

Blacks' Boycott of Businesses in Marianna, Arkansas is Successful

by Michael D. Petit

Marianna, Ark.—(NBNS)—A 13-month boycott which wrecked many white businesses in downtown Marianna has ended. Now, say the leaders of the strike, the answers for the future may lie in the past.

"If you want some type of insight as to where we are," said Rabon Cheeks, "read the 1st Chapter of the Book of Isaiah in the Old Testament."

"Come Now," reads the passage, "Let Us Reason Together."

For Cheeks and other members of the Concerned Citizens of Lee County this appears to be gospel as the struggle to end discrimination and share in the economic wealth enters a different phase.

What began as a boycott on June 11 and eventually shut down thirty percent of Marianna's downtown businesses, ended just as suddenly with an announcement July 25:

"On the evening of July 24, 1972, the Concerned Citizens of Lee County by resolution determined to life the selective sanctions against the downtown Marianna stores.

"Of many things that went into the decision to reverse its year-long position, the organization recognized:

1. That there has been some progress for blacks in this community.
2. That there has been a definite change in attitude on the part of whites as related to blacks.
3. That the strength of black people in Lee County should be obvious to all.
4. That it should be unnecessary to crush our city.
5. That black people shall participate in the economic rebuilding of our fair city as owners and operators of businesses."

The end of the boycott was accepted with relief in the white community. Marianna Mayor John Oxner declared that talks are underway between blacks and whites to "enhance Marianna business and promote better economic conditions here."

"Thirty percent of our downtown businesses were forced to close. We just want to get along now," said Mayor Oxner.

Thirty percent of the businesses in Marianna, a small Delta town of 6,500, meant that 11 stores boarded up their doors.

Now, however, the emphasis is on reconciliation. Spearheading the change of attitude will be a "campaign '72" aimed to bring the community together and a drive to encourage black shoppers to resume making purchases at white stores.

Treasury Department Official Notes Substantial Increase in Minority Banks' Deposits this Year

by Louise E. Wyche

Washington—(NBNS)—Deposits in minority-owned banks have increased a whopping $429 million since October, 1970, and are expected to top the $1 billion mark before the end of the year, the Treasury Department has reported.

The 108 percent increase was disclosed by Dr. Charles E. Walker, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, as he addressed a seminar sponsored by the National Bankers Association.

Walker said the President's program of promoting deposits in minority banks had been a "vital catalyst" in the increase, but he said it was the bankers themselves who "got it all together."

Meeting in Atlanta, Walker's address to the mostly-black group was released here.

Milwaukee—Milwaukee poster children Audrey Cross and Eric Wilson chat with Julie Eisenhower during her tour of the Sickle Cell Center at Deaconess Hospital in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Mrs. Eisenhower, younger daughter of President Nixon, praised the program at the Deaconess Hospital which started in 1968, before the disease drew national attention. In 1971 federal spending for sickle cell programs totaled $1 million dollars. This year the federal government is spending $9 million dollars. President Nixon has asked for $15 million in 1973. ### Quit Ticket, Stokes Says

Cincinnati, Ohio—(NBNS)—Sen. Thomas Eagleton should quit the Democratic ticket and save the Party from further embarrassment over his past electric shock treatments for nervous disorders, says television newsman and former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes.

Stokes, one of Presidential nominee George McGovern's staunchest supporters, said: "If McGovern has to take action on it, or if the Democratic National Committee has to try to move against it, then it will certainly spell defeat for the ticket."

No Desks For Generals

Washington, D.C.—(NBNS)—There will be no make work desk jobs for either Maj. Gen. James F. Hamlet or Maj. Gen. Frederic E. Davison, newly named two-star generals and the highest ranking blacks in Army history.

Hamlet, 50, of Alliance, Ohio, will take command of the 4th Infantry Division (Mechanized) at Ft. Carson, Colorado, on Aug. 25. Davison, 54, of Washington, D.C., is commander of the 8th Infantry Division in Europe and became the first black in American history to command a division.

There are more than 200 major generals in the U.S. Army but only 13 are division commanders. As members of the select group of 13, generals Hamlet and Davison will each command more than 15,000 troops.

