Galloway Appointed First Blind Peace Corps Country Director

Don Galloway, former executive director of the Governor's Council in the Handicapped in Denver, Colo., has been appointed as Peace Corps country director in Jamaica.

Galloway, 40, who is blind, is the first handicapped person ever to be appointed to head Peace Corps programs overseas. According to the Department of State, he is one of the highest ranking handicapped persons ever to be appointed as an official United States representative abroad.

Galloway was sworn in as Peace Corps country director of the Caribbean island-nation at a ceremony at Peace Corps headquarters in Washington, D.C., on August 11.

"I don't look at myself as an exception to the rules on the ability of qualified handicapped persons to do this job or any other," said Galloway. "There's a saying among the organized blind, 'We know who we are, and we know where we're going.' I just want to help others recognize they can go places."

Blinded in an accident at the age of 16, Galloway earned a bachelor's degree in sociology in 1967 at Los Angeles State University. He received his master's degree in social work from San Diego State University in 1969.

"My whole life's ambition has been to get involved with Third World countries," said Galloway, explaining his interest in the Peace Corps. "Jamaica is at the point of trying to find its identity. The people of Jamaica should feel our support in their efforts to find African roots within their Jamaican experience. Peace Corps volunteers as United States citizens can be allies to that process," said Galloway.

"The three goals of the Peace Corps are to provide technical assistance, provide cross cultural experiences for United States citizens and cross cultural experiences for the host country," Galloway said.

"We can offer some of the technical things that are lacking. Two of Jamaica's main emphases are to get their adult population literate and increase food production. Peace Corps volunteers can help in the transition from the metropolitan middle class idea that everyone has to be a doctor to have dignity.

"Food production has dignity. Education curriculum can accommodate farmers easily by making literature and texts relevant to farmers."

"Working together as a group has been the traditional African way of getting things done," said Galloway. "I share their heritage as an Afro-American. I understand the aspirations of the Third World. I also understand the positive things that can happen with the support of the United States."

Accompanying Galloway to Jamaica in mid-August will be his wife, June Williams Galloway, and their three children, Kevin Emid, 15, Makini Maisha, 9, and Ade Baruti, 6 weeks.

Persons interested in more information about ACTION programs may call 800-424-8580 toll free.

Food & Fiber Hosts Evening Of Feasting and Fashion Sept. 14

An evening of feasting and fashion will be on tap for Lubbock when the Food & Fiber National Institute of Achievement holds its third annual meeting at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center September 14.

The highlight of the evening will be 8 p.m. style show featuring 75 garments from the $4 million designer original collection of the Texas Center for Fashion Studies - Dallas Museum of Fashion at North Texas State University.

The "Taste of Texas" buffet, catered by the Texas Agriculture Products (TAP) marketing division of the Texas Department of Agriculture, will be at 6:30 p.m., preceding the style show.

The fashion show will feature original creations by Christian Dior, Chanel, Bill Blass, Pauline Trigere, Mollie Parnis, Galanos and Balenciaga. Included will be a special showing of gowns worn by movie stars such as Greta Garbo, Claudette Colbert, Joan Crawford and Clara Bow, and a scene called "The Fashionable Ladies of Texas," honoring Texas women who have donated most of the Center's 3,000 apparel articles.

The show will also offer a preview of fall fashions from Hemphill-Wells and Margaret's as well as original creations by Texas Tech students.

Betty Marzan, curator of the Center-Museum, will coordinate the show and serve as commentator. Creative direction will be by Dwight Byrd, choreographer for the Dallas Apparel Mart. Texas Tech students will model the clothes.

"The 20th Century in Fashions" will be comprised of garments spanning 200 years, with emphasis on how fashions reflect the evolution of 20th Century lifestyles. Cotton, linen, silk, wool and mohair will be among fibers represented.

The "Taste of Texas" buffet will include steamboat round roast, smoked turkey, sausage balls con queso, chips, dips and all the trimmings; plus wine tasting provided by Lubbock's own Llano Estacado Winery.

Tickets for the buffet and style show are $5. Tickets for the show alone are $2. Tickets can be obtained from Food & Fiber at Box 10436, Lubbock 79408 (747-1649), and at The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Hemphill-Wells, Sears and Furr's Family Center.

Mt. Olive Baptist Youth Crusade

A Youth Crusade will be held at Mt. Olive Baptist Church, 1618 Vanda Ave., Sept. 6-8 at 8 p.m. nightly, with the close out Sunday, Sept. 10, at 3 p.m.

