Sickle cell anemia is a unique ethnic disease which affects Blacks almost to the exclusion of other races.

"It is a serious problem, one which should be of concern to us all," the Vice President said. "But while only one in every five hundred Black Americans have sickle cell anemia, one hundred in every five hundred Black Americans have high blood pressure."

Wilkerson cited the efforts of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate, to develop screening programs to identify hidden hypertensives and get them under control, to educate and inform professionals and the public to provide funds for research on the cause of high blood pressure.

"These statistics," he added, "underscore the vital need for the minority population to become actively involved in the community service and educational programs of their local American Heart Association."

Blacks to Advise On 1980 Census

Washington — (NBNS) — The Commerce Department is about to name a panel of blacks to serve as advisors to the Bureau of the Census for the 1980 population count. The panel is supposed to come up with suggestions on improving tabulating techniques to get a true black population count.

Called the Advisory Committee on the Black population for the 1980 Census, the group of 21 will be a broadly based representation of the black community. Included will be leaders from such widely dissimilar groups as the Black Panther Party, the Black Muslims, the National Urban League, the NAACP and others.

The move is expected to prevent a recurrence of the 1970 census when blacks and other minorities were undercounted.

Contemplated also is a committee for Spanish surnamed Americans.

The black panel members will be appointed by Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, and will be drawn from those persons who had served on an ad hoc committee that recommended the formation of a permanent group.

The ad hoc committee was formed last May following a barrage of charges that the 1970 black population count was incorrect.

The group held a number of meetings and recommended to the census bureau to name a permanent committee and to name a black to a high position in the agency to work specifically in the black area. Both have been accomplished.

Vincent P. Barabba, director of the census bureau, in a draft charter for the committee said the group's creation was necessary because "the quality of decennial census statistics for the black population has been poorer than that for the population as a whole," adding that it was necessary to improve the count "because decennial census data are widely used for such critical matters as legislative reapportionment, allocation of Government funds and public and private program planning."

He conceded that "we didn't do as good a job counting black people as we should have."

The Black Experience: Bellringer sources in Boston report that while the rest of Boston seems to be accepting forced busing for school desegregation, South Boston was continuing its heavily supported boycott of the public school system as of Sept. 28, 1974.

Most of Boston's 200 public schools opened and closed quietly during the first ten days. Beneath the busing uproar is racial tension that exists mainly between two neighborhoods: Columbia Point and South Boston. The Columbia Point is a yellow high rise brick housing project occupied mostly by blacks while the white peoples tenements are old wooden structures for the most part, according to our sources.

The geography of the South Boston neighborhood plus the Irish Catholic heritage has given it a sense of distinct identity to the point that residents of the area do not call themselves Bostonians, they are Southies. There are 384,000 Southies living in a four square mile area and "they know exactly who belongs". The median education level is only 11.2 years and unemployment is at 9.9 percent. All along Broadway in South Boston, teenage girls can be seen pushing baby carriages. Many of the boys can be seen with cigarettes dangling from their lips.

According to our sources, Southies are also the most discriminated against people in Boston. A white minister reports: "They're poor people and can't escape to the suburbs and buy a decent private education like other white people can." Being poor white, he says, they can't even qualify for a state run program that buses impoverished blacks to suburban schools with empty desks."

National Observer reports: "A cab driver passes a school bus leaving South Boston High for Roxbury (all black) school and he says: "Those poor kids. They think by coming to Southie they're gonna get a decent education. Didn't anyone tell them our schools are just as bad as theirs."

So Boston's long journey into desegregation is just beginning. Next January there will be additional busing in an attempt to spread evenly the city's 33 percent black student population. And Southies will have to decide soon whether to end or continue their boycott. Said one woman in a sandwich shop: "Pretty soon they can start telling us what church to go to." And that is the story of how Little Rock came to Boston, the cradle of liberty."

For Whom The Bells Toll: The Lubbock Daily A.J. said of the late "Doug" Meador, publisher, editor and columnist of The Matador Tribune (Texas) who passed the other day at age 72, his "trail dust to settle." A great tribute of a newsman whose column "Trail Dust" won for him many awards and regional as well as national recognition for more than forty years. His passing reminded me of several great Anglo newsmen (publishers and managing editors) that we have known and shared our black experience with for some forty years.