End to Death Penalty Upheld

Washington, D.C.—(NBNS)—Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White denied without comment an attempt by the City of Philadelphia to reinstate the death penalty for two convicted murderers. On June 26, the Supreme Court ruled in a 5-4 decision that most executions are unconstitutional.

Nationwide Survey Will Seek Aged, Needy of All Groups in Country

by Page Townsend

Washington—(NBNS)—A million and a half elderly blacks will be included in a nationwide survey to identify older Americans who are eligible for food stamps, surplus food and other federal programs.

Arthur S. Flemming, special consultant to President Nixon on problems of the aging, said the survey, called Project FIND, will be the "first nationwide, simultaneous effort" to reach older persons entitled to federal aid.

An initial mailing on August 3 will include leaflets and prepaid post cards with the Social Security checks sent to 19 million Americans 65 years old or older.

The leaflets will explain available federal assistance and describe the eligibility requirements. Persons who need help in determining their eligibility will be encouraged to return the post cards.

Those who make the cards will receive a personal visit by a volunteer of the American Red Cross.

Besides finding needy older persons on Social Security, Flemming said, the government hopes to "get leads to other persons who may not be on anybody's mailing list."

He said he also hopes that, through the personal visits, needs which can be met by other public and private services will be identified and that the Red Cross volunteers will involve themselves in the problems of the aged even after the project is completed.

Flemming said the Red Cross would recruit and train the volunteers. The post cards will be processed by a Social Security computer in Baltimore and then sent to local Red Cross chapters. They should begin arriving at the chapters in late August or early September, he said.

Health, Education & Welfare Gives $1 Million to Colleges to Train More Black Health Workers

Washington—(NBNS)—The federal government has awarded ten grants totaling more than $1 million to schools and organizations in eight states to increase the number of blacks in health professions.

The grants, announced by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will be used to increase the number of blacks in training as doctors, nurses, dentists and other health workers. During the past eight months, HEW has given schools $375 million to help train future health workers.

Two schools, Meharry Medical Center and Howard University, which are responsible for most of the nation's black doctors, have received more than $6 million in other grants, HEW reported. Although blacks comprise 11 percent of the nation's 203 million in 1970, only two percent of the physicians and dentists are black. And only five percent of the employed registered nurses are black.

Veto Threat of OEO Package Remains With President Nixon

by Paul H. Wyche, Jr.

Washington—(NBNS)—President Nixon has given Congressional leaders no indication whether he approves of a new compromise bill for the federal anti-poverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

House and Senate conferees, after a lengthy series of conference meetings, have agreed to a proposal which will create a new legal services corporation. But Senate and House leaders have attempted to structure the legal services unit so that it will avoid another presidential veto.

The House late last week agreed to the Senate's two-year extension of the OEO programs, at a $6 billion level. The compromise package would also transfer the OEO Legal Services Program for the poor to a private corporation run by a 19-member board of directors.

President Nixon vetoed the last OEO bill last December. In his veto message, the President said the bill failed to give him full control over appointment of the directors of the new corporation.

Although conferees have attempted, in vain, to get some indication from the White House on whether the President approved the measure, none has been forthcoming.

The compromise agreement would permit the President to name all 19 directors, but two would have to be representatives of the poor, two would have to be former Legal Services attorneys, five would have to come from organized bar groups or law school teachers and the remaining 10 would

Five percent of the 43,400 students in American medical schools last year were black, HEW pointed out in announcing its special grants to help increase the number of black health workers on all levels.

Xavier University of Louisiana in New Orleans received $106,048 to recruit and train blacks for allied health careers in rural areas. Emphasis in this program will be placed on the recruitment of military veterans with health experience and students from rural areas.

Job Assistance Programs

Can Help Fight Crime

Recently Assistant Secretary of Labor Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., told the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on National Penitentiaries, "The department (Labor) is trying to use its manpower and job placement programs to help prisoners find satisfactory non-criminal ways of making a living after they are released."

This program has conducted "pre-trial intervention" projects in ten cities and reports a reduction in the rate of return to correctional institutions for first offenders.

As we can see, this type of a plan takes the accused out of the normal court process and uses a variety of community services, including job training, to try to avoid sending him to prison.