Speakers for the crusade are: on Wednesday, Rev. R.L. Jackson of New Jerusalem; on Thursday, Rev. R.P. Davis of St. Luke; Friday, Rev. Larry Joesy of Lyons Chapel and Rev. Battle of Rising Star.

Theme for the event is "But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. And as ye go preach saying, the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." St. Matt. 10:6-7.

Mt. Olive Baptist Church and pastor, Rev. Benjamin Roberts, Jr. comment: "Come and give these young ministers your support. God does and speaks in mysterious things. Who knows what He has in store for you? On Only Him ... Jesus loves You!"

NASCD Names Reggie Smith National Honorary Chairman

The National Association for Sickle Cell Disease, Inc., has named Dodger superstar Reggie Smith as its National Honorary Chairman for 1978-79.

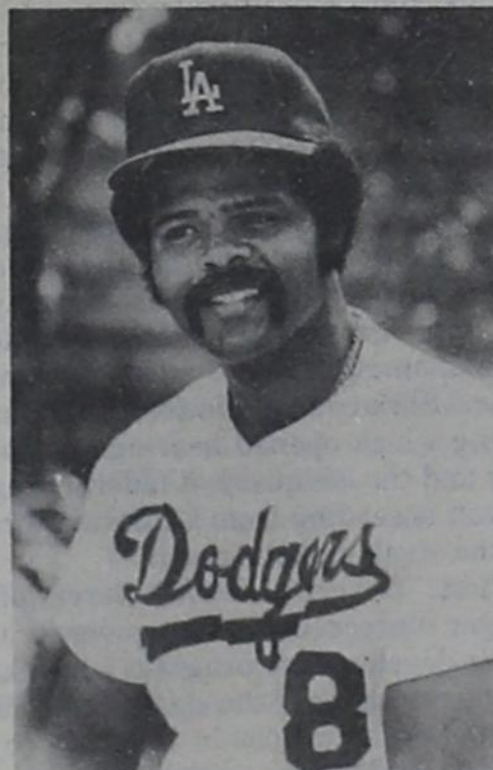

Mr. Smith's appointment marked the first time that the National Association has named a national honorary chairperson. "He is a true superstar with an exemplary character both on and off the field and is truly admired for his concerns in the community. His association with us, and ours with him, will prove highly beneficial at local and national levels in advancing the goals of the NASCD," said Executive Director Dorothy Boswell.

Ms. Boswell explained that Mr. Smith would make public service announcements for radio and television in support of the NASCD and would represent the NASCD at community affairs, business meetings, fund raising and other NASCD events. He will also participate in the selection of the Association's 1978-79 poster child.

Mr. Smith announced plans for the first annual Reggie Smith Celebrity Tennis Classic, proceeds of which will benefit the NASCD. It will be a two-day celebrity-amateur tournament to be held at Mountain Gate Country Club on November 11 and 12. The tournament will be sponsored by the Pepsi Cola Company.

The National Honorary Chairman also said that plans were under way for the NASCD's annual Award of Distinction and entertainment dinner that honors a person for his or her efforts in behalf of charity, particularly sickle cell disease.

Los Angeles Dodgers superstar Reggie Smith is named National Honorary Chairman of the National Association for Sickle Cell disease.

City-County Library To Show Free Films

A new series of free films will begin Saturday, September 9 at the Lubbock City-County Library.

"Saturday Film Mosaic" will feature films on a wide variety of topics including nature, comedy classics and character sketches of people with diverse talents and personalities. The Academy award-winning documentary Who Are the DuBolts? will be shown on November 4 and a showing of the television adaptation of J.R.R. Tolkien's The Hobbit is scheduled for December 2.

Films will be shown each Saturday through December 16 at 3:00 p.m. in the Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library, 1306 9th Street. Complete schedules for the series are available at the library.

Community Centers Set Preschool Classes

Registration for preschool classes at all City Community Centers will begin September 6th at 9:00 a.m. Classes are free of charge with registration being held at each community center. The classes will run for a 10-week period beginning the week of September 18.

Germany and Japan Can Now Afford Payments for U.S. Military Aid

WASHINGTON—Thirty-eight years ago Germany and Japan were in ruins. The United States wanted to rebuild the world, so we helped our former enemies back on their feet.

Now our good deeds are coming back to haunt us. German and Japanese factories, built at U.S. expense, today are putting American firms out of business and American workers out of work.