For example, one managing editor of The Texarkana Daily Gazette said to me some 12 years ago: "Preacher, you certainly have ability to write and develop a church-news related story and make it come alive. If your bishop ever drops you, remember you have a job with me here." There have been others who have encouraged and inspired us thru the years and the fleeting hours tell us that The Great Managing Editor above will one of these days give us our final assignment.

According to the Wall Street Journal, state, regional and national bodies of Teachers will double and in some cases more than triple their expenditures on candidates for public office this fall and the Dallas A.M. News states that there are over 6 million illegal aliens in the U.S. today and the number continues to thrust upwards. In another ten years, aliens could become the largest minority group in America, some sources report. Cheap labor is given as the reason for the rapid increase of the foreign born.

Crime Comes Home: "Church of God In Christ Bishop Slain and Robbed" and "Washington Pastor Survives Robbery and Murder Attempt" reads front page headlines in The Whole Truth, official organ of the Church of God In Christ, published in Memphis, Tennessee. Maybe Black Church leaders of the nation should call a National Conference on Crime. Rev. Jessie Jackson of Chicago (PUSH) says the time is now. Problems of inflation and unemployment of blacks should also be taken up, Jackson said on national television recently. What about it brothers and sisters?

To Mrs. S.T. of Odessa: Thanks for your sweet note. Yes, it is true that new lines of communication are being opened up in the Big 8th Episcopal District, headed by Bishop C.D. Coleman of Dallas. We recently held a lengthy interview with the presiding prelate and some of the findings of that interview will be carried in this column soon. In the meantime bellringers, God's love and Peace rest with you. See you from Clovis, New Mexico real soon.

Final Rites Read For Mother of Lubbock Resident

Funeral services were held Thursday, October 4, at Cameron Grove Baptist Church at Cameron, Texas, for Mrs. Mary Benford Murphy, 89, at 2:30 p.m. with the Rev. C.L. Boulden, pastor, giving the eulogy. He was assisted by Rev. McWalker. Arrangements and services were made by Dorsey Keatts Funeral Home Inc.

Mrs. Murphy was the eighth child born February 1, 1895, to the union of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Castle in Brazo County. She was reared in a lovely happy christian atmosphere and was converted at an early age, and became a member of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

She was married to Rev. K.W. Benford and two children blessed their union, Mary Luvile and Johnny Benford.

The family moved to Cameron where she became a member of the Cameron Grove Baptist Church. In 1949, Rev. Benford passed away and in 1951, she was remarried to Mr. Love Murphy and became the mother of some step children. Mr. Murphy also preceded her in death in 1961.

In 1972, she moved to Lubbock, Texas and made her home with her daughter because of illness and remained with her until it became necessary for her to be placed in the Golden Age Nursing Home in 1973. She remained a patient until her death Friday, September 27, at 2:45 p.m.

By request, her body was transferred to Cameron, Texas, to be entered beside her husband. South Plains Funeral Home made the necessary arrangements here and Dorsey Keatts Funeral Home Inc. transferred the body and made final arrangements and interment at Cameron Rest Cemetery.

Besides the son and daughter, Mrs. Mary Lucille Baker of Lubbock and Johnnie Benford of Portland, Oregon, survivors include a sister, Mrs. Jodie Woods of Phoenix, Arizona; seven grandchildren, 23 great grandchildren, six great, great grandchildren; two step daughters, two step sons and a host of other relatives and friends. One step son, Roosevelt Murphy, is a resident of Lubbock and attended the final services.

Active pallbearers were deacons of Cameron Grove Baptist Church.

"Equal Employment Opportunity Through Affirmative Action"

Mrs. Ford Boosts Black Women for Policy Jobs in New Ford Administration

Washington — (NBNS) — Mrs. Gerald R. Ford has urged her husband to include black women among the women appointees he has promised for the Ford Administration.

The First Lady told a conference sponsored by the National Council of Negro Women that she had asked President Ford to choose qualified black and white women for top policy positions in his Administration.

She said he responded that he would seriously consider these candidates for top jobs.

Thus Mrs. Ford expanded her husband's earlier pledge to appoint more women to high office. She indicated that she would not let him forget his pledge:

"If he doesn't get it in his office, he gets it at night in the ribs," she joked.

Mrs. Ford spoke briefly at a luncheon during the two day conference on housing and food. Some 100 women, representing women's volunteer organizations, attended.