In West Texas this type of program would certainly help save those young people who are on the borderline of becoming "hard core" criminals without even realizing exactly what they are getting into. Job assistance programs would help those young persons who really want to become somebody but don't really know which way to go.

It's true that jobless people may steal because they have no other way of getting the thing they need to live. This is why the Department of Labor in ten cities, launched "a broad program of assistance to steer law offenders into employment and away from recurring criminal acts."

It has been reported that over a 15 month period, "project participants had a 14 percent lower rate of return to illegal acts than a control group of first offenders who were committed to correctional institutions."

At the present time, the Department of Labor is currently funding efforts in eight states to develop comprehensive plans to use manpower programs to reduce criminal recidivism. Let's hope Texas is included in this effort. We could very well use inmate training projects, employment service job placement after release, in-prison apprenticeship programs, and federal bonding of persons unable to obtain a commercial fidelity bond once they have a prison record.

The idea is a promising one. After all, no matter who people are, they need some type of assistance when they have problems. There's no reason why this type of effort couldn't be seen in Texas. It would help all of us, including West Texas.

Prison confinement is not the answer to many of the "first-time" offenders problems. Perhaps the Labor Department is on to something good.

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

As I See It there's no need to talk about the problems which exist in our community. There's no need to talk about our shortcomings in the Black community. But there's a need to take advantage of the opportunities which are coming to West Texas, and especially Lubbock, at the present time.

There's no doubt about it, a lot of money is coming into the Lubbock community and we appear to be too busy looking at small things

HANOI WILL TAKE THIEU

By Jack Anderson

1972 Pulitzer Prize Winner for National Reporting (Copyright, 1972, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—One of the stumbling blocks to a peace settlement in Vietnam may be removed soon.

We have learned that Hanoi is secretly alerting its cadres that it may be necessary to accept President Thieu as leader of the Saigon regime during a cease-fire.

In the past, the North Vietnamese have stubbornly refused even to consider a truce unless Thieu quits. But now increasing pressure from the Chinese and the Russians is causing Hanoi to re-evaluate its position on Thieu.

It now appears that Hanoi will allow Thieu to remain as President of South Vietnam during a cease-fire—at least until a compromise coalition government can be formed.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Air Command in Vietnam has informed the Pentagon that it has now hit all but the off-limit targets in North Vietnam. Undisturbed, the Pentagon has ordered the air war to continue. Hit them all again, the Pentagon has told our pilots.

American air attacks have taken a terrible toll, wiping out as many as 50 per cent of some North Vietnamese divisions. But U.S. intelligence reports warn that Hanoi has replaced almost all the combat troops killed during the recent offensive. These reports also claim that the North Vietnamese divisions still have plenty of supplies stockpiled in the south.

In short, Hanoi has both the men and the material to keep the war going. As a result, the secret negotiations now going on in Paris continue to offer the only hope of settling the Vietnam conflict this year.

—McKay's Lesson—

A few weeks ago, we reported that President Nixon had attempted to save the taxpayers some money by ordering his lieutenants not to fly first-class. The order, however, has been blatantly ignored. Every cabinet officer we have checked on—and most of their assistants—always use the comfortable, upfront seats.

But on Capitol Hill there is at least one public servant who always flies tourist. He is Congressman K. Gunn McKay, a moderate Democrat from Utah.

McKay came to Washington without enough cash to buy a house, so he is renting. Once, his secretary was helping him with his income tax and she asked if he had any outside investments. He produced a slip showing he had earned $24 interest on a credit union savings account.

A few weeks ago, McKay invited me to lunch. We dined in his office on sandwiches and trimmings that had been prepared by his wife and staff.

Congressmen are permitted by law to go home 12 times a year at public expense. Most of them fly first-class. But not Gunn McKay.

He sits in the back of the plane and saves the taxpayer $1,824 a year.

The President's aides should take a lesson from Gunn McKay.

—Flood Damage—

The East Coast is still recovering from last months' devastating floods which in Pennsylvania alone caused property damage estimated far over one billion dollars.

One story in the tales of misery coming out of Pennsylvania is the plight of the private colleges. Seventeen colleges suffered damages in Pennsylvania. Not one of them is eligible for federal money to pick up and start again.