In Japan, for example, we provided both the financing and technology to create a Japanese textile industry that today threatens our own with ruin. We also helped the Germans and Japanese to build other plants more modern and better equipped than our own.

We helped to build, expand and modernize steel mills, chemical plants, shipyards, aluminum mills and other industrial facilities. Our tax money has been used to develop not only manufacturing but merchandising in Germany and Japan.

As a result, our World War II enemies are surpassing us in economic power. Today, the German mark and the Japanese yen are stronger than the American dollar.

One reason for their economic prosperity is that they aren't saddled with a huge military budget. We protect West Germany and Japan with our military might. Yet they don't pay for the cost.

Last January, Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko flew to Tokyo to warn the Japanese to keep away from mainland China. Gromyko sternly admonished them not to develop close ties with Peking. Yet a month later, Japan signed a trade agreement with China. Now Japan and China have signed a treaty of peace and friendship.

Yet Japan does not have the military power to stand up to Russia. It's the United States that backs Japan's tough diplomacy.

The same is true of West Germany. In May, Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev paid a four-day visit to Bonn. He brought powerful pressure upon the West Germans to loosen their ties with the West. The West Germans stood up to him. They were able to do this because of U.S. military backing.

Meanwhile, the Germans and Japanese are enjoying unprecedented prosperity. Maybe the time has come for them to help bear the military burden that makes this possible.

Uncomfortable News: Our mail is full of sad complaints from people who can't seem to keep up with soaring prices. The poor are upset with the present. The middle classes are worried about the future. The rich are scheming to beat inflation. And the economic gap between the three is widening.

Young couples are starting out their marriages heavily in debt. Elderly people, who live on fixed incomes, are caught in a squeeze. And both young and old seem to have lost faith in President Carter's ability to manage the economy.

And the news is not comforting. President Carter established a special task force to fight inflation. Its report won't be ready for the president until the middle of next month. But insiders tell us the task force doesn't anticipate much economic relief.

Here's the main problem: In July, American motorists burned up 8 million barrels of gasoline every day. This was an increase of almost eight percent over July, 1977.

Every extra barrel had to be imported from overseas. This increased the trade deficit, because the United States buys more from foreign nations than it sells back to them.

The trade deficit, in turn, has driven the value of the dollar down. The devaluation of the dollar increases the cost of foreign goods. Of course, American manufacturers can't resist the temptation to raise their prices to keep up with the cost of imported goods.

Then workers demand higher wages to keep up with the prices. And manufacturers raise their prices still higher to make up for the added labor costs. The president's inflation-fighting task force sees no break in this spiraling circle.

There's another grave danger. Most Americans have figured out that prices will continue to rise. This has started a buy-now psychology. Millions of middle-class buyers are signing up for cars and homes they can't really afford—on the theory that everything will be even more expensive in the future.

Thus Americans are piling up debts that will be difficult to pay. The nation is on a credit binge. This is what caused the last great Depression in 1929. The creditors began demanding payment and there wasn't enough money to go around. People who gambled on higher values found their property suddenly worthless.

The best advice, economists tell us, is to hedge. Invest half your surplus in anticipation of rising prices. But bank half your surplus on the possibility that the economy may falter.

If everyone did this, the economy wouldn't falter.

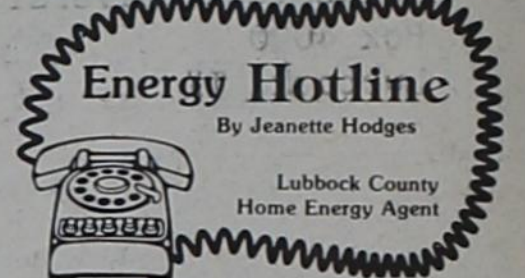

Gun Traffic: We've obtained a secret intelligence study about the illegal traffic in guns. The study charges that some California gun dealers have been selling semi-automatic rifles to convicted criminals, illegal aliens and drug smugglers.

Federal investigators have traced several Valmet rifles, for example, to known criminals and radicals. The Valmet is a semi-automatic rifle manufactured in Finland. It easily can be converted into a machine gun.

Under federal law, licensed dealers are forbidden to sell firearms to felons. Yet a number of Valmets were sold by licensed dealers to the underworld.

The guns also have turned up in the hands of radicals, both left and right, including the National Socialist White People's Party. According to the secret study, these groups have been stockpiling not only Valmets, but other sophisticated weapons as well.