She said she always has been opposed to racism and sexism and, if necessary, would "take to the stump" to overcome both forms of discrimination. She urged a united effort among women:

"You are the women who are going to lead the way and lead the country down the path for equality, not only racial equality but sexual equality. You have a great commitment and I know you will carry through."

International S-S Topic

The subject this week for thousands of Sunday Schools over the world has to do with Worship. "Where, When and Why All Men Worship". The lesson text is found in II Chronicles 5:7-14 and Chronicles 7:12-14. The memory selection: "Yes, O my God, be wide awake and attentive to all the prayers made to you in this place." 2 Chronicles 6:40. From the Living Bible.

Webster defines worship as reverence tendered a divine being or supernatural power—to regard with extravagant respect or admiration. Devotion to God.

The Lord said "If" the people who prayed their prayers wanted answers, there must be response on their part; they must be humble, they must pray, and they just turn from their wicked ways. Prayer changes things because the ones who pray are willing to be changed and to make changes. Is yours effective?

are rising as a result of oil price hikes, they say, as a result of companies seeking to maintain profits by raising the prices they charge on a declining volume of goods.

The conference participants said the poor "already are making the major sacrifices" and said "it is essential that funds for human services programs for poor and low income persons be substantially increased. Any increase in the already too high unemployment rate is a completely unacceptable approach to meeting the current inflationary period."