Worst hit was Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre. The school, which has an enrollment of 2,600 students, suffered $10 million in damages. Wilkes' president Francis Micheleni told us candidly, "I don't see how we'll survive without substantial help from somewhere."

Wilkes lost everything from grand pianos in its music department to expensive lab equipment to 23,000 volumes of books. The library was so badly damaged that the school had to order a bulldozer inside the building to clean up the muck.

"In most of the 58 buildings on campus, we're still ankle deep in mud," Micheleni told us. "You have got to see it to believe it."

—Pressure Tactics—

Small minority businesses which get government contracts are being pressured to support President Nixon for re-election. The heat is coming, appropriately, from a fuel oil dealer acting with apparent encouragement from the President himself.

Charles Wallace, who heads the firm of Wallace and Wallace in New York, has sent hundreds of letters to other companies which have either gotten contracts with the help of the Small Business Administration or are trying to get them.

Wallace encloses a letter President Nixon sent him thanking him for his suggestions. Also enclosed is a questionnaire demanding to know if the company will work for President Nixon's re-election.

The letter extols the SBA's assistance to minori-while the big things are getting away. Last week this media made a plea to start working together as Black people to preserve the East Lubbock community. This is a must and there are programs and money available to help the area.

If you look around the Lubbock area, one can easily see that the "man" is moving southwest and doing a hell of a job developing it. The newly erected South Plains Mall is an example of the type of development which is coming into our city.

If we start using our resources, we too, can develop some opportunities which are being developed in other parts of the city. Anything we can come up with in East Lubbock will be something new and would definitely help all of us.

We may as well face it now, if we don't start thinking for ourselves and coming up with something for our community, we can forget it, for the "man" is steadily moving southwest. Just look around the community and really see what we have. Of course, there are a few businessmen who are doing their part, but we need more development.

I have heard Black businessmen make the statement that Blacks won't support their businesses. This is, perhaps, a true statement in most cases. There are Blacks who will go to the other areas of the city and not support a brother or sister. But if we really bring in some modern development, many Blacks would change their opinion about spending their money with Black businessmen.

We've got to get into the habit of working together with one another if we are going to make it. If we would only wake up and look around and see how much we've lost. None of us are saviours; nor can any of us as individuals change the opinions of the entire community. But I tell you one thing we can do; we can maintain a common front of unity for the entire Black community and get anything we want. We can control our community if we put aside our petty jealousies and work together.

East Lubbock needs all of us. If you don't believe me, just look at the vacant lots in East Lubbock, filled with weeds. Look at the lack of development in East Lubbock. Doesn't this tell us something? As I See It, we've got the power to do something about this community, if you are willing.

Thought of the Week: "Most people would succeed in small things, if they were not troubled with great ambitions."

Every man or woman should be given the opportunity to do what he or she would like to do. This holds true for drinking your own beverage, whether it be beer, wine or whiskey—or even soda pop. I'm no saint or perfect person, but I would like to encourage my brothers and sisters who are throwing their beer cans and whiskey bottles in the 500 block of East 23rd Street to "cool it." You see, it isn't too cool for some of us to get up on Sunday mornings and see cans and bottles in the streets.

We can do better than that. Of course, we can! So let's take our empties home with us after the party on Saturday night or Sunday morning and not be guilty of throwing them in the streets and other people's yards. It would make a lot of sense. Respect yourself, as well as the properties of other people, including their churches.

Coin Machine Burglary

Winnie Hebron, 1028 East 29th Street, Apartment G, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that persons unknown did break into her place of business while she was away.

It was learned that entry to her business, The Crowd Pleaser, at 2517 East 37th Street, was gained by breaking a lock on the front door. After entry was gained, the unknown persons broke into the juke box and cigarette machine.

Approximately $25.00 was taken from the juke box and an undetermined amount of money was taken from the cigarette machine.

Theft of Pet

Aaron Mitchell, 2923 East Auburn Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did take from his back yard a chihuahua puppy which was valued at $50.00.

He told police that the back gate was closed, however, there was no locking device on the gate.

Attempted Break In

Jack Gailey, owner of Tri-Way Grocery Store at 3401 Railroad Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that persons unknown did attempt to pry open the front door of his store, unsuccessfully.