Add a Tree to Your Landscape This Fall

I think of this summer's heat and imagine what a difference a green canopy of shade would have made around my home and neighborhood. I live in an area of town that has no trees, and that blazing sun sure makes it hot!

Trees around our homes provide more than landscape beauty. They provide climate control. They make important contributions to improving the environment. They add increased value and esteem to our property. Trees filter and clean the air we breathe, provide oxygen for living, and serve to reduce urban noise and sound.

Trees are one of Nature's best gifts; and a mighty fine investment for our homes and communities.

Many folks think of spring as the best time to plant, but fall planting offers distinct advantages. During the winter months the root systems of the fall planted specimens develop and become well established. When spring arrives this well-developed root system makes it possible for the plant to take advantage of the full surge of spring growth.

Your nurseryman has, or will soon be receiving, his new stock of container and balled and burlapped trees. So take time soon to visit him and make your selection.

After your selection is made, your next step is getting it planted properly. Here are a few guidelines on getting that job done right:

1. Dig a hole large enough in diameter so that the root system has at least six inches clearance on all sides. Some people will dig their hole twice the width of the root ball, which is an excellent idea, if you can manage it. It is not necessary to dig the hole much deeper than the root ball, as the ball should rest on a solid soil foundation.

2. Plant the tree at, or slightly below, the level at which the tree was growing in the nursery. The original soil line can be seen as a discolored ring on the trunk.

3. Be sure to provide internal soil drainage. If you are unsure as to whether or not your soil drains well, try this test: Dig a hole and fill it with water. If the water does not drain through the soil in a day or two, the plant roots will suffer from lack of oxygen. To improve drainage, dig a trench leading away from the bottom of the hole and fill it with gravel so that the excess water can drain to a lower area of the yard.

4. Carefully place the tree in the hole. Handle the plant by the ball and not by the trunk. A broken ball of earth can mean a dead plant. Always remove any container before you plant.

5. Backfill the hole carefully, using good top soil or a mixture of soil, sand, and organic matter, such as peatmoss. Fill the hole and firm the soil around the plant. Water thoroughly to settle the soil around the roots and to eliminate any air pockets.

6. Do not fertilize your tree after planting. Wait until early in the spring to do this, and even then, go lightly on regular commercial fertilizer. Heavy applications of fertilizer will burn and injure the root system and could possibly kill the plant.

7. Before calling it a day, stake the newly planted tree, and tie it with guying wires. This will stabilize the tree in the soil during the winter, and keep the wind from tossing the tree about and shifting the root system.

The Black Experience and Welfare: According to Phillip M. Crane of the Conservative Union and Congressman, "If there is one issue that concerns all working Americans it is the soaring costs of welfare." There are some 44 million people in the United States who receive some form of welfare payments from programs such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Supplemental Security Income, state general assistance and food stamps. Crane adds: "Unless something is done soon, close to one-third of our nation's citizens could be on the welfare rolls."

Charles Hobbs, former Chief Deputy Director of Social Welfare for California suggests the restructuring and redirection of the "welfare industry." We must, he states, (1) reduce the number of welfare administrators; (2) simplify the welfare system; (3) decentralize the control of the welfare system; and (4) reduce welfare expenditure growth, so that welfare does not grow faster than the national economy.

As Hobbs concludes: "Welfare reform is a worthy goal, not just politically, but socially and economically as well. The present welfare system is failing those who need it and those who pay for it. Only the welfare industry benefits. "And it is the industry which must have reform if welfare is ever to refocus on its true purpose: to help those who can't help themselves."

Crane concludes: "Abundant evidence exists that a majority of Americans oppose the transfer of income from productive citizens to fund those who are unwilling to work. Welfare spending continues to outrage the taxpaying citizen. It is my hope that the Congress will enact legitimate reform to set this growing system under control."

In Tribute: A recent edition of the Texas College Alumni Newsletter said of the late W.E. Williams, director of press and public relations there for a number of years: "He was a man of great intellect and a big heart; he was sincere; he was earnest; he was loyal; he was industrious; he was self-sacrificing." It is good that W.E. passed this way.

Recent great quotes: "A program that combines advocacy for initiative in urban policy, health, housing and employment along with genuine tax and civil service reform is more promising than the all-out drive against government's ability to act. Turning the clock back to the days of ineffective government means turning our backs on the possibility of a responsive government that deals with the people." End of quote from Vernon Jordan of the National Urban League.