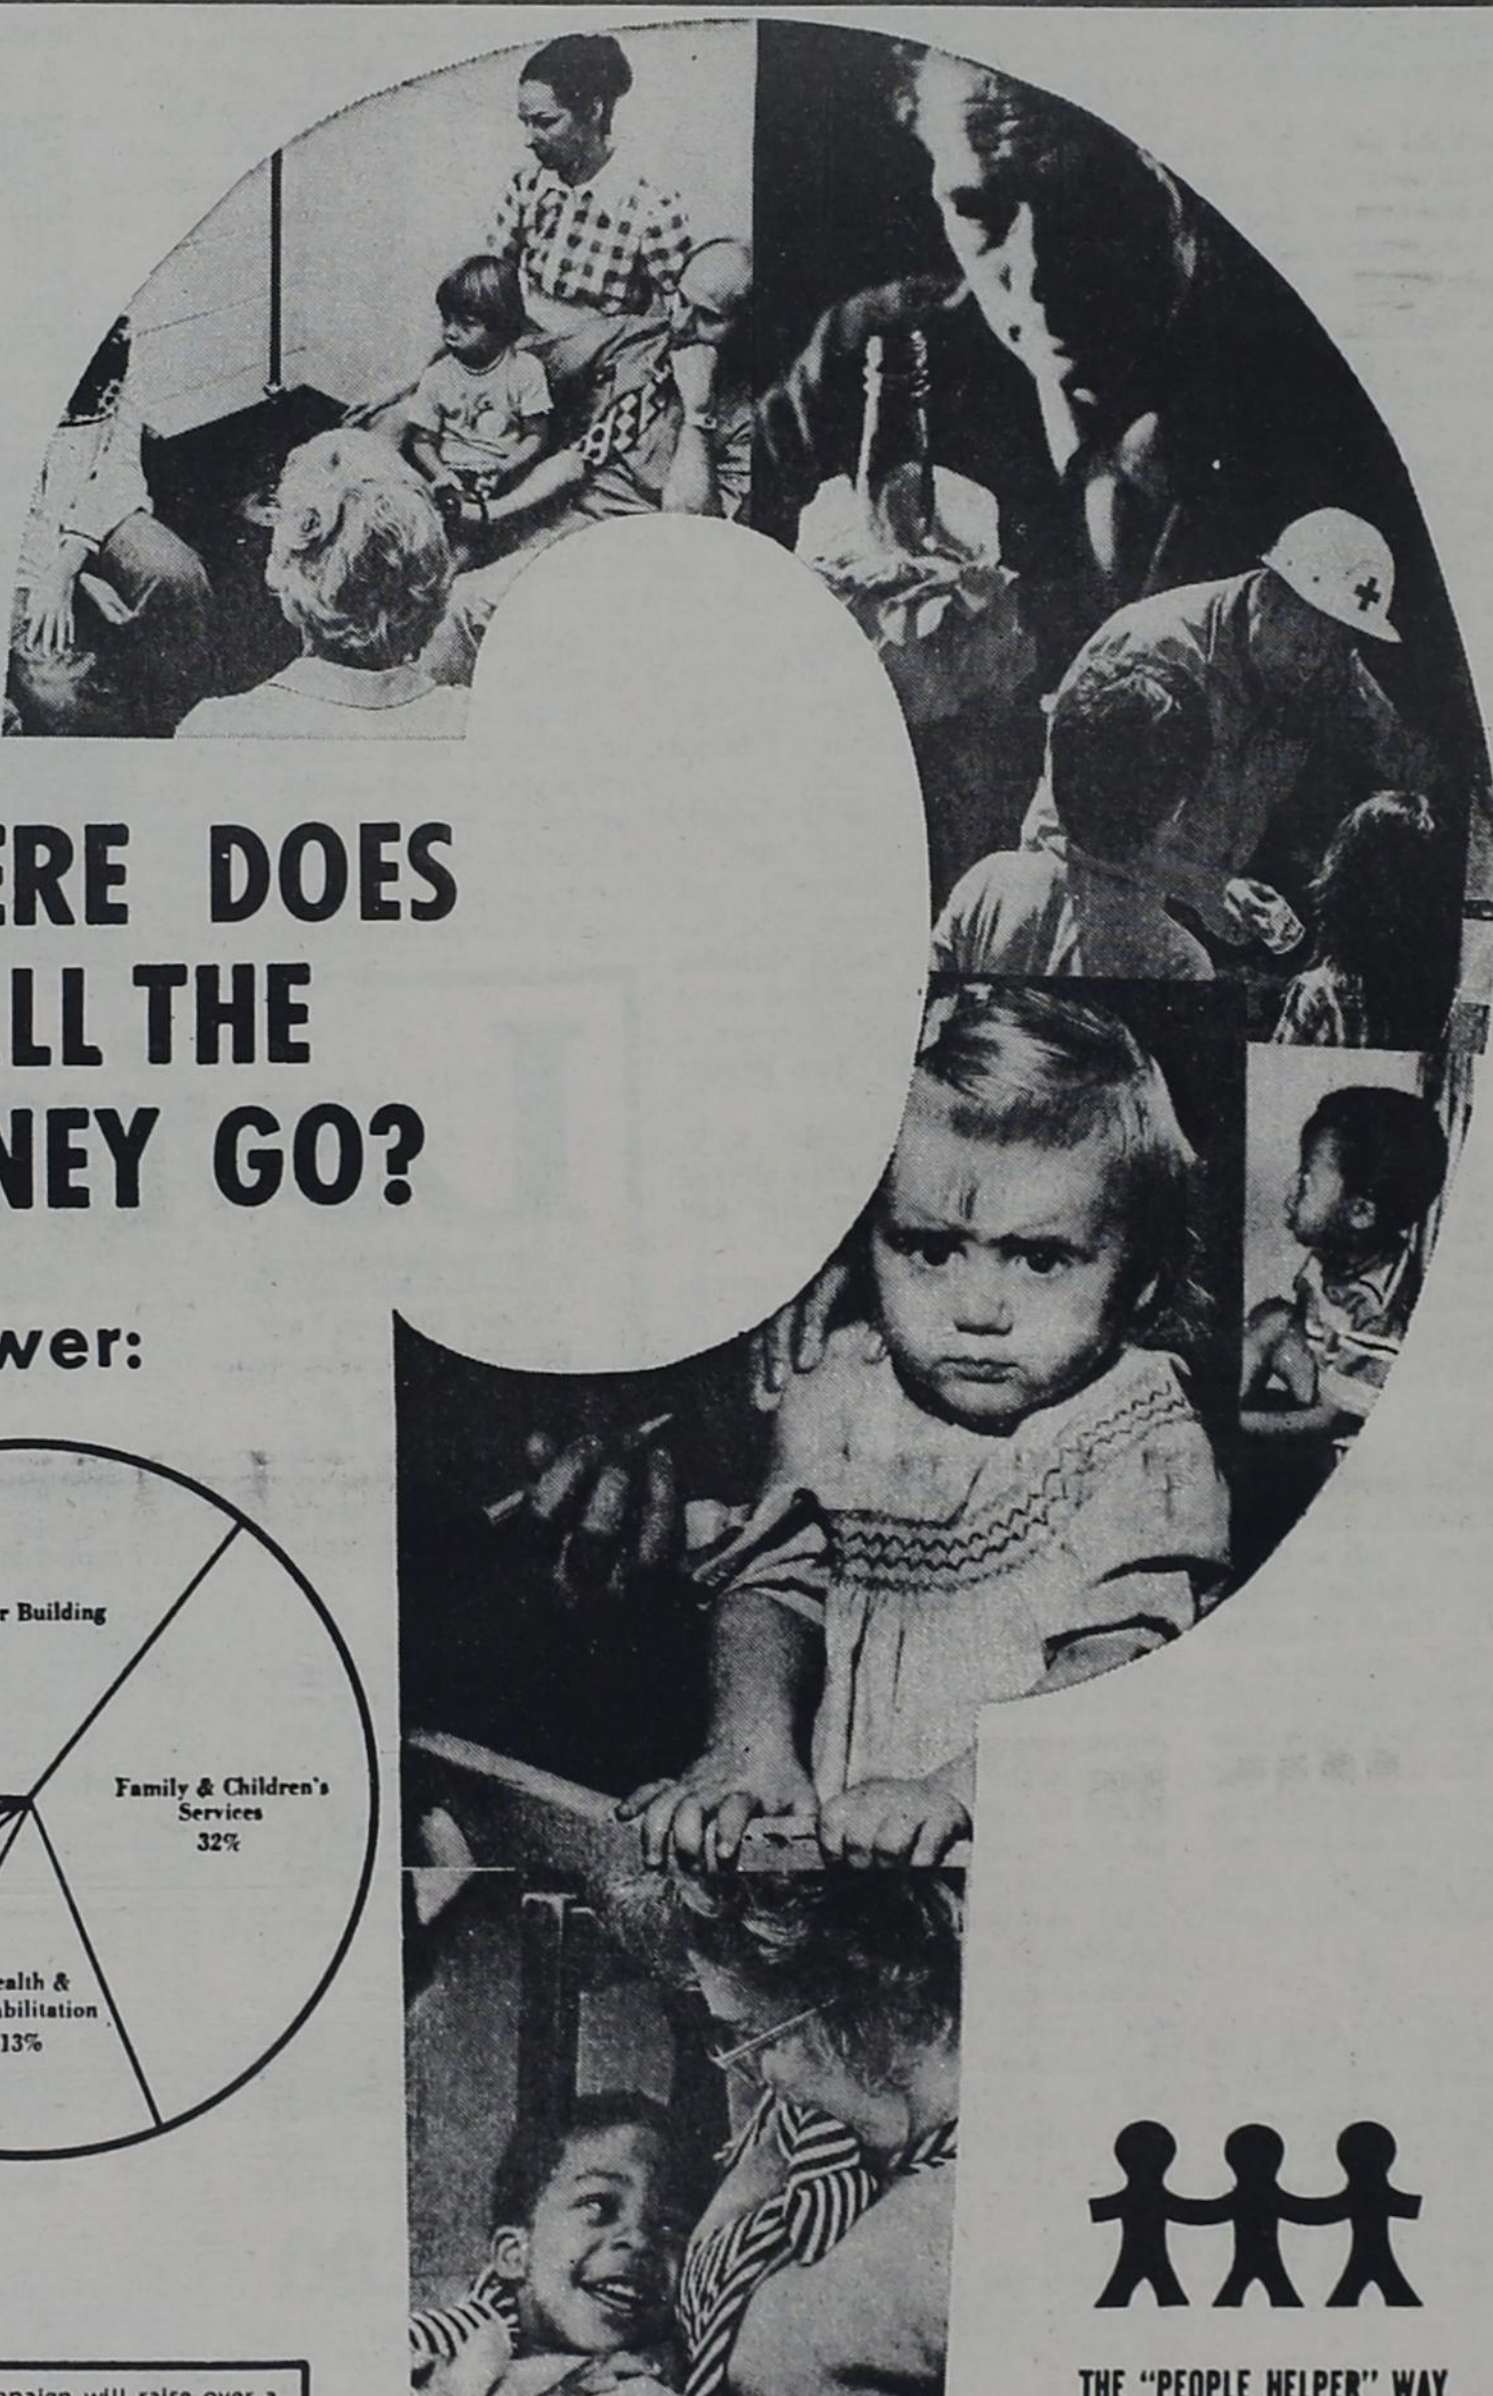

WHY WHAT WHERE WHO

answer:

The United Way campaign will raise over a million dollars this year for the operation of 30 community service agencies in 1975. The above chart depicts the type of services available and percentages of the amount received. Note especially the minimal amounts representing campaign and administration expense of the United Way. It's only possible because the United Way is basically a volunteer organization. Campaign volunteers, board members, division and committee members are all volunteers. Check the chart and you'll see the United Way is a bargain.