It was also learned that they went to the roof and attempted to come through the air conditioner. In the attempt, they broke a water line on the air conditioner and water came through the air conditioner duct on the store floor and several packages of cookies were damaged.

Gailey said they did not gain entry through the roof because of several bars protecting the air conditioner.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Once again the extravaganza known as the College All Star game, pitting the best of the preceding college players against the champions of professional football has been played. Again, it was typical.

The annual mismatch has only one redeeming feature—the proceeds go for charity. And if the Chicago Tribune wanted to be really charitable, it would substitute a team of pro all stars against the pro world champions.

Pitting the top collegians against the pro champions is like running a Pekinese against a greyhound, or sending a Golden Gloves champion against Joe Frazier. About the only real question is when the kill will be made.

To treat this match as a serious football game is the height of absurdity. The Cowboys, who hardly were hitting on all eight cylinders, proved it. They sputtered offensively, but their defense couldn't be conquered.

There was some great individual talent on display and it was noteworthy that, almost without exception, every collegian also was a future pro. In other words, the pros controlled the appearance of the college players.

This is another difference with the All American game played here. Once a player graduates, the college coach can only beg, plead and cajole with a star. If he's been drafted, the pros can say no and he won't appear.

Apparently there is a distinction that escapes us. It would seem that a player disabled in the All American game is just as useless as a pro prospect as a player disabled in the All Star game. Yet the argument for withholding a player from the All American game is that he might be hurt.

In all honesty, I am a "college" man. The pro is admired as an individual with great ability; but the college player is admired for his effort, despite mistakes. His pay scale is, after all, not that of the pro.

There are many differences, many obvious differences. And while the college game doesn't have the finesse or perfection, the pros have not yet managed to catch the overall enthusiasm that surrounds the college game. There is a derogatory cynicism about the pro game that you don't find in the colleges.

The other night, during the course of the exhibition, the announcers turned to the successful "small" men in the pro ranks. It turned our memory back a few years to the days just after Glen Lewis, an outstanding Tech halfback.

Glen finished an outstanding Texas Tech career and went on to Green Bay, where, report has it, he had the team "made", only to be cut for some mysterious and unknown reason never discovered.

Glen was followed to Tech by a younger brother, Don, better known as Skeeter. He was far from an imposing figure, much slighter than his stocky brother and looking far more like a junior high school player than a collegian.

The gruff Dell Morgan was confronted in his office one day by Skeeter, who was seeking a scholarship. After some preliminary sparring and other pleasantries, the dubious Dell said that he admired his attitude, but he thought Skeeter was just a mite too small for college ball.

Skeeter's terse, half beligerant reply won Dell over: "Don't think so, coach."

Let the record show that Skeeter Lewis performed so admirably that he's still in Tech's record books, playing varsity ball from 1951 through the Gator Bowl team of 1953, one of Tech's greatest teams.

For instance, Skeeter carried 21 times for 162 yards against Texas A&M in 1953. He was the leading scorer for Tech in 1953. The year before he averaged 24.9 yards a return on kickoffs to lead Tech. He was the leading punt returner in 1952, also. Skeeter was, in short, a giant among "small" men.

The whole matter of football in July is, of course, a little ridiculous anyway. And we seem to be more saturated with it than ever. Don't get me wrong. I'm a football nut, but everything in its season—and July ain't football season.

We had the All American game in June. For a month we've been flooded with Canadian Football League exhibitions. Last weekend we had back-to-back American pro games, with more to come. Isn't that overdoing it a little, what with the season running until almost February?

Guess I'd better go cut the grass so I can cool off.

Afro-American History Notes: Hatshepsut—1500 B.C. The greatest female ruler of all time. She ruled for thirty-three years—150 years before King Tut—and gained power through sly intrigue, ousting her half brother, Thotmes III. Countless plots formented against her but she vanquished all enemies. To fight male prejudice she masqueraded as a man, changing her name and declaring that she was the son of God. She reigned unchallenged until her death.