Rhodesia's bi-racial government recently outlawed racial discrimination in public places in what it was "an ongoing exercise which will continue until all discrimination has been removed." Owners of hotels, restaurants, swimming pools, theaters and other public facilities who bar people for racial reasons will be subject to civil lawsuit under the edict. However many black leaders have criticized the policy because it did not end all discrimination. The new law does not affect hospitals, state schools or segregated urban housing areas, nor does it permit whites to trade in tribal trust lands in this African section where more than half of Rhodesia's seven million blacks live.

After two years of increases, the number of people in the United States who are poor dropped by 3.5 percent to 25 million in 1976, the government reported recently.

The original director of the war on poverty, Sergeant Shriver, said recently there should be another effort to end the poverty of the elderly. "In our battle against poverty, there can be no peace with honor, while nearly six million of our elderly are denied the most basic of all human rights—the right to survival in a decent and dignified manner," Shriver said. He testified before the House Select Committee on Aging which opened hearings on the extent of poverty among the elderly and the adequacy of federal programs to combat it. He said the tax revolt spreading from California threatens programs that reach the poor, the weak and the aged.

A First: Governor David Boren of Oklahoma, according to our bellringer sources, is the first governor to institute a small and minority business development program which assists minorities in finding and using the resources of the state. Some $900,000 was recently released to a group of organizations in the state to assist in finding jobs, provide counseling and other priority services. Boren, a democrat, faces a runoff election for U.S. Senate soon and many blacks are organizing forces in Oklahoma to insure his nomination to face a Republican contender in November. Until later, Peace.

Divide Texas

A Central Texas senator says he will revive the plan to divide Texas into five states if the District of Columbia gets congressional representation.

Texas retained the right to split up into five separate states when it joined the Union in 1836.

"I just cannot believe that we should give full representation to the District of Columbia when 80 per cent of its residents are government employees," said Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale.

Kubiak sponsored legislation in 1973 to provide for the division. Other lawmakers, including the late Sen. V.E. "Red" Berry, offered it in the past.

"If we can so readily give representation to the small District of Columbia, then why not increase representation for the larger, populous states such as Texas?" asked Kubiak.

Sen. John Tower has opposed giving the District of Columbia congressional representation. Tower's opponent, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, supported the proposal.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

You know, it's funny. The long, warm days of August drag themselves out to an awaited ending, the first Monday of September comes along and, bang! the switch is thrown and from every quarter the fall, winter and spring seasons are ushered in, entertainment schedules resumed, events and performances loom up sharply and immediately. Summertime is gone and it's "back to the old drawing board" all over again.

For example. A prestigious event is on tap for Friday night when a special invitational reception will herald the benefit opening of an Art Exhibition, in aid of Lubbock's brightest jewel, the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra.

The continuing event is an exhibit and sale of the works of prominent and prolific Southwestern artists which will cover two weekends and is open to the public without charge. It will be held downtown in the attractive First Federal Plaza, 1300 Broadway, under the guiding force and auspices of the Lubbock Symphony Guild.

Following the reception, the exhibition-sale will be held from 2-5 p.m. Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 11-15 and again from Sept. 18-21.

There will be a large number of original oil paintings, water colors, pencil and prints, with a limited number of offset lithographs.

Mrs. Jack Strong heads the Guild this year and Mrs. Glen M. Jones is chairman of the gala event.

Coincident with the preview and regular showings of this exhibition-sale is the mailing out by the Lubbock Symphony Business Office under the command of business manager Virginia Wheat of the five-concert season tickets. All events are at 8:15 p.m. on the dates in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Theatre.

The 1978-79 season, helmed as usual by the able William A. Harrod, musical director, conductor-founder, will get underway a week or so earlier than usual this time, set for Oct. 2.

The stellar artist at that concert pair, Oct. 2-3, will be the distinguished baritone, William Walker.

Then, in succession, the Civic Centre Theatre, on two successive nights each, will play host to guests artists, Yehuda Hanani, cellist, Nov. 13-14; Youri Egorov, pianist, Feb. 19-20; Texas Tech University music faculty-performer members, Gail Barber, harpist, and David Hickman, trumpet, March 26-27; climaxing of course as always with the glittering and favorite Pops Nite, set for April 23-24 with the personable and talented John Gary as principal vocalist.

Tickets are available at the Lubbock Symphony Box Office for all events on this slate and it behooves you to take advantage of this bonanza as soon as possible, thus avoiding disappointment. You may call 762-4707 for reservations and full information.