An Interesting Display at School Here

AN INTERESTING DISPLAY—Debbie Gipson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Gipson of 3506 East Baylor Avenue, and Charles Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Whitehead of 1818 East Colgate Avenue, are proud of their display built by their class at Parkway Elementary School. The fifth grade class, under the direction of Mrs. Rubye Henderson, developed this earth history with numerous clay models. The students were responsible for the pre-historic animals.

Mrs. Henderson said: "This is a learning experience." Mr. Don Meyers, principal, is shown with the young people.

Times so all citizens can see them." The mayor, saying, "I've never been asked to be a guest editorial for the West Texas Times, but I will do what I can."

Rep. McAlister applauded the efforts of the vocational system in Texas.

Dr. Vivian Davis, an English professor on the campus of Texas Tech University, took on the panel when she said: "I once worked in Lubbock some twenty years ago. I don't see any great change in Lubbock over the past. We've got self respect, we need to do something different to help our community. We're not concerned about parentalism."

On the other hand, Rev. Davis, who has been working on a shopping center complex, expressed his view: "We have the drive, nothing will stop us from reaching our goal." He went on: "We've had a lot of things in our path over the past 3 1/2 years. I've been run around from one agency to another. I've been told we have a good program, but nothing has happened."

Rev. Davis continued: "The Small Business Administration (SBA) has said no! I think of East Lubbock as a tri-ethnic area. Organizations as the Minority Improvement Group (MIG) and the East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA) have been met with the word NO!"

Mr. Phillips spoke to issue of East Lubbock beginning at Avenue Q. He said: "The City of Lubbock has done a fairly poor job developing our entire city, especially the mayors prior to Jim Granberry. Downtown Lubbock has a heavy tax burden, but we can do a good job if we all work together, black, white, brown and green people," he said.

A senior citizen of Lubbock, Mrs. F. Collier said: "I have heard you politicians say many things and some things you say are not true." Mrs. Collier is 78 years old.

Trying To Make System . . .

In "reviewing" why this self-help organization has "attracted . . . broad-based congressional support," Senator Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania said recently:

"... it is because OIC works; $75 million is a lot of money—but this will enable OIC to train and place 75,000 workers in productive jobs, and that is a better buy than we can get from any other manpower training agency, public or private.

"In this period of economic uncertainty, when minority unemployment and declining productivity threaten to run out of control, OIC is uniquely qualified to reverse these symptoms of inflation. In short, we cannot afford not to support OIC in today's economy," Mr. Schweiker explained.

In addition to this "broad-based congressional support," the Southern Governors Conference, at its 40th annual meeting in Austin, last September 11, went on record in support of "self help type programs as exemplified by OIC."

Yet, in spite of these endorsements, OIC is still confronted with problems, said Dr. Dawkins. Noting that the House of Representatives "only recommended that last year's funding level be assured through a combination of national contracts and local government monies," he said that "the big worry has been, would there be any money through the appropriations bill to assure OIC's continuation."

A primary element in the final determination as to whether OIC will receive the full $75 million Senate approved appropriation is the continuation of other on-going manpower programs at their 1974 funding level.

If the proposed bills of Congressman Daniels and Senator Nelson for a $4 billion public service employment plan receive Congressional approval, then "our funding problems will be solved," said Dr. Dawkins. "Then, we will have adequate resources and we will be well on our way to full employment opportunities."

SHOPPING

Let's do a little shopping. I am completely out of self respect. I want to exchange some self righteousness I picked up the other day for some humility which they say is less expensive and wears better.

I want to look at some tolerance which is being used for wraps this season.

Someone showed me some pretty samples of peace. We are so low on that, and we can never have too much of it.

Oh, by the way, I must match some patience that my neighbor wears; it is most becoming to her and I think it might look well on me. I might try that little garment of long suffering that is being displayed, I never thought I wanted to wear it; but I feel myself coming to it; also I must not forget to have my sense of appreciation mended and look around for some inexpensive everyday goodness.

It is surprising how quickly one's stock of goodness is depleted—Oh! don't let me forget love, as it can and must be used—Everywhere.