As incomes rise, some Texans have a better average income than others, according to Al Altwegg, business editor of the Dallas A.M. News. They also show that Dallas ranks second in the state of Texas—behind Midland—as the metropolitan area with the highest per capita income. Right behind Dallas comes Houston, with the other “standard metropolitan statistical areas.” SMSA is a geographical area surrounding a major business center which is considered one economic area for statistical purposes by the government’s experts in geographical economics.

Government statistics however, do have a lag, because it takes time to gather information and process it. So, while figures are available to 1971 per capita income for the states, only 1970 figures are available and quoted here for the SMSAs.

Other West Texas cities rated 1970 according to per capita income are Wichita Falls fourth; Amarillo sixth; Fort Worth eighth; Odessa ninth; Abilene tenth; San Angelo eleventh; Lubbock twelfth and El Paso twentieth.

This correspondent who has been covering Black Methodist General Conferences for nearly forty years would like to take this method to congratulate the 38th quadrennial session of the African Methodist Episcopal Church for holding one of the most effective and far-reaching sessions, it has been ours to attend. A general restructuring of the church (largest all-black body of Methodists) was called for and machinery set in motion to implement noteworthy changes in the general structure and make up of this denomination. And with the election of eight new and younger bishops, this denomination should experience a new growth and vigor that has been lacking in black Methodism for many long years, observers point out.

Although many of the sessions were emotion-filled and tense at times in Dallas, the denomination certainly experience “new birth pains” during this historic thirteen day session, informants point out.

In past years, Black Methodist General Conferences (meeting every four years) spent from ten to fifteen days, campaigning and electing bishops with not much time given to the serious legislation of the church and how to relate it to the Now generation, etc. Legislation was introduced to hold two sessions of the General Conference with one in 1972 and another one in 1974 with distinctive functions. We are awaiting copies of the legislation for further comment here.

Editorial Quotes: Definition of Soul Brother—“A tried and true soul brother is one who identifies with you and me—not by color, not by his sweet talk and pie in the sky promises. He is with me in my dreams. He is with me in my aspirations. He is with me in my sorrows. He is with me in my struggle to reach the goals of justice, equality, and respectability. He is with me in my efforts to be accepted as a man. He may be black, yellow, red, brown or white. He is my soul brother. God made us brothers. ‘And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth,’ Acts 17-26.” From Elite News.

New bishops consecrated for service in the A.M.E. Church’s general conference in Dallas are: John H. Adams, Richard Allen Hildebrand, S.S. Morris, H.H. Brookins, Vinton Anderson, Frank M. Reid, Fred C. James and Fred A. Talbot. Talbot is the first native African elected bishop by the denomination.

Bishop John H. Adams, newly appointed bishop of Texas, is a native of South Carolina and succeeds Bishop O.L. Sherman who served as bishop of Texas for ten years. Adams is a former president of Paul Quinn College in Waco and was serving as pastor of Grant A.M.E. Church in Los Angeles at his election. “I have always favored using the institution to meet the needs of the people, rather than using people to meet the needs of the institution,” Bishop Adams told the press at his election.

The National Urban League held its 62nd Annual Conference in St. Louis, July 30th through August 2nd, at the Chase Park Plaza Motel. The theme: Action for the 70’s, as the League examined a number of today’s crucial issues including black economic development, education, voter registration, health, justice, drug abuse, housing and social welfare. Texas state senator Barbara Jordan of Houston was to address the annual luncheon.

Sickle Cell Anemia Disease Information

Sickle cell trait occurs in 10% of the black population of the U. S., and is found in over 2 million persons in this country. Sickle cell anemia, the severe form of the sickle cell problem, occurs in one in 500 blacks born, or 50,000 persons. Such individuals may undergo painful episodes called sickle cell crises.

The condition is due to a genetically determined defect in hemoglobin, the respiratory pigment in red blood cells which enables them to carry oxygen throughout the body. Under conditions of diminished oxygen supply or physical or emotional stress, the abnormal hemoglobin molecules become attached to one another in such a way as to distort the normally doughnut-shaped red cells into distinctive crescent or sickle-shapes. The inability of these sickle cells to pass freely through smaller blood vessels creates a “log jam” effect, blocking the flow of blood to surrounding tissues, thus causing the extremely painful sickle cell crises.