Another musical event of no mean proportion chases right down the alley when the Lubbock Theatre Centre gives us their annual September musical. A "September Song" in tradition, no? Following the list of distinguished musical productions that have formed the kick-off shows over the past years, LTC this time houses in its Playhouse, 2508 Ave. P, the homegrown version of one of the most popular musicals of all time, the delightful and touching "Man of La Mancha." This show, which tells of the author Cervantes who is thrown into jail and diverts his dungeon mates with the reading of his fictional treatment of the legendary Don Quixote. If you aren't aware of the fulsome score for this show, worth the price of admission alone, then you will be delighted to know that this is the show that contains "The Quest," or more familiarly known as "The Impossible Dream."

Jim Toland is the musical chief and conductor of this one, with Doug Cummins directing. John A. Packard is the one responsible for the choreography for both dancing and the crucial fight scenes.

Harlan Reddell plays "the knight with the woeful countenance" and Cervantes, while Charles Addington, no stranger to theatrics in this area, is his sidekick, Sancho Panza. Sarah J. Watkins, another tried and true performer on the local moors, will be the Aldonza/Dulcinea.

Others laboring hard in rehearsals these nights include Wayne Jennings, Jerry Cantrell, Joel Hughes, Bob Barnhill, Terry Lynn Eoff, Steven Mann, Kent Kirkpatrick, Ruth Boyd and Abby Flygare.

"Man of La Mancha" will have its premiere on Sept. 15, at 8:15 p.m. and will be repeated on Sept. 16 and 18-19 and 21-23.

Incidentally, the touring company of the revival of "Man of La Mancha" starring the original star, Richard Kiley, is currently playing the mammoth theater in Boston through Oct. 1 where it is pulling the highest weekly gross of any musical production in American history. So, we'll be right in the popular swim with this one.

Let's close this week's effort by citing a man "of many parts," Lawrence Garcia. Garcia is a Mexican-American, as his surname might indicate, though that "Lawrence" handle seems at variance, somehow.

I called him a man "of many parts," and that he is. He is a literate, witty man, who is valuable and something of a provocateur at times. He has an established reputation as a photographer, specializing in all forms of service, principally in the demanding art of color photography. He covers the field, children, adults, weddings, commercial and banquets. In case you'd like to contact him he lives at 2105 7th St., the phone is 744-2648.

I said he is valuable. Well, that's no lie. He can talk the proverbial limb off the tree, whether it is in Spanish or English. He has an eye for the ladies and some of his bantering, boastful tales are pretty thick, but his ready grin and his manner give the lie to his claims.

He's not only a photographer. He has many interests, not the least of which is his ownership, in recent months, of the spacious two-story game room and bar, The Rusty Nail, on 19th between Aves. V and W, adjacent to the Cabana Motel. Here his clientele is varied from Mexican-American, black, African exchange students and the working classes, sharing with a few white color workers, too. What he conducts is certainly not a dull recreation spot and it gains in popularity all the time. This is the place that was formerly known as "The Wizard's Den" which figured in the news not too long ago, in the pre-Garcia management-ownership.

Sometime I hope you get to meet Lawrence Garcia. If he were an Irishman, it would be easy to label him "Blarney," but he isn't and I don't know enough Spanish to know if there is a descriptive equivalent in the language. If you meet him along the way, you'll see what I mean! But, in my book, Lawrence Garcia is an entertainment man about his town and that's enough for me.

"Fiesta '78"

The Lubbock Garden and Arts Center, Inc. is sponsoring the ninth annual Fiesta on the grounds on front of the Center building. "Fiesta '78" will be open to the public at 9 a.m. Saturday September 9. All proceeds from booth rental will be used toward the development fund of the Garden and Arts Center and for the annual operating expense.

One hundred booths have been rented and a waiting list has been started. The Center Board of Directors will operate the food booth and various foods and drinks will be available throughout the day to "Fiesta '78" renters and visitors.

Many artists and craftsmen will be selling their art works. Non-profit organizations have rented booths and will have handmade novelties, toys, breads, jams, quilts, flower arrangements and plants ... potted and for potting. Outdoor entertainment will be staged in the show-wagon.

This is an annual affair sponsored by the Center Board to help in the operation and development of the Municipal Garden and Arts Center. The demonstrations scheduled during the day are free and at different locations, in the building and on the grounds.

Some of the things to be demonstrated are: Oil landscape painting, portraiture, watercolor painting, egg decorating, terrarium making and corsage making.

The annual T.F.A.A. art exhibit will be in the auditorium. A puppet show will be held in the studio at intervals during the day. The charge for admission to this program will be 50 cents.

All are welcome for a fun-filled day with art, entertainment and food.

Few young men realize what they're doing when a sweet young thing murmurs the magical word, "Yes."

The library welcomes donations of genealogical materials or money towards the purchase of such. All donations are tax-deductible.

Thanks to Mrs. Charlotte McDonald of East Point, Ga. for information on marriage contracts of Burke County, Ga., available on microfilm at the George State Archives in Atlanta. These contracts concerned the property and slaves of the future bride. Slaves were listed by name and age; occupation was sometimes included also. Some persons owned as many as 50 slaves. Approximately a dozen of these documents exist for the 1840's.

The following blacks were residing in the township of Spring Lake in the 1850 Ottawa County, Mich. census. Information included household and family number, person's name, age, occupation, and place of birth.

#621-624, William JOHNSON, 32, laborer, Virginia; Susan, 27, Virginia; Peet or Piet FILLIS, 18, male, Michigan.

#622-625, John MEYER, 34, laborer, Virginia; Blaze WHITE, 28, female, Virginia; Tomerry (sic) JOHNS, 14, male, Kentucky.

#628-632, Louis F(?)rultin, 57, grocery keeper, Illinois. (In the printed 1850 Michigan census, his name appears as Louis Fultin.)

#637-641, James ALEXANDER, 24, laborer, 24, laborer, Tennessee; Tallot (?) GOODLORO, 24, male, laborer, Kentucky (in the 1850 printed index, his name appears as Jakob Goodloro); Leonard TOMSON, 19, New York. None of these could read or write, according to the census.

#639-643, Henry MARTIN, 33, laborer, Kentucky; Isaak (sic) SMITH, 28, laborer, New Jersey; Sabrine, 28, female, Indiana; Tommas (sic), 6, male, Illinois; Amanda, 2, Michigan; Dugglas (sic), 8 months, male, Michigan. (to be continued).

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

What if Texas Tech should beat Southern Cal? First of all, there is about as much chance of that happening as riding a hang glider to the moon.

But IF Tech should win, it would cause utter consternation throughout the nation. It would virtually end any hopes the Trojans have of winning the national title. Unfortunately, it wouldn't overnight make Tech the favorite to replace USC.

It would, however, project the Raiders into the thick of SWC planning and cause a lot of head shaking in the league.

Instead, honest fans hope that the Raiders will be able to make a decent showing. It will be remembered that TCU went West last year and rode home on the short end of a 71-0 score. That was not what you would consider a respectable showing.

It could happen Saturday. Despite assertions that USC is a relatively young team, it has a preponderance of veterans in the right places. The Trojans are not a "sophomore" grid team.

The Raiders have a smattering of able veterans, but a largely untested backfield. There is size, but inexperience, in the lines. There will be a lot of baptism going on Saturday.

It's a cruel opener for the Raiders, when they should be playing someone like Santa Barbara. A decent effort would give the squad a measure of confidence, even in a loss, because the players would gain experience. A severe shocking might destroy any hopes of a chance for even a mediocre season.

Still, looking for a bright spot, Coach Rex Dockery says that this team will play with a lot of emotion, and sometimes emotion can repair mistakes. There is some ability in many places and there is talent that may surface under fire.

We'll know a lot more about this 1978 squad after this first game. The Raiders will have two weeks to regroup and take on an Arizona squad that's well regarded. It's to be hoped that the Raiders play well Saturday and come home healthy.

The season opens with a smattering of SWC affairs, notably the SMU-TCU clash in Dallas. It's awfully early for a conference game and it's doubtful that either coach likes it.

The Mustangs would seem to be farther along than the Horned Frogs, since Ron Meyer has had a year's edge over F.A. Dry in getting his program going at SMU. Also, SMU resented, it's said, playing conditions in the extreme heat at Fort Worth last year. You have to go with the Mustangs in this one.

Texas A&M goes to Kansas for its opener and this game will be watched closely to see just how strong the Aggies really are. They should blow past the Jayhawks without too much trouble. In the past, KU has given trouble only to TCU of the SWC.

The only other game is Iowa State at Rice and the Owls, under a new head coach, Ray Alborn, have hopes—and not much more. Iowa State is well regarded in the Big 8 this year.