Because sickle cell anemia is genetically determined, there is no known way at the present time to cure the disease in affected individuals. Current methods of treatment may make possible reversal of the sickling process, thereby shortening or even preventing the sickle cell crises and the resultant tissue damage. These must undergo further development and evaluation before their potential can be realized.

Amarillo—Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Dude Smith (last known address, Lubbock, Texas) please have him call his aunt, Mrs. Ruby Lee Johnson at 1910 North Washington, Amarillo, Texas. Phone 373-2529;

Mr. and Mrs. T.J. West of Dallas, Texas, spent the week-end with Mr. George Ingram of 1501 N. Washington here in Amarillo. Mrs. West is the daughter of Mr. Ingram.

Mrs. Murrell Crosbyton and her two little daughters, Dana Croslyn and Geno, are home from Lawton, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Annie S. Haywood of 1417 N. Washington and Mrs. J.C. Jones of 1509 N. Washington have just returned from Baytown, Texas, where they visited with their two sons and grandsons, Mr. L. Haywood and Elmer G. Haywood. They reported having had a wonderful time. They also visited in Galveston, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green of 609 Arnold Place have as their house guests, Mrs. William Johnson, her grandson Brian Johnson of Glen Cannon, Pa., and Mrs. James Lee of Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Green are sisters.

S/Sgt. and Mrs. Bill Collins and their two children, Keith and Kirt, are here from England. Gloria Ann is the daughter of Mr. Joe Wilson and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wofford of 1106 NW 5th and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flaggan of NW 14th. Mr. Collins is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Allen of NW 18th.

They have been away from Amarillo for three years.

I am sorry that I can not fully agree with the statement made by Mr. T.J. Patterson a few weeks ago, about setting your watch back twenty years when you come to Amarillo.

I have been in Amarillo for four years and can say that I have seen a tremendous amount of changes and progress made. I will also admit that there is room for lots of improvement here as well as in Lubbock, and I do feel that I know a little about both places, having lived in Lubbock for a few years.

I talked with some people about the news media here and was told that they have had real good coverage. In the conversation it was also mentioned that sometimes it is the approach that is used.

So what I would like to say to anyone having a desire to visit or move to Amarillo, do so and just leave your watches set where they are, and remember that you, as an individual, have a lot to do with the changing of time.

Sorry, T.J., but you wrote it as you saw it. Come back again some time.

Immunization Clinics To Be Conducted

A special, free, immunization clinic will be held for high school students in the East Lubbock area on Wednesday and Friday, August 26th and 18th for the purpose of providing the necessary immunizations as required by a new state law for school students.

The clinics will be conducted by members of the Well Baby Clinic and will be held at Estacado High School August 16th, from 9:00 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. and at Rogers Community Center on the 18th of August during the same hours.

The Lubbock Independent School District urges all students who have not had their immunizations to attend one of these free clinics. The new state law requires that all students have their immunizations before they can attend school.

Officiating was Rev. James Thomas, Jr., pastor of St. Mark Baptist Church.

Burial was held in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Mrs. White was a resident of Lubbock for 34 years.

Survivors include three daughters; Mrs. Adell Green of 2610 Weber Drive, Apt. C, Mrs. Della Jarmon of 2613 Ivory Avenue and Mrs. Wavie Myers of Fort Worth; two sons, Willie White and John D. White, both of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Annie Beard of Tulsa, Oklahoma; four brothers, Frank Carter of Tulsa, Oklahoma and William C. Powell, Hampton Carter and Martin C. Powell, all of Lubbock; twenty-five grandchildren; and nine great grandchildren.

Bethel A.M.E. Church
Services were well attended last

Sunday morning with Rev. A.W. Wilson, pastor, in the pulpit.

The Mau Jones Missionary Society was in charge with the fifth Sunday evening services. The ladies presented a spiritual skit. Senior Choir No. Two and the Youth Choir rendered the music.

Our youth choir will sing at the Lubbock State School Sunday evening, August 6, at 7:00.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut-in members. Mrs. Bessie Mason is a patient at Methodist Hospital.

Friendship Baptist Church

Brownfield-Supt. Mrs. Ethel Williams was at her post of duty. Sunday School ran high.

The pastor, Rev. S.N. North, reviewed the lesson. The pastor gave a powerful, soul stirring message. His subject was "Deliver My Soul Oh Lord," from Lying Lips and from a Deceitful Tongue. The text was found in Psalm 121:1, "I will lift up my eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help."

Training Union at 6:00 featured a highly discussed blackboard topic by the pastor, discussing Acts 11:1-18.

The evening message was "Building a church in a confused world." Text was "And I say unto thee, thou art Peter and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell will not prevail against it," from Matt. 16:18.

We will be looking forward to hearing "The Mighty Wonder Joy" quartet sponsoring a program for the Missionary Ladies, evening and night, in the near future.

On the 5th Sunday, the pastor brought a warm burning message, "I Can Do All Things Through Christ's Help." Text, But My God Shall Supply All Your Needs, found in 4 Phil. 19.

The Women's Missionary Society service began at 3:30 and the program continued through Sunday night. Their program was favored by the presence of the Golden Star Quartet and the Gaylarks, both of Lubbock.

 be from the public at large. The appointees would be subject on confirmation by the Senate, however. House leaders are fearful that if the President accepts the legal services corporation compromise, he might reject the package because he disagrees with the funding authorization levels.

Last year, the President asked that all OEO programs be extended for two years with a total authorization of only $4.1 billion. He suggested that the transfer of the legal services corporation be handled in a separate piece of legislation.

Both the House and Senate eliminated the controversial Child Care provisions, but they do provide for increased funding of the Head Start program, which is the chief child development project.

Under the agreement, $700 million would be authorized for this year, compared to the $396 million the President requested. This amount would double the $350 million appropriated for the program last year.

The Senate conferees also agreed to go along with the House in giving free Head Start services to children from families with an annual income of $4,300 or less, with a graduated system of fees that increase from that level as the income goes up.

John H. Johnson (1918-)
PUBLISHER WITHOUT A PEER

John H. Johnson has been the most successful Negro journalist since Samuel Cornish and John B. Russwurm started Freedom's Journal, the first Negro newspaper, in 1827. His publications—Ebony, Jet, Negro Digest and Tan—poses a combined circulation of nearly two million copies. Hundreds of employees collect, write, edit and distribute hundreds of thousands of his magazines each week and month. His organization, the Johnson Publishing Company, is only twenty years old. Johnson, its founder, president, publisher and editor, is known throughout America.

A native of Arkansas City, Arkansas, Johnson was brought to Chicago by his mother in 1937. Her occasional jobs as a domestic were not enough to prevent them from seeking public welfare assistance. Johnson himself plunged into his high school life at DuSable High with such gusto that he became editor of the school paper and president of the student council. He continued his education at Northwestern University and the University of Chicago, while working at the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company in Chicago.

Encouraged by Harry H. Pace and Earl B. Dickerson, who is now president of Supreme Liberty Life, Johnson borrowed five hundred dollars with his mother's furniture as collateral and started Negro Digest in 1942. Readers snapped up all five thousand copies of this periodical within a week. In less than 6 months Negro Digest took up so much of his time that he had to give up his job as publicity director with the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company. By the end of 1943 Negro Digest had a monthly circulation of fifty thousand copies. This periodical was discontinued in 1951, but was received with gratifying success a decade later.

With a circulation of eight hundred thousand copies, Ebony is the backbone of the Johnson Publishing Company. It carries more diversified advertising lineage than any other publication directed toward a predominantly Negro audience. Most of the advertisement in Johnson's publications picture Negro models. Indeed, Johnson is in large measure responsible for the increased employment of Negro models in advertising media.

In the wake of his success with Negro Digest and Ebony, Johnson added two pocket-size magazines, Jet and Hue, to his list of publications. Circulating to more than three hundred thousand readers, Jet is the most successful small magazine in the nation. The enterprising publisher followed Jet with Tan, a "true confession" type magazine. In 1963 he entered the field of hard cover books with volumes by Lerone Bennett, the senior editor of Ebony, the late Freda DeKnight, who made the Ebony Fashion Shows a national institution and other writers encouraged and developed by the Johnson publications.

The last two decades have been rich in honors and material rewards for John H. Johnson. In his publishing ventures he has made a vital contribution to the broadening of the communications media and to the history of the Negro.