That wraps up the first week in the conference and everyone and his brother is talking about this race. The general feeling is that Arkansas will walk off with all the marbles at the end.

It's hard to pick anyone else. Arkansas has depth. It has ability at every position. It's lone loss last year was to champion Texas. It beat Oklahoma, soundly, in the Orange Bowl. The Razorbacks would seem to have everything it takes to be the national champions they want to be.

Funny things happen, though, to teams that are so highly rated. On the surface, Arkansas would seem to have every reason to believe that it can win the conference and even the national title.

If you bet on it, maybe you should hedge your bet. The Porkers have three important games on the road—at Texas, at Houston and at Baylor. On those games, plus the injury bug, might lie the season. It's not an easy path to the throne.

A&M, with possibly more depth than any team in the league, looks to be the logical challenger. But the Aggies have key games at Houston, at Arkansas and at Texas. And everyone knows what usually happens at Austin when they play the Longhorns.

Houston also is loaded, apparently with the best defensive team Bill Yoeman has had and with Danny Davis back at quarterback. The Cougars play at Texas, but get Arkansas and A&M at home. They could be the champion when it's all over.

Grant Teaff says flatly that this is the best Baylor team he has ever had. If he can get one quarterback healthy and able, the Bears might well repeat their championship of 1974. The Bears have only A&M on the road among the top-rated teams.

As for the rest, they'll struggle to have respectable seasons and play the role of spoiler. The best of the rest would seem to be SMU, close to a contender, but not quite, followed by, hopefully, Texas Tech, TCU and Rice.

Any way you look at it, it promises to be a memorable race with its usual assortment of thrills.

Methodist Church Sponsors Open Door Pre-School

The First United Methodist Church Open Door Pre-school is a pre-school for disadvantaged children ineligible for federal or public programs and financially unable to take advantage of community private schools. Children must be four years old by September 1 of the year for which they are registered. The school is bilingual and is limited to 15 children per room. All races are accepted. The fees are $5.00 per semester and children bring 20 cents a week to class. Limited transportation to and from school is available for 60 cents a day.

Educational opportunities are provided in reading readiness, acquiring of basic skills in many areas such as art projects, field trips, music, physical development, social and personal development.

The school, located in Rooms 117 and 118 at 1411 Broadway, operates from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. each weekday during the school year, with holidays corresponding to those of the Lubbock Independent School System.

Registration is held in August through Sept. 5, 1978 and is on a first come, first serve basis as long as age and financial requirements are met. A phone call to the office will place a child on a tentative list, but this does not enroll the child. Actual enrollment is made up of those

NAACP to Meet

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Lubbock Branch will meet Saturday, September 9, at 7:30 p.m., at Mae Simmons Community Center, 2200 Oak Avenue. The public is invited to attend.

The agenda for the meeting will include reports on (1) progress toward the NAACP Legal Fund goal of $5,000, (2) reactivation of the NAACP Youth Council, (3) membership campaign, and (4) the organization of new NAACP groups in other South Plains cities.

The Executive Committee will meet Thursday, September 7, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of the NAACP President, Rev. Roy C. Jones, 2625 Parkway Drive.

Postmaster Warns Citizens Against Frauds

Postmaster Elmer J. Reed, Jr. cautioned citizens of Lubbock to be wary of door-to-door sales of incomplete or out-of-date Zip Code or post office directories.

"Businesses and households in Lubbock should be on the lookout for persons going door-to-door selling these directories. They are not authorized to do so by the Postal Service," Postmaster Reed said.

Frequently, he said, the person doing the selling will be a young person posing as a student who will use the proceeds from the sale to further his or her education.

A ZIP Code directory is of little use unless it contains ZIP Code information for the 480 major cities which have more than one ZIP Code. The directories being sold door-to-door often list complete ZIP Codes only for smaller post offices having one ZIP Code. In addition, the information in them may not reflect changes in ZIP Code assignments which are made periodically to accommodate post office changes and community growth.

Sales of incomplete or outdated directories have been particularly prevalent on the West Coast, in the Great Lakes states and in such cities as Detroit, Philadelphia and Phoenix, in recent weeks.

The Postmaster urged residents to report any local incidents of such sales.

The official 1979 National ZIP Code Directory, published by the Postal Service, is available from Government Printing Office stores in 20 major cities, or by mail from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402, for $7.50. It is also sold by several publishers licensed by the Postal Service. None sell them door-to-door. The Postal Service is testing Directory sales in local post offices, but such sales are currently limited.
